Crew Begins Laying Pipe To Zeeland

One side of River Ave. north of Black River bridge was closed to traffic today while construction crews tore up the west side of the Howard-River Ave. intersection to lay a water pipe which will connect with Zeeland when completed.

The pipe will be used for water Zeeland has agreed to buy from Holland.

Although the construction crew from the Frank J. Siller Co. of Ann Arbor has run into several problems, the hole on River Ave. should be filled before Thursday when heavy traffic is expected to travel River Ave. for Memorial Day.

The construction crew has had to dig deeper because of a sewer pipe crossing Howard Ave., just about where the present water pipe turns south at the intersection. The sewer pipe was added a couple of weeks ago while River Ave. was being paved and widened.

Water seeping up through the dirt has also had to be pumped out, causing delay.

Pipe is expected to be laid on the west side of River Ave. Friday, according to Siller, and from there, the pipe will be laid "right down the line" from Holland to Zeeland, a distance of about 23,000 feet. The pipe laying should be completed in about two months.

The pipe was expected to be laid across River Ave. before Tulip Time, but was delayed by widening and paving of North River Ave., and Tulip Time traffic.

Pipes brought in last week were also expected to be laid earlier this week, but was delayed by rainy weather, Siller said. The traffic signals at Howard and Douglas Ave. have been changed to blinking signals while the men work on River Ave.

Siller was contracted to lay the pipe at a low bid of $317,174.25.

The Zeeland agreement to purchase water from Holland city involves taking the water at off-peak hours. This will require storage facilities and Zeeland's plans calls for a 1.5 million gallon reservoir in the vicinity of the present water standpipe at the west end of Zeeland.

Zeeland was granted permission last November to use public right-of-way through Holland Township for the water line.

Huge Pine Tree Area Destroyed

PORT SHELDON—Fire of undetermined origin but which may have been started by picnickers burned over 90 acres of young pine trees at 160th Ave. and Stanton Rd. in Port Sheldon township late Sunday afternoon.

Nursery stock of Van's Pines and a good share of trees on government-owned land were lost in the blaze which at times threatened to spread to forested areas.

Fire departments from Blendon, Olive, Holland and Grand Haven townships plus the State Conservation Department and many volunteers, some from as far away as Fruitport, responded. Also responding were sheriff's officers and state police, the latter dealing with traffic.

A fortunate shift in winds helped control the blaze. The alarm came in at 5:04 p.m. and most fire fighting equipment left the scene by 7:45 p.m.

Loss was estimated at $5,000 to $10,000. Most of the trees were three to four feet tall and ready for harvest, commanding prices of $1 to $5 apiece.

Holland township fire department sent four pieces of equipment, two from the No. 1 station, one from the No. 2 station, and the pumper from No. 3 station. At one point, the fire threatened to jump the road trapping two pieces of equipment. One truck took off forward and Chief Andy Westenbroek in the other truck backed up for a good half mile.

Some residents in the area were evacuated when the fire threatened to spread rapidly in the early stages.

The Salvation Army of Holland set up a coffee and sandwich stand. Residents in the vicinity also brought food for the fire fighters.

Some volunteers remained on the scene for several hours to patrol the area after fire fighting equipment left the scene.

Grand Haven To Vote Again On Bond Issue

GRAND HAVEN — The Board of Education of the Grand Haven Community school district voted Tuesday night to resubmit a $3.4 million bond issue proposal voted down May 7 at another election next November, Supt. R. M. Van Volkinburgh announced today.

Approximately 100 citizens attended a special meeting of the board at its Park St. office Tuesday night and urged the board to take immediate action in an attempt to ease the crowded conditions in the junior high school and in the elementary schools, caused by the burning of Central School Jan. 28.

The board again stressed its stand that the overall program of including a new junior high school and additions and new construction in the elementary schools is sound, and decided to resubmit the entire project as early as possible in November.

The board plans to break down proposed program into several "packages" giving the voters an opportunity to vote on various phases of the program. Estimated costs of the proposed plan of construction was broken down by Van Volkinburgh, the largest item being the junior high school on South Griffin St. costing $1,935,000.

