Mrs. Judd of Marion, Ill., who occupies the Dew Drop cottage at Macatawa park landed an eel four feet long. The monster eel was landed after a hard struggle, J. B. Mulder helping with a net.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Best of Marinette, Wis., who have been the guests of Mrs. L. M. Thurber for a few days, left Tuesday for New York where Mr. Best will attend the summer school of Columbia University.

Last Saturday a large crowd of employees of the American School Seating Co. of Grand Rapids together with their families enjoyed a day's outing at Jenison. The Interurban cars were crowded and a good program of sports furnished amusement for the day.

Henry and Herman Derks, and Anthony VanderPels, who pleaded guilty to the charge of violating the law by netting fish in Black River, were each fined $100 with the alternative of a 90 day's sentence in the county jail, by Justice VanDuren. The boys had looked for a lighter sentence and had therefore at first decided to appeal the case to the circuit court. But they thought better of it, and on Tuesday morning sent through their attorney Fred T. Miles a check for $315 covering the fines and costs.

Chief of Police Kamferbeek was notified Monday that a strange young man who said he was from Holland was wandering along the streets of Muskegon in an apparently demented condition. On investigation he proved to be Ed. Holwerda of 14 W. 18th St. and his father went up to Muskegon to bring him to Grand Haven. He is but 22 years of age and has just recovered from a severe attack of typhoid fever which is thought to thought to have affected his mind. It is possible that a petition will be made in the Probate court to have him committed to Kalamazoo.

Chairman Nicholas Kammeraad of the 16th street Fourth of July celebration committee has appointed the following committees which are hard at work to make the celebration a success: music, Charles Dykstra and Geo. Ter Haar; for purchase of fireworks, C. Dykstra, H. J. Klomparsen, Geo. Ter Haar; for discharging fireworks, J. H. Van Lente, J. H. Tubergen, S. De Groot, Dick Steketee, H. Windemuller, James Price; for erecting stand, J. H. Tubergen, S. Piers, Nick Steketee, Geo. Ter Haar, Nick Kammeraad; banners and lanterns, Was & Peterson, Nick Kammeraad, S. DeGroot, J. H. Tubergen.

A Steketee Sr., has in his possession a collection of the most interesting photographs. The views, 17 in number, are scenes in Borselle-Netherlands, Mr. Steketee's birthplace, and were taken by J. Wabeke, a resident of the village, quite recently for George Steketee of Grand Rapids. Each picture is remarkably clear and show the old Steketee homestead, the church, school, mayor's house, Main street, cemetery, hotel, government building, etc., and a remarkably fine set of views of the dykes and piers which give to the uninitiated a splendid idea of Holland's dyke and canal system. Natives in peasant dress are seen in each picture while in one of the street scenes is an aged man, 84 years old, who drove the team which conveyed John Steketee, one of the pioneers of 1847, and his family to the boat docks from which they set out on their 63 day trip across the ocean to America.

A Statue for Pokagon

Julia A. Pokagon, a granddaughter of Chief Simon Pokagon, will remove the veil from the statue of her grandfather which the state of Indiana is erecting near the spot where 71 years ago the Indians were driven from their reservation by land pirates. Miss Pokagon is one of the brightest of her people and a graduate of the Haskell Institute, Kansas. Chief Pokagon in whose memory the statue is erected, was some years before his death well known in this city. He was one of the guests of honor at the semi-centennial celebration in 1897 and delivered an address on that occasion.

The old chief had been converted to Christianity and had attained a high degree of culture and education. He was for several years a frequent contributor to the magazines and was recognized as the father of his people.

He devoted several years of his life to collecting proofs and affidavits which would establish the claim of his tribe to the land which forms the present site of the city of Chicago. Just when he was about to attain this cherished object of his life—and his chances seem to have been extremely good—his house was consumed by fire, causing the loss of all of his documents and proofs. A mass of valuable historical material was lost in this fire; so valuable was it considered that the Chicago Historical Society had planned to get possession of it at the old chief's death. It left the old man practically penniless and a subscription was started by the News, to which many prominent Holland business men contributed. So it is partly due to the generosity of Holland citizens that the old chief could spend his last days in comfort. Pokagon had many personal friends here and their contributions helped materially to swell the fund.

Chief Pokagon, before his death used to discuss freely his people's right to the site of Chicago. In speaking of his efforts to secure their title to it he said:

"My father gave most of the land where Chicago stands to the government for three cents an acre. Some of the land the government took, but he did not sell. That part has never been paid for. People tell me that now vast sums are paid for a few feet of what was then sold for a trifle by the square mile. In many instances the tribal relation of my people is broken by reason of their becoming citizens of the United States. This fact weakens my efforts to secure what is due, but I have inherited with my father's right as chief, the care of my people, and I will continue to struggle to the end. I am glad that in my old age I am succeeding in getting something that was due from this great country for the remnants of my race. I shall try to do more for them, for much more money is due; then, if I succeed, I shall pass on and let my oldest son take up what there is left of my authority, and the much that there is of my troubles."

It is very appropriate that a statue should be erected to this grand old representative of a dying race and the people of this city are among those who enthusiastically join in paying tribute to his memory.

Alle D. Zuidema, instructor in the Detroit Conservatory of Music and organist in one of the leading Detroit churches has returned to spend the summer with his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Zuidema. Beginning next Sunday, Mr. Zuidema will have charge of the organ in Hope church for the remainder of the season.

On a warrant charging him with the use of a net in catching fish in Black River, Fred Hieftje was arrested by Deputy Game warden Dornbos and taken before Justice Van Duren, where he pleaded not guilty when arraigned. Hieftje is a well known string butcher, living at 205 East Fifteenth street, and his arrest completes the list promised after the capture of three Zeeland men in the act of lifting nets in the river near New Groeningin. His trial has been set for July 6.

Mrs. Lillian M. Fliehm McKinney, the Lyric Soprano singer of Chicago, has decided to spend the summer here; Fort Sumner is indeed fortunate. She is a graduate of the Emma Gruff-Byrant Institute, a school devoted exclusively to the training of singers and vocal teachers. Mrs. McKinney expects to give a concert in the near future which will be a rare treat. She has sung for a few friends and those who have been fortunate enough to hear her have marveled at the brilliancy and purity of her tones. She is at present the guest of Mrs. Jaramillo at the Commercial Hotel.—Fort Sumner (New Mex.) News. Mrs. McKinney is a daughter of J. W. Fliehm of this city.

Booklets have just been issued containing the annual report of the board of public works. Some 300 copies have been issued and can be obtained at the clerk's office. It contains many valuable figures about the business of the city that every taxpayer should be interested in. Figures on the electric light plant show that it has earned a somewhat smaller profit than in former years, owing to the installation of the expensive new turbine unit and the consequent confusion which prevailed at the plant during the time things were torn up. The board has 1525 customers of electricity, the majority of them being, of course, the consumers of current for lighting purposes. The lighting done is equivalent to 26,472 lights of 16 candle power, with 200 arcs and there are more than 300 motors using the current.

The Douglas Herald is the name of a new exchange that has reached our desks. The paper has a bright newsy make-up and is full of the doings at Douglas. The News takes pleasure in welcoming this latest arrival to its list of exchanges and wishes the manager and editor all kinds of success.

Miss Esther Oleson who will prepare herself for missionary work in China under the Baptist board was delightfully surprised at the home of Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Boot Friday evening by the members of the Baptist church in which she has been an ardent and helpful worker. They presented her with a beautiful gold chain and locket, Rev. W. H. Palmer of Grand Rapids making the presentation speech. Ice cream and cake were served and after singing a few hymns, the company departed wishing Miss Oleson Godspeed in her new field of labor.

The city hall bonds are all ready for the signatures of the mayor and clerk. Noble & Moss, the firm that purchased the bonds reported that their attorneys had approved of the transcript and record of the legality of the bond issue, as furnished by Attorney Van Duren. The special city hall commission has sent out letters to about fifty prominent architects and architectural firms asking them to submit competitive sketches in order that the committee may select one to draw the detailed plans. About July 3 the contest will close and then the commission will immediately go about choosing one of the plans submitted.

Misses Amy Kimpton, Sena Grevengood and Margaret Van Weelden and Mr. Frank Lievense were the four fortunate High School students who each won a beautiful Waterman fountain pen offered as prizes by H. Vander Ploeg to all who had on account of their scholarship and attendance at school during the year been exempt from all examinations. The prizes offered for next year by Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were also announced. These prizes will be awarded to the three Eighth Grade pupils having the best standing in American History and to the two ninth grade pupils writing the best essays on some patriotic subject. The subject for the essay and the nature of the prizes will be announced later.

Theodore De Vries of Drenthe, one of the graduates of the U. of M. left for Cleveland, O., this week where he has secured a position as electrical engineer.

The Liberty of Douglas is now making a trip to Holland every evening with berries. Her cargo on Monday evening consisted of 516 crates of berries which was consigned to Chicago by G. & M. Co.

Herbert J. Arnold, a livery driver employed by Fred Stratton was arrested Saturday night charged with appropriating a purse left in his cab. The purse was the property of Mrs. Wm. Exo and contained $6 45. Mrs. Exo left it in the cab while returning from the funeral of Barney Exo. Immediately after missing the purse Mrs. Exo notified the barn men, but they had found no trace of it. A remark by Arnold that he had found $6 led to an investigation and his arrest. He pleaded not guilty. At his trial he was acquitted.

