CITY AND VICINITY.

The low lands are being inundated by the incessant rains.

A child of G. J. Schuurman was bitten in the lips by a large dog belonging to B. L. Scott, on Monday.

The merits of the Waverly stone are being recognized in Chicago, and the product of our quarries is used in several new buildings going up there this season.

A number of the members of "John Kramer" Camp S. O. V. went to Fennville Wednesday to attend the funeral of Frank Pullman, formerly of this city.

The trial of Ed. Bertsch and I. Verschure, charged with illegal fishing in Black Lake, came off on Tuesday afternoon. The jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty."

P. H. Wibms has added to his agricultural implements a line of building material. Dressed lumber, etc., always in hand and orders promptly filled. See new ad.

The late rain storm has done an incalculable amount of damage to the celery fields near Kalamazoo. The Portage Creek district, including about twenty-five hundred acres, is covered with water. The celery had just commenced to get in shape for shipping. Whether the crop is entirely destroyed or not is yet in doubt.

The building committee of the Berrien county board of supervisors passed through the city Wednesday, on the afternoon train, from St. Joseph, to inspect the new county court house at Grand Haven. They were joined here by resident members of the Ottawa county building committee, and by Mr. Hall of the Waverly Stone quarry.

The Y. M. C. A. entertainment given at the rooms last Friday evening was fairly well attended. J. C. Post made a few remarks at the opening of the meeting after which Mrs. G. J. Diekema sang a solo, followed with a violin selection of Willie Olive, and a duet by Mrs. Prof. Gillespie and Miss G. Alcott. The literary part of the program was concluded by a few words from G. J. Diekema. Cake with strawberries and cream were in order and ample justice was done to the same.

The Portland, Iowa county, Observer advises its readers neither to buy, catch or eat suckers caught in Grand river: "These fish are dying by the hundreds from disease and are rotten clear through. Up along the shores of Grand River they may be seen both on the banks and in the water—dead and just ready to die, and even the latter have the scales dropping from them. At an examination of some suckers on Saturday, spots were found upon them. An examination under microscopes revealed the fact that these spots were festered sores, similar to a boil or carbuncle on a person.

It is a queer fact that the great current which sweeps around the eastern shore of Lake Michigan was first brought into prominence by the murder trial at Manistee, back in 1890. A young man named Herbert Field unwillingly furnished the subject for the inquiry. He was murdered at Manistee and thrown into the lake, but the corpse was found on the beach thirty miles north of that city. George Van derpool was arrested for the crime and Gen. B. M. Cutcheon, now of Grand Rapids, was one of the attorneys for the People. The question of how the body had traveled thirty miles from the scene of the supposed murder was one of the issues in the case and Gen. Cutcheon made an exhaustive investigation and established beyond question that there was a great current in Lake Michigan flowing north at one and one-half to four miles an hour. As the result of two years' experiment in throwing corked bottles into the water the weather bureau at Washington has issued a large, handsome and expensive chart of the currents in the great lakes. It is prettier to look at than Gen. Cutcheon's early diagrams, but it corroborates in every detail the general's claims.

Wheat 52 cents.

The last snow of the season fell on Friday last.

J. Minderhout of Grand Rapids is at work getting out new designs for the Holland Furniture factory.

Henry George and Dr. McGlynn have become reconciled and are again speaking for anti-poverty and land tax from the same platform.

Mrs. R. N. DeMerrell gave a five o'clock tea on Thursday afternoon to a number of her friends. Some very unique invitations were sent out.

The vital statistics of this city for the year 1893 are as follows:

The will of the late Senator Stockbridge, made in 1885, has been filed in Kalamazoo county for probate. It names James L. Houghteling, his nephew, as sole executor. The property is valued at $600,000 and all goes to relatives, except a bequest to the Children's Home in Kalamazoo.

On Wednesday the C. & W. M. will run an excursion train from Grand Rapids to Ottawa Beach, leaving Waverly for the Beach at 9:30 a. m. The Macatawa Park Hotel, which this year will again be under the management of Mrs. J. Ryder, will open for the season on this date, and take care of all who come. Bass fishing is excellent in the Bay now.

The supreme court has decided that a bicycle rider has just as much right in the road as a buggy, and drivers must turn out and give them half the road. Drivers are liable to all damage done to a wheel or the rider in case the wheelman is not given half the road. Drivers should remember this, and not forget that the pedestrian is the most privileged party to them all.

The Ottawa county court house building committee at its meeting on Monday reached a final settlement with contractor Ward and made him the last payment, of $485.51. In connection therewith they also adopted the following: "The committee in closing their relations with Mr. A. J. Ward, contractor and builder of the new court house, desire to express their admiration of him as a man, their appreciation of him as an honest, capable, careful and conscientious builder, and their entire satisfaction with and hearty appreciation of the work done by him for the county." The lighting fixtures and stationary furniture are all in place.

