TWO WOMEN MURDERED AT MUSKEGON

MUSKEGON MAN KILLS WIFE, MOTHER-IN-LAW, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

Lawrence Hill, 42, Fires Shots Fatal to Three After Futile Attempt at Reconciliation

Failing to effect a reconciliation with his wife, from whom he had been estranged six weeks, Lawrence Hill, of Muskegon Heights, 42, last night killed his wife, Rose, 40, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ella Hale, 62, and then turned his pistol on himself, dying within a few minutes.

The Hill's daughter, Margaret, 8, witnessed the shooting, which was enacted at their home on the northeast outskirts of Muskegon Heights, 813 Lethen-st.

Hill, who since his wife filed suit for divorce more than a month ago, had been rooming at 1315 Lehigh-st., Muskegon Heights, returned home about 9 o'clock and, according to the shocked, crazed daughter, made overtures for Mrs. Hill to "take him back."

Mrs. Hill declined. There followed five minutes of heated debate, at the end of which the enraged husband drew a .38 caliber revolver from his pocket.

Turning the weapon upon his wife, he shot her four times at close range. The woman, badly wounded, staggered for the door. Mrs. Hale ran to her daughter's side and Hill shot her twice. Both women then fled through the front door and onto the lawn in front.

Mrs. Hale dropped dead about six feet from the door. Hill having released his pistol, ran thru the door after his wife and shot her twice in the back as she staggered across the yard. She dropped dead about 30 feet from the house.

Returning to a bed room inside, Hill shot himself in the head. A tell-tale trail of blood showed that he did not die immediately, but managed to make his way into another bedroom. He lay dead on the bed there when Heights police and Coroner L. B. Lee arrived.

Immediately following the first fusillade of shots, the terror-stricken daughter ran from the house to the home of a neighbor. No telephone was available there, however, and it was necessary to walk two blocks before police could be notified.

Neighbors said differences between Hill and his wife had been known to exist for several months prior to their separation. The mother-in-law came to make her home with them last November and the neighbors asserted Hill blamed her for their troubles.

Mrs. Hill was strongly in favor of her mother's making her home with them, it was said, while Hill disapproved. One quarrel followed another, according to reports, until Mrs. Hill fled suit for divorce a few weeks ago. She charged cruelty. Her suit was to come up in circuit court for action next week.

A neighbor woman reported to police that she had seen Hill "sneaking" through some bushes earlier in the evening, but did not give the matter serious thought at that time.

One neighbor reported to police that Hill admitted firing his mother-in-law's home at Coopersville. The dwelling burned to the ground last Saturday.

Besides the daughter, Margaret, the Hill's two sons, George, 11, was playing with a gun in the neighborhood at the time of the shooting and Marvin, 17, was at a motion picture show.

The bodies of the three were taken to the Lee mortuary. Coroner Lee asserted no inquest would be held.

KETCHAM SALES
REPRESENTATIVE OF RESORT CO.

OTTAWA RESORT AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY ARE TO OPEN UP BRISK THIS WEEK

John Arendshorst, local realtor, states that E. L. Ketcham, a live-wire real estate man, has become associated with the Ottawa Resort and Development company, with offices in Grand Rapids at 22 Monroe Ave., and also at Holland, Michigan.

The company is handling the new Idlewood plot on Lake Michigan and all spring developments have been going on there as well as at Eaglecrest.

Mr. Ketcham states that the property there is highly restricted and the fact that a great many Grand Rapids folks are becoming interested in this property as well as Chicago and Detroit people, would indicate that resort property all along Lake Michigan north of Lakewood Farm has become thoroughly established as a place for beautiful summer homes and estates.

Mr. Arendshorst says that every lot is accessible to Lake Michigan by means of cement walks and concrete drives and water and electric light are brought to every building spot.

The officers of the company are: John Arendshorst, president; and the directors are: Edgar G. Landwehr, Joe Koelker, Otto P. Kramer, D. B. K. Van Raalte, Archie Vander Wall and John Arendshorst. E. L. Ketcham is sales manager.

There is considerable activity in resort property north of Lakewood Farm. Vander Berg Bros. of Grand Rapids, proprietors of the local furniture store, purchased the large summer home of Mrs. Bocher, north of Lakewood Farm.

David De Bruyn of Zeeland sold his summer home to Dr. D. T. Vail of Cincinnati, Ohio, who also has a home at Waukegan, Ill. Lolkier sold his home at Kildeau Beach to Nick Dykema, the tailor, while Thomas Olinger has purchased the home of Andrew Klompers at the same resort.

Members of the Colonial orchestra are also building a cottage at Idlewood, and George Albers is erecting a beautiful home at the same place.

Hub Boone and Doc Boone are erecting a cottage at Eaglecrest and Arnold Branderhorst is also completing a summer home at that place.

