Author to Speak At Hope College Commencement

Former President of Norway's Parliament
Will Receive Degree

Carl Joachim Hambro, well known lecturer and author of the book, "How to Win the Peace," will speak at Hope college commencement exercises and receive the honorary doctor of laws degree in Hope Memorial chapel Wednesday, June 7, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Hambro, who came to the United States after the invasion of Norway on one of the boats carrying the Norwegian gold reserve, is now making an extensive lecture tour in this country and Canada. He plans to arrive in Holland Wednesday noon, June 7, and will leave the same night for Columbus, O.

Long considered among the world leaders of democratic thought, Mr. Hambro has been active in politics since his early student days. He rose rapidly and in 1926 became one of the youngest presidents of parliament ever to be chosen. He remained in this position until the invasion forced him to leave Norway, presiding at more parliaments than any other man in Norwegian history. Though belonging to a minority party, he has the distinction of being the only president elected unanimously. He was elected president of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva in December, 1939.

His book, "I Saw It Happen in Norway," was published in the United States in September, 1940. Baccalaureate services at the college are scheduled for Sunday, June 4, at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial chapel, with Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson as speaker. Rev. Anderson is pastor of Fourth Presbyterian church in Chicago where he has been since 1928 after serving two other churches. He studied at Kansas State college, McCormick Theological seminary and College of Emporia, Kans., and served as a chaplain during the last war. He was honored with a doctor's degree by Northwestern university in 1942.

Music at the baccalaureate service will be furnished by the girls' choir and glee club under the direction of Mrs. W. Curtis Snow, Margaret Friesma, senior at the college, will present an organ recital at 4 p.m. Sunday, baccalaureate afternoon.

Examinations at the college will begin Wednesday and be concluded the following Tuesday. The annual honors assembly will be held Friday at 8 a.m. and an all-college picnic at Lake Michigan will take place Monday afternoon, June 5.

A meeting of the board of trustees is scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 6, and the alumni dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in Carnegie gymnasium. Rev. John Vander Meulen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Lansing and Hope graduate in '36, will be the speaker.

Concluding commencement week activities will be a reception Wednesday afternoon, June 7, from 3 to 5 p.m. for alumni and friends in the home of President and Mrs. Wichers.

G.H. Man Pays Fine For Assault on Wife

Grand Haven, June 1, (Special)—Maurice Wagenmaker, 37, 112 S. Eighth St., who was arraigned before Justice George V. Hoffer Saturday afternoon on a charge of assault and battery upon his wife, Alice, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a $10 fine, $5.00 costs and serve three days in the county jail. The arrest was made by city police.

Wagenmaker was arraigned in justice court April 7 for non-support of his wife and three small children. He demanded examination which was set for April 14. At that time he was confined in the county jail unable to furnish $500 bond. On April 13 the examination was postponed indefinitely upon an agreement by Wagenmaker, his wife and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Louis H. Osterhouse whereby Wagenmaker was to pay $35 a week toward the support of his family.

Upon his failure to comply with the terms of the agreement the non-support charge is being pressed against him and the examination has been set for Thursday at 2 p.m.

Wartime Speed Is New to Nurse Home From India

The speed with which persons move in wartime America was one of the things which impressed Miss Lois Marsilje most when she arrived in this country this week from India where she spent nearly 5 1/2 years as a combination missionary-nurse-teacher in the Scudder Memorial hospital at Ranipet, located 70 miles from Madras, a port city, and only 13 degrees from the equator.

Miss Marsilje is spending a 15-month furlough with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Marsilje, assistant librarian, 147 West 14th St.

"Indian natives have all the time in the world and move very slowly," Miss Marsilje, who arrived here Wednesday night, May 24, said Thursday. Their lack of ambition is due to a large extent to the climate which is very hot, she explained. Thursday's warm weather here is comparable to their winter weather around Christmas time. May is the hottest month with temperatures constantly between 100 and 115 with no relief at night, she said.

The customs, lack of cleanliness and the psychology of the Indian people who are definitely oriental were the chief characteristics which the local nurse found hard to understand when she first entered missionary work. The standard of living is far below that of Americans and the natives hardly know the meaning of sanitation, she said. "The caste system is not nearly so strict as it used to be, but it still interferes with a lot of advancement the missionaries would like to make possible," she said.

Least she give the impression that India was without good points, the missionary hastened to explain that she found the climate very agreeable and gained 20 pounds after she was settled there. On her return trip on the boat she was bothered with an old sinus infection when she reached the cooler regions, an ailment she had forgotten about for more than five years, she said.

In spite of the squalor and widespread poverty, India has a charm all of its own, Miss Marsilje related. Tourists are generally interested in the beautiful Hindu temples and the Mohammedan mosques. The fabulous tales of the very wealthy maharajahs never fail to intrigue the visitors and also provided countless angles for articles for Sunday editions.

One physical aspect which impressed Miss Marsilje particularly was the lush green of the lawns and fields in this vicinity. At this particular time in India, all vegetation is burned to a crisp, she said. She also found the simple conveniences such as telephones and running water somewhat of a novelty. The "telephone system" in India consisted of writing a note and having it delivered by a runner who later would appear with the answer. As for drinking water, nobody in India would think of drinking water from a tap without boiling it.

Miss Marsilje's responsibilities at Scudder Memorial hospital were as assistant superintendent of nurses and teaching supervisor. "Sister Tutor" was the English term. The hospital to which she was attached is not the one run by Dr. Ida Scudder as many persons supposed, but is run by Dr. Galen Scudder, a relative of Dr. Ida. Dr. Galen Scudder has been loaned to the Indian government as a medical officer to release another doctor for active service. The hospital of Dr. Ida who at present is in the United States is located at Vellore, 18 miles from Ranipet.