While working on the scaffolding of the new Second Christian Reformed church at Zeeland Monday morning Bert Huizenga, son of Supervisor John Y. Huizenga of Holland township fell some 12 feet to the ground and suffered severe injuries. It was while working on the big posts that the accident occurred, his fellow workmen rushing to his assistance just after he fell. An ugly hole was found through the bones of the skull, and Dr. Riggerink who was called applied all the remedies for concussion of the brain. The young man is rapidly improving.

The Puritan is the first boat on the Great Lakes to install the submarine bell. It is a safety appliance and together with the wireless system, the passengers on this vessel will be better safeguarded than any those on any vessel on the lakes. Submarine bells have nowhere near the range of the wireless but they are more dependable in times of danger from a collision or grounding. The wireless operator cannot determine the direction at all. With the submarine bells at distances up to 15 or 20 miles the direction can be determined accurately enough to avoid beaching a vessel or colliding with another.

A corporation for the purpose of buying and improving real estate in Saugatuck has been organized with a capital stock of $15,000, A. B. Taylor, W. R. Takken, and A. B. Taylor, jr, being the incorporators of this the Saugatuck Improvement Co. Half of the stock has been paid in and it has not yet been decided whether the incorporators will sell any more or not. The Newnham 10 acre plot at the end of Allegan St. has been bought and a good share of the Leland property that fronts on Allegan St. between the 10 acre plot and Mr. Redebaugh's place. In the fall several cottages will be built and many other improvements made.

Mrs. Florence M. Boot, Mrs. Francis Anderson, Mrs. G. J. Van Duren and Mrs. Celia Parkhurst have returned from Kalamazoo, where they attended the state G. A. R. encampment. They report an unusually successful and enjoyable convention, all the sessions of the state W. R. C. convention being held in the First Congregational church. Holland was signally honored this year in the election, to an important office in the department, of a local women, Mrs. Boot, president of the local corps, being chosen junior vice president. This is the first time that Holland has ever had a department.

Mr. Gerrit Van Schure of Laketown brought a box of strawberries into our office that have all berries we have ever seen backed off the boards for size and flavor. The quart box is tightly packed with berries and it takes just fifteen to do the trick. The berries are beautifully proportioned and the color is tempting enough to make a small boy's teeth and eyes water at the same time. Mr. Van Schure is conducting a fine fruit farm in Laketown and his strawberry patch is but one of the lines in which he has been eminently successful. The grower of the strawberries said modestly that of course, not every berry in his patch was as big as the fifteen-in-a-box variety, but he could pick out many boxes full that would average from 18 to 20 to the box. Even at that rate the berries are rather out of the ordinary.

Zeeland

Albertje Veneklasen, nee Weurding, who died at her home in Zeeland last Wednesday, was born in Hyken, province of Drenthe, Netherlands, Aug. 15, 1831. Her parents were of the poorer but sturdy class of Hollanders to whom the people of Holland owe much today because of their industry and persistence. She received what little schooling she had and which was considered enough at that time, in the schools of her native city.

Early in her childhood her parents had joined in the general enthusiasm and hopes of freer life to be found in the country across the sea, and in 1848 they took ship for America. Of the hardships and sufferings of the voyage, first across the Atlantic, then down the St. Lawrence, around the Great Lakes, which took many weeks, she could give many a story. The party landed first in Milwaukee for a few days' rest. They then crossed to Grand Haven and took the river boats to Grandville, where the ox teams awaited the new colonists. The party journeyed by team through the forest to Drenthe, where they settled, later moving to Oakland and still later to Grand Rapids. Owing to the extreme poverty of the family the young girl was forced to look for work and at the age of 20 she went to Kalamazoo to work as a servant girl.

It was at Kalamazoo that she made the acquaintance of her late husband at that time a young widower, B. J. Veneklasen, a brickmaker of Zeeland and founder of the present Brick Co. A romance might well be written of how he wooed her, visiting her sometimes on foot and sometimes on horseback and of her frequent walks from Kalamazoo to Zeeland on visits. Such long walks were not hardships at that time as they are now. On Feb. 29, 1852, at the age of 21, she became the wife of Mr. Veneklasen, later the engagement had been announced from the church pulpit for two consecutive Sundays as the custom of the time demanded. The ceremony was performed by Dr. G. VaudeurMeulen, the colony pastor.

Since her marriage and until her death she has lived in Zeeland and vicinity. There were born to them ten children, eight sons, of whom five are now living, and two daughters, of whom one is now living. The sons and many of their children have continued the business of the father—that of brick making, and have been successful.

The home life of the family has always been of the happiest, permeated with Christian principles and spirit. The father was one of the church, always true and faithful, an earnest student of the bible, and one who was not negligent in teaching it to his children. His death, in 1905, was a loss to Zeeland, not only but especially to his family, taking away its guiding light and honored judge. From the time of his death the mother too had longed for relief and often said she would welcome the day when she could meet him.

Mrs. Veneklasen was a faithful and loving mother, devoted to the welfare and happiness of her family, tender in her care of the weak, strong in her faith in God and observance of Christian duties, diffusing a sweet and wholesome influence about her which won the respect of all. Her church life, while not active, was marked by faithfulness, consistency and devotion, an encouragement to her pastor and an example to mothers of this generation. In her death the community loses one of its noble pioneers and worthily venerated members.

Saugatuck

Highway Commissioner Lackie informs us that the bridge will be open for traffic this week. The work has progressed very nicely but it was found necessary to use 70 yards of gravel and stone which is more than could be reckoned on in the start so more time was consumed than planned. During the time the bridge was closed an average of about 100 rigs per day crossed the ferry.

The ball game last Saturday between the Holland Cubs and the Douglas team was a one-sided affair, the score being 7 to 0 in favor of Douglas. The Douglas boys know how to play ball.

The little child of Mrs. Henderson of New Richmond swallowed poison the other day and a call was sent to Dr. Walker, who by the aid of his automobile, got to Richmond and had washed the child's stomach out, inside of half an hour from the time he received the message. A WAY OPEN

Many a Holland Reader Knows It Well

There is a way open to convince the greatest skeptic. Scores of Holland people have made it possible. The public statement of their experience is proof the like of which has never been produced before in Holland. Read this case of it by a citizen:

Michael Schwarz, retired farmer, 689 Central Ave., Holland, Mich., says: "Last fall I caught a heavy cold and it settled on my kidneys. I paid little attention to the trouble at first but soon a dull, heavy pain settled across the small of my back and as it steadily grew worse, I became alarmed. I could hardly stoop or lift and it often seemed as though my back was splitting. One day when telling a neighbor about my trouble, he advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills and I accordingly got a box at J. O. Doesburg's drug store. A few doses brought quick relief and after I had finished half the contents of the box, the backache and trouble with my kidneys had disappeared. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. (Testimonial given on December 15, 1906.)

Mr. Schwarz confirmed the above statement on May 10, 1909. He said: I have no reason to change my opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills as expressed in my former statement. I now have no trouble from my kidneys and my back is strong and free from pain."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

A Horrible Hold-Up

"About ten years ago my brother was 'held up' in his work, health and happiness by what was believed to be hopeless consumption," writes W. R. Lipscomb, of Washington, N. D. He took all kinds of remedies and treatment from several doctors but found no help till he used Dr. Kings New Discovery and was wholly cured bo six bottles. He is a well man today." It's quick to relieve and the surest cure for weak or sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs and colds, Bronchitis, La Grippe, Asthma and all Bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. BOOKKEEPING ON THE FARM.

Important Point That Seems to Concern Agriculturists Altogether Too Little.

It may be necessary to give up all cherished hopes for our life work as planned and partly entered upon, and betake ourselves to farming to get the outdoor life and activity which is demanded if we expect to remain in good health. We are like boys at school now, and must endeavor to learn how to do everything required in the best possible way. If future conditions demand less detail in any of our methods we shall cast out what is useless; on the other hand, greater elaboration and more care may be found requisite to attain the ends desired in a satisfactory way.

We are determined to learn all we can by experience of our own and from the experience of others. For, whatever we do in the years to come in the line of outdoor work, be it truck gardening, light farming, raising poultry, or breeding live stock, it is our intention to be thoroughly business-like and aggressive to the extent that changed conditions of health demand. Whatever we do shall be well done and according to approved standards—and there is no better guide to profitable activity for the aggressive, ambitious business man than an efficient method of accounting, as simple as circumstances permit.

Many farmers now struggling to pay the interest on their heavily mortgaged properties might be happy and prosperous and owe no man if they could be brought to the point of willingness to learn the significance of the terms "debit" and "credit" and of rousing themselves up and applying the knowledge to the business in hand.

GOING BACK INTO THE PAST.

Some Men Will Smile, and Some Frown, But Their Recollections Are Much the Same.

They do say that one of the things a fellow remembers is the first time he ever went courting a girl. And it is one of the last things he wants to forget, even if she turned him down later on.

It is not the trial now that it was back in the good old days. In the country districts folks lived in houses of one or two rooms, or three at most, so that when a fellow went sparking he had to face the whole family, and you may depend upon it that the whole family faced him. Sometimes they didn't try to make life pleasant for him. This was specially true of the girl's younger brothers and sisters.

