Holland Approves Millage Two Elected at West Ottawa

Asks Permission

LANSING (UPI) — Attorney General Frank J. Kelley today asked an Allegan County judge to permit state officials to continue their investigation of converting the St. Augustine Seminary near Holland into a medium security prison.

Circuit Judge George R. Corsiglia of Allegan County, acting on a lawsuit filed by foes of the prison site, has said he intends to issue a preliminary injunction against a state takeover of the seminary site.

Kelley, however, asked Corsiglia not to completely tie the state's hands.

"Our proposed injunction would allow the state to take any appropriate actions toward investigating the site," Kelley said. "The only thing our injunction would not allow the state to do would be to actually exercise the option on the property."

In an oral ruling last week, Corsiglia said he would enter an injunction prohibiting further state-level deliberations until the lawsuit is tried on its merits.

The injunction would apply to the state Department of Corrections and the Department of Management and Budget.

Kelley also asked Corsiglia to limit the injunction until Aug. 1. The state's option on the property expires Oct. 15.

The lawsuit was filed by the Prison Action Committee, a group of Holland-area residents opposed to the prison plan. It charges that state officials violated the Freedom of Information and Open Meetings acts in their deliberations on converting the seminary into a prison.

Maynard Miedema

Anna Angell

West Ottawa voters narrowly approved a request of one mill for five years for a building and site sinking fund and placed Anna Angell and Maynard Miedema on the board of education for four year terms in the Monday election.

Unofficial count of the millage vote included 693 yes and 644 no.

Anna Angell of 237 Grenwood received 579 votes and Miedema of 594 Lake St. received 560 votes as winners of the two seats vacated by Don Ladewig and Louis Van Slooten.

Others on the ballot receiving votes were Wayne Pynninen, 457; Robert Linn Jr., 415; Corneal Israels, 377 and Thomas Wieling, 237.

Also receiving votes were two men who withdrew from the race after filing petitions but names could not be removed from the ballot. John Getz received 53 votes and David Godfrey, 30 votes.

Approval of the one mill will not hike the total millage levy since the board of education earlier passed a resolution reducing the bond indebtedness from 5.7 to 4.7 mills.

The debt reduction by the board and subsequent approval of the one mill request amounts to a transference of funds.

The site sinking fund will be utilized to purchase property, build new classrooms and renovations.

West Ottawa voters had approved a request to renew 20.4 mills for three years in the April 12 election. The request passed 1,466 to 1,034.

By a plurality of 1,032 voters, Holland school district voters Monday approved a millage issue of 19.7 mills for three years in an election that attracted 7,415 votes, believed to be the largest school vote in local history.

The vote in Holland's 19 school district precincts was 4,185 to 3,153. The measure carried in all but three precincts.

The same issue calling for identical millage was defeated in a special election April 12 by a vote of 2,246 to 3,053, a plurality of some 800 votes.

Supt. Donald L. Ihrman, highly pleased with Monday's vote, said he was calling a special meeting of the Holland Board of Education Wednesday afternoon to adopt a resolution recalling the pink-slipping of teachers and other employees, an action reluctantly taken by the board April 14.

And Ihrman, speaking for the board, said the district will continue every effort to be good stewards of the tax dollar.

The millage issue had spurred particular opposition this year because of increases in property assessments, particularly in residential property which averaged about 25 per cent but in many cases a great deal higher. The overall increase was 10 per cent.

And because an increased tax base yields more revenue locally, state aid funds are curtailed with the result that local district taxes this year will account for 75 per cent of the district's $8 million budget. Some years ago, outside sources provided more than 50 per cent of the total budget.

Also on Monday's ballot were two unopposed candidates for the Holland Board of Education. Incumbent A. James Prins received 5,088 votes and William Coupe received 4,150 votes. The latter will succeed Katherine MacKenzie who did not seek reelection after nine years as a board member.

Zeeland Millage

ZEELAND—Zeeland school district voters approved one millage issue but rejected a smaller one in Monday's school election.

A millage proposition of 2.5 mills for three years for school operations was approved, 1,721 to 1,641. A second proposition for a one-mill levy for three years was defeated, 1,337 to 1,769.

Allegan Libraries Receive Increase

By Steve Spalding
ALLEGAN—After considerable debate, the Allegan County Commission unanimously approved the federal revenue sharing report Tuesday, but not until amending the proposal to give county libraries a sizeable increase.

County libraries now will be funded from the federal revenue sharing funds at 37½ cents per person, an increase of 12½ cents from the original county finance committee proposal of 25 cents per person.

The reports' passage came after a compromise between Commissioners Louis Ter Avest of Allegan, Robert Drew of Fennville and Arthur Popp of Plainwell on one side and the rest of the commissioners on the other. Ter Avest, Drew and Popp originally objected to the $14,000 soil survey allocation, but approved with the other commissioner, the entire report, including the survey money, after the rest of the commissioners agreed to the smaller increase in funds for the libraries.

