New City Manager Attends His First Council Meeting

New System Adopted As Council Proceeds Under New City Charter

Common Council held its first meeting Wednesday night under the city manager form of government.

Harold C. McClintock, newly appointed city manager, assumed his duties in Holland Tuesday and attended his first regular council meeting Wednesday.

With huge bouquets of tulips in council chambers in keeping with Tulip Time, the entire layout was new, with 12 desks for the 11 aldermen and city manager forming three sides of the square. The mayor's elevated platform, press table and desks for other city officers form the fourth side. The clerk's desk remains near the mayor's desk.

The new system of government calls for the city manager to read items from a prepared agenda with the clerk following up with communications and the like and returned to the manager for a recommendation. Then motions, discussions and final action is taken by council.

The new system seemed to speed up council work to some degree and a great deal of business was accomplished in less than 1 1/2 hours.

The council meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m., started at 8:45 p.m. because of a delay at the dinner honoring Tulip Time's distinguished guests, Netherlands Ambassador Jan Herman van Roijen and Gov. G. Mennen Williams in Durfee hall.

McClintock, who came here from Hutchinson, Kans., addressed council briefly and expressed appreciation for the warm welcome extended him. He quoted Ambassador van Roijen who said when people leave the Netherlands to immigrate to other lands, they are instructed to be "good citizens of the new land." The ambassador also said harmony seldom brings headlines and McClintock said he looks forward to harmony but does not expect perfect agreement all the time.

He said the city needs the support of the city employees—that employees are an important part of the city and should be compensated accordingly, but that real satisfaction comes from having a job done well. He sat down to applause.

Mayor Harrington responded saying "Holland is a good place to live and we challenge you to make it a better place."

"I accept the challenge," McClintock said.

Two Grand Haven Boys Keep Busy in Trouble

Grand Haven (Special)—Walter King, 17, of Grand Haven, has been mighty busy lately. City police reported that he has confessed stealing three cars participating in eight breaking and enterings, and one larceny from building since Tuesday.

King and a 13-year-old juvenile were taken into custody Wednesday after deserting a car which got stuck in the sand at Elk park near the Pontiac road in Muskegon county.

Wednesday morning, King allegedly stole a car belonging to Garland Lovelady, which he later abandoned. He and the juvenile then took another car belonging to Geason Douma, route 2, Holland, it is alleged, and took it to Muskegon. After abandoning that one, King said they then took part in several break-ins.

Traditional City Welcome Given To Dutch Envoy

The links of heritage and tradition of the old world and the new were renewed again today as Dr. Jan Herman van Roijen, Netherlands ambassador to the United States, visited Western Michigan communities.

The Ambassador and Madame van Roijen joined Gov. and Mrs. G. Mennen Williams at opening Tulip Time festivities here Wednesday and were honored at a dinner for 175 guests in the evening in the Juliana room at Durfee hall on Hope campus.

The Ambassador will return to Holland Friday to address the joint service club luncheon in honor of the subject, "The Economic Situation of the Netherlands and Dutch Participation in the Defense of Western Europe."

Dr. I. J. Lubbers, president of Hope college, presided at the dinner and Mayor Harry Harrington welcomed the guests and presented a pair of wooden shoes to the Ambassador. In his response, the Ambassador said he was known in the Netherlands not for speech making but for his silence. He was most gracious in his comments and said the Netherlands tries hard to train subjects to be good citizens and instruct them to be good citizens elsewhere when they leave the country.

On his arrival at Grand Rapids airport Wednesday, he expressed an opinion that a third World War can be avoided, but must maintain unity of purpose and I trust we shall do so.

Gov. Williams also extended a warm welcome to the Ambassador on behalf of the state of Michigan. He spoke in the evening and he and his family returned to Lansing.

Today, the ambassador laid a wreath on the grave of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg in Grand Rapids as a further token of the regard of the mother country for the Dutch-Americans here. Vandenberg, son of a Dutch immigrant who cobbled shoes in Grand Rapids, rose to a position of international prominence through his world affairs leadership in United Nations and as delegate to charter meetings on which the Netherlands, along with other European, nations, depends for world peace.

Festival Visitors Hurt When Hit by Motorbike

A mother and daughter visiting the Tulip Time festival from Coldwater were injured slightly when hit by a motorbike at the corner of River Ave. and 10th St., at 7:55 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Ruby Troyer, 39, and her daughter, Linda, 3, were taken to their home after the accident. Mrs. Troyer received a bruised arm and leg and a sore back, and Linda received a cut check and a bump on her head.

The accident involved a motorbike driven by Norm Scholten, 14, of 90 East 20th St. Scholten told officers he tried to stop when the light changed, but his bike skidded into the two pedestrians walking west across River Ave.

Three Cars Involved In Collision Tuesday

Three cars were involved in a bumper-to-bumper accident on 17th St. near Washington Ave. at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday. No one was injured.

The cars were driven by Josephine Dunnewin, 631 Bay Ave.; Ruth R. Dunn, 1891 South Shore Dr.; and Fred Van Den Belt, route 5.

The collision happened when the Van Den Belt and Dunn cars stopped in the line of traffic. The Dunnewin car struck the Dunn car in the rear, forcing it into the Van Den Belt vehicle. Mrs. Dunnewin was given a ticket for failure to observe assured clear distance.

Damage to the Dunnewin car was estimated at $150, and to the Dunn car at $200. The Van Den Belt vehicle received an estimated $50 damage.

When you're only six years old and can't see a parade because all the other people tower above you, it's nice to have an obliging daddy with a convenient shoulder. Klompen Dancer Hospital Patient

Ann Wierenga, one of the 1951 Klompen dancers, is in Holland hospital after swallowing half of a toothpick Wednesday night. The toothpick lodged in her throat below the voicebox and finally was worked down to her stomach after treatment by two doctors at the hospital.

Ann's condition today was described as "good." More x-rays are scheduled to be taken today, and they will help determine the length of her stay in the hospital, hospital authorities said.

The mishap occurred during performances of the dance Wednesday. At 7:30, the girls performed in the post office block, to be followed by participation in the pageant at Riverview park at 8:30. On the way to the park, Ann stopped at a drug store for a coke and chewed a toothpick as she proceeded to Riverview. The toothpick broke in half and lodged in her throat.

Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wierenga, 47 West 18th St. She is a junior at Holland high school and is in her third year as a Klompen dancer.