The county traffic officer and one of the State police are engaged in a county-wide test of brakes, working down around Zeeland, and report conditions in that section to be about the same as in this end of the county. The public are heartily in favor of this inspection and are showing it by their immediate attention to the warnings given. About one hundred cars were inspected Wednesday.

HOLLAND TO STAGE GOOD OLD VENETIAN EVENING IN AUGUST

WILL BE MOST ELABORATE IN THE HISTORY OF THE RESORTS

Dates Are August 13 and 14; Display of Fireworks and Illumination Finest Ever Shown Here

It has been several years ago that Holland and its resorts have witnessed real Venetian evening such as Charley Froy, manager of the Holland Interurban, the boat lines and the hotels at the Holland resorts staged. Those were wonderful evenings on Macatawa Bay, with the shore line illuminated for miles, yachts beautifully decorated and crisscrossed up with colored lights and with an abundant fireworks display, touched off from a big scow anchored in mid-lake.

It will be remembered that at a stated period when a signal was given, old ballads were temporarily turned into a Mount Vesuvius. This was all years ago, but the crowds that jammed every available spot on the upper bay, have never been evident since that time.

It took the greater part of a day and a night for the Interurbans to handle the crowd, but the crowd would come from year to year. Well, Holland and its resorts are to have another Venetian evening, in fact two of them, the dates are to be Friday and Saturday, August 13 and 14. The Venetian evening is to be backed up by the Holland chamber of commerce, and it is received co-operation of Grand Rapids association of commerce, is to receive the support of the Chicago Yacht club, the Ottawa Beach Yacht club, and such men as Geo. Getz, Carter Brown, Engbert Golds, Fred Pantind and others who make their summer homes here.

Holland business men are to back this project together with the transportation companies, and it is a foregone conclusion that with good weather these two days will be the biggest at the local resorts. The Holland chamber of commerce committee on Venetian evening, held a long session last night and have formed preliminary plans, and the celebration, judging from a few things promised, will be stupendous, in fact the fireworks display alone on the two evenings will be the most elaborate ever seen in Western Michigan.

Special attention is to be paid to the illumination feature, both on the shore and the lake proper. The illumination will extend from Macatawa to Waukegan on both sides of the bay. Every yacht on Black Lake is to come into the parade properly illuminated with colors and banners flying.

The hilltops will have special illuminations and Macatawa Bay will be lighted up as it has never been before.

There will be other features besides the Venetian evening feature. There are to be motorboat, sailing yacht and rowing races. There is to be a bathing beach beauty contest. One contest will be for Holland beauties only. Then there will be many aquatic sport events pulled off, in which there will be a girl contest and also a swimming contest amongst young men. There will be diving contests and all such water sports generally pulled off on an occasion of this kind.

The "land lubbers" will also have a chance, for there will be a long list of land sports. And what is more the committee says that there will be many entries for the reason that the prizes will not be cheap, but will be so attractive that contestants will come from a long distance in order to take part.

Although the actual program has not yet been arranged, these are a few of the details given out by the chamber of commerce committee, and Charles Karr one of the moving spirits stated, "The Holland Chamber of Commerce is going to put our resorts back on the map where they were some years ago," and this celebration is going to be so elaborate and so fitting and so unique that it cannot help but attract thousands to Holland and vicinity."

STRANGE LAW REGULATING FISH POLLS

ONLY ONE TO FISHERMAN, HOWEVER, FROM PIER OR BANK, MOTOR TROLLING BARRED

May Troll in Black Lake, Says Officers of the Game Department

Fishermen who are fishing from boats may use two rods, but when angling from the bank, from bridges or piers, only one rod is permissible. That is the present law, according to Chief Deputy Conservation Officer Dave Jones.

The digest of the fishing laws says that the hook and line fishing is "defined by the law to be a single line or single rod and line with hook or hooks attached, while the hook and line fishing is under immediate control, when used for still fishing." According to Deputy Jones, it is, however, o. k. to use two rods from a boat. The purpose of this undoubtedly is to permit a man who is casting to at the same time hang over a still fishing line.

Other new rules by which fishermen will be governed this year include the regulations on trolling with motorboats. With the growing popularity of outboard motors there has been a general conviction that the use of these motors for trolling on small lakes is detrimental to fishing. As a result, the rule now is that it is unlawful to troll from a motor boat "on inland lakes of the state, excepting lakes directly connected with the Great Lakes, including Elk and Torch lakes in the counties of Antrim and Grand Traverse; Pine and Round lakes, Charlevoix county; Black lake, Ottawa county; Portage lake, Manistee county; White and Muskegon lakes, Muskegon county; Glen lake, Leelanau county, and Lake St. Clair."

Under these trolling regulations the use of motors is permitted in most of the lakes in which muskellunge and Mackinaw trout are caught. These are really the only fish for which trolling, with motor is justifiable, unless perhaps the landlocked salmon of Pine lake.

