JUST LOOK THESE OVER.

YOU

must read this article over carefully, tell it to your friends, mark and send it to your wife's cousin in Dakota. Why? Because it tells about the City of Holland; and contains some good advice for you. Holland has about 4,000 inhabitants; and is the natural market town for the townships of Salem, Overisel, Fillmore, Manlius, Saugatuck and Lake-town in Allegan County, and Holland, Zeeland, Jamestown, Georgetown, Biondon, Olive, Robinson and Allendale in Ottawa County, which townships contain 23,000 people. Holland and will be the county seat of Ottawa County, within a few years.

SHOULD

In addition to being surrounded by a fine farming country and in the centre of the famous fruit belt of Michigan, Holland is well located for manufacturing industries; and already has the following establishments, which now employ over 500 men:

The Cappon and Bertsch Tanneries, the largest in the Northwest.

Standard Roller Mills, having a daily capacity of 400 barrels of flour.

Werkman Manufacturing Company, one of the finest factory buildings in the state.

The Fixter Stave and Cooperage factory.

The Waverly Stone Company, working extensive sandstone quarries.

Keystone Planing Mill and sash and door factory.

The Phoenix Planing Mill and lumber yards.

Huntley Manufacturing Works and planing mill.

Vindicator Fanning Mill Company.

Crystal Creamery, which made more butter in 1887 than any creamery in Michigan.

Van Putten Tub and Pail Factory.

Wilms Champion Harrow Works.

Holland Wagon Works.

Flieeman Wagon and Sleigh Factory.

City Flouring Mills.

Huntley Machine Shops.

Scott's Foundry.

Schoon and Son's Tannery.

Van Dyke's Saw Mill.

Holland Wind Mill Company.

All of which establishments are extending their business and increasing the number of their employees.

There are also about 100 employees of the Chicago and West Michigan Railway Company residing at Holland. Thus having both the agricultural and manufacturing resources Holland has a solid basis for mercantile business.

Business is not, however, all of life. Holland is also especially desirable as a place of residence. It is located near the shores of Macatawa Bay, a beautiful body of water having its outlet in Lake Michigan, six miles distant. Holland has a fine harbor and direct railway connections with Chicago, Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Detroit. The famous Macatawa Park and Ottawa Beach resorts are here; and bring thousands of visitors to Holland each summer. Hope College and an excellent system of public schools provide superior educational advantages; and eight churches look after the religious welfare of its inhabitants. Holland has ten miles of graveled streets, with good sidewalks, a first-class system of water works owned by the city, two beautiful public parks and many handsome private residences and substantial business blocks. Have you so far and ask why tell you these facts? Because, having all these advantages you should know and tell everybody else, that Holland is sure to continue to have a steady, substantial growth; and that the present low prices of real estate will not continue. An increase of its population to 5,000 which will take place within two years, will cause an advance of from twenty-five to fifty per cent in all desirable city property. If you do not own your own home now, after, or before, you read you should lose no time in either buying a house, or a lot on which to build a home, and stop the disagreeable features of "moving around." ONE of the finest and most enjoyable social parties that have been held in this city the past season was the leap year party given at the Opera House on last Tuesday evening. It was a befitting close for the dancing academy and was entirely managed by the ladies who certainly did themselves proud on the occasion. The supper was served at the Park House and it was in every way satisfactory, being a credit to the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Boyd. The music for the dancing was furnished by Goodrich's orchestra. The young men have certainly had a lesson in entertaining by this party and it is expected that they will profit by it.

THREE saloons are now in full blast in Holland armed with all the requirements of the state and city, and we think the new saloon keepers are impressed with a spirit of living up to the letter of the law and in conducting their places of business in as near a respectable way as it is possible for them to do so. Holland is indeed fortunate in not having a greater number and in having men to run the places in the city in an orderly manner. We have no hesitancy in saying that in no place in Michigan have the city authorities had less trouble with the "whisky shops" than they have in this place, and it certainly has been to the credit of the community and to the proprietors of these places.

ON Monday morning last Marshal Vaupell had placed in his hands warrants for the arrest of Derk Van Oort and Abram Van Vuren on a charge of spearing fish in Pine Creek bay. The warrants were issued at the instance of Deputy Game Warden Lazier who, in company with a friend, was on the lookout for violators of the law. The offense was committed on Saturday night and the Game Warden came upon them so unexpectedly that they left their boat and trappings and fled, but not until they had been identified. The prisoners were taken before Justice Post, arraigned, and on pleading not guilty they were released on giving bonds for their appearance for trial on Friday, May 11.

NEXT Wednesday and Thursday evenings Prof. H. W. John's Equine and Canine Paradox, a school of forty-three educated Shetland ponies and dogs, in conjunction with the Arions Musical Comedy Company, will give entertainments at the Opera House in this city. The ponies and dogs will appear in a street parade each day while in the city. The company is not known to the management of the Opera House, but from the exchanges which we receive we should judge that the entertainments are in every way worthy of patronage. The company is now in the southern part of Michigan playing to good houses and appear in such towns and cities as Kalamazoo, Dowagiac and Niles. The admission has been placed at 25 and 35 cents. Reserved seats can be procured at Breyman's jewelry store on Tuesday morning.

LEAPED FROM A WINDOW.

The Terrible Death of a Prominent New York Business Man.

A SHOCKING death, the result of a scandal between parties of wealth and prominence, occurred in New York. The dead body of W. T. Hatch, eldest son of the senior member of the firm of Walter T. Hatch, bankers and brokers, and a well-known business man, was found in a yard in the rear of a house on West Twentieth street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Scofield. Hatch had spent the evening with Mrs. Scofield at a French restaurant, and accompanied her home about midnight. He was admitted to the house, and when the husband charged his wife with having secreted a man on the premises, Hatch, who had secreted himself in the bath-room, leaped from the window and was killed.

THE CHIEF JUSTICESHIP.

The Senate Judiciary Committee Will Postpone Action on the Nomination Till Next Session.

A WASHINGTON special to the Chicago Morning News says that "Republican members of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary make no secret of their purpose to hold up the nomination of Mr. Fuller until next session, although no official action in that direction has been or will be taken. The consideration of his nomination will simply be delayed as if it were necessary to do so, and in the event of the election of a Republican President next fall he will probably not be confirmed at all."

BIG RAILROAD SCHEME.

Canadian Pacific Capitalists to Build a Monster Railroad System in Brazil.

A SYNDICATE consisting largely of Canadian Pacific capitalists, headed by J. J. S. Abbott, member of the Dominion Ministry, and commanding British capital to the extent of $100,000,000, has been formed to undertake a railway work in Brazil. The terms offered by the Emperor are considered highly attractive. Two surveyors employed by the Canadian Pacific road have already gone to Brazil to make the superficial surveys. The proposed road will connect the headwaters of the Amazon with those of the Para river.

WHAT ONE WOMAN DID.

Mrs. Reynolds, Puts Three Burglars to Flight, Braining One of Them.

At Gresham, Pa., three burglars entered the house of Mrs. Mary Reynolds. The lady was alone, but picked up a hatchet and for awhile pluckily kept the robbers at bay. One of the more adventurous, however, attempted to seize her arm and was struck senseless to the floor by a blow from the hatchet. He was hurriedly dragged from the house by his confederates, who made their escape. He will die.

Two Murderers Hanged.

DAVID VINCENT, who killed a fellow sailor, and Robert G. Hall, the murderer of Mrs. Lillian Rivers, were executed at Philadelphia on the 8th inst. Both culprits met their doom coolly. Vincent sang, danced and whistled, and would not discuss any serious subject, and it is claimed that he was insane.

An Old Sinner Escapes.

WILLIAM SHOWERS, aged 70, who was under sentence of death in the jail at Lebanon, Pennsylvania, for the murder of his two grandchildren, managed to dig out under the stone wall and escape. The jail is situated in the heart of the town, and how the old man got away without detection is a mystery.

The Old Story.

THE two children, aged 18 and 6 months, of Mr. and Mrs. John Nickerson, of Wilshire, Ohio, were burned to death, the house in which they had been left alone catching fire from burning brush.

Minor Telegrams.

A LUMBER exchange has been organized at Louisville.

FIRE destroyed the Glade House, Somerset, Pa., erected at a cost of $20,000, and heavily insured.

SENATOR VOORHEES APOLOGIZES.

He Expresses Regret for His Language in the Senate—The House Debating the Tariff Bill.

AFTER an absence of nearly a week Mr. Voorhees reappeared on the floor of the Senate on the 8th inst., and made public acknowledgment of and expressed his regret for the language he used on the occasion of the rough and tumble debate between himself and Mr. Ingalls. Said he: "I desire to say to the Senate that, however severe the provocation which was given, yet I made use of language at that time contrary to parliamentary rules and usages and to the decorum of the Senate. I regret having used such language, and tender a proper apology to the Senate of the United States for doing so. My high respect for the dignity of this body, of which I have been for many years now a member, as well as my self-respect, induces me to make this statement." The Senate discussed the land-grant forfeiture bill. The House of Representatives devoted another day to the discussion of the Mills tariff bill. The principal speech was made by Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, in opposition to the measure. The other speakers were Messrs. Stockdale of Mississippi, Mansur of Missouri, Richardson of Tennessee, J. D. Taylor of Ohio, McAdoo of New Jersey, Morrow of California, Stone of Missouri, Chipman of Michigan, and Martin of Texas.

CURRENT EVENTS.

EAST.

ANDREW BRADLEY fatally shot his wife at McKeesport, Pa.

THE Grand Jury at New York have brought indictments against General and Mrs. Ann Odelia Dies Debar for conspiracy and grand larceny.

AFTER having confessed to the murder of a man near New York, three years ago, August Ziegler, a farmer living near Lynnpport, Pennsylvania, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn.