The increase in the library allocation, estimated at $8,321, will come out of the special projects fund, which originally was to be financed at $16,765. The library fund was increased to $24,964.

County library officials told the commission at the public hearing that the additional money was needed to finance out-county library patrons.

An early motion by Ter Avest to increase the library allocation to 50 cents per person was voted down by the commissioners, with only Popp and Drew voting with Ter Avest.

Cooperative Extension Service Director George Mansell made a pitch for the soil survey funds at a public hearing on the report, saying it was needed for Allegan county.

"It will give people an opportunity to look at land in terms of yield," Mansell said. He also said the survey, which will take five years to complete, will aid in determining soil acidity, in proposed sewer projects and court actions.

The cost for the entire five-year project was estimated by Mansell at approximately $310,000.

Drew said at the beginning of the debate that the survey was not needed. "Taxpayers don't benefit. Most farmers around here have common sense. They don't need it."

Mansell said now the county only has partial soil records on file from individual farmers and added that Allegan county was one of the few counties in Michigan not having a soil survey. Ter Avest said he did not see the need for a soil survey. "I'm a farmer and (soil records) haven't helped me much," Commissioner Anthony Wykstra of Martin said he was opposed at first to the survey but changed his mind after learning Allegan county was one of the few Michigan counties not having an updated soil survey.

The rest of the recommendations by the county finance committee for the $498,037 in revenue sharing money for Jan. 1 to Sept. 30 of this year were passed unchanged by the commission.

They include $163,624 for Health department operations; $55,000 for the sheriff's department, including a $15,000 advance and $40,000 for new equipment; $60,000 for capital improvements; $125,000 for county road commission equipment; a humidifier for the medical care facility costing $12,000; and $15,000 for equipment for various county departments.

Also in the recommendations are $5,000 for restoration of records by the county clerk's office; dues of $3,580 to the West Michigan Health Systems Agency; $3,500 to the Mental Health Department; $1,968 to replace tiles in Weston Hall, the county youth home; $3,456 for county drain commissioner office remodeling and $2,500 for Parks and Recreation.

In other actions, the commissioners:

Approved three additions to an application to the Economic Development Administration for funding of projects in the county. The additions are a Douglas village industrial park, water distribution improvements for Saugatuck and Douglas villages and a Hopkins water and sewer project.

These projects were added to a list of proposed projects which include industrial parks or additions to industrial parks in Allegan, Holland, Plainwell and Otsego.

Approved the annexation of certain areas to Douglas village after no one spoke at a public hearing on the matter.

Accepted a report from the Health Department proposing changes in the issuing of permits for septic tanks. However, several commissioners objected to the specific limits on parcel sizes proposed in the guidelines.

Accepted the resignation of Michael J. Miller from the county planning commission.

