Returned POW Speaks at Hope

Nearly 100 students and interested persons gathered in the Carley Room of the Van Zoeren Library Monday to hear Larry Stark of Chicago, a returned civilian prisoner of war relate some of his experiences in North Vietnam POW camps.

The appearance of Stark was made possible by the political science department of Hope College.

Stark, a graduate of St. Joseph's College at Rensselaer, Ind., stated that it was the thought of the many prayers in his behalf during his five years as a POW that aided him in keeping faith with himself and those back home, especially the United States government.

After a two-year hitch in the Army serving in Germany, Stark returned as a salesman, this followed with a job in Washington, D. C. While in Washington as an engineer, he took a job as a Navy civilian recruiter to obtain Vietnam workers for construction work. He was located in Qua in Northern Vietnam with his crew when the enemy struck, a few of the military were with his group. They fought off the Viet Cong for a day and a half, when the five Americans were forced to surrender. All had gunshot wounds of some type. They were held outside of Qua for two days then started their trek northward. During the time they were transferred from camp to camp until they reached their camp outside of Hanoi. Stark stated that the camps varied but all were about the same. Their camp buildings were much better than the homes of the natives in the area.

Stark then gave a detailed description of the day's routine in the camp in which they were awakened at 6:30 a.m. They were served breakfast of a small bread, sugar and hot water. Hot water was the basic drink at all meals. The hours between 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. were free time. He then told of receiving publications mostly in the form of magazines, Russian, French and North Vietnamese.

Most of the Vietnam papers were printed in English.

He taught himself to read French and soon another POW from Canada came into his camp and he assisted him with the French language so today he can do well.

The Vietnam News Agency would always give them the worst information such as the assassinations of Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King, the riots and anything that would make America look bad. They also had plenty of Russian magazines and papers, together with other socialistic papers.

He stated they received plenty of Communist propaganda. Stark stated that their luncheon meal was composed of a celery-like vegetable, sometimes some rice, a piece of bread and pumpkin but never a great deal.

On holidays they were given some special "goodies" such as Easter or New Years, either turkey or chicken. One special was fish, baked with head, eyes, innards, scales, fins and tails and the entire fish was eaten. Their clothing was black pajama suits, and sandals. In the cold weather they were given two blankets. No organized exercises, each had to plan his own method, many times it was done in his 4 x 6 cell.

Stark stated that it is his belief that there are a lot of men listed as missing in action still in Indo-China. His plea was that we must not forget these men and that letters must be sent to the Congressmen to have some type of aid so that these men will be found and returned. In answer to a question, Stark stated that he did not think that Miss Fonda got the full story and what she did get was much understated. He did say that he had not been mistreated. He thought it was because he was a civilian.

He also feels that United States should not make trips all over the world defending other countries, and would have Congress decide if U. S. is to go to war.

Stark stated that the few medical supplies he saw were from Russia or China. They have fair doctor service. He had a feeling that because the commander of their prison camp had been a POW for 17 years before becoming affiliated with the North Vietnam army, he was more lenient to his camp of war prisoners.

He also stated that the Vietnamese in the South have a better living than those in the North. The Northern people were poorly dressed, mostly in rags.

When asked by a student what the changes of five years had seemed to him, he smiled and said the long hair, short skirts, the greater awareness of people concerning politics. He hopes that students will take action in their concern for politics and what they don't like, change for the better.

COOL BARRELS — Holland township firemen douse barrels of lacquer thinner at the rear of the Vanderby Co., Inc., damaged by fire Thursday afternoon that was believed started in a compressor room. Several of the barrels exploded and sent black smoke billowing into the sky. Flames spread from the compressor room to the adjoining paint spray area in the southeast region of the building along James St. east of 136th Ave. Firemen remained at the scene about two hours. One man was overcome by smoke. Damage estimates were not available. (Sentinel photo)

Vanderby Co. Inc. Damaged by Fire

Fire believed caused by sparks in a compressor room spread to the paint spraying area of the Vanderby Co. Inc., 120 James St. near 136th Ave., Thursday at 1:47 p.m. and touched off barrels of lacquer thinner sending clouds of black smoke into the air which were visible for miles.