Tulip Festival Radio Coverage

There'll be microphones in evidence throughout Tulip Time—announcer and engineers and producers—and loops of transmission cord as they make their ways through the crowds or watch events from elevated vantage points—all to bring voice pictures to listeners.

Indications on the eve of Tulip Time 1951 were that at least five out-of-town radio stations would be represented here during the festival, in addition to WITC, which will give extensive coverage of events.

Stations definitely planning coverage include WFUR of Grand Rapids; WKWK of Muskegon which is expected to originate a segment of one of the mutual broadcasting system's programs; WKZO of Kalamazoo and WJEF of Grand Rapids, Columbia network affiliates which last year put a portion of the Tulip Time program on the Columbia net and may repeat this year; and WOOD of Grand Rapids.

It is probable that all the stations will transcribe most of their programs—probably on magnetic tape equipment—for later broadcast. This procedure, coming into almost universal use for this type broadcast, gives persons taking part an opportunity to hear the program on the air.

Case Adjourned

Grand Haven (Spec.)—The appeal case of Arthur C. Yost of Holland in the estate of Wendell A. R. Buss, deceased, which was scheduled for hearing in circuit court today was adjourned and will not be heard until the next term of court.

Retirement Case Still Not Settled

The position of Municipal Judge Cornelius vander Meulen and the current retirement plan of Holland city still wasn't solved by Common Council Wednesday night, but council took action to allow him to continue his work until a special committee consisting of the city attorney, prosecuting attorney and city manager studies the case and reports at the next meeting.

Meanwhile Prosecutor Wendell A. Miles has requested the attorney general for a ruling in the case of the local judge, who has reached retirement age and is eligible for a pension under the state operated retirement system.

Judge vander Meulen told council two weeks ago he has no desire to retire and suggested two alternatives—one that legislation on the matter is pending in the state senate and the other that he possibly may "retire from the retirement act."

The prosecutor entered the case after it was learned that the attorney general's office handles only requests from prosecuting attorneys, accompanied by briefs and recommendations. Prosecutor Miles has filed the necessary information.

Children's Parade Slated as Feature Of Day's Program

Dutch Costume Show At School Auditorium Will Follow Parade

With a wary eye turned skyward, and a hope for fair weather in the heart, Holland today began the second day of the 1951 Tulip Time festival.

Today is Children's Day, with the children's costume parade scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

This will be followed at 4 p.m. with a Dutch costume show at Holland high school auditorium. The costume show includes music, pageantry and folk dancing, all done in authentic old country costumes.

Regular features of the festival also will be offered today. Four performances of "Dutch Fantasies" are scheduled at the Woman's Literary club. "Fantasies" include folk dances, songs and novelties. Times of the show are 10 a.m., and 4:30, 8, and 9:15 p.m. The same schedule will be followed Friday and Saturday.

At 7:30 p.m. today, the Klompen dancers will give a performance in the post office block.

And at 8:30 p.m., the second performance of the pageant "Sunrise Tomorrow," will be given at Riverview park.

Confusing estimates of Wednesday's opening day crowd were offered by official observers.

Police department spokesmen estimated 35,000 visitors—less than last year's opening day. But Festival President W. A. Butler placed attendance at 86,953.

Wednesday's opening day activities went off as scheduled. Hundreds of visitors inspected Little Netherlands, the Netherlands museum, tulip farms and hobby show. Four performances of "Dutch Fantasies" attracted many, and the flower show opened at the Armory.

Street scrubbing activities and Volks parade officially opened the festival. Participating in the parade over visitor-lined city streets were six bands and six floats.

The parade began with town crier Hans Suzenar officially proclaiming the opening of Tulip Time. He was followed by Mayor Harry Harrington and uniformed aldermen making an inspection of city streets. The streets were found dirty and in need of scrubbing.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams accompanied Mayor Harrington on his inspection trip, but on the way back, joined the street scrubbers to wield a broom with gusto. The parade was led by four uniformed Holland policemen on motorcycles, who were followed by about 200 costumed street scrubbers of all ages. Then followed the crier and city council.

The six bands participating to provide the musical air included the American Legion band, Holland high school band, Holland Christian high school band, Holland junior high band, Christian junior high band and Holland grade school band, with more than 100 members.

Floats in the line of march included the Chamber of Commerce float, Dutch barrel organ, Holland Furnace pony hitch, and Washington Square merchants float. Decorated automobiles also were in the parade.

The parade wound up with the Klompen dancers, who presented the premier performance of "Through the Seasons with Tena and Dirk," the 1951 Klompen theme.

Other activities in the evening attracted large crowds of festival visitors. These included the Legion band concert in Centennial park, the oratorio, "The Creation," at Hope chapel, and the pageant, "Sunrise Tomorrow," at Riverview park.

Star Route Contract Is Open for Bidding

The government contract for post office deliveries between Holland and Grand Rapids is open to bids. Postmaster Harry Kramer said today.

Bids for the star route must be in Washington by June 14, Kramer said. Bids are available at the post office.

The job involves two daily round trips between Holland and Grand Rapids. Van Wieren and Streur of Holland at present hold the contract.

Christian Defense Full of Holes At Grand Haven

Grand Haven proved a stumbling block to Holland Christian's baseball club for the second time this season by humbling the locals, 6-3, on the Grand Haven diamond, Tuesday afternoon. In their first match this season, the Bucs stopped Coach John Ham's crew, 7-4.

The defeat gives the Hollanders a season mark of three victories and two defeats. On Friday, they trek to Grand Rapids to try to make it two in a row over the Grand Rapids Christian nine.

Christian's defenses made as many errors Tuesday at Grand Haven as it did in the first four games combined. Some sloppy fielding, good for four misplays, played a major role in the Maroon defeat. In addition, two Holland pitchers gave up eight hits and eight walks to make things easier for Grand Haven.

Floyd Brouwer started on the mound for Christian but was relieved in the fourth inning by southpaw Tony Diekema, whose regular spot is first base. Diekema came in with the sacks loaded and turned in a nice relief job to retire the next two batters in order. He gave up one run and two hits, during the remainder of the game. Puleo was the winning hurler.

Grand Haven made the most of two Christian errors and two hits in the first inning to shove three runs across. The locals came back in the second, however, with two of their own on singles by Diekema and Brouwer and a couple of infield outs.

The Maroons tied it up in the third inning on a walk, a one base blow by Bernard Mulder and Diekema's second hit. Coach Steve Sluka's outfit retaliated in their half of the third with a pair of tallies. A walk, a stolen base and two safeties did the damage.

