PROPOSED CENTER—Shown here is a replica of the proposed new science and general education center at Hope College. Hope was awarded a $500,000 challenge grant by the Kresge Foundation of Detroit, to be used towards the construction. The proposed science and general education center is part of the Centennial Decade Master Plan adopted by the college's Board of Trustees in 1966.

Hope Receives $500,000 Grant for Science Unit

Hope College has been awarded a $500,000 challenge grant by the Kresge Foundation of Detroit toward the construction of a new science and general education center.

Announcement of the gift was made Tuesday by Stanley S. Kresge, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Kresge Foundation, to Hope College President Calvin A. Vander Werf. "The support of the Kresge Foundation continues to assume an important part in the development of Hope College," said President Vander Werf. "Through this grant the foundation has challenged Hope College, its board of trustees, alumni and friends to take a corresponding responsibility for completing the project it is supporting."

The Kresge Foundation in 1960 awarded a $50,000 grant to Hope toward construction of its Physics - Mathematics building and in 1968 presented a $25,000 gift for the DeWitt Cultural Center.

Kresge Foundation was founded by the late Sebastian S. Kresge in 1924. Active as a churchman all his life, Mr. Kresge regarded wealth as a means of human betterment. Not given to self-admiration, luxury or exploitation of his workers, he sought by means of the foundation to "leave the world better than he found it."

The proposed science and general education center is part of the Centennial Decade Master Plan adopted by the college's Board of Trustees in 1966. Already completed are two new women's residence halls and under construction are the DeWitt Cultural Center and the Wynand Wichers addition to the Nykerk Hall of Music.

Dr. Vander Werf cited the progress of the college's current capital development campaign and noted the significant progress in bringing the Master Plan closer to a complete reality.

The proposed science and general education center will total approximately 80,000 square feet at an estimated cost of $4 million.

The College has received a government allocation of $3 million, consisting of a $1 million grant and a $2 million long-term, low interest loan. The present science hall was erected in 1943 to accommodate a faculty of six and serve a student body of 550. The faculty of the sciences now totals 20 and the student body in 1970-71 is expected to surpass 2,100 men and women.

The new building will house the departments of biology, chemistry and geology. The present building will be converted into classrooms for the humanities and social sciences.

The basement of the proposed building will contain mechanical and storage rooms, geology laboratories and a wood shop. On the main level, will be classrooms, a science library with study carrels, large lecture halls that will be available for general instructional purposes, seminar rooms and exhibition space. The second floor will house the biology department, its laboratories, a museum, two special project laboratories, and a herbarium. Chemistry and biology will share the third floor which will contain general laboratories as well as classrooms and seminar rooms. The fourth floor will contain chemistry laboratories and classrooms with a greenhouse on the roof.

The building will also contain an instructional materials center to be memorialized in honor of the late Drs. J. Harvey Kleinhessel and Gerrit Van Zyl who were endeared to generations of Hope students for their outstanding teaching of the sciences.

A strong exterior of brick with classic modeling will clothe the fireproof building. All floors will be served by an elevator. The facility will be air conditioned.

Hope's success in the sciences has been a factor in outmoding the facility. In the last four years the College has received gifts and grants for new science programs and equipment totaling nearly $1 million. Among these gifts were $375,000 grant from the Sloan Foundation, a $276,000 grant from the Research Corporation Foundation, a National Science Foundation grant for curriculum improvement totaling over $150,000 and numerous individual faculty grants.

In addition, Hope has been designated the Midwest Training Agent of the National Science Foundation. The building is used on a year-round basis to train and retrain educators in National Science Foundation summer institutes in chemistry, biology, and mathematics.

Anthropologist Follows Theme Of Environment

"Man himself must be his own magician in solving the problems of environment. He must find his own way home."

That was the conclusion of an address by Dr. Loren Eiseley, internationally known anthropologist upon whom was conferred an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters at a special convocation in Hope College's Dimmet Memorial Chapel Monday.

Speaking on "The Last Magician," Dr. Eiseley, a former associate of Hope President Calvin A. Vander Werf at the University of Kansas, spoke from the view of anthropology on environment today, the 400 million years it took human life to emerge from the marshes and the few million it has taken to reach the space age.