Five units from the Holland township fire departments responded to the alarm. One Vanderby employee, Dale Van Lier, 21, of 941 Pine Ave., suffered smoke inhalation and was treated in Holland Hospital and released.

Holland township fire chief Andrew Westenbroek said damage to the building was confined to the compressor room and the adjoining paint area located in the southeast section of the one-story cement block structure.

Flames were prevented from reaching the manufacturing areas of the plant that produces wood cabinets.

Most of the cabinets had been moved from the shipping areas of the plant and were scattered on the property at the front of the building along James St.

Damage estimates were not immediately available. Firemen remained at the scene about two hours.

Westenbroek said several barrels of thinner outside the rear of the building exploded during the fire, belching black smoke into the sky. The roof area of the paint spraying and com-pressor room collapsed during the fire.

Firemen strung hoses west down James St. to a fire hydrant at the corner of 136th Ave., for some of the water supply, and used tanker trucks for other supplies.

Mass Fire Ruins Removed, Officials Seek More Clues

Fire inspectors this week returned to the site of the Jan. 25 Mass Furniture Co. fire in the hopes of finding more clues to the start of the fire that swept into the second floor offices of the adjoining Ekster Paint Store building.

Ruins of the Mass building were being removed and inspectors were sifting debris in the basement of the building at 50 West Tenth St.

Holland fireman John Du Mez and Det. Sgt. Austin Waldron of the State Police fire marshal's division, continued their investigation but Du Mez today declined to say what if any new clues were uncovered.

The fire at the Mass building was believed to have started in the vicinity of the southeast corner where an elevator shaft was located. Inspectors said they believed two separate fires were involved, one inside the Mass building and another outside at the rear of the building.

Mayor Lamb Not Seeking Reelection

Mayor L.W. Lamb Jr. announced today that he is not seeking reelection in the city election next November. The primary election is slated Aug. 7.

"By November I will have served nearly three years as mayor. Before that I was a Councilman for four years and served seven years on the Planning Commission," he said.

Clearly, the mayor would like a rest, and perhaps devote a bit more time to his business.

Mayor Lamb, a vigorous type, has been particularly active during his years as mayor, and has worked on several special projects, many of them associated with area cooperation and planning. This work was pinpointed by his Goals Committee which did a study in depth on the future of Holland up to about the year 2000.

Statistics Show Cyclist Injured Every 2 Days

Since March 3, about every two days a cyclist has been injured in an accident in the Holland area, according to figures released by emergency room personnel at Holland City Hospital.

Through April 29, there have been 26 cyclists receiving hospital attention. There was one cycle fatality. Twenty three of the injured were related to motorcycles or mini-bike accidents while the remaining three involved bicycles.

Staff physicians at the hospital have endorsed efforts of the Holland police department aimed at curbing the number of cycle accidents through better cycle education.

This week has been designated as cycle safety week in Holland. Police are conducting a safety enforcement program to alert cyclists of violations of cycle codes.

Car Hits Loading Dock, One Killed

Priscilla Verna Bontekoe, 70, of 194 West 16th St., was killed Thursday when her car went out of control along westbound Eighth St. at Pine Ave. and slammed into the concrete loading dock at Associated Truck Lines Inc., on the northwest corner of the intersection at 1:57 p.m.

Holland police said two passengers in the car were injured and transferred to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids from Holland Hospital.

Police said an autopsy revealed Mrs. Bontekoe, who was dead on arrival at Holland Hospital, died of a ruptured heart suffered when her chest was impacted by the steering wheel. She was the second traffic fatality in the city this year and the 15th reported in Ottawa County.

Admitted to Butterworth Hospital was James Bush, 1, of 1973 West 32nd St., who was listed in "fair" condition Friday with facial lacerations.

Treated in the hospital and released was his mother, Linda Bush, 23, who suffered a fractured jaw and facial lacerations.