Do you remember how big your feet felt, and the trouble you had to find places for your hands, and how difficult it was to keep up a conversation? But if you had grit enough you would stay or die right there.

But you never forgot it, and you never will. Nor will you ever quite forget the effort necessary to get your courage up to the point of asking her if you might call on her, nor how glad some you were if she said you might, nor how mean you felt if she refused your request. As a frost this beat the June affair of '59.

One Comfort.

Dick was a very clean little boy, and dirt disgusted him. One day he found a poor little starved kitten crouching in a ditch at the roadside and he brought the wet, muddy little wail home with him.

He took it to the hydrant and carefully rinsed off all the mud, but the shock was too great for the sick kitty and the breath of life departed.

Dick brought her to his mother, who exclaimed at the sight of the wet, drooping kitten, "Why, Dick, what have you done?"

"She was all mud and I washed her," Dick replied. "Oh, Dick," his mother said, sorrowfully, "I'm afraid she's dead." Dick looked shocked and grieved for a moment, then his face lighted up with a gleam of comfort as he exclaimed:

"Well, she died clean, anyway."—The Delineator.

Heights to Be Attained.

A crochety old farmer of Massachusetts had trouble with his neighbor, and as a result sought his counsel—ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers, says Lippincott's.

"I want yeow ter write him a letter an' tell him this here foolishness hez got ter stop," he declared firmly. "I know what I want ter say, but I ain't got the larnin' ter put it just right."

"What do you want to say?" Mr. Powers asked.

"Wa-all, begin by tellin' him thet he's the durndest, lyin'est, thievin'est, low-downest skunk on alrth—and then work up."

The Printer's Children.

The case of the musical man who named his four daughters after the eight notes of the tonic sol-fa scale is matched by that of the provincial printer who named his children from the type fonts he used—Ruby, Pearl, Diamond. The first two are no uncommon names for girls, only Ruby happened to be a boy. He followed in his father's footsteps and afterward became a printer's manager in London.

Faith

Nothing has been as yet definitely decided on the proposition of Holland securing the G. A. R. encampment in 1910. Soon after the excitement of the Fourth has died out, it is proposed to call a meeting of the citizens with a view of considering ways and means of entertaining the thousands of guests that the city would be compelled to find accommodations for. Now the News, in view of the fact that it was the first to start the agitation to secure the encampment as well as because it believes it will be a boost for Holland, is very much interested in the project. We agree that in a matter of this kind there is need of mature deliberation. There are a great many things to be considered and it never does any harm to be prepared. In other words: "Don't start anything you can't finish."

But there is another side to this question. A city, like an individual, can err in being too careful and conservative as well as in not being careful enough. And if the people decide on discouraging the efforts of the committee in landing the encampment until they are sure of a lodging for every single delegate and soldier that is expected, they certainly err along this line. It is imperative that in matters of this kind there should be faith in the ability and willingness of the citizens of Holland to meet the exigencies of the occasion. Any man who is so over careful and conservative about this shows that he has little faith in the hospitality of his city. Just because the public houses are inadequate to accommodate the crowds is no reason why Holland should not land the encampment. Doubtless the private citizens would come to the rescue with their homes, and the resorts and the neighboring cities would make up for Holland's lack of sufficient accommodations.

The News simply wishes to impress upon every one of Holland's citizens who will have any share in determining whether the encampment will be held here next year, the importance of acting on faith to a certain degree. Holland wants the encampment, and its citizens will see to it that the guests are taken care of.

The Rural School Board

About this time of the year the various school boards of the rural schools are engaging teachers for the coming school year. And the News believes that many of them might have a higher conception of their duty toward their children than they seem to have. The rural school is not up to the standard of the city school and "there's a reason." The city superintendents as a rule employ the most efficient teachers they can get. But what about the rural schools? Here are some facts:

In a school district not six miles from Holland a lady teacher was receiving $40 per month. She was an exceptionally able teacher, a favorite of both pupils and their parents. When the time came for signing next year's contract she demanded $45. The board straightway adopted a penny-wise policy. Instead of paying $45 for an efficient teacher they got an opportunity to hire a boy just out of High School for $30 a month, and eagerly grasped it. Does it not seem that that board has a very low conception of their duty toward their children when their education is worth only $30 a month to them?

In the school at New Holland the board follows another policy. For years they have been paying their teacher a good salary. Consequently they have been able to obtain the services of a man who is one of the best in his profession. Now notice the results: This spring 16 scholars wrote the eighth grade examinations of whom 15 received their diplomas. This is certainly an enviable record in view of the fact that of all the pupils of the county who wrote, only a small percentage were successful.

It is simply a matter of plain business sense. A farmer will pay a hired man who is reliable and understands his work more than a so-called "green-hand." Why not follow the same policy in education? A man who is willing to work for low wages is usually not as efficient a teacher as a man who demands adequate remuneration for his service. It does not take much business sense to figure out that what is saved in the teacher's wages is each year more than made up for by what the district loses through the necessity of having pupils repeat work because their inefficient teachers failed to do their work properly.

The firecracker crop will be soon be ripe.

"A rolling stone gathers no moss"—Montaigne. However rolling balls gather blind pigs—Van Loo.

People may continue to preach about honesty being the best policy without fear of hurting the business of the cash register manufacturers.

Count Boni is coming to this country to hunt grizzly bears. If the bears find it out there will be trouble for Boni.

Remember that the giant firecracker is always just getting ready to go off when you bend over it to see what is the matter.

Wouldn't Van Loo of Zeeland make a striking picture, throwing balls at wooden pins. Although he might be somewhat handicapped by his hirsute appendage.

It is not the uplifter in the sight of man but the uplifter in the sight of God and man that accomplishes uplifting that counts for something.

Cornerstone Laid of Rev. Karreman's New Church

Taking for his text the words of the Psalmist, "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it," Rev. A. Karreman, pastor of the Reformed church, W. 61st St. and Lawn Avenue, of Cleveland, Ohio, reviewed the heroic work of his congregation during the past three years at the laying of the cornerstone of its new building. Rev. Karreman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wykhuisen of this city and Mrs. Karreman is the daughter of Mrs. L. Mulder.

The new church which is being erected on W. 65th St. near Fir Ave., was made necessary because the Sunday evening congregations have overtaken the seating capacity of the old church, and there is not enough Sunday school room for the children.

The church property when completed will cost $14,550. The people pledged $4,000 during the hard times last August; the business men in the community pledged $800, the Ladies Aid society under its energetic president, Mrs. A. Karreman, the Christian Endeavor societies and the Sunday school—all contributed liberally; and assistance also came from the board of the Reformed church. One of the documents placed in the cornerstone was a copy of the Leader which contains an account of the dedication exercises.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THIS PAPER

35 Years ago To-day.

Jim Jeddins of Saugatuck, the old stage driver between that place and Holland, has gone to Grand Traverse where he has purchased a stage route.

"Fourth" next week—No paper then.

The classes of Holland will hold a special session next Wednesday for the examinations of J. Hofman and N. Neerken, Theological graduates from Hope College.

WHAT YOU SAW 30 YEARS AGO

The following are the graduates at Hope this year D. J. de Bey, of Chicago, M. Ohgimi Shizuoka, Japan; G. Niemeyer, Saugatuck, Mich.; E. de Spelder, city; K. Kimura, Tokio, Japan; A. Vennema, city; Rev. Dr. Mandeville, of New York, President of the College conferred the degrees and spoke a few fatherly words to the graduates, and after that to the audience.

On Tuesday last, right in the midst of the commencement exercises of Hope College, that being St. John's day this city assumed the appearance of a general holiday by the celebrating of the day by the Masonic fraternity of this and surrounding cities and villages. Extra trains from Grand Rapids, Grand Haven, and by boat from Saugatuck, brought a large number of masons with their wives and children to the city to indulge in a picnic and boat ride. Gee's band was engaged to assist in receiving the visitors at the depot and at the dock. The Grand Rapids people brought a brass band with them who discoursed some beautiful music, and likewise did the Grand Haven people. The vast course of people gathered in the capacious orchard of ex Mayor Harrington where they indulged in luncheon. After dinner the visitors were welcomed by an eloquent speech of Dr. Thomas McCulloch, which was answered in a few appropriate remarks by General Innes, of Grand Rapids. After this ceremony was over the fraternity marched in one procession to the dock, under the command of Mr. Chas. J. Plaff, marshal of the day, assisted by Gen. Innes. (If Mr. Ed. Ronayne, who was here a short time ago, exposing the secrets of this order could have seen this respectable mass of citizens he would not have thought much of his twaddle which he uttered at the close of his second night, when he said: "and tomorrow night we will bury them." buried forsooth!) The vessels Tri-Color and Spray had been fitted up for the occasion and were towed down Black Lake by the tow boats McMillan, Fanny Shriver and Gem—making quite a fleet.

WHAT YOU SAW 25 YEARS AGO

"Ere sin could blight or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care
The opening bud to heaven conveyed
And bade it blossom there."

