were separated in Warsaw, Poland, when she was 18 years old. Julius and another brother Simon were able to move to Argentina. It is believed the rest of the Arenzon family was killed during World War II. (Sentinel photo)

Local Person Is Reunited With Brother

A family reunion with an extra touch of happiness is being held for Mrs. Helen Becker, 181 Columbia Ave., who was reunited with her brother, Julius Arenzon of Buenos Aires, Argentina, whom she hasn't seen in 44 years.

Arenzon and his wife, Emma, arrived in Holland last Sunday after spending some time with their children in Milwaukee, Wis.

Mrs. Becker and her brother had not seen each other since she left Warsaw, Poland, at the age of 18. She was reunited with another brother, Simon, in 1952. Simon still resides in Argentina where he is a wholesale jeweler.

Mrs. Becker and her two brothers are the only known living members of the family since they left Warsaw after World War I.

Mrs. Becker said four brothers, one a Jewish Rabbi, and two sisters and her mother and father, also a Rabbi, were believed killed by the Nazis.

While Mrs. Becker was able to come to the United States where she first lived in Chicago, Julius was forced to go to South America.

Mrs. Becker met her husband in Chicago. They owned a dry goods store in Chicago until the depression when they lost everything and moved to Holland to take over the junk business owned by Becker's brother. Mrs. Becker's husband died last year in Wichita, Kans. Julius owned and operated a textile factory in South America. He sent for Emma and they were married in Buenos Aires.

The Arenzons have three children living in Milwaukee, one married daughter in New York City and four grandchildren. One son in Milwaukee will be married in November.

The Arenzons will now live in the United States. They are learning to speak English and Arenzon will find work either in Milwaukee or New York.

While personal losses cannot be erased, Mrs. Becker has these moments of happiness to treasure.

Seventh-day Adventist Graduation Honors Three

Graduation exercises for three eighth grade students at the Holland Seventh-day Adventist elementary school took place Tuesday at the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Elder William Tol, pastor of the church, gave the address. He talked about the class motto, "To Keep on Trying," and class aim, "To Do Our Reasonable Service." Then he gave to class colors, "Pink and White," which always seems to be the least important, a special significance. He told the graduates that white always stands for purity and that he associates pink with keeping the body healthy and strong so that God could use them in His service.

Ivan Bezon presented the diplomas, and Maurice Wright, the principal of the school, offered the benediction.

The students graduating were: Marilyn Oetman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Oetman, Claudia Slikkers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Slikkers, and Robert Slikkers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Slikkers.

Gladiolas and mums decorated the Seventh-day Adventist church and the lights were dimmed as Kathy Lankheet and Daniel Benjamin, seventh graders, lit the candles to start the service.

Miss Marian Blake was the organist for the service. Mr. Bezon offered the invocation and the welcome address was given by Robert Slikkers. Mrs. Howard Dorgelo sang, "Traveling On."

One of the main events of the evening was the presentation of the class flowers. This is something special because every year the eighth graders earn the money to buy flowers for both parents and teachers.

At the reception following the graduation Kathy Lankheet read the class history.

Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served in the school at the reception. Mrs. Roger Lankheet, mother of Kathy Lankheet, made an attractive cake with the words "congratulations graduates, Claudia, Marilyn, and Robert," written in pink and white.

Woman Killed Near Douglas

DOUGLAS — An elderly Chicago woman was killed when she was struck by a car near her summer home at 130th Ave. and Lakeshore Dr. south of Douglas Wednesday.

Sarah Lucille Priddy, 71, a summer resident in the Saugatuck-Douglas area was struck down by a car driven by Leonard W. Stratton, 67, of route 2, Fennville.

State Police at the South Haven post said Mrs. Priddy apparently failed to see Stratton's car as she started to walk across Lakeshore Dr. from the west side of the road to her home on the east side. Stratton was headed south on Lakeshore Dr., troopers said.

State Police said Stratton told them he saw the woman along the road and sounded his horn. Stratton said the woman hesitated and then walked into the path of his car.

Stratton was not held. Troopers said Allegan County Prosecutor Ervin Andrews would review the accident to determine if any charges would be made.

Ticketed After Mishap

Holland police charged Miriam B. Lethen, 64, of Chicago, with failure to yield the right of way following a two-vehicle collision at 3:25 p.m. Thursday at the intersection of 16th St. and Cleveland Ave. Police said the Lethen auto collided with a van truck driven by Dennis K. Leech, 23, of Grand Rapids.

Allocations Up Slightly For County

GRAND HAVEN — A public hearing is scheduled June 8 following action taken Tuesday by the Ottawa County Tax Allocation board which set operational needs for the county at 4.10 mills, an increase of .05 over last year's figure of 4.05 mills.

