Top $3,750 In Saturday Walkathon

A total of 204 marchers walked from DeWitt Cultural Center at Hope College to the Holland State Park and back, Saturday in the Fourth Annual March of Dimes Walkathon, a 15-mile hike.

This year's march netted $7,352.70 in pledges from the youngest walkers, a group of fourth graders, to a retired officer, a veteran of several walkathons.

Prior to the start of the walk at 9 a.m., National Guard, police and CBers readied equipment to patrol the line of march and keep communications open between check points and headquarters.

Other March of Dimes volunteers registered the marchers, pinned on bright red identification feet and also issued balloons, a further means of keeping track of walkers. Three northside businessmen offered to supply coffee and cold drinks in front of stores on the route and supplies of band-aids, cases of pop, candy bars and hamburgers were available for hungry and tired walkers.

Mayor Louis Hallacy, State Sen. Gary Byker, State Rep. Ed Fredricks and Bill Gargano of WHTC were on hand to start the walk. The first walker to return was David Villalrae of E. E. Fell Junior High, at 11:45 a.m. The first girl to cross the finish line was Arlene Adrianse, also of E. E. Fell, at 12:57 p.m. Each will receive the traditional pair of tennis shoes. Many other prizes have been donated by local merchants for the drawing on May 28. Deadline for walkers to collect from sponsors is May 21. Walkers will receive an extra ticket for the drawing for each $25 turned in.

Money raised in the walk will be used for March of Dimes programs in birth defect research, direct patient care and public education.

Co-chairman for the Holland walk were Val Petfield and Bill Van Ark.

Harbor Dredging Plans Reviewed

DETROIT — The Detroit District, Corps of Engineers is making plans to dredge just outside and to the north of the harbor in Lake Michigan at Holland, during 1977-78 and in subsequent years when required to nourish the beach. The beach to be nourished is south of the harbor and runs along the shoreline.

The dredging and beach nourishment were authorized by the River and Harbor Act of 1968, and the project is being reviewed under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 and the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956 and Endangered Species Act of 1973.

Any person with an interest which may be affected by the dredging and disposal of the material for beach nourishment may request a public hearing by writing to the District Engineer by May 25.

Hudsonville Man Killed In Accident

FOREST GROVE — Daniel Glenn Kramer, 21, of 3036 Otogian St., Hudsonville, was fatally injured at 3:11 a.m. Saturday when the vehicle he was driving went out of control along Adams St. a quarter mile west of 40th Ave. south of here and struck a tree.

Ottawa County deputies said Kramer was pronounced dead at the scene.

Kramer was alone in the car eastbound along Adams when he lost control, ran off the road 200 feet, hit a tree and rolled 100 feet before coming to rest. He was thrown from the vehicle.

Kramer was the eighth traffic victim in Ottawa county this year compared with six a year ago, deputies said.

Funeral arrangements were being handled by Vander Laan of Hudsonville.

Zeeland Council Adopts Tax Rate Cut

ZEELAND — Only two persons attended a public hearing Monday on the proposed 1977-78 budget before City Council adopted the proposal.

The millage rate was set at 11.8 mills, a reduction of 1.3 mills from the current levy of 13.1 mills.

People's Bank of Holland was the apparent low bidder for $434,000 of General Obligation and special Assessment bonds to finance sanitary improve-

Personnel Officer, Contract Tree Trimming

New Ideas in City Budget

The proposed budget for the City of Holland in 1977-78 includes a couple of innovations as well as higher taxes for most residential property owners.

One is the apparent phasing out of tree trimmers in the Park Department in favor of contracting the services. The other is a provision for a separate personnel officer.

Because of an increase in the state equalized valuation of $13,452,566 or roughly 10 percent and the tax rate only .5 mill lower than last year, most homeowners will pay more taxes.

The city proposes to operate a general fund of $5,583,912 of which $2,227,114 will come from property taxes.

Biggest departmental budget is the police department with $1,353,780.

For the Park Department the proposed budget includes $10,000 for tree trimming contracts and $12,000 for lease vehicles.