A sad and distressing accident occurred last Saturday evening at about 6 o'clock, which cast a gloom over the hearts of nearly all our citizens. Libbie Jones, the eight year old daughter of Rev. Thomas Walker Jones, pastor of Hope Church, while watching, on Fixter's dock, for the boat which was expected every minute, with the Sabbath school of the first Reformed church which had been to the Park on a picnic, she, child like, commenced throwing small pieces of bark into the water and in endeavoring to recover one piece lost her balance and fell into the bay; Paul Steketee, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Steketee, jumped in to rescue her, but being unable to swim, would have lost his life if another young companion had not pulled him out with a ladder that was close at hand. Mr. P. Pfantstiel, who was near by was attracted to the spot, but the little girl had gone down for the last time before he got there. He succeeded in a short time in bringing Libbie to the surface and assistance was procured and the work of resuscitation was at once commenced and continued until 9 o'clock, when it was much evident beyond a doubt, that the little girl was dead. Her funeral took place on Wednesday last, Rev. P. Phelps D. D., Rev. T. R. Beck, D. D., and Rev. T. T. George, officiating. The afflicted parents have the sympathy of this entire community in their bereavement as the large number in attendance at the funeral attests.

WHAT YOU SAW 20 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Wilhelmina Boot has received notice that her name has been placed on the pension list, owing to her loss of a son in the army. Judge Fairbanks acted for Mrs. Boot in the matter.

The lightning last Wednesday evening took a liking to potatoes and entered Mr. Van Lente's patch, near the city, without any ceremony. It made a hole in one hill as big as a man's arm, and all the potatoes for a space forty feet square, from where it entered were laid flat.

A severe lightning and thunder storm visited this section last Wednesday night. The rain poured down in torrents and the lightning and thunder was terrific. The house of Mr. Jas. Graham, Fourth Ward was struck but fortunately nobody was hurt. A poplar tree in front of Capt. M. De Boe's house was also struck by lightning. The Captain was out of doors at the time and standing within ten feet of the tree. He says it reminded him of an artillery engagement and the lightning looked like a bomb shell.

Prof. H. Vegte, professor of modern languages will conduct a summer school at Macatawa Park and Holland during the months of July and August.

The marriage of William E. Van der Hart and Miss Gertrude DeVries was solemnized last Tuesday evening at the home of the bride, 53 West Tenth street, in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends. Rev. G. Dubbink performed the ceremony. Many beautiful and costly presents were given the happy couple, among them being a present from the choir of Third church of which both are members and a handsome gift from Mr. Vander Hart's fellow employees in the post office. The groom is one of Holland's popular and respected young men and the bride is numbered among the most talented and admired of Holland's young ladies. Mr. and Mrs. Vander Hart are spending a few days in Grand Rapids. On their return they will take an outing at Alpena Beach, the guest of relatives. They will be at home after August 1 in their new residence 67 West Ninth street.

Muskegon is in mourning, James Balbirnie, the mayor was shot and killed at noon yesterday by John W. Tayer, ex-poor master.

The game of base ball between the Holland and Fennville teams, resulted in a victory for the former. The home boys are elated over the outcome of the game for it is the first played away from the home grounds this season. The score was tied until the historical sixth and then as usual the Holland boys in an effort to knock the cover off the ball batted liners and flies to all parts of the field. After that the result was never in doubt and the visitors kept piling up the scores until the end of the ninth inning. Both pitchers did well. Verschure was a little slow in the early stages of the game but steadied down to business and pitched a winning game. Fennville's pitcher struck out 15 men, an exceptionally good record. Leapple figured in three double plays without an error. Peterson made two two-base hits. He can always be depended on to solve the hardest curves and has struck out to base this summer. In throwing to bases the Holland boys are among the best. Score 6 to 20.

H. W. Hardie, the popular jeweler of this city, and Eva O. Cook, one of Allegan's most charming and accomplished young ladies were married at the residence of the bride's parents in Allegan, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, by Rev. T. A. Scott, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives and intimate friends, the pretty ring service being used. The bridal couple was preceded by the ushers and ribbon bearers Dr. M. J. Cook of Holland and H. H. Cook of Allegan, brothers of the bride. Master Leon Chichester carried the ring. The bride was attired in a charming white gown and carried a bouquet of American Beauties. The decorations were red and white set in a profusion of palms, Mrs. F. I. Chichester played the wedding march from "Lohengrin." From three to five o'clock a reception attended by many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hardie was held. The happy couple were the recipients of a great many valuable gifts. The bride and groom came directly to Holland on Wednesday evening. They will be at home to their friends after August first at 147 West Eleventh street.

Last Sunday evening the startling news that Frank Haven alias Guilford had met a sudden and mysterious death was spread throughout the city and in a short time a morbidly curious crowd gathered in the rooms over the Snag cigar company's store and viewed the remains meanwhile conjecturing as to the cause of his death. Marshal Dykehouse was present and summoned Dr. Yates, the coroner, who in turn called up Prosecutor McBride and explained that Haven was found dead in bed and that the presence of the prosecutor to view the remains and examine the surroundings was necessary. After a hurried consultation between Dr. Yates and Mr. McBride it was decided to hold an inquest, as the conflicting stories of those having a knowledge of the affair, and the attendant circumstances lent a suspicious and mysterious aspect to the affair. Later it developed however, that he died from natural causes.

The Fourth at Jenison

Jenison Park is to have the biggest of the celebrations along the Line of the Fourth of July. The Fourth coming on Sunday, the 3rd and 5th will be properly celebrated.

All of the Interurban Company's services will be concentrated towards Jenison on those days and many more attractions have been provided this year than ever in the history of the resort.

The dance pavilion will be open Saturday afternoon and evening as well as the afternoon and evening of Monday. Tuller's orchestra will play. The Jenison Park's full band will furnish band concerts all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Park.

There will be two thrilling balloon ascensions under the direction of Prof. Meixwell, giving the famous parachute drop. This will be the first balloon ascension given at Jenison Park since last summer, and will occur about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

All of the attractions about the Park will be running. The Electric Theatre will open for the first time on that day with the Civic Pageant pictures as a special bill. The Macatawa Excursion Boats will leave the Jenison Park Dock every hours for excursions in Lake Michigan.

On both Saturday and Monday afternoons there will be exciting base ball games at Jenison Park. On Saturday the Interurbans playing the first game of the Championship series with the Independents. Every baseball fan in Holland is interested in the result of these games, as the whole town is divided in favor of one or the other team, and the wild kind of rooting will result. Monday afternoon the game will be equally exciting.

Interurban cars will run every 20 minutes between Grand Rapids and Jenison park on these days and hourly from Saugatuck to the Park, with ten minute service from Holland.

There will be a special display of fireworks on the evenings of July 3rd and 5th.

The Motion Picture Show, which opens at Jenison Park this week, will have a specialty for July 3rd, 4th and 5th which will undoubtedly prove a great drawing card.

Some time ago, under the auspices of the Grand Rapids Advertisers Club, a grand floral pageant was pulled off in Grand Rapids before at least 50,000 people. This pageant included over 125 floats, representing the various industries, associations and societies of Grand Rapids. All of the floats were beautifully decorated with flowers and vines and different displays. At a great deal of expense, the Grand Rapids Advertisers Club was able to get motion pictures of this Pageant and the films will be shown at Jenison Park on the evenings of the days.

The management of the Motion Picture Show is making a special charge of 5 cents for all of its shows which will be continued through the season.

This will be the only opportunity for the people around the resorts to see these pictures which were taken of a floral Pageant equal to the Mardi Gras parades in New Orleans and Havana. Don't miss this opportunity.

Rev. J. M. Vander Meulen Resigns

Just before pronouncing the benediction Sunday evening Rev. J. M. Vander Meulen announced to his congregation that he had received a call from the Hamilton Grange Reformed church of New York City and had accepted it. While the audience stood breathless at the sudden and unwelcome announcement Mr. Van der Meulen went on giving his reasons for accepting the call.

"I believe," he said, "that there is to be a struggle in the church on the fundamental principles of faith. I have long had a desire to complete my education so that I will be ready for the struggle. The new position seems to offer an opportunity for this and hence I have accepted."

The almost unlimited educational advantages of New York city would naturally be a strong inducement for a man who wishes to prepare himself for meeting the forces of unbelief on their own ground.

The Hamilton Grange church is located on Convent avenue and West One Hundred and Forty-fifth streets in the Bronx and was organized in 1887 by the Collegiate church of New York City. It is a church of some 175 families with 331 communicants and has thus far had four pastors, Rev. Wm. Westerfield, Jr., Rev. J. F. Morgan, Rev. Chas. B. Chapin and Rev. Chalmers P. Dyke. Mr. Vander Meulen expects to complete his work here about August 1.

Rev. John M. Vander Meulen was born in Milwaukee in 1870 and was graduated from Hope college in 1891. His theological course was taken at the Princeton and McCormick seminaries, and his first pastorate was that of the Second Reformed church at Kalamazoo where he remained three years. He served the First Reformed church of Grand Rapids from 1899 to 1901, when he went to Oklahoma as a home missionary. In 1903 he was elected to the chair of Psychology and Pedagogy in Hope college and after the resignation of Rev. J. T. Pergen as pastor of Hope church, filled the pulpit of that church, as supply continuing his teaching, until he was finally persuaded to accept the unanimous call to become its pastor.

The View Point

A Grand Haven business man requests the publication of the following paragraphs on the mail order houses:

1. You should sell your farm products for cash, whenever you can, but not to us, we do not buy them from you.

2. You shall believe our statements and buy all you need from us because we want to be good to you although we are not acquainted with you.