Miss Marsilje worked particularly with the nurses training school where native Indian girls with high school educations would come for training. After getting their degrees the girls invariably entered the military service which offered salaries about eight times as much as the hospital could pay. The Scudder Memorial hospital which is a general hospital has 110 beds and is supported by the Scudder foundation. It operates a nursing school. Dr. Ida's hospital is supported by a union institution and is maintained for women and children. It has 250 beds and runs a medical college.

The missionary was not at liberty to give any information regarding her return voyage other than to say she boarded a ship at Bombay and arrived on the east coast of America six weeks later. The boat was very crowded, a cabin in which normally accommodated two persons held 12. It took her four weeks on the initial voyage to India. Returning to America with her were Miss Doris Wells of Springfield, Mass., who was in charge of girls at Ranipet, and Miss Florence Walvoord of Cedar Grove, Wis., who went to India three years ago from Japan to fill out her missionary term, rather than come home directly.

India's participation in the present world conflict so far has been voluntary, Miss Marsilje said. The main threat, of course, lies to the east from Japan, although some German subs were sighted in the Indian ocean, she said. Some American troops have been stationed in India, mostly in the northern part. Many soldiers, mostly English, used the Ranipet mission for stop-overs overnight since there were no hotels there, she said. She, however, saw no American soldiers until she arrived in Bombay for the voyage home.

Coming to America for the first time on the boat on which Miss Marsilje traveled were a young Indian pastor who plans to study at Hartford, Conn., and an Indian girl who was scheduled for study at Columbia university. The bustling activity of a crowded railroad station in a large Eastern city provided quite an experience for the newcomers and the last Miss Marsilje saw of them, they were wearing dazed expressions on their faces observing all the activity.

Work in the Scudder Memorial hospital deals mainly with surgery, mostly from infection, Miss Marsilje said. Some of the abscesses and infections are almost unbelievable, she stated. Typhoid was the most common disease and the past year the hospital treated many cases of cholera brought on by famine and poverty.

One of her special hobbies was directing a Christian Endeavor society for native children on Sunday afternoons.

Miss Marsilje received her A. B. degree from Hope college in 1932 and took a special course at Western Theological seminary for two years. She was graduated from the Presbyterian nurses training school in Chicago in 1938 and left Dec. 31 of that year for the mission field.

She has no particular plans for her long furlough at home but possibly later will take some special training in nurse's education.

Doctors Are Available for Wednesday Emergencies

Doctors are available on Wednesday afternoons for emergencies, the Chamber of Commerce has learned after investigating several complaints including some from local factories.

The Chamber learned that there are only eight doctors left in Holland who can respond to outside calls. They are hard pressed by demands of the public, putting in 12 to 18 hours a day, and Wednesday afternoon is the only time they have to relax.

Most of them are available in case of emergencies if the call is properly made. If the physician's office cannot be reached, the person should call the physician's exchange, 3606, or Holland hospital, 3121, and explain that it is an emergency case and efforts will be made to contact the doctor. If it is some minor trouble, the Chamber suggested that the call wait until the next day.

F. Gotham's Body Is Found in Tug

Jones Boy, Fifth of Storm Victims, May
Be in Saugatuck Craft

Saugatuck, June 1 (Special)—Salvagers today were continuing operations to raise the Gotham, 644 foot all-steel fishing tug which sank off Saugatuck pier in a storm Dec. 11, after discovering the body of Fred Gotham, 36, in the hull of the tug late Saturday night.

Holland coast guardsmen recovered the body about 6 a.m. Sunday after working all night. The station received notice at 11:45 p.m. Saturday after salvage workers had seen a hand sticking out of the water. The body, although badly decomposed, was intact and identification was made through clothing.

Possibilities that the body of the fifth and last victim, Billy Reece Jones, 15, is also in the tug appeared likely today, but no discovery was made up to noon. Bodies of the three other crew members, Lou Gotham, 62, owner, Sam Gotham, 34, and Harley Jones, 41, were recovered earlier on the shores of Lake Michigan.

Fred Gotham's body was found in the debris of fish nets and other equipment inside the tug which although still submerged has been towed inside the breakwater near the pier where attempts are being made to raise it and pump out the water and silt.

Pacific Nurse En Route Here

First Lt. Lyda Mae Heider, army nurse who has been stationed in New Caledonia in the southwest Pacific for about two years, has arrived in San Francisco, according to a wire received Wednesday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Heider, 25 East 21st St., and is expected in Holland in a day or two.

Lt. Heider was called home by the death of her sister, Mrs. Richard Pettings, which occurred in Holland hospital a week ago today. The Heiders received a sympathy message from the nurse shortly afterward. No further information was included in Wednesday's wire, but the family assumed the nurse had flown from New Caledonia.

The nurse has two brothers in the service, Lt. Gerald (Bubi) Heider in Hawaii and Pvt. Julius Heider of Camp Campbell, Ky., now at home.

Local Youth Placed on Probation in Boat Theft

Paul Van Loo, 17, 24 West 22nd St., was placed on probation for a year by Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith after he pleaded guilty on arraignment Monday to taking a rowboat last Thursday from Miss Agatha Ton, route 1. Sheriff's records show that Van Loo and a 16-year-old youth took the boat and, paddling with boards, went to a point near the Bay View furniture factory. Officers found the boat there with a new coat of gray paint covering the original brown color. They lay in wait and apprehended the boys as they appeared with an outboard motor.