G. R. Herald: A short time ago David Lancaster, one of the superintendents of the poor, filed a petition in which he stated that James Barrager, who has ten grown children living, was an inmate of the Kent county poor house. The petitioner asked that the county be relieved of the expense of maintaining the old man, and that by order of the court his children be made to support him.

Tuesday afternoon Judge Adsit made an order granting the petitioner's request and ordering the children to support their indigent father. The decision of the court was that each of the children shall support their father month by month in rotation while the old man lives. In case any one refuses to perform his or her part the court orders he or she shall pay the sum of $10 to the clerk of the court in lieu of other support for that month. If the old man falls sick, the burden of his support is to fall upon the four daughters, who are also charged with keeping him clothed.

The illustrated advertisement on our 4th page will suggest to the farmers that by reason of the heavy rains they will need an extra good weed extirminator this season, and that there is none better than the "Planet Jr.," offered by H. De Kruit, Jr., Zeeland, who also keeps between one and two hundred Deering and Champion harvesting machines in stock, and has just received a car load of the popular and successful Keystone hay loader, and side delivering rigs. There is a benefit to the farmer in large stocks, long experience and ready repairs, all of which they recognize in dealing with H. De Kruit, and while at his place they cast a side glance at his second-hand mowers and binders, and surplus horses, and catch on to many a good bargain.

Patriotism The Underlying Thought on Decoration Day.

ELOQUENT ADDRESS BY ARCHBISHOP IRELAND TO THE LOYAL LEGION.

In the early part of April Archbishop Ireland of Minnesota, than whom the Roman Church in the United States has no more ardent lover of his country, delivered an address before the Order of the Loyal Legion in New York city, on "The Duty and Value of Patriotism." In view of the near approach of Memorial Day a brief review may not be inappropriate.

The Archbishop began by defining patriotism as "love of country and loyalty to its life and weal." He said Heaven unites with earth in blessing patriotism. Next to God is country, and next to religion is patriotism. America is the highest billow in humanity's evolution; it is the country of human dignity, where the sole condition to right and power is simple manhood. Allegiance to country is limited only by allegiance to God. Our civil war showed what a nation of patriots America is. He quoted with thrilling effect lines from the "Star-Spangled Banner," fervently thanked heaven that American patriotism was on guard when at Appomattox one flag unfurled it folds over a nation of freemen. After stating how the courage and valor of our volunteer armies had amazed the world, the speaker briefly sketched the results of the war and spoke of the peace and prosperity that has followed, and then continued:

For my part I have unwavering faith in the Republic of America. I have faith in the providence of God and the progress of humanity; I will not believe that liberty is not a permanent gift, and it were not, if America fail. I have faith in the powerful and loyal national heart of America, which clings fast to liberty, and sooner or later rights wrongs and uproots evils. I have no fears. Clouds cross the heavens; soon a burst of sunlight dispels them. Different interests in society are out of joint with one another, and the social organism is feverish; it is simply the effort toward new adjustments; in a little while there will be order and peace. Threatening social and political evils are near and are seemingly gaining ground; the American people are conservatively patient, but ere long the national heart is roused, and the evils however formidable be their aspect, go down before the tread of an indignant people. The safety of the republic lies in the vigilant and active patriotism of the American people, which will quickly see the dangers to popular government and will quickly work to ward them off.

There is a danger in the ignorance of voters. As a rule the man who does not read and write intelligently cannot vote intelligently. Americans understand the necessity of popular instruction, and spare no expense in spreading it. They cannot be too zealous in the matter. They need to have laws in every state which will punish as guilty of crime against the country the parent who neglects to send his children to school.

There is a danger—and a most serious one—in corrupt morals. A people without good morals is incapable of self-government. As the basis of the proper exercise of the suffrage lies in selfishness and the spirit of sacrifice. A corrupt man is selfish; an appeal to duty finds no repose in his conscience; he is incapable of the high-mindedness and generous acts which are the elements of patriotism; he is ready to sell the country for pelf or pleasure. Patriotism takes alarm at the spread of intemperance, lasciviousness, dishonesty, perjury; for country's sake it should arm against those dire evils all the country's forces, its Legislatures, its courts, and, above all else, public opinion. Materialism and the denial of a living, supreme God annihilate conscience and break down the barriers of sensuality; they sow broadcast the seeds of moral death; they are fatal to liberty and social order. A people without belief in God and a future life of the soul will not remain a free people. The age of the democracy must, be an age of religion.

Empires and monarchies rely upon sword and cannon—republish upon the citizen's respect for law. Unless law be sacred a free government will not endure. Law may be repealed through constitutional means, but while they are inscribed on the statute book they should be observed. The lowering of the dignity of the law, by deed, teaching, or connivance, is treason. Anarchical explosions, mob riots, lynching, shake the pillars of the commonwealth; other violations of law, the determined defiance of municipal and state authority, the stealthy avoidance of payment of taxes and of custom duties, sear consciences, and beget a fatal habit of disobedience. A law-abiding people only is worthy of liberty and capable of guarding its treasures.