3. You shall send in the money in advance to give us the chance to get the goods from the factory with your money; meanwhile you will have to wait patiently for a few weeks for that is our business method.

4. You should buy your church bells and interior church fixtures from us and forward the money in advance, for that is our business method.

5. You shall collect from the business men in your vicinity as much money as you can for the benefit of your churches. Although we get more money from you than they do, still it is against our rules to donate our money for building country churches.

7. You shall buy your tools from us and be your own mechanic from your vicinity, for we wish it so.

8. You shall often look at the beautiful pictures in our catalogue so your wishes will increase and you will send in a big order, although you are not in immediate need of the goods, otherwise you might have some left to buy necessary goods of your local dealer.

9. You shall have the mechanics that repair the goods you buy from us book the bill, so that you can send the money for his labor to us for new goods, otherwise he will notice our influence.

10. You shall believe us in preference to your local merchants.

11. You shall, in case of accident, sickness or need, apply to local dealers for aid and credit, as we do not know you.—Gd. Haven Tribune.

Notes of Sport

Independents 0, Detroit Good Lucks 0.

Last Saturday afternoon about 1000 fans witnessed one of the fastest games of baseball ever played in Holland. For eleven innings the Holland Independents, the crack local team, battled with the Good Lucks of Detroit, reputed to be one of the fastest independent teams in the country, without either side being able to register the lone tally that would have spelt victory. The game started off with vim and lots of ginger and continued so for all the innings. The fielding of both teams was gilded and sharp, the Independents registering two misplays and the Good Lucks one. The game was in reality a pitchers' battle with Shaw on the mound for the lo-cur on the Jenison park grounds at 3 p. m. But the local fans will also be given an opportunity of seeing these two rival teams meet on local grounds as the second game of the series of 5 will be played the morning of July 5 on the 19th St grounds. There has been much dispute as to the city championship during the spring and this series will settle all wrangles. While the Independents are undoubtedly the fastest bunch in fielding the ball and play a more scientific game than their opponents, the Interurbans are banking on their hitting. For dope fiends not much material is on hand. Such as rely on the dope have the respective records made against the Good Lucks of Detroit to guide them. This team early in the season defeated the Interurbans to the tune of 13 to 5.

MAKING GOOD WITH PITTSBURG.

"Jap" Barbeau, the diminutive infielder, has been holding down the third sack for the Pittsburg team so far this season and the showing he has made has won the hearts of the "Pirate" fans. This is his second experience in the major leagues, having been given a trial by Cleveland two seasons ago.

cals and Vallard doing the twirling stunts for the visitors. Shaw allowed seven hits and fanned 7 of the Good Lucks while Vallard held the locals to 5 hits and made 13 of the local batters fan the zone. During the whole game but three men were lucky enough to reach the third sack, the Independents turning the trick twice, once in the fifth and again in the ninth, while the visitors succeeded only in the tenth. Vander Hill's fielding at short, TeRoller's pegging to bases and Shaw's phenomenal twirling were the features from the local point of view. For Detroit the pitching of Vallard, the catching of Mohr and the work of Comstock on third brought forth the applause of the fans. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11

Next Saturday the Holland Independents and the Interurbans will begin the struggle for the city championship. The first contest will oc-while they were unable to score a victory over the Independents. The games are bound to be fast and all fans who enjoy a fast game should be out to see this series.

Thanks to the initiative and untiring efforts of Geo. Lage, the 13th street druggist and one of the liveliest base ball fans in Holland, the 19th street grounds are supplied with two bleachers able to accommodate 400 people. Mr. Lage began a subscription list among the local business men and soon had raised the necessary sum. The fine new bleachers and back stop on the public play grounds will long stand as a monument to Mr. Lage's efforts and the generosity of the local business men.

The Holland's played a brilliant game of ball Saturday and defeated the fast team at Bangor by the score of 6 to 4. Hendriks of Zeeland pitched for Bangor while Steffens and Rinkus pitched for the locals. The Hollands found Hendriks for seven safe hits while Bangor received three off Steffens and two off Rinkus. Batteries: Steffens Rowan, Rinkus, Dick, Hendriks and Grimes.

TO RISE IN BUSINESS LIFE.

Some Few Essentials Must Be Kept in Mind, and One of These Is Advertising.

A man may have several carloads of ability. He may have brains and ideas and other desirable things. But all the ideas ever "Ideated" will not avail to raise a man who neglects that all important item of advertising. You simply must get attention. Of course, you can get attention by firing off a revolver during office hours, or you can do it by wearing loud clothes and proclaiming your kinship in the sporting fraternity. But most men who have risen from the ranks have carefully neglected to use methods of this kind.

Every office man must act as his own salesman. He must first prepare himself by increasing his efficiency. He must be able to do the work for which he is hired. Not only should he do that for which he is hired, but he must do that work better than it ever was done before. When that item has been attended to it is then time to look about for more work.

The wise employe will keep his eye on the job ahead, or, better still, will look at a job which does not exist, but which should exist for the good of the business. The next step is to think out a selling talk that will get the attention, arouse the interest, create a desire, and bring about in the mind of the employer a desire to do what the live employe desires him to do.—The Bookkeeper.

WAS NOT STRENUOUS WORKER

Youth Forced to Confess That His Duties Were Not What Might Be Called Arduous.

The son of a rich father quit college a few weeks ago—he was in love, he explained, and couldn't keep his mind on his books. He wanted to go to work and make a place for himself in the world. So his father got him on the payroll of a bank in which he was a director. The young man's sweetheart—in her second year at Vassar—kept writing him how proud she was over his independence and asking just what position he held so she could tell the other girls. The young man side-stepped the question as to his prominence in the bank's organization, until, finally, his intended wrote him a peppery letter, saying that if he didn't give her the information by return mail she would be real angry. Then, after much thinking, the youth wrote her this:

"I've wanted all along to tell you about my position and would have done so before had I known myself. About all I do here is to raise a window when I come in the morning and put it down when I leave in the afternoon. The rest of the time I read or watch the others work. I don't know just what you could call my job. Better tell the girls that I'm the draught clerk. That will come the nearest to describing my duties."

Where Caesar Crossed Thames.

Where did Julius Caesar cross the Thames? This sounds like one of the questions set by staid old examiners in search of information they failed to acquire in their youth. There are perhaps as many places claiming to be the site of the famous fording as there were claiming to be the birthplace of Homer. This week Brentford has stolen a march on other places and has erected a monument commemorating Caesar's crossing of the Thames there! Most historians and topographers agree in placing the point of crossing at Hallford at a point known as Cowey (i. e., Causeway) Stakes, and but little support is found for the Brentford theory. To many people a monument is the most convincing of evidence, and though there is little tradition to support the Brentford column, that column will no doubt serve to strengthen the tradition.—London Chronicle.

A Few Suggestions.

To the man who ate too much duck and suffered indigestion thereby, we suggest that he consult a quack doctor.

The man who marries a grass widow must not expect necessarily to live in clover.

Even if you are an Englishman, don't think that "ugging" is "armless. It's 'armful.

Says a poet, "If misfortune overtakes you, smile." Very good advice, but suppose that misfortune overtakes you in a strictly prohibition town?

Never carry your civic pride too far, like the Minneapolis congregation which rose and left the church one Sunday because the minister took his text from St. Paul.—Bohemian Magazine.

As Dr. Johnson Said It.

George Augustus Sala's eloquent testimony to the superiority of English viands reminds us of Dr. Johnson's outburst after examining a French menu.

"Sir," said he to the faithful Boswell, "my brain is obfuscated with the perusal of this heterogeneous conglomeration of bastard English, ill-spelt and a foreign tongue. Bid the rascals bring me a dish of hog's puddings, a slice or two from the upper cut of a well roasted sirloin and two apple dumplings."

Up to the Minute.

Mrs. Parvenue—I don't think much of those cheap cars; my husband has an imported one.

JOHN HAY'S SENSE OF HUMOR

Statesman Was Exceptionally Gifted in This Respect, According to Biographer.

Few of our public men have had a more delicate or delicious humor, coupled in an unusual way with a keen and cutting wit. We are fortunate in the preservation of so many of his addresses. Speaking of his frequent opportunities for talking in England, Mr. Hay wrote to a friend: "You never saw a people so willing and eager to be bored as these blessed John Bulls. If I were of the Neronic type, which takes delight in human anguish, I could make a speech every night the year round, but I refrain—being merciful and lazy."

Of a candidate for the presidency, he said: "There seems no limit to his eager credulousness. . . . He seems able to believe anything—all he asks is that it shall be incredible." The man's party he characterizes as a "fortuitous concourse of unrelated prejudices."

Describing a collection of sacred relics gathered by Philip II., he playfully writes: "With the exception, perhaps of Cuvier, Philip could see more in a bone than any man who ever lived. In his long life of osseous enthusiasm he collected 7,421 genuine relics—whole skeletons, odd shins, teeth, toe-nails and skulls of martyrs—sometimes by a miracle of special grace, getting duplicate skeletons of the same saint."—"Castilian Days," Charles C. Moores, in Putnam's Magazine.

MEDICAL MEN IN BIG SUPPLY

America Is Credited with Almost Twice the Number That Supplies European Wants.

One of the medical journals recently announced that the number of physicians was decreasing. It admitted that there was no immediate prospect of a noticeable dearth of doctors, but it suggested, to put it plainly, that there was danger of young men being scared off the medical field "by the constantly increasing requirements for admission to the medical schools."

