Three Pay Fines In Traffic Cases

Grand Haven, May 29 (Special).—Arthur J. Siplon, 24, of Muskegon, paid a $50 fine and $3.50 costs in Justice George V. Hoffer's court late Monday on a charge of reckless driving. He was involved in an accident early Sunday morning on West Spring Lake road when, in attempting to make a turn, his car struck a tree and overturned.

Michael F. Belmonte, 21, also of Muskegon, who was following Siplon's car and struck it after it had rolled over, paid $35 fine and $3.50 costs on a reckless driving charge.

William Bol, 29, Grand Haven, paid a $25 fine and $3.50 costs on a reckless driving charge upon arraignment before Justice Hoffer Monday night. He was arrested in Spring Lake township on May 25 alleging he was driving at an excessive speed and cutting traffic.

Strike Continues At Spring-Air Co.

Employees of the Spring-Air Co. remained on strike Tuesday following rejection of wage increase offered by the company, it was reported today.

Union and company officials met with a federal conciliator, C. M. Fox, of Muskegon, Monday afternoon to discuss a strike settlement.

Chairman of the union bargaining committee, Bastian Bouman, presented company proposal to workers Monday night. The workers unanimously rejected the offer.

A. Bondy Gronberg, company president, said further negotiations likely would be held but no time could be set pending word from the conciliator.

Changes Plea and Pays Heavy Fine

Gerrit R. Voss, 51, Holland, appeared in municipal court early Tuesday in advance of a trial set for 10 a.m. and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and was assessed fine and costs of $107.30 on a charge of being drunk while in control of a motor vehicle.

Voss was arrested by sheriff's officers Friday night parked on Waverly road about three blocks south of 16th St. He pleaded innocent Saturday, and bond was set at $200.

In keeping with state law, his operator's license will be revoked. His name also will be added to Holland's liquor black list.

Grand Haven Bars Bow To Sunday Closing Hours

Grand Haven, May 29 (Special).—Voluntary acceptance of Sunday closing hours by Grand Haven liquor dispensers has made unnecessary inclusion of the issue on ballots for a city election scheduled for June, the city council decided Monday night.

Bars will close at midnight Saturdays and will open at 7 a.m. Mondays. These hours are acceptable to petitioners who sought to have the issue presented to voters.

Further Meetings Are Planned in City Dispute

Further meetings will be held after Rev. de Velder returns from a two-week trip in the east. Meanwhile, additional information on wage scales and wages paid for comparable work will be compiled.

Harrington Principal Is Complimented by Pupils

Teachers and pupils of Harrington school, which closed for the season this week, on Wednesday surprised John Timmer, school principal, during the final period of the day. Voters of Ottawa Urged to Support Abraham Lincoln

Republicans Offer Full Party Slate For Election Favor

Ottawa county voters — cast your ballot for Abraham Lincoln! This is the substance of an advertisement printed in a Grand Haven newspaper. Of course the date line is Oct. 11, 1864 and of course the advertisement was inserted in support of the Great Emancipator.

The paper is property of John H. Maat, route 3, Holland, who brought it to The Sentinel, together with another paper dated Sept. 21, 1843. The latter is the Emancipator and Free American and was published in Boston for years as an abolitionist spokesman. The Emancipator has been the subject of many stories of crusading American newspapers. The copy owned by Mr. Maat shows the paper to be in its eighth year of publication in 1843.

To get back to the Grand Haven paper, besides Abraham Lincoln, voters were also asked to favor Andrew Johnson of Tennessee. The county slate included:

Sheriff—Stephen L. Lowing. Clerk and Register—John Boer. Treasurer—Robert B. McCulloch.

Judge of Probate—Augustus W. Taylor.

Prosecuting Attorney—Healey C. Akeley.

Circuit Court Com.—Ira Y. Burnham.

Coroners—Hiram Bateman and John Balt.

County Surveyor—J.—C. Bratton.

Fish Inspector—John Zitlow.

The odd punctuation in the county surveyor nomination is just as it was shown in this 81-year-old advertisement. Probably it has to do with some ancient election law.

Elias W. Merrill was state senatorial candidate and John W. Barnard and George Luther were candidates for the lower house.

Henry H. Crapo of Genesee was Republican candidate for governor and Ebenezer O. Grosvenor of Hillsdale was candidate for lieutenant governor.

Among other candidates was James B. Porter of Allegan who aspired to be secretary of state.

The paper was all hand set and little or no effort was made to make the paper either attractive to the reader or easy to read. Editors must have assumed readers were so eager to read their scholarly writing a little bad typography wouldn't deter them. Headlines were small and scarcely informative.

