The July Alumni Magazine is different! It is different because we hear very often that the alumni would like to know more about campus life as it is today. The bulletin within these pages was prepared this spring and we think it is a fairly accurate picture of the Hope student life as it is today.

It is a promotional publication which the administration is sending to prospective students. It is an attempt to get "a kick out of" showing it to young people you have considered the Hope type. Perhaps you will like to keep it on your magazine shelf to those who would like to know more about Hope and the type of student it serves. We in the Alumni Office are very proud of the type of young person that enters at Hope College, and we like this booklet. We hope you will to.

The day begins with the inspiration gained by seeking the strength and stimulation of Christ in daily life.
Among the advantages of retaining enrollment at around 1,000 students is the opportunity to maintain a really personal relationship among students, faculty, administration. No one need feel "left-out" at Hope. From the first many hands are stretched out in friendship, help and guidance. Each student has a personal counselor to whom he can turn. Early help makes orientation to college life easier, with confidence and self assurance the result.
THE HOPE atmosphere is charged with an awareness of the presence, the power, the permanence of the spiritual. It activates a mingling of tradition and progress. It sustains an unhurried but dedicated quest for self-fulfillment and creative relations with others. It embodies a deep concern for the individual.

stimulating atmosphere
OPE COLLEGE is set in the center of the city of Holland, Michigan, world famous for its annual Tulip Time and International Water ski meets. Holland offers much to the college student in the way of variation. Many college students participate in the festival and delight in its activities. Boating and fishing are fine on Lake Macatawa and horseback riding on forest trails nearby. The sandy shores of beautiful Lake Michigan are a perfect place for swimming, sun bathing and "wiener roasts."