Now comes another lot of statistics which shows that the doctors in the United States numbered 154,000 in 1910, versus 132,000 by the United States census of 1900, giving, with the increased population, an increased clientele a doctor from 572 to 594. In Europe, says the Post-Graduate, experience has shown that one physician can care for 1,000 of the general population, and it is estimated that, even with more stringent requirements to diminish their ranks, it will be past 1949 before a proportion is reached which is being deemed normal. We are over 35 years in advance of the natural requirements, which means not only individual average suffering for the profession, but also a serious economic problem for the country.

Duties of Oldtime Carvers.

At the formal banquet of the sixteenth century the man who carved the meat was bound with the red tape of precedent. When carving for distinguished guests he had to remember that certain parts of the birds or meat must be set aside. In carving for his lord and lady he was expected to exercise great discretion in the size of the pieces he sent around, "for ladies will be soon angry and their thoughts soon changed, and some lords are soon pleased and some not, as they be of complexion." He was expected to have the rules both of the kitchen and the peerage at his knife's end. A pike, for instance, must be dished up whole for a lord, and in slices for commoner folk. The rank of his diners, too, determined whether a pig was to be served up whole, sliced, plain or with gold leaf, or whether new bread or bread three days old should be eaten.

Suez Once a Natural Channel.

There is every reason to believe that some 3,000 years ago, in the time of King Solomon, there was an open channel through Suez, by which the light draft vessels of the Phoenicians passed through on their voyages to Asia and to the gold regions of Ophir, which are now known to be in Africa, and reached from the east coast of that continent. In the course of time the two seas (the Mediterranean and the Red), by action of the waves, filled up the connecting channel, and so it remained until it was opened by the French under De Lesseps for traffic November 17, 1869, at a cost of about $85,000,000. It was subsequently enlarged at moderate cost.

His Dilemma.

Customer (nervously)—I want a beefsteak to take home to dinner. Unexpected guest, you know. Wife telephoned me to get the steak. Jane always buys the meat herself, you see, and she's awfully particular. What have you got?

The Butcher (encouragingly)—Well, wot do you say to a nice juicy porterhouse, cut thick; or maybe you'd prefer a couple o' cuts of tenderloin?

Customer (still more nervously)—Well, I'm blest if I know which. Say, you couldn't lemme have a couple o' samples to take home an' show her, could you? It's only a half dozen blocks from here.

Confidence of Genius.

"You say your dirigible balloon is a success?"
"Yes," answered the inventor.
"But it came down to the earth with a terrible bump."
"True. But it hit very close to the spot I was aiming at."

SIZE OF BUT LITTLE MOMENT

The Most Deadly and Destructive Foes of Mankind Are of Minute Proportion.

In one of Herbert Wells' brilliant stories the terribly scientific and practically invincible Martians who have invaded the earth and conquered England are stopped in the midst of their victories and utterly destroyed by the attacks of microscopic foes. Infinitely small organisms, germs of diseases to which man has become in some degree immune, slay the wonderful warriors of a planet never invaded by these earth foes. What the greatest battleships and the heaviest guns could not do the unseen and unknown living seeds of death accomplish.

More clearly every day the world understands that in the life and affairs of mankind the most deadly and destructive foes are extremely small. All of the fierce mammals and poisonous serpents of Africa do not kill as many human beings in ten years as the tsetse fly slays in one. The tigers and cobras of India kill their thousands every year, but the rats which spread the germs of the bubonic plague destroy their tens of thousands. In this country the common house fly undoubtedly causes more deaths than all the venomous snakes, wild beasts, mad dogs, runaway horses and all-tempered bulls, ten times over. The actual proportion is probably much higher than ten to one.

TROUBLE FOR BOYISH KNIGHT

Unfeeling Police Officer Arrested Youth in the Act of Kissing Away Sweetheart's Tears.

It's a pity a boy can't kiss away his sweetheart's tears without a big, unsympathetic policeman taking them both to the children's court, the New York Evening Telegram says.

Any fellow would have acted just as Jacob Kinsler did, especially if he was as fond of his sweetheart as Jacob is of Susie Stahl. Jacob is a manly little chap of 15 and Susie, two years his junior, is one of the prettiest little girls on the east side.

"We wasn't regular kissing," explained Jacob. "I'll tell you how it was. A boy nearly twice as big as I am came along and slapped Susie and she began to cry."

"Why didn't you tackle him?" asked the court.

"He was too big for me to lick, and I let him go. But I did the next best thing. Susie was crying somepin fierce, and I just grabbed her and was kissing away her tears when the cop came along and said I was violating the law. I didn't know what he meant, and as Susie kept on crying I kept on kissing. Then the cop stepped up."

"You and Susie may go now," said the court to Jacob. "The next time she cries give her your handkerchief when you see a cop coming."

A Quaint Tract.

A quaint tract entitled "Woe to Drunkards," being a sermon by Samuel Wald, preacher, of Ipswich, was printed in London in 1627. The preacher based his remarks upon Proverbs xxiii, 29-32 ("Look not thou upon the wine when it is red," etc.), and illustrated his arguments by examples from various parts of the kingdom of "God's judgments on drunkards." Among other instances he quotes the following one from Tenby: "At Tenby, in Pembroke-shire, a drunkard being exceedingly drunke broke himself all to pieces off an high and steep rock in most fearful manner, and yet the occasion and circumstances of his fall so ridiculous as I think not fit to relate, lest in so serious a judgement I should move laughter of the Reader."

The Backwoods School.

Poor old schoolhouse, long since become scattered ashes! Poor little backwoods academicians, driven in about sunrise, driven out toward dusk! Poor little tired backs with nothing to lean against! Poor little bare feet that could never reach the floor! Poor little droop-headed figures, so sleepy in the long summer days, so afraid to fall asleep! Long, long since, little children of the past, your backs have become straight enough, measured on the same cool bed; sooner or later your feet, wherever wandering, have found their resting places in the soft earth; and all your drooping heads have gone to sleep on the same dreamless pillow, and there are sleeping.—James Lane Allen.

Accounting for It.

Outgoing heads of the government departments sometimes make a few "personal" promotions upon the eve of their departure, and a clerk in the department of agriculture, believing that Secretary Wilson would go the way of the rest of the Roosevelt cabinet, ventured to approach him with a little plea for special recognition. "I have been in the department since the time you were first made secretary, sir," the clerk began. "I know it—I know it," the secretary said, waving him away. "Every one knows I am a very patient and considerate man."—Harper's Weekly.

Expelled for Cause.

Mrs. Dorcas—Why did you expel her from the Women's club?

Mrs. Learned—She proposed a motion that, instead of engaging a professor of Hindu philosophy, we should hire some one to teach us how to get into a cab, how to sharpen a pencil and how to carry an umbrella in a crowd.

MRS. MALAPROP OF TODAY.

Modern Rival of the Famous Character That Made Richard Sheridan Famous.

In an uptown social circle it is a matter of gossip that a certain charming young woman never lets her mother out of ear shot because the older woman's conversational transports need to be continually checked. She is rich even for New York, but she outdoes all the Mrs. Malaprops in town.

When she returned from Paris last year some one asked her if she had seen the tulletries. "Why, certainly not!" she responded, drawing herself up majestically. "I've too much sense to push in where I'm not wanted, and if the tulletries had wanted us to visit them they would have called first. They didn't, did they, Carrie?" she asked, turning to her embarrassed daughter. The latter explained to her mother that the tulletries was a palace of the French kings, and that it was filled with works of art, like the Louvre. The mother thereupon rejoined: "Speakin' of works of art, you can break up all the rest if you'll only leave me the belladonna and the dying gladiolus. Did I ever tell you of the artist my daughter met in Rome? He went mad over the shape of her hand, and nothin' would do but he should make a bust of it."

The daughter had one thing to rejoice over, however, and that was that nobody this side of the Atlantic would be likely to hear of the message that she had heard her mother send to a visitor by a servant in a London hotel.

"Just tell him," she said, gazing languidly through her lorgnon at the card that had been handed her, "that he'll have to excuse me this time, as just at present I am decomposing on the sofa."—New York Press.

WHAT HE DIDN'T UNDERSTAND

Hired Man Realized That Domestic Birds Were Weather Indicators, But Couldn't See Why.

The city man on the honeysuckle-chad porch smoked and listened to the farm hand's talk. "Weather vane is wind indicators," said the farm hand, "but chickens and turkeys by orinus, is wind prophets."

"Come off," said the city man.

"Gospel truth," declared the farm hand. "In a cam, when there ain't golt' to be no wind, the birds allus roost on the tree boughs with their heads alternatin' each way—number one faces east, number two west, number three north and so on. That's a sign of cam. But supposin' there's golt' to be a strong high wind. Then they all roost, every mother's son on 'em, facin' it. Accordin' as they face, so you can prophesy the wind will blow before mornin'."

"I figger it out," said the farm hand, "that in a cam the bunch faces different ways so as to look out for danger better. But if it's golt' to blow up in the night, then they face the blow so's they can beat hang on to their perch. What I can't figure out, though, is how in the mischief they smell that wind five or six hours before it's due."

Was He Right?