What shall I say of the purity of the ballot, of the integrity of the public official? I touch upon the life-threads of the Republic, and words fail to express the solemnity of my thoughts.

The suffrage is the power of life or death over the state. The one leit-motiv in its use is the public weal, to which private and party interests should be always sacrificed. The voter making misuse of the trust deserves to be disfranchised; the man who compasses the misuse, who weaves schemes to defraud the popular will, deserves to be proscribed. The public official is appointed for the people's good, and is sworn to work for it; if he prostitutes his office, legislative or executive, to enrich himself or his friends, he has "sold his country for gold" and he is a traitor. The distribution of office or of administrative power must be based on fitness; the spoils system in politics inevitably leads to public corruption, treacherous and unsafe administration, and the ultimate foundering of the ship of state.

This country is America, only then who are loyal to her can be allowed to live under her flag; and they who are loyal to her may enjoy all her liberties and rights. Freedom of religion is accorded by the constitution; religion is put outside State action, and most wisely so; therefore the religion of a citizen must not be considered by voter or executive officer. The oath of allegiance to the country makes the man a citizen; if that allegiance is not plenary and supreme he is false to his profession; if it is he is an American. Discriminations and segregations in civil or political matters on lines of birthplace, or of race, or of language—and I add, or of color—is un-American and wrong. Compel all to be Americans, in soul as well as in name, and then let the standard of their value be their American citizenship.

Who will say that there is no work for patriotism in days of peace? If it need not be so courageous as in war, it needs to be more watchful and enduring; for the evils against which it contends in peace are more persevering, more stealthy in the advance more disclusive in the attack. We can easily imagine that a country, invincible in war, may go down to its ruin amid the luxuries and somnolence of prolonged peace. Hannibal won at Trasymene, but he lost the fruits of victory in the vineyards and orange groves of Campania.

Under the reign of peace we must, in season and out of season, look to the patriotism of the country, that it suffer no diminution in vigor and earnest work. American patriotism is needed—patriotism intense, which speaks out in noble pride, with beating heart; patriotism active, which shows itself in deed, and in sacrifice; patriotism public-spirited, which cares for the public weal as for the apple of the eye. Private personal civic virtue is uncommon among us; more uncommon as public civic virtue, which watches the ballot and all approaches to it, which demands that public officials do their duty, which purifies opinion on all matters where country is concerned. This patriotism will save the republic.

From whom primarily does the republic expect this patriotism? From her veteran soldiers. This patriotism, America, thou shalt have. I speak for veterans. I speak for their brother citizens.

Noble ship of State, sail thou on over billows, and through storms, undaunted imperishable. Of thee I do not say: "Caesarem vehis—thou carriest Caesar." But of thee I say: "Libertatem vehis—thou carriest liberty." Within thy bulwarks the fair goddess is enthroned, holding in her hands the dreams and hopes of humanity. O, for her sake guard well thyself. Sail thou on, peerless, safe from shoals and malign winds, ever strong in keel, ever beauteous in prow and canvass, ever guided by heaven's polar star. Sail thou on, I pray thee, undaunted and imperishable!

The English sparrows have proved a nuisance in the cotton country, for as soon as the pools open they pick out the cotton and some planters have lost, as they claim, hundreds of pounds in this way. There is one man, however, in DeWitt county, says the Galveston News, that has not lost much. When he found the sparrows were committing depredations he procured a quantity of wheat soaked it in sweetened whisky and strewed it along the rows. The sparrows found it and thought they had a picnic. So they had. But in fifteen or twenty minutes there was the tipsiest lot of English sparrows ever seen on the face of the earth. They rolled about the ground, falling on their sides and backs and kicking their heels into the air like a parcel of drunkards, all the while uttering the most comical squeaks. They did not have long to squeak, for the boys gathered bushels of drunken sparrows. Three or four days later the experiment was repeated with almost equal success, and from time to time since. They made excellent potpie, but the survivors have come to regard the plantation as hoodooed, for now very few come about it.

A big crowd of villagers recently viewed the movements of an enormous bird that hovered over a field in the vicinity of Landisville, Lancaster county, Pa. A flock of sheep were grazing in the field. From a height of several hundred feet the bird would swiftly descend to near the earth, and after circling in long sweeps again mount on high. John Musselman, one of the crowd, went for his gun. Then he watched for a chance to shoot. Suddenly the big bird darted downward, seized a good sized lamb in its talons, and began to fly off with it, the lamb meanwhile uttering plaintive bleats. Musselman fired when the feathered robber was two hundred feet away. The bird fell dead. It was an enormous bald eagle, measuring 7 feet 2 inches from tip to tip. The lamb, still in its clutch, was also dead when found.

An ordinance of the city of Titusville, Pa., required travelers soliciting orders to pay a license, which an agent for a Chicago firm dealing in pictures and picture frames failed to do. For this he was sentenced to pay a fine by a local court, whose judgement was affirmed by the Supreme Court of the State. The decision of the latter court has just been reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Bremner vs. The City of Titusville, in which it holds, reaffirming the position taken by it in previous cases, that no State can levy a tax on interstate commerce in any form, whether by way of duties laid on the transportation of the subjects of that commerce, or on the receipts derived from that transportation, or on the occupation or business of carrying it on.