May Banquet in Durfee Closes Season for AAUW

A new president and secretary for the term 1963-1965 were installed Thursday night at the annual May banquet of the Holland Branch of the American Association of University Women.

New officers are Mrs. Henry Godshalk, president, and Mrs. Joan Brieve, secretary. Completing the second year of their term of office are Mrs. Zoe Murray, vice president, and Mrs. G. S. MacKenzie, treasurer. The meeting was held at Durfee Hall on the Hope College campus, with Mrs. Preston Luidens, retiring president, presiding.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Dorothea Wyatt, who is the chairman of the committee on Higher Education on the State Board of the AAUW. She is a professor of history at the University of Michigan Extension at Flint, a member of the Flint Library Board, and a former president of the Flint branch of the AAUW.

Her topic was "Women are here to stay — why not prepare for it?" or "Challenging Women in a Changing Social World." She said that women do live longer than men, so they should be prepared for this long life. She said that by the year 2000 there will be 145 women for every 100 men. It seems that the life expectancy increases at a greater proportion for women than men.

Dr. Wyatt stated that society expects the best from women no matter what role they play. She said there are four roles which women can fill. These are the wife and mother, the consumer, citizens of the community, including both volunteer activities and politics, and the role of worker or producer.

Mixing much humor in her serious discussion Dr. Wyatt said that in the role of consumer "if spending will get us into prosperity, then women are the New Frontier's answer." She said that the opportunity for paid employment for women has risen greatly and is steadily rising, and the number of years which a woman works is also increasing. In the 1900's the average length of time for a woman to work was 11 years, for now it is 25. Also, 60 per cent of the working women are married.

Dr. Wyatt feels that because of the longer life expectancy and the greater opportunity, women, starting with high school age girls, must prepare themselves by taking the right subjects in high school and college. She suggested that the "career woman" is an important role to prepare for as well as that of wife and mother.

There is a great need for women dentists, doctors and technicians. If women would prepare while they are young for these fields, even if they should marry and not continue to work, when the time comes that they need or want to go back to work, they would "brush up" on the subjects they had once learned in order to get a very good job. Women do have leadership, courage, determination and should be given the opportunity for a job where opportunity exists — and they must prepare for this role.

After the program Mrs. Luidens, retiring president, conducted a short business meeting. She recognized the new members to the branch this year by presenting them each with a rose. They are Mrs. Ted Boeve, Mrs. George Buskirk, Mrs. Kenneth Cox, Mrs. Harold Fairbanks, Mrs. John Garber, Miss Mildred Gloss, Mrs. Milton Johnston, Mrs. David Linn, Mrs. Kenneth Leggett, Mrs. John McReynolds, Jr., Miss Clara Reeverts, Mrs. Harriet Prins, Mrs. Frank Perkins, Mrs. Don Rohick, Mrs. William Oosterink, and Mrs. Martha Wagbo. A silent tribute was paid to Miss Mary McClean, who had been a new member this year.

Mrs. Luidens thanked the membership for their support during the year, and thanked the committee in charge of the final dinner. Mrs. Jerome Counihan was chairman, with Mrs. James Lovelless as coordinating chairman and Mrs. Don Rohick in charge of table decorations including flowers from Miss Katherine Post. They were assisted by Mrs. David Linn. Mrs. Luidens then introduced the new president, Mrs. Godshalk, who reminded the group of the aims of AAUW and asked the members to "ask not what AAUW can do for you but what you can do for AAUW."

Karen Mullett Is Happy 'Queen' at Club's Dinner

Little 5-year-old Karen Mullett was one of the happiest girls in Holland Thursday—as happy as a girl with cerebral palsy could be anyway.

Sitting in her wooden throne—a wheeled chair—Karen was crowned queen for the day by the American Business Club at a dinner Thursday at the American Legion Memorial Park Clubhouse. In return, she recited the pledge of allegiance to the flag for the club members.

Karen will be the recipient of a new wheel chair from the Business Club, which is sponsoring a circus May 31 to raise funds for chairs for Karen and other victims of cerebral palsy in this area.