Regarding still fishing from motorboats, as practiced at a number of large lakes, the digest of the fish laws says it is "unlawful to hunt waterfowl upon any floating device propelled by steam, gas, gasoline or naphtha, but this provision does not prohibit fishing from motorboats."

THOUSANDS
SPENT ON CAMP
OTTAWA BEACH

BOLHUIS LUMBER & MANUFACTURING CO., COMPLETES SEVERAL BUILDINGS

Also Lays Floors For Entire Campsite Accommodating 200 Girls

There has been considerable activity going on among the hills and woods of Ottawa Beach, at which the public knows little. However, a large force of men of the Bolhuis Lumber & Manufacturing company has been very active on the new girls' camp site, recently purchased for $20,000 by the Grand Rapids campfire girls. The camp comprises 21 acres north of Holland's new state park and the site is well covered with forest and an ideal place for a girls' camp.

Early this spring the Bolhuis Lumber & Manufacturing company was given the contract of approximately $20,000, appropriate for the purpose of erecting the necessary shelter in a camp of this kind.

One large building 36x126 feet contains the mess hall a commodious kitchen and plenty of places to lounge. This building is one story, but has high ceilings, is well ventilated, has cozy appointments and 300 girls can be accommodated at the dining tables at one sitting.

Officers' quarters have also been built by the local company, besides a building that will be utilized as a rest room, containing all the modern conveniences and sanitary conditions found in a place of this kind.

The company also laid the wooden floors for twenty-five tents, each floor being 14x14 feet. The floors are high up from the ground to avoid dampness and these are provided with hooks and other conveniences so that it is an easy matter to erect a tent quickly with enough fastenings to the floor to make it safe for the occupants.

A building has also been built to be used as a hospital in case of emergency. There is room enough in this hospital to accommodate 20 patients.

The camp is so arranged and the buildings are so erected that the entire layout makes for convenience. The tents have been arranged in street formation among the hills covered with shade.

The Grand Rapids Campfire girls formerly rented a campsite at White Lake, but while on a hike this beautiful spot at Ottawa Beach on Lake Michigan was discovered and negotiations were immediately started, and $3,000 were raised for the camp.

The girls will come from Grand Rapids in relays and in a week and two-week periods. At least 200 can be accommodated at one time.

Persons in charge of the camp will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Teal of Grand Rapids and Miss Margaret Thompson, a national field worker of Campfire girls, who will be the director of the camp.

Holland Campfire girls have also been invited to share in the recreation that this camp affords. Miss Ethel Dykstra, who has been an untiring worker in fostering the cause of the Campfire girls movement in this vicinity, states representative of the American National Red Cross, who spent Monday in Holland giving demonstrations in life saving here and in Ottawa Beach, will make an attempt to swim across the English channel in September, this year. Mr. Moreau, while here Monday, told of his plans. "I am not making any boasts or promises that I can do it," he said. "I have not and I would rather not say much about it until I either do it or fail to do it. But there is no harm in trying and I have all my lines laid to swim only ten feet. I shall be making the attempt at least. I'm going to start out and see how far I can go."

LIFE SAVER WHO WAS HERE MONDAY TO SWIM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

Mr. Moreau made a fine impression during his visit in Holland and he had encouraging audiences during all the demonstrations. In the morning he gave a lecture on life saving and in the afternoon he gave a demonstration of life saving methods in the city hall which consisted largely in a review of the various methods employed in life saving in various types of emergency.

In the afternoon, he went to Ottawa Beach and conducted a water demonstration there. There was a large attendance and much interest was shown. The fact that Holland has a sea scout contingent now increased the interest greatly. Three sea scouts passed their senior tests—Leo Peterson, Van Landegard, and Fred Steketee. Peters and Steketee have been recommended by Mr. Moreau for appointment as examiners.

In the evening a demonstration was held in the G. A. R. room of the city hall. This was perhaps the liveliest meeting of all. It was attended by members of the police and fire department and by the sea scouts. These showed such great interest in the meeting that they kept on asking questions until it was necessary for Mr. Moreau to adjourn the meeting so that he could keep up with his schedule as they might have stayed all night. Mr. Moreau was much gratified with the interest shown and he expects that next year the Red Cross will assign him to Holland for a longer period.

MASS MEETING PLANNED FOR JULY FOURTH

Grand Haven Sunday schools from nine of the churches of that city, will mass there on Sunday, July the fourth, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for a combined meeting. A large gathering is anticipated and all of the Protestant Sunday schools will be represented. A speaker from out of the city will be present and will give an address. An effort is being made to secure Paul Rader for the occasion of the day. Emphasis will be laid on the patriotic and religious aspect of the day "with special emphasis on the religious side," according to those in charge of the program.