Christian was in trouble again in the fourth inning, but Diekema's relief job stopped the Buc rally in the bud with only one marker. The fifty spelled more difficulty for Diekema as three walks proved his undoing. One hit sandwiched in between, produced the final Buc tally.

Hope Netters Take Fourth Win

The Hope college tennis team scored win number four in conference competition Monday afternoon, stopping the Adrian college Bulldogs, 6-1. The MIAA match was played in Holland.

Dick Nieuwma (H) 6-4, 1-6, 6-1; Chuck Votaw (H) def. Dick Laddie (A), 6-1, 6-1; Jack van der Velde (H) def. Jim Bowder (A), 6-3, 6-1; Ron Schipper (H) def. Dennis Martin (A), 6-0, 6-2.

Doubles: Exo and Nieuwma (H) def. Bateman and Lenord (A), 6-2, 6-1; Votaw and van der Velde (H) def. Bowder and Laddie (A), 6-3, 6-1.

Otsego Outlasts Zeeland Nine

Zeeland (Special)—The Otsego baseball outlasted Zeeland's Chix in a Tri-Country league game at Otsego Monday afternoon and won, 4-3.

The Chix solved Joe Buro, Otsego's hurler, for two runs in the first and one in the second, but after that the stellar Buro held the Chix almost silent.

Otsego picked up two runs in the second, one in the third, and the game-winning fourth run in the fourth inning.

Bob Berens, Zeeland third baseman, got two hits in three trips to the plate. Glenn Schrotenboer pitched for Zeeland.

The loss gives Zeeland a Tri-Country record of three wins and four losses, with an overall record of 4-5.

Street scrubbing, one of the most novel of all Tulip Time features, sets the pace for old country merry-making in this Dutch-American city of Holland, Mich. Traditionally the opening event, the street scrubbing ceremony finds hundreds of burghers, wearing Dutch costumes and wooden shoes, wielding brooms and brushes on order of the town burgemeester who finds the streets dirty after an official inspection. This picture was taken on Press day when Holland Tulip Time leaders staged a preview for the convenience of visiting newsmen.

Visiting Newsmen Hail Second Annual Press Day

Second annual Press Day, a salute to the American press for the flow of publicity accorded Tulip Time, was a big success in Holland Tuesday.

Staged a day preceding the festival to allow Tulip Time leaders time to entertain visiting scribes, Press Day in two short years has built up in popularity to the point where visitors already are inquiring about Press Day next year.

Most of the out-of-town representatives arrived Tuesday morning and registered at Press Day headquarters in the lobby of the Warm Friend Tavern. There, cars and chauffeurs were available to take visitors on tours of tulip lanes and visits to the tulip farms, Little Netherlands, Netherlands Museum or any other attractions they were interested in.

At noon they ate Dutch food at an attractively arranged luncheon in the dining room of Durfee hall, the modern new women's dormitory on Hope campus, as guests of W. A. Butler, editor-publisher of the Sentinel.

The menu featured such intriguing foods as groene erwtensoep met saucizebroodjes, koud ham en kalkoen, aardappel salade, pekel and komkommers, appeltaart met kaas, broodjes and kofee. Aside from soup and pig-in-the-blankets, the lunch was served buffet style. Jean Hill and Margaret Van Vyven sang Dutch songs, accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Geerlings. Souvenir programs and copies of Dirk Gringhuis' new "Tulip Time" book were at each plate. Tulip Time leaders also were among the guests.

Robert Greenhoe served as master of ceremonies at the afternoon preview in the post office block featuring a small parade, street scrubbing, klompen dancing and official welcomes. Later the group of dancers went to Windmill park to go through their paces for photographers against a new setting.

A picnic supper and general mixer for some 300 guests followed at the Holland Furnace Co. recreation grounds with the Holland Furnace Co. as hosts. A program was presented by professional talent.

The Press day committee consisted of Marvin C. Lindeman, Robert J. Kouw, Willard C. Wich-ers, W. A. Butler, William H. Vande Water and Sandy Meek.

Among Tuesday's guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Applegate, Michigan State college; Chester C. Wells and Aurey Strohpaal, West Michigan Tourist and Resort association; Meredith Clark, Vicksburg Commercial; R. G. Jeffries, Lowell Ledger; John J. Axe, Allegan News; H. Wendell Spencer, Jay Abbott, Z. Z. Lyn-dens, Leon Borucki, Bill Brown, Dave Osborn, Arthur Uhlman, Dave Wilson, all of the Grand Rapids Press.

Christian Netters Make a Shambles Of Heights Crew

Holland Christian's powerful net squad continued its winning ways at Muskegon Heights Monday by walloping the Muskies, 6-1. It was Christian's second decision over the class A school, although the Maroons had a much tougher time in their first meeting.

The win Monday gave the locals a season mark of eight victories and one defeat. Today they journey to Grand Haven to meet the up-and-coming Bucs, and on Thursday entertain the talent-laden Wyoming Park aggregation.

Christian's win came with surprising ease, with only one individual match going three sets. This was the encounter in which Rich Sharda, playing No. 3 singles for the Maroons bowed to Don Tallmadge after a hard struggle. Sharda, after dropping the first set, 6-3, rallied to cop the second 6-3. Tallmadge showed better staying power, however, to win the final 6-4.

Dave Schreur, in the No. 1 singles slot, encountered little opposition as he downed Bob Mauch, 6-2, 6-1. In the No. 2 singles position, Bruce Bouman came through in good fashion to stop Bob Cutler, 6-0, 6-3. The final Holland singles victory went to Jim Teerman who disposed of Art Hartman in a hard fought match, 7-5, 6-2.

The locals had no trouble in the doubles matches as they copped all three. Ed Roels and Ben Bouwman, who form the local No. 1 doubles team, kept their undefeated streak going by downing Jack Boles and Kay Mieses, 6-0, 6-1. Playing No. 2 doubles, Ken Volkenma and Rich Ribbens teamed Dean Bailey and Bob Kerley, 6-3, 6-2. In the final doubles match, Bill Prins and Earl Schipper trounced Roy Johnson and Tom Fortenbacher, 6-1, 6-0.

Dutch Cheated From Getting Tie By Late Homer

Muskegon (Special)—An odd set of circumstances combined to cheat Holland high school out of its first baseball victory of the season here Friday afternoon, as Muskegon high school administered the fourth defeat of the season to the Dutch diamond crew, 3-2, in eight innings.