Karen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mullett, of 16 East 17th St., has had cerebral palsy since birth. Cerebral palsy is a disability due to damage of brain cell resulting in imperfect control of muscles.

Karen and Marla Westra, 11, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Westra of New Holland St., Zeeland, will receive "heel chairs from the proceeds from the circus May 31 sponsored by the American Business Club and the Zeeland Rotary Club. The chairs cost about $350 each. Fifty per cent of all advance ticket sales will go toward buying the chairs and ten per cent of door sales. The big tent will go up Friday near M-21 and 120th Ave.

Money left over after the two chairs have been bought will be used for other wheel chairs for cerebral palsy victims and crippled children.

The Sweet Adeline group sang a medley of nursery rhymes specially for Karen at the American Club dinner. The club was also celebrating its first birthday anniversary for the Holland chapter.

Tickets for the circus may be obtained from American Business Club members, Zeeland Rotarians, the Sweet Adelines and local merchants.

Yes, honestly, most accidents happen to people just like you!

Contrary to popular opinion, the record shows that all types of people are involved in highway accidents. It isn't just a drinking driver or joy-riding teenager . . . even though they cause more than their share.

A thoughtless moment, by good solid citizens like you and neighbors on your street, is the heaviest contributor to the increasing toll of deaths, injuries, and damaged cars.

Don't count yourself out. Making Michigan's streets and highways safer is a job for all drivers. Drive even more carefully . . . for your own sake, and to help make motoring safer for everyone.

AN IMPORTANT DATE

Tuesday, May 21, 1963, may well go down as an important date in the economic history of the United States. It was on this date that the farmers of American reversed a 30-year-old trend toward socialized control of farm production and prices and made it perfectly clear to their fellow citizens that the loss of freedoms which they suffered while enjoying government subsidies was too high a price to pay for the benefits derived.

At least three groups of people have been made happy by the results of last week's referendum to abandon wheat controls. First are those farmers who pride themselves in their own self-reliance and ability to run their own business ventures with at least as much success as when the government makes their decisions for them. This group also feels a twinge of conscience about selling their political influence for an artificially high and unearned price for the farm goods they produce.

Secondly, the American consumer will be happy that market prices will again determine the price of flour and bread because it has become painfully evident that in this area of family expenditures their own government has been less kind than the competitive market system. At least now the government's avowed interest in fighting inflation can be stripped of deceit and inconsistency.

Thirdly, all Americans who have an honest belief in the efficacy of the free enterprise system will be happy to see an end to the most dangerous experiment which had been leading us to abandon the very principles that made our country rich and strong. The spectacle of the last bulwark of private enterprise giving way to the persistent demands of state planners at the same time that the Russians were using private enterprise incentives to try to correct the basic weaknesses of their system, created a paradox which everyone except our own legislators seemed to recognize. The whole free world can learn a lesson from the American experiment.

There will be some bitter experiences ahead for some farmers as the market place relentlessly corrects the abuses of 30 years but the advantages that accrue from following the laws of supply and demand will be worth the cost of these temporary adjustments.

We hope Congress will respect the wishes of the farmers as indicated on Tuesday, May 21, 1963.

The Law of the Lord
Psalm 119:33-40; 105-112
By C. P. Dame

Many people dislike laws and rules and regulations for they want to have freedom. The writer of Psalm 119 was delighted with the law of God which expresses God's will for life. His attitude merits imitation. If more people would look upon God's blue print for life as He did the world's condition would be far better.

I. We all need divine instruction. Some realize it, many do not.

The Psalmist asked for it. "Teach me, O Lord." "Give me understanding." "Make me to go in the path of Thy commandments." "Incline my heart unto Thy testimonies," these words and others show his desire for divine understanding of how to live.

In this the longest of all the Psalms, it contains 178 verses, there are many references to the Word of God. There are only five verses in which there is no reference to God's Word. The author uses nine different words to describe God's Word — ordinances, way, judgments, precepts, statutes, commandments, testimonies, law and word. Every one of these words suggests a truth.