In journeying into space, man has realized that his dreams of the stars and planets are only dreams and only on earth are the elements for human life, making man realize the earth is a precious planetary jewel, something he had been taking for granted.

As an anthropologist, Dr. Eiseley traced the development of the world and man's emergence into a second world encompassing language, culture, ethics, religion and a desire to transcend into greater roles.

He emphasized the destiny of the human soul, the respect for the dignity of common man, and the philosophy of Jesus Christ who rejected purely material goals in a one-fold, one shepherd concept, stating "My doctrine is not mine but His who sent me."

In emerging from one world into another world in the age of enlightenment, Dr. Eiseley said for every change, man pays a price. The change from the wilderness into suburbia, the advent of smog in the air, pollution in the waters all demand a price, and man recognizing universal values and man's relationship to man must evolve a third world combining the elements of the other two.

President Vander Werf introduced the speaker and conferred the honorary degree assisted by Dr. Morrette L. Rider and Dr. William Vander Lugt. Music was provided by Arthur Honegger, organist, and the Hope College Choir.

Grand Haven—The Ottawa County Board of Commissioners was informed Monday that county employees not already included in bargaining units may organize. Already in bargaining units are county nurses and sheriff's deputies.

The new organization has called a meeting at 5 p.m. today to elect officers. A preliminary meeting April 30 had named Jack Plakke, Mrs. Mary Kolaski and Mrs. Nondus Hill as trustees.

The communication was referred to the salaries committee headed by Karl Ball of Spring Lake. The board allocated funds to hire a labor relations attorney.

Ferryburg city asked the board to replace a one-way bridge over Smith's bayou on Spring Lake, and pointed to the need for a recreation area on an 80-acre site abandoned by the Coast Guard as a rifle range.

Louis Padnos Iron and Metal Co. of Holland informed the board it is developing an "auto fragmentizer" system in Holland and will cooperate with the county in the removal of junk cars.

Chairman William Kennedy has written state police at East Lansing offering assistance in locating a new crime lab in west Michigan.

Kennedy also reported that the Michigan Department of Natural Resources may close the conservation fire station on M-45 in Allendale and he was authorized to write the department asking that the station be retained because of the many acres of pines in that area.

Lawrence Wade of the building and grounds committee reported Bovee Construction Co. was low bidder for installing a new waste water system at Community Haven in Eastmanville for $32,847. The board awaits confirmation of a 55 percent state and federal grant before awarding the contract.

The board also approved spending $719 toward improvements to the Hamilton Elementary School playground being made by the elementary PTA.

The Rev. Fr. F. Murphy was to officiate at the services. Arrangements were by Dykstra funeral home.

Surviving besides the parents are a brother, Fabian Castillo Jr.; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Santiago Flores of Austin, Tex., and the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Clemencia Castillo, also of Austin, Tex.

Millage Facts Are Presented

The Board of Education Monday night passed the necessary resolutions setting up a proposed millage issue on the annual June 8 ballot and then submitted detailed information on what passage or defeat would mean to the Holland school district.

Voting 3.75 mills for one year would yield $446,000 which the board feels necessary to implement a quality program without frills for the coming school year. It was pointed out that in the austerity years in the early 1960's, the program operated with a "shortage" of $190,000 a year. "This is but a drop in the bucket compared with cutting $446,000 a year," Treasurer Charles Bradford said.

Bradford also said some increases would be made for the 350 employees of the school district whether or not millage carries, since a school board must by law negotiate with its employees.

Board President James O. Lamb said if millage fails, at least 20 teaching positions will be eliminated, reducing educational programs in elementary, junior and senior high schools. A number of program would of necessity be reduced and elementary textbook rental fees would continue.

Roger D. Plagenhoef, president of the Holland Education Association, said the HEA supports the millage proposal, adding that "the additional funds are absolutely needed to support a reasonable program for the coming year — a basic program without frills."

"The prospect of reducing our staff by 20 or more teachers is alarming. Grossly overloaded classroom and the deletion of needed fundamental programs would create an absurdly inferior education environment for our children. The citizens of Holland cannot afford to let this millage fail," he said.

Steve Bain, representing the millage proposal committee of the Holland High School Student Council, said students are concerned with maintaining quality education in Holland, and will be working to bring out the "yes" vote in Holland.