FREEDOM IN SIGHT.

A Man Suffers Six Years in Prison for a Murder Never Committed.

John Vanneman Sent to the Penitentiary at Jackson on a Life Sentence Nine Years Ago for Killing John Crow, Who Is Alive.

JUSTICE'S SAD ERROR.

MUSKEGON, Ind., May 28.—A story which shows the unreliability of circumstantial evidence when it is the sole proof of crime came to light here Tuesday. A man giving the name of John Crow, supposed to have been murdered nine years ago near Big Rapids, Mich., by his brother-in-law, John Vanneman, left here Tuesday for the Michigan state prison at Jackson to obtain the release of Vanneman, who is now serving a life term there for the supposed murder. The facts in the case, as told by Crow in the depot while he was awaiting the train for Jackson, are as follows:

To Set Him Free.

"I am going to free a man who has been in the penitentiary nine years and is innocent; I am supposed to be dead. In the eyes of the law I was murdered nine years ago this month near Big Rapids, Mich., and now a man named John Vanneman, my brother-in-law, is serving a life sentence in the Michigan state penitentiary for the supposed crime. Since that time I have not been aware that anything was wrong until a few days ago, when I picked up a Detroit paper and read an article about an attempt being made to secure the pardon of John Vanneman, who is in the penitentiary on the charge of murdering me.

Separated at Big Rapids.

"To make the story more clear in your mind, I will commence at the beginning. On May 23, 1883, I left my home at Van Wert, O., and started for the Michigan lumber camp, where I thought I could get work. My brother-in-law, who had come from Mecosta county, Michigan, a short time before, decided to go with me and went as far as Big Rapids. We had no money and were 'bumming' our way through. I had made the acquaintance of two other men who were going further north. I tried to persuade my brother-in-law to accompany us, but he said no; he would return to Van Wert, get his children, and go to Iowa. We then continued our trip, leaving John in Big Rapids. We went to northern Michigan and crossed over into Canada, where I lost track of my companions. I have knuckled around considerably since then, staying out west until last summer when I came east to the world's fair. I lived in Chicago about six months ago and have since been located in Terre Haute, Ind. I was in Muncie after leaving Chicago, but went to Terre Haute, returning here Sunday, May 13.

Foundation for Conviction.

"Last Wednesday, while at my boarding-house, I read the article I mentioned. It completely unnerved me, and I have been almost unfit for work ever since. Last night I got my wages, and now I intend to free the man. The paper stated that the skeleton of a man had been found near Big Rapids, alongside the tracks of the Chicago & West Michigan railway, and when the same road I left on from Big Rapids, and when it was learned I was missing the authorities supposed it was my skeleton. It was found in July, 1885, about a month after I was there. It was known that Vanneman left Van Wert with me and he was at once accused of my murder. He had gone to Iowa and was taken to Mecosta county, Michigan, where he was tried and found guilty in the following October. The judge sentenced him to life imprisonment in the Michigan state prison at hard labor, and I suppose he is still there serving time, although an innocent man."

Confirmed from Jackson.

JACKSON, May 28.—John Vanneman is serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary here for murder in the first degree. He was sent from Mecosta county March 11, 1886, for murdering John Crow, his brother-in-law, who disappeared mysteriously and was supposed to have been murdered. A body was found near Big Rapids which answered the description of the missing man and Vanneman was arrested for the crime.

The evidence against him was purely circumstantial. Mrs. Crow, the mother of the missing man, identified the clothing found on the dead man as that of her son. Another witness identified Crow's skull. C. F. Idema, of Grand Rapids, swore that Vanneman had pawned a watch and a revolver belonging to Crow at his store the Sunday after the murder for eight dollars.

The arrest was made in September, 1885, and the trial was concluded in the spring following. Attorney D. F. Glidden, who now resides in Detroit, was then practicing in Big Rapids, and was appointed by the court to defend Vanneman. He fought vigorously for an acquittal, and introduced expert testimony to prove that a body could not decay so thoroughly as the supposed Crow's had in thirty-eight days, the time supposed to have elapsed between the murder and the finding of the skeleton, but public sentiment was strongly against Vanneman, and the trial ended in a conviction. Judge Fuller then sentenced the defendant to life imprisonment in the state prison at hard labor.

Vanneman was seen at the prison Tuesday evening. He said: "I hope to be let out of this gloomy place in a short time. John Crow is alive and well. He will come here in flesh and blood and prove my innocence. Every day I expect him. No; I never killed John. God knows I never did." Here the convict broke down and sobbed convulsively. Vanneman is employed on the wagon contract and is considered an exemplary convict. "He's a good man," said Chaplain Hieko, "and minds his business strictly."

Failures in Coldwater.