Not only did the Psalmist feel the need of divine instruction but he also expresses his love for the Word. The Psalm is a beautiful love song about God's law.

"The words, 'I have rejoiced in the way of thy testimonies,' 'I delight in thy law,' 'I love thy precepts,' 'Oh, how love I thy law,' are proofs of his devotion to God's law for which he felt a great need.

The Psalmist was conscious of the need of divine authority in human life. In all of us there is the desire to do our own will even though it is contrary to God's Word. The Psalmist longed for God's help to resist covetousness, to turn the eyes away from the worthless and the false, and for strength to be loyal to God's law.

We all must have both the divine instruction and the strength to put it into practice and live it. II. God's Word is a lamp.

We live in a day of confusion. Many people do not know what is right or wrong. Not a few say, "I want" all the time but rarely say, "I ought."

There is a marked contrast between the ways of the world and those of God. The Word of God gives light and points out the way we should go. The Word is a light "that shineth in a dark place." This is the light people need.

The Bible also informs us how to do the right. "Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee," so said the Psalmist. Yet not follow his example? Do not conclude that by obeying God's Word life will be a bed of roses. The Psalmist had his troubles. "I am afflicted very much," so he wrote. The more troubles he had the more he clung to the Lord and stuck to His commandments. In the midst of troubles he found real joy in studying, in meditating and practicing the Law of God. He was wholly committed to the Lord—that was the secret.

Have you got the secret?

Road Construction Today Far Cry From the Old Days

ALLEGAN—Back in 1921 when they were building Allegan county's first hard-surfaced road, US-31, the call went out for men and teams to help with the project and four husky Pullman area boys were among the first to sign up.

Road construction was in its infancy in Michigan and the lure of "big money"—$5 a day for team and driver, 35 cents an hour for labor—proved mighty attractive to the four childhood friends, Carl Goodwin and his brother, Al, Lem Armintrout and Harry Pickett.

From that first highway job grew two of the state's largest road building firms, one of which—Carl Goodwin and Sons, Inc.—is now nearing the end of its 40th year of road and bridge construction.

It was in 1922 that the four decided to organize their own company. Armed with "a lot of determination and a little experience," they tackled their first job that year, grading and graveling a three-mile stretch running north from Dorr, in Allegan county.

Later, the same year, they bought ten "wheelers" to finish another job, this one near Hilliards, just west of Wayland. These primitive "earth movers" consisted of an iron scoop, slung between two wheels and pulled by two horses. It also took two men to handle a "wheeler," one to drive the team and the other—preferably a strong, 200-pounder—to raise the scoop when it was full.

Carl Goodwin recalls that this outfit would move about a quarter of a cubic yard of earth—"or about half of what you could get in the operator's cab of one of today's mammoth earth movers."

Today's road builders move dirt in cubic-yard batches in equipment like the 45-ton "Euclids" operated by a single skilled driver, so familiar around Michigan road building jobs.

Lem Armintrout dropped out of the original combine in 1925 to go into the food marketing business. In 1930 Al Goodwin also left the firm.

The company continued as Pickett and Goodwin until 1938 when, after completing a grading job at Six Lakes, Mich., the partnership was dissolved. The dissolution was a friendly one, with Goodwin planning to concentrate on road and bridge building and Pickett specializing in road materials and construction, with gravel plants spanning the entire lower peninsula.

In 1939 Goodwin acquired a one-time chicken hatchery on the outskirts of Allegan. A barn and silo in back was razed and the hill these buildings stood on became fill dirt for the M-89 bridge and causeway which the company built in Allegan over the Kalamazoo river. As the firm grew, the former chicken hatchery became its ultra modern main office, with hatchery sounds replaced by the hum of two-way radio communications, and the pecking of electric typewriters and teletype printers.

The two firms which had their beginnings more than 40 years ago are now among the city's largest employers. Goodwin's—which became Carl Goodwin and Sons, Inc., in 1942—will employ more than 150 at the peak of the construction season, while Pickett & Schreier, Inc., will have more than 125 on their payroll.

