New Social Center Set For College

The Hope College Board of Trustees Friday pledged to undertake a concerted effort to raise the final funds needed to begin construction of the college's proposed $2,150,000 student cultural social center.

The board, meeting on Hope's campus for its semi-annual business meeting, launched an intensive six week campaign for the $600,000 needed to begin construction.

Final plans for the proposed center received board approval and the architectural firm of Stade, Dolan and Emerick of Park Ridge, Ill. was authorized to begin the preparation of working drawings.

Each of the board's 55 members accepted the responsibility of raising $5,000 towards the goal.

Reorganization of the Board of Trustees and the establishment of a Board of Advisors was accepted and forwarded to the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America for final approval.

General Synod will meet in Ann Arbor June 5-11.

Reorganization was instituted by the General Synod in 1966 whereby the boards of the church and related organizations were to be re-organized for more effective operation.

The Hope College Board of Trustees will be reduced from 55 to 26 members over a course of three years under criteria established by the General Synod.

The new Board of Trustees structure will include 12 trustees selected by the General Synod from which each particular Synod must have at least one trustee; 12 members chosen by the College Board of Trustees; the president of the College and the executive secretary of the RCA Board of Education.

A majority of the Board of Trustees must be members of the Reformed Church and at least six members must be ordained Reformed Church ministers.

The new Board of Advisors will include one member from each of the 45 classes in the Reformed Church.

The Board of Advisors will examine the facilities and program of the college and have discussions with students, faculty and administrators.

The advisors will then report two ways — from the churches to the college and the college to the churches. The philosophy behind the reorganization of the Board of Trustees and the establishment of a Board of Advisors is to serve the needs of the college in its governmental and church relationships. The Board of Advisors will meet on the college campus at least once every year.

The establishment of a permanent Board of Trustee committee responsible for church-college relations was approved. The new committee was authorized to plan a summer conference of churchmen to explore the relationship of the church and college.

MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKER — Circuit Judge Chester A. Ray of Allegan emphasized reverence for the flag in his address Thursday in Monument Square in Pilgrim Home Cemetery. Seated behind Judge Ray are the Rev. Charles Steenstra of Faith Christian Reformed Church and Dale Van Lente who served as program chairman. (Penna-Sas photo)

Judge Ray Emphasizes Reverence of Flag

Reverence for the flag was given a great deal of emphasis in a Memorial Day address by Circuit Judge Chester A. Ray of Allegan Thursday in Monument Square in Pilgrim Home Cemetery.

The Memorial Day program followed a parade of 12 bands, veterans, the National Guard, floats and assorted units, which lined up in the vicinity of Centennial Park and proceeded to the cemetery east on 12th St., south on Columbia Ave. and east on 16th St. to the cemetery. Louis B. Dalman served as honorary marshal and Lt. Col William Sikkel as marshal of the day.

Speaking on the subject, "Memorial Day 1968," Judge Ray said the sight of the American flag should bring a thrill to every American who should be reminded of his duty, his obligation and his patriotism to America, since the flag is the symbol of all the efforts which made this country great.

"There are some who do not have the same reverence for this flag, and I always cringe when I hear of flag desecretion in our own country. I do not know what I would do if one near to me refused to serve his country or if I saw somebody mutilating the flag, but with these we must be patient and considerate and in a Christian spirit lead them and teach them."

Judge Ray said he did not want to question the patriotism of the Americans who took to the highways with their campers and boat trailers without pausing to see a parade or attend a patriotic program, but he could understand the question of those in uniform facing privation overseas whether the price of war, today and those of yesteryear, is a just one. He pointed to the need of personal concern and dedication since without it in America no citizen army is great enough to hold the country together.

In his 10-minute address, Judge Ray said it was difficult to follow the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Don Kolkman of Hope College, "since anything we can say today, however feeble, lacks the resounding effect of Lincoln's message over 100 years ago."

Dale Van Lente served as program chairman and announced the roll of veterans who died the past year. The Rev. Charles Steenstra of Faith Christian Reformed Church served as chaplain.

STALEMATE IN PARIS

This page has not commented very much on the talks now going on in Paris attempting to find a solution to the Vietnam war. In fact, there has appeared on this page no advice to the conferees on how to proceed in this most important matter. This does not argue a lack of interest in the Paris proceedings nor yet the opinion that what is going on there is unimportant.

It does imply, however, it may be the better part of wisdom to refrain from interfering in highly sensitive and highly technical matters. We can't help feeling, in fact, that there has been too much publicity and too much prediction and second-guessing about the conference to begin with.