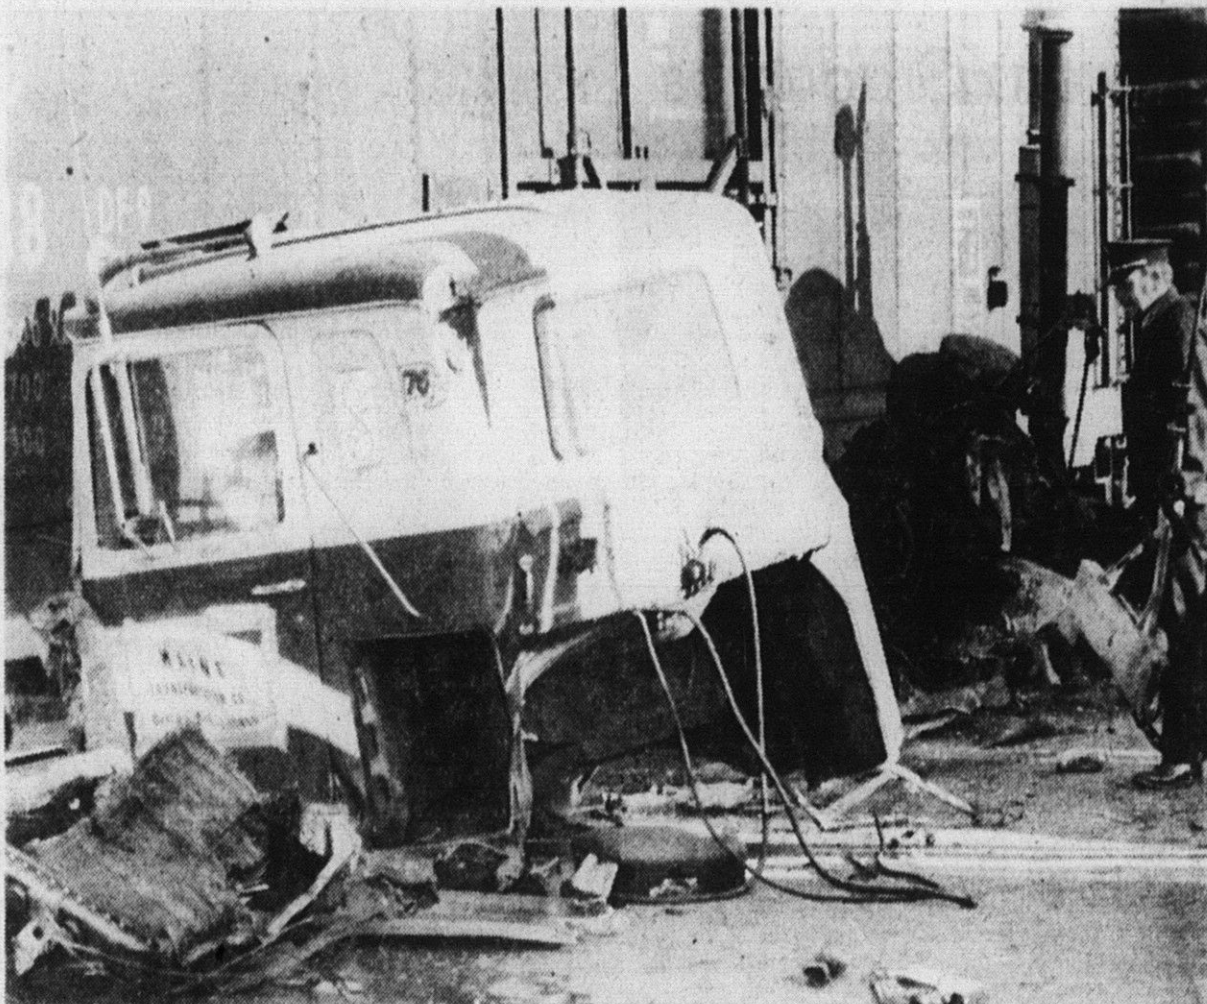

Increased the office space and equipment for the CETA program. In addition, CETA was given permission to hire two more employees.

Transferred $4,770 from the general fund to social services and $25,000 from the general fund to the medical care facility.

Approved two patrol cars for the township sheriff's patrol contingent on township cooperation and availability of CETA funds.

Approved a request to Gov. William Milliken for state disaster contingency funds for work done during the January storm.

Gave the Equalization Department permission to purchase two calculators for $618.

TRUCK-TRAIN ACCIDENT—Several train cars were derailed and a truck driver treated at Holland Hospital today after a semi-truck struck a train at 48th St. at 7:50 a.m., according to Holland police. Ottawa Adopts Plan Synod Elects

GRAND HAVEN — Ottawa County Commissioners Tuesday adopted a $748,617.65 revenue sharing spending plan and turned a deaf ear to a proposal to fund a road project in Holland requested by the Holland Board of Education.

Commissioner Donald Williams of Holland said the $20,000 request appeared to have met some guidelines for uses of the revenue funds to benefit local citizens and suggested the $20,000 be taken from a $140,000 road improvement proposal for cities and villages in the county with the remaining $120,000 be split among the cities and villages, Holland included.

But his motion failed to win support.

The project called for improvements to 24th St. between Diekema and Plasman Aves. in the area of the junior high school under construction.

Also rejected by commissioners was an attempt to fund a proposed radio equipment replacement program for Civil Defense which is under FCC orders to bring equipment up to FCC standards or leave the air.

Commissioners did take $20,000 from the improvement fund to pay for an audit of county books and adopted the revenue sharing program which calls for $140,000 to cities and villages for road improvements; $340,000 to townships for road improvements; $100,000 for a bridge program; $50,000 for park improvements; $16,000 for aerial mapping; $20,000 for equipment; $4,398.65 for Hager Park and $58,219 for improvements.

Commissioners approved payment to Park township of $6,770.96 as the county's share of a bicycle path construction cost as part of a county plan to aid in the cost of bike paths.

Park township constructed a bike path along Ottawa Beach Rd. between 144th and 152nd Aves.

Commissioners received a request from Ferrysburg for funds to assist in a bicycle path along North Shore Rd. under county revenue sharing bike path fund program.

A proposal to purchase the Huizenga Park property along

M-21 near Zeeland for development into a county park was referred to the development committee for a report in three months.

The Woodland Management program, designed to provide summer jobs for unemployed or underemployed young people, was doubled in size to provide more job openings. Commissioners opened another 37 job slots in the program which is thinning and pruning pine trees on county owned lands.

An additional $1 million in job funds was expected for Ottawa County beginning in October and plans were being accepted for project developments, commissioners were told.

GRAND RAPIDS—The Rev. Bastiaan Nederlof of Hamilton, Ont. Canada was elected president of the General Synod of the Christian Reformed Church in the opening session on Calvin College campus, Tuesday.