COLDWATER, May 22.—The Shively Dry Goods company has been compelled to close its doors and L. B. Baumgartner & Co. have possession of the stock. The liabilities are $9,000; assets probably about the same. Edwin Mansell, plumber, gas and steam fitter, failed to-day. His liabilities are $1,600.

A Veteran Passes Away.

BATTLE CREEK, May 18.—Oscar Kendall, the famous colorbearer of the Twenty-second Michigan infantry, is dead. At the battle of Chickamauga he refused to surrender the regimental flag while twenty muskets were pointed at his breast until his superior officer ordered him to give it up.

Jews Have Rights.

LANSING, May 21.—The supreme court has reversed judgment in a case from Muskegon county because the attorney that won the case below captured the Jews before the jury.

SATURDAY, MAY 26, 1894.

Congressional Pot-pouri.

As yet the political situation produces nothing but a medley of pre-ludes, incoherent, and without order, or bond:

G. R. Eagle: Geo. W. McBride and Thos. A. Parish of Grand Haven were at the Morton, and it is said that at a conference held a congressional surprise was prepared to be sprung in a few weeks. The Republicans of Ottawa and Ionia counties claim that the appointment of John Patton, Jr. to the senatorship destroys Grand Rapids' title to the congressional nomination. They assert that it is only fair under the circumstances that the nomination go to some of the cities in the district. Mr. McBride, it is said, has shied his castor into the ring, and an attempt will be made to induce the Ottawa and Ionia county delegations to unite upon him. This, with scattering votes that could be secured in Kent Co., would give him the nomination.

Detroit News: Ottawa county has thus far developed three prospective Republican candidates for congress: John B. Perham of Spring Lake, George W. McBride of Grand Haven and William Savidge of Grand Haven.

G. H. Courier-Journal: Mr. Perham, if nominated, would receive the hearty support of all classes of the Republican party, because he believes in carrying out the will of the people, and will not sanction, but will oppose ring rule of all kinds, which is getting so prevalent in this country. Give us John B. Perham as candidate, and the majority will roll up for him, as no other candidate has ever received. He is one of the people and for the people.

G. R. Democrat: The fight between Charles E. Belknap and William Alden Smith may result in neither of them receiving the nomination. Mr. Belknap wants what he is pleased to call another "vindication" for his defeat by Congressman Richardson and will not under any circumstances, if he can help it, stand aside this fall. Mr. Smith accepted in good faith Mr. Belknap's promise of two years ago that Belknap would lay aside his congressional ambition after that one time more and proposes to hold Mr. Belknap to it. The Kent delegation will be divided and if the division proves irreconcilable, as it is liable to be, Ottawa county will run George W. McBride into the race and McBride would in all probability be nominated. The Ionia delegation may have a candidate in Gen. J. H. Kidd or F. D. M. Davis, but would cheerfully support Mr. McBride's candidacy if the opportunity should present itself to teach the Grand Rapids Republicans a wholesome lesson in the uses and beauties of harmony.

The key to the congressional situation in the Fifth district is held by Kent county, or rather by Grand Rapids. That city has been honored, in the recent appointment of United States senator, and is said to claim and likely to receive further recognition at the hands of the Republican state convention in the nomination of Attorney-General. Ordinarily this would be considered ample to satisfy a legitimate local ambition. Whether or not the western metropolis of Michigan will be governed by a due regard to the claims and rights of its neighbors in this matter, is yet to be developed. If she insists upon taking everything that is in reach, she has the power to do so. In the Fifth district, as at present constituted, Kent constitutes more than one-half. The two other counties, Ionia and Ottawa, relatively speaking, are mere ciphers. Should it come to pass, however, that Grand Rapids in equity concedes the nomination of a congressman to this county, it will be time enough for the Republicans of Ottawa to consider the claims and the merits of those mentioned above, as well as of others.

They Are in Earnest.

The campaign waged in the famous Ashland district, Kentucky, by Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge, for a re-nomination to Congress, as a "vindication" of his past conduct, is growing in interest and excitement. W. C. Owens is the leading aspirant against him for the nomination. The latter entered upon his Campaign Monday, when he made his first speech at Georgetown, his home. The court-house was filled to overflowing and hundreds were turned away. Over 300 women were in the audience, and they all wore Owens badges. Nearly every sentence of his speech was received with cheers.

The following extracts show how Mr. Owens handled his distinguished opponent:

My candidacy involves no sensational features. It is not necessary in order for my election that you break down the respect which our people have always had for the courts of the country and persuade them that those tribunals organized for the protection of our citizens, have been converted into instruments of injustice. Neither is it necessary to believe that every newspaper man in the country is an unmitigated liar. To elect me it is not necessary to charge that more than one-half of our Democratic friend and the good women of our districts have become slanderers; to elect me it is not necessary to tear the vestments from the sacred altar and proclaim that the minister of the holy religion have abandoned their high calling and entered into a league with the devil to destroy the Lord's anointed. Tremendous applause.