Important international decisions, like all important decisions, are not made in the glaring light of publicity. There is a great need of privacy so that "images" can be preserved. We may frown on the "smokefilled room," but it's in this kind of place that the final decisions are made.

What the Paris peace talks needs is a period of isolation so that eyes can be kept on the diplomatic ball rather than on the propoganda grandstand. And the less publicity maybe, the sooner it will buckle down to the main business in hand.

Sunday School Lesson

By C. P. Dame
Sunday School Lesson for June 9
The Greatness of God
Job 38:1-7, 31-38

Suffering is unpleasant but often profitable. Job suffered a great deal and it made him think of God and of His greatness. May the study of this lesson give us a new idea of the greatness of God.

I. The Bible contains a number of questions God put to man. Our lesson text contains several. The speeches of Job's friends finally angered him. Being tired of their talk Job wanted to talk directly to God, and present his case to him. The opportunity came and God gave him his request. The voice of God was heard above the noise of the cyclone. God spoke and said something. God asked Job, "Who is this that darkened counsel by words without knowledge?" Some words only add confusion and fog. Job had talked as if God had no plans for this world and if life was a tangled riddle. Job talked about things he did not know anything about, in fact he talked out of turn.

"Gird up now thy loins like a man, for I will demand of thee, and answer thou me"—so spoke God, who always wants every one to be at his best. The devil is different. Well, when God gave Job the opportunity to talk he stood speechless. He understood that man is man and God is God. Today God still confronts men. Nature speaks of the wisdom and power of God. In times past theologians used to speak of God's general revelation. The Bible is God's supreme revelation for it tells about Christ. Conscience too speaks of God. Sometimes God confronts people through personal crises. God still confronts people.

II. Our knowledge of God is limited. All our knowledge has its limitations. Read Job 38-41 and note the many questions God asks for which we have no answer. Even though our knowledge of the universe has increased we still face many unsolved problems. We can do a lot of things but there are so many we can't do and ought to do. Why can't we drive poverty, war, hunger from this earth? How is it that people can't get along with each other? The more we know about the earth and the universe the more we marvel and are puzzled. The honest intellectual can't be proud.

III. Our power is limited and small. "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of the Pleides or loose the bands of Orien?" The ancient world studied the stars. The priests of Mesopotamia gazed at the night sky and watched the movements of the stars. The Hebrews too showed great interest in the heavens. The ancients could count but a limited number of stars but we through the telescope can see millions. Unfortunately we see more stars but see less and less of God who made them. Job confessed his ignorance when God asked him questions. We do well to confess ours.

"Shall he that contendeth with the Almighty instruct him? he that reproveth God, let him answer it." To critics God is foolish. A reading of chapter 42 will tell us about God's dealings with the characters in the story of Job. Conclude—God is great! Do you believe this?

Early Birds Hear Talk on Bank Credit

Pending legislation to reduce expenditures and increase taxes is a step in the right direction in curbing inflation, Chamber of Commerce Early Birds were told at breakfast Tuesday by Russel A. Swaney, vice president in charge of the Detroit branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

"We must understand we must pay for what we spend, and inflation is the worst kind of taxation," Swaney said.

Swaney explained the makeup of the Federal Reserve System, envisioning a pyramid with 6,000 member banks at the base (including the two banks in Holland and one in Zeeland), a second level of the 12 reserve banks and 24 branch banks serving as money "wholesalers," and the top of the pyramid a board of governors in Washington, D.C., consisting of seven members appointed to 14-year terms by the President, confirmed by the U.S. Senate.

Chief responsibility of the reserve system, Swaney said, is to regulate the flow of money and credit, aimed at maintaining levels in a growing economy.

On a blackboard he explained the various steps of double-entry bookkeeping on the federal reserve level, explaining how government financing is handled through the reserve banks in a complex system involving a $20 billion deficit. He emphasized that the flow of money triggered through loans usually returns in deposits thereby equaling the loans.

During the question period, Swaney was asked about possibilities of international money, but he could not foresee any such system "in our own lifetime." He said the American dollar is as good as anything and the $10 billion gold reserve should be sufficient to maintain U.S. confidence abroad "providing we show we can manage our affairs internally and externally."

Swaney was introduced by L. C. Dalman of Peoples State Bank. William P. De Long presided and presented Swaney with a pair of wooden shoes. Ross Giles called attention to the Chamber's Fun Night June 25 with dinner at Clearbrook Country Club and "The Odd Couple" at Red Barn Theatre.