Officers said Mrs. Bontekoe applied her brakes and was unable to stop the car. She veered to the right, went through the driveway of a service station on the northeast corner of the Eighth St. and Pine Ave. intersection, crossed Pine Ave. and struck the loading dock of the

On recommendation of Deputy City Attorney John Marquis, City Council Wednesday night accepted petitions seeking to abolish the one-way street system in Holland as valid, and scheduled a vote on the question during the primary election Aug. 7.

One-way streets were adopted by resolution of Council July 7, 1971, and put into effect the following October. The petitions, spearheaded by Mrs. William Westra Jr., asked Council to rescind its action or submit the issue to the voters.

Less than two weeks ago, City Council asked the city attorney to review reports that not all signatures on the petitions were signed in the presence of the circulators.

Marquis' two-page report to Council Wednesday stated it appeared that possibly 75 to 100 signatures were affixed without the presence of circulators, but that most circulators possibly were not aware of requirements stated in the affidavit which appeared at the end of the signatures.

A sufficient number of signatures had been certified by the city clerk before the question of validity came up. Marquis' opinion said the only manner in which a sworn statement could be challenged is a direct contact with the circulator or with each person who signed the petitions. Such questioning would not be under oath, and would not carry the same weight as the affidavit, consequently the decisions to accept the signatures as valid was a practical conclusion. Contacts with the Michigan elections director revealed no precedent.

City Manager William L. Bopt was instructed to inform the Michigan Highway Department of the impending vote.

Laketown, City Discuss Plans For Carousel

The impact of a proposed development for Carousel Ski Area in Laketown township was discussed Wednesday night at an informal meeting of the township zoning board, board of appeals and the Holland Planning commission.

The township board of appeals is studying the request of Carousel Recreational Equities, Inc., for exceptions and variances to the zoning codes to allow construction of 1,881 dwelling units, including multiple family units, on the 300 acre site.

The discussions in the Mayor's office of City Hall centered around utility demands, traffic patterns, street access, police and fire protection and other areas of mutual concern.

The township now has a population of about 2,200 residents and the proposed development at Carousel has the potential of more than doubling the population.

The informal session between the planning commission and the township boards was in response to an earlier invitation by the city to discuss area wide ramifications in light of the development proposal.

The area under consideration for the development is east of 66th St. to Lake Michigan and between Macatawa Park on the north and Castle Park on the south.

The month of May has been proclaimed American Business Women's Association Scholarship Month. In addition to the proclamation issued by Mayor L. W. Lamb Jr., the Holland Charter Chapter has received a copy of the one issued by Gov. William Milliken.

The local ABWA chapter is planning a fund raising event Saturday as its annual project to raise funds for its own scholarship grant. The recipient will be announced later by the chapter. Annette Bratt is scholarship chairman and Verna Obenchain is president of the local chapter.

From October 1971 to October 1972, more than $375,000 in scholarships were awarded by the combined chapters of the association. The ABWA was founded in Kansas City, Mo. Sept. 22, 1949 and now has over 1,000 chapters and more than 65,000 members in the United States. It stresses the need for members to better themselves through education to qualify for advancement in the business world.

FARNSWORTH SPEAKS — State Rep. James Farnsworth of Holland told the Zeeland Chamber of Commerce "Eggs and Issues" breakfast Monday that the primary election still is the most important way for the citizen to influence state government. Farnsworth (standing) said candidates for political office are chosen on the primary ballot and less than half the registered voters generally vote in the primary election. Also appearing before the breakfast meeting were Sen. Gary Byker (left center) and Rep. Melvin De Stigter, both of Hudsonville. (Sentinel photo)

Primary Election Is Voters' Voice

ZEELAND — Primary elections were considered the most important way to influence government by State Rep. James Farnsworth of Holland, one of three lawmakers who appeared at the Chamber of Commerce "Eggs and Issues" breakfast Monday in Bosch's restaurant.

It is at the primary election that candidates for political offices are chosen and whomever is nominated in the strong party districts is elected to office in the general election, Farnsworth pointed out.