President Lamb said the board recognizes the need for a transportation program, particularly for outlying areas, "but we feel at this time our most important need is to pass operational millage to run a program for 5,000 students. We have a citizens committee working toward new Junior high facilities. We already are renting four classrooms in the old Christian Elementary Building and we need more next year. But we promise at a later date we expect to have another transportation millage vote."

Bradford also called attention to another millage issue on the ballot, one calling for .9 mill for special education for the Ottawa Area Intermediate School District.

The $446,000 which 3.75 mills would produce would be used as follows: $66,000 for laboratories and staff for an acceptable junior high science program; $32,000 to bring junior high teachers to full staff complement; $16,000 for two professional elementary librarians; $20,000 to increase high school vocational course offerings with the addition of a high school power mechanics course; $15,000 to eliminate textbook rental fees; $40,000 to restore 1967-70 budget cuts for supplies, equipment and routine building maintenance, $257,000 for salary improvements for teachers, custodians and secretaries, meet increased cost of equipment, materials and services.

Besides eliminating at least 20 teachers, millage defeat would continue the present inadequate science program, at best continue a limited elementary library services, provide no increased vocational opportunities for Holland youth, continue elementary textbook rental fees ranging from $3 to $6 for each student; reduce teaching supplies and programs in the area of junior and senior high athletics, elementary physical educational, music and art, conservation education, adult education, community recreation, audio - visual services and school sponsored extracurricular activities.

Lack of sufficient funds possibly could result in withholding of teachers' services since the board would lack necessary funds in negotiation, the board statement read.

Hope Gets Anti-Pollution Laboratory

The "Aqua-Lab" was presented to Hope College Institute for Environmental Quality Department by Thermotron Corporation of Holland.

The official presentation was made to Dr. D. Williams, Hope College, by Charles F. Conrad, president of Thermotron Corp. during a special banquet in connection with the Institute's Environmental Quality Conference.

A product of the Anti-Pollution Technology Division of Thermotron, the portable catamaran provides a floating work station for anti-pollution control studies, bottom sampling and research control tests. The rear mounted paddle wheel and air cooled engine eliminates contamination of water sampling. The "Aqua-Lab" is virtually unsinkable. The stability and minimum draft makes the vessel ideal for traversing shallow lakes, streams and marshy areas.

The "Aqua-Lab" is completely equipped with night lights, sun shade top, electric starter, battery charger, space for sample containers and instrumentation.

The "Aqua-Lab" provides a means of obtaining "on site" fluorometry studies of pollution and movement of fluids.

ALLENDALE—Ottawa county registered its seventh traffic fatality of the year when Margarette Kidd, 62, of 11170 68th Ave., Allendale, was fatally injured in an accident at 68th Ave. and Osborne St., Allendale township, at 9:48 p.m. Saturday.

Ottawa county sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Kidd was a passenger in the car driven by her husband, Burnice, 68, when the car struck the rear of stake truck that had been parked on 68th Ave. because of a flat tire.

The truck was facing south, deputies said, and had been parked by driver Kenneth Kamps, 21, of 15474 Mercury Dr., Grand Haven.

Miss Wilma Haveman, B.L. Overway Marry

Mrs. Brent Lewis Overway

A white picket fence and gate, Grecian bowls of pastel floral arrangements on pillar bases, candelabra and a unity candle was the setting for the 8 p.m. Friday wedding of Miss Wilma Marie Haveman and Brent Lewis Overway at Calvary Reformed Church. Hurricane candles marked the family pews.

The Rev. John A. Heys officiated and organist Betty Haveman accompanied soloist Jay Vanden Bosch and trumpeter Jerry Vander Kolk. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Haveman, 2731 North 112th Ave. and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Overway, 791 96th Ave.

Population Key To Survival of Earth

Ninth District U. S. Rep. Guy VanderJagt told a Civic Center gathering Saturday afternoon that the nation should "shift its attention from the heavens above to the good earth below."

Rep. VanderJagt wrapped up the two-day public conference "Environment: Overview to Local View," sponsored by Hope College's Institute for Environmental Quality, by recalling the achievement of the national goal of a man on the moon in the '60s and urging a national goal of a restored environment by 1980.