Holland's millage allocation for schools was set at 10.77 or .05 mill less than the 10.82 levied last year. Holland had voted an additional 3 mills for operating putting last year's rate at 13.82, compared with the figure this year of 13.77. A decrease of some $4,000 is expected to be offset by increased valuations, although final figures on equalized figures have not been determined.

West Ottawa's rate will be 8.77 mills, compared with 8.82 mills last year. Supt. Lloyd Van Raalte said today that this means a decrease of $1,836.32. The district's 4 1/2 millage for operations also expires this year.

Norman Boeve, president of the West Ottawa MEA district, presented petitions bearing more than 200 names asking that allocations not be reduced this year.

Originally the county had sought 4.50 mills for operating. The compromise resulted in a .4 decrease for the county.

The Ottawa Area Intermediate School district was allocated .13 mill, the same as last year. Grand Haven's school millage was set at 9.77, compared with 10.77 for Holland and 8.77 for West Ottawa.

Among the townships, Holland township was allocated 2 mills; Park 1.90 mills; Jamestown, 1.80 mills; Polkton, 1.60 mills; Georgetown, Olive and Chester, 1.50 each; Allendale, 1.25, and remaining townships, 1 mill each.

Petitions protesting cuts in school millage stated that county fees should not be diverted to county buildings, and asked that 3.92 mills for the county not be increased without a vote of the people.

A statement by Harvey Buter called attention to a number of funds outside general accounts for the county, expressing the belief that the preliminary asking budget of $1,549,684 could be reduced by at least $200,000 without endangering the financial stability of the county.

Serving on the allocations committee are County Treasurer Fred Den Herder, Henry Slaughter of Tallmadge township, Ed Dinkel of Tallmadge, Supt. Jennie Kaufman of the Ottawa Intermediate School district, Virgil Quebbeman of Grand Haven City Council and Harvey Butler representing the Holland school district, the largest in the county.

Under state law, taxation is limited to 15 mills or $15 per $1,000 valuation, to be allocated to schools, local government and county needs. Home rule cities do not come under the 15-mill limitation, consequently the 15 mills is divided among schools and the county. Some years ago, all school taxes were levied on equalized valuations.

Miss Pat Kasten is in charge of scheduling donors for this clinic. Working from her wheel chair, Miss Kasten has revised the entire donor file for the Zeeland area. The file includes over 700 cards of individuals who have at one time donated a pint or more of blood.

Four blood clinics remain to be held in Ottawa County before the fiscal year ends on June 30. To meet the quota, 600 pints must be drawn. Ottawa County is pledged to provide 3,000 pints per year. To date, 2,400 pints have been drawn. Grand Haven and Spring Lake residents donated 181 pints of blood at their clinic on April 22. Of this number, 65 were high school students. At Zeeland's last clinic on Feb. 17, 131 pints were donated.

Blood is available free to every Ottawa County resident through the Red Cross program. There is no charge for blood furnished through this program except for a hospital administration charge. The blood is free because it is donated by the people of the various communities of the county.

LITTERBUGS

Recently we read about the young people of Traverse City, who have been carrying out their annual beach clean-up program. The amount of junk-broken bottles, tin cans, rusted auto bodies and natural debris that they find is amazing.

We also are amazed at the amount of junk that appears in our area during Tulip Time. Many people either do not think or do not care and litter the countryside where ever they go.

We have a very efficient street department that does a good job of clearing away the trash, but many areas of the country are not cleaned as well. If people would not just throw their trash around and use a little good sense, the situation would improve.

Most parks and resort areas have containers for trash and junk. If each person would police himself, the problem would be eliminated.

Many conservation and garden clubs are battling the litterbug, and educational programs in our schools can also cut the rising tide of litter.

As our country becomes more crowded, each of us will have a greater responsibility to preach and practice better junk and litter disposal habits. Remember the next time anyone near or around you has the urge to pitch litter in the great out-of-doors, it is your responsibility to call their attention to the proper disposal of trash.

A campaign such as the one the young people have used in Traverse City could be worked with success across the nation. We think it is worth a try.

But remember, responsibility for the litter situation rests with each and every individual.

Consequences of Sin
II Samuel 12:1-10
By C. P. Dame

Most people are more concerned about the consequences of sin than of sin itself. It will be great for our nation when the people in general become more concerned about sin and learn to hate it and shun it. I. We all have a sinful nature. And that is why sin mars our lives. God sent Nathan; a preacher, to David the king who had sinned grievously in the sight of God. The Bible frankly tells about the sins of godly people. David had committed adultery with the wife of one of his loyal soldiers, Uriah, while he was away, and then when he learned that the woman was pregnant he tried to hide his sin. He sent for Uriah who, when he came was told to go home to his wife but this he would not do and instead remained with the servants of the king and spent the night with them.