Terms of Van Loo's probation are that he refrain from smoking and liquor, report to his probation officer once a month, pay costs of $4.15, and attend church, Sunday school and catechism. He must be in bed by 11 p.m. nightly except when he works on a night shift.

Thousand Gather At Cemetery to Honor War Dead

Lt. Terkeurst Urges
Dedication to True
Patriotism in Talk

"Let us dedicate ourselves to true patriotism, a real patriotism that will let all people be free and one that will not allow us to look down in contempt or scorn on anybody," Lt. (sg) H. D. Terkeurst of the naval reserve urged more than 1,000 persons who assembled at Monument square in Pilgrim Home cemetery Tuesday morning for annual Memorial day services.

Speaking on "Our Country's Cause," Chaplain Terkeurst, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, said a mere traditional observance of Memorial day this year is not enough, not when the blood of loved ones is being spilled on many fronts.

"But this blood is not being spilled in vain. No war America has ever fought has been in vain. Every war has been for a great cause and to a great purpose, and the victories won have been age on age telling," Chaplain Terkeurst traced America's wars from the one under President Polk which redeemed California and America's southwest, the Civil war which united sovereign states into a union, the Spanish-American war in which a neighboring island was set free and World War I.

"The treaty of Versailles may have had its shortcomings; but World War I was not fought in vain. The war opened a door to a society of nations that would live in peace together under law and through which President Wilson would have led the nations, but which blind and bigoted statesmen closed. This door may yet be the hope of the world."

"But no cause that America has ever fought for, is worthier and nobler than the cause for which all those whom we miss and long for in our homes and churches are sacrificing, bleeding and dying. To them and to all right-minded and conscientious Americans that cause is a holy altar. And let none who live in the comfort of civilian life ever flare to asperse that altar. For the millions who serve would give them an answer that would make every detractor of the high cause for which the war is fought write in unspeakable shame."

"In civilian life, the cause for which we at war is not always clear. In the midst of industrial life and the routine of civilian life it is easy to lose sight of the cause for which we are at war. Hence when this becomes true in civilian life, morale in the armed forces is endangered. Many civilians here who now earn more money than ever before do not realize that their security lies behind the man whose flesh is being shredded by steel and who through strikes will not produce when their sons and brothers are being heaped up in walls of corpses to hold back our country's enemies. This is America's shame!"

Co. H of the Michigan State troops under command of Capt. R. A. Wenzel formed an honor guard for those participating in the march to Monument square from the main entrance of the cemetery. The American Legion band provided appropriate music. Wilbur Brandt of Hope college read Gov. Kelly's Memorial day proclamation and Dale Drew of Holland High school recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Mayor Elmer J. Schepers served as president. Dr. William Westrate was marshal for the parade which formed at the city hall and marched through the downtown section before going to the cemetery.

A dozen service men and a Wave of the present war marched at the head of the honor division of the parade. Two veterans of the present war, Rollo Higgins and Elmer Stasik of Fennville, both wearing Purple Heart ribbons, were members of the firing squad. Robert Burton and Roland Van Dyck blew taps at the conclusion of the program in the cemetery.

The cemetery appeared at its best with its blooming spirea, iris and other flowers. The grass was in particularly fine condition.

Ottawa Receives 27.7 Million in War Contracts

Nelson Aide Praises Area in Address at Rotary Club Meet

The Rotary club of Holland Thursday noon heard Joseph E. Liston, special assistant to Donald Nelson, head of the war production board.

Mr. Liston, who is well informed on WPB activities, commended Holland for its fine part in the war effort and stated that in Ottawa county there have been awarded to date, war contracts totaling $27,734,000, excluding all contracts under $50,000.

He said that not only Holland, but all the United States has done a magnificent job in manufacturing war equipment. In 1940, he added, $10,000,000 was allocated for defense, but up to the present, the expenditure of $441,000,000 for war material has been approved. He said that the most important item for which this money is spent is aircraft. At the beginning of the war, there were 374 commercial planes in the U.S. but now America is producing 380 planes per day.

He declared that whereas 31,000,000 tons of steel per year was the peacetime average, 93,000,000 tons are now being produced each year.

In 1939, the United States navy was regarded as the second largest in the world, but since then the size has been doubled each year—and the peak has not yet been reached. But the job is not done. Nor will war production cease when the war is ended.

Mr. Liston said that if the war were to end today, war production would be cut only 35 per cent. In spite of the horror and bloodshed of the war, America has accomplished much industrially and after the war, men should work and study side by side in order to destroy ignorance, disease, poverty and the other deep-seated but actual causes of war, he concluded.

Guests included Dr. C. V. Costello, R. Mason and E. P. Stephan of Holland, Sgt. W. Stephan of Holland and Lt. R. Wolbrink of Ganges.

MEMORIES STIRRED

This old picture found recently by Dick Homkes, 1 West 10th St., stirred up a lot of memories among local musically-minded persons who remember the days about 35 years ago when the Wagner chorus was something held in high regard.

First directed by John Vanderluis, center front, who died last fall, the chorus gave many concerts locally and traveled to Allegan and Grand Haven via the Pere Marquette fliers. One time they united for a concert in Grand Rapids with the Schubert club under the direction of a Mr.

Campbell who was instructor of voice at Hope college. J. Jans Helder, teacher of voice, succeeded Vanderluis as director.

Most of the concerts (admission 50 cents) were given in the Knickerbocker theater, now the Holland theater, and the skating rink at 16th St. and River Ave. Now Jess Ridenour's garage. Most music was of a classical nature and one number especially enjoyed by the chorus was "Drums." A novelty number, "The Owl and the Pussy Cat," was particularly popular as an encore.