A FREIGHT train, consisting of seventy-five cars, bound for Williamsport, met with a frightful accident at Locust Gap, Pa. In the train was one car of dynamite and one of giant powder. By a collision an explosion occurred, in which thirty persons were injured and seven killed. In all twelve cars were destroyed and seventeen houses, with their furniture. All the windows in the Locust Gap churches and schools were broken and the doors blown off. In Mount Carmel large store windows were broken. The total loss is estimated at $75,000. Debris was found a quarter of a mile away in either direction.

THE three gas companies of Baltimore, which have been at war for over a year, have consolidated.

THE resolution excluding the women delegates from the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was adopted at New York by a vote of 249 yeas to 173 nays. It was determined, however, to submit the question of the eligibility of women to the general conferences. Many delegates, like Judge Taylor of the St. Louis conference, favored the admission of women on general principles, but thought it would take a change of the laws to make such action legal. Judge Taylor contended that as there were bishops to be elected and other important matters to be voted upon the admission of women, if afterward declared invalid, would make all the proceedings of the conference illegal and unconstitutional. This view seems to have impressed a number of the delegates and to have secured a majority against the immediate seating of the women, but the determination to refer the matter shows that the question is not settled, and the heavy affirmative vote, notwithstanding the technical difficulties in the way of admitting the women delegates, indicates that at the next conference a different ruling will be announced.

FIRE at Shooters' Island, New York harbor, in the lumber yard of Lombard, Ayers & Co., destroyed several thousand feet of yellow pine lumber, the machine shop, cooperage, offices, etc. The machinery alone was worth $500,000. The loss is between $650,000 and $700,000; partly insured.

GOVERNOR HILL has vetoed the bill passed by the New York Legislature repealing last year's law making Saturday afternoon a half holiday, though the repealing bill passed each branch by more than two-thirds vote.

J. B. PALMER, a stock broker who lives at Peabody, Mass., has been arrested at Boston on a charge of embezzling stocks valued at $11,000.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS has been re-elected President of the Civil Service Reform Association at New York, Carl Schurz made one of the Vice Presidents, and Theodore Roosevelt an executive committeeman.

WEST.

JOHN T. RAND shot and killed his wife and baby at his home in Helena, M. T., and then killed himself. Rand was a brutal fellow, and frequently beat his wife. A short time ago she had him arrested for attacking her, and sent to jail. He was released and immediately went home, where he found his wife and young daughter. The wife ran out of the house, but had taken only a few steps when he appeared in the doorway with a rifle in his hands, and taking aim at his wife shot her. She fell to the ground, and was dead before a doctor could be summoned. As his wife fell Rand placed the muzzle of the rifle to his own head and fired, killing himself.

GEN. MARTIN BEEM, the well-known lawyer and politician of Chicago, committed suicide by shooting himself, while visiting at the ranch of D. Case, near Stanton, Neb. Mr. Case is a relative of Gen. Beem's wife. Family trouble is said to be the cause of the suicide. Mrs. Beem had just reached the ranch from Chicago. It is surmised that Beem's reason was deranged.

THE surface buildings of the Holips mine at Little Cottonwood, Utah, were burned, at a loss of from $70,000 to $100,000.

THE flour output at Minneapolis, Minn., last week was 181,800 barrels, against 178,200 the week before, the greatest amount ever produced in a single week. The market is very dull and but little flour is being sold.

In the Federal Court at Chicago Judges Gresham and Blodgett decided the celebrated case between the Wagner Car Company and the Pullman Palace Car Company in regard to the vestibule trains, the right to the manufacture of which was in dispute. The decision was in favor of the Pullman Company, and an order was granted enjoining the Wagner company from a further use of these trains. The decision is based on the validity of the Pullman patents, completely knocking out the claim of the Wagner that the vestibule car had been long in use in other countries before Pullman obtained his patents. The decision gives the Pullman company the monopoly of the manufacture of vestibule cars in this country.

A CHARTER has been filed at Topeka, Kan., for "The Farmers' Federation of the Mississippi Valley," the farmers trust. The capital stock is $20,000,000, with shares at $10 each. The charter is signed by citizens of fourteen States and five Territories.

A TRIPLE murder in war times is revived by the arrest in Texas of Robert Clanton, who is charged with the murder of L. B. Coates and Stephen and Jerome Maddox in Portland, Missouri, Oct. 18, 1863. The murdered men were Southern sympathizers and Clanton and his brother Union men. Clanton disappeared, and was arrested in Texas, where he had married and become wealthy.

TWO CHILDREN of Farmer Henry Rincho, near Canton, Ohio, were burned to death.

A DISASTROUS collision occurred on the Jacksonville & Southwestern Railroad at Sorrento, Ill., by which two men were killed and four others seriously injured. The north-bound passenger train was run into by a south-bound freight.

In regard to the death of Gen. Martin Beem, of Chicago, at Stanton, Neb., the Coroner's jury returned a verdict of "instantaneous death by a pistol-shot from some unknown hand." It is known that two shots were fired, but the victim's wife, who was sleeping in the same room, was not awakened by the detonation. The remains were interred at Alton, Ill.

On the farm of the Widow Freeze, near Arlington, Neb., occurred a horrible catastrophe. Fire broke out in the barn, and when citizens reached the spot two hours later they found in the ruins the charred remains of seven human beings, distributed among the burned carcasses of the live stock. The entire family, consisting of four adults and three children, had been burned to death, probably in the attempt to rescue the cattle from the burning stable.

A DUBUQUE dispatch chronicles the death of Gen. Warner Lewis, a prominent Iowa man. He descended from one of the old families of Virginia, where, in Goochland County, he was born in 1805, being a distant relative of Gen. Washington. He located in the region of Dubuque in 1828, served in the Blackhawk war, was a member of the Territorial and State Legislatures, and served as Speaker of the House. He was Surveyor General of Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota under Presidents Pierce and Buchanan. For twenty-four years he had been Recorder of Dubuque County. His wife, a relative of Gen. Lafayette, survives him. They had lived together fifty-seven years.

THE wholesale commission house of William T. Coleman & Co., San Francisco, has made an assignment. The assets are placed at from $4,000,000 to $4,500,000 and the liabilities at $2,000,000. Its indebtedness in California, with the exception of a number of small amounts, is confined to four banks and two individuals. ### SOUTH.

A TERRIFIC cyclone passed over the eastern portion of Onachita County, Arkansas. It struck Josiah Herson's place, wrecked his house, and destroyed his fencing, but no lives were lost. The storm traveled from the southeast to the northwest, and its track was about a hundred and fifty yards wide. Trees were twisted and torn from their roots and hurled about like straws. Damage is reported at various other places in the neighborhood.

DURING a heavy storm at New Orleans, La., the tow-boat Future City and three barges from St. Louis collided with three United States war vessels at anchor in front of the city, and two barges were sunk and the other damaged, the total loss being $80,000.

FOREIGN.

UPON being released from jail at Dublin, after serving out his two weeks' sentence for offenses under the crimes act, Mr. Gilhooly, the Irish member of Parliament, was greeted by a large crowd as he left the prison. In a speech, he defended the plan of campaign, and said he did not believe the priests and bishops would ever deprive the people of that potent weapon.

THE trial at Loughrea of Mr. William O'Brien, member of Parliament and editor of United Ireland, of Dublin, has been concluded. Mr. O'Brien was convicted and sentenced to three months' imprisonment. Mr. O'Brien was charged with violating the crimes act by advising the people in a proclaimed district to join the League. When the case for the crown was closed, Mr. O'Brien declined to make any speech in his own defense. A meeting announced to be held at Mitchellstown in connection with the coming trial of Mr. Condon, member of Parliament, for offenses under the crimes act, has been proclaimed.

A CURIOUS story is told by a New York medical paper of the manner in which the German Crown Prince came to have his left arm two inches shorter than his right. It is said that the arm was fractured at the Prince's birth. There was a row on that occasion growing out of the importation of two English obstetricians and the jealousy of Prof. Martin, an eminent German practitioner. Whether the fracture was accidental, and was kept a secret by the English doctors, or whether the German Professor, through spite, gave the royal youngster's arm an extra twist in handling the new arrival, are the interesting questions raised by the publication of the article.

AUSTRIA is again manifesting uneasiness at the tendency of affairs to the eastward of her borders. The renewed mobilization of Russian troops and the unmistakable evidences of Russian intrigue as the moving causes of the Roumanian revolt and the disaffection in Bulgaria, Wallachia, and Moldavia are regarded as plainly foreshadowing an early and important move by Russia in the direction of Bulgaria.

DELLOI and Moradabad, India, have been visited by disastrous hailstorms, about 150 persons having been killed. The hailstones were flat and oval in shape and some of them weighed as much as two pounds. At Racebatti, in Bengal, twenty persons were killed, 200 severely injured, and 2,000 houses were destroyed by hailstones.

A DISEASE similar in type to cholera has become epidemic in Madrid. It is said to have been caused by extreme heat and the drinking of impure milk.

BOULANGER's boom has at least put money in his pocket. The manuscript of his book on the German invasion has been sold to a publishing house for $40,000.

EDWARD HANLAN, for many years the greatest of living oarsmen, has again been beaten in Australia, this time by Peter Kemp, who has not hitherto been rated a first-class sculler.

BERLIN is worried over the plottings of the socialists, and the police are busily engaged in making arrests. It is said there are in the city more than one hundred thousand social democrats, and the propaganda is rapidly increasing.

GENERAL.