Another interesting feature was a complete list of premiums awarded at the annual Ottawa county fair. From the appearance one would be led to suppose it was published as a paid advertisement.

Centennial Park Now in Full Dress

With the placing of 2,000 plants in the central fountain at Centennial park this week, the most attractive of Holland's public gardens is now officially ready for summer visits.

Park Supt. Dick Smallenburg and his men today completed putting fuchsias, ivy, ferns, begonias, lobelia, arbutus plants and ageratum into the hundreds of flower boxes and crevices of the novel fountain whose outside is made of tuffestone, a lime formation which retains moisture and promotes the growth of moss.

The inside of the hollow fountain is made of cobblestone. There are two lines of pipes, one for the top sprays and a lower one to water the flower boxes. The base of the fountain is 12 feet in diameter and the walls are about three feet thick. The fountain is 20 feet tall and the entire pond about 40 feet across.

To work on the fountain, workmen first drained the water from the pond. The hundreds of gold fish safely found their way to the inside of the fountain where the floor is 1 1/2 feet below the pond level.

Smallenburg said the tuffestone used in the fountain construction is found at Buchanan. It is a brittle substance and workmen display caution in working there since large pieces break off at times. The tuffestone also was used in erecting two water fountains near the present honor roll board, in the barricade of the big fish pond, and in the miniature waterfall.

The large fish pond which lies just south of the central fountain is five feet deep with slanting sides. White, yellow and red water lilies bloom there in the summer months. Approximately 300 larger plants are used in the various niches of the stone barricade surrounding the pond. The large pond is used as a breeding pond for gold fish and the smaller fish are kept in the central pond.

When the central fountain is in full play, the water drains through a special underground passage to the miniature waterfall which in turn drains into the large fish pond which is at a lower level. The miniature waterfall is a favorite setting for pictures of all kinds.

Centennial park, which covers seven acres, was christened in 1876 in honor of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the nation. Shade trees were set out by the score and the place was used for all sorts of celebrations. In the fall of 1902, walks and flower beds were laid out and since that time the place has been the most picturesque of all city parks.

It was on this site that a bountiful spread was prepared for the soldiers when they returned from the civil war in 1865. The homecoming was featured by the cutting of a large cake, pyramid shape, five feet high, with a sword by Dr. A. C. Van Raalte.

With the rise of the Tulip Time festival, Centennial park has become even more a showplace displaying the beauty and charm of the blooms which have made Holland famous.

To Resume Block Deliveries June 1

Local cement block manufacturers, who suspended deliveries May 1 in protest to OPA price increase delays, will deliver on a limited scale Saturday. Spokesman Bernard H. Van Voorst said today.

With no word forthcoming from Cleveland today, the "promise without fail" deadline given by Cleveland officials a week ago, Van Voorst telephoned regional headquarters and was told the measure had passed through the legal department and was awaiting a director's signature before being forwarded to Holland. Information on increases was withheld.

Van Voorst said blocks will be delivered Saturday under the present ceiling price with provisions that customers pay increases when determined.

Accidental Death Verdict Given At Inquest Here

Coroner Conducts Inquiry into Death Of Royal Oak Boy

After deliberating 20 minutes, a six-man jury returned a verdict of accidental death at an inquest Tuesday afternoon into the traffic death of 10-year-old Donald Lee Hoffman of Royal Oak who was killed May 18 on US-31 about nine miles north of Holland. Mrs. Wilma Mulder, 25, of Coopersville was driver of the car.

The jury consisted of C. Neal Steketee, foreman, Gerrit Glupker, Clarence Becker, Leo Loew, Leon N. Moody and Raymond Holwerda. The inquest was heard before Coroner Gilbert Vande Water with County Prosecutor Howard W. Fant carrying on the investigation.

Mrs. Mulder testified she was en route to Chicago to meet her husband who had just been discharged from the service when the accident occurred. She said the car was in good mechanical condition since it was regularly serviced by her husband's relatives who operate a garage in Coopersville.

Upon questioning, she explained she applied her brakes gently when she first saw the youngster on his bicycle and blew her horn as a warning although she did not believe the boy would cross the road. She said she turned to the left in an attempt to avoid the youth and after the impact the car landed in a ditch on the left side of the road. She said she had passed a Rooks truck shortly before the accident occurred.

Raymond Almqvist, crewman aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Mackinaw which was docked in Holland during Tulip Time, testified he and a buddy had hitchhiked a ride to Grand Haven with an unidentified motorist who had stopped at the filling station on the intersection where the accident occurred. He said the youngster had filled his bicycle tires with air at the service station and was crossing the highway when he was hit in the southeast quarter of the intersection by the Mulder car. He said he rushed over to the youngster and could find no pulse. He judged the Mulder car was traveling between 40 and 50 miles an hour.