Dr. T. Y. De Jong of Sheldon, Iowa is vice president; the Rev. Louis M. Tamminga of Toronto, Ont., first clerk and the Rev. Leonard J. Hofman of Jenison, who will soon come to Holland to serve Bethany Christian Reformed Church, was named second clerk.

Tuesday's session was devoted to the election of officers and the appointment of committees. It is expected that most of today's session will be devoted to committee meetings.

River Hearing Held

ALLEGAN—A public hearing on the proposed cleanup of two miles of the Rabbit River near Wayland Tuesday was postponed until June 28 after the board of determination decided more study was needed on the proposal.

About 100 persons attended the hearing outdoors where the Rabbit River crosses 6th St., one-half mile south of 135th Ave., in Wayland Township. The June 28 public hearing will be held at the same site at 9 a.m.

A number of farmers in the area have signed petitions calling for the cleanup, complaining high water from the river threatens their agricultural lands.

However, the cleanup is opposed by fishermen and the Department of Natural Resources, saying the proposed straightening and widening of the river threatens wildlife and a brown trout fishery in the area.

The petitions call for the Hooker-Harvey drain in in Leighton and Wayland townships to be extended from 135th Ave. in a southwesterly direction to where the Pickerel Lake outlet joins the Rabbit River just west of 6th St.

The three-member board of determination is made up of Ken Heckman, Allegan township supervisor, Jacob Van Polen, Salem township supervisor, and Carl Strand of Watson township.

The drain commissioner, under state law, appoints a board of determination upon receipt of a petition upon receipt of a petition from property owners seeking to have county drains extended or altered.

The board decides if the project is needed. Persons disagreeing with the board's decision have 10 days to file an appeal in circuit court.

proved by Hamilton voters Monday, 449 to 149.

In addition, the incumbent school board member, Arnold Yonker of 4790 Pleasant Dr., Hamilton, running unopposed for the one board seat received 538 votes.

The total tax levy for the Hamilton school district now remains at 27.5 mills.

SAUGATUCK—Saugatuck school district voters Monday overwhelmingly approved a request to renew an 11 mill property tax levy for two years, 262 to 62.

Also two candidates were elected to the board of education, Robert Chalice with 191 votes, and Jacqueline Veldhuis with 178 votes. Defeated was the incumbent Martha Carey with 165 votes, Sandra Randolph with 111 and Rosemond Foselick with 73. With voter approval, the total Saugatuck district tax levy stands at 32.09 mills including six mills for building debt retirement.

PLAINWELL—School district voters rejected a request Monday for an additional 2.65 mills for school operating funds, 650 to 790 and filled three seats on the board of education. The district now levies 24 mills for operating expenses but sought the additional funds to restore cuts made last fall after two attempts to get voter approval of an increase failed.

Filling an unexpired term on the board is Martin Gal. Elected to four-year terms were incumbent Donald Williams and Timothy Stewart, a former junior high counselor.

HOPKINS—Voters Monday approved renewal of 5.91 mills for operating expenses but rejected two additional mills operating and a $.500,000 bond issue for an industrial arts building. Alice Switek was elected to the single vacancy on the school board, defeating incumbent Cleon Duryea.

OTSEGO—Voters Monday approved a five mill operating levy for three years 789 to 398 and returned incumbent Raymond A. Winkel to the school board. The five mill levy represents renewal of two mills plus an additional three mills to meet rising costs and a decrease in enrollment and reduced state aid.

MARTIN—A three mill increase in operating taxes was approved by voters 334 to 202 Monday. The increase for two years will be used for building repair and a new water well. Incumbent school board member Marian Geib was defeated for reelection. Chosen by voters for the two vacancies were Gary Melvin and Patrick McLaughlin.

CD Plan Faces Cloudy Future

GRAND HAVEN — The future of the Ottawa County Civil Defense operation was discussed by Ottawa County Commissioners Tuesday who refused to create a $60,000 radio replacement fund to meet FCC and CD radio standards.

CD director Glenn Timmer said his office had been cited by the FCC for transmission violations five times in the past two years and was under a $50 fine for operating off frequency.

Timmer said the 20 year-old equipment no longer met FCC standards and without the approved radio equipment needed in CD programs doubted the CD office could meet CD standards to keep the county eligible for certain federal assistance funds.

Commissioner Norman Engleright insisted commissioners decide whether to continue a CD program in the county or get out of the CD business.

Timmer said he had 30 days in which to respond to the FCC's latest letter of May 24 and indicate whether equipment replacement can be expected or "pull the plug."

Engleright said $22,000 was needed to replace a base CD radio station to maintain eligibility for federal grants.

Timmer said Ottawa County came into an estimated $176,000 in federal assistance funds following the sleet storm of 1976 through CD efforts and the county was one of four in a 13-county area to be granted assistance funds for snow removal during the storm this winter, again through CD efforts and records.

After declining a motion to fund the replacement program commissioners later also refused to allocate funds from revenue sharing for the equipment.