The congressman also cautioned that inaction "can give an empty, hollow ring to all our rhetoric about our environment," and concluded the conference with an informal question and answer session.

Saturday's all-day session opened with Dr. John Sheaffer of the University of Chicago's Center for Urban Studies saying, "For planning purposes, the earth is a closed system. We can't throw anything away."

Gene Gazlay, assistant director of Michigan's Department of Natural Resources, told the conference that government "has been less vigilant than we should have been in dealing with pollution problems."

A panel moderated by Dr. Donald Williams of Hope's chemistry department followed with a lively discussion of the local situation. Panel members were Dr. Sheaffer; Gazlay; militant conservationist Robert Wesley of Montague; Roger Stroh, director of Holland's department of Environmental Health; Guy Bell, superintendent of Holland's Board of Public Works; and William Kennedy, chairman of the Ottawa County Board of Supervisors.

Bell and Stroh defended Holland's plans to add secondary treatment facilities to its present activated-sludge treatment plant. Sheaffer, Wesley and Kennedy argued for a land-spray irrigation sewage treatment system.

Much of Saturday afternoon's session was devoted to the population problem, cited by each of the conference's eight speakers as a major factor in what Gazlay termed "our decaying environment."

Dr. John Hanlon, assistant surgeon general of the Public Health Service, said, "There must be a practical limit to man's number." He called increasing population "the chicken" and resulting pollution "the egg."

Dr. Clifford A. Pease Jr. of the New York-based Population Council presented a number of solutions to the threat of over-population. He cited the desirability of voluntarism, but noted that many concerned experts say voluntary family planning is "too little, too late."

Drs. Hanlon and Pease participated on a panel with Mrs. Donald Lievesee, head of family planning for the Ottawa County Health Department; Kay Hubbard, Hope sophomore, and moderator Dr. Eldon Greij of Hope's biology department.

Mrs. Lievesee explained the activities of her organization; Miss Hubbard said that over-population is one of the major concerns of college students, and Dr. Hanlon said his one hope for a solution to over-population is the concern of today's youth. Dr. Pease said a continuing education program is expanding to include those Americans not reached by conventional media.

Discussion also centered around several moral issues; the dispensing of birth control devices to single teen-agers; the differences among physical, moral, intellectual and social maturity; the growing problem of venereal disease, with Dr. Hanlon pointing out that gonorrhea is nearing epidemic proportions in America and that syphilis is again on the rise; and the possibility of increased promiscuity among high school and junior high students if birth control devices were to be made available to them.

The customary gift of wooden shoes was presented to speakers by Dr. Williams and Greij.

Julip Time Sidelights

The Castle Club at Castle Park really doesn't open until June, but it's open for Tulip Time, entertaining a tour group of 85 from Milwaukee for the entire festival. The buses arrived a day ahead of the opening.

Park Supt. Jake De Graaf's crews moved about 120 fuchsia trees and tropical materials from city greenhouses into Centennial Park for Tulip Time. Jake and his predecessor, the late Dick Smalenburg, proved years ago that people with the right green thumbs can grow tropical plants and tropical fruit trees in this north temperate zone.

Besides that, the fountains are all planted for the season with some 1,000 to 1,200 special plants. These include coleus, artillery plants, fuchsias, ivy, lobelia and achimenes. Cross your fingers there won't be a frost.

Tulip lane is in fine condition this year with lots of color. There was some damage from a hard, hard winter which brought an all-time record snowfall of 159.4 inches. It wasn't the snow that damaged the dormant bulbs, but several auto accidents here and there that bounced over curbs and dug into the soil. Accidents not at noon and serve as marshal.

Many downtown stores have interesting displays in their windows for Tulip Time. Many a mannequin wears a Dutch costume and there are other displays of an historical nature.

The show must go on! When Mrs. Austin Bocks, long-time member of the Holland Garden Club and winner of many a blue ribbon, was taken to Holland Hospital Tuesday, her four arrangements for the flower show remained at home.

Her daughter Helen and a neighbor, Perk Riemersma, took them all to Holland Army Tuesday night and painstakingly rearranged them according to Mrs. Bocks' original design.