The set of circumstances took shape around the Muskegon rule that prep teams must vacate Marsh field at 5:30 p.m. to allow the Muskegon Clippers time for batting practice before home games.

With the score tied two-all in the eighth, the final part of the inning began at precisely 5:30. As Clipper manager Jim Gleeson began talks with Muskegon coach Harry Potter about leaving the field, the first Big Red batter fled out.

But before precise arrangements could be made to vacate the field thus ending the game in a seven-inning two-all tie Big Red clean-up hitter Lee David blasted one of Glenn Kampers' pitches over the center field wall to end the contest in a 3-2 win for the home nine.

Kamper fashioned a beautiful pitching effort for Holland to see his tolling go for naught. He allowed Muskegon five hits, while his mates were collecting nine from the offerings of Reiss and Eaton. Eaton, who relieved Reiss in the eighth, got credit for the win by retiring three Holland batters.

Muskegon took a first inning lead with one run when two men walked and Dick Fett's single doubled the bases. With one out, an infield double play attempt went awry, allowing one run to score. Holland knotted the count in the top of the third Jack Kemper was safe on an infield error and Maurice Witteveen walked. With two down, Bob Tasma's single drove Kemper home with the tying counter.

Muskegon forged ahead in their half of the third. Bob Fairfield singled and stole second, before scoring on Fett's single.

But the Dutch pulled even in the fifth. With one down, Witteveen singled to left and scored on Roger Eggers' double.

That set the stage for the dramatic last-minute eighth inning.

Holland collected more hits Tuesday than in its previous three games combined. Eggers and Max Doolittle, with two safeties apiece led the nine-hit parade. Others hitting safely once each were Tasma, Witteveen, Alden Klomprens, Don Schutt and Ron Bekius.

Kamper, meanwhile, was virtually handcuffing the Big Red sticklers with five safeties. He walked only three and struck out eight.

Coach Bob Stupka said after that the game that he was very well pleased with his crew despite the loss. He especially was pleased because "they're finally starting to hit."

It was the best team effort of the Dutch nine to date, Stupka said.

Holland returns to action Friday by traveling to Muskegon Heights to engage the Tigers in a conference game.

Line scores: Holland 101 010 00 — 2 2 2 Muskegon 001 000 01 — 3 5 2 Kamper and Schutt (H); Reiss, Eaton and Fett (M).

Rare Disease Feared Cause Of Swine Loss

Infection Kills Slowly; Stops Gains in Weight At Vital Growth Point

Lansing (Special) — Veterinary authorities today expressed fear that a previously rare swine disease called infectious atrophic rhinitis may cause heavy losses to many farmers in 1951.

The American foundation for animal health reported that the disease continues on the increase following serious outbreaks last year.

"Infectious rhinitis does not kill many animals outright," the foundation says, "but it may stop gains to the point where hog raising is no longer profitable. Affected pigs fail to put on weight."

"Diseased baby pigs sneeze frequently and their snouts later become 'pushed in' or twisted due to shrinkage of the bones of the nose. Scours, unthriftiness and pneumonia may follow."

"In many instances, farmers have mistaken infectious rhinitis for 'bull nose.' The two conditions appear alike, but bull nose starts from an injury and infection with barnyard germs. It is not contagious. However, infectious rhinitis is caused by an unknown spreading agent, which stays in the herd season after season. It is very contagious."

"Careless buying of breeding stock and feeder pigs in an important factor in spreading the disease to clean premises. Once on a farm, the entire herd may have to be disposed of to rid the farm of the disease."

The foundation suggested that if owners suspect infectious rhinitis, they should get an immediate veterinary diagnosis. Prompt control measures must be applied if losses are to be held down this season.

Members Urged To Buy Calves For Projects

New 4-H dairy club members should not delay the purchase of heifers for their 1951 projects, advises Bob Campbell, Ottawa county 4-H club agent.

He advises that members get their heifers now. Don't wait until the last day on which new members may join to start looking for your heifer. It takes a lot of looking to select a suitable animal.

Word from Nevels Pearson, assistant state 4-H club leader at Michigan State college, says that it is best to secure a heifer out of a good proved bull. The dam should have a production record of at least 400 pounds of butterfat. If you can see the heifer's dam, observe the shape of her udder. It should be well-shaped and strongly attached. Don't expect a heifer to have a desirable udder unless the dam has one, Pearson says. Judges pay much attention to udders in the production classes.

If possible, see as many of the close relatives of the heifers as possible. They should have good size, good breed character, dairy type, good feet and legs and good udder.

Unless the father of the club member is a good judge of dairy animals, it is well for the young person to seek advice when selecting the heifer.

Your heifer should be purchased from a healthy herd and be negative for Bangs disease. If the member's father practices calving vaccination, the member may wish to have this done. It can be done between the ages of four and eight months.

Be sure you secure a copy of the vaccination record if the calf was vaccinated before purchase. Check also to make sure registration papers are completely and correctly filled out.

"CHICKEN TIME"

A new phrase has been coined by a group of resort owners in the Catskill mountains. They have adopted what some of them call "chicken time." Instead of setting their clocks one hour ahead, as is done by the daylight-saving advocates, they have set them ahead four hours. When the chickens wake up and the roosters begin to crow at the rising of the sun, the hands of the Catskill clocks point to seven o'clock. The theory is that the people at those resorts will have no more difficulty climbing out of the sack a hour than they would have if they were left snoozing until it is seven in other parts.

Perhaps it should be remembered that the Catskill mountains are the scene of Rip Van Winkle's long snooze. Almost anything can be expected from that section, and perhaps the "chicken time" experiment may succeed there when success could not be hoped for elsewhere. But those resort owners had better keep their fingers crossed.

The theory of "chicken time" is that it is logical. Of course, it is logical. All nature, from the largest eagle to the most humble ant, operates on "chicken time." All nature's children—know that daylight is good for them. Hence the more daylight the better. Up with the robins and the wrens and the chickens, and to bed with them as well. That would be the logical program for men and women as well as for animals and birds.

But logic is exactly what human beings are not. Quite the reverse; if a thing is logical you can be dead sure that men and women will not live by it. We humans are perverse creatures; we do not on the things that are not good for us and we avoid the things that are.

Moreover, it is hopeless to suppose that the people of the Catskill resorts can shut themselves up in a separate world. Even if all of them are men and women of absolute leisure, who do not have to punch clocks or make trains, they still will be in the grip of the illogical routines of the rest of the world. They are hooked up with the rest of the country in thousands of other ways and they will be forced to adjust themselves to illogical time habits of the rest of us. Besides, resorters want what is known as "night life." That's what many go to resorts for. But if the chickens indulged in night life they would not be ready to get up on their own natural time.