Two other road construction firms with headquarters in Allegan, are also the outgrowth of the original combine. The James Harris Co. and Milbocker and Sons were formed by men who got their experience with Pickett and Goodwin.

After completing much of the $50 million Grand Rapids-Kalamazoo Freeway last fall, Goodwin is looking forward to another busy season. With more than $7 million in work already under contract, this year's projects will include nearly 21½ miles of the new US-31 freeway in Allegan and Van Buren counties with 14 bridge structures and a 560-foot bridge over the Kalamazoo river at Saugatuck.

Bridging the Kalamazoo is old stuff for Goodwin crews. Since 1938 they have built spans across the river five times.

The combined investment in manpower and equipment—represented by the four firms which grew from the original, 40-year-old partnership—would be difficult to compute—and probably staggering even to the founders themselves... those husky farm boys to whom "man and team, $5 a day" sounded so promising.

Exchange Club Tours James Campbell Plant

Members of the Holland Exchange Club were guests on Monday of the James H. Campbell power plant on Lake Michigan near Port Sheldon.

After lunch members of the staff of the plant took groups of six on a tour through the plant. A view of the surrounding territory was seen from the roof where guests were taken to follow the course of the immense amount of water the plant uses.

The output of the plant is sufficient to supply the Grand Rapids area, but a second unit is to be erected within a few years. The visitors were told that the plant was located in this area because of the availability of water and the large acreage needed for the storage of coal and deposits of ash. The plant site has 1,300 acres. The James H. Campbell plant uses 100 tons of coal per day.

Parent-Teacher Club Elects 1963-64 Officers

A motion was passed to use the balance of this year's treasury to buy equipment for each school room as each teacher sees fit.

Following the business meeting, a musical program was presented by the students. Al Kruswyk, band teacher, led Mary Jane Gosen, Michael Harrington and Kenneth Bos in a cornet trio. A clarinet duet was presented by Beverly Lee and Diana Russell.

Mrs. Marcelyn Weersing, music teacher, directed vocal numbers given by grades on through seven. The theme was "Join Hands With the World in Song." Grade five had as a grand finale a choral reading "Pirate Don Dirk." John Hoogstra accompanied Mrs. Weersing on the piano.

SILVER DOLLARS — Al H. Adair, manager of the Grand Rapids Brink's office hands a bag of 1,000 dollar pieces to Heinz financial controller Herbert Colton Jr. The bags of money, which weigh about 62 pounds, were used by H. J. Heinz Friday to pay its employees. Holding another bag of money (right) is Wilbur Cobb, manager of the Holland Heinz plant. Pay Out $30,000 In Silver Dollars

Holland coin collectors should have a field day today searching for rare silver dollars. Over 30,000 of them are being circulated in this area by H. J. Heinz employees who received the coins in lieu of their paychecks Friday.

The unusual payoffs are part of a Michigan Week promotion to illustrate the significant contribution that Heinz makes to the economic wellbeing of the Holland area.

The silver coins have already begun clinking over counters of super markets, clothing stores and gas stations. Heinz employees were advised to spend the money as they would a regular pay check.

Any Heinz employee who wants to "hoard" the silver dollars, according to Wilbur Cobb, Holland plant manager, can exchange his savings for extra silver dollars on hand. Silver paid as salary, he said, were to be spent.

One Heinz employee, H. B. Penick general department head, walked off with $800 or 50 pounds worth of silver dollars Friday. In addition to his salary, he traded paper currency for the silver. The coins will be used to pay debts, he said.

Heinz employees went through the usual procedure of drawing their checks Friday. Only the checks weren't any good — they weren't signed. The employees, however, endorsed the checks and returned them to the Heinz company in exchange for their silver dollars salary.

Heinz officials had been planning for several months for Friday's silver-dollar day. At first, they weren't too sure they could accumulate $30,000 worth of silver dollars, as they aren't too plentiful.