When David heard this he invited him to his palace and got him drunk; hoping he would go home to his wife but instead "he went out to lie on his couch with the servants of his lord, but did not go down to his house."

When David's plans failed he resorted to a low-down deed. He wrote a letter to Joab, the general and Uriah carried it, in which David told Joab to put Uriah in the forefront of the hottest battle so that he might be killed. When David was told that Uriah had been killed in battle, he simply said, "Let not this thing displease you, for the sword devoureth one as well as another." David had committed four sins—covetousness, theft, adultery and murder. A man's sinful nature accounts for his sins.

II. Temptations vary. A sin that appeals to one person may not appeal to another at all. David had his weaknesses. He should have been on guard. David was idle when he saw Bathsheba bathing herself. Besides, David had arrived, he was prosperous and successful. The days of struggling were over. He was getting soft.

Today the nation on the whole is prosperous. Many people, some church members, can't take prosperity, and they indulge, one in one kind of sin, another in another kind. It is said that "where passion is the strongest and principle is weakest" there Satan attacks. Since we all have passions, appetites and desires we must guard against them and practice self-control.

III. Sin has sad consequences. Nathan, in a diplomatic and courageous manner, told a parable about a rich greedy owner of flocks who robbed a poor man of his pet lamb. David, upon hearing this, got angry and said the man who had done that deserved death and should restore the lamb four-fold according to the law. (Exodus 22:1) for he had shown no pity. At that point Nathan said, "Thou art the man" and bluntly told him about his sin with Bathsheba and his murder of Uriah. David was convicted of his sins, confessed and was forgiven.

Forgiveness does not remove sin's consequences. David's own home was defiled, his daughter deflowered, one son killed his half-brother, another rebelled against him, and some of his soldiers proved disloyal to him, the child of Bathsheba died, and in addition, David had given "great occasion to the enemies of the Lord to blaspheme" which some still do.

Today, many excuse, minimize and justify sexual sins. Reports of pregnancies among high school girls, of hasty marriages and quick divorces, of broken homes, marriages, and lives, of diseases due to immoral living, of saddened parents and cheated children, tell of the consequences of sexual sins.

Ottawa County Farm News

By Rich Machiele
Agricultural Agent

Because of the many calls we received during the past week, we are repeating the control measures for the clover mite insect: Vacuum the adults inside the house paying particular attention to window sills and cracks on the sunny side of the house. Outside remove a strip of grass 15-18" from the foundation. This may be filled with peas, gravel or flowers. Mites move to the house over grass areas. Spray the house foundations, outside windowsills, and grass 3-5 feet from the house with a mixture of Tordon and Malathion. Other miticides may be used such as Oxvel, Kelthane, or Chlorbenzilate. Repeat every 5-7 days. It may take several applications to get best control.

A blasting demonstration, using ammonium nitrate, will be held in the Nunica area on June 22. Bill Cutler, of M.S.U. and Roger Hornby of Grand Haven will conduct the demonstration on the Franklin Roth farm at Nunica. Details on the demonstration will be given in future columns, for those of you who Mosquito control for homes, communities and resorts — All Michigan mosquitoes spend their lives in water as larvae, hence, water is required for their development. Adults have wings and do not live in water. Mosquitoes pass the winter either as eggs, wigglers or adults.

Something should be known about adult mosquito habits, life cycles, breeding habits and hibernating places. The life habits of the three most prevalent mosquitoes in Michigan are given as examples: Common malarial mosquito has four dark spots on its wings. Wigglers (larvae) are found almost entirely in still, clean water. They do not like bright sunlight or dark shade, living mostly in light shadow.

Northern house mosquito has no spots on the wings, has light brown with whitish bands across its barrel-shaped abdomen. When feeding, its body remains parallel with the surface upon which it is standing.

Woodland pool mosquito breeds in woodland pools, although it may choose less shaded places. Adult is one-fourth inch long, has a black beak and the thorax is brown without hands. It is not a strong flyer.

Control measures: Three main approaches are involved — (a) individual properties, (b) community programs, (c) airplane treating, (d) or a combination of the methods may be beneficial to the whole mosquito control program. The community or wide-area approach generally gives the best control.

Use one of the following materials for wigglers: Malathion, 57 per cent emulsifiable concentrate; Pyrethrum, .007 per cent oil solution; Fenthion (Baytex), 46 per cent concentrate; or oil (kerosene fuel oil, or diesel oil). Apply a light, uniform spray to the surface of water, using a compressed-air sprayer or other suitable larger equipment. Repeat as needed. Efficiency of the treatment depends on its timeliness, hence, treat only when wigglers are present.