The Catskill resort owners' plan sounds good, but you can be sure it won't work for very long.

The Southern Kingdom
II Kings 18:1-7
By Henry Geerlings

It was a red letter day when Hezekiah came to the throne of Judah in Jerusalem. He was a man of sound integrity and religious zeal. Ahaz was his father, and preceded him on the throne, and while he ruled but sixteen years, that was long enough to permit him to do about all the damage he could do to the little kingdom. He made about as many molten images for idolatrous worship as any other king in the same length of time.

We would hesitate to elect a citizen of the United States to the office of President under 50 years of age. We would consider him lacking in experience for such a responsible position. But in Judah that was not the case. Hezekiah was but 25 when he ascended the throne, and other kings were younger still. They were, however, the sons of kings and had the opportunity of intimate acquaintance with the affairs of state.

Hezekiah must have seen long before his father's death the desperate need of reform, for he undertook the arduous work of a reformation at once upon his being crowned. His father's attitude of positive friendliness toward the further establishment of idol worship was distasteful to him. After cleansing and repairing the temple and offering appropriate sacrifices in renewing the covenant on the part of the princes and priests with God, he sent invitations to the people of Judah and Israel to come up to Jerusalem to observe the Passover, which had been so long neglected. It was a clarion call to the Israelites both north and south to return to the Lord.

The day of the year on which the feast was to be observed had been definitely fixed. But the king, realizing that neither the priest nor the people were spiritually prepared for a worthy celebration of the event, took counsel with his princes with the result that it was agreed to keep the feast one month later. It seemed to the king and his councilors that the Lord would be pleased with the postponement of the celebration, so that the minds and the hearts of the worshippers might be in tune with the occasion. The king must have felt that he was making encouraging progress toward the restoration of the true faith.

When the time for the observance of this unique Passover was decided upon, the king issued a decree summoning the people of both kingdoms to the Holy City where, from the time of king David, the Lord had been worshipped. The decree was carried by messengers throughout the nation, from Dan in the extreme north to Beersheba in the extreme south. It appears he did not confer with king Hoshea of Israel of the wisdom of extending the invitation into the kingdom over which he did not rule. But Hezekiah believed that the twelve tribes, despite their disruption, were one nation in the sight of God and that Jerusalem was the only accredited place of worship.

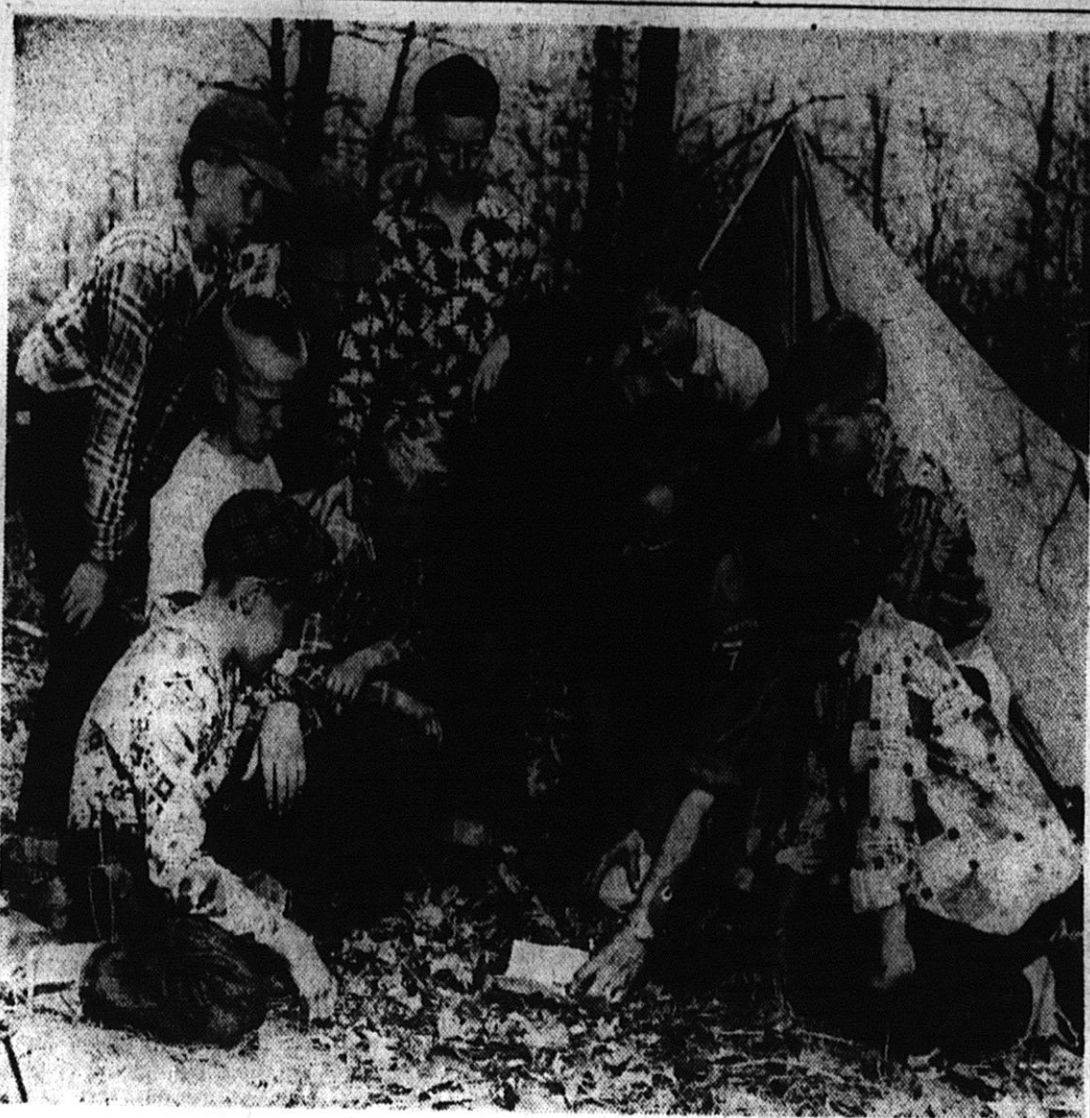

It was the aim of the king to rival in attendance the hosts who were accustomed to come together in the palmist days of David, the nation's greatest king. It must have been an inspiration to witness runners speeding in all directions carrying the letters that had been specifically prepared, having on them the seal of the king. The letters bore a pointed message to the northern kingdom, many of whose people had already been carried away captives by the kings of Assyria.