Mrs. Mae Rankens of Coopersville, mother of Mrs. Mulder, who was riding in the front seat of the car, told the jury her daughter blew the horn hard but the youth did not hesitate in crossing the highway. She said she did not notice the speedometer and never had any fear while driving with her daughter.

Paul Rooks of Holland, driver of the truck which the Mulder car had passed, estimated Mrs. Mulder was traveling about 45 miles an hour. He said he saw the Mulder car go to the left and saw the boy's body go up in the air. He said he was about two blocks behind and could not hear a horn at that distance. He said he stopped at the station to call an ambulance but learned one already had been called.

Chester Foss, operator of the service station, said he saw the boy leave the station and a few seconds later heard a crash and turned quickly to see the boy's body in the air higher than the car and saw the car go into the ditch. He said he phoned police headquarters for an ambulance immediately. He said the boy had purchased candy in the station.

Foss said he later took measurements and he estimated it was 109 feet from the place Mrs. Mulder turned to the left to the point of impact. He also said the tracks of the bicycle on the crossroad indicated the boy did not pause before going onto the highway. He told the jury he could identify the tracks of the Mulder car because of the dirt on that portion of the road brought by travel over the intersection. He said he found particles of rubber on the road only at the place where the boy was hit, indicating Mrs. Mulder applied her brakes hard at this point. Mrs. Foss also testified but was not an eye witness. She was hanging up the washing at the time, she said.

Sheriff William M. Boeve who with Deputy Edward Brower carried on the initial investigation said the car traveled 100 feet after the impact, brake marks showing all the way. He said the car dug up the left shoulder of the road for 22 feet before stopping in the ditch. He also said there were brake marks 29 feet before the impact and testified the body was thrown 100 feet.

Brower corroborated this testimony and added he had tested the brakes of the car and found them in good condition.

Hope Baseball Team Snaps GR Winning Streak

Four-Run Outburst in Third Helps Van Lierc Pitch Hope to Victory

Hope college snapped Grand Rapids Junior college's seven-game winning streak with a 5-3 victory Thursday afternoon at Riverview park behind the fourth hit pitching of Claire Van Lierc. Seven walks got him in trouble frequently but he pitched his way out holes in the first, fourth and fifth innings. A two-run homer by Lefty Butler in the sixth accounted for two-thirds of Grand Rapids' runs.

Hope scored in the second inning when Art Heemstra singled Bud Dorsch home. Dorsch had doubled.

In the third they finished their scoring for the afternoon with four runs.

Don Mulder walked. Charlie Martindale singled and he and Mulder advanced to second and third and the bases were loaded when the third baseman muffed Dorsch's grounder. Ernie Meusen singled to right sending two runs in. Heemstra walked and Bill Hillegronds batted in two more runs with a double.

Women Need Not Apologize for Their Purse Contents; Men Are Just as Bad

Friend husband who may have enjoyed a quiet chuckle at wife's expense at the assortment of articles women carry in their purses, as a result of an article in The Sentinel last month, met his comeuppance today.

The latest survey of the Sentinel Statistics and Trends department dealt with what men carry in their pockets, and the facts uncovered were surprising.

And remember, gals, he who laughs last laughs best! While it must be admitted that the articles men carry in their pockets are less bulky than those of milady's purse, the wider variety more than makes up for the lack of bulk.

Aside from tailors who make the garments and wives who turn the pockets inside out for the laundry (or to find money), few persons are actually aware how many pockets men's clothing has.

SSTD found that a man fully clothed has access to as many as 25 pockets! Surprised? Well, count 'em.

The trousers alone have five pockets, two in the back, two at the sides and a watch pocket, and sometimes a second watch pocket and a small inner pocket in a side pocket. The vest has four pockets; and the coat has four pockets, two at the side, a handkerchief pocket near the left lapel and an inside pocket on the right. Sometimes there's another handkerchief pocket on the left.

The overcoat has pockets at the sides, a handkerchief pocket and an inside pocket, and sometimes has smaller inner pockets in the large pockets at the side. And if the gentleman wears a reversible raincoat, just chalk up another two pockets.

Is that all? Don't forget the shirt. Regular shirts always have one pocket, and the Army and sports shirts have two pockets.

SSTD found that all men carried a billfold with various types of identification, a handkerchief, a comb and a pencil. Money ranged from $3 to $60. From there on, the "contest" was wide open and everything turned up.