But do not get enthusiastic, because there is something to be said on the other side of the question, for should I be defeated the Democratic party will continue to do business at the old stand. Hence I cannot hope to induce you to believe that I am a great political necessity—called to meet some special emergency in the affairs of the Nation. That is copyrighted for the use of the sitting member, who never feels his seat in Congress in danger that he does not discover some impending crisis—some terrible calamity threatening the Nation, and you will observe that as often as these crises do arise they arise during his own incumbency.

But despite these absurd claims, the most ridiculous claims imaginable, you are not excused from the discharge of your duty, for in the coming months of the present year you are to write a chapter in the history of this district by which you will tell not only the world of to-day but the coming generations what manner of people you are. Not in anger, yet not in sympathy, but calmly and dispassionately, in the clear, cold light of duty, you must discharge that task.

"Right here I want to say a word to the moral classes, they who fear that the objectionable contestant will retain his present position. In all the wide world's history no man, under such circumstances, was ever elected by the votes of a free people to a post of honor, and it cannot be that under the blaze of the nineteenth century civilization, and here in the garden of the gods, we have developed a more immoral and obtuse people than the world has ever seen. No man can hope to win a verdict from intelligence and from virtue with every moral force at variance with his candidacy. I care nothing for mock heroic marshaling of the powers of God against the people who oppose him. Before the touch of illigence they flee away as the idle chaff before the highest breezes.

Remember as you write that verdict that 60,000,000 of people await Kentucky's answer to the impudent and defiant challenge of avowed crime and brazen infamy. In the name of impugned manhood and womanhood of Kentucky, I say unbind the stocks that hold your feet and go to the polls and vote against this self-confessed adulterer."

Death of Nellie D. Huntley.

A cloud of sorrow—of deep affliction—passed over the family of Mr. James Huntley of this city on Friday afternoon by the death of their daughter Nellie, the more so, because this death was occasioned by her own act. The victim of an uncontrollable despondency unknown even to the members of the household until partially revealed by the deplorable act, she laid violent hands upon her life, in deliberately placing a loaded gun against her stomach and, by pulling the trigger with her foot, sent the full charge into her body, expiring very soon thereafter.

Neither was the gloom occasioned by this tragedy limited to the family and relatives; it pervaded the entire community. Of whomsoever such a desperate act could have been expected, not of Nellie Huntley, whose happy home, sunny disposition, and tenderness of feeling apparently forever precluded its possibility. All that is known from the contents of two notes written prior to committing the deed is that the course of her affections had not run smoothly of late, and that the disappointment or grief occasioned thereby had pictured to her mind a future of sorrow and despair, which she deemed it preferable to evade. Beyond this it is not for us to penetrate. There is and perhaps always will remain, even to those to whom she was so near, something mysterious and insolvable. Nellie was a lovely girl, and to the large circle of her friends the sad thought cannot escape that her youthful career went down so tragical in the morning of life. All bade her a sad farewell.

Nellie D. Huntley was twenty years old Dec. 6 last, and was born on the spot, which has since developed into that attractive home in the southern part of the city, from which she was buried on Monday. The demonstration at the house of mourning was but the echo of a universal sympathy, nearly one hundred carriages escorting the remains to their final resting place, where all that was mortal of Nellie was left amid a profusion of flowers and evergreen. The services, which were very brief, were conducted by Rev. H. G. Birchby and Prof. J. W. Beardslee. The pall-bearers were Otto P. Kramer, Gerrit Steketee, Dr. A. Lambert, Nick Yonkman, Wm. Trott and Tim Smith. The Y. W. C. A., of which Nellie was a cherished member, was also represented by the "social committee" consisting of seven members, Nellie having been the eighth. These acted as an escort: Mary Cooley, Maggie Meusen, Minnie Kramer, Renie Sprietsma, Beatrice Kimpton, Nellie Koning, Annie Nibbelink.

The British Commissioners to the World's Exposition at Chicago have issued their report. It declares that the exhibition was not merely the largest but the most magnificent that has been seen, and that it cannot be denied that the undertaking was courageous in reception, splendid in execution, and successful in results. Contrasting it with former exhibitions, the report says it was the manner of showing the goods more than the goods themselves that attracted attention. A feature was the general effect and splendor of the buildings and the beauty of the situation.

Thursday it stopped raining. Let it stop—for a while.

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

Prospects of the Organization of An Active Club in Holland.

THE RESULT OF THE BALL GAME AND WRESTLING MATCH.

Within the past few months steps have been taken towards the promotion of athletic sports in Holland, and the News will heartily endorse any movement in this direction. Our neighboring city Grand Haven lays claim to a well organized Athletic Club, with well fitted-out and commodious quarters, including plunge bath and all the opportunities required for the development of physical strength.

Through the generosity of ten citizens who take an interest in athletics, a ball field has been provided at the intersection of Columbia ave and Eighteenth street. A substantial fence has been built about the grounds and a mere nominal price of admission will be charged to those who desire to witness the games.