A DAMAGE suit for $100,000 has been entered in the United States Circuit Court, by Connor Brothers, grain merchants of St. Louis, against the Vicksburg and Meridian Railroad Company. They complain of unjust and unlawful discrimination against them in shipping rates to points South, and claim that their business in Southern States has been injured to the extent of $50,000 by a false and fraudulent system of rebates and drawbacks, false bills of lading and fraudulent charges. They also allege that they have been damaged in the sum of $50,000 by discrimination in freight rates in favor of the Chandler Commission Company and the Gratiot Steel Warehouse Company. The suit is brought under the provisions of the interstate commerce law.

THE story comes from Boston that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company, which already controls a continuous line from Chicago to the Pacific coast, is arranging to absorb the St. Louis and San Francisco Road and a number of minor roads which serve as feeders. Should this deal be consummated the Atchison would operate nearly eight thousand miles of railroad. The report, however, is denied by officials of the company in Boston.

NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS.

What Is Being Done by the National Legislature.

MR. PALMER of Michigan made an argument in the Senate, on the 3d inst., in favor of the bill to establish a bureau of animal industry. He paid particular attention to the opposition to the measure, the general idea conveyed being that the opposition came solely from the existing Bureau of Animal Industry. He was followed by Mr. Vest, of Missouri, who defended Commissioner Colman and denounced what he called the "cattle syndicate." "Talk," said Mr. Vest, "about trusts! Talk about pools! The cattle pool of Chicago is the most infamous tyranny that ever existed in the United States. And I know no remedy for it. The statesman who would invent the remedy would deserve a monument more enduring than the Capitol." Mr. Plumb of Kansas followed Mr. Vest, and was equally vehement in his denunciation of the Chicago cattle pool. He said it was unquestionably the worst combine in the whole country. There was no trust or combination that had so great a political or so baleful an influence as that combination. For years the prices of cattle to the producers had been going down. No cattle commission man dared to set up for himself in Chicago. It was safe to say that on every steer of three years old and upward raised west of the Mississippi River during the last five years the market value had been, by this combination, reduced not less than $10 a head. The damage to the State of Kansas alone during that time had been more than $40,000,000, and the wealth of the syndicate had grown proportionately. Mr. Stewart introduced a bill in the Senate to execute the stipulations of the new Chinese treaty. The House agreed to the Senate amendment to the Indianapolis postoffice bill increasing the appropriation from $125,000 to $150,000, and then resumed consideration of the Mills tariff bill. Mr. Wilson of West Virginia and Mr. Dingley of Maine, respectively, spoke for and against the measure.

A RESOLUTION was adopted by the House on the 4th, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for a statement as to whether there is an order or regulation of the Treasury Department the enforcement of which would result in the overloading of vessels with freight on the great lakes. The report in the California contested election case of Lynch versus Vandever was placed on the calendar. The report is unanimously in favor of Vandever, the sitting member. Mr. Cox, of New York, presented in the House the amendment to the appropriate reference of a memorial from Gen. Schofield and Slocum and other members of the Army of the Potomac, asking for an appropriation of $25,000 to aid in meeting the expenses of the fraternal reunion of the survivors of the Army of the Potomac and the armies of Northern Virginia, to be held on the battle-field at Gettysburg in July next, to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of that conflict. Mr. Caswell (Wis.) criticized the Mills tariff bill in the House, declaring it did not provide any substantial decrease on articles of general consumption. He advocated the entire removal of the duty on sugar, which, he said, would take a tax from the food of every person in the country, and advocated a reasonable bounty to sugar producers in the West and (Minn.) thought the bill did not go far enough. He would place coal, iron ore, and sugar on the free list. He warned the Republican party that it had better meet the Democratic party half-way in its efforts for tariff reform. Mr. Guenther (Wis.) said the Republicans generally favored abolishing entirely the tax on tobacco and spirits, and more efficient manufactures. Should further reductions be necessary they proposed to abolish the duty on sugar and pay a bounty to the producers amounting to a sum equal to the present tax. This policy would make a reduction of about $80,000,000 certain and absolute. At the evening session twenty-seven pension bills were passed.

THERE was a scene of excitement in the House on the 5th inst., after Mr. Woodburn, of Nebraska, had closed his remarks on the tariff bill. He had incidentally remarked that Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, had apologized to the British minister for having advocated a resolution before the Forty-eighth Congress in regard to the judicial murder of an American citizen in England. Mr. Bryce, of New York, shaking his finger at Woodburn, said the statement was untrue. Hewitt was false from beginning to end, and it was folly to make the charge in his absence. Woodburn, gesticulating wildly, shouted that it was true and he could prove it. Almost every man on the Republican side rose to his feet, and Messrs. Guenther, Darling and several others excitedly talked at Bryce at the same time. Mr. Bryce was standing in the main aisle near Mr. Brumm of Pennsylvania. The latter, shaking his fist at Bryce, said Hewitt acknowledged the fact on the floor of the House and apologized for it and said that if Bryce denied it he said what was false. Bryce said it was cowardly to assail a man in his absence. The two men were standing within arms' length and shaking their fists at each other so threateningly it was expected that they would come to blows. "Is this the Senate of the United States?" queried Mr. Hopkins of Illinois, in an information-seeking tone, which set the House in a roar and which poured oil upon the troubled waters, for in a few moments Mr. Bryce and Mr. Brumm were seated together and talking amicably.

MR. REAGAN made a speech in the Senate, on the 7th inst., in opposition to the pleura-pneumonia bill. He believed many of its features were unconstitutional, and said he had numerous letters and remonstrances protesting against the bill, and suggesting that its object was to place the control of the cattle of the country in the hands of the Chicago syndicate. The Senate, in executive session, ratified the Chinese treaty without a division. Senator Edmunds has reported the fisheries treaty adversely, submitting a written majority report, and Senator Morgan submitting a favorable minority report. Mr. Edmunds gave notice that he would call up the treaty a week hence. Mr. Palmer withdrew his amendment to the land-grant forfeiture bill regarding the exemption of pre-emption and homestead claims and offered a substitute. Mr. Frye introduced a bill appropriating $1,000,000 to provide more efficient mail service between the United States and Central and South America and the West Indies. The House suspended the rules and passed the river and harbor bill. Mr. Townsend introduced a bill appropriating $50,000 for the erection in Washington of a statue to the memory of Maj. Gen. W. B. Hancock. Mr. Brown of Ohio introduced a bill modifying the civil service law. The President has vetoed the bill providing for the sale of certain New York Indian lands in Kansas.

Honor Belongs to Service.

Education is not first or chiefly the mere learning of certain facts or principles; it is such a development and training of faculty as makes one master of himself and his conditions. Our present definition and popular use of the word is altogether too narrow. There is something absurd in calling some practically incapable man, some useless member of society, educated because he happens to have had a parrot-like knowledge of Greek or French drilled into him; while another, whose eye or hand is trained into fitness for rendering grand service to the world, is spoken of as uneducated. Honor belongs to service, and if we wish it to go where it belongs we must honor the training which fits one for it. A boy whose genius is in the direction of handwork, artistry, should be able to graduate with an honor equal at least to that which attaches to one who is to fill a clerkship. —Rev. M. T. Savage.

Laundry Bag.

Take a white damask towel, fold it lengthwise, sew it up one-third of the side from each end, leaving one-third of the side open in the center; turn it on the right side, feather stitch across the ends with red silk, just above the fringe. On one pocket have a handkerchief corner stamped, and on the other the words, "Collars and Cuffs," outlined with red silk. Tie a bow in the center, with loop to hang it up.

A COWBOY COURTSHIP.

BY H. C. DODGE.

Jack Rabbit was a cowboy lean,
Who, in the London Wild West Show,
Rode bucking horses for the Queen,
And bravely scalped poor Mr. Lo.

Miss Maud, a titled heiress tall,
Was smitten by his lit'le legs,
And asked him to be a father's heir,
Which English is in present days.

"Shakez Lady Maud! waltz howdy do?"
The long-haired booted hero cried;
"I want to shoot away—with you,"
Maud casting sleep's eyes, sweet replied.

That hit the bull's-eye in the heart,
And down up Paines quick he dropped
To show his lady; then to start
The game he, like his rifle, popped.

"Ewe little deer," he moaned with sighs,
"You are the only lassie can
Rope me in matrimonial ties,
And change me to an Englishman."

"You've got the Deadwood on me now—
Excuse these steers—If, Lady, you
Woodchuck your gold away, I vow
I'll sell my stick and gopher you."

Maud heard the prairie humbly made
With looks of anguish most forlorn;
"Excuse me, but, at last she said,
"You're kneeling on my favorite corn."

Up jumped Jack Rabbit; "Miss," cried he,
As on his bare his hat he put,
"You can't elope and shoot with me—
I'm down on any tenderfoot!"

A GEM IN THE ROUGH.

BY JENNIE PORTER ARNOLD.

How bright and beautiful all the world looked to me as I passed down the shady street on my way to school that fair June morning! The last of the apple blossoms and the first of the lilacs were filling the air with their fragrance; the robins and bluebirds seemed holding a jubilee in the trees by the roadside, and the warm, bright rays of the sun were turning every dew-drop on the grass into glittering gems. My heart was as blithe and sang as joyously as the birds, and it required an effort to keep my lips from giving expression to my feelings by joining in their song.

It was the last day of my first month of school-teaching, and Mr. Farnham, the treasurer of the district, had just paid me my month's salary of $12. Most people would think this was small compensation for four weeks' teaching, but, with board, it was the usual price in back-country districts.

I was only 16 years old at the time, and this was my first season as a teacher. This $12 a month seemed a small fortune to a family as needy as was ours, and particularly to a girl who never before had enjoyed the pleasure of owning a five-dollar bill.

It was Friday, and at the close of the school that night I could return to my home, four miles away, and as I walked along I anticipated the pleasure with which I should put into the hands of my dear, hard-worked mother this, my first contribution in money to the family support.