SSTD also learned that men carry billfolds in their left hip pockets, handkerchiefs and combs in the right hip pockets and change in the side pockets. The executive type who wears suits often have swanky leather folders for various papers in the inner coat pocket.

Strange to say, no household bills such as light and water bills were found in any of the pockets, all of which may prove that men have trained the women well in looking after such trifles. Not even a rent receipt was uncovered.

Contents of a banker's pockets proved to be the most orderly. His billfold contained his car registration, operator's license, draft classification, social security card, hospital service, credit card for Hotel New Yorker, gasoline credit card, war finance committee credentials, credit card for Hotel Fort Shelby, credit card for Detroit Leland, pistol permit, Exchange club membership, Chamber of Commerce membership, Fish and Game club membership, Tavern club membership, car insurance identification and SPESQSA membership.

His pockets yielded a pen knife, chain and keys, handkerchief, pencil, cigarettes, fountain pen, cigarette lighter, and a leather folder containing pictures, clippings, memos and rubber bands.

A policeman wearing only shirt and trousers unloaded a surprising variety. His billfold yielded fish and game club membership, a check, dog license, old gas ration books, receipts, receipt of deposit of $50 on new car, operator's license, FOP membership, three classifications for draft status, deputy sheriff's card, hospitalization card, gun permit for department of conservation, social security card, Metropolitan club membership, old $5 use stamp, insurance identification, Holland Rifle and Pistol club, Red Cross membership.

His pockets yielded matches, clippers, a bullet, key, gum, money, order receipt, inhaler, jackknife, chain with nine keys, pencil, pen, cigarette case, lighter, time schedule for migratory birds, bank reference, union book, scribbled address, old letter in shorthand, radio license, calendar, insurance data, premium deposit on baby's insurance, income tax employee's receipt, post card, insurance identification.

A discharged veteran now attending college carried a comb, cigarettes, matches, file, bottle opener, handkerchief, snapshots, car keys, broken discharge button, pencil, lighter, spark plug souvenir and a small piece of shrapnel removed from wounds in France. Cement Men Threaten OPA

Cement block manufacturers of Holland and Zeeland, who suspended deliveries May 1 in protest to long-awaited OPA price relief, extended their patience one more week on personal promise of Harvey Maherr, attorney for the adjustment section of the regional OPA headquarters in Cleveland.

But if relief is not forthcoming by May 29, local manufacturers will sell cement blocks in defiance of the OPA on June 1 at the sought-after price of 15 cents plus extra for delivery, Bernhard H. Van Voorst, spokesman for the manufacturers, said Wednesday.

Van Voorst said he called Cleveland today after no word was forthcoming Monday or Tuesday on price relief promised a week ago by three Detroit OPA officials who came to Holland for additional data.

Van Voorst said he was informed by Maherr that the information collected by the Detroit men had been processed and was "in the mail" for Cleveland. Van Voorst said Maherr indicated everything was lined up and it was only a matter now for legal checkups.

Local manufacturers have been stockpiling their product since deliveries were halted May 1, but cannot expect to continue much longer, according to Van Voorst.

Local manufacturers have asked for a new ceiling price of 15 cents per block on the yard with delivery additional to replace the generally current price of 12 cents which includes delivery. They base their request on increased costs of production which have mounted steadily since the ceiling was established in 1942.

Corn Plantin' Time Nears in Allegan

Allegan, May 29 — Allegan county farmers are getting ready to plant a part of Michigan's 1,800,000-acre corn acreage this week, according to Ray Floate, assistant county agent. "This year the crop is as important as during the war years. Europe faces a famine and here in this nation a feed shortage is apparent," Floate added.

J. W. Thayer, Jr., farm crops specialist at Michigan State college, says the old saying that the time to plant corn "is when oak leaves are as big as squirrel ears" is pretty good advice. In Allegan county the most appropriate date, according to tests, is May 20.

The county agent suggests that a good seed-bed be prepared. Ground should be worked in advance to planting to kill weeds. Immediately before planting, a good firm seed-bed should be prepared by disking and dragging.

If you have a mechanical corn picker you will probably find it more successful to plant in rows. However, check planting is popular for those without pickers. It makes it easier to cultivate both ways to control weeds.

Floate recommends planting of from seven to 10 pounds of seed per acre. A bushel of seed should plant six to eight acres.

Evangelists Plan Center to Promote Religion in Reich

Berlin, May 29 — Evangelical churches in the British occupation zone of Germany have announced plans for a Christian foundation to promote religious life and thought in Germany.