The following warnings are given: 1. Do not exceed the dosage of pyrethrum, or fish kill may result. With other insecticides, use them with care where fish and wildlife may be endangered. 2. Larvicide only water areas; avoid treating vegetation or drifting any material where cattle graze or on their forage. 3. Fenthion should be used by trained operators only. 4. Always read the label for additional precautions.

Adult mosquito control — Chemical control of adult mosquitoes is better accomplished over a large area: Sprays — These treatments should last for a considerable length of time, but weather conditions may alter how long they last. Apply the spray to shrubs, flowers, trees, outbuildings, doorsteps, porches and other places where the adults find hiding places. If lawn is kept cut, mosquitoes normally do not hide here and present no special problem. Suggested insecticides are: Malathion, 57 per cent emulsifiable concentrate; Malathion, 57 per cent emulsifiable concentrated plus Methoxychlor, 25 per cent emulsifiable concentrate; or Fenthion (Baytex) 46 per cent spray concentrate. Compressed air and other small type equipment can be used to apply spray treatments.

Warnings — (a) although malathion and methoxychlor produce small effects on birds and land animals, use them carefully where wildlife may be endangered by excessive treating. (b) because methoxychlor is quite poisonous to fish, its use should be avoided where fish can be damaged. (c) Avoid treating vegetation where cattle graze. (d) Always read the label for additional precautions. Protect children by keeping them out of spray drift and away from concentrated formulations.

FOGS — These use heat to burn the oil and produce a smoke-type fog which does not destroy the insecticides: Malathion, 50 per cent oil concentrate, plus Thiopropyl, plus Fuel oil; DDT, 2 per cent fuel oil solution; Disclorvos (Vapona), 90 per cent concentrated solution; or Fenthion, 46 per cent spray concentrate. Calibrate standard fogging machines to deliver 40 gallons per hour of the fogging solution at 5 miles per hour speed. A swath of 200 to 350 ft. can be covered. Warnings: Children and others should not play in fog drift. (2) Driving cars through the fog can be dangerous. (3) Spotting of car finish can occur if prolonged exposure is allowed. If accidents occur, wash cars immediately. (4) Always read the label for additional precautions.

Mist Application — Similar to spray treatment, but with a mist treatment the spray mixture is more concentrated and less gallons of water are used per acre. Mist blowers are used to apply mist sprays hydraulic sprayers for residual sprays. The following are used in mist blowers: Malathion, 57 per cent emulsifiable concentrate; Fenthion, 46 per cent spray concentration; or Naled (Dibrom) 60 per cent emulsion concentrate. Warnings — 1. Avoid contamination of food, feed and drinking water. 2. Avoid breathing and getting into mist drift. 3. Use only as herein directed, unless other directions are obtained. 4. Always read the label for additional precautions.

Control With Aircraft — Malathion is the only insecticide currently suggested for mosquito control by air application. Warnings: 1. Use treatment carefully around water areas. 2. Oil, applied by air, covers cars etc., often creating washing problems. If this happens, wash the car immediately. For added information on Mosquito Control contact the County Extension office at 17 South Elm Street, Zeeland.

He received his B.A. degree from Hope in 1963. Dr. Rieck did graduate work at the University of Michigan and was awarded his Masters Degree in 1966 and his Ph.D. in 1967, both with a major in neuro-anatomy.

The professor is dead; long live the professor! This statement is made with a profound sense of loss in the academic world. It is not meant to be a eulogy for any particular individual. However, the stereotype of the professor standing before a group of awe-struck young people and giving forth of the knowledge and wisdom acquired over a period of years of arduous study in the dimly lighted libraries and laboratories of the world is a vision of the past.

Truly, this professor is dead and his passing is to be mourned.

The professor has been replaced by a new and different kind of person. The professor of today needs, first of all, to be competent in his chosen field of life.

Yes, the professor of the pince-nez with the gold watch chain spanning his every-tightening vest is dead. He is not forgotten, but he has been replaced. Long live the professor!

interest for he still has to spend at least a part of his time meeting classes. The complexities of life in our present day society have caught up with our professor though, and the web of things expected of him is beginning to entrap him. Not only must he teach, but the professor is also expected to produce tangible (namely: printed) evidence of scholarly research achievement. Such an individual is admired by one and all, after long hours of writing on forms in quintuplicate, followed by months of anxious waiting, he is granted large sums of money to be spent in pursuit of the sometimes mysterious goals of research. He is also expected to be an active member of numerous committees which do the business of running the institution of which he is a part. Unfortunately he is quite often extremely ill-prepared to handle this task.

The professor is also expected to aid in the recruitment of promising new students; to become adept in the preparation of mechanical methods of teaching, and to be able to manipulate as well as repair the tools to be used in these new methods. The professor is expected to be the confidant of his students; someone to whom they can turn no matter what the hour when they seek solution to a problem, answer to a question, or advice about a thousand vexing things. He may even be called upon to perform as a sometime journalist.