The king reminded his own subjects, and the subjects of the sister kingdom to the north, that the history of the nation was full of warnings, for their fathers also had forgotten Jehovah and were punished for it. They too would experience the bitterness of bondage to foreign rulers, if they did not return in penitence to God. Indeed, it was not more than a half dozen years from the time this invitation was broadcast that the citizens of the northern kingdom were swept into captivity by the overmastering power of the Assyrians to the east of them and never to be heard of again.

With prophetic insight Hezekiah saw a repetition of the spiritual defections of the past and warned the people that a like offense would bring down upon them a like punishment. With a plea that revealed the warm heart of the king he invited them to return to the Lord, to enter into the sanctuary and to turn back the impending wrath of the Lord. The king's good judgement impelled him to declare that there was no other way for them to secure the safety of their families and their nation.

It would be a mistake to say Hezekiah based his appeal for attendance at the Passover purely on the basis of a way of escape from divine wrath. That idea was present, to be sure. But he was careful to base his appeal on the ground of the mercy of God. Were they to turn back over the pages of history they would see the frequency with which God showed Himself full of compassion toward His erring children.

And so it is the promise of forgiveness, of long life, of national peace and safety; the promise that there would be no further captivity, and that the opposing forces would be turned back. It was a gracious word of God through the king to the rebellious people. What would their answer be?

Keukenhof Estate Tourist Attraction

Visitors to the Netherlands consider a visit to the famous Keukenhof estate at Lisse a must on their tour schedule. Here in the hilly gardens of the picturesque estate, tens of thousands of the most beautiful tulips, hyacinths and daffodils are in full bloom each spring.

Keukenhof was a top attraction in last year's big "Tulip Rally," which drew thousands of visitors from all over Europe.

The palatial estate and beautiful grounds form a natural setting for the many blossoms at Keukenhof. Rippling brooks, spacious lawns and intriguing woodlands are made even more spectacular by the informal plantings which have been planned to blend into the natural setting. All varieties of tulips and other spring flowers have been cultivated at the famous estate.

In addition to these scenic plantings, model gardens have been set up for the visitors' study. A booklet given to visitors describes the grounds and gives a history of tulips and pointers for raising them and other flowers in desirable plantings.

Early this spring, a local woman, Mrs. Anna Groeneveld of route 4, visited the gardens on a visit to her native land. Although the flowers were not yet blooming, she described the sight of Keukenhof alone as a beautiful one.

The exhibit unit craftsmen removed the wings from this medium bomber, cut the fuselage in two sections and mounted the sections on two 40 foot flat-bed trailers. The entire right side of the fuselage was cut away leaving a window through which visitors can see the inside of the plane. Retractable ramps were built so spectators can pass over them from the nose to the tail, looking through the open window. This way of handling visitors to the "Wingless Wonder" makes it possible for 1,000 people an hour to view the plane.

The "Wingless Wonder" is the same type bomber that carried the atom bomb and that is now doing all the heavy bombing in Korea. It is classed as medium bomber by the Air Force, but nonetheless, it is a huge plane. The B-29 is 99 feet long; it has a wing span of 141 feet, and is 37 feet high. It has a bomb load of 20,000 pounds and can fly 2,000 miles and return. Their top speed is over 350 miles an hour and the B-29 has a ceiling greater than 35,000 feet.

The first B-29 flew in 1942. The plane is armed with twelve .50 calibre machine guns in five turrets. All firing is controlled by a fire control system. One gun can be fired or as many as are needed to drive off enemy planes.

Visitors to the "Wingless Wonder" will be able to see all of the pilot's compartment with its many instruments and controls, the radio station, gun turrets, 152 electric motors, 111 miles of wiring, the bomb bays, and the famous Norden Bomb sight.

Farm Bureau Of Hamilton Aims Policies

Members of the Hamilton Farm Bureau group met Friday night at the George Lampen home for a discussion of the group's April and May topics.

On the theme "Agriculture in National Mobilization," Stanley Klein read articles on "Advice on Drafting Farm Youth," "Appeals to the President," "Steel Shortages for Farm Machinery" and "Writing to Senators and Representatives." After discussion the group concluded that:

Draft officials should be reminded that experienced farm boys should not be taken any more than college boys.

Farmers should write to congressmen regarding steel allotments for agricultural uses and proper allotments should be made.

Community farm bureaus can aid national defense by being alert to world problems, and maintaining full production.

M. Plummer, representing the Junior Farm Bureau, announced that the group will stage a chicken barbecue June 9 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Allegan fair grounds.

On the theme, "Schools Are Our Problem," articles were read by several women on "Information on Schools," "Definition of Farm Bureau," "Should Farmers Have a Personal Voice in Their Organization" and "Group Goals for 1951." A "true and false" question period was conducted and discussion was held.

In their conclusions, the group decided that a community study of schools should be promoted and more aid should be given by the superintendent; rural teachers' requirements should not be the same as city teachers, thus giving rural schools an advantage in hiring teachers; although rural people have a stronger voice in determining policies and choosing school officials under the new county board of education, they do not exercise it.

Rep. Ben Lohman spoke briefly on state aid to schools. The next meeting will be at his home.

House Bill Requires Data For TB Hospital Funds

Lansing (UP)—The house last night passed a measure seeking to regulate concerted efforts by counties to get a share of the $5 million bond issue for tuberculosis sanatoriums.

Counties requesting funds from the bond issue would be required by the proposed law to submit plans showing area to be served, number of beds to be added and proximity to state operated institutions.

Legislators found themselves in a quandary when flooded with nine requests for appropriations totaling almost $3 million from the fund during the present session. Each solon was obligated to seek a cut of the $5 million to aid his home district, and only a fraction of the counties were accounted for.

34 Bands to Participate in Parade Following To Climax Tulip Fete

Eighteen visiting bands will compete for ratings at the Tulip Time band review Saturday—the event that most townsfolk and visitors regard as a “must” for a real Tulip Time celebration.

Harold J. Karsten, president of the American Legion band and veteran helper at band reviews since they originated back in the '30's under Eugene F. Heeter, is band review chairman again for a third consecutive year. He has been working for months and months, carrying on extensive correspondence with band directors in a wide area. He will be assisted by his son, David, as inspector on the field.