City manager Terry L. Hofmeyer said one vacancy exists in the tree trimming crew and council felt now would be the time to attempt a contract arrangement for the seasonal tree trimming work.

The budget allocates $20,000 for creation of a separate personnel department now part of the job of city treasurer Jack Leenhouts.

Leenhouts said he suggested hiring a separate personnel officer who could begin work with him before Leenhouts retires to provide an orderly transition.

Sharing from the entitlement period ending Sept. 3 amounts to $142,500 and will be used to purchase two voting machines, a sound system for Council Chambers, Cemetery truck, heart thumper and other emergency devices for the fire department, Higher Horizons, and contributions to the library, Netherlands Museum and computer services.

Revenue sharing for the period ending June 30, 1978 amounting to $427,500 will be used for police cruisers, Environmental Health Department cars, fire hydrant rental, street lighting, library, Netherlands Museum and computer services.

Salaries for department heads and employees are not included in final figures because salaries are still in negotiation.

Salaries for unclassified positions were listed and include city manager $30,210; assistant city manager, $21,008; Board of Public Works general manager, $32,055; engineering supervisor, $23,589; library director, $20,310; and assistant library director, $17,693.

Finances and salaries for Holland Community Hospital operations and personnel were not included in the city budget since the hospital is now operated as an authority and develops its own budget.

Copies of the proposed budget are available in the library and the Clerk's office in City Hall.

A public hearing on the budget will be held during the regular council meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall with its adoption expected thereafter.

Residents may raise objections or question the budget during the hearing.

Blasts Government Control in Energy Crisis

What America needs in this energy crisis is a solid return to private enterprise devoid of government intervention.

That was the strong conviction of C. John Miller, Allegan oil executive, who addressed Chamber of Commerce Early Birds at breakfast Tuesday in Warm Friend Motor Inn.

As past president of the Petroleum Association of America, Miller has testified 19 times before Congressional committees on gas and oil shortages since 1973. Ordinarily a person in his post would appear two or three times.

"The 1973 embargo by OPEC countries was not the first such embargo," Miller said. "It was the 13th interruption of oil supplies from the Mideast. Up to then, American suppliers had always been able to turn some valves and use surplus oil and gas to meet any demands, but price controls have discouraged domestic drilling and the surplus just wasn't there.

This was a result of Congressional action back in the latter '50s in which Congress set abnormally low prices of oil from one state to another. Those were the days when natural gas was mostly a waste product, and for 17 years there was no price change and there was no incentive for companies like Miller Brothers Drilling Corp. of Allegan to drill for new supplies."

Miller quoted a Nobel winning economist who had reminded American people that all one has to do to insure a shortage is to have the government set prices less than the costs involved.

Miller was appalled at what Congress has done once it addressed itself to the energy crisis in 1973. He said some 65 committees introduced 2,000 bills in two years, and the only legislation to come out of it all was a bill for a 55 mile speed limit.

"And every time you put the foot to the metal and exceed 55 miles, you are violating two years of work by Congress!"

Miller quoted sobering statistics that gas and oil provide 74 per cent of all energy today and are the only viable fuels for the next 20 to 25 years, despite other forms like solar energy which just don't have the magnitude.

He was sharply critical of President Carter's proposed program which would increase ceilings on domestic gas and oil at the cost of the taxpayer. "Such a program won't result in one more barrel — only a tradeoff of systems totally controlled by the government. And most people just say 'So What!' Returning operations to private enterprise (there is no such thing as free enterprise) would produce new jobs, new developments and reduce dependency on foreign oil."

Miller said a change of philosophy is needed to halt the trend toward socialism where misery is shared equally by all persons. "Something is going wrong. A government big enough to do everything for you can also take away everything."

Local Safety Patrol Picked For AAA Trip

A Holland youngster is among 50 chosen statewide to tour historic Gettysburg battlefield and the home of the chocolate bar May 18-21 during the 37th annual Automobile Club of Michigan safety patrol trip.

Kevin Heerspink, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Heerspink, 1027 College Ave., and a student at Maplewood School, is among those making the all-expense-paid four-day trip to the Civil War battle site and Hershey, Pa., home of Hershey chocolate.