An automobile stood at the curb in front of a theater. It was an imposing machine of burnished brass and crimson leather, and as its owner came out of the theater and was getting aboard one of a couple of children asked with the confidence—or maybe impudence—that goes with innocence and bare legs:

"Say, mister, drive us around the square, won't you? We ain't never been in a nautmobile."

The man paid no attention and whizzed away. Of course, children are a nuisance, but it would have been worth while, maybe, to give two small girls a memory to last them a lifetime.

And, maybe, again, got himself arrested for kidnapping.

You never can tell.—Washington Star.

Brought Her Own Potatoes.

A young German girl who has recently come to live with relatives in America, amused them exceedingly by bringing with her a large box filled full of potatoes, because she is particularly partial to them, and was told that in this country we had only the variety known as "sweet," which did not sound to her nice at all. As her potatoes sprouted on the journey, showing a decided inclination to convert themselves into flourishing vines, she was greatly comforted to find that her relatives could supply the deficiency. This German girl is astonished that, though we seem to value the potato, we do not, as in the case in her country, erect statues to Sir Walter Raleigh, who introduced the plant into Europe.

When Youth Wanes.

Old age has many definitions, and middle age more. But you may take it that you are not really an old man so long as you take an interest in your personal appearance. There is not a nurse who does not know the sign of convalescence—when the patient wants to be shaved and put a good appearance in this world. And so long as the man of 60 can take an interest in the latest tie—and tie it—he is preserving his youth.

The Sweet Girl Graduate.

Knicker—Is she conversant with history?

Bocker—Yes, her graduating thesis is to be a combination of directorate and middle ages.—New York Sun.

W. H. Cooper, a former Hope student and a well known elocutionist, is spending a few days in the city and in Muskegon. Mr. Cooper is director of the department of oratory and debate in the Upper Iowa University at Fayette, Ia. He recently declined the chair of English at the Temple College of Arizona.

Charged by his wife with knocking her down and otherwise mistreating her, Brakeman Guy Delp of the Pere Marquette was arraigned before Justice Miles yesterday on a warrant of assault and battery which she had sworn out. Delp pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for next week. In the meantime, he was released on $200 bond.

The second annual mission festival of the Reformed churches of Western Michigan will be held at Jamestown, Thursday July 29. An attractive program has been prepared which will include addresses by Dr. James Contine of Arabia, Rev. Scudgers of India, Dr. Oltmans and Rev. Peeke of Japan, Rev. Warnshuis of China, Dr. Doosker of Louisville, Ky. Rev. Joldersma of Grand Rapids and President Kollen of Hope College of this city. A male chorus and a large orchestra will furnish the music.

Last evening a social was held in the Third Reformed church in honor of Peter Gunst who is about to leave Holland for the far west where he will make his home in the future. Mr. Gunst has for many years been active in church work in the Third Reformed church. A fine program was carried out including an address by Rev. Blekink. A speech was also made by Wm. Kooiker, while on behalf of the congregation he presented Mr. Gunst with a beautiful copy of the Bible. After the program a supper was served.

From the list of creameries and cheese factories in Michigan that received an average score of 92 or better for all the butter and cheese sent to the Educational Scoring Test, for the past year, we learn that only two creameries sent a sample every month and that one of these, the Coopersville creamery had the second highest score, only falling .01 percent below the highest. A score of 92 or better for all butter or cheese sent to the test entitles the sender to a diploma from the Dairy and Food Department. The score of the Coopersville creamery was 93.54 while the highest score in the list was 93.55. Coopersville Observer.

A number of this year's graduates of the Holland Business College have accepted positions with local concerns, showing the confidence that Holland's business men have in Holland's progressive business school. Those who have accepted positions with local companies are as follows: Edna Meengs, stenographer, Holland Veneering Works, Dena Emmink, stenographer, De Pree Chem. Co.; S. Van Dort, cost clerk, Ottawa Furniture Co., Alice Koning, cashier and bookkeeper, A. Sketete; Arthur Misner, bookkeeper, G. R. H. & Co., Ry.; Artemas Grimes, bookkeeper, Holland Veneering Co. The Holland business college has a successful career extending over 15 years to vouch for its efficiency.

A divorce suit involving E. A. Vander Veen formerly proprietor of the Boston Restaurant, and his wife Susan VanderVeen was begun in the Saginaw Circuit court and referred by the judge of that court to the Ottawa commissioner Van Duren in order to facilitate the taking of evidence as most of the witnesses are Holland residents. Suit was instituted by Mr. Vander Veen the charge being cruelty, but counter charges of desertion and non-support were brought by Mrs. Van der Veen. Vander Veen asks for absolute divorce and Mrs. Van der Veen asks for separate maintenance. Attorney Carl C. Rogner appears for the plaintiff and Charles McBride represent Mrs. Vander Veen.

Every once in a while a young couple with just a little more imagination than the average mortal decide on a honeymoon trip that does not take in Niagara Falls or Yellow stone park or Sangateuck or Zealand. Curtis M. Waffle and his bride, formerly Miss Reka Shumaker of West Olive, are among those who will not follow the beaten paths of the honeymoon trip. They were married at the parsonage of Rev. D. R. Drukker and will postpone their trip until next fall when the deer season opens. Then they expect to make a hunting trip through the Northern Peninsula. The groom well known in Holland, is employed at the New Century Fishing Rod factory and the bride lives with her brother on a farm at West Olive.

Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Scott will leave July 5th for an extended trip through the West. They will visit Southern California and then go on to Seattle where they will take in the sights of the Alaska-Yukon Exposition. The doctor expects to be back for business August first.

The South Ottawa Rural Mail Carriers' association held their annual meeting Tuesday evening in Zealand to elect officers for the ensuing year. The following officers were elected: Anthony Rosbach of this city, president; G. J. A. Pessink vice-president; J. Brinkman, secretary and J. Bosch, treasurer. Executive committee, Ed Hall, G. Rutgers and B. Alward. It was further decided that J. Bosch alternate, and L. Kievit go as delegates to the State convention which will be held at Big Rapids, July 27 and 28. The next meeting will be held in this city Aug. 1.

George Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Davis, had a narrow escape from drowning yesterday, while fishing on the breakwaters at Macatawa. He fell into the lake and would have lost his life if it had not been for the timely assistance of Geo. M. Leonards Jr., of Grand Rapids. Davis had gone down for the third time when Leonard got ahold of him, having gone to his assistance in a boat. The boy was taken to shore and soon revived.

Verne Williams, who is awaiting trial on nine charges of entering and burglarizing the clothing store of Notier, VanArk & Winter, is still in the county jail at Grand Haven in default of $500 bail. He has a jail record and was out on parole at the time of his last escapade. He has claimed persistently that he was not 16 years old, in which case he could be arraigned only in the juvenile court, but the records were looked up and it was shown that he was older than 16, so it was decided to take action against him in circuit court.

TYPICAL OF NEW YORK LIFE.

Idea for Picture Postal Cards That Would Show Outsiders Just What Is the "Real Thing."

"I have a new idea for a picture postal card," said the tired-looking man. "I'd make it to represent the interior of an uptown flat. There ought to be millions of them on the market. They would sell. Every day people living here are asked by out-of-town acquaintances to send them postals descriptive of New York life. There are hundreds of such cards for sale, but none of them gets right down to the very marrow of metropolitan conditions. It takes a flat to do that.

"Even persons who are perfectly familiar with the scenes represented on picture postcards complain that they cannot recognize the places. But just transfer to a postal card a drawing of a New York flat, and there will be no mistake made as to the environment. Chuck, a lot of bandboxes under the folding lounge, jam the baby's crib bang up against the buffet, hang a lot of clothes in every corner and on the walls for drapery, stack up a lot of illustrated books on the refrigerator, and pile the piano high with a bohemian luncheon outfit and other miscellany, and there you are. Friends and acquaintances all the way from Jersey City to Timbuctoo will exclaim at once: 'That's New York, all right.'"

—New York Times.

NO MORE USE FOR ANTHONY

Saint Had Disregarded Small Girls' Appeal and Her Faith in Him Had Vanished.

There is one small girl in a New York school who has lost her faith in the saints—a faith that was implicit, says the New York Tribune. Her name is Elizabeth, and she can't learn to spell. She is always at the foot of the spelling class. She does her best to learn, but if a wrong letter can creep into a word it sneaks in when Elizabeth tries to spell that word. Tuesday she came into the class beaming, but inside of two minutes she had spelled innocent "in-ossent" and flew "fough." The teacher shook her head.

"Elizabeth, what shall I do with you?" she asked. Elizabeth looked at her with a hopeless gaze, two tears trickling down her nose.

"There ain't anything to do," she said in a tone of finality. "I did the last thing this morning. I offered St. Anthony 50 cents if he'd help me spell right, and he hasn't done it, and I've no more use for him."

Monotony Too Much for Tramps. The sheriff of Burlington county, New Jersey, has adopted a novel method of ridding his county of tramps, and, incidentally, saving a good sum of money for the taxpayers. Bean soup was the agency employed. For a long time the Burlington county jail was a favorite haven for members of the "hobo" tribe, until the sheriff began the bean soup treatment. He gave it to them at every meal, with the result that the tramps, who began to see beans and talk about them in their sleep, begged for a change in the menu. The sheriff was obdurate, however, and the result is that Burlington county has been stricken from the itinerary of all members of the "looking for work and hope I won't find it" class.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF GRACE

Dinner Went Unblessed Because Minister Refused to Compete with the Parrot.