Father had died four years before, leaving five children—four younger than myself—to be sustained by my mother's scant earnings; so Charley, who was two years younger than I, had felt, like myself, a pride in trying to help lift the heavy burden from her shoulders.

How rich we felt when he secured a place with one of the neighboring farmers for six months at $6 a month, and I was accepted as teacher in one of the out-lying districts of the town at $12 a month, thus securing an income of $18 a month! How many comforts that would bring to our humble home!

I think no millionaire ever felt richer than I did as I turned into the well-trodden path that led to the school-room door and thought of my earnings in my pocket-book.

I was greeted with a pleasant "Good-morning, Miss Graham!" from the children scattered about the playground, and little Ruth Mason, my brightest scholar and particular favorite, met me at the door and gave me a large bunch of fragrant lilacs. I bent and kissed the pale little face, which, although it wore a bright smile now, had usually a sad expression, very pitiful for one so young.

As I arranged my flowers in a broken-handled pitcher, the only substitute for a vase the school-room afforded, I hummed lightly to myself snatches of a merry song.

It was time to open school, and taking the heavy, old-fashioned bell I stepped to the window overlooking the playground, but paused before ringing, and leaned out to inhale the pure, fresh air, and to admire the beauty of the scene. Beneath the window was a group of girls, talking earnestly, and not aware that I was so near.

"Well, if I was Ruth Mason," Anna Ransom said, scornfully, "I'd stay at home if I couldn't find anything better to wear than that old, faded, patched-up calico dress, and that horrid old poke of a sun-bonnet." She glanced complacently down at her own pretty blue cashmere dress, and the leghorn hat with its bright plaid scarf, which she was swinging in her hands.

"By next week she will be coming to school barefooted, just as she did last summer," chimed in Mattie Barber, another of my would-be fine scholars, who always echoed Anna's sentiments. "If my father was such a shiftless stick as hers is, and couldn't give me decent clothes to wear, I'd stay at home. I know I wouldn't show myself among respectably-dressed people if I was such a pitch-upon-patch-pitch-patch," and loud, derisive laughter came from the girls at Mattie's would-be witty nickname.

I was too astonished and indignant to speak or move for a moment. Could it be possible that these girls, in their cruel thoughtlessness, had been accustomed to speak in this manner of poor little Ruth's garments, and was that the reason she was so shy and diffident, and her face wore such a sad, unchild-like expression?

I looked around anxiously to see if she had heard their heartless sneers. She was entering the school-room, not ten feet from the group of girls, and must have heard every word, as her tormentors evidently intended she should.

The pained look on her pale face, and the tears in her eyes, told plainly how keenly she felt their unkindness. I hastened to her, and putting my arm about her slender form, drew her head against my shoulder.

"Don't mind it, Ruthie, dear," I said, kissing her. "You have something far better than fine clothes. This little head," passing my hand softly over her brown hair, "holds what is of far more value."

She raised her eyes to mine with a grateful look, and nestled closer to my side.

"But it does hurt me so, Miss Graham," she said almost in a whisper, while her lips trembled, and the tears came to her eyes. "I can't help wishing sometimes," she continued, as soon as she could command her voice, "that I could have things like the other girls; but mother works so hard, and does the best she can for us, and I don't want to say one word."

Dear, patient, brave little soul. I drew her closer to me, and felt a choking sensation in my throat, and tears filled my eyes, but I was too indignant to let them fall.

"They shall never talk so to you again, if I can help it," I said decidedly. "You are worth more than the whole crowd put together, and sometime you will win a position where you can look down upon them." It flashed over me suddenly that these were hardly the proper sentiments to instill into her mind, and I added, less indignantly, "but I think then you will only pity their folly and ignorance."

Ruth's tears ceased, and with a faint attempt to smile she raised her eyes with a look of loving gratitude.

"You are so kind, Miss Graham," she said, softly. "I shall not mind it so much now."

I kissed her again, and with my arm still about her, led her to a seat.

"They are only thoughtless," I said, with a parting caress, "they will be ashamed of it some day." But notwithstanding I tried to speak gently, I was filled with indignation at their cruelty.

Ruth's family, I knew, was very poor. Her father had inherited a fair amount of property, but, honest and simple-hearted as a child, he had trusted too much to others, who had taken advantage of his lack of business shrewdness, until the last acre of the family estate had been lost, and his wife and children reduced to the depths of poverty. Naturally weak and inefficient, his heavy losses seemed to completely break his courage, and but for the energetic, hard-working mother the family would have suffered even for food.

There were four children younger than Ruth, and it must have cost a severe struggle to provide so many with sufficient clothing, even for comfort, and it was no wonder Ruth so seldom had a new dress.

Her garments were always clean, though patched and darned as long as they would hold together.

She was a slender, delicate child of 11 years, whose large, active brain was draining too freely her vital powers; but she was so quick and bright, such a fine scholar—holding her place easily among those two or three years older than herself—that my pride and pleasure in her talents blinded me to the fact that her love for study was wearing out her frail little body.

She was so gentle and patient, so unselfish and affectionate, that I had become strongly attached to her, and praised her gifts perhaps a little unwisely, as it made my opinion of the dullness of the others more conspicuous.

Anna Ransom and Mattie Barber were particularly backward and slow to learn. They both came of families no members of which had ever been distinguished for scholarly tastes or ability. The fathers of both girls were men whose whole souls were absorbed in the pursuit of the almighty dollar. Anna's mother was vain and silly, caring for nothing so much as fine clothing, while Mrs. Barber had been a "hired girl" in the family of her husband's father, and that fact only made more ridiculous the lofty way in which she looked down on those of her neighbors who were poorer than herself.

I had noticed the silly way in which some of the girls treated Ruth, but had before no idea of the extent to which her school-fellows carried their cruelty. What I had just heard touched me very deeply, for I, too, knew poverty; had worn old dresses, lived on plain and scanty fare; but no one had ever been so thoughtless or so cruel as to reproach me with it.

My father had been a clergyman, honored and respected by all who knew him, and when his early and sudden death left my mother alone with five little ones dependent upon her, we felt the pinch of want; but we had always been treated with kindness and respect.

I had been taught to look upon honest poverty as no disgrace, and the scorn and contempt with which poor little Ruth was treated aroused my deepest indignation.

Soon after calling the school to order I sent Ruth out upon an errand, and then repeated to the scholars the conversation I had just overheard. I gave no names, but dwelt earnestly upon the injustice of such conduct, and expressed the hope that this might be the last time I should be pained by such unkindness in any of my scholars.

The two girls had the good grace to look ashamed at the reprimand, but I feared the impression would be but temporary.

During my four-mile walk home that night my mind was filled with thoughts of Ruth. All my happy exaltation of the morning was gone; even the precious $12 in my pocket were almost forgotten, for the sorrow of dear little Ruth was uppermost in my mind.

On reaching home I poured all my troubles into the ears of a dear, sympathizing mother, who was to me the embodiment of all earthly wisdom.

"Possibly they are more scornful to Ruth because they are jealous. You are not quite wise, dear, to praise her so freely and openly," was my mother's gentle comment.

"But how can I help praising and loving her when she is so bright and lovable, and others so stupid and vain?"

"I know, dear; but try and not make the contrast quite so sharp between them."

I returned to my school on Monday morning with new resolutions.

"I will be more discreet in future, and give them no occasion to ill-treat Ruth," I said to my mother at parting. "But I will praise and pet her all the more when we are alone, for the dear child seems so sad and friendless."

"Be 'wise as a serpent, and harmless as a dove,'" mother quoted, as she kissed me good-bye.

Ruth met me at the school-house door with her smile of welcome, and with the usual bunch of flowers. No matter how poor might be the inside of their house, Mrs. Mason and Ruth were such ardent lovers of flowers that their yard looked like fairyland through all the warm season.

As the day wore on I saw that Ruth seemed either very much depressed or languid, and, for the first time since she had been my pupil, she missed in one of her lessons.

It was one of those very warm days of early summer which come upon us when we are wholly unprepared for such heat, and I attributed the change in Ruth to the weather.

The next day and again on Wednesday she was not at school. I wondered at this, and felt some anxiety, too, for she had never been absent before. After the close of school I went to her house. Her mother met me at the door with a grave face.

"Ruth is very sick," she said in answer to my inquiries. "She has spoken of you several times, and will be glad to see you."

I found my little pupil looking wan and wasted by even so short an illness. A quick, happy look flashed over her face as she recognized me, and both hands were stretched out in eager welcome.

"It's so good of you to come, Miss Graham," she said, softly, as I bent to kiss her.

She was so weak that even this little attempt at conversation seemed to exhaust her, so I sat beside her holding her feverish hand in one of mine, while I passed my other hand over her forehead and beautiful brown hair, thinking of the great things I had hoped for her.

"I fear she has studied too hard," Mrs. Mason said, while the look of anxiety deepened in the careworn face, "but she is so fond of her books, and especially since you came, she cannot bear to lose a single lesson. If it were not for—"

"Please don't, mother!" Ruth interrupted gently, and the mother was silent.

What was it? had the girls been tormenting her again, I wondered, but did not like to ask her.

The next night I called again, but Ruth was delirious and no longer recognized me. She lay with closed eyes and flushed face; her head and hands in constant, restless motion, talking incoherently to herself. Suddenly her eyes opened; she shrank back upon her pillow, while her hands were outstretched entreatingly.

"I can't go, mother!" she cried, piteously. "Oh, I can't go; the girls talk so about my old dress, and my sunbonnet, and shoes, and it hurts me so! Please let me stay at home." Then her voice fell to a plaintive moan. Oh, no, I must go! I must learn all I can so I can teach and help mother. I mustn't mind them. Oh, Miss Graham! in an agony of entreaty which wrung my heart, "don't let them! please, don't let them! It hurts me so!"