But through the aid of the Detroit Old Kent Federal Reserve Bank, the coins were massed and delivered by a Brink's security armored truck of Grand Rapids at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

The money was first taken to Grand Rapids Wednesday by another Brink's truck, where Brink's employees counted the money out into money bags, each containing the amount each employee was to receive. The money was then brought to Holland under the safekeeping of three Brink's guards, and the armored truck.

The Old Kent Bank in Detroit charged Holland First National Bank for the $30,000. Heinz, in turn, turned over a $30,000 check to First National Bank President Henry Maentz, fulfilling the debt to the Detroit bank.

The silver dollar payoff is part of an eight-day program which incorporates tours through the Heinz plant, product displays in buildings throughout the downtown area, gifts, grocery sales and special awards to shoppers.

For the first time, Cobb said, all grocery stores in Holland are supplied with all varieties of Heinz products.

Answer Letter On Services To Federal Area

City Council met in special session late Friday afternoon to draft an answer to a letter from Raymond Kootstra, residing in Federal school district, who had questioned city policies on water service, schools, and the like, in view of a scheduled election of Federal area to annex to the West Ottawa school district, and the possibilities of being included in incorporating a new city to be called Van Meer.

The answer to Kootstra made it clear that the present policy on water service is to provide such service only to residents of the city, and that the city is entirely within its rights to discontinue water service already established in Federal district.

Rather than make drastic decisions, Council's letter appeals to those already having service to be thoughtful and considerate of those who do not have such service and actively join them in efforts to annex to the city of Holland.

Should Federal district be incorporated into Van Meer, Council said it naturally would follow that the new municipality would provide water, sewer and other services and would insist that all residents share in the cost.

Federal district is less than one square mile and is surrounded on three sides by Holland city and on the fourth by Black River. Its borders are Fairbanks Ave., 16th St., and 120th Ave. Considerable acreage including Smallenburg Park, Pilgrim Home cemetery No. 1 within these borders already have been annexed to Holland city under the unilateral annexation law of Michigan.

In replying to Kootstra's letter, Council pointed out that while the letter is addressed to him as a resident, it is in fact addressing all residents of the area.

Kootstra's first question: We are told that the only way people in Federal district can get city water service is to join the city by annexation. Is this assumption correct?

Answer: Yes, the present policy of the city of Holland is to provide water services only to residents of the city of Holland.

Question: If the answer is "yes" is there any legal way that those presently receiving water service can be suspended from receiving city water supply? It is our observation that many of those presently receiving city water are strongly opposed to city annexation, thus depriving those who need and want water and do favor city annexation from obtaining water service.

Answer: Yes, we have been advised by our legal counsel that in the absence of producing records of permanent rights by the individual users of Holland city water, Holland City Council is entirely within its rights to discontinue water services in Federal district.

Your communication also states that some of the present users are opposed to annexation because they already have this desirable service. If this is true we appeal to those who have the service to be thoughtful, and considerate of those who do not and actively join with them in the efforts to annex to the city of Holland. The operation of a city is no simple task and the cost of all services should be shared equitably by those who enjoy them. A city is not a purpose in itself but its existence is justified only on the basis of its providing a wholesome and pleasant place to reside and earn a living.

Question: There is a petition before the Board of Supervisors which includes Federal school district in the City of Van Meer incorporation made up of much of the Holland township north of Black River. If the court allows the Van Meer petition and a new city of Van Meer is established, will Holland still allow water service to those presently receiving city water? Would Holland allow any other Federal area residents of Van Meer to connect to Holland city water mains, since, if Van Meer becomes a city, annexation of any part of Federal district to Holland would, as a practical matter, be impossible?

Answer: If any such eventuality should materialize it would naturally follow that the new municipality would need to provide water, sewer and other services for its residents and would insist that all its residents share in the cost of these services. In addition to water and sewer, most cities provide services for protection of life and property and cultural and recreational facilities. Because of your geographical location we think that the city of Holland is better prepared to provide all these services.

Kootstra's letter has also asked the school's stand on receiving Federal students, and Council's letter incorporated these answers previously submitted by the Board of Education.