"Speaking of parrots," said the sky pilot, "I used to visit a parishioner, a pretty widow, who owned one, and what she said to him I don't know, but he seemed to have it in for me. He picked at me every time I came into the room. The moment I entered he tucked his head, gazed at me out of one eye, and said in a soft guttural tone, 'Let us pray!' Now, of course, that's my business, praying, but you want to let up on it occasionally, especially when you are calling on a pretty widow. She taught it to him. I am certain of it. When he said it she laughed fit to kill. I thought she'd never quit laughing.

"Then, one evening, I took dinner with her. It was quite a large party and a merry one, but when dinner was served, of course she motioned me to say grace. I bowed my head with the others and was about to begin, when the parrot from the window at the other end of the room yelled sharply:

"'Amen!'

"They couldn't help laughing, of course, and I lifted my head. 'Now, look here,' I said, 'there's one thing I'm not going to do. I'm not going to compete with a parrot who leaves off so abruptly just where I am expected to begin. We'll have to eat this dinner without grace,' and we did."

TOO MUCH FOR MRS. PIGGINS

Had Come to Attend Business Meeting, and Organ Recital Was Not to Her Taste.

It was to have been a business meeting of the Ladies' Aid society, but it took some time to get down to business. Mrs. Wiggins had to tell everybody about her recovery from a recent operation for appendicitis. After she got through, it reminded Mrs. Wiggins of an operation she had undergone a few years ago for the same thing, and she told about it at considerable length.

That reminded Mrs. Bliggins of the time when she thought she had heart trouble, and went to a physician, who told her it was something else, and she would have to have an operation, and how she had it.

When she got through, Mrs. Triggins was moved to tell about an operation that had once been performed on her for something else.

At this moment Mrs. Piggins arose to go. "I thought," she explained to her hostess, who intercepted her in the hall and tried to get her to stay, "that this was to be a business meeting, but instead it seems to be an organ recital."

Desert Island Book.

"When I wish to be really educated," the A. B. lady declared, "I shall be cast away on a desert island with a Standard Unabridged dictionary. And I shall stay there till I have read it all! Think how much I'll learn—science and philosophy, and more French and German phrases than I have at my tongue's end now. And geography—and my own language—I'll have a bigger vocabulary than any author. And as for literature—do you realize how many quotations there are in a dictionary? More than you could find in a whole system of anthologies.

"They make fun of the idea of a walking dictionary. I tell you a woman who really was that wouldn't need to be signing equal-pay teachers' petitions!"

King's Costly Napkin.

Diego de Torres, the Spanish ambassador who visited the emperor of Morocco in 1547, found that knives, spoons and forks were unknown at the royal table. Each guest helped himself with his fingers and cleaned his hand with his tongue, excepting the emperor, who performed that office on the head of a black boy, whom he retained by his side in readiness. The emperor, observing the ambassador smile, asked him with what Christian kings wiped their hands at meals, and what such things were worth? "Fine napkins," replied the ambassador, "a clean one at every meal, worth a crown apiece or more."

"Don't you think this napkin much better?" said the emperor, wiping his hands again on the black boy's head, "which is worth 70 or 80 crowns?"

Draw Your Own Conclusions.

In an English school the children were asked to come prepared with the meaning of the word "bachelor" for the next lesson.

This was one little girl's confident definition: "A bachelor is a very happy man."

The teacher wanted to know more. How did the child know that?

"Father told me so!"

True Sympathy.

"You say the dog bite you?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Can you show the scar?"

"No, but I can show the dent. He bit me in the wooden leg."

"The dog is discharged. His chagrin and disappointment must be considered a sufficient punishment. Next case."

They Got Together.

"Use headwork," urged the manager of the department store.

"Yes, sir," said the salesman.

"For instance, if a lady buys some lawn it ought to be easy to sell her some hose."

SECRET COULD NOT BE KEPT

Everybody Seemed to Know That This Couple Were Newly United in Matrimony.

A Boston young man had married a Chicago girl, and they had started on their wedding tour. Despite—or perhaps because of—their studied efforts to appear like "old married folks," their fellow passengers on the railway train had no difficulty in classing them as bride and groom, and manifested their knowledge by winks, nods and grins.

An unfortunate accident to the dining car compelled the conductor to leave it on the sidetrack at a small station, and it was several hours before the train stopped for refreshments at a town where there was a restaurant near the passenger station. It was by no means a first-class restaurant, but the travelers had a first-class appetite and they swarmed into it. With some difficulty the bride and groom found seats and presently a waitress came to take their order.

"Where's your bill of fare?" asked the young man.

"We haven't any to-day, sir," she answered.

"Nor any other day perhaps?"

"No, sir."

"Well, what have you that you can recommend as being good to eat?"

"We have some nice pork and beans."

"Alfred," whispered the bride, "everybody seems to know that we have just been married, but how do you suppose this girl has found out that I am from Chicago and that you are from Boston?"—Youth's Companion.

SLEEP FOR THE SLEEPLESS.

How a French Specialist Goes to Work to Woo Slumber for His Wide-Awake Patients.

A French specialist has come to the rescue of persons afflicted with insomnia. His method is somewhat vaguely described as "lulling the wideawakes to unconsciousness much as babies are put to slumber."

"It is a perfect palace of peace that he has opened in lovely Touraine," says the Lady's Pictorial. "Here is never a disturbing sound. The silence is broken only by the absolutely monotonous and soothing tick, tick, tick of solid grandfather clocks, and the scarcely perceptible drip of unseen fountains.

"Everything is seen through a cerulean haze, everybody moves in list slippers, the air is fresh but full of faint perfume. Before the eyes of very refractory patients slowly revolve colored balls, not the smallest rose leaf being allowed to crumple in any bed, each being so designed that there is no possibility of the body growing weary. Here, in fact, the wooing of sleep has been made a positive science, and it is said no one can keep awake here, however hard he may try."

Dog's Remarkable Intelligence.

Thomas Jones, who owns a big ranch on San Juan Island, lost a collie dog last fall for nearly a month, and for several days searched the woods about his place zealously for the animal, without success. One day he tossed a bone to another collie. Instead of gnawing it, he picked it up and started for the woods. He kept turning his head, apparently to see if he was followed, and Jones concluded to follow him. The dog trotted along for about a mile and stopped at the edge of an abandoned well. He dropped the bone over the edge of the well. Jones got a ladder, climbed down and found the dog that had been lost. There was only about two inches of water in the well, but the animal would have starved to death had it not been for the other. The lost dog was in good condition, and as it had been missing 24 days the other animal must have kept it supplied with food for nearly a month.

Breaking It Gently.

An army captain, returning from India, brought with him a pair of laughing jackasses, which he entrusted to one of the sailors, Tom Finch. Alas! shipboard life did not agree with the creatures, and, in spite of all Tom's care, they pined and died. Tom was in despair.

"I daren't tell the captain!"

"Don't shirk it, mate," said his pal. "Break it to him gently. You'll find it'll be all right."

The advice seemed sound, and Tom sought the gallant captain.

"Scuse me, sir," he said. "You know them things below—what you call larfin jackasses? Well, sir, they ain't got nuffin to larf at this morning."

That Was Easy.

It was in an Italian settlement kindergarten. The children were marching like soldiers, when Giovanni suddenly stopped and called out: "George Wash—him soldier, too!" and pointed with his very dirty little hand to a picture of Washington, who, mounted on his horse, was holding his hat in his hand acknowledging the greetings of the populace.

"Why do you suppose George Washington has his hat in his hand?" asked the kindergarten, stopping to draw for the hundredth time a lesson in courtesy.

"To catch de penines," was Tony's prompt reply.—Harper's.

HELP! HELP!

"Pa—pa—where's the shoe horn, quick!"

"I don't know. What do you want the shoe horn for?"

"Ma's got stuck half-way in her new dress, and can't get it on or off."

Tommy—Please, mum, master says you'll have to pay for the milk as you get it, 'cause he ain't going to chalk up any more.

Mrs. Nogge—Well, ask your master what he's going to use instead of chalk.

THEIR RESERVATION.

Bronson—I tell you, a bald head is expensive.

Woodson—In what way?

Bronson—In many ways. For instance, when I used to go to the theater I could sit anywhere. Now I have to sit in the front row or attract attention.

NOTHING TO PAY

Hyomei is Guaranteed to Cure Catarrh or Money Back.

When you suffer horribly from catarrh and are constantly sniffling and snuffing, hawking and spitting, and doing other disgusting things, remember there is a certain cure, called Hyomei, (pronounced High-o-me), which is guaranteed to cure.

Hyomei will give joyful relief to any catarrh sufferer in five minutes and it gives remarkable relief to consumptives.

Hyomei is medicated air prepared from the extracts taken from the giant eucalyptus trees of inland Australia, where catarrh or consumption is never known.

You breathe in this healing and antiseptic air through an inhaler and this air, with its peculiar soothing properties, passing over the inflamed and germ ridden membrane (for catarrh is a germ disease) kills the germ, allays the inflammation, and in a short time completely cures the disease.

A complete Hyomei outfit, which includes a hard rubber inhaler that will last a life time, and a bottle of Hyomei, cost only $1.00 extra bottles cost 50 cents. Sold by leading druggists every where and in Holland by Walsh Daug Co., who guarantee it on the money back plan.