The professor is more than these, for he is also a citizen of the community in which his institution is located. He is, in a majority of cases, a tax-paying homeowner. He has a responsibility to his family, as well as to his students, to be concerned about community, state, and national problems whether they be of an economic, political, or social nature. A responsibility — yes. Much is being made these days of apathy in all walks of life. If the professor fails to become active in any area, including the church of his choice, then who dares lay the blame for apathy on the generation of students who tend to emulate those persons with whom they are most in contact?

The professor has a right and a responsibility to be concerned about the school system in his community because he is keenly aware of the effect this vital area will have upon his children who, in all probability, will be numbered among future generations of college students.

The professor is many things in this age of guided missiles and globe-circling astronauts, racial instability at home and war involvement in far-off lands, school millage crises and city council elections. One thing the professor is not; he is not an unconcerned outsider merely passing by on the fringes of life.

Yes, the professor of the pince-nez with the gold watch chain spanning his every-tightening vest is dead. He is not forgotten, but he has been replaced. Long live the professor!

SYMBOL OF HOPE — This nine-foot, 1,790-pound admiral-type anchor has been donated to Hope College by the national service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, to serve as the symbol of Hope. The anchor, which is the same as that on the college seal, stands in front of Graves Hall on College Ave. Ron Warnet, Fair Lawn, N.J., APO president, admires the anchor on its pedestal of rock. The anchor was obtained from a firm in Chester, Pa., and is reported to be over 100 years old. (Sentinel photo)

Hope Symbol Is Placed On Campus

Hope College now has a real life-size anchor to match the symbol on the college seal. Donated by the national service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, the nine-foot, 1,790-pound admiral-type anchor stands on a rock pedestal in front of Graves Hall.

The anchor became the symbol of Hope when the school was founded by Albertus Van Raalte in 1851.

The unique project originated one year ago when the fraternity observed that Hope had no symbol on campus as many other colleges do. With the backing of the school, the fraternity mailed 285 letters to shipping concerns and shipyards, asking for prices and information on anchors which would fit the requirement that it match the college seal.

From the six positive replies, the fraternity decided on the anchor offered by the Baldt Anchor, Chain and Forge Division of the Boston Metals Company in Chester, Pa.

The firm agreed to donate the anchor to Hope free of charge, and the school paid shipping costs to the local campus.

KALAMAZOO — Six MIAA records were set, including two by Hope College relay teams, in the 74th Field Day Saturday at Angell Field as the Flying Dutchmen finished third in the league meet.

Hope's mile relay team concluded the meet with a record-breaking 3:23.1 performance to smash the mark set last year by a Hope relay team which included two members of this year's team, Bill Hultgren and Dave Lane.

Joined by Jim Pierpont and Mike Paliatos this year, the Hope quartet galloped to the record anchored by Lane's 49.4 clocking. This time duplicated Lane's time in the 440-yard dash earlier in the meet in which he set a Hope record, breaking his own mark of 49.6.

Pierpont opened with a 51.8 quarter and Paliatos followed with a 50.8 and Hultgren had a 51.1. Hultgren was also a member of the Hope 440-yard relay team which set a league mark of 43.2 to smash a 43.5 mark set last year by Adrian. Other members of the Hope team were Gary Holvick, Bob Thompson and Ray Cooper. Lane was second in the 220 in 22.5.

Hope finished third in the meet with 47 points and third in overall standings. Albion won both and accumulated 78 points in the Field Day while Calvin was second with 53. Kalamazoo followed with 31; Olivet, 16; Adrian, 8 and Alma, 7. It was Albion's 23rd track crown and second straight.

Three Britons broke league records. Dave Heth pole vaulted 13'11 1/2" to slash a 13'3 1/2" mark set by Bruce Foulke in 1958. Dave Middlebrooke high jumped 6'6" to break his own mark of 6'4 1/2" set in 1963.

Rex Curry sprinted the half mile in 1:55.9 to break Hope's Ron Borst of Hope set a Hope record of 6'5" as he finished second to Middlebrooke while Bruce Menning was third and Floyd Brady, fourth. Ken Felt, pole vaulting for the first time since he sprained an ankle May 1, took third and Chris Buys was fourth. Buys was also fourth in the shot put.

Jim Rozeboom's record of 1:57.8 set in 1961 while Calvin's Ben Snoeyink ran the 330-yard intermediate hurdles in 38.5 to smash his own mark of 40 seconds set last year and which he broke in the prelims with a 39.4 heat.

Holvick was second in the high hurdles in 15.6 but twisted his hip and tumbled at the finish. The fall forced Holvick, who started the intermediates, to drop out of the race.