Who does all the work for Tulip Time?

It's the work of many hands from the official board down to the mother who outfits her children in Dutch costumes.

The main planning is done by the board of directors of the incorporated festival. Mayor Nelson Bosman again serves this year as president of the Tulip Time board, with Park Supt. Jacob De Graaf and W. A. Butler as vice presidents. Lou Hallacy serves as treasurer and Mrs. Frank Working as secretary. Other trustees are Mrs. Leonard Dick, Roscoe Giles, James Vande Joel, James Hoffman and Andy Van Sloot.

Dwight Ferris is manager this year and Mrs. Pauline Vander Kooi is office manager. Andy Van Slot arranges for floats, John McClaskey, square dance, Henry Vander Linde, band review, and James Hoffman, Saturday parade. Roger Stroh and Jim Vande Poel arrange opening events. Standing, the tulips are beautiful.

Persons living on tulip lane are asked not to park their cars on the street so that festival visitors may have an unbroken view of Holland's prized crop of tulips. And local motorists are asked to be cautious and courteous about stop streets and crossings on tulip lane. Some of our visitors are too busy looking at tulips to see all the traffic signs too.

The biggest crowds always descend on Holland for the Saturday parade. After that parade, traffic will be one-way east on

THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC ELECTION

There are many people from our country that travel in Canada and they do not doubt have their own opinions about the politics and the recent election. For a time it looked like the French separatist movement was making some headway. Charles de Gaulle a short time ago visited Canada but this did not seem to be the answer. Many people who are familiar with Quebec and the French-speaking people no doubt were more or less surprised with the results of the election.

Now that the people have spoken there is plenty of work for them to do to help their Canada become more united. It will take time and there are bound to be some problems. In this day and age there are many problems around the world.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, May 17
Law Versus Grace
Acts 15:1-6; Galatians 2:18-21
By C. P. Dame

Church members did not always agree. For that reason councils were called in order to reach agreements. This lesson tells about the first church council which was held in Jerusalem about the year 36 A. D. It was important because it discussed an important issue — how to be saved.

I. False teaching unsettles faith. This happens especially when converts are new. Under the leadership of Paul and Barnabas the church at Antioch flourished. Unauthorized church members from Jerusalem came to Antioch and dogmatically said that unless a person was circumcised he could not be saved. This was contrary to the teaching of Paul and Barnabas who said that belief in Jesus Christ was sufficient.

The church was growing. Gentiles got converted. Growth created the problem. The teaching of these agitators disturbed the church. The church decided to present the problem to the apostles and elders. Observe that the elders were also involved. The delegation went through Phoenicia and Samaria telling about the conversion of the Gentiles which "caused great joy unto all the brethren."

The delegation came to Jerusalem where they were cordially welcomed by the church. The delegates told how God had used them in the conversion of the Gentiles. The Christians of the sect of the Pharisees brought up the matter of circumcision. The council faced the problem.

II. The truth won. There was a long debate. Peter, who had preached to Cornelius and his family and had won them to Christ, spoke against the Jewish party. He had seen people converted. Paul and Barnabas told what God had done through them among the Gentiles. Finally, James, the brother of Jesus and the head of the church in Jerusalem introduced a resolution which was accepted. Two leaders with a letter were sent to the church in Antioch.

III. We are saved by grace — that was the verdict reached by the council. Paul's letter to the Galatians deals with the subject of law and grace. The agitators kept on stirring up dissension, and that is why Paul wrote this letter to the churches in Galatia.

Peter visited the church at Antioch and associated with Gentile believers. When Jewish believers from Jerusalem came Peter withdrew from the Gentiles which aroused Paul's just ire and led him to rebuke Peter openly. Some Jewish Christians followed Peter's example, even Barnabas weakened and did likewise.

Christ kept the law and hence the law contributes nothing to anyone's salvation whether the person be Jew or Gentile. By its nature the law was temporary. Its purpose was to lead men to Christ. And when a person finds Christ he finds salvation. The converted person is controlled by Christ and lives for Him and by Him.

'Taming of the Shrew' Is Audience-Pleasing

Shakespeare's comic masterpiece, "The Taming of the Shrew" was presented Thursday night by the Hope College theatre department in the Little Theatre on the fourth floor of the science building to a small but appreciative audience.