Judges this year will be Eugene F. Heeter, originator of band reviews in Holland and at present living in LaGrange, Ill.; Everett Kisinger, former local band director now with the University of Illinois; and Leonard Meretta, of Western Michigan college, Kalamazoo.

Addicted Chix Nip Allegan

Saturday night the two high school baseball squads meet under the lights at Zeeland and the Chix won 5-3. When the clubs met earlier this year, the Chix also won 5-3.

It doesn't bother Coach Bob Hoover, however, even though his squad made three fielding misuses, while Allegan was playing a perfect fielding game.

Glenn Schrotenboer was the winning pitcher for Zeeland with Ray Wagner doing the catching. Zeeland's big inning came in the sixth, when four Chix romped home.

Ron Weatherbee got two hits for Zeeland in three trips.

Canoe Tips Over Near The Mooring On North Side

Young Boy Rescued By Holland Man With Aid of Others

A 30-year-old Tulip Time visitor from Ohio was drowned in Lake Macatawa Monday night. Victim of the tragedy was Norman Willard Kraus, Jr., of Mentor, Ohio. He was drowned when the canoe in which he was riding with a 12-year-old boy capsized about 50 yards off shore from The Mooring, on the north side of the lake. Quick work by boaters in the vicinity, especially Louie Brooks of 659 State St., and assistance from the drowning victim, were credited for saving the boy's life. Kraus, with Russell Boyer, was staying at a cottage at The Mooring with the boy's mother, Mrs. Hattie Neibauer, and grandmother, Mrs. Martha Roerdanz, all of Mentor.

Kraus and the boy, who couldn't swim, decided on a canoe trip after supper. They left the cottage at 7:45 p.m. and paddled out into the lake. After paddling around the vicinity for about five minutes, "all of a sudden the canoe tipped over," the boy said. Kraus buoyed the youth up in the water and cries for help were heard on shore. Persons on shore called to Brooks, who was fishing from his power boat off the south shore of The Mooring. Barbara Bishop, of Aniline Ave., was with Brooks.

Brooks hurried to the scene and saw the two persons in the water go down as he approached. He dove into the water and grabbed one under each arm. Brooks, who was hampered by a splint on his right hand, said Kraus was "out" when he reached him and was "sort of underneath the boy."

Meanwhile, Paul Morehouse, a Western Theological seminary student who stays at The Mooring, hopped into a row boat without oars and maneuvered to the scene. As Brooks and Morehouse tried to hoist the youth into the row boat, the boat filled with water and Brooks lost his grip on the man. They got the boy into another boat which was brought to the scene by Robert Horner, owner of The Mooring, and his wife.

Horner and Brooks dived in an attempt to find the man, but were unsuccessful. Sheriff's officers, Coast Guardsmen and residents of the vicinity with boats converged on the scene and began dragging operations. The body was recovered more than an hour and a half later at 9:40 p.m. by Deputy Sheriff Clayton Perry and Deputy Kenneth Yonker. Another boat manned by Louis Van Slooten and Eugene Van Lier was used to help bring the body to shore.

Others who helped drag the area were Wallace J. "Sonny" Kuite, Coast Guardsman Keller Harmon, Richard Rosier and Paul Formulo.

Kraus arrived in Holland for a week's vacation Sunday evening. He was employed as a trouble shooter by Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. in Mentor.

Survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kraus, Sr., of Connaute, Ohio; three sisters, Mrs. Warren Amesacher of Jamaica, N.Y., Mrs. George Batholme of Cleveland and another sister living in Cleveland, and one brother, Allen of Cleveland.

Coroner Gilbert Vande Water, who was at the scene during dragging operations, ruled death was caused by accidental drowning.

904 Allegan Children Recount Thrills of Chicago Excursion

Allegan. (Special) — There were 904 Allegan county school children who returned to their classrooms Monday morning, full of stories of their adventure in Chicago.

Along with 156 teachers and mothers, the children took part in the county's annual excursion last Friday—an event planned by G. Ray Sturgis, county school superintendent in an effort to broaden pupils' education by actual experiences.

All of the 1,602 returned after a 14-hour trip in a 16-car special train, which kept intact the county's 10-year record of no mishaps or even temporarily lost children in these large-scale expeditions.

One year, Allegan county sent 2,200 children on a tour to Detroit.

The first load of travelers boarded the train at Allegan in a drenching downpour of rain at 7 a.m. Hundreds more waited at Otsego and still more got on at Plainwell.

By the time the train was highballing down the route to Chicago, the kids were in high spirits. They went to work on the train's 640-gallon drinking water supply and nearly consumed it before reaching the windy city.

In baggage car midway of the train were 100 cases of pop, 30 dozen bags of potato chips, 1,800 candy bars and other supplies of holiday necessities. It was a magnet that drew a continuous parade from both ends of the train.

The Chicago Museum of Science and Industry was the focal point of the trip. County kids marveled at the model farm. They saw and heard themselves on television. There were airplanes and old cars, stuffed animals and electronics.

Somewhat miraculously, the whole group gathered at 4 p.m. to be whisked by buses for their train.

Feet were hurting a little bit, faces were grimy, and white blouses were gray, but spirits were still excellent as the lunch hour began again. The kids hauled out their shoe boxes and gobbled the remains of lunches first attacked on the way up in the morning. And the parade to the mid-way car resumed.

The train crew spent their day in an amiable game of 20,000 questions—giving the time of day, the time of arrival, the mechanics of the train, the engineering facts of the washrooms, and their honest opinion of when the sun would shine.

Chaperones are necessarily a hardy lot, and these were of excellent variety. As night fell, things were still under control, but some were visibly limping as they hustled their groups toward waiting cars and home.

Juliana Speaks For Mothers

A speech by Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, herself a mother of four daughters, was heard last week at the American Mothers committee's breakfast in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York. The speech, recorded on a phonograph record and flown over from The Netherlands for that occasion, was preceded by a short introductory speech by Daniel J. von Balluseck, permanent Netherlands delegate to the United Nations.

Queen Juliana, who was honored in 1950 by the American Mothers committee as "Mother of the Netherlands," said:

"We, as mothers, have a very grave responsibility these days. In the present world everybody is becoming more and more of a specialist. The whole of our life is more and more torn to pieces, and for each particle an expert is required to take care of that particular section. We mothers, whether as career women or in the difficult job of housewives, are all of us specialists ourselves. But as mothers we have to see life as a whole. And so we can help the world to understand and speak life's common language."