By a narrow six to five vote commissioners agreed to a payroll deduction for county employees wishing to purchase cancer insurance provided the computer was able to handle the additional bookkeeping function. Employees would pay the full cost of the new insurance should they purchase the insurance as individuals.

Richard L. Santa Maria of Holland was named to the Mental Health Board and a salary adjustment to the Friend of the Court was approved. Records showed he was given a pay raise in 1976 but the additional money never paid. It amounted to $1,032 for 1976 and $694 for 1977.

Sons of the Revolution Anticipate New Growth

An organization which began in the United States' Centennial era as a patriotic society to recall the sacrifices of the American Revolution is flourishing in the 201st year of our independence.

The Holland chapter of the Sons of the Revolution was recently honored by the national society for its contribution toward the restoration of historic Frances Tavern in New York City, damaged by terrorist bombs. The general society's vice president, John Knox Wilson visited Holland to present the citation to the chapter, prior to its Flag Day meeting, June 4 in Herrick Library.

Blaine Pool also arranged a display of historic American flags, including the Bedford Flag, the first American flag flown in battle and the Betsy Ross flag of the 13 original states.

Another project that the local chapter is supporting is the erection of a large flag pole at Valley Forge, Pa., site of the Revolution's darkest days.

Fraunces Tavern, the society's national headquarters, was the scene of the farewell reception for Dec. 4, 1783. It was there on Dec. 4, 1783 that the founders of the Sons of the Revolution met for a dinner marking the centennial of the Washington reception and the founding of the society. Built in 1719, it is the oldest building in Manhattan and houses a very fine restaurant.

The Sons of the Revolution was organized primarily to supplement the Society of Cincinnati, founded by George Washington and his officers as a reserve nucleus. Membership was limited to direct descendants in the male line from commissioned Continental Army and Navy officers, with eldest sons retaining sole rights to membership.

The new organization was for male descendants, through male or female line from either officers or enlisted members of the military, naval or marine forces in service to any of the 13 original colonies or to states.

The Holland chapter, now the only chapter in Michigan was for a time the official Michigan organization founded by a group under the leadership of Frank D. Haddock, principal of Holland High School at the time (1895). Other original members included Joseph G. Haddock, a Civil War veteran, John W. Beardslee, D.D., president of Western Theological Seminary, Henry C. Post, John C. Post, all of Holland; Horatio Seymour of Marquette, Lauren W. Wolcott, Hoyt C. Post, Robert W. Merrill and David W. Kendall, all of Grand Rapids. By 1909 the Holland chapter was organized as the state society grew.

According to Wilson, there is a recent upsurge in membership in the Sons of the Revolution, part of the recent genealogy sparked by "Roots." He says young men, especially are anxious to trace family ties for the sake of their children. He predicts that rising family pride will produce children less prone to vandalism and careless use of public property. "Respect for one's self is the beginning of respect for others."

Okay School Millage

Holland school district leaders are breathing easier following successful passage of school millage Monday.

And many other school districts, locally and elsewhere in Michigan, share the same feeling of relief at having sufficient funds to operate yet another year of school.

Holland's situation was particularly vital in that all its special operating millage expired this year after passing a 16.7 mill proposition three years ago. Added to that, increases in residential assessments earlier this spring spurred voter opposition to taxes of any kind.

West Ottawa district fortunately passed its millage proposition in April, and Zeeland passed a supplemental 2.5-mill proposition Monday, to be added to other basic millages. A one-mill levy was rejected.

Perhaps the time has come to overhaul basic state laws which to date have made schools the target of voter opposition. School millage is one of the few issues which voters control at the grass roots level. While we hesitate to suggest a change in basic control, nevertheless the schools have been the target of an unfair imbalance of voter responsibility. Certainly, a more equitable system exists somewhere in the maze of changing government.

We recognize this is a subject for careful study, and changes cannot and should not be made overnight.

Meanwhile, we commend local voters for their support, while cautioning school boards to be extremely careful in their expenditures in providing a good school system.

Supt. Donald L. Ihrman has assured local voters that the Holland Board of Education will continue every effort to be good stewards of the tax dollar.

Our congratulations, too, to West Ottawa district for public spirited citizens providing a full slate permitting choice of school board members. Eight persons had qualified as candidates, and two withdrew later but not early enough to have names removed from the ballot. Holland and Zeeland had no opposition in board choices.

Police Chase 2

Three persons, including two juveniles, were apprehended within one hour in two separate high speed chases early this morning.

In the first chase at 1:54 a.m. Holland police took into custody the 14-year-old driver and a 12-year-old companion.

Police were attempting to stop the juvenile for driving in an alleged erratic manner on 16th St. and Cleveland Ave. when he fled in the car at a high rate of speed.

The driver was stopped by police at 16th St. and Fairbanks Ave. after the car allegedly ran several red lights and stop signs. The juveniles were to appear Monday in district court and were released to their parents.