The youths were picked from among 55,000 youngsters in more than 2,400 schools as Michigan's best safety patrol leaders for the 1976-77 school year.

The trip starts May 18 with a pre-flight health check at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport, where the 10 to 13-year-old boys and girls will board a jet plane for Washington.

After a two-hour bus trip from Washington National Airport to Gettysburg for an overnight stay, students will receive orientation by viewing a giant electrified battlefield map, followed by a two-hour guided tour of the area.

Following lunch, the patrolers will visit Cyclorama, a circular theater depicting the climax to Gettysburg, and travel to the top of the 307-foot National Battlefield Tower to view the 25-square-mile battle area.

That evening, students will dine at and tour the Farnsworth House, which figured prominently in the three-day battle. The day will end with an escorted tour through the National Civil War Wax Museum.

On Friday, buses take the youngsters to Hershey, to tour the world's largest chocolate and cocoa plant.

A visit to Hershey Museum precedes lunch and an afternoon stop at Zimmerman's Automobilearama in nearby Harrisburg. That afternoon the group will return to Gettysburg for dinner and souvenir shopping.

Patrolers will return to Washington by bus Saturday morning, where they will board a Detroit-bound jet scheduled to arrive at Metropolitan Airport that afternoon.

CBers to Form Police Network

Persons with citizen band radios (CB) are being organized into a crime fighting effort by area law enforcement agencies.

Called the Holland Area Police Alert Network members will act as additional ears and eyes for the police agencies and will be asked to take part in extra surveillance for the police.

Holland deputy police chief Gene Geib said the idea was to make use of the potential crime fighting availability of the CB radio operators who are driving in the area.

The organization will be governed by a ten-member council of CB members and directors representing law enforcement will be Geib; Sgt. Gerald Witteveen, in charge of the Holland branch of the Sheriff's Department, and Zeeland police chief Lawrence Veldheer.

The program is to operate under a strict set of guidelines designed to ensure individual safety and Geib said participants will not represent themselves as police officers, will not carry a weapon, will not chase or pursue a suspected law violator, will not equip their vehicle with police type emergency lights or siren and will not make any verbal or physical contact with persons except to assist.

Participants will use their own individual call letters and may identify their participation in the Area Police Radio Network.

Geib said persons operating base stations for CB network will be registered and screened before selected and trained.

The base operators will act as dispatcher aides for the police agencies and will contact police agencies by telephone or CB radio if necessary.

The bases also will transmit appeals for assistance from the police agencies.

Applications for base station operators are being taken at the Holland Police Department. Geib said other areas have tried similar CB assistance projects with results from total failure to success.

Participants are being asked to relay what they see, hear and suspect to the proper authority and are not being asked to make extraordinary sacrifice on behalf of crime prevention, Geib added.

Dystrophy Drive Tops $19,000

The recent door-to-door campaign against Muscular Dystrophy resulted in raising $19,063, according to Gordon Brower, president of the Ottawa County Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America.

The drive, held throughout Ottawa County from March 26 to April 2, 1977 involved approximately 2,500 volunteers, who raised almost $3,000 more than the 1976 campaign.

M.D.A. conducts independent drives primarily for funds for research, which use approximately 75 per cent of all monies raised. For the 24 patients in Ottawa County and thousands throughout America research is their only hope. The general outlook on research is optimistic at this time. However, many years and several million dollars will be needed to find a cause and cure for this dreaded, crippling and often fatal disease.

INDEPENDENT BASEBALL TEAM TRAVELED TO GAMES ON IKE VER SCHURE'S TRUCK

Ike Ver Schure's 1st Motorized Dray

Holland's first motorized dray was a $5,000 Buzz Wagon operated by the late Isaac Ver Schure around the turn of the century.

It was the talk of the town, and Ike Ver Schure provided real flexibility when he removed the regular stakes and put on seats to take the old Holland Independent Baseball team to its games. This team was believed to be the forerunner of the Flying Dutchman.

Old photos and articles were brought to the Sentinel by Walter Hieftje, 150 East 38th St., whose wife, the late Ruth Ver Schure, was a daughter of Ike. Mrs. Hieftje died in 1973.