The combined orchestra of the Methodist, Second Reformed and Congregational Sunday schools will furnish the music for the occasion and hymns and patriotic songs will be sung by the Sunday school members and the audience. This will be one of the biggest patriotic-religious demonstrations ever held in the city and will assemble the two more closely than ever.

BROTHER OF MURDERED MAN IS SUPERVISOR

A feeling of sadness permeated the Muskegon board of supervisors' room at the opening of the June session Monday, when Carl Franke took his seat as supervisor from the Lake township. The appearance of Mr. Franke brought back to the supervisors' minds the murder of August Krubaech, supervisor, his daughter, Jeanette, and his fiancée, William H. Franke, a brother of Carl.

The youthful, almost boyish looking supervisor, was welcomed by his fellow members. He is the "baby" member of the board, being 25 years of age. Mr. Franke was serving as treasurer of the township, but he reluctantly consented to resign that position and receive the appointment of supervisor to succeed Mr. Krubaech. Although he took his seat Monday for the first time, Mr. Franke has been active since his appointment and has impressed county officials by his ability.

Chairman J. R. Davidson planned to name a committee to draft resolutions covering the death of Mr. Krubaech. Mr. Franke will be named to the committee appointments held by Mr. Krubaech.

MISSION FEST PLANS MADE

The mission fest for Holland, Holland and vicinity will be held at Zeeland this year, Wednesday, July 28. The committee has drawn up a program and is working out details. Arrangements are being made to secure the following speakers: Rev. J. L. Read from Detroit, Okla., Rev. M. P. Phipps from Los Angeles, Calif., Dr. L. P. Jones from Arabia, Rev. H. Bellman from China, Dr. E. D. Diment will present the cause of education. Other features of the program will be band music, community singing, and a few special attractions. The completed program will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Kolyn of Zeeland City, Ia., are guests of Mr. Kolyn's mother, Mrs. M. Kolyn, 66 West Thirteenth street.

TWO MASHERS CAUGHT BY LOCAL POLICE

Mashers are busy again teasing girls to go riding in automobiles. Adler, Nielsen and John Diepenhaug, both of Saugatuck, paid $10.00 in Justice Den Herder's court, pleading guilty to a mashing charge.

Officer Bontekoe noticed the men making advances to girls as they were coming from church, on River Ave. and 16th street. He immediately gathered them in and they paid the usual fine Monday.

MORE FACTORY LEAGUE MEN FOR INDEPENDENTS

Manager Te Roller has scheduled three games for Holland on Saturday of this week and on the 5th of July. On Saturday at 3:15 the Roosevelt Parks of Grand Rapids are coming here and at that time either Hyma or Boerman of the factory league will be tried out on the mound. Both of these pitchers have shown up well in their own team, and Spriggs enlisting them in the service of the Independents again shows the tendency to keep the Independents strictly a local player team.

Monday, July 5, when the 4th of July will be celebrated, Riverview Park will be a busy place. The Holland Independents will meet J. Elsters' colored athletes of Grand Rapids, and in the afternoon a Grand Haven team is coming down together with 500 rooters and will tackle Holland's team. Grand Haven has been without a real ball team for some time but this year they have been priming up for Holland, and the same friendly spirit of rivalry is evident as when high school basketball teams play the Grand Havenites.

The Grand Haven fans are already talking what they will do to Holland on Monday afternoon.

This is a word of warning to those surf bathers who find their greatest exhilaration in swimming where the biggest waves break over their heads, or where they can leap as a giant breaker comes rolling in and ride its crest until it breaks and deluges its rider in a mass of seething foam and bubbles. If you are one who enjoys this exciting experience, be on your guard not to get caught in the treacherous undertow that follows, and which every season claims as its victims many strong and expert swimmers.

While there are very few ocean bathers who know just what an undertow is, you have no difficulty in feeling this submerged flow as you stand in the surf. Sand is constantly washing over your feet as it goes out. The chief danger of an undertow is that it can wash you down unexpectedly, and should a breaker unexpectedly and before you can take a breath, the danger of your strangling on water is real.

Sticks and floating objects when pounded by waves always drift shorewards. This shows the direction of the top currents. Sand and gravel and all submerged objects always roll from shallow into the deeper water. Currents flow inward on the surface and outward beneath the surface and it is this submerged current that is called an undertow. There is always an undertow in water such as this, flowing from shallow into deep water.

Waves in water are of what scientists call the "trichoidal variety." The fluid composing them oscillates in small orbits. Individual particles of water revolve in circles or ellipses as the waves pass over; the too flows upward, the rear downward, the front upward, and the bottom backward.

When all the particles of water are thus vibrating, as they do under the stimulation of a wind, the trains of waves are set in motion. The orbit of small waves is small, that of large waves is larger. As one might expect the currents in large waves are strong. Waves do not extend to any considerable depth beneath the surface of the water, a few fathoms at most. They break only when their bases drag on the bottom.