"In most cases, less than half of the registered voters turn out for a primary election and many times it is less than 30 per cent," he said.

In addition to Farnsworth, Rep. Melvin De Stigter and Sen. Gary Byker, both of Hudsonville, also appeared at the breakfast with an estimated 70 persons.

Farnsworth and Byker opened breakfast which was attended by the discussions with a report on state taxes and a tax package under study by the Senate. Neither was totally in favor of the increased personal exemptions as a method of trimming taxes.

"The governor did right in cutting taxes but I am not convinced that the way to cut taxes was increasing the personal exemptions from $1,200 to $1,700," Farnsworth said.

Byker added that the Senate was changing the exemptions to $1,500 instead of the $1,700 proposed by the House. He said certain property tax relief as proposed would not hurt local units of government because the states would reimburse them.

Byker said it was ironic that while the state was attempting to cut taxes the federal government was increasing the taxing rate of Social Security.

"It represents a greater tax increase than that proposed as a tax cut by the state legislature," he explained.

De Stigter lauded Gov. Milliken for firing Glenda McGuire from her controversial job as an aide on the governor's staff. "As soon as he found out

Community Chorale Is Acclaimed in Chicago

By Cornelia Van Voort

Holland Community Chorale realized a great ambition Saturday night — singing in the acoustically perfect Orchestra Hall in Chicago before a large appreciative audience.

And Calvin P. Langejans who developed the 60-voice chorale over the years to one now held in high acclaim arranged a program that held attractions for all music lovers — numbers from a Bach Christmas oratorio and a Brahms requiem to some gimmicky novelties with sound effects like "Dry Bones" and "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang."

Some 65 local persons attended the concert in Orchestra Hall on Michigan Ave. across from the Chicago Art Institute. As one chorale member put it, "It won't be easy to sing in Civic Center after this."

Their music was in sharp contrast to the rock music at Civic Center where the members earlier in the afternoon had boarded chartered buses. The rock group was outside Civic Center for the March of Dimes Walkathon, and the ear-splitting amplified rock beat caused more sensitive persons to hold their ears.

But as beauty is in the eye of the beholder, music on all fronts has its boosters, and Conductor Langejans who has a fine ear for the percussive beat in his band work at West Ottawa schools sprinkles "the beat" liberally in his choral arrangements.

There was the well modulated beat of Ray Vande Mark's stringed bass, Rich Vande Bunte's drums and Dale Dielman's guitar in many selections, particularly some Spanish numbers, plus the trumpet of Donald Warnaar and the trombone of John Jackson to led peppy contrast in other numbers. Ken Bos did yeoman's work at the piano, and for one part of the program, all instrumentalists joined in special numbers.

It was generally a happy concert with participants enjoying the evening as much as the audience, particularly toward the close when a thoroughly aroused choir belted out "This Land Is Your Land" and a medley of "The Music Man" eliciting toe tapping not only on stage but in the audience.

The concert included separate sections by men and women, and the usual array of complex arrangements which Langejans' Chorale makes sound simple, an

SPRING FORWARD, FALL BACK

Well, here we are on daylight saving time, and we know that all people are not happy about it. There are those who think all the world should run on sun time, whatever that may be; there are those who feel that we should be linked in time more closely to what is west of us than what is to the east. The fact that the legislature has hassled over this problem in years past and that it finally had to be settled by public vote indicates the lack of unanimity on the question.

We feel, however, that it is a good thing, that we should use daylight hours as much as possible for the normal operations of the working day and do as much of our sleeping as possible when the natural lights are out. If for no other reason, we feel this way because it is to some extent a cure to some environmental problems. Daylight saving time saves energy. Less artificial light is needed on this schedule. This cuts down the need for energy for illumination especially and thus saves us the creation of that energy and the pollution that attends it.

The new schedule may run counter to some prejudices and may be inconvenient for some few, but on balance, daylight saving time makes good sense.