No dates were available on clippings and photos but it is assumed to be around the turn of the century, possibly earlier. The newspaper item at that time read:

"Slowly but surely, Holland is assuming a metropolitan aspect. It is a far call to taxicabs or even a 'hack' stand for this modest burg, but in one respect the city will soon have the laugh on a lot larger cities.

We are to have an auto dray. 'Isaac Ver Schure, the well known drayman who conducts a prosperous draying and 10-cent delivery business, is to be the progressive one, and will go to Pontiac tomorrow to close a deal for one of the motor trucks which are made there. The oat will soon be a thing of the past for Ike, and the Standard Oil company will have another patron for gasoline.

"Now for an auto fire-engine, which would solve one of the city's problems."

Holland Still Growing

Some local residents were slightly taken aback at headlines in the Sentinel last week that Holland has lost its wealth status.

But that affected Ottawa county only, and Holland is a two-county city.

At any rate, City Hall officials give assurance that Holland is not only alive and well, but is growing too.

The information referred to equalized valuations for Ottawa county placing Georgetown township a half million dollars ahead of that portion of Holland city in Ottawa county. Georgetown was listed at $113,847,202 and Holland city at $113,326,950.

Almost half of Holland city lies in Allegan county with a total valuation of $40,449,300, or 9.2 per cent over the 1976 figure of $37,457,369 (including factor).

This makes Holland the largest taxing unit in Allegan county.

State laws pose difficulties for a city in two counties, and it was understandable why Mayor Lou Hallacy last fall wanted to put Holland city in one county. It was equally understandable why Allegan county did not want to release its top taxpayer.

Georgetown township has been one of the fastest growing areas in Michigan, a sort of bedroom city for Grand Rapids. It is mostly residential, accounting for $93.1 million of its $113 million total. Two-county Holland city has a total residential valuation of $86.4 million.

Of the $40,449,300 valuation in Allegan county, agricultural property accounts for $516,500; commercial, $6,971,000; industrial (mostly south side industrial park) $17,539,000; residential, $15,158,800; utilities, $264,000. Industrial valuation in the Ottawa county portion is $18,140,000.

AUTHORS THEMSELVES — Pooh and Eeyore discuss birthdays through the magic of Nancy McEwen at the Young Authors Conference Wednesday. First and second graders

'Goonies' and Other Wonderful Things

By Holly Ernst

Four hundred elementary students attended a conference Wednesday at Hope College.

Talking apples, magic clouds, walking peanuts and "goonies" accompanied them on their visit.

The occasion was the fourth annual Young Authors Conference.

The conference culminated nine months' work for Nancy Miller, of Hope College Education Department.

As the program co-ordinator, Nancy Miller viewed the goal of the conference as stimulating creative writing in elementary schools — public, private and parochial. "Some teachers just neglect writing unless there is some kind of 'end' like this," she said.

The program is also designed to spur the imaginations of the students attending. Sending representatives from every grade, picked by their classmates for their writing ability, were 41 southwestern Michigan schools.

Featured at this year's conference was Bill Martin Jr., renowned creative educator and author.

Martin looked almost like he was about to address a businessmen's conference — his suit and sophisticated worn in a very proper manner.

However, without so much as a "ladies and gentlemen" he swept his young listeners away to the land of fiction. Martin mingled storytelling with an "English composition" lesson, discussing style, similes and structure. Those first through sixth graders probably had never paid such close attention to a lecture before.

Dr. Shirley Van Hoven, a Western Michigan University dramatics professor and former Holland resident, also helped inspire creativity with "movement." Dr. Van Hoven led an imaginary expedition in search of a bear — and her audience went too, participating in sound effects and movements.

As she clomped over a "bridge," a hundred third and fourth graders clomped after her; when she slumped exhausted from the travel, 100 little shoulders also sagged.

Nancy Miller explained use of sounds and movement as a technique to "get them to use their eyes and ears better." Eyes widened and giggling ceased as Nancy McEwen became Piglet, Owl, and Pooh-bear — all at once. "Eeyore's Birthday" came to life in the storytelling of the former Hope theatre major and Henry Street Player (New York). It is hard to say who was more enchanted, the students, or their teachers.