The chorus remained in existence for many years. The reason for dissolving it is unknown. Many of those pictured are still active in musical circles here. At least six of the number are dead and one could not be identified.

Second row—Peter Huyser (dead), Mr. Rockefeller, John De Boer, Ben Brower (dead), C. W.

Service Men 'Give' Their Lives

Service men don't "lose" but "give" their lives, Capt. Robert M. White II, former United Press reporter insists.

When White recently returned to Australia after six months of combat duty in New Guinea he found awaiting him several copies of his home town paper, the Ledger, published by his father in Mexico, Mo. A heading over the pictures of 14 men read: "Aldrain County Men Who Have Lost Their Lives in Service."

White wrote to his father, L. Mitchell White, president of the Inland Daily Press association: "That isn't like the Ledger. Men in service don't 'lose' their lives. People lose umbrellas, golf balls and at poker . . . but men in service don't 'lose' their lives. 'They GIVE' their lives."

"Once a man faces the stark reality of death under fire he knows why he is in service . . . There are no volunteers or selectees on the battlefield. When the order comes to charge, there is no draft board there to pick you up and lead you forward into fire. You get up on your own and with your own freely-given strength charge forward amid the blasting, screaming hell which may mean death."

"You can't say a man 'loses' his life under those conditions. He gives it. He gives it knowingly and for good reason. The reason he is there, 'in service,' is to help bring victory for a cause . . . It is rather, to follow the footsteps of another Young Man who long ago fought for His cause and did not hesitate to give, not 'lose,' his life."

THE IRON HUNTER'S

MONUMENT

Admirers of Chase S. Osborn are proposing to erect an iron monument for him. For this purpose a Chase S. Osborn Memorial Association has been organized in Sault Ste. Marie, and the machinery has been thrown into gear to get the movement definitely started.

There are two details in the project that are distinctly unusual, to phrase it mildly. It is not quite customary to erect a monument for a man while he is so much alive as is the former governor of Michigan. Mr. Osborn is said to be almost daily hard at work on another book, and he keeps busy with so many projects that such activity might make many a much younger man dizzy.

Another unusual detail in the plan is that the monument is to be of iron. Throughout the ages man has been familiar with granite and marble and many another type of stone for memorials. But iron—that's quite another thing.
Yet it is wholly appropriate as a memorial to America's best known iron hunter. ("The Iron Hunter" is the title of Mr. Osborn's autobiography.)

The association in charge of the project plans to transport an iron boulder by steamer from one of Michigan's iron ranges to the iron hunter's home town. A brass plate is to identify the monument and is to set forth the reasons for its erection. The president of the association announces that the monument is to keep the memory of Mr. Osborn alive for "thousands of years."

Perhaps an iron boulder is a greater preservative of human fame than allegedly eternal granite has ever been. Human experience has been such that it is not quite reasonable to speak too glibly of "thousands of years" in such a connection. But neither is it necessary. Monuments of granite or of any other material have never been the true memorials in the course of centuries or millenniums. Even the pyramids have not served this purpose; although they have survived as monuments, the world has forgotten for whom they were erected. Time is a master of irony.

When a man has built his life into the community of the world and has translated his ideas
into human institutions, he already has the memorial that alone
gives some promise of permanence.
It was none the less a happy
thought to typify by an iron boulder
the career of Michigan's iron hunter.

Paul in Ephesus

—Acts 19: 1-20: 1

By Henry Geerlings

Paul had several kinds of people to deal with in Ephesus.

In this respect we suppose this ancient city is not different from any modern big city. In New York and Chicago and San Francisco we have a cross section of the world. In Ephesus the same was no doubt true. All kinds of people found their way there.

We have in mind, however, that Paul came in contact with different kinds of people who gave various reactions to him and his preaching. His preaching in the synagogue did not accomplish anything. At least with some. The more he preached the more stubborn and disobedient they became.

This attitude is always, a strange one, whether it is developed in the first century or in the twentieth. Men seem to close their minds against the incoming of truth. They will not give it fair hearing. But not only is this true, but likewise do they seem to harden under the hearing of the truth. We can, therefore, in some measure imagine

how hardened some of Paul's hearers were at the end of his three months' period of fearless preaching.

If we may use the figure we may say that his constant hammering away at them seemed to pound their minds down into a solid mass as the earth is hammered or pounded down into solidity under such a continued process of pounding. In other words the preaching of the gospel

seems to have had a two-fold effect—it hardens some minds and softens others. It aroused opposition and it persuades

others of its sweet reasonableness.
It seems to deepen some

men's own way of thinking and it wins and woos others unto its high idealism.

Such antagonism did Paul arouse in the minds of some of his hearers that they went to the lengths of decrying the Way in the presence of the multitude.

It is a pity, to say the least,

that if men cannot accept the gospel they do not go their way and allow others to accept it who may have a mind for it. It would be infinitely better if the stubborn and disobedient crowd

would be satisfied with their own rejection and stop there. They might leave room for the possibility of a thing's being true

through they have not yet discovered the truth of it. We can make some allowance for these people in Paul's day to whom the gospel was new, but we can scarcely make allowance for the stubborn and disobedient ones in our day to whom the gospel is old and who have opportunity to see what it has done in the world. There is hardly any excuse for a man who will not accept the gospel today. There is hardly any justification for opposing a something that has as much good in it as the gospel and which has abundantly proven its value to the world.

But we note also that Paul found stubborn and disobedient
people in Ephesus, but also a lot of superstitious people. The practice of magic arts was rife.