The plans were approved at a recent regional conference of church leaders held at Bethel-Bielefeld. The center is expected to provide courses in Christian responsibility and action for all classes of the population, but especially for German youth.

Frequent seminars lasting from six to 15 days will be sponsored to provide religious instruction and discussion of current problems in the light of Christian teaching. Plans call for publication of books, pamphlets, and the launching of a monthly magazine. It is also hoped to establish outlets through the press and radio and to organize lecture courses in various parts of the country.

A prospectus prepared by Dr. Lindemann declares that recent events have proved that "the real cause of Germany's and Europe's present disaster not only is the perversion of Nazism, but fundamentally the decline of moral, religious responsibility of modern civilization." "It is obvious that a real and permanent recovery," the prospectus says, "cannot be hoped for without a return to God."

"The future of Germany depends on whether or not our people can be re-Christianized. The church stands in need of means for conquering the intellectually leading classes of the nation in order to create a Christian elite."

LOOK BEHIND THE SCENES

These days it is in order to look behind the scenes whenever someone tries to sell you his recipe for saving the world. All those schemes for snatching civilization out of the very jaws of disaster have a very appealing sound.

Thus there is a new student organization at Northwestern University that has for its avowed purpose the prevention of a third World War. That is an objective most men would gladly subscribe to. For that reason the young men who make up the organization are pouring their gospel into more than willing ears.

And they are doing their gespeling on a rather ambitious scale.
According to their printed material and their oral announcement, they aim to reach every university and many of the colleges in America with their printed message and word-of-mouth addresses. Student members have been traveling up and down the nation to hold meetings in hundreds of centers of learning.

All of which is admirable. There can hardly be too much propaganda against another world war.
But a reader of their leaflets or a listener to their speeches is justified in generating doubts when he learns that the heart of their propaganda is that we must have what they are pleased to call a "world government." And if we don't develop that "world government" we are rushing into the jaws of disaster; civilization itself will perish, unless we get that "world government."

Those university boys doubtless mean well, but before swallowing their gospel it might be well to ask the sobering question: "Just what do they mean by world government?" Do they mean that if we don't scrap our own American democracy and merge our governments with that of the Russians we are headed for destruction? Or are we justified in believing that they mean—since they are Americans—that Russia will scrap its government and merge its fortunes with the American system?

If they mean the latter they are too naive for serious attention. If they mean the former, there are still millions of people left in America who believe that our uncritical adoption of Russianism for America would be the greatest disaster of all, even greater than the disaster of another war. Yet there is a strong suspicion, judging by their general phraseology, that that is about what those boys are advocating.

Whatever the facts are, it is a good idea to look behind the scenes before trying to make a broadjump into any kind of Utopia.

Sunday School
Lesson

June 2, 1946
Friends at Bethany
Mark 14:3-9; Luke 19:38-42;
John 11:1-3

By Henry Geerlings

There is one home that is conspicuous in the gospel story as a refuge for Jesus. He loved to be there. It was one place where He was sure of love and sympathy and understanding. There were no critical minds here. He was not watched with an evil eye. Here was real friendship, the kind that could be depended upon. Here He could relax and rest.

We have here a story of a real human happening. It is a revelation of a little ripple on the surface. It gives a picture of a very human woman whose nerves got the better of her. It presents also a woman more composed and calm. Martha was busy getting a meal for the beloved and honored guest. This was right and proper.
It may be that her sister had helped up to a certain point, and then went and sat at the feet of Jesus to hear Him talk. Martha was very much concerned about the dinner. Doubtless she was preparing a big one and it required lots of work and care. In the process of getting the meal, the meal got her. And as it did she thought of her sister sitting leisurely at the feet of Jesus. The more she worked and the more she thought the more she became impatient and irritated. The unfairness of the situation weighed heavily upon her and so she could stand it no longer and she went into the room or possibly into the garden where Jesus and Mary were, as a certain artist represents them, and in a manner chided the Master for the situation.

It is not hard to see Martha's point of view. If the dinner were to be big and elaborate and so the chief consideration on the occasion of Jesus' visit, then of course Martha had a good case. It was selfish on the part of Mary to have left the burden of the dinner preparation to Martha alone.

If feeding the stomach is of more importance than feeding the soul we cannot blame Martha too much. If Jesus wanted to make a drudge of Martha by His presence in the home when a meal was expected then Martha was right.

But it is not difficult to see that Martha had the wrong point of view. A big dinner was not the chief thing on this occasion. There were more important things to be considered. Martha was putting second things first and Jesus was never pleased with such a procedure. He was always against it.