"Oh, Ruthie, dear, they shall never do it again!" I cried, dropping on my knees beside her bed, while the tears streamed down my face. I took the fever-hot hands in mine and kissed the little flushed face, but she did not heed me; for a moment, only, she remained quiet, then began again her piteous ravings.

"She has been so all day," her mother said, with a groan that cut me to the heart. "She came home Monday night and cried herself to sleep, because the girls were so unkind to her. They were vexed over your reproof Friday, and then got her alone on Monday and talked to her worse than ever. They seemed to have a spite against her because you took her part. She was almost broken-hearted over it and was too sick to leave her bed by morning. I think the heat and so much study have weakened her, but she would have come out all right only for the girls—they have killed her."

There was terrible bitterness and sorrow in Mrs. Mason's voice as she turned away to hide her emotion.

"I will bring Anna and Mattie here to-morrow and let them see the effect of their cruelty," I said indignantly through fast-falling tears; I hope it may teach them a lesson."

The next day I told the girls of Ruth's dangerous illness, and asked them to go with me to her home. They were reluctant at first, but without giving my reasons for desiring their company, I so wrought upon their feelings that at last they went with me.

There was no change in the poor little sufferer's condition. She lay as yesterday, with head and hands in constant motion, scarcely for a moment ceasing in her low, incoherent ravings. I bent over her and spoke her name, but, though the large, dark eyes at last opened, there was no sign of recognition in them. Her glance moved slowly from one to the other in the room, but it was evident her mind was wandering and she did not know them.

Gradually her words became more connected, and she repeated the same piteous story yesterday. Stretching out her hands toward the girls, though she still gave no sign of seeing them, she exclaimed: "Oh, Mattie, Anna, don't, please don't! I never harmed you; what makes you treat me so about my dress? I can't help it! I wouldn't say so if you had to wear it!" ending with the same heart-rending cry of yesterday: "Oh, it hurts me so!"

The girls had stood looking on, pale and trembling, and at her repeated pathetic cries they broke into sobbing, and ran out of the room.

"They will never do it again," I said to the worn and weary mother. "This lesson will last a lifetime."

"I hope so, but it has come too late," was her hopeless response.

"Oh, no; Ruth is young, and naturally strong. She will rally from this, I know she will."

With the hopefulness of youth I firmly believed it. I could not endure the thought for a moment of anything so cruel as that my dear little Ruth should die now, just when all the future looked fairest for her. I pictured to myself bright scenes of what her school-days might be with all her mates striving by kindness to atone for the past.

I returned to her after the close of school the following day, and her mother, without a word, led me to her bedside.

The restless head and hands were still, and the lips wore a smile of perfect peace. Never again would her ears be pained or her heart ached at cruel taunts over her old garments; dear little Ruth had put on a dress which would never grow old—the white robe of immortality.—Youth's Companion.

The Dangers of Coal Mining.

This mine, while one of the largest, was also one of the most dangerous in the valley. In order to keep the workings supplied with pure air, in quantity sufficient to render harmless the explosive gases released by opening the coal-seams, an immense fan had been constructed which, during every minute that it was in action, drew forth from the mine over 200,000 cubic feet of impure air. Even with this great air-current, there were still very dangerous parts of the mine, requiring the utmost vigilance from the miners. To hear of some miner or laborer firing the gas in his chamber, and being burned thereby, was a matter of almost weekly occurrence. In pits of this character, where there is a plentiful air-current, it is often a custom with miners to "fire" the gas in their working-places before a quantity sufficient to render its combustion dangerous accumulates. When this is done, the gas will take fire with a noise not unlike that made in lighting a common gas-jet. There is such an excess of air that the explosion of the gas is very weak and harmless. The flame, often three or four feet deep, will travel along the uneven roof, showing beautiful colors varying from a deep, dark blue to a brilliant crimson; and in it shine stars of dazzling white light, showing that fine particles of coal-dust suspended in the air are burning in the great heat of the gas. Sometimes this flame will travel close up against the roof, slowly to and fro, several times, until all the gas has been burned away.

When the flame dies out, the burnt gases (the "black" or "after-damp") being heavier than the air, fall to the floor. So the coal-miner is ever exposed to two great dangers; the first, that of being burned; the second, that of being suffocated after he has escaped the fire.—Roy McTavish, in St. Nicholas.

Foreign Curios Made at Home.

I have known the time when a bronze catch for a Japanese cooly's tobacco pouch was worth a great deal, and a man who had a piece of Japanese lacquer or a vase was a man above the common. Now they make Satsuma ware in America, and export Chinese bronze josses for popular worship from Birmingham to China. Curios? What's the use of paying big prices for curios when they can lie about them just as easy? I know a lady who has a beautiful set of china, which is the admiration of her friends. She says it came from Japan and is 800 years old. I know she bought it in Oakland, and it never saw Japan. Another has an old lamp that was supposed to have burnt in the Temple of Diana, goodness knows how many centuries ago. She fished it up in a second-hand store on Third street, and the proprietor of the store bought it with the effects of an Irishwoman who made a fortune in a mine and sold out all the old trunk she brought from Ireland. I have myself seen the Japanese curio merchants pay $1 apiece for brass imitation Japanese hairpins, made in Birmingham, and sold by auction in Nagasaki, and I've seen the wily foreigner pay them $5 for the same pin and send it home as a great curio. Everything seems to grow plentiful, even the oldest kind of relics.—San Francisco Chronicle.

An analysis of "mystery gold" reveals an alloy of copper, silver, gold, aluminum, and iron, the last probably being an impurity. Even when present in small proportion, the aluminum resists the nitric acid test.

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—Fire and water damaged General Withington's residence at Jackson $12,000.

—Martin Bros., dealers in dry-goods, groceries, etc., at Huron, have assigned, with assets and liabilities about $50,000.

—The exhortations of a woman evangelist, a Scandinavian, in Menominee County, have caused great excitement. Eight persons have already become insane, and it is feared that unless the authorities interfere, a new lunatic asylum will have to be built.

—Advance figures from the forthcoming Michigan monthly crop report indicate but 68 per cent. of an average crop of wheat. The crop of 1887 was 22,815,000 bushels. The condition of this year's crop is reported 21 per cent. lower than one year ago, and the outlook is most discouraging.

—When the morning freight of the Milwaukee and Northern was crossing the Michigamme River, at Floodwood, the bridge went down, the engine and eight cars going through. The engineer, fireman and head brakeman were on the engine and went down with her. Only the engineer escaped, the other two being instantly killed.

—The Canadian Pacific will shortly be extended to Detroit, at least so says James F. Joy, the President of the Wabash. The advantage, said Mr. Joy, of such connection, and the immense business it must command, are so apparent as to need no comment. The Pacific already has a line from Toronto to St. Thomas. It will be extended to Detroit as soon as the road is satisfied of the reorganization of the Wabash.

—Bay City painters have organized a union.

—Petoskey Presbyterians will erect a $5,000 church.

—The Soo has put in an electric fire-alarm system.

—A new electric fire alarm system has been put in at Lansing.

—Fire destroyed the residences of W. B. Boutwell and John Tambrer, and five barns, at Hillsdale. Loss, $10,000.

—Oliver Valiquette, a well-to-do farmer of LaSalle, dropped dead in his dooryard. He was born in Monroe County fifty years ago and was highly respected.

—While sawing a log of large dimensions at the block works at Northville a fifty-eight-inch circular saw burst, the pieces flying in every direction. Several men narrowly escaped being killed.

—The sixth annual meeting of the Macomb County Sheep Breeders and Wool Growers' Association was held at the barns of the Fearnought Driving Park, at Romeo. The meeting was not only large but was up to those of former years.

—Dr. Edmund S. Dunster, professor of obstetrics and diseases of women and children in the University of Michigan, is dead. He was a graduate of Harvard, and went to the University of Michigan in 1871. He was an eminent man in his profession and contributed many valuable papers to medical literature during his life.

—About three weeks ago John Sailor escaped from the Kalamazoo Insane Asylum bareheaded and without shoes or stockings, and was not found for several days, when he was discovered in a shed in a dying condition. He had been living on grass and water, and not very much water, he said, for three weeks, and had tried to hang himself with strips of his clothing several times, but failed. He will probably die from exposure.

—A badly mutilated body, supposed to be that of William Lavender, aged 62, was found in the snow near the highway, three miles from Mancelena.

—The State pharmacy law requires that every drug store shall be in charge of a registered pharmacist. Since August, 1887, the State Board has arrested thirteen unregistered pharmacists, and eleven of these were convicted.

—Boggs Bros., of Cheboygan, report the sale of about $16,000,000 feet of lumber so far this season.

—Comparatively little is known of the celery interests in Jackson, says the Pilot, and what promises to become one of the leading industries. Only a few years ago the land which is now utilized to grow this product was considered almost worthless, being low, wet ground, covered with tamarack and willows, but has by proper drainage and fertilizing become very productive, and will grow anything that can be raised on the uplands. In 1885 Mr. Heyser planted five acres to celery, and in 1887 fourteen acres, from which latter venture a profit of about $5,000 was realized. This year he will put in thirty-eight acres, and will set 800,000 plants, requiring 35,000 plants to the acre. This setting usually commences in May and lasts until July 15, and that which is set in May is ready for market in July. It will require thirty laborers from May to December to take care of thirty-eight acres, and the estimated yield is said to amount to $1,200 per acre, figuring the celery at fifty cents per dozen. Last year celery was sent from Jackson to all points that could be conveniently reached by express, and it is stated that the demand greatly exceeded the supply. One firm in Cleveland, which wanted 250 dozen per day, could only get from fifty to 100 dozen per day. It is estimated that there are eighteen or twenty celery growers in Jackson County, cultivating all the way from one-half to twenty-five acres each.

