The "B'S" ENTERTAIN THE "A'S"

Grand Hotel Arcade Scene of Feasting and Mirth-Making.

If Charley Floyd had been still un- perceptible at the Michigan Railway company last Friday there would have been a smile upon his face. Why? Because half a hundred Hislop, under the ample-shouldered en employee had just presented to his brother, the "A's" class at the Grand hotel.

Soon after their arrival at the breasty apartments, many ("A's" are the maker of his own destiny) to enjoy themselves upon the shores of the sleeping sea, or among the paths between the paramount peaks. But, especially those who try to seek out en tertain the highest degree of enjoyment, to that obtain that enjoyment, must be supplemented by inside enjoyment.

For that reason, at 6:30 o'clock, the blaze was flaring high, the "B's" became the makers of their own destiny and the campfire game with the Hope Ferree episode.

Three overture battles to the very exuberant affair.

The bowling battle was raging at the Grand Hotel, and the "B's" had a definite advantage.

Ward House was burning, the blaze was flaming high, the "B's" were the makers of their own destiny. The "A's" stood on the burning dock eyeing apple pie.

Then out flew Edna Cook, with terrier in her arms.

"Ah, cried in accents wild, the burney is dry.

Next came Minnie Kloosterman, with a candel in her hand, and down below the warehouse the German light was burning.

The Athletic Crisis and the Way Out.

The time for the election of officers for the Athletic Association has just arrived, and the Anchor revisits its recent contention that a change in the method of choosing the affairs of this important body is not only highly desirable but absolutely necessary.

For many months past it has been obvious that it is a far-sighted policy to secure the presence of a quorum, at least a majority, at the association of any of its meetings. It has been pointed out that the average student who is closely interested in the activities of this association is not likely to show up if the attendance is not very large. The Anchor therefore strongly suggests that an effort be made to make the attendance at the meetings as large as possible.

The student body is not at all satisfied with the way the business has been conducted in the past. The meetings have been held at irregular times and in irregular places, and the students have been unable to get a proper hearing of the business of the association.

The Anchor therefore suggests that the meetings be held regularly at a definite time and place, and that the business be disposed of in a businesslike manner. It is suggested that the students be given a proper hearing of the business of the association, and that the students be given a chance to express their opinions and have their grievances heard.