The home club, which has chosen the name "O. C. T.," played an opening game last Saturday on the new grounds and came out victorious by a score of 20 to 4. Their competitors were the Berlin club, which came here purely for a friendly game and to initiate the new ball field. The north-easter that prevailed at the time of the game was not favorable for good ball playing. The visitors demonstrated however that they could make some safe hits and a run now and then.

As to the "home boys," they seemed to be in prime shape in their all-around positions, and played a game that they need not be ashamed of. There was some very clever pitching by J. Ver Schure, who sent nine men back to the benches without a "hit". He was well backed by Alfred Huntley, who very carefully picked up the balls after they passed the plate. The Holland boys did not seem at all afraid of soiling their new uniforms, which they were proud of when they came into the grounds. These uniforms were paid for by a number of public-spirited citizens, who take an active interest in athletic gatherings.

From the outside it is learned by the News that challenges have been offered by many of the local clubs of the state, including Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Lansing, Grand Haven and Detroit.

Attached is the official score of the first game at the new park:

Pender out for batting out of order.

Saturday evening there was quite a good-sized crowd gathered at the Lyceum Opera House to witness a "catch-as-catch-can" wrestling match between Billy Murphy and W. M. Whistler. The former was out-classed by weight by 20 or more pounds, but he demonstrated his staying qualities. In the start-off Murphy was given two points, and Gaspar St. Germain, who is well posted on wrestling, was asked to referee the bout.

It was agreed that Whistler should throw his opponent within 30 minutes with the strangle hold barred. They clutched and for a time there seemed to be blood in both men's eyes, but after a struggle Murphy succeeded in placing Whistler's shoulder to the floor. The time allowance being 30 minutes gave Whistler another chance for wind, but he did not seem inclined to handle his opponent as he should have done. The referee decided the match in favor of Murphy, which created some ill-feeling and may result in another more energetic engagement between the two in the future.

As side issues there were sparring matches between Arie Van der Hill and Arthur Clavell; Arthur Roost and Billy Murphy; Chas. Blom and Billy Whistler. These events were all interesting and exciting, as those who participated in them were well known locally. A Roost held down the professional in "good shape" and let him know that there was some one in Holland who could "handle his dukes." Dr. Wetmore, who refereed this bout, was struck a glancing blow which nearly sent him back of the wings.

Take it as a whole both the ball and the sparring and wrestling match stirred up much enthusiasm among the many young men in Holland, votaries of athletic sports. Steps are now being taken to organize and equip a substantial athletic club, where amateurs can not only have all the contrivances for the development of their muscles but can also participate in running, walking, leaping and other contests.

The mock trial Tuesday evening, for the benefit of John Kramer Camp S. of V., was witnessed by a fair audience. The respondent W. A. Holley was found guilty of stealing Mayor Hummer's game cock. G. J. Diekema appeared for the defendant and Geo. E. Kollen, for the state. The case was tried before Squire Gillespie. The witnesses on both sides brought out some very interesting facts auxiliary to the case; the attorneys were in the best of spirits, producing many a ripple at the expense of some poor helpless citizen; and the jury, which was composed of John L. Sullivan, Grover Cleveland, Dr. Tallmadge, Tom Thumb, Gen. Coxey, and dep. game warden Harrington—all representative men of this city and nation—were highly complimented upon the fact that they were allowed to sit on so important a case. After listening to the argument, replete with witticisms, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. The judge sentenced Mr. Holley to be confined in one of his own flour barrels. At the conclusion of the trial Mr. Kellogg entertained the audience with a laughable seance, while some of our innocent citizens were called upon the stage to have their profundity exposed. On the whole it was a pleasant evening. Mayor Hummer being obliged to leave the city before the trial was finished, sent the following message from Detroit Wednesday: "When will it be safe for me to return?"

"Nothing but rain, with a drift of snow now and again." It was only 9 degrees above freezing on Friday last, and you can hear the farmers grumbling wherever you go. Some have got their corn planted and some have not. If we did have an early spring and a mild winter nothing seems to grow. A petition is being circulated and quite generally signed in Manlius township, addressed to the war department and asking it not to compel the erection of a swing bridge at New Richmond. The river is represented as being of no use for navigation above New Richmond and hence the absence of a necessity for a swing in the bridge.

SAILED THE SEAS 38 YEARS.

One of His Experiences.

For thirty-eight years Capt. Loud followed the sea, most of that time as master of a vessel, and upon retiring from the water was appointed by the Secretary of the United States Treasury to superintend the seal fisheries in Alaska, which position he held five years. He relates one experience as follows:

"For several years I had been troubled with general nervousness and pain in the region of my heart. My greatest affliction was sleeplessness; it was almost impossible at any time to obtain rest and sleep. Having seen Dr. Miles' remedies advertised I began using Nervine. After taking a small quantity the benefit received was so great that I was positively alarmed, thinking the remedy contained opiates which would finally be injurious to me; but on being assured by the druggist that it was perfectly harmless, I continued to take it with the Heart Cure. Today I can conscientiously say that Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure did more for me than anything I had ever taken. I had been treated by eminent physicians in New York and San Francisco without benefit. I owe my present good health to the judicious use of these most valuable remedies, and heartily recommend them to all afflicted as I was."—Capt. A. P. Loud, Hampden, Me.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, express prepaid. They are free from all opiates and dangerous drugs.