Miss Nancy Ann Howard was maid of honor and Ensign Robert J. Donnelly was best man at the rites uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren E Howard of 41 East 28th St. and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton F. Hegg of Maumee, Ohio.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The bridal attendants were attired in floor-length empire gowns of carnation pink crinkle crep featuring bodices with deep scoop necklines and cap sleeves. The softly-controlled skirts fell from narrow empire bows and an elbow veil of matching pink illusion completed their ensembles. They carried colonial bouquets of pink roses.

After the ceremony, guests were entertained at a buffet at Point West and met the bridal couple before they left on their honeymoon to Lake Alexander, Minn. They will be residing in Toledo, Ohio.

Calvin College Chaplin Addresses Graduates

257 Christian Seniors Are Presented Diplomas

Diplomas were presented to 257 graduates at the annual Holland Christian High School commencement exercises held Wednesday night in the Civic Center.

The members of the class of 1968 heard a unique, but moving address delivered by the Rev. Bernard Pekelder, chaplain of Calvin College. Entitling his address, "A Letter to My Son (Daughter)," Pekelder told the graduates that he felt the letter could have been written by anyone of their parents on this occasion.

Speaking as a parent he said, "It's sort of funny, but I almost get the feeling, I have accomplished something here today. Here you have done the work: we parents are proud. It's not that we take credit for your attainment but I guess it is just that you are ours, and our lives are caught up with yours in ways you won't understand until you have a son or daughter."

"We sought for you not only a good education, but a Christian education. You see, when we decided to send you to a Christian High School, we paid a certain price, and asked the same of you. We watch now with eagerness to see how far Christian principles and values and concern have become a part of your thinking and acting. We hope and pray that these years have served to make you a better equipped Christian," he said.

"We've come to the point when we say to you, 'this is our life.' It is not that we abandon our concern or feel no obligation for your future. Indeed our interest and concern will persist; I hope that an openness of communication and a mutual appreciation will continue between us," Pekelder said.

He closed by asking the question, "What then shall I wish for you? More than all, I wish for you a life of fellowship with God. Someone or something must have priority, first claim on you — may it be Jesus Christ. Seek first His Kingdom. I end my letter with this prayer — God bless you son."

Principal Raymond Holwerda presented the class for certification of diplomas and then assisted Supt. Mark Vander Ark and Howard Johnson, president of the board of trustees in the awarding ceremony. Both Vander Ark and Johnson spoke briefly to the members of the class.

Jerry Vreeman, president of the class of 1968, announced a class memorial of $3,500. Haack Tells Hope Grads Of Responsible Dissent

Robert W. Haack, president of the New York Stock Exchange and an alumnus of Hope College, addressed the 350 Hope College students who were graduated in the college's 103rd commencement exercise Monday in Holland Civic Center.

A colorful and stately processional of graduates and faculty in academic regalia marched to 17th century music, "A Suite from the Royal Brass of the Court of King James I" as played by a brass ensemble directed by Robert Cecil.

In a penetrating, discerning and perceptive way, Haack spoke on the question: "Can Dissent Be Divorced from Responsibility?"

In a rapid sketch of student activities that have been headlining news within the past year, he said he was perplexed by students' willingness to receive remunerative aid from those who support colleges and universities and then turn around and dare to prescribe how these educational businesses should run their affairs.

He noted "ours is a history of dissent — the Boston Tea Party members, those participating in the Revolution, even the early Pilgrims — all were dissenters.

"It's part of our tradition to admire those who do such dissenting providing they are willing to bear the responsibilities for their actions. As you know, the patriots later provided an alternative in The Constitution which has served us so well in our democracy.

"Responsible dissent," Haack emphasized, "must consider the consequences."

"What makes us uneasy," he continued, "is the one-sided dimension of today's dissent. It seems to be selfish and arrogant. The dissident group is unwilling to offer a better way and it is incapable of accepting responsibility."

In an impressive and penetrating way, the speaker suggested that a cause — not a significant one — in which today's protest is heard is the abundance of our wealth and the rapidity with which it arrived. Prosperity has the effect of loosening traditional ties, he said, and broadening gaps in communication.

"Who needs the other person's point of view?" he said, "in a culture where men are self-sufficient."