In the second chase at 2:50 a.m. a man was apprehended by Ottawa County deputies at the West Ottawa Middle school after a chase by Holland police. A Holland officer noticed the speeding car on Seventh St. while investigating an accident report. The car eluded the officer after heading west on River Ave. Ottawa county sheriff's deputies were called for assistance and made the capture at the school. The man is in custody in Ottawa county jail. His name was withheld pending arraignment Monday in Ottawa district court.

Accidents

A collision occurred at 11:10 p.m. Friday when the car driven by Kenneth Douglas Riksen of 579 Butternut Dr. Holland, failed to stop for a red flashing light at the intersection of Main and State Streets in Zeeland, running into the vehicle driven by Donald Ray Baker, Jr., 9787 Bingham St. Zeeland. Riksen was cited for failing to stop for the flasher. There were reported injuries.

A car being driven northbound by Jo Ann Jackson, 2731 112th Ave. was struck by a car driven eastbound by Anthony Bouman, 1250 Beach Dr. at the intersection of Ninth St. and Maple Av. when Jackson failed to stop for a stop sign. Both vehicles had to be removed by wrecker.

A car driven by Lori Jean Vandenberg, 271 West 13th St. backed into a car owned by Oscar Mascord of 301 West 21st St. while it was parked on 11th St., just off Van Raalte Ave. Friday.

Bill Funds Prison

By Paul Van Kolken
LANSING — Initial steps to fund a proposed prison near Saugatuck were taken in the House late Thursday while state corrections and budget personnel remained under court orders to remain silent about the St. Augustine Seminary proposal.

State Rep. Ed Fredricks of Holland said House Bill 5027 was introduced into the House and referred to the state affairs committee for study.

The bill, believed sponsored by Rep. Russell Hellman, chairman of the Joint Capital Outlay Committee, calls for $7,276,000 to purchase the 550-acre Lake Michigan site for correctional and recreational uses, to improve and furnish the buildings for medium security prison uses and to provide recreational facilities.

Duane L. Neff

Local Man Receives High Award

West Michigan Shores Council recently awarded six volunteer Boy Scout leaders the Silver Beaver Award.

Among those receiving the award was Duane L. Neff, 126 Cypress St. The Silver Beaver Awards, the highest award given by the local Boy Scout Council, were presented at the council annual dinner held recently.

A member of the First United Methodist Church, Neff has been a volunteer fireman, in charge of United Way displays, chairman of scout ushers at Tulip Time and has been active in 4-H and Big Brother programs at Hope College. He is also a first aid and CPR trainer for the American Red Cross.

Awards that Neff has received throughout his volunteer work with scouts include Scouters Key, Wood Badge, Commissioners Key, Arrowhead Honor, Distinguished Service Award and District Award of Merit.

Silver Beaver Awards were also presented to Larry Adams, Duane Fuller, Don Bowden, Richard Wiegand and Jackie Champlin.

Seven On Dean's List

Outstanding academic achievement has earned 1,356 students at Northern Michigan University the honor of being included on the dean's list during the spring semester.

Students from Holland include Kerri Armstrong (4.0 grade average); Jacques Cross, 427 West Mae Rose; Linda Naver, 357 West Mae Rose; Linda Van Den Oever, 2579 Prairie; Kristin Vander Linde, 98 Birchwood Ave., and Douglas Vanderploeg, 352 Beeline Rd.

Hellman was not available for comment and his office staff said they were not allowed to comment but other sources in Lansing said today the bill also spelled out the number of prisoners that could be housed in the facilities and the land use limits for the prison.

The source said it appeared an Allegan County Circuit Court ruling to halt procedures and planning for the proposed prison did not include the state legislature and such introductory legislation was allowed.

Introduction of the bill's considered one of the first steps in the legislative process and was not expected to return to the House for a vote until recommended by committee.

Fredricks said today referring the bill to the state affairs committee first gives possibility to having a similar bill referred to the Senate affairs committee where Sens. Gary Byker, Joseph Mack and Robert Vander Laan are three of the five members. Byker and Mack are considered not in favor of the Saugatuck prison.

The House bill lists $4,201,000 to purchase the seminary property, $2.9 million for improvements and furnishings for correctional uses and $175,000 to the Department of Natural Resources for park development and an entrance road.

Directives were sent Thursday to staff persons in the corrections and budget and management departments to refrain from any discussion about the prison in light of the Allegan court ruling.

Another prison problem developed Thursday when the Michigan Court of Appeals cleared the way for a Human Rights Party suit aimed at prohibiting the state from accepting additional inmates until the overcrowding is solved.

The left-wing HRP claims overcrowding constitutes cruel and unusual punishment and asked the Department of Corrections to refuse new prisoners.

The Court of Appeals ordered corrections officials to hold a hearing into the matter and said the circuit court has the authority to review the record and decide what course should be taken to protect prisoners' rights.

Her younger brother likes girls and her little sister has matured beyond dolls.