"A mother is someone who has given life to someone else. She has to carry responsibility for those young lives. She simply cannot escape that; she has to shoulder it. And so she is exquisitely equipped to be the salt of the earth—our earth, which no longer tolerates not being united, or rather suffers intolerably from being split up."

"A mother knows how to stay level-headed in turmoil, that is to say, to combine a warm heart with a cool head. Thus she can help the fathers, and those who are not parents, to solve difficulties the realistic way, that is, with what might be called: wisdom."

"But that cannot be done without a warm loving heart. 'We mothers know very well, that we are not all equipped with a heart that is sufficiently loving. We know that only too much of what is called love is in reality a very selfish pride, and that people only too often demand the impossible from their children, in order to feel glorified in their own offspring.'"

"What we must have is a heart which maintains its love through every disillusion, against every token of ingratitude, and a love which even becomes purer and stronger thereby. 'So I wish for us all the love and the wisdom which we need in our special position in our families and in the world.'"

Applicants Wanted For 'Ambassador' To Visit Europe

A "community ambassador" will almost certainly travel from Holland to Europe this summer, Dr. Ella Hawkins of the Hope college faculty said Tuesday, and she sent an immediate call for applicants for the coveted position.

The plan is to send one person of either sex to Germany or France to live in private homes. The "ambassador" will attempt to further better relations between the people of the European country and the people of America.

Although sponsored by the Holland Junior Chamber of Commerce, the ambassador will be chosen by a board of Holland citizens. Dr. Hawkins said Tuesday that enough civic and service groups in Holland had pledged money to assure that someone from Holland could go this year. She added, however, that the ambassador would probably have to foot part of the expenses of the trip.

With early pledges totaling nearly $500, Dr. Hawkins sent an immediate call to persons in the Holland area between 18 and 30 to apply for the position of ambassador. She said all applications must be in between now and noon Saturday to allow time for choice of the ambassador and to arrange for a June sailing. Dr. Hawkins may be contacted at Hope college.

The ambassador should be in college or be a graduate of high school or college. The person should be adaptable and should know either German, French, or Spanish.

Holland Netters Swamp Allegan

Allegan's net squad came to Holland Monday afternoon with very little in the way of tennis skill and were promptly swamped, 6-0, by the high school team. Russ Picard came back from an attack of pneumonia and played in his first match of the year. The Allegan club didn't have a third doubles team, so only four singles matches and two doubles were played.

The summaries: Dave Bos, H. beat Bob Cook 6-0, 6-3. Ron Kuite, H. beat Bob Bentley, 6-0, 6-1. Norm Scheerhoorn, H. beat Paul Thompson 6-2, 6-0.

Here's a typical scene of auto traffic at its height during the Tulip Time festival. Snapped on North River Ave. at Windmill park, the picture shows double rows of cars, two rows presumably headed for the tulip farms north of the city, and the other two headed back for Holland. It's scenes like this that haunt traffic officers in their sleep days after the festival. And that speed limit sign of 35 miles an hour is strictly for laughs during tulip festival traffic tie-ups.

Pastor Returns After Crusade in Wilds of Haiti

The Rev. George B. Hilson returned home Thursday night after an eventful six-week evangelistic crusade in the wilds of Haiti. Rev. Hilson, pastor of the local Wesleyan Methodist church, and five other ministers of the denomination, traveled by horseback through the rugged hills of the Haiti "back country" to contact already-converted natives and to work among the hordes of native devil-worshippers.

Traveling with two missionaries and three natives, who acted as guides and interpreters, the six-man team spent two weeks in the southern area of the island and another week in traveling to the southernmost tip of the land. They spent the last 10 days of their crusade in the northern section.

Devil-worshippers are numerous on the island, Rev. Hilson said, and at present, there seems to be a big boom in the religion. For instance, in the Port-au-Prince area, there is presently a campaign to gather 1,000 skulls to be sacrificed to the devil. One man was found with the skulls of 12 people he had killed hidden in his basement. It's not hard to distinguish the devil worshipping areas from the places where natives have been converted to Christianity, according to Rev. Hilson. The people are more uncivilized and seem to be extremely sad compared with the happy, progressive Christian natives, who sing hymns while they work or roam the hills. Often these Christians would walk two or three miles to meet the white men after messages of their approach arrived.

All the natives, however, are friendly, and eager to hear what the white men have to say.

Speaking through interpreters, the six men took turns preaching at gatherings. The natives speak the French Creole language, which the white men came to understand, at least in part. Many were converted through the crusade, including one devil-worshipers' priest. Conversion follows a different path than usual among the natives, who are of low mentality and whose illiteracy percentage is a staggering 90 percent. After the first step of desire for conversion and then prayer with the pastor, further arrangements are made between the individual and the pastor, in the native's home. Here the pastor spends a good deal of time, instructing and informing the native about Christianity.

Demon-possessed natives, just like in Biblical times, are quite common, Rev. Hilson said. One such native who was converted at a mass meeting in a cock-fighting area, required six men to hold him before the "demons left him."

The devil-worshippers have set up monuments throughout the hills, and strangely enough, the symbol placed on these monuments is the cross. A great many of the natives have heard of God and Jesus, there were some who admittedly had never heard about Christianity before listening to Rev. Hilson's group.

Natives live off the land and eat mostly rice, cooked bananas, chickens, yams and the such, which are much different than the American conception of such dishes. The blacks on the island are in a situation comparable to those in America. In Haiti, the mulattos are the educated and control the island, Rev. Hilson said.

As far as the Methodist ministers could discover there is only one Christian in the Haiti government—the head of the bureau of education, who introduced the six men and planned some of their large rallies. He informed them that an adult education program now is being sponsored by this bureau.

Traveling with the crusade team was a missionary who had spent almost 25 years in Africa. Even Africa, he said, is more civilized and further advanced than the hills of Haiti. Rough terrain and inaccessible areas are partly blamed. The crusaders were forced to travel perilous paths to reach many of the natives—of the eight white men seven were either thrown or fell from their horses at least once.

Running under lights and in chill air before a crowd of 3,000, the Furniture City athletes scampers to 11 of 13 first places, losing only in the mile and in the 180 low hurdles.

Holland's Frank Van Dyke accounted for 3 1/3 of the 4 1/3 points the Dutch brought back with them Friday night. Van Dyke set a new Holland high school record in the shotput, doing 47' 1", which was only good enough to net him third in the meet.