The best entertainment of all, however, was "sharing time." An hour was set aside for small groups of the children to present their cloth-bound masterpieces to their colleagues.

All types of literature — poems, fantasies, adventures, mysteries, comedies — were represented in their work.

After listening to a few verses or chapters, adult folk tended to wonder if it was possible to broaden the children's creative instincts. Their heads were small, but their imaginations — endless.

The first graders were a particularly diplomatic bunch. They praised each others' books continually. At one point, a particular young authoress read a poem about losing teeth — which prompted her audience to make a friendly examination of each others' "gaps."

It was a day of magic and adventure, enjoyed by all.

Wednesday evening all the books brought to the conference by the participants were displayed in DeWitt Center's student art gallery.

Music, Sights Fun Times For Band

HAMILTON — All the planning and practice evidently paid off — Hamilton High School band members were brimming with enthusiasm when they returned from Nashville, Tenn. recently.

The 78-member organization, under the direction of George Smart, attended the 1977 Sounds of America Music Festival in Nashville.

A bronze medal was awarded the group in the international competition.

The group spent a total five days on their excursion. They performed in Opryland amusement park, toured a recording studio and Andrew Jackson's residence.

The band worked hard to earn enough funds for the trip. Band president Jim Bussis estimated total cost at $11,000. Sandwich sales and a 20 hour "Rock-a-thon" (20 hours in a rocking chair) netted $5000 for the band.

Other funds had previously accumulated and contributions were made by the band boosters.

Twelve parents, members of the band boosters, accompanied the group. Accommodations were in the Nashville Hyatt-Regency and arrangements were made by a travel agent.

George Smart's bands travel every four years. Past trips have been made to the New York World Fair and Expo '67 in Montreal.

NOSE Tips

By Leo Martonasi

There is bound to be different grunts and groans and aches and pains come fall in our city.

When Roger Kamps of 247 West 36th St. called us recently to inform us that he is going to be a manager of a new racquetball club, it's bound to thrill a lot of area people.

While the sounds of tennis, softball, baseball and golf balls will be decreasing in the fall, the new Courthouse East Racquetball Club will officially be running in high gear.

Kamps said that he plans to open the doors no later than Sept. 1. Groundbreaking for the club located next to K-Mart was held last week.

Some eight courts (20' high, by 20' wide, by 40' long) are planned. There will also be additional facilities for a sauna, whirlpool, exercise room, gymnasium, lockers and nursery.

Charter membership fees for individual, family and students are now being accepted. The family plan includes spouse and dependents under age 18.

There will be separate locker-room facilities for men and women. A small guest fee per visitor will be charged for non-members.

Advance registration and permanent court time in 13-week blocks are available. Leagues are also forming for both men and women.

Kamps said that payment in full entitles the person or persons to full membership privileges at Courthouse East of Grand Rapids, 2701 29th St. S.E. until the Holland club opens. Your one-year membership will not commence until the local club opens.

"We have already signed up 100 members and hope to eventually sign up 500 members," replied Kamps.

Kamps indicated that rules are the same for hand ball, paddle ball and racquetball. As in volleyball, you can only score points when serving.

"Racquetball is definitely the most popular of the three sports," Kamps insisted. "You can play with two, three or four players."

To score, a player can't let the ball hit the floor twice.

Kamps pointed out that even though you might miss the ball on your first try, you can still keep your opponent from scoring by making good on your second effort, as long as it doesn't hit the floor.

"The best offense is to hit the lower wall and by hitting the front wall so close to the ground that the ball just rolls out," explained Kamps.

He said that racquetball is an easy sport to learn.

"If a person can run, he can learn how to play racquetball," Kamps said. "Even though the score might not indicate that, it's not like some sports where you might get destroyed. After two or three times of practicing you can become an adequate player."

We don't know at our age if we can take an extra set of new grunts, groans, aches and pains but you can be sure we'll definitely find out when the new racquetball club opens its doors.