Men went so far as to use the name of Jesus in a magical way.

But this proved to be a kind of spiritual boomerang. Through the very process of degrading the name of Jesus—or attempting to degrade it—it was glorified and magnified. Jesus won out in the very place where his name was about to be put to such ignoble uses. Possibly it might become us not to be too hard on these people who attempted to link the name of Jesus with their superstitious practices. At the same time we might well remind ourselves of our paganism in America.

Some so-called Christian people connect the baptism of their children with magic. That is, they think that to baptize a child may save it from some physical disease or cure it of one it already has. We have met this kind of people. Others think there is some merit in the mere use of the Lord's Supper on Easter

Sunday. We have met this kind of people. We have met Christians who are still afraid of the number 13 and will not sit down to a table if they should be the thirteenth person.

Well, Paul had the satisfaction of converting some of the superstitious people of Ephesus.

They proved the genuineness of their conversion by burning their magic books. The church today

needs to convert some of her members to a real, wholesome view of Christianity. This cannot be done until nothing but the gospel is preached, and none

but the principles of Jesus are practiced.

Work at the salting plant of the H. J. Heinz Co., in this city has stopped because the season for pickling pickles has closed, began a story in the Sept. 15 issue of the Ottawa County Times published

by M. G. Manting in 1899. This season contracts for 750 acres were made with 408 farmers. The crop was below average owing to the hot dry days and cold nights in August. As the vegetable grows fastest during the night the growth was greatly retarded by the coolness of the atmosphere.

From 1,000 to 3,000 bushels were brought in daily. The largest amount brought in during one day was 3,500 bushels. The largest number of bushels for one day

last season did not reach 2,500.

The pickling industry is a great boon to the farmers. Every 3,000 bushels brought in meant $1,200

cash.

Reservations for Cruise Sold Out

No Chance for Other Trip by Luxury Liner As Schedule Is Full

E. P. Stephan, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, says that the five-hour cruise June 16 on the S.S. North American has been "way oversold." Cruise attendance is limited to 569 persons, requiring cancellation or some reservations.

Reservations may be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce office between June 1 and 10.

Stephan said there is no chance for any additional cruises as the steamers of the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit lines are booked solidly for the entire season. The June 16 date was the only date open and the company arranged the cruise to give the Holland residents an opportunity to sail on one of the luxury liners which dock at Montello park for the winter.

He was graduated from Holland High school in 1942 and was in his second semester at Hope college when he entered service.

Murals Dedicated At JHS Program

Will Be Memorial to Miss Minnie Smith; Presented by Pupils

Memorial services for Miss Minnie K. Smith, principal of Holland Junior High school for 29 years until her death June 13, 1943, were held in Junior high Monday morning.

A feature of the service was the dedication of two murals, painted by Carl Hoermann, Saugatuck artist, which were purchased by pupils of the school as a memorial to Miss Smith, and which have been placed in niches on the north and south walls of the alcove opposite the school's entrance.

The murals are about 65 by 26 inches. The one on the south wall is called "The Pioneers" and the one on the north "Their Children." In explaining their meaning, Mr. Hoermann said the former picture, the settings of which is Lake Macatawa with dunes on the horizon, tells of the works of man and not man himself. The covered wagon signifies the coming of the first settlers, the clearing of the land and building of shelter, and the cloud in the evening sky is the "cloud of hope."

It is because of teachers that the second mural could be painted, he said. "Their Children" shows "the clouds of fulfilled hope" in the form of a large metropolis, with roads to and from the city that must be traveled for better or worse, and the capital in the center signifies government. "This is the heritage of their children; he concluded, "which has been made possible through the untiring efforts of teachers, who truly may be called pioneers and builders."

Bill Hinga, president of junior high, presented the memorial in behalf of the senate and students, and they were accepted by Miss Bernice Bishop, principal. Following the service students were dismissed from home rooms to see the murals. A string orchestra inside the entrance played softly as the students filed past.

As part of the assembly program the a cappella choir, under the direction of Miss Tricie Moore, sang "The Old Rugged Cross," and "Abide With Me," both favorite hymns of Miss Smith. James Bennett, teacher, led devotions and paid tribute to Miss Smith, and Jack Simpson spoke on behalf of the students.

Other paintings by Mr. Hoermann, which are owned by the school, are "The Dunes," painted especially to hang in the center of the lobby, and "The Forgotten Road," and "Desert in Bloom," both of which are hung in the office. Other paintings are often on exhibit in the halls during the winter.

Crowd Parks on Memorial Day

Residents of Holland and community swarmed to local resorts and beaches in unprecedented numbers Memorial day to escape the heat which in Holland rose to 87 degrees.

Approximately 16,000 persons crowded Holland State park, which opened officially for the season, as compared with an attendance of 3,500 on Memorial day of 1943. All available parking spaces were taken and tables, benches and stoves were at a premium. There were about 11 camps, as compared with four last year, and hundreds of persons swam in Lake Michigan, the temperature of which was 65 degrees.

Many persons also visited Tunnel park which will be officially opened within 10 days. The Wolverine, ferryboat running on Lake Macatawa and Lake Michigan, was filled to capacity on each of its five trips, and often left its dock a half hour early because it was filled. Approximately 1,200 persons were turned away during the day as the boat could not accommodate them.

Sheriff's officers had difficulty directing the 750 to 1,000 cars near the Northshore Community hall Tuesday afternoon, as between 3,000 and 4,000 persons witnessed the horse racing events.