Other Hope points were obtained by Gary Peiper, fifth in the mile; Paliatos, fourth in the 440; Cooper, fifth in the 100 and fourth in the 220 and Steve Reynen, third in the 880.

Lane, Buys and Holvick today were named to the all-MIAA track team. A 14-member team was selected and it marked the first time in MIAA history an all-conference track team was picked. Jim Wynstra, Snoeyink and Dave Vermerris were named from Calvin.

Entire Area Was Placed On Alert for Tornadoes

Tornado warnings were issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau at Grand Rapids for the Holland area at 11:37 a.m. Wednesday. The warning included all of Ottawa, Allegan, Kent and Barry counties.

Weather Bureau officials requested Civil Defense personnel in the four-county area to notify residents to take cover until the all-clear at 12:10 p.m.

Chief Meteorologist Fred Baughman of the Grand Rapids Weather Bureau said the take-cover warning was made on the basis of confirmed funnels aloft over the entire four-county area. None of the funnels touched down.

The tornado warning all-clear was given at 12:10 p.m., but a tornado forecast was in effect for the area until 1:05 p.m.

School in the Holland area closed as skies darkened and Ottawa County Civil Defense broadcast a tornado alert at 10:45 a.m., following tornado sightings near Bridgman in Berrien County.

Area school closings included Holland Public and Christian schools, Zeeland Public and Christian schools, West Ottawa Schools, New Groningen School, Hudsonville Public and Christian schools, Hamilton Schools, Huyser School, Harrington School and Rose Park Christian School.

Zeeland's Civil Defense take cover sirens were sounded following the 11:37 Weather Bureau broadcast.

Holland Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff said he would adhere to the city's policy of sounding the warning sirens only in the event an actual sighting was made in the area.

Grand Haven police said their city-wide alarm was to be sounded only if a tornado was sighted.

Schools in Grand Haven and the Saugatuck-Douglas area remained open.

Holland Superintendent of Schools Donald Ithman said he was in constant contact with Civil Defense headquarters and closed Holland Public Schools on the recommendation of Civil Defense officials.

West Ottawa Schools started dismissing at 10:50 a.m. Elementary pupils were dismissed first and high school students last. Most of the students had been dismissed by 11:20 a.m.

Jammed telephone lines delayed contact with school bus drivers and delayed school closing. West Ottawa administrators said.

Holland Hospital was placed on a "yellow" alert about the same time area schools dismissed.

Holland police manned tornado lookout posts to the south and west of the city and were in radio contact with police headquarters in the event of a tornado sighting.

The severe weather and tornado warnings for the Holland area grew out of a squall line which developed over southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois about 9 a.m. Wednesday, moving eastward at about 55 miles per hour.

The squall line passed the eastern shore of Lake Michigan between southern Ottawa and a County and the Michigan-Indiana border. Rain and wind with gusts to about 40 miles per hour struck the Holland area.

Muskegon recorded hail as the storm hit there at 10:49 a.m.

The Weather Bureau reported a tornado was sighted near Bridgman at 10:37 a.m., and 20 minutes later another was reported near Buchanan. An 11:05 a.m. report from the Weather Bureau said numerous funnel clouds had been sighted aloft in Berrien and Cass Counties.

The all-clear signal for the tornado forecast for all of southwest Lower Michigan was given at 1:05 p.m. as the severe weather front moved to the east.

Early severe weather forecasts did not include southeastern Michigan. But a second forecast, issued at 12:30 p.m., called for thunderstorms, damaging winds, hail and a few tornadoes 40 miles either side of a line from Oscoda, Mich., to south of Toledo, Ohio. This would include the Detroit area.

Michigan State Police reported a tornado was sighted about 1 p.m. about two miles west of Mason in Ingham County.

The report caused sirens to be sounded in Mason and residents headed for their basements.

In nearby Lansing visitors and office workers in the State Capitol were sent to the basement.

Most schools in Lansing, East Lansing and Mason were let out for the afternoon. Lansing was swept by heavy rains and winds of up to 65 miles an hour.

Maintenance workers in the Capitol building ordered occupants to the basement as a precautionary measure. Most visitors and many office workers acted on the order but many legislators lingered in the Capitol halls.

parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Jordan of Fennville and Burt Smith (left rear) and John Bennington of Michigan State University. Fennville's Jordan Has His Day

FENNVILLE—Richie Jordan had his day.

And what a day it was. He will never forget it. He said so.

Jordan, Fennville's greatest all-around athlete, was honored by 260 persons Thursday night at a banquet in the Fennville High School gym.

It climaxed a day for the "Little 57½" senior who had had the city named after him for a day and had received the keys to the city. A banner "Rich Jordan Day" had been hung across the main street.

Jordan was the feature of his day as he humbly thanked the persons responsible for the event and those responsible for his athletic accomplishments.