Martha had therefore worked herself unnecessarily up into a fever of feeling. Jesus loved Martha quite as much as He did Mary.
Therefore He gently and lovingly reproved her for unnecessary anxiety and assured her that one dish was all that was necessary.
He would rather have Martha's attention than her food. How many Marthas there are in the world who would make their household duties unnecessarily burdensome. We do not wish to be misunderstood. We easily recognize the fact that housekeeping is a big and trying task at best, but we also see that many housekeepers lose their perspective.

Now sorrow entered this home.
When Lazarus died Jesus felt the hurt of it. Of course every human being was dear to Him but the Bethany family belonged to a kind of an inner circle of friends.
He was very tender respecting the great sorrow that had come into this home. That Jesus delayed somewhat His going to this home to minister to the bereaved sisters seems strange and yet it was not because of indifference. His plan was formed and it was to be of the greatest comfort and help to the stricken ones. He knew He was going to wrest a blessing out of the very jaws of death. On His way to the home Martha came and later on Mary came to Him too and they both greeted Him with the words, "Had you been here, Lord, my brother would not have died." It is the giving himself up to great faith in Jesus but it is a supposition that is not entirely warranted. Could not Jesus at a distance have prevented the death of Lazarus quite as readily as close at hand. If He had so minded and if such prevention were the best order of things?

And is death in the last analysis a calamity or the worst that can happen to us?

Death is a gracious part of the eternal scheme of things. And while it is tragic to us, oftentimes breaking our hearts, certainly shattering our dearest relationships and wrecking our fondest hopes, yet it is good wrapped up in a forbidden package. Jesus knew both sides of death—the sorrowful side and the glad side, the shadow side and the shining side. He could weep and rejoice over it. So He wept with the Bethany sisters over the sorrow that had come into their home. But He did more than weep with them. He likewise revealed His mind to them.

Thinking of death He declared Himself to be the resurrection and the life for those who die. To prove this, He called Lazarus forth from the grave. I look upon this miracle as a concrete demonstration of the theory of the continuity of life. In the power of Christ over death and the grave we have the assurance that the end of a human being is not the cessation.

Raise Money First, Then
Build Schools—Crawford

The needs for raising funds before erecting new school buildings or making extensive repairs was emphasized by Supt. Carroll C. Crawford at a meeting of a citizens school committee in Holland high school Monday night, called for the purpose of studying public school needs.

Data on buildings and finances were compiled by Crawford and distributed among 35 persons present.

Dr. Lester J. Kuypier, committee member-at-large, was elected chairman and Clarence J. Becker secretary. Mrs. George E. Kollen, board of education president, opened the meeting.

The chairman was instructed to appoint two 5-member sub-committees, one to study school needs and the other school finances.
They will report at a progress meeting July 22.

Crawford pointed out that Holland could raise $210,000 over a five-year period by increasing levies three mills on present valuations. He said 59 elections had been scheduled by Michigan school systems during the summer months last year. 50 of which passed by a two-thirds majority.

He pointed out that while Junior high school cost $372,000 when it was built in 1923, the interest amounted to $269,300 over the years, raising total cost to $641-300. Present school laws do not allow more than five years for any financial promotion, without revoting, he said.

In calling attention to future needs, Crawford displayed three maps, one showing the location of homes of primary school children, homes of children up to five years, and the third showing location of homes of junior high and high school students.

He pointed out that children under five years total 1,472 compared with a total resident membership of 2,174 now attending the five primary schools, the two junior high schools and one senior high school.

He said kindergarten next year will bring 23 pupils to Froebel, 27 to Lincoln, 50 to Washington, 50 to Van Raalte and 50 to Longfellow. He added there are only three kindergarten teachers at present.

Crawford reported the amount which may be raised for operating expenses in the Holland schools is governed by the 15-mill tax limitation, but that the city is not governed by this limitation.

In providing data on school buildings, Crawford revealed that Froebel school (167 pupils) was built in 1879 at a cost of $12,000 for building and site, Lincoln school (191 pupils) was built in 1893 for $19,366. Longfellow school (273 pupils) was built in 1906 for $21,642. Van Raalte (259 pupils) was built in 1907 for $21-790.

Washington school (321 pupils) was built in 1926 for $184,009, including equipment. East Junior high (144 pupils) was built in 1887 for $10,969. Junior high school (769 pupils) was built in 1923 for $363,050, including equipment. Senior high (520 pupils) was built in 1912 at a cost of $119,791.

Crawford said the only feasible method of raising funds for building schools is to conduct a school election to raise the tax limitation above 15 mills. This requires a two-thirds majority. The next step is to establish a sinking fund.
This can be passed by a simple majority.