A record opening day crowd of 24,000 persons was at the Grand Haven park Tuesday. Forty-five trailers and camps were registered. The water temperature was 58 degrees. People were lined up double on both sides of the north and south piers fishing for perch, an unprecedented throng.

Gideons Present Bibles In Hospital Ceremony

Holland Gideons presented 50 large size Bibles to Holland hospital for use in its wards and rooms in a special dedication ceremony at 3 p.m. Sunday. The Bibles were on display in the reception room of the hospital, arranged in such a way that a red cross showed in the solid square.

Gilbert Van Wynen sang two selections and Rendert H. Muller, state president, spoke briefly. Fred Beuwick gave the dedicatory prayer. Arrangements for the service were made by Herman Bos.

The Gideon Bibles augment and replace a supply provided by a local Sunday school class about 20 years ago.

Consider the Lilies in the Midst of Chaos: Kruithof

"First things come first. Consider the lilies of the field, but seek ye first the kingdom of God." This was the advice of Rev. Bastian Kruithof who addressed the annual Memorial Sunday service Sunday night in First Reformed church, sponsored by local patriotic organizations and common council.

"The nations of the world are very much disturbed about themselves now, and individuals always are, but the calm voice of Jesus breaks upon our chaos, telling us to consider the lilies and the birds of the air. Our Father cares for them and clothes them. We who deal too much with externals are always busy with the artificial instead of the natural. We forget that character is more than prettiness. God alone can give us Christian character, not small part of which is contentment with Him, Rev. Kruithof said.

"We have many things to worry about including political and economic systems, but Jesus knows all these things, and even in the midst of war and commemorating the dead of another war, He refers us to the lilies. Christian contentment accepts God as creator and providence. Whoever possesses that refuses to be too much disturbed about chaotic particulars.

"But this contentment does not mean 'I should worry' which reflects a superficial kind of thinking expressed so often during the last war. Nor does it mean doing nothing. Jesus tells us to seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness. This one great possession will guarantee all other things.

"We may win this war and all other wars to come, but if we lose our souls, all is lost. 'What does the Lord want me to do' is the question we should ask on Memorial day. If we did, there wouldn't be so many crosses and poppies.

"Seeking the good of the soul, the church and the kingdom in its widest reaches we can find happiness and we can build a better world order. If we do not do that, the dead of this war shall again have died in vain, and we shall be paving the road to future ruin," Rev. Kruithof said.

Approximately 150 persons including members of common council, American Legion post and auxiliary, VFW post and auxiliary, USWW and auxiliary and the Woman's Relief corps marched in a body from the city hall to First church, led by Legion Comdr. Charles K. Van Duren. They filled the entire middle section of the church auditorium.

The choir under the direction of Stuart A. Ludlow sang a selection and Dick Vriesman sang a solo.

3.6 Million Yanks Overseas Set for 'Decisive Action'

Deployment of Air and Service Units Almost Completed: Stimson

Washington, June 1 (U.P.)—War Secretary Henry Stimson today said 3,657,000 U. S. army soldiers are now deployed in theaters of operations overseas and that the "period of decisive action" is now at hand.

The deployment of air forces and service forces overseas is practically complete and battle-ready ground forces are now moving abroad in conformity with the overall strategic plan to beat the enemy, he added.

The total of men overseas is 1,571,000 greater than the entire overseas strength of the U. S. army in the first world war, he said.

By the end of year, more than 5,000,000 American soldiers will be in battle theaters on every continent.

One year ago, the figure was 1,466,000, representing 21 per cent of the army strength at that time.

Today, slightly less than one-half of the army air forces alone, which total approximately 2,357,000 troops, are overseas, Stimson added, and the air forces now have more than 75,000 airplanes of all types, including about 34,000 combat craft.

Army forces in war theaters are at the end of supply lines stretching more than 56,000 miles into every continent, he said, adding that they represent about 47 per cent of total army strength.

American forces on Biak Island off northern New Guinea encountered fierce resistance from the Japanese blocking their advance to the Mokmer airfield and their drive today was halted until the enemy could be cleared from their flanks. Two more strong Japanese counter-attacks, evidently on a continuation of the tank battle which began Monday, were repulsed.

In the Tung Ting lake area of China, the Chinese fell slowly back towards imperiled Changsha before the advance of a Japanese force estimated at 150,000. Chungking announced that American planes of the 14th air force came to the aid of the hard pressed Chinese, bombing and strafing Japanese infantry columns and supply lines.

On the northern Burma front, continued progress was reported in the twin Allied drives on Myitkyna and Kamaing, while British Chindit raiders maintained their attacks on enemy communications lines.

Hop Shoots Down Bomber in Pacific

Trails Plane for an Hour and Finishes It Off in Thirty Seconds

Lt. (sgt) Harvey N. Hop, naval B-24 Liberator pilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hop of Holland, shot down an enemy bomber in the Pacific area a few weeks ago, according to a letter received at the Boy scout office here Wednesday.

Lt. Hop, former Eagle scout who attended the World Scout Jamboree in the Netherlands in 1937, wrote far down in his letter, "I'm doing a little advanced scout work now camping out in the middle of the Pacific. Long patrols are taking the place of our weekly hikes and occasionally our tracking and stalking training comes in to practice. I was lucky enough to track down an enemy bomber of superior speed and altitude the other day, trailed him an hour and shot him down in 30 seconds."

The local pilot, holder of the Dutch Flying Cross for attacking four Jap convoys, setting one on fire and sinking one, also wrote: "All this stuff is a little contradictory to the principles we had at the jamboree. When I return from that my talks were all based on the principles of world brotherhood. Who knows, maybe the world jamboree of 1950 will see that a reality. Let's hope so."