Sold by all druggists.

"Only the Scars Remain,"

Says HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., who certifies as follows:

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc., none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come upon my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

Mother Urged Me

Wheat Ship Is Captured, and Crew of 17 Freed; the Men Are Deceived—List of Michigan Sailors Lost During the Storm.

BEAVED THE STORM.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 21.—In an effort to save the crew of the schooner William Shupe, which was water-logged 14 miles out Friday night and drifted to shore 5 miles north Saturday, four volunteer life savers were drowned. The dead are Angus King, Capt. Henry Little, William Lewis and Barney Mills. Capt. Daniel Lynn swam ashore and was saved.

The crew of six men and a woman cook of the Shupe took to the rigging. The tug Thompson attempted to go to rescue them, but the wind was blowing such a gale that it could not get out of the St. Clair river. Saturday morning the tug succeeded in reaching the disabled schooner, but could not get near enough to be of any assistance. It returned to Port Huron and secured a large yawl and an extra force of men and started for the schooner. They reached the boat and made fast, but before they could communicate with those on board the Shupe the yawl capsized and all except Daniel Lynn were drowned.

An Argument Against Capital Punishment.

It has just been discovered that John Van Nemen is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Jackson, Mich., for murdering John Crow near Big Rapids, Mich., in 1886. John Crow, alive and robust, left Muncie, Ind., on Tuesday morning to secure Van Nemen's release. Before he left he told this strange story of the law's mistake:

"I am supposed to be dead. In the eyes of the public I was murdered nine years ago this month near Big Rapids, and now a man named John Van Nemen is serving a life sentence in the Michigan State Prison for that crime. I did not know anything was wrong until a few days ago when I read an article in a Detroit paper about an attempt being made to secure the pardon of a John Van Nemen, who is in the penitentiary on the charge of murdering me."

"May 18, 1885, I left my home at Van Wert, O., and started for the Michigan lumber camps, where I thought I could get work. My brother-in-law John Van Nemen, who had come from Mecosta county, a short time before decided to go with me. He went as far as Big Rapids. We ran out of money. Yet I tried to persuade my brother-in-law to go on with me. He decided, however, to return to Van Wert, to get his family and go to Iowa. I continued my journey, leaving John in Big Rapids. I went to Northern Michigan, crossed over into Canada, and finding I did not like living there went to Minnesota, where I staid in St. Paul three years working at different trades. I then left for the west, going from one town to another working in mines and on cattle ranches. I remained in the west until last summer, when I came to the World's Fair. I lived in Chicago until about six months ago and have lived since then in Terre Haute, Ind."

I came to this place, Muncie, May 13 and last Wednesday, while at my boarding-house, I read the article I mentioned. The paper further said the skeleton of a man had been found near Big Rapids, alongside the Chicago and West Michigan railroad, the same road I left on from Big Rapids, and when it was learned that I was missing the authorities supposed it was my skeleton. It was found in July, 1895, about ten days after I was there. It was known that John Van Nemen left Van Wert with me and he was accused of the murder. He had gone to Iowa, and was taken to Mecosta county, Mich., where he was tried and found guilty in the following October. The Judge sentenced him to life imprisonment in the State Prison at hard labor, and I suppose he is still there although an innocent man."

From Jackson it is reported that John Van Nemen is still in prison there, serving his life sentence for murdering his brother-in-law, John Crow. Attorney D. F. Glidden, who defended him, is now in Detroit and has of late been endeavoring to secure a new trial for Van Nemen on the ground that Crow is still alive.

The above is confirmed by the following dispatch from Big Rapids: The crime for which John Van Nemen was tried and sent to Jackson for life in 1886 was the murder of John Crow, July 8, 1885. The remains of a man was found a short distance from the city by a party of fishermen and from its appearance had been there for some time. The skull was crushed in and other evidence showed he had been murdered. The coroner's jury did not establish the identity of the victim or find any evidence pointing to the murderer. Inquiry from a small town in Ohio came to the sheriff here about John Crow, who had last been heard from in Big Rapids and from the description of the man and clothing he was supposed to have worn, the sheriff felt justified in believing that the murdered man was missing Crow. He visited Crow's home in Ohio and the clothes found on the murdered man were identified by his father and mother as the clothes Crow had worn when he left home. Van Nemen was found out in Kansas, brought here, tried, and sentenced to Jackson for life. The evidence was all circumstantial, but was considered conclusive by nearly every one familiar with the affair. The case was tried before Judge C. C. Fuller, and L. G. Palmer, who has been U. S. District Attorney for the last four years, was the Prosecuting Attorney. D. F. Glidden, who has since moved to Detroit, defended Van Nemen. Glidden has always maintained that Van Nemen was innocent.