SAURDAY, MAY 12, 1888.

STEP into the store of Boot & Krauer and see the new silk rug just purchased by A. C. Van Raalte Post, G. A. R. The "boys" feel very proud of their color banner, and rightly too, for they paid for it by voluntary contribution among themselves.

LAST Thursday a man by the name of M. Milman, of West Olive, was hired to move the household goods of a tenant living in a house owned by Mr. Gokey of that village. Mr. Gokey ordered the man to not drive over a certain part of the grounds and a dispute arose. Milman drew a revolver and Gokey came here and swore out a warrant for Milman's arrest. The trial comes off May 11th.—Grand Haven Evening Tribune.

FROM a dispatch to the Chicago Herald dated Ashland, Wis., May 9, we take the following concerning a boat which formerly hailed from Holland and in which possible some of Holland's citizens are still interested: "Grave fears are expressed for the safety of the steamer S. B. Barker, which left the port of Bayfield, after lying in the bay near this port all winter, for Duluth on Monday morning. The boat is undoubtedly fast in the ice in the lake between Bayfield and Duluth, and although she has a large cargo of coal and plenty of provisions, there are doubts that there is enough of either to withstand the long siege which will be the result of the rashness of the captain. Besides, a boat is not strong enough to be proof against the heavy ice which floats about, and which, in case heavy winds blow, is liable to crush the steamer and cause her to founder. The Barker is the property of Captain Flynn, of Duluth, who has just purchased her from Captain Brower. She has for three or four seasons been on the Chequamegon Bay trade. There are three or four men on board, who compose the crew."

OUT AROUND.

Grand Haven.

May 10.

"Summer guests" have already commenced to arrive at the Cutler House.

The Fruitport Cornet Band visited us last Monday and serenaded our new band.

Strawberries made their first appearance in our market this week, only 25 cents per box.

The Chicago and West Mich. R'y officials are talking of running a track from their main line to near Highland Park.

W. J. Scanlan gives a delightful entertainment at the Opera House Wednesday evening next. The tickets will be only one dollar each.

M. B. Hopkins has bought out the interest of his partner, A. S. Kedzie, in the Grand Haven Herald, and will hereafter conduct the paper alone.

A lively row occurred at Peach Plains on last Sunday in which men by the names of Harris, Gribenow, Bird, Wilkins, and Grinebul, on one side, and Branch and Pennington on the other were engaged. Pennington was badly pounded. One man drew a knife, another a gun, and altogether it was a very disgraceful affair.

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Promptly at one o'clock on Tuesday the Democratic County Convention was called to order. Dr. J. N. Reynolds was made chairman and L. T. Kanfers secretary. The work of choosing delegates to the State Convention was then proceeded with, the various towns of the county having delegates named, and Thomas Savidge, of Spring Lake, was made chairman of the delegation. The other members of the delegation were Thos. Heffernan, Eastmanville; Wm. Benjamin, Holland; Geo. Connelly, Crocker; Jas. Fryer, Wright; Roswell Lillie, Polkton; John D. Everhard, Zeeland; Geo. D. Sanford, Grand Haven; H. Miller, Chester; L. T. Kanfers, Holland; D. Miedema, Holland Town; John Mulder, Spring Lake; and Wm. Baxter, Talmadge.

V. W. Seely, of this city, addressed the convention in a lively speech. The delegates were instructed to support the Hon. Thomas Savidge, of Spring Lake, as a delegate to the National Convention. The County Committee is composed of the following gentlemen:

Samuel O. Eames, chairman; A. Wagner, Polkton; L. T. Kanfers, Holland; John J. Wiseman, Crocker; Dr. Wm. Van den Berg, Olive; Thos. Savidge, Spring Lake; John D. Everhard, Zeeland; James K. Bennett, Chester; D. Miedema, Holland Town; C. M. Pauser, Allendale; George B. Sherban, Georgetown; Wm. Baxter, Talmadge; I. H. Sanford, Grand Haven; George Richardson, Jamestown; Wm. Sessions, Wright; G. Reece, Robinson; T. E. Gidley, Grand Haven Town; O. M. Sherburn, Blendon.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the convention:

1st, That we heartily and unequivocally endorse President Cleveland's administration. In his appointments to office, his acts in purifying the civil service, his honest declaration that "a public office is a public trust," and in his recent message to Congress as expressive of true Democratic principles in the interests of the whole people.

2nd, That war taxes should not be maintained in time of peace, and that the levying of a tariff of 40 to 100 per cent under the pretext of protecting American labor, is a fraud upon that labor in the interest of monopolies.

3rd, That we heartily endorse the action of Congress for its liberal provisions for the support of disabled Union soldiers.

4th, That we denounce the last Republican legislature of this State for its wild and needless expenditure of public money, thereby largely increasing our State taxes.

Lake Shore.

May 9.

Mr. John Eddy went to Illinois last week and will remain there for some time.

Ernest Souther came here from Shelby to attend the funeral of his sister. He will return on Saturday.

Mr. Alfred Souther, of Shelby, was here on Tuesday last to attend the funeral of his niece, Mrs. Caswell.

The people in this vicinity have nearly all got their corn ground ready and are waiting patiently for suitable weather for planting.

John Ausicker has taken fifteen acres of N. W. Oden and will plant it to beans. He planted five acres of potatoes about the 15th of April last.

Henry Ausicker and the two boys of N. W. Oden who are working for the Hedge Company are well suited with their employer and the work.

Otto Johnston has gone to Ohio where he will visit relatives, and then he expects to go to Kentucky where he will remain for the summer.

The weather has been so cold that we are of the opinion that some of our early planted potatoes will have to be replanted with fresh seed.

Died, of heart disease, at 10 o'clock p. m., on the 6th inst., Mrs. Alice Caswell, beloved wife of Martin G. Caswell, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Souther. The deceased leaves a child about six weeks of age. She had been quite sick for some time after the birth of her little girl, but at the time of her death was considered to be in fairly good health. On Sunday evening Mr. Caswell went to one of the neighbors on an errand and coming home at ten, he knocked on the door calling his wife's name; she answered him and was going to get up and let him in, but her sister, who was sleeping with her, told her to lie still and she would get up and let him in. She unlocked the door and on returning to bed saw Mrs. Caswell throw up her arms and roll up her eyes as if in a fit. She called to Mr. Caswell and he ran into the room and raised his wife up, but she only gasped two or three times and was a corpse. She was a lady of exemplary character, a good christian, and was beloved by the whole community in which she lived. The funeral services were held at the Methodist E. Church at 2 o'clock p. m., on Tuesday, May 8, the Rev. H. D. Jordan officiating. The deceased was 23 years and 8 months of age. "JAKE."

Zeeland.

May 10.

Rev. and Mrs. M. Kolyn, of Spring Lake, are visiting relatives and friends here.

L. T. Kanfers, of Holland, is erecting one of his Diamond Wind Mills for Dr. Baert.

Henry De Kruif, Albert Lahnis, and C. Van Loo were delegates to the Republican State Convention which met at Grand Rapids last Tuesday.

M. Van den Bosch, Jr., has sold his house and lot to Wm. Van Slooten, the gentleman who has just bought an interest in the elevator of L. P. Van der Velde.

The people of Zeeland had the pleasure of hearing an able and instructive sermon by the Rev. A. Pfanzagl, of Columbia, Mo., at the First Reformed Church on last Sabbath evening. "TIM."

Ottawa Station.

May 10.

Thomas Watson has got a new front gate.

Timothy Roberts is quite sick with a severe cold and sore throat.

Professor Bolt failed to put in an appearance on Wednesday evening and fill his regular appointment in his singing school.

Baldwin Headley's wife and little grand-daughter have been quite sick again lately, and Dr. Mabbs, of Holland, has been called to give them medical attendance.

The W. C. T. U., of this place, held an open meeting at the home of Charles Carey on Wednesday evening. The pledge was circulated at the close of the meeting and several new members added. The Union will hold open meetings in future once in four weeks and extend a general invitation for all to attend.

The Olive Center Grange which has been lying in a sort of comatose state for the past two years, has recently awakened to life and activity again. Enough of the old members were got together to re-organize and elect all the necessary officers. Last Saturday night seven new members were taken in, and several others are awaiting admission on application. This Grange was formerly one of the most flourishing in this part of the state, but for the past two years, until recently, has exhibited a doubtful existence.

Mrs. Bartlett, an aged lady, died here at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lick, on Tuesday. Funeral services will be held on Thursday. Mrs. Bartlett came here from Canada, the place of her former home, about a year ago. She was quite feeble with the infirmities of age at that time, and has been gradually failing ever since, for several months being confined to her bed and helpless. Her family all reside in Canada except Mrs. Lick, her daughter, with whom she has lived since coming to Michigan.

The W. C. T. U. of this place has been beset with a severe trial lately that has drawn away a few of its members. The cause of the trouble originated with the recording secretary, who somehow acquired the idea that she was born to rule, and took great offence because a large majority entertained a different opinion. In order to show her determination and grit she refuses to deliver up the book in which the records of the society have been kept for the past year, although her term of office has expired and her successor been elected.

Quite a novel occurrence took place one day last week in the immediate vicinity of West Olive. One of our citizens went down there to get a barrel of pork that had been ordered shipped to that place from some other locality. It became evident before proceeding to a great distance on the way home that said barrel of pork was sadly intoxicated. It rolled and pitched about to such an extent that it soon succeeded in spite of all restraint in making its escape from the wagon. This so excited the driver, and caused such a strain upon his nervous system, that his physical and mental powers were rendered almost useless, to that extent at least as to require the aid of two men who kindly volunteered to assist him to his home in safety. We hope that this severe shock that has been sustained may not prove fatal, and that the barrel may not suffer serious injury from the corroding effects of the alcohol supposed to have been poured into it. It is reported that the alcohol used for this purpose was procured at Gokey's store. "ANDREW."