So at 16, retired Latin American Queen Diana Beltran fears growing old.

Despite sparkling eyes, glistening teeth and a flawless complexion, Diana still faces problems typical of teenagers.

Currently she's "learning to keep her flame down."

Not a reference to her inner (and visible outer) glow, the soon-to-be sophomore at Holland High School is practicing her cooking techniques.

Nurtured within a close family environment, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baltazar Beltran eyes a career in architecture not only for personal fulfillment but to "finish her father's dream."

It takes six years of college to become an architect, she says and explains that her father never obtained that luxury.

A soft spoken and sensible young woman, Diana has launched into her chosen field by taking mechanical drawing ("as much as I can get") in school.

"I want to design small houses with beautiful kitchens. Women know how they would like a house designed," she says.

Crowned a year ago when she was only 15, Diana herself was certain she had stumbled out of the contest as she tripped on her long dress during the competition.

But the slight misstep was not enough to sway the judges who crowned the youngest Latin American Queen in the history of the pageant.

Recalling some of the questions judges put to her, raising the drinking age ("Yes, too many 18-year-olds hang out with 16-year-olds"), abortion ("I'm against it"), mixed marriages ("As long as two people love each other"), Diana hasn't altered her basic beliefs during her year-long reign.

When she arrived on the junior high scene, Diana was overwhelmed with stories of discrimination against Latinos, a situation and suspicion she soon challenged. She had heard that Latinos were never chosen for cheerleading.

"But I didn't know because I hadn't tried," she tried out and was selected.

Though not complaining about her position, Diana does anguish over fence straddling between Anglo and Latino friends. She has lots of both, she says, but sometimes Latinos resent her close friendships with Anglos.

"I just try to be friends with everybody. I'm just looking to have fun," she says.

But the abundance of drugs in school and at parties are not within her definition of fun. Though she admits she wouldn't turn in anyone for using drugs, she would stop it if she could. "I can be crazy without drugs," the oldest daughter in a family of five children bubbles.

A trip to Muskegon Heights junior high was an unforgettable experience for Diana who was enrolled in a black studies course at the time.

"The kids don't respect the teachers like they do here and the teachers there seem scared of the kids. I'm glad I'm in Holland," she states.

As to Latino problems in Holland, Diana frankly shifts primary responsibility onto Latinos. "Anglos have nothing to do with it," she says. "If we (Latinos) want to do something we have to get together. We have to get out and get jobs and not have people see us as people on welfare. But a lot of Latinos are in high posts too."

RETIRED QUEEN—Diana Beltran, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baltazar Beltran, 183 East 18th St., displays the trophy she was awarded as 1976 Latin American Queen. She will perform at a fiesta in Lansing this weekend. (Sentinel photo)

This weekend she will be singing in Lansing at a statewide fiesta for Latino high school graduates.

With accompanist Ricky Santamaria, she initially performed at the E. E. Fell folies.

Her boyfriend, home on leave from the service at the time, commented that he didn't know she could sing so well.

With characteristic mischief, the petite-brunet responded "I've got lots of surprises."

A car driven east on 12th St. by Leola Carolyn Ralph, 35, 4 West 12th St., collided with a vehicle driven by Joy Ann Vander Sluis, 32, 117 Dunton St., driving north on Lincoln Ave. Tuesday at 3:34 p.m.

Lip Reading "Ends Silence"

by Maurice Evans

Silence is golden, so goes an old saying.

It isn't golden for those who can't hear, but a golden opportunity exists for residents of Holland who may have a hearing problem.

A 10-week lip reading class for those hard of hearing is currently being held at the Good Samaritan Center in Holland. Although the current session is coming to a close Thursday, new classes will start next fall if the money can be raised for them.

The present class was funded through the efforts of the student body of Holland Christian High School as students staged a walk-a-thon in March. The necessary $600 was raised so senior citizens would not be charged for the class.

Instructor Jill Sanders, Muskegon resident, says most of her students are senior citizens with the average age being 70. Class is one hour long with size limited to 12 members.

"The senior citizens who attend the class seem to enjoy the work," said Mrs. Sanders. "They are a lot of fun to work with, they contribute to the class and they have many experiences to tell."

The teaching method is simple in theory, but hard to learn by some. The class first compares two different sounds, such as "r's" and "w's". These are worked into words, followed by sentences, sentences on a topic and then paragraphs.

The students lean forward in their seats, eyes straining as the instructor says a word but does not put any sound into it. She goes through a cycle of words, then into sentences.

The students respond as they figure out what is being said by watching her lips. The instructor's voice booms out as she tells the class what word were just said.

Class participation is evident throughout the session. Each student gets up and faces the class performing various assignments. The students mouth a sentence, repeat it and then tell the class what was said. The sentences used and message in them are applicable to everyday life.

Grace, one of the students, tells the class, "I like to sit in the front row in the theater."

The class figures out what she has said and they smile.