As waves approach a shelving shore they enter constantly shallowing water. Their submerged portions rub more and more upon the bottom: their free forward moving tops thrust too eagerly forward, they crowd top-heavy and now over forward as a white roll of foam. Low waves break far out because their bases touch the bottom first, smaller waves come closer in shore.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Koster and family have left for a 6 week's visit to St. Louis Center, Ia., and Harrison, S. D.

TEACHERS AND OFFICERS MEET

The teachers and officers of the Sunday school of the Sixth Reformed church held their quarterly business meeting Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Van Voorst, East 16th street. Rev. J. H. Bruggers gave a talk on "The Sunday School and the Teachers." A duet was given by Mrs. S. Plaggenhoef and Mrs. F. Newhouse, and a quartet by these two and H. Slager and Joe Grevengood.

RAID RESULTS IN ARREST ON LIQUOR CHARGE

The sheriff's department together with the state police made a raid Saturday night on the home of Ray Conklin of Ferrysburg upon allegations that he had sold on that day a pint of liquor to two young men of Grand Haven, Fred Ennenga and Frank Coates. This transaction is said to have taken place in the rear of Conklin's house. On Sunday morning a warrant was issued for search of the premises and the officers again went to Ferrysburg. They went through the house and in the back yard claim to have found concealed in the tall grass three pints of whiskey. Conklin was brought to Grand Haven, arraigned in Justice Dickinson's court for the sale and possession of liquor. He demanded an examination and a hearing was set for July 8th. Bond was fixed at $500, which he produced.

LOCAL COUPLE ARE MARRIED IN THE WEST

Announcements have been received in Holland of the marriage of Ray Conklin of Ferrysburg, in Wichita, Kansas, of James C. Ottipoby and Miss Lucille Vandewater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Vandewater. The marriage is the culmination of a romance that began several years ago when Mr. Ottipoby was a student at Hope college and Miss Vandewater was employed in the office of the Holland Furnace company. She attended Hope college for a year or two.

Mr. Ottipoby, who was one of the most popular students at the local institution and a star baseball player, graduated from Hope in 1925. The next year he became a student at the Western Theological seminary but during the year an opportunity came to become teacher in English and history as well as coach at the American Indian Institute in Kansas. This institute prepares Indian boys for Christian leadership, the work carrying the pupils through the 12th grade. Mr. Ottipoby has made a very fine record since taking that position and he seems destined to make a name for himself in his chosen work.

CLEAN UP BLIGHT IN APPLES, PEARS, SAYS CO. AGENT

The Allegan county agent has decided to emphasize the importance of cleaning up the blight on apples and pears. There is one orchard that was very bad this last year. The blight was cleaned up very carefully and the agent has only been able to find two small blighted twigs this year, showing this work can be done so well in one year as to practically eliminate it from the entire orchard. Orchardists are asked to notice the blight is traveling this year. Very seldom are there two years in succession that it attacks the blossoms but such is the case this year and last. One special case where it shows that one canker on the side of the prevailing wind had practically ruined the entire tree and had hit quite seriously the tree in the next row of the same side. This showed it is spread seemingly by the wind and was the result of one bad canker.

Do not cut blight this summer but make plans to clean up late in the fall and next spring. The Allegan county agent advises.

The building will be of fireproof construction with brick and stone exterior and will cost approximately $100,000. The Deyerman company has been selected as architects.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Fansler spent Sunday with friends and relatives in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph.

TOURIST TREK HAS BEGUN IN EARNEST NOW

Western Michigan over the past week-end began to act as host to many thousands of tourists who annually make a pilgrimage over M-11 and other state trunk lines and to the many extra thousands who are expected to make this the biggest tourist and resort season the state has ever seen.

With the removal of the two greatest retarding factors, the weather and the schools, which waves far held up the real opening of the highways, the highways throughout Western Michigan are lined with carloads of people heading north from states throughout the Middle West to their cottages, to tourists camps in Michigan, the great summer-resort state.

While the official opening of a number of the larger resorts from South Haven on the south to Mackinaw City on the North will not be held until the week end of July 4 and 5, the early birds put their blankets and cooking utensils in the back of the car or in the luggage carrier and were swarming over the roads in droves both Saturday and Sunday.

Residents of Western Michigan cities, too, who have cottages on Lake Michigan or smaller lakes with outlets into Lake Michigan, have begun to move their families out following the close of school. Far into the night and early mornings of the past week-end, carloads of tourists and families driving through to their northern Michigan cottages for the summer could be seen on the highways. Steamship lines, railways and bus lines also felt the increase in the number of passengers carried.

Residents of Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and other cities through out the Middle West who have been interested in the real estate activity on Lake Michigan and inland lake frontage during the past six months of winter and spring are coming up to see the property they have purchased or would like to purchase without its covering of white snow. Other just hearing of the activity are curious to know what it is all about and are driving up just to see. If they are pleased it is probable that they will buy or try to buy a piece of lake frontage upon which to build their summer home.