He enclosed a money order as a token of appreciation for all the benefits he derived from scouting with instructions to use it any way the council sees fit.

Hop, 26, was an ensign with the naval reserve and was in Honolulu when Pearl harbor was attacked Dec. 7, 1941. He had flown there the previous day from Wake Island. He has been in the Pacific area most of the time since the outbreak of the war. He holds the Purple Heart for wounds suffered early in his year.

MOST ENVIED OF BOYS --- CAPITOL PAGES

by ESTHER V. W. TUFFY

WASHINGTON—Capitol page boys—the lads at the beck and call of senators and representatives—are having pre-election jitters, too. Come election day, these pages will have their ears glued to the radio to find out if their patrons are re-elected.

For these 70 most-envied of teen-aged boys have a long or short term in Congress, depending on the election fate of the men who gave them their jobs; under the good old patronage system.

Capitol visitors are always intrigued with the page boys. Seen moving among the senators and congressmen they seem to be leading an exciting life among the people who make the headlines. And they are paid for it, too!

But their lives are not all glamorous, take it from Joe Morgan of South Carolina, who graduated this year, and who says it's also a "tough grind" and the hours are terrific. "Maybe," muses Joe, "life in the Navy will be easier."

Actually, a page boy's life is filled to the brim with work. Other boys wouldn't be so envious if they realized that being a page boy does not mean skipping dull school routine. He does go to school... down under the west terrace of the Capitol.

School at 7:15 A. M.

A page boy's day starts early. First comes school, and being "late for school" means arriving after 7:15! Classes in history, geography, languages and mathematics are held until 9:30 o'clock. Then comes recess. But recess doesn't mean play or a coke, but reporting on duty at the Senate, House of Representatives or the supreme court.

The pages stay on the job as long as the various sessions last. In the performance of their duties, they are expected to be quiet, intelligent, courteous and, above all, speedy.

Even adjournment does not bring the end of the day, for back to the classroom they go. If it is a long session the end of the school day may be 7 or 8 in the evening. The boys try to do their home work between errands and phone calls. That's what they are doing when seen busily reading as they sit at the feet of the vice president's rostrum awaiting the snap of a senator's fingers, the usual signal for summoning a page.

In this war Congress, the pages really learned the meaning of the word "work." Night sessions were frequent. During the controversy over the lend-lease bill, Senate pages were indeed thankful for the Senate restaurant tradition of treating each page to a steak dinner when the Senate worked later than 7 o'clock.

A page boy is thrown on his own early in life. These youngsters, ranging from 15 to 16 years of age from every state in the Union, are paid a regular federal salary of $1,440 plus a war bonus of $300. The boys say they spend every cent of it.

There is little of sending money home to mother, although many of them had expected to do so. (Many a page is appointed by a congressman to help a struggling widow rear her family.)

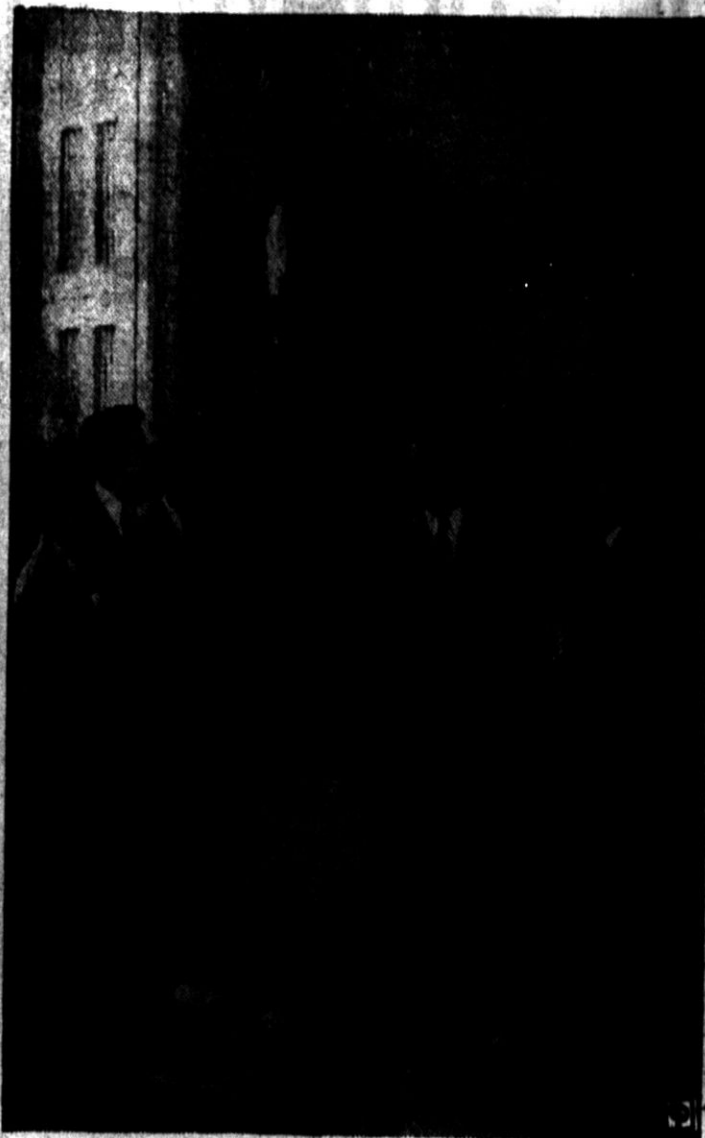

They Have Expenses

The boys pay tuition at the pages' school and purchase their uniforms. They must rent a room and pay board like any other government worker.