CHRIST MAKES ALL MEN NEW
John 1:9-13
Ephesians 2:1-10
By C. P. Dame

Only Jesus Christ can make people new. It is the task of the church and of Christians who have been made new to make this good news known. The need is great so urgency is in order.

I, Jesus Christ, am the true Light. This truth is stated in the first chapter of John's gospel, written about the year 95 A.D. by the man whom Jesus loved much. John tells about the coming of John the Baptist whose mission was to witness for Jesus. John cites other witnesses in his gospel. All agree in the fact that Jesus is the true Light. He called himself the Light of the world.

Although Jesus had made the world and was in it, the world did not receive Him, it did not know Him or accept Him. His own people, the Jews, who had been told by their prophets about His coming did not receive Him. However, some did receive Him. "But as many as received, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them, that believe on His name." These did not become sons by descent through connections, nor by natural means, but through the supernatural power of God. John speaks here of the second birth, also called the new birth.

II. True Christians are changed persons. The second passage is from Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians which he wrote while in prison about the year 60 A.D. The members of the Ephesian church had been Gentiles and Jews — both were dead to God, alive to sin, but they had become alive to God. Formerly these people had "followed the evil ways of this present age" and obeyed the "prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience." Christians have three enemies — the devil, flesh and blood, and the world. The news media tells that the devil is active and that some people now believe in him.

Paul's description of "people who are outside of Christ" is not complimentary to mankind as his words indicate: "Among them also we had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others." The Ephesian believers had been changed and were now a new people.

III. God is rich in Mercy. God manifested mercy to the undeserving. It was His grace that moved Him to accept sinful people and give them salvation. A Christian is united to Christ and when Christ was raised from the dead the Christian was raised with Him. All that a Christian has become is due to God. Every Christian is a showcase of God's mercy and an encouragement for others to come. Just as God created the first man, so God had recreated the Christian.

How can the Christian show that he is a changed, a new person? This is a topic that ought to lead to a lot of discussion.

Outline Plans For Stocking Local Lake

Hopes of making Lake Macatawa the fishing paradise it was back in the 1930s were outlined by John Trimmer, district fisheries executive of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, at a Chamber of Commerce Early Bird breakfast Tuesday in Hotel Warm Friend.

Back in 1930, Trimmer said, Lake Macatawa had many weed beds, no algae, had large schools of minnows offshore and an impressive array of game fish — large mouth bass, blue gills, white bass, perch and walleyes. A trial census among fishermen from 1932 to 1937 revealed the fisherman on Lake Macatawa caught 2.4 fish per hour, compared with one per hour throughout the state. There were 50 species of game fish available.

Subsequent trial censuses revealed a gradual decline in game fish so that from 1966 to 1971, only 19 species remained and at the rate of 350 pounds of fish per acre (1,780 acres) 300 pounds were carp.

He said industrial pollution is only partly responsible for the decline in game fish and he had high praise for the work being done by Hope College and the city of Holland in attempts to control pollution, particularly in improved waste water treatment and reduction of fly ash from the light plant. He also said there was about 90 per cent compliance among pleasure boats in installing holding tanks, a highly respectable record. He also commended Holland for not encroaching on spawning beds in Pine Creek Bay and the Black River mouth.

The DNR hopes to reduce the carp population drastically this year with two types of chemical treatment, treating areas near warm water discharges and spraying marshes at spawning time, and "filling the void" by planting Northern Pike fry and walleye fry, and working with the Fish and Game club in developing 700 large mouth bass fry at rearing ponds into three and four-inch fingerlings.

The department also expects to plant 38,000 domestic rainbow trout plus some adult white bass to repopulate that game species locally.

Trimmer felt that the alewife population in Lake Michigan has come into balance. There may be some "smell" on local beaches this summer but nothing like the crisis of 1967, William Strating presided.

Mrs. H. Wendt Tells Questers History of Quilts

Christine Van Raalte Chapter of Questers met Monday at the home of Mrs. Maurice Rypstra of Grandville. After a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. Peter Visser, president, the history of quilts was presented by Mrs. Harry Wendt.