"I'll never forget it," Jordan said as he thanked the Fennville Chamber of Commerce. He then thanked his parents "and my dad for never being too busy to play with me."

He then thanked his coaches, mentioning to track coach George Bruder "that I hoped we can win the state championship for you," and called basketball and baseball coach Ray Feher "my second daddy for the confidence he had in me." Jordan competes in the Class C state track meet Saturday in Mt. Pleasant.

Jordan also thanked his junior high coaches, his legion baseball coach and his football coach Bob Afman. He gave a thank you "to my aunts and uncles who formed my own cheering section," and concluded with a tribute to his 20 senior teammates "for being so good so I could play on a state championship team."

Feher announced the Fennville Board of Education had voted to retire Jordan's No. 12 basketball jersey. Banquet chairman Ross Alexander reviewed Jordan's athletic career achievements.

Alexander presented Jordan with an engraved plaque of his achievements and the basketball with which he scored 60 points against Bridgman in his final game. The jersey, plaque and basketball will be placed in the Fennville trophy case.

William Van Hartsveldt of Fennville, 87-year-old former carver, carved the pedestal for the basketball and in his remarks he mentioned to the honored seniors, the importance of teamwork and concluded "in every boy and man is a reflection of his mother."

Michigan State's new basketball coach John Bennington, who remarked one of the first things he did when he arrived in the state was to call Jordan, reported "Jordan is plenty good to play in the league we're in."

Featured speaker Burt Smith, assistant MSU athletic director, emphasized the importance of an education. "A boy is not at the university primarily to be an athlete, he's there for an education and No. 1, the boy must get an education and be academically eligible so he can play athletics."

He invited Jordan and other students to MSU "to talk about academic life." He said there is "a great of correlation between the classroom and athletics and if he does a good job in the classroom, he will be in athletics."

Smith illustrated by saying that in a critical situation in an athletic contest, the boy will react instinctively because of his academic training.

Smith pointed to the "tough academics of college" and noted the difficulty of playing three sports in college because schedules and practice overlap.

He said MSU football coach Duffy Daugherty "Hopes Jordan will give freshman football a try next fall" and quoted athletic director "Biggie" Munn as saying "Jordan will be a great representative at MSU."

Sonny Means, MSU's new assistant basketball coach, defensive backfield coach Vincent Carliott and ex-MSU basketball player Pete Gent were introduced. Gent, Jordan's lifelong friend, was lauded by Smith "as a great credit to MSU."

Joe Marfia of the Fennville Chamber of Commerce presented certificates to the seniors which lauded them for their contributions during the past four years. The certificates were signed by Mayor William Bushee.

Master of ceremonies Ed Carigan, high school principal, read telegrams praising Jordan from U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Fennville and State Sen. Harold Volkema of Holland. Marfia gave the invocation.

On display were 17 trophies, three plaques and more than 40 medals Jordan has won during the past four years. The tables were decorated with trophies Fennville teams have won during those four years. Jordan's records were also listed in the banquet program.

Boy Admits Bomb Scare

A 12-year-old Holland boy was turned over to Ottawa County Probate Court after admitting a Thursday afternoon bomb scare at Beechwood School at 251 Howard Ave.

Ottawa County Sheriff's detective John Hemple said the youth admitted calling the school secretary Mrs. Lois Kardux that a bomb had been placed in the school and was set to go off at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Kardux evacuated the building and called superintendent Lloyd Van Raalte who ordered all 326 pupils transferred to West Ottawa High School at 136th Ave. and Riley St.

Sheriff's deputies, school janitors and teachers searched the building and failed to turn up any trace of a bomb. The pupils were returned to the school at 2:45 p.m. and were dismissed. Normal dismissal time is 3:05 p.m.

Hemple said Mrs. Kardux told officers she thought she had recognized the caller's voice as that of a former Beechwood student.

Hemple and Sgt. Gerald Witteveen picked up the boy, currently a pupil at a Holland city school, after school and questioned him. The boy told officers he had heard about bomb scares and thought it would be fun to try it.

Holland Couple Mark Their 64th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Kleinhessel who at present are living at Birchwood Manors, observed their 64th wedding anniversary Saturday.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kleinhessel received injuries at Resthaven last week Wednesday when they fell.

They have a son, Harley, of Mountain View, Calif., and three daughters, Mrs. Gus Holleman of Hamilton, Mrs. George Havendink of Fillmore and Mrs. Harvey Kollen of Overisel. There are 16 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Kleinhessel is the former Minnie TerAvest of Overisel. The couple was married at the bride's home in Overisel by the Rev. Van Vessem. They farmed for 35 years in Fillmore later moving to Hamilton until three years ago when they came to Holland.