"Yeah, that's true," says Mrs. Sanders. "It's the best place to hear and to lip read."

Class members smile and nod their approval.

Other sentences are said by other students. It's almost a game at times, the students are like children as they sit, eyes glued on the teacher, smiling when they have did something right.

The students do a lot of smiling during the period as they pick out words and put the meaning together. It's not they are learning to hear again, far from it, but they are learning to communicate, a needed asset in this world.

The class is educational in another sense. Members learn about one another and share experiences...some not so willingly, but with the persistence of the instructor, some interesting point in their life is brought out.

The class plays a game, it's called, "The first time I left home."

One woman stands in front of the class. "The first time I left home I was 18 and went to New York to study a business course."

The class oohs and aaahs, something was learned from the student as she related part of her life. One can almost feel the excitement in the air from class members from what they learned.

It goes on, student after student get up and play the game, the other students learn what they are saying by watching the lips.

"The thing about lip reading is you don't catch every word," said Mrs. Sanders. "You try to catch as many as you can and then put the meaning of the sentence together. If you know what the topic of conversation is about, it's much easier for a person to communicate."

Lip reading is a difficult job. People speak differently, some do not pronounce their words as good as others and some have accents.

"One of the biggest problems for those hard of hearing is getting them to admit it," related Mrs. Sanders. "Once they do and they come into a class like this, they have a good time because they are with people that have a common problem and they can talk about it."

The only requirements for the class is to be hard of hearing, know English, speak and write it. "We need to have these requirements otherwise it can be difficult on the whole class," said Mrs. Sanders.

She added, "Some people may be natural lip readers. They may have worked in a noisy environment, such as a factory so they have picked it up, others really have to work at it."

As the teacher thinks the students are fun to work with, the same holds true for the students working with the instructor.

Peg Turschman and Mimi Parkes, two of the students, both feel Mrs. Sanders is a good teacher. Both related how they lip read at home but since coming to the class, their ability has improved.

"The most difficult thing for me about lip reading is getting people to enunciate their words. Some people are really hard to read, especially those with accents," said Mrs. Parkes.

Senior Center Closer

By Doug Irons

A Holland senior citizen complex, first proposed as a result of a mayoral exchange with Escanaba two years ago, is moving closer to becoming a reality.

The new complex would offer new housing at an economical rate to Holland's senior citizens, the opportunity for them to be among others of similar age and interests and the convenience of centralized services and entertainment.

Plans call for inclusion of community rooms, craft rooms and church services in the design of the center.

According to cityCity Manager Terry Hofmeyer, the city is currently looking for a location in town that meets the state's requirements for such a facility.

These requirements include having a minimum available area of three or four acres of land for the center's grounds, and being located within 1500 feet of a doctor's office, a pharmacy and a grocery store that is part of a national chain.

Hofmeyer noted that the city's involvement in the project includes rezoning the area in which the center will be located, allowing a variance in the maximum height permitted for buildings in the city, and giving the center a state-required tax abatement.

No design plans have been set by the center's developers, a coalition between Daverman Associates of Grand Rapids, an architectural concern, and Woodland Partners, a local development firm, but most similar centers have been in the four to six story height range, and Holland's ordinances only allow a two to three story maximum without the variance permission.

The state-required tax abatement orders that the city charge a senior citizen complex funded by the state only 30 percent of the normal tax rate.

Hofmeyer said that this is usually justified by the decreased demand such a center places on city services relative to other buildings its size. There is no additional strain put on the school system, and less police and fire calls, for example.

Funding for the facility will be through the State Housing Authority, with some money required of the developers. The city of Holland has not, and will not have to spend any city funds on the project, according to Hofmeyer.

Currently, the center is slated to contain between 125 and 175 apartment units, the final number to be determined by what the state feels Holland can support.

Hofmeyer noted that there has already been interest expressed in the complex, with some persons asking if they could reserve rooms. He said that reservations can not be accepted yet, as plans have not developed to that point.

A reasonable schedule of development would find groundbreaking taking place in the spring of next year, with construction completed in the spring of 1979.

This kind of schedule would have reservations being accepted for rooms in the new center in about four to six months. Hofmeyer affirmed that initial announcement of openings would be made in the Holland area first, allowing local residents "first shot" at the apartments.

A typical living unit in the complex is to contain a bedroom, kitchen, dinette, living room and bathroom, with a stove and refrigerator provided. Air conditioning will be available as an option. Each unit is approximately 600 square feet in area.

Two bedroom apartments are available in limited quantities, about 10 percent of the total number of units.

To be accepted in the center, at least one person in each living unit will have to be 62 or older. Rent is figured at one-fourth of whatever the persons' monthly income is, up to the full market value of the apartment.

Hofmeyer said that the city is interested in setting up an advisory group to study and make recommendations on the development of the center. Such a group would hopefully include representatives of the City Council, City staff, senior citizen's groups and those living in the neighborhood of the center.