She said the earliest quilts are from Egyptian times but the biggest development of the quilt for sleeping comfort came during the pioneer days, especially around the time of Abraham Lincoln.

Due to their isolation, the pioneer women had a great interest in quilt making and with the opening up of the Mississippi River boat trade a good quality of foreign material was available for the quilters. Social times centered around a "quilting bee" when a single quilt was made by as many as 12 women. They would do fine needle work, running the whole pattern together in marked out formal patterns such as diamonds, pineapples, shell patterns, etc.

Since the formal patterned quilt is seen or found nowhere else in the world, it is believed that Indian designs directly influenced the "most popular of all Early American quilts." Small children were taught to make lots of "squares" or "patches," which their mothers joined later for them, and as they grew older, the midwest artists became extremely talented. Small running stitches 12 to an inch was the common gauge.

Among the many old quilts displayed by the chapter member was a 130-year old one in a cornflower pattern which Mrs. Wendt's great-grandparents made in Indiana. A "postage stamp" quilt was also displayed.

Dessert was served by Mrs. Harry Friessel and the hostess to 16 members.

The next meeting will be held at the Spring Lake Country Club and will be hosted by the Minerva Dill Chapter of Questers of Muskegon. Speaker for the luncheon meeting will be Mrs. Jean Hainer of Grand Rapids, whose program is entitled "Potpourri of Antique Accessories."

Reevaluation of Special Education Students Ordered

Petitions calling for the recall of Holland Public Schools Superintendent Donald Ihrman and a decision to reevaluate students in the Type A special education classes were announced following a meeting Monday of school officials, representatives of the Latin American community and state education personnel.

Maria Leal, a volunteer working out of the Community Action House facility, said the petitions were developed by La Raza Unida and were being circulated by interested citizens of the Latin American community.

The petitions call for the recall of Ihrman, school personnel director Gardner Wierenga and school psychologist Dr. Eugene Scholten.

The petitions charge that the three public officials have "deliberately used their position to oppress the Latino community of Holland resulting in unequal educational rights and privileges of the Latino children in Holland."

The petitions claim the Latino children have not been given equal educational opportunities under the 14th amendment, the Civil Rights act of 1964 and the elementary and secondary education act.

Also charged in the petitions is that unequal opportunity occurred by misplacement of children in special education classes, that there are no classes on remedial language and that there is a disproportionate Anglo to Spanish ratio of teachers in the system.

"We Latino people find reasons sufficient to demand that the school board actively seek the resignation of Ihrman, Wierenga and Dr. Scholten."

School board president James O. Lamb said he had confidence in Ihrman, Wierenga and Scholten.

When the children are tested their background and cultural differences are taken into consideration.

Ihrman said earlier that bilingual teacher aides are used in the psychological testing of the Latino children. It was also said that school psychologist Dr. Scholten uses both language and non-language testing procedures in the testing of Latino children.

Some Spanish is spoken but not sufficiently fluent to extensively test the Latino children completely in Spanish, Scholten said.

Starter Bob Klomparsen suffered the defeat although he was relieved by Mark Johnson, Dargene and Steve Kupres.

Regan Speaks at Trinity Father-Son Fete Saturday

More than 150 persons heard ex-major league baseball pitcher Phil Regan speak at the Trinity Reformed Church Men's Brotherhood father-son dinner Saturday evening in Ter Keurst Auditorium.

Regan delighted the crowd by first reminiscing about his playing days in the minor leagues and with the Detroit Tigers, Los Angeles Dodgers, Chicago Cubs and Chicago White Sox.

Leo Durocher and Walter Alston were two of the best managers I played under," said Regan. They are two different types of people but they both get the same results.

"Alston is the more quiet type while Leo is the fiery type and is very superstitious."

Regan, who belongs to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, said that the Sunday morning chapel the Cubs held brought the club even closer together.

"The Dodgers are now even having these services," stated Phil.