In fact, continued fair weather is said to be the only necessary factor for making the summer of 1926 the greatest in vacation activities ever experienced by the state.

SUMMER CLASSES TO VISIT POINTS OF INTEREST

Sight-seeing trips to points of interest in Michigan and Northern Indiana are among the new attractions for summer students at Western State Normal school at Kalamazoo. More than 2,000 are expected for the six weeks' term. Student picnics, a student baseball league and special lectures and entertainments also have been arranged. Among the lecturers is Peppino Garibaldi, grandson of the great Italian liberator, himself a World War hero. Addresses will be given also by Cora Wilson Stewart of Kentucky, nationally known for her war against illiteracy among the mountaineers; Joy Borgan, editor of the Journal of Education and C. H. Judd, dean of the University of Chicago School of Education.

The sight-seeing trips include excursions to Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Three Oaks and Niles and their historic environs, the dunes country in Northern Indiana; the state prison at Jackson; the state capital, and the state university; also Ypsilanti and Detroit.

PEACH CROP TO BE LARGEST IN MANY YEARS

Michigan peach growers have in prospect the largest peach crop they have harvested since 1922. A trip through the peach sections of the state will convince one of this fact. H. D. Hoodman, extension agent in horticulture of Michigan State college said.

Reports from competent peach growing states indicate that the crop in sight will be from one-fourth to one-half larger than the crop of 1925. Indiana predicts the largest crop they have produced for ten years. New York and Ohio have in prospect crops from 20 to 50 per cent larger than those of last year. Illinois, whose peach crop goes on the market just ahead of Michigan's, has in prospect a crop over twice as large as any produced during the past ten years.

The government reports of the bureau of agricultural economics intimate that the peach crop for the U. S. will exceed that of last year by 12,000,000 bushels. Should these forecasts be true, the peach markets will be well supplied with peaches. Judging from the history of well supplied markets, only large, clean, well graded and well packed fruit will sell at a profitable price.

A thorough thinning of the peach crop can not be too earnestly recommended. When peaches are scarce any grower who has a good crop can usually secure a good price for his fruit; but in years of a big crop, such as the present promises to be, it is the grower who produces high quality fruit that makes the most money and finds it the least trouble to sell his fruit.

A marriage license has been issued in Allegan county for Roaco Leigh Funk, 30, Bravo, and Julia Francis Whipple, Saugatuck.

Hope Graduate Dies in the West

Word was received in Holland by relatives announcing the death of J. H. Brockmeier at his home in Pasadena, California. Mr. Brockmeier is a graduate of Hope college. He was for many years a prominent resident of Grand Rapids where he was in business. For some time he had lived in retirement in Pasadena. He was about 63 years old. The deceased is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Dena Bosman of Holland, one daughter, and three sons.

OTTAWA HENS DO WELL IN CONTEST

The highest scoring bird from Ottawa county in Michigan egg laying contest laid her 50th egg on June 19th. As the contest is for 51 weeks this bird has 127 days to lay 100 eggs to make a record of three hundred eggs. This bird was entered by Hillcroft Poultry farm, Coopersville. Other birds over 175 eggs to date include J. F. Pater & Son, 196-178-175; J. & T. Elhart, 187-178; Grandview Poultry Farm, 187-177; Silverward Hatchery 183; Superior Poultry Farm 178 and J. D. Wyngarden 178-176. C. D. Wyngarden's pen is the highest from Ottawa county with a production of 153 eggs. His high bird has laid 174 eggs. A moist wash once a day is being fed the contests birds to assist in maintaining production and retarding moult. The average production to date is 133 eggs per bird. It is expected that the average will be nearly 200 eggs per bird.

DIES AT AGE OF TWENTY-ONE

Mrs. Julius Neerken, aged 21, who before her marriage was Miss Emma Vanden Berg, passed away at the home her parents Monday night after a lingering illness of many months. She is survived by her husband and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Vanden Berg, and three brothers and one sister. Friends will be given an opportunity to view the remains Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the residence, 20 W. 27th St., Rev. F. J. Van Dyk officiating.

STATE HOLDS SUPERVISION OVER SCHOOLS

The school building is rapidly coming to be considered the most important center in Michigan communities, according to Wilford L. Coffey of Lansing, deputy state superintendent of public instruction, in direct charge of school building plans and specifications.

Under the present law, in order that school buildings and their equipment may conform to the best known plans for health, comfort and most efficient instruction, the state department of public instruction must investigate and approve plans for all public school buildings and equipment requiring over $3000 expenditure.

"We try to have the school architect arrange plans in such a way that nothing will be left undone to make the building the most healthful place for children to work, and a place that will be an inspiration to the best school work, so that the people will be satisfied with nothing less than the best that can be obtained with the appropriation available," Coffey explained.