Reason for the change is to prevent a split-up of West Ottawa district in connection with the current study being conducted to assign certain districts to other districts to reduce the number of school districts in the county. Fourth class districts may be divided but not third class districts.

West Ottawa will elect two members to the board for four-year terms. Candidates are the two incumbents, Louis J. Van Slooten and James Corwin, and Nelson Lucas, Justin Busscher, Cornal Israels and Henry F. Baker.

An operating millage proposition also will be on the ballot, but exact amount has not been determined since the board is studying school needs and is planning a meeting around June 1 to make the final decision. At that time, it is expected figures on state equalized valuation, allocations and state aid will be known.

The board has approved contracts for principals and several new teachers in the district. Peter Roon, currently principal at Hamilton, will be returning to West Ottawa where he previously was a teacher. Acting on recommendations of the personnel committee, the board approved coaching contracts for all current coaches with the addition of wrestling.

Ottawa County Farm News

By Richard Machiele

Extension Agent, Agriculture
Farmers in the southern and western part of Michigan are invited to attend the Forage Day program at the Kellogg Biological Farm at Hickory Corners on Wednesday, May 26, from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

A full day's program will feature all types of forage harvesting equipment. Demonstrations will include mowers, windrowers, conditioners and choppers. On display will be balers, tractors, rakes, forage wagons and blowers. Tours will include forage variety trials, various seeding rates, times and methods and chemical weed control plots.

Program schedule is as follows: 9:30 to 10 a.m. — Look over machinery display; 10 to 11 a.m. — Demonstrations, field operations of mowers, conditioners, and windrowers; 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. — Tours of demonstration plots; 2 to 3:30 p.m. — Demonstrations of chopping and silo filling equipment.

Here is a real opportunity for farmers to see the latest harvesting equipment in operation and to get first hand results on various research projects.

The program is being sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University, Kellogg Farms and farm equipment distributors and dealers. Even though this is a busy season of the year, it will be well worth your time to attend this action-filled area meeting on May 26.

Clover Mites — These warm spring days bring complaints about these small nuisances. These dot-size red or reddish brown pests invade the house in spring and fall. They feed on foliage but do no damage in the home. Unless adults are removed, they will lay eggs that hatch to become a nuisance months later.

Control — Vacuum the adults inside the house paying particular attention to window sills and cracks on the sunny side of the house. Outside remove a strip of grass 15-18" from the foundation. This may be filled with pea gravel or flowers. Mites move to the house over grass area. Spray foundations, outside windowsills, and grass 3-5 feet from the house with a mixture of Tordon and Malathion. Other miticides may be used such as Oveex, Kelthane, or Chorbentzilate. Repeat every 5-7 days. It may take several applications to get control.

Two new apricot varieties "56-6" and "Curtis" selected by Stanley Johnson of the South Haven Experimental Station are now under test in grower orchards. In connection with the tests of apricot selections, it was found that peach seedlings did not make very good rootstocks for apricots. Many trees of this combination broke at the graft union. Myrobalan seedlings were tried as rootstocks, but the apricot scion overgrew the stock, indicating an inferior graft union. Suckering was also associated with the apricot Myrobalan combination. A hardy apricot seedling of Manchurian origin called "Manchu" appeared to make the best rootstock for the apricot selections under test. In an apricot rootstock trial started in 1962 with six different rootstocks, "Manchu" has so far given the smallest tree losses.

For our raspberry growers: If you were unable to spray for control of Anthracnose at the time leaves appeared on raspberry bushes, you can still spray but should use Ferbam rather than lime sulphur.

Extension Folder F-129 "Pollination and Fruit Set of Orchard Fruits" has been prepared for the purpose of answering some of the questions asked by those inexperienced in fruit growing. It is also intended as a guide for those who wish to make provisions for pollination in their plantings.

Federal Will Vote on Three Propositions

Voters in Federal school district will elect three members to the board and vote on three propositions at the June 14 election which will be held in the school gymnasium from noon to 8 p.m.

Three incumbents are unopposed. Charles Vande Water and Dennis Huxhold will seek reelection for three-year terms and James Spoor for a one-year term.

The first proposition is a vote on 3.18 mills for one year for operating purposes. This millage is spread on state equalized valuation.

The second proposition is to discontinue grades 7 and 8 and send the children to other school districts. Secretary Rudy Foltik said this would be operated on much the same basis as children in the district who may select either Holland or West Ottawa.

The third proposition is to transfer $4,399 from the debt retirement fund to the general fund. This is the excess left after paying school debt March 31, 1963, in connection with the addition which included a gymnasium.

The Federal board has set a salary schedule for teachers for the first time. The schedule runs from $4,800 to $6,800 in 13 steps for teachers with A.B. degrees, and $5,100 to $7,100 in 13 steps for teachers with M.A. degrees.