Although any of Shakespeare's works are hard to portray by modern day actors, due to the performers thorough saturation with present day theatre, the Hope College actors are to be commended on their fine performance.

Even the opening night jitters seemed to be missing, as there were several excellent portrayals by actors in difficult roles.

Especially good was Deborah Noe, as Katherine, the shrew who must be tamed and married off before her younger sister is allowed to wed.

Her tamer and final match, Petruchio, played by Gerald Swieringa, did an excellent job as the bawling, boisterous man who was not about to be ordered around by anyone, much less a woman. The battle between these two characters for dominance was extremely well done by the two amateur actors.

As the younger daughter, Bianca, who had suitors tripping over one another in order to win her hand, Abbie Tiendis played the role with just the right amount of modesty and refinement. Her suitors, Lucutio, played by Daniel Pickering; Hortensio, played by John E. Lucius; and Gremio, played by Dick Patmos, were also well fitted to their roles as a love sick suitor (Lucutio) and the two lovers spurned for another (Hortensio and Gremio).

Other well-performed roles were portrayed by Tim Walters, as Tranio; David Crothers, as Baptista; Anne Walvoord, as a servant; Ralph Hansen, as Biondello; Brad Williams, as Grumio; Bob Korstange, as Curtis; Louis Schakel, as a servant; Michael Strazanak, as Pedant; David Huang, as the tailor; Eric Brown, as Vincentio and Marilyn Ray, as the widow.

Along with the ever dominant theme of battle between the sexes, their were a couple of surprise developments in the end that added to the humor of the situation. The arrival of Lucutio's elderly father, in duplicate, led to many humorous complications, but the play ended on a more sober note as Katherine, now thoroughly tamed, made a plea to the other women to love, respect, and especially obey, their husbands. Although the play may not be applauded by the Women's Liberation League, it is generally an enjoyable evening.

Key Pollution Expert Speaks

Carl Klein, one of the Nixon Administration's key pollution experts, said Friday that a national commitment is necessary if our environment is to be restored.

Klein, assistant secretary of the interior for water quality and research, told a free public conference, "Environment: Overview to Local View," that "if the enthusiasm and concern" exhibited during the recent Earth Day April 22 "can be perpetuated for any substantial length of time, I have no doubt that we can reverse the tide of the destruction of our environment and restore the quality of life in America by the end of this decade."

Klein's keynote address launched the two-day conference on environmental quality in Civic Center. Among Saturday's speakers will be Rep. Guy Vander Jagt of Cadillac.

Klein said the Administration recognized that environmental problems can not "monopolize national attention indefinitely," but said, "we have made a start and institutions like Hope College, by sponsoring this conference on environmental pollution abatement and prevention, can keep apathy from ever again clouding this issue."

Klein called local, state and Federal governments, industry, agriculture and the public to cooperate, for "we all can gain from working together to solve our pollution problems."

He detailed the Administration's field of environmental quality, but emphasized "it takes more than legislation, government pressure and even money to make a program work. The major ingredient, the one which can not be left out if success is really expected is commitment. You must have a demand for action from the people and from every branch and level of government."

Klein concluded that environmental clean-up is "a big job, but it can be done, it must be done. Our generation has no right or privilege to add any further burdens on further generations of Americans."

Klein praised the efforts of the Institute for Environmental Quality, sponsor of the conference which continues tonight and concludes with an all-day session Saturday.

The Chicago native also noted that Hope College and the Holland area should be particularly concerned about the deterioration of the environment because of the city's location on a fresh water lake which leads into the Great Lakes.

Zeeland School Board Studies Millage Results

ZEELAND — The Board of Education may meet next week to review the budget and make a decision on whether to try again for additional school operating millage. Supt. Ray Lokers said today.

Residents Wednesday approved a renewal of two mills for five years for operations 716 to 350, but rejected three other proposals, including a request for an additional two mills for five years, 521 to 526.

Voters also rejected a two mill building a site fund, 468 in favor and 578 against, and a proposal to levy the sinking fund, 434 to 588.