"For the boy who pulls through, it is a wonderful experience and his life is the richer for it," says Principal E. L. Kendall, former Oklahoma school teacher, "but for the boy who is not mature enough to plan a daily complicated life it may be pretty devastating. The minds get weeded out quickly."

"Some boys become egotistical and strut around with the notion he has been tapped for a great position in the nation. We fight that idea," confides Kendall, who is a sort of "Mr. Chips" to the students of the school he organized 13 years ago in some gloomy basement rooms of the Capitol.

Those rooms are no longer gloomy. Every page is proud of his six-room air-conditioned school in the subway of the Capitol with its historic desks that graced the art of debate by wrangling over the very controversies raging on the House and Senate floors.

Topmost honor to a page is to be invited to join the seven-member Explorers club. Only the pages with long and honorable service are selected.

Ask a page about his biggest borer and he will blush terrifically. The time one tripped over a senator's outstretched foot; the water accidentally spilled down a congressman's back; the pile of books knocked off a senator's desk during a hushed debate.

Many say the most exciting session ever observed was the anti-poll tax fight in 1942, which kept the pages running for books to prolong the filibuster. Others prefer the session at which war was declared.

Page boys have enlivened the floors of Congress since Andrew Jackson's time and maybe even before that. House pages wear no uniform, but the Senate pages, much to their disgust, wear the black, out-dated, slightly Lord Fauntleroy outfit, dictated by early convention.

The pages have a good time. Sometimes it is a dance to raise money for War Bonds. Or a baseball game on the "campus," otherwise known as the Capitol plaza. Or even a water fight in the cloak-rooms.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace has revived an old custom of a holiday feast for the Senate pages. Mrs. Roosevelt has set a precedent with an annual entertainment at the White House.

Once she managed to sneak them into the president's office and to their delight Mr. Roosevelt talked about everything from their jobs to Halloween.

Mrs. Roosevelt invited the pages of a picnic, but it rained so they dined in the state dining room!

Pages, like all American boys, have hobbies. Their favorite is a natural—the collecting of autographs! The great of the world visits the Congress. Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Madame Chiang Kai-shek, King Peter of Yugoslavia, President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines, Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, and so on and on.

Soon it will be graduation time again. The first commencement exercises were formally observed in 1941, with "godmothers" Mrs. Roosevelt awarding the diplomas.

But page boys aren't shouting with glee on graduation day. They know it's the end of what may be the most exciting, information, novel experience of their young lives.

Refugee Vessel Is Spared by Order

Philadelphia, June 1 (U.P.)—Passengers of the neutral Portuguese refugee ship Serpa Pinto, stopped by a German submarine 600 miles off the coast of Bermuda last Friday, were processed today by immigration authorities for entry into the United States.

The fourth naval district announced that 74 Canadians, interviewed by the immigration bureau yesterday, were entrained for Canada last night. They were considered technically as not having entered the United States.

The passenger list of the Serpa Pinto included approximately 20 American citizens, ten of them women.

The Serpa Pinto was stopped by gunfire from the German U-boat. Passengers were ordered to abandon ship while the submarine awaited orders from Berlin as to whether it should be sunk. Ship's officers said two Americans were taken from the ship as prisoners.

While the young, bearded, English-speaking U-boat commander leisurely awaited word from his superiors 3,500 miles away, the 385 passengers and crewmen drifted aimlessly in horror for nine hours. Three of them, including the 16-month-old daughter of Polish refugees, lost their lives during the transfer from vessel to lifeboats.

When the order came to spare the Serpa Pinto, the German skipper permitted the passengers and crew to return to the vessel which then continued to Philadelphia.

Saugatuck

As part of the Memorial day service at the Saugatuck Methodist church an effective dedication service was held. An honor roll bearing the names of the young people associated with the church who are in the service of their country was dedicated. As each name was read from the roll, a small silk flag was placed in a bed of flowers on the rostrum. A prayer of dedication was offered by Dr. W. F. Kendrick, and as the young people's choir sang "God Bless America," a concealed electric fan was turned on which fluttered the large American flag and the small flags.

The platform of the church was beautifully decorated with flowers, red geraniums, white spiraea and blue iris, the work having been done by Donald Sessions. Following the service, pictures were taken of the platform and service panel and they will be sent to those on the honor roll. In addition the church plans to send each one a copy of "The Messenger," a monthly church publication for service people and a personal letter from the pastor each month.

The names on the honor roll are: Johnson Fox, Robert Anderson, Arthur Wailman, June Delke, Richard Derr, Charles Ten Have, Dale Van Leeuwen, Andrew Van Leeuwen, Silvia H. # It means something to all these people when you buy a War Bond

WHEN YOU BUY a War Bond, it affects a great many people.

FIRST, it buys weapons for the American boys overseas.

SECOND, it encourages our fighting allies, by demonstrating that the American people are in this scrap to the finish.

THIRD, it brings cheer to the starving and oppressed in Nazi-occupied territories, because it means a quicker end of hunger and tyranny.

FOURTH, it discourages Hitler and Tojo—and is a punch at the morale of the German and Japanese home fronts.

FIFTH, it helps to guarantee peace and liberty to future generations of Americans.

AND THE BLANK SPACE? Put yourself in that picture. For when you buy a War Bond, it certainly means as much to you as to anyone else in the world.

It's a wonderfully advantageous way to invest your money. It pays $4 for every $3 you put in. It's safe. And it'll give you a financial nest egg—a nest egg you can use after the war for such things as buying a home, educating your children, and traveling.

So buy more War Bonds right now—TODAY!