The Common Council met pursuant to adjournment and was called to order by the Mayor.
Present: Mayor De Roo, Ald. Carr, Keppel, De Vries, De Merell, Kramer, Van Patten, Van Ark, and Rogers, and the Clerk.
Reading of the minutes and the regular order of business was suspended.
The Clerk reported that the bond of Cornelius Blom, with Cornelius M. Blom, Jr., and Martinus Jonkman, as sureties, had been returned canceled.—Filed.
Liquor Dealer's Bond, Henry D. McDuffee, as principal, and Cornelius M. Blom, Jr., and Martinus Jonkman, as sureties, was presented for approval.—Bond and sureties approved.
Marshal's Bond, Edward Vanpell, as principal, and John C. Post and Tannis Keppel, as sureties, were presented for approval.—Bonds and sureties were approved.
The Marshal recommended the appointment of Charles Odell as special police, without compensation from the city, as he is now engaged as night watchman and not having been re-elected as Constable would not have authority to arrest anyone without some kind of an appointment.—Laid upon the table until Monday night, May 7th, 1888.
By the City Attorney—
GENTLEMEN:—I beg leave to report to your Honorable body that the Township of Holland has paid the full amount of costs assessed against it in the case of the Commissioner of Highways of Holland Township vs. The City of Holland and Peter Koning, as more particularly itemized in the bill of costs hereto attached, and made a part of this report, all of which sum has been paid to the city treasurer, as will appear by his receipt hereto attached, viz: $223.15. Dated, May 4th, 1888.
G. J. DIEKEMA, City Attorney.
—Report accepted, ordered placed on file and the treasurer charged with the money.
Ald. Rogers moved that an order be drawn on the treasurer in favor of G. J. Diekema, City Attorney, for $30.00, taxed to the Township in the injunction suit as attorney fees.—Carried.
On motion of Ald. De Vries council went into the Committee of the Whole on the salary ordinance. The Mayor appointed Ald. De Vries chairman. After some time spent therein the committee arose and reported that they had had under consideration an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance to provide for the payment of certain city officers for the year A. D. 1888," and recommended that said ordinance do pass.—Report and recommendation adopted and the ordinance placed on its third reading. HOLLAND, Mich., May 7th, 1888.

Present: Mayor De Roo, Ald. Carr, De Vries, Kramer, Van Patten, Van Ark, and Rogers, and the Clerk.

Sipp, one month's salary as clerk, $41.66; Edward Vanpell, one month's salary as marshal, $25.00; William Verbeek, one month's salary as treasurer, $22.91.—Allowed and warrants ordered issued on the city treasurer for the several amounts.
HOLLAND, Mich., May 7th, 1888.
GENTLEMEN:—Your committee to whom was referred the report of the Board of Water Commissioners recommending the laying of a six-inch cast iron water pipe on the north side of Ninth street, from Fish street to Pine street, thence on the east side of Pine street to Tenth street, and also the laying of a six-inch cast-iron water pipe on the north side of Eleventh street, from River street to Maple street, with hydrants, gates, etc., would respectfully report that we have examined the ground and we recommend that their communication be approved and adopted, for the following reasons: The water mains surrounding the proposed extension are too small, consisting entirely of four-inch pipe west of River street. The proposed extension consisting of six-inch pipe would materially increase the pressure on those already laid thus giving better service. The property in the vicinity is being rapidly built up and increasing in value and the revenue derived from consumers ought soon to pay the interest on the investment. Property holders in this district are paying taxes to support our Water Works system and should be placed in a position to share in its benefits. We further recommend that the Board of Water Commissioners be instructed to submit plans, specifications and estimates for doing said work, as soon as possible. We also recommend that the following resolution be adopted:
Resolved, That the report of the Committee on Ways and Means relative to the extension of water mains, etc., be and is hereby accepted, and that the sum of $4,500.00 be raised for the purpose of prosecuting said work, and that bonds of the city be issued and negotiated to the amount of $4,500.00 for the purpose of paying the said sum for said work. That said bonds be issued for $1,500.00 each, the first to be paid February 1st, 1891, and $1,500.00 on each year following until the whole is paid, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable annually, on the first day of February of each year, or at a less rate of interest if the said bonds can be negotiated at a less rate of interest. All of which is respectfully submitted. Frank H. Carr, D. De Vries, John Kramer, Committee on Ways and Means.
—Laid on the table until the next meeting.
The Mayor reported having appointed Charles Odell as policeman without compensation from the city and subject to the conditions of the ordinance governing in the case.—Approved.
The Board of Water Commissioners reported having appointed John Benkens and Peter Winter engineers at the Water Works at a salary of fifty dollars per month, subject to the approval of the Common Council.—Approved.
The Clerk reported oath of office of Simon Den Uyl, Justice of the Peace, on file in the City Clerk's office.—Filed.

ALUM BAKING POWDERS.
Declared Adulterated Food and Their Sale Illegal.
The result of a trial just concluded at Canton, N. Y., before Judge Kellogg, will have a salutary effect in checking the sale of one class of adulterated food. Two men, named Moon and Akerill, were arrested for selling adulterated baking powder in violation of the State food adulteration act. The indictment was for both selling baking powders that were inferior, adulterated, and injurious to health by reason of being made from alum, and for selling them under pretense that they were a wholesome, cream of tartar baking powder. A stubborn defence was made, the claim being set up that baking powders were not articles of food and that the powder the defendants were selling, which was known as Gillett's, was a standard article of trade, and that alum baking powders inferior to it, like Davis' and others, were being sold by other dealers in the same town without complaint. The Court held that baking powders were articles of food within the meaning of the law, and the jury found the defendants guilty upon all the charges. The case has attracted much attention from being the first brought under the State Food Adulteration Act against dealers in alum baking powders. The result of the trial is to class such baking powders as adulterated articles of food and to make their sale illegal. There are many alum baking powders put up in cans, under some name and brand, in addition to those sold in bulk, the sale of all of which cautious dealers will probably be unwilling to continue.

A Woman's Discovery.
"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Luiz." Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at the drug stores of Yates & Kane, Holland, and A. De Kruif, Zeeland.

The platform reaffirms the principles laid down in the national platform of 1884; denounces the Democratic party for its failure to reduce the burden in the Treasury or to relieve the people of unnecessary taxation; declares in favor of an aggressive, not a defensive campaign, and for a leader in such a campaign we turn with one accord to Walter Q. Gresham.

The Pennsylvania Prohibition State Convention met at Harrisburg with about four hundred delegates. The Rev. John A. McConnell of Pittsburgh was made permanent Chairman without the usual speech.

The platform pledges the party to the policy of total prohibition by constitutional amendment; opposes all forms of license and denounces the high-license law as a delusion and a snare; demands the repeal of internal-revenue tax on liquor and tobacco; favors the election of President, Vice President, and United States Senators by direct vote of the people; advocates the settlement of national differences by national arbitration, and the settlement of differences between capital and labor by courts provided for such purposes; demands such correction of the tariff laws as will give full protection to the manufacturers and producing laborer against the competition of the world; asks such change in the immigration laws as will prevent the introduction of convicts, paupers, and those physically disabled, and the enforcement of laws prohibiting the importation of contract laborers, and declares for woman suffrage.

Delegates to the National Prohibition Convention were elected.

CONNECTICUT DEMOCRATS.

The State Convention Elects Delegates and Demands Tariff Reform.

The Connecticut Democratic State Convention met at Hartford, and organized by electing Col. Charles M. Joslyn, of Hartford, permanent Chairman. Col. Joslyn made a speech in which he eulogized President Cleveland, after which the following delegates to the National Convention were chosen and given power to appoint their own alternates:

1. Congressman R. J. Vance, of New Britain, and Congress L. Phillips, of Coventry.
  2. Charles A. Tomlinson, of Milford, and Clinton B. Davis, of Haddam.

IOWA DEMOCRATS FOR CLEVELAND.

A Resolution Indorsing Him for Renomination Adopted by the State Convention.

An Anti-Prohibitory Resolution Gives Rise to an Animated Debate.

Col. Charles A. Clark presided over the Iowa Democratic Convention, which met at Des Moines on the 2d inst. The Committee on Resolutions reported as follows:

1. The Democrats of Iowa in convention assembled indorse the administration of President Cleveland and commend his enforcement of all laws and his manly and courageous declaration for a reduction of useless war taxes, and his clean, honest, and economical administration of public affairs and the liberal, prompt and generous payment of all deserving pensions on meritorious claims.

2. We are opposed to the exercise of the taxing power for any but public purposes, and fully and unqualifiedly declare President Cleveland's message as the views of the Iowa Democracy on the tariff question. In the interest of American homes we demand free coastland blankets. In the interest of temperance and morality we oppose free whiskey and tobacco.

3. In appointments to all offices the duties of which may reflect the policies of the administration, persons should be selected whose principles harmonize with the party having the responsibilities of such administration. But subordinates should be selected and retained for their efficiency. Levying assessments upon officeholders for partisan purposes cannot be too strongly condemned, and we commend in the fullest extent our power, President Cleveland has made in the direction of the reform and elevation of the civil service.

4. We again declare our opposition to all prohibitory liquor laws in State or nation.

On the last plank there was a division of sentiment, and a minority report was presented which opposed the introduction of State issues into a convention called to select delegates to a national gathering. A warm and bitter debate followed, and resulted in the adoption of the plank and the sustaining of the majority report by a vote of 383 to 170.

For delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention the following were chosen: F. W. Lehman, Des Moines; J. C. Kelley, Sioux City; P. M. Ballingall, Ottumwa, and W. H. M. Pusey, Council Bluffs. For district delegates: First District—W. W. Baldwin, J. D. Hamilton; Second District—Moses Bloom, Thomas Lambert; Third District—Cato Sells, J. H. Seales; Fourth District—G. T. Bellamy, L. L. Ainsworth; Fifth District—C. A. Clark, J. E. Henriques; Sixth District—S. S. Caruthers, L. J. Anderson; Seventh District—W. H. McHenry, A. E. Morrison; Eighth District—W. E. Sprout, F. S. Whitmore; Ninth District—J. S. Tam, D. M. Wyland; Tenth District—J. J. Wilson, A. D. Keith; Eleventh District—F. D. Higgs, W. A. Willis. A full set of alternates was elected.

Some tabular effects were given prior to the regular proceedings, in which the portraits of Washington, Jackson, Jefferson, Tilden, Hancock and Cleveland were successively displayed, the band playing an appropriate air as each portrait was uncovered. The convention fairly went wild when Cleveland's portrait appeared, and then cheers were given for the first lady of the land. Other than the speeches of the temporary and permanent Chairmen there were no oratorical efforts. The business of the convention was quickly dispatched and the meeting adjourned in the best of spirits.

NEBRASKA DEMOCRATS.

The State Convention at Omaha Elects Delegates to St. Louis.

The Nebraska Democratic State Convention assembled at Omaha, and R. A. Battery was elected permanent Chairman. He made a brief speech in which he supported free trade, and said that Nebraska would send a solid Cleveland delegation to St. Louis.

After a stormy struggle between the opposing friends of James E. Boyd and the Hon. J. Sterling Morton the following delegates-at-large were chosen to attend the St. Louis convention: James F. Boyd, J. Sterling Morton, James E. North and Tobias Castor.

The following district delegates were elected: J. C. Crawford, J. E. Sherwin, J. J. McAllister, J. J. Meals.

The delegates were instructed to vote as a unit for President Cleveland's re-nomination. The platform urges legislation against trusts, and the forfeiture of unearned and grants; sympathizes with the oppressed of Ireland and other countries; recommends liberal pensions for Union veterans, and reprehends the keeping alive the hatreds of the civil war.

IDAHO REPUBLICANS.

Delegates Named and Delegate Dubois Indorsed.

The Idaho Republican convention met at Boise City. Col. Charles A. Wood presided. The Hon. W. B. Heyburn, a prominent lawyer of Coeur d'Alene, and George A. Black, a mining man of Hailey County, were elected delegates to the Chicago convention, with Willie Sweet and Joseph Pinkham as alternates. Delegate Dubois' action in Congress was strongly indorsed. Col. George L. Shoup was named for member of the National Committee. The delegates were not instructed.

The platform opposes the division of the Territory and denounces "the efforts of Senator Stewart to eliminate Idaho from the map of the United States"; opposes the placing of lead on the free list; favors the Mormon test oath and opposes Chinese immigration.

DAKOTA DEMOCRATS.

A Split in the State Committee Results in Two Conventions.

The Dakota Territorial Democratic Committee convened at Watertown, and the supporters of Governor Church being in the majority, it passed a resolution that the chairman of the district delegates submit their credentials to the committee. The day members of the committee denounced this as an outrage, Chairman Bangs growing particularly indignant, as he claimed the right to pass upon the credentials of delegates himself. It was decided to hold the Territorial Democratic Convention at Jamestown July 11.

The result of this action was two conventions were held. The day Convention chose as delegates to St. Louis Judge Bangs and T. J. Walsh, while the Church party named as delegates Col. Steele and Col. Maguire. Both bodies indorse Cleveland's administration, and declared for tariff reform.

Union Labor Party of Kansas.

The Kansas Union Labor party held its State convention at Topeka, and elected eight delegates to the National Convention at Cincinnati on May 15. They were instructed to oppose the nomination of a Presidential candidate by their party. A meeting of the State Central Committee was called early in June for the purpose of devising ways and means to propagate single land-tax ideas, in view of the present agitation on the subject of taxation in Kansas.

Utah Republicans.

At the Utah Republican Territorial Convention held in Ogden C. S. Varian of Salt Lake and John J. Daly of Park City were elected delegates to the National Convention at Chicago. No instructions were given.

JOSEPH W. PIFER.

Portrait and Biography of the Republican Nominee for Governor of Illinois.

Joseph W. Fifer, who has been nominated by the Republicans for Governor of Illinois, was born at Staunton, Va. In 1871, while yet a lad, his father settled in the western part of McLean County, Illinois, and began farming in a small way. The elder Fifer was very poor, and a rude log cabin sheltered him and his family. During the four years from 1871 to 1881 young Fifer was employed in the rough work of clearing his father's new farm and, when the state of the farm would permit, in the occupation of laying brick as the assistant of his father, who was a brickmason by trade.

In 1861 young Fifer and his brother, George H., enlisted in the Thirty-third Illinois Infantry. George H. Fifer, the elder brother, rose to be a lieutenant and was killed in the war at the battle of Fort Esperanza, Texas. Joseph served in the ranks as a private, until on July 12, 1863, he was desperately wounded in an assault on the rebel intrenchments at Jackson, Miss.

Late in 1861 the young soldier, having, by virtue of a strong constitution, recovered from his wound, entered the Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington. By dint of hard work in vacation times he kept himself in college, and graduated in 1867. In 1867, while still in college, he began the study of law, and in the year 1869 was admitted to the bar and hung out his shingle in the city of Bloomington. Two years later Mr. Fifer was elected corporation counsel of Bloomington and in 1872 State's Attorney. He held the latter office until 1880, when he was elected to the State Senate, in which body he served four years.

Mr. Fifer is six feet tall, spare of flesh, of a swarthy complexion, keen black eyes, with a heavy head of coarse black hair, now beginning to be tinged with gray.

son, Monroe, Morgan, Owen, and Putnam. From the Congressional Directory we reproduce this brief sketch of Col. Matson's life:

Courtland C. Matson, of Greencastle, was born at Brookville, Indiana, April 25, 1841; is a graduate of Indiana Asbury University; at the beginning of the war enlisted as a private in the Sixteenth Indiana Volunteers, and after one year's service in that regiment entered the Sixth Indiana Cavalry (Seventy-first Volunteers), and served in that regiment until October 1865, filling different intermediate grades up to that of Colonel of the latter regiment; after the war he studied law with his father, Hon. John A. Matson; entered the practice at his present home, and has so continued; was three times elected as Prosecuting Attorney of different counties in Indiana; was elected to the Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, and Forty-ninth Congresses, and was re-elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress as a Democrat, receiving 15,692 votes against 16,192 votes for Chase, Republican.

INDIANA FOR HARRISON.

The Republican Convention Indorses the Ex-Senator and Elects Harrison Delegates.

New Jersey Democrats Select Their Representatives to St. Louis—Other Conventions.

Ex-Secretary of the Navy Richard W. Thompson was chosen to preside over the Indiana Republican Convention, at Indianapolis. Although Gen. Harrison was indorsed as the "favorite son" of Indiana, the mention of Gresham's name excited wild enthusiasm. After the Chairman had made a half-hour speech the following resolutions were presented and adopted:

"1. The Republicans of Indiana, assembled in State Convention, present to the favorable consideration of the Republicans of the United States and of the National Convention to be held in the city of Chicago on the 19th of June the name of General Benjamin Harrison, their choice for candidate for President of the United States. A Republican without equivocation, always in the fore-front of every contest, devoted to the principles of the party with which he has been identified since its organization, prominent and zealous in all its campaigns, wise and trusted in its councils, serving with honorable distinction in the military and civil service of the Government, his great abilities, long and distinguished public life, and the force of his high character and unblemished reputation combine to make him one of the best-equipped and most available men that could be chosen to lead the party in the coming contest; therefore the delegates-at-large this day elected are instructed to vote and to work earnestly and persistently, together with the district delegates already chosen, to secure his nomination, exhausting every honorable means to accomplish that result.

"2. That the Republicans of Indiana, in convention assembled, send greeting to Senator J. J. Ingalls of Kansas for his scathing exposure of the treasonable record of Daniel W. Voorhees, a man who at the outbreak of the rebellion was in close accord and correspondence with the Southern conspirators; a man who, together with other Democratic time-serving politicians, declared the war to be the failure to endeavor to make it; a man who, as a member of Congress, sought to embarrass the Government in its legislation; a man who discouraged enlistments in the Union army by leading the volunteer Union soldier with opprobrious epithets; a man who bartered for arms to be used in a revolutionary uprising of secret treasonable societies, organized for the purpose of wresting Indiana from the Union, even at the expense of a bloody domestic war—in fine, a man who, while acting the part in war of the enemy of the Union soldier, now in peace, relying upon the oblivion of years, poses as his friend, and through fulsome flattery seeks his suffrage."

The convention then proceeded to the election of delegates. Albert G. Porter was unanimously elected by acclamation and accepted the honor in a brief speech. Col. R. W. Thompson, W. P. Calkins, Clem Strubelaker, J. N. Huston, Gen. J. M. Shackelford, and Gen. Lew Wallace were nominated. Calkins and Thompson withdrew, but the convention would not allow Col. Thompson to withdraw, and he was elected by acclamation. The ballot then proceeded, and resulted in the election of Huston and Strubelaker.

John P. Carr of White County, M. M. Hurley of Floyd, H. G. Thayer of Marion, and Stanton J. Peelle of Marion were chosen alternates. By common consent the delegation will go to Harrison first, but will be ready to go to Gresham whenever it is evident that the outside favors him.