1. Those pupils of Federal district now in grades seven to 12 in West Ottawa will be permitted to enter the Holland school system and continue until graduation.

2. If Federal school district votes against school district annexation to West Ottawa June 10, the Holland school district will accept until graduation all high school students from Federal district. Acceptance of new students into the Holland school system will be reviewed from time to time by the Holland board to insure that steps are being taken by Federal district ultimately to bring about annexation to Holland district.

The letter concludes: "It is hoped that all residents of Federal school district will think through the problems of 'city life' and join with us in a cooperative effort to make this a better community." Signed by Mayor Nelson Bosman and City Council.

In one other item of business, Council granted a rubbish license to John Kootman, of 173 East Fifth St. The application had been tabled Wednesday.

SILVER DOLLARS — There had to be days like this. When Ruth Sparks of 175 East 28th St., reached out to receive the money for the coffees she had just served, the five men from H. J. Heinz held out their silver dollars. They went to the B & G Drive Inn at 393 Cleveland Ave. Friday to see how a clerk, or in this case, a waitress would react to receiving the rarely seen silver dollars. Left to right, the Heinz personnel are G.E. Stephens of 134 West 22nd St., personnel manager; Al Hildebrands of 51 East 34th St., agricultural manager; David A. Hope Dedicates Historic Marker

A marker relating the history of Hope College was unveiled at a special "Heritage Convocation" Friday at 12 St. and College Ave. before Hope students and representatives of local organizations.

Acting Hope President John W. Hollenbach called the marker a "billboard" of Hope, a "reminder" that Hope was making history, and a "pointer" toward the future. The historic site marker is the 231st to be registered with the state of Michigan, since 1955. Willard C. Wichers, president of the Michigan Historical Commission, told the gathering. Another marker is also located in Centennial Park, telling of the Dutch arrival in Michigan.

Wynand Wichers, former president of Hope College, from 1931 to 1945, also gave an address on the highlights of Hope's heritage in Dimment Memorial Chapel preceding the ceremony. The Hope Heritage Day coincides with Heritage Day of Michigan Week.

The green and gold plaque marker reads:

"In 1851, four years after settlers from the Netherlands founded Holland, the Pioneer School was established to meet some of the educational needs of the young colony. This school, the predecessor of Hope College, received direction and financial support from the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America. The school evolved into the Holland Academy, which in 1862 enrolled its first college class. On May 14, 1866, the institution was chartered as Hope College, and on July 17, 1866, the first class of eight students was graduated. The college's name, seal, and motto are derived from a statement of the founder of Holland, Rev. Albertus C. Van Raalte, who said of the Pioneer School, 'This is my Anchor of Hope for this people in the future.' In the decades that followed, a strong college of arts and sciences was developed which continues to serve the church and the community."

Schipper said the change is made because the board is not certain that the voting machines at city hall will be released and free for use by June 10 because of the recount of the voting on Michigan's new constitution proposal which is now in progress.

There are four candidates seeking the two school board positions open on the ballot. Both positions are for four-year terms.

Woman Pulls Boy Ashore

"If a medal were available for quick thinking and acting," two Holland patrolmen wrote in their report Saturday, "we think it should go to Mrs. Henrietta Driesenga of 450 Rifle Range Rd." Mrs. Driesenga saved an 11-year-old boy from possibly drowning in Lake Macatawa.

Mrs. Driesenga was sitting in a parked car near the Kollen Park boat dock when her husband Ronald yelled from a boat that a boy on a bicycle had fallen into the lake.

David Moore Jr., of 268 West 11th St., had been riding his bicycle along the shore when the bicycle hit a bump, knocking him into the water with his bicycle. His trousers had hooked onto the bicycle and he went down with it.

Mrs. Driesenga acted quickly. She saw that her husband was unable to get to shore in time.

Getting out of the car, she ran down a hill, jumped a fence and caught the boy after he had risen to the surface and was about to go down for a second time.

David, who had been under water from the time it took Mrs. Driesenga to get from her car to the shore, and managed to free himself of the bicycle and rose to the surface to Mrs. Driesenga's waiting hands.