State supervision of the building does not entail additional expenditure by the school district, he said. In some cases he declared the state department has actually reduced the cost by several thousand dollars, cutting out fancy adornment planned by local boards and emphasizing practicality and utility for school purposes.

Plans for school buildings, heating plants and other equipment are examined by the department for the following qualities:

1. Adequate size. 2. Ornamentation of building. 3. Freedom of noise and odors. 4. Suitability of site. 5. Safety from traffic. 6. Reasonable centralization. "The policy of the department of public instruction is to get the best possible school for the money expended," Coffey said. "We attempt to eliminate everything detrimental to the best school program and to incorporate those which contribute to the best results."

B. Van Heuvelen and daughter Jeanette and Heuvelen of Huron, South Dakota, are visiting friends in the city. Mr. and Mrs. R. Tromp have moved to their cottage at Maple Beach. They report Lake Michigan fine for swimming at present.

LICENSE SALE IS INDICATION OF INCREASE

The figures coming from the county clerk's office relative to the number of licenses being issued for the drivers of Ottawa County are indicative of the rate that the automotive business of this county is increasing. The highways are each year seeming to be more filled and the evidence of this record go to show that pleasure cars are increasing at a great rate as are the commercial cars.

This year the office of the secretary of state issued an edict that two classes of licenses would be issued, one for the pleasure car, and up to July first with seven months of the fiscal year gone there had already been issued as many pleasure car licenses as there were for combined pleasure and business cars last year. Last year in corresponding time there had been ten thousand licenses issued. This year ten thousand licenses for pleasure cars alone had been sold while one thousand seven hundred and ninety commercial licenses had gone out.

This shows an advance of nearly eighteen hundred cars. This is a pretty strong increase in seven months and while the spring of the year always shows the big figures, there is a steady demand almost every day for plates on new cars being put in commission, which by the end of the year will mount into very interesting figures.

The demand for cars is always present and the saturation point predicted so long ago by many who thought they were in touch with the automobile business, has never seemed to be reached. It has no limits seemingly and the automotive dealers in this section of the state all report big sales in some instances phenomenal sales this spring.

EXPERT GOLFERS PLAY HERE ON THURSDAY

An unusually interesting golf match is to be staged at the Holland country club Thursday afternoon and what is more, the public is invited to see this match. The match will be between Pat Thomas and C. J. Folly, of Grand Rapids, and J. Frank Whelan and A. A. Tansey, of Holland.

The ability of Mr. Whelan and Mr. Tansey is well known, and both Mr. Folly and Mr. Thomas are noted throughout the state for their ability in making long drives.

Mr. Whelan has won many championships out east and he has often won the cup given annually by the Holland country club here.

No doubt Thursday afternoon quite a gallery will follow the players over the course, and citizens of Holland will find themselves most welcome on that afternoon.

BUSY ON THE ROAD WORK IN NORTH OTTAWA

The Ottawa County road work is at present being concentrated on the Spring Lake road leading from the Fruitport to the corner of the east side of Spring Lake. The grading is about done and cement and gravel are being hauled by means of trucks. This necessitates about twenty trucks running and the equipment.

Carl Bowen county engineer, stated that if the drivers could possibly go to Fruitport and vicinity by way of the new road on the west side of the lake they would find it much to their convenience.

This road has a turn that makes it back for the dumping and while it will not block it off entirely it is recommended by the road department to go the other way.

The cars going to the Handley tea Wednesday will be carefully looked after and arrangements are made to accommodate all cars coming through for this event.

The stretch put in by the Muskegon county is completed and now the work is starting from the other end and will connect with the part completed due to the better facilities for handling the gravel.

The only time the road will be completely shut off from the public is when going over the swamp and low place just before passing the interurban crossing. The pavement through the village of Spring Lake is patched by order of the state which will make it passable for the balance of the season. Just what will be the final disposition of the state on the entire job has not yet been decided.

DECKHAND DIES IN ODD MISHAP ON BOARD FERRY

A deckhand on Ann Arbor ferry No. 4, whose surname was said to be Turnerbeck, was killed early Sunday in a dock accident at Elberta. Sheriff Ernest B. Judson of Benzie county has been advised.

The sailor was reported to have been standing on the edge of the slip while two cars were being unloaded. One of these jumped the tracks as it rolled onto the slip and Turnerbeck leaped backward to escape being crushed under its wheels. His head struck a beam which protruded from the side of the dock, breaking his neck. He was believed to have been dead when he finally struck the water.

The deckhand's home was said to be in Manitowish, Wis., where he leaves a wife and three small children. He was about 30 years old.

MORE MANUFACTURING PRODUCTION IN HOLLAND

The Pere Marquette weekly press sheet states that in the Grand Rapids territory of the road there is a 10 per cent greater output and movement of freight than for the corresponding week last year. About 400 dealers have already visited the Furniture Dealers Market, and the buying so far has been conservative. Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Holland, Traverse City, Petoskey, Grand Haven and Ionia, in this territory, each shows better production records than for the corresponding period last year.