In explaining financial operations, Crawford said the county tax allocation commission has allowed 10.99 mills on an assessed valuation of $14,121,950 for 1946-47. The assessed valuation of Holland is 53 per cent of the real value. The state tax commission claims the valuation should be 80 per cent of the real value. The state equalized valuation is $17-851,615, according to Crawford.

He pointed out that the tax rate for debt service will be 2.95 mills compared with 4.37 mills for last year. The new rate, together with the 10.99 mills, will result in a $13.94 rate per $1-000 valuation, Crawford said.
There are $151,000 in school bonds still outstanding. All have to be matured by 1955.

The budget for expenditures for operation the coming year is $363,000. Of this amount $314,509 will be spent for salaries, accounting for 86.64 per cent, leaving a small margin for building operation and maintenance and very little for new furniture and equipment.

Estimated receipts for 1946-47 total $360,000, making it necessary to take more than $5,000 from capital reserve, which will include the salary of a kindergarten teacher not provided for in the budget. The capital reserve after the cost of the new vocational building is deducted will be $60,000.

Crawford said the average salary the coming year for an elementary teacher is $2,131. The average salary for a woman secondary teacher is $2,358 and for a man $2,859. Custodians' salaries are $2,000.

He also revealed that 52.4 per cent of receipts for operating schools last year came from state or federal funds and 47.6 per cent from local funds. Schools received $155,220 in local taxes in 1945-46.

Holland public schools are working under the 15-mill limitation amendment. For next year, the allocation already has been made, the Holland schools receive 10.99 mills, Ottawa county 4 mills and the city of Holland .

Dutchmen Down Grand Haven Nine 27-3 in Game Here

Harry De Neff Homers Twice; Mike Skallen Is Winning Pitcher

The Holland Flying Dutchmen spotted Grand Haven's Athletics three runs in the first inning Thursday night at Riverview park and then got 27 on their own to win, 27-3.

Grand Haven made a game of it for five innings and from then on it was a Holland hitting exhibition with the locals getting three homers, a triple and three doubles besides 15 singles. Harry De Neff hit two of the homers, both on top of the leftfield grandstands 375 feet away from home plate.

Clyde O'Conner started for Holland. He allowed two hits and fanned six in four innings. He was taken out in the fourth for a pinch-hitter when rain threatened to halt the game with locals behind, 3-2.

The game went the full nine however and Mike Skallen and Allen Piersma finished for Holland. Skallen didn't allow a hit for three innings, fanning eight batters. Piersma fanned four in the last two innings and allowed two hits.

Loren Wenzel and H. De Neff of Holland got four hits each, Frank Bagladi and Verne Vandewater had three and Herk Ingraham, Skallen and Wayne De Neff, two.

Grand Haven got three unearned runs in the first. O'Conner walked two men and when Catcher Wenzel let the third strike of the last out get away from him, the bases were full. Buck Murphy doubled past third base and three runs came home.

The Dutchmen got a run in the second and another in the third and were behind 3-2 when it started raining. They didn't score in the fourth but with two out in the fifth H. De Neff hit his first homer with one man aboard to put Holland ahead, 4-3.

The Dutchmen went on to slaughter three Athletics pitchers, including Manager Ray Hartz, who started.

U.S. Shoe Buying Forecast for '46

Washington, May 29—U. S. shoe consumption this year will total four pairs per person, the Commerce department predicts.

Both men and women are buying more play-type shoes and retailers are finding it increasingly difficult to obtain deliveries, according to the department's industry report on leather. At the same time, there has been no decrease in sales of quality footwear. Commerce officials estimate that it will take two years, to build retail inventories back to their prewar levels.

Trade sources indicate that shoe production in the first quarter of this year was 3 per cent greater than the output for the same period of 1945. Preliminary estimates are that about 125 million pairs were produced in the first three months of 1946. This compares with a first quarter production last year of between 120 million and 122 million.

Retail stocks are the lowest in many years, the report said. Manufacturers' stocks of finished shoes were also low.

Leaders Decry Church Merger

Louisville, Ky., May 29 — Expressing impatience at the six-year negotiations for the merger of the Protestant Episcopal church and the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., Episcopal leaders from 11 states meeting here denounced the "pussyfoot" approach taken by the joint unification commission. Speaking at the Episcopal Evangelical Fellowship conference here, Dr. Sherman E. Johnson, professor at Episcopal Theological school, Cambridge, Mass., compared the delay in formulating merger plans to a labor union "jurisdictional strike."