"However," the 350 graduates were told, "prosperity can provide channels for good. It can help us close the communications gap." He pointed out that many of the financial problems of twenty years ago have disappeared, there is a marked upgrading in jobs and educational opportunities for the disadvantaged and that we are nearer our goals for these than is commonly acknowledged by the younger generation.

"We tend to label you as overly impatient. Possibly because we are so near our objectives, the gap is not nearly so wide as we would believe. But through your protests many of us have been helped to clarify our thinking. You in your unsolid way have helped to shake us out of our complacency. Without this, progress is not possible.

"One thing you must learn is to keep your criticism objective and constructive," he said.

The speaker impressed on his audience that they in time would have "their own generation gap," and urged them to make a strong effort to provide good models for their own children. He told them not to surrender their capacity for dissent nor their capacity for responsibility. "If you deny responsibility, you will lose support for your dissent."

He concluded by telling them that the woods are full of places where they can get a good education but that the woods are not full of places where such an education can be had in a religious atmosphere.

The mental and moral disciplines received at Hope College can serve you well if you cultivate them. Only you as an individual can determine whether your life is going to be one full of meaning or not."

Bachelor of arts and bachelor of music degrees were awarded to 350 graduates by Hugh De Pree, president of the Board of Trustees.

Honorary degrees were conferred on Haack and Justin Vander Kolk, the Baccalaureate speaker.

President C. A. Vander Werf presided over the exercises. Dean William Vander Lugt presented the prizes.

Holland Was Cool In May

A dip of 3.3 degrees in the average temperature for May accounted to some degree for the long blooming season of the tulips, Holland's highly prized flowers.

According to Lynn Wheaton, official weather observer, the average temperature for Holland during May was 53.4 degrees or 3.3 degrees below normal.

Precipitation measured 2.20 inches or 1.22 inches below normal, despite much heavier rainfall in other parts of Michigan.

A maximum of 81 was recorded on May 15, the first day of the Tulip Time festival. Rain and temperatures in the upper 40's the following day cancelled the children's parade until Friday. Ideal temperatures in the mid 60's prevailed for the band parade Saturday which attracted the largest crowds.

A relatively warm April with average temperatures up two degrees provided an early blooming season. With cooler temperatures well paced in May the blooming season extended into six or seven weeks instead of the usual three weeks.

A minimum of 25 degrees was recorded May 6. The average maximum was 63.3 degrees and average minimum 43.7 degrees.

Precipitation fell on 14 days. Greatest precipitation in a 24-hour period was .75 inch. Fog was noted on several occasions toward the close of the month.

Van Kirk-Drost Vows Exchanged in Evening

The Rev. Jack Stewart read the nuptial rites Saturday afternoon which united Miss Linda Lou Drost and Ronald Van Kirk in marriage. Mrs. Marvin Van Den Bosch, organist, provided appropriate wedding music and accompanied Jay Van Den Bosch, soloist.

For the occasion First Presbyterian Church was decorated with bouquets of white stock and yellow pompon mums, a seven-branch candelabra, three-branch kissing candles, palms and ferns. White bows with lemon leaves marked the pews.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dick Drost, 10671 Chicago Dr., Zeeland, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Van Kirk, 1625 South Ottawa.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose for her wedding a floor-length ivory linen shift. Scrolls of Venice lace accented the neck, elbow-length sleeves and detachable train and formed a double band around the skirt. A crystal flower headpiece held her shoulder-length veil and a bouquet of white French mums centered by a white orchid completed her ensemble.

Miss Carol Drost, maid of honor, was attired in a floor length shift gown of yellow linen trimmed with green ribbon and an overlay of yellow lace at the neck and edging the train. She wore a pearl beaded headband with a yellow veil and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses.

Miss Maureen Van Kirk and Mrs. James McBride, bridesmaids, were attired identically to the honor attendant. Tammy De Boer, miniature bride, wore a white floor-length gown decorated with white daisies. She wore a veil and carried flowers similar to those of the bride.

Steven Conway attended the groom as best man while John Norris and Raymond Van Kirk served as groomsmen.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Clearbrook Country Club, Saugatuck, with Diane and Cynthia Drost registering the guests. Laura Hayward, Sandra Nienhuis and Mrs. Dale Vander Laar arranged the gifts.

Following a wedding trip to northern Michigan, the newlyweds will make their home at 21713 Bon Heur, St. Clair Shores.

The new Mrs. Van Kirk is employed as a computer programmer at Tweddle Litho Co., Detroit. The groom is manager of Anton's Shoe Departments in Mt. Clemens and Utica.