Fire Sweeps 15 Acres Of Dunes

Firemen from three departments battled a three-hour blaze that swept about 15 acres of beach grass and pine trees along Lake Michigan sand dunes between Polk and Croswell Sts. in Port Sheldon Township Sunday afternoon.

No injuries were reported and damage estimates were not immediately known.

Port Sheldon fire chief Wells Penna said the fire apparently began after a dune buggy, owned by Steve Bouwens of Grand Rapids, backfired, sending sparks into grass and woods. The dune buggy was destroyed.

Penna said flames were about 30 feet high when firemen arrived at 3:45 p.m. The fire was under control by 6:45 p.m.

Port Sheldon firemen were assisted by units from Park and Holland townships, the conservation department and volunteers. Park and Port Sheldon used off-the-road vehicles and the conservation department sent a bulldozer.

Firemen prevented flames from reaching cottages in the area.

The property on which the fire started was owned by Marvin De Witt of 96th Ave. Borculo.

2,150 Visit Light Plant

Another 1,550 persons visited the James De Young light plant Saturday on the second day of an open house marking the 30th anniversary of the plant and the completion of the third addition. With 600 visitors Friday, total visitors listed 2,150.

Most visitors were impressed by two things, the cleanliness denoting good housekeeping and the size of the installation.

Not all persons have kept up with the expansion programs through the years. When the plant opened in 1940, it had two 7,500 kilowatt turbo-generators. Now the plant can generate 77,250 kilowatts per hour. In addition, it has a 10,000 kilowatt interchange with Consumers Power Co. as part of a power pool for emergency use.

The new addition contains a 28,750 kilowatt turbo-generator. All installations have been made with no cost to local taxpayers. Some additions were financed entirely from earnings and others involved revenue bond issues. Total value of the plant is just under $15 million.

Visitors also were impressed by pollution abatement installations in the plant, reducing smoke and flyash.

Juniors Okay Nixon Policy On Cambodia

Each month during the school year a boy from Holland High, Holland Christian, and West Ottawa High School is invited to attend Holland Rotary Club meetings as a Junior Rotarian.

This year's junior members returned to the Rotary Club meeting at the Hotel Warm Friend Thursday and presented a special program that included a panel discussion of domestic and international problems.

John Donnelly of Holland High was panel moderator. One of the most significant developments in the discussion was the indication of support for President Nixon's decision on Cambodia. The majority of the boys on the panel expressed their faith in the President's knowledge of the Vietnam crisis and voiced their confidence in his judgement and actions, in contrast to the dissent occurring among young people throughout the country.

Those panel members who replied to a question concerning the military draft said they would serve in the armed forces, although they did not look forward to it. One youth said he favored a term of service for all young people, including girls and the physically handicapped, in the military or some other branch of the government.

Questions for the panel were posed by members of Rotary. On the matter of foreign financial aid, one boy said he agreed with the conclusion reached in a class discussion at school, that the United States should have a strong voice in deciding how the countries that receive our money should spend it.

The use of drugs by the youth of the community was touched upon. One panel member said many young people in the community had at least tried marijuana, but to his knowledge the use of so-called hard drugs among youth here was nonexistent.

The "generation gap" and the place of the church in contemporary society were among other subjects discussed briefly. Ken DeBoer of Holland High presided in the place of Rotary President H. J. Thomas.

5 Injured In Collision Of Two Cars

Two of five persons injured in a two-car crash Friday at 3:22 p.m. at Paw Paw Dr. and M-21 were reported in good condition Saturday at Holland Hospital where they were admitted.

Hospitalized were Grace Lievense, 81, driver of one car, and a passenger, Grace Westrate, 83, both residents of the Resthaven Home, 49 East 32nd St. The Lievense woman suffered scalp lacerations while Mrs. Westrate was under treatment for broken ribs.

A second passenger in the Lievense car, Elsie Vanden Brand, 79, also of Resthaven, was referred to a physician for treatment.

Driver of the second car was identified as Ronald Wiersma, 27, of 335½ College Ave. He was treated for lacerations of lower lip. A passenger, Joan Wiersma, 27, was treated at the hospital for knee injuries and released.

Ottawa county deputies said both cars were eastbound on M-21 when the Lievense car apparently turned from the right lane into the left lane and into the path of the Wiersma car. Deputies continued their investigation.