"For my part," Dr. Johnson declared, "I can only say that to the people outside the Christian tradition it seems very auspicious that in this tragic age when the world seeks unity and the Church claims to be able to unify mankind in Christ, the churches themselves are kept apart not because of differences over the Bible, the creeds, the incarnation or the atonement, but because of orders."

"It all looks something like a jurisdictional strike. There may be reasons for such a strike. It may be possible to understand them, but the public conscience condemns a situation of this kind when the fact is that both unions have much the same purposes; but you cannot work in this shop if you do not have the right union card."

Late Collections Of Downtown Mail Scheduled Here

Additional collection service will be given patrons of the local post office beginning Saturday, Postmaster Harry Kramer announced today.

Downtown street letter boxes that are now tapped at 5 p.m. will be given an added collection between 6:30 and 7:15 p.m. The two letter boxes at the Pere Marquette depot will be opened by city carriers at 7 p.m. daily including Sundays.

Boxes on the four corners bordering the Hope college campus will also be put on the late collection list. The printed schedules on the boxes are being revised to show the exact time of the new service.

Letter boxes at the corners of 13th St. and River Ave., 18th St. and Washington Ave. and 16th St. and Central are also to be collected after 5 p.m.

The box at the post office corner is being tapped at 8 p.m. every night.

All of the mail so collected will be dispatched the same evening. Railway mail clerks will continue to collect the station boxes, but as late trains do not run every day of the week and the clerks have only a limited time to work the mail, postal authorities are cautioning the public to drop letters at the depot boxes in time for the city collection at 7 p.m. if at all possible.

Early morning collections are being discontinued so that the added service in the evening will not mean additional cost to the post office.

New Grand Haven Route Explained

Grand Haven, May 29—Action on protests to the proposed relocation of US-31 on Albee St. was delayed for a week after petitioners presented their views at a special meeting of the city council Monday night.

Frank Holliday, Grand Rapids district engineer of the state highway department, explained that the highway could not be re-routed around the city because of the river and extensive marsh areas to the east. Such a by-pass would have to be located eight or nine miles east of the city and could leave Grand Haven "in the sticks," he said.

In answer to questions concerning safety, Holliday said every precaution would be taken in enforcing speed limits, posting signs and installing traffic signals where necessary. It would be built at the level of all existing cross-streets, he said.

City Attorney Charles Misner said it was too late to place a relocation issue on the June 18 ballot.

Groteler Says Union Charge Is Surprise to Him

Grand Rapids, May 24 (UP) — Melvin Groteler, manager of the Dutch Boy Baking Co., also known as Federal bakery, who said a week ago Thursday the firm had laid off 15 of its 45 employees and restricted its routes because of shortages, denied that the employees had been "fired."

He said the union's charges in Grand Rapids were a complete surprise to him and added he did not know any of his employees were affiliated with the union until told by an outside representative Monday afternoon after the restrictions became effective that morning.

Decision to lay off the employees, curtail the truck routes and limit the varieties of the products was made at a meeting of the board of directors last week, Groteler said. He said the men acted "in good faith" and authorized the changes because production was low and the overhead remained high.

Groteler said he received a shipment of flour this week just before the rail strike became effective which would allow the bakery to continue operations a month. He said he had called one employee back to work and expected to call two more by next week. Groteler said union leaders had not consulted him about working contracts.

False Rumor Starts Run on Gas Stations

Holland motorists, blindly stamped by false rumor of impending gasoline shortage, started late Friday to storm local service stations.

Today officials of local bulk stations said Holland has in storage more than 500,000 gallons of gasoline and more on the way by boat and truck.

Possibility of careless handling of gasoline moved Fire Chief Andrew Klompars to issue a stern warning today:

"The fire department will prosecute all persons who violate the safety codes," he said. "Our ordinances will permit home owners to store one gallon of gasoline and only then if the liquid is in a container certified as safe by laboratory tests."

A party sponsored by the Junior Welfare league was held in the Tulip Room of the Warm Friend tavern after the banquet.

Drought Killing Plantings Here

Trees and shrubs in Holland are dying for lack of moisture, Anthony Weller, local nurseryman, said today. Despite recent showers there is a rather high mortality among newly-planted stock and a lesser death rate among established plantings, he said.

Weller explained that last year was dry and trees went into the winter without sufficient moisture and then faced a dry spring. This has been partially offset by a few rainy days, but the accumulated moisture isn't sufficient to keep trees alive.

Weller suggested that the hose be allowed to run slowly at the base of plantings, without nozzle, until the ground is thoroughly soaked. This should be done at least twice weekly for established trees, and often for new plantings.

Trees planted as long as 10 years ago are dying, he reported.