Former Dodger teammate first sacker Wes Parker inherited $9 million but it didn't provide true happiness until he found Christ, according to Regan.

Regan indicated that he heard after the Cubs let him go to the White Sox last year, that Durocher even made a commitment to Christ.

"I accepted Christ as my savior in 1960," said the popular ex-standout relief pitcher. "When you accept the Lord, it's forever."

A question and answer period with Regan followed his talk that had the kids on the tips

Literacy Council Offers Laubach Training Course

The Holland Literacy Council held its spring meeting Thursday night in the Fourteenth Street Christian Reformed Church. Miss Jeanette Veldman briefly reviewed several books by or about Dr. Frank Laubach and the Laubach Literacy program.

The Laubach method was developed by Dr. Frank Laubach as a tool to combat illiteracy around the world. Beginning in the Philippines in 1929, Dr. Laubach visited 103 countries developing literacy materials and providing inspirational leadership to programs which have taught an estimated 60 million persons to read. His motto was "Each One Teach One" and his philosophy was to treat each student with kindness and compassion.

Karen McFall presented slides on a new volunteer program called Vital English which was set up especially for people who wish to learn to read and write English as a second language. This presentation was received with much interest and enthusiasm by the members present since it applies to many of their students.

In addition to the books reviewed by Miss Veldman, a large variety of resource material available for tutors and students and supplementary reading materials for students was on display. This material has recently been added to the Council's library and is available for loan or copies may be purchased.

The Holland Literacy Council is an organization of volunteers at the Good Samaritan Center interested in adult literacy education. The president, Beaten Hoar, announced that the Council will offer another Laubach training course for adults who would like to tutor other adults in reading. The course will be offered on four successive Tuesday evenings beginning on May 22, from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Good Samaritan Center, 20 West 15th St.

Those completing the course will be certified Laubach tutors eligible to use Laubach reading materials and methods which were developed for the adult non-reader. The classes are free but there is a $9 charge for the set of books used in the course and in future training. On completion of the course, tutors will be matched with adults in the Holland area who have been referred to the Good Samaritan Center by friends, social agencies, the schools, etc. for help in reading English.

Anyone wishing to take the Laubach Course may call the Good Samaritan Center or Mrs. Henry ten Hoer, 132 East 31st St.

Audience Is Thrilled By Violinist

Complete mastery of the violin by an 13-year-old girl of Beverly, Mass., thrilled all the youthful participants — and audience too — at the eighth annual All-Orchestra concert of the Holland public schools Monday night in the Holland High Performing Arts Center.

The young prodigy, Marjorie Kransberg, played the Introduction and Rondo Capriccios by Saint-Saens with the Holland High Symphony Orchestra, Gerit Van Ravenswaay, conductor. Later she gave two encores especially for her own age group in elementary school musicians.

This young genius of the strings who started playing a toy violin at the age of two displayed a technique that could be envied by many another professional, and provided inspiration to budding young instrumentalists, some of whom are not past the "scraping" stage on a stringed instrument, which can alternately produce the most nearly perfect music and the most gosh-awful sounds.

Altogether, it was an inspired evening with proud fifth and sixth graders wearing long dresses (even ties for some boys) and each section of the program offering improved music and techniques. Mrs. Shirley Cavanagh directed the All City Fifth Grade and Sixth Grade Orchestras, in generally short numbers, with an encore directed by J. Frederick Muller of Cleveland, composer-arranger — author who is responsible for much of the music materials used in schools.

Progressively better quality in music was provided by the Junior High Concert Strings in short navy blue skirts and trousers with red boleros, and the Junior High Symphony Strings, girls in long red skirts and white tops, and boys in red coats and white trousers. It remained for the Holland High Symphony to appear in formal black for a really sophisticated note.

After Marjorie's appearance with the Symphony, anything else seemed anti-climax and Conductor Van Ravenswaay cancelled a Rodgers-Hammerstein arrangement of "Sound of Music" and closed with the peppy "Jammin' in Jamaica" with hand clapping which provided an excellent opportunity for final applause.