PESSINK AND LUIDENS THE FIRST POSTAL CARRIERS

Thursday will mark the 25 anniversary of the establishment of rural free delivery from the Holland postoffice.

Two routes were established with Gerrit J. A. Pessink and Maurice Luidens as the first carriers. The number of routes since has increased to 12. Pessink and Luidens left the service many years ago, although Luidens is again serving as substitute on one of the routes.

Anthony Rosbach is the oldest rural letter carrier in years of service connected with the Holland postoffice, having served 24 years. Other veterans include Lambertus Tisholt, A. A. Parson and Gerrit Rutgers, who have served for 21 years. John Brinkman has served 19 years.

"The rural service has been a great factor in road improvement," said Rosbach in reviewing his career. "When I first started delivering mail there was not a foot of improved road, while today many miles of excellent roads are found in Ottawa and Allegan counties. The carriers of the Holland postoffice made a campaign for good roads several years ago and got results."

"Twenty years ago an ordinary mail pouch would hold the mail of the heaviest route," said Rosbach, "while today oftentimes an automobile load is the order."

All the carriers now use automobiles most of the year.

MUSKEGON LANDMARK IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

A two and one-half story frame building, a landmark of the lumbering days, located on the main street, Western ave., Muskegon, was gutted by fire early Tuesday.

The blaze gained considerable headway and for a time threatened to spread to other buildings along the thoroughfare. The entire fire department was called out. The property is owned by the Stephen H. Clink estate, and was empty at the time.

Frank Curry reported, however, that the door of one of the stores on the first floor was open, giving rise to the belief that the fire was started by a "fire-bug". The salvage value of the building was estimated at $1,500 prior to the fire.

MOOSE FROM HOLLAND GOING TO CHICAGO

The Goodrich Transportation company is making special provisions for excursion passengers of Holland and Western Michigan during the time of the big convention in Chicago that will last for seven days.

The Moose national convention begins on July 1 and is to be the largest demonstration ever put on by this organization. The celebration will continue to and including July 7 and headquarters will be at Soldiers' Field, Grant Park stadium.

Some idea can be gained as to what is to take place from the following program: 600 Indians of 30 tribes from 20 states; The world's only Indian cavalry regiment; Indian operas for the first time; The landing of Father Marquette; The arrival of the French and British troops; The coming of the covered wagon; The old Chicago river and a forest of thousands first; The building of Fort Dearborn, its battles with the Indians and the Chicago massacre; Ballet of 100 beautiful Indian girls; Indian sports—the thrilling lacrosse game—the canoe battles—war and symbolic dances; $10,000 fireworks Tableau.

John H. Streur, aged 57 years, died Wednesday morning at his home at 129 Columbia avenue. Mr. Streur had an unusually large circle of friends. He has served the city fire department for 35 years and he has been employed by the Holland Crystal Creamery for the same length of time.

He is survived by his wife, three children, Mrs. J. Rowan, Mrs. H. Kragt, and John Henry Streur; also by four brothers, Edward, William, Henry and Albert.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 1:30 at the home and at two o'clock at the Central Ave. Christian Reformed church. Rev. L. Veltkamp officiating. Interment will be in Pilgrim Home cemetery.

Mayor Fred W. Green of Ionia, candidate for the republican nomination for governor of Michigan, has included Grand Haven in the itinerary of his political tour. According to the schedule received by Grand Haven supporters of the Ionia mayor, Gen. Green will be in Grand Haven July 7 about noon.

The county seat is getting its share of gubernatorial candidates, since Grobeck, republican, and Comstock, democrat, have already been there. Holland up to this time has been free from political speakers.

Dr. Fisher will take his vacation during the month of July. His office will be closed that month except on Saturdays.

BRAIN STORM DRIVER TO BE EXAMINED

Some Holland speeders, as well as speeders elsewhere, may find themselves in rather an awkward position if Secretary of State DeLand follows out his contemplated program. He is receiving the cooperation of the jurists of Detroit in this move and one judge, namely Charles L. Bartlett, has sent five speeders to jail for 90 days, indicating that a stop is to be put to reckless driving.

The Detroit Free Press, in Tuesday's issue, outlines the plans of Mr. DeLand to give all speeders the mental tests in order to see whether these motorists should or should not be allowed to drive a car. The Free Press says:

"State officials will back Judge Charles L. Bartlett in his drive against speeders and reckless drivers. It was indicated Monday by Secretary of State Charles J. DeLand that he would not allow a driver to be licensed until he had passed certain 'mental tests' for certain drivers, named by Judge Bartlett, will be held at the Lansing office Tuesday."

"The department of state will bear down upon traffic violators through its power to revoke licenses. DeLand said. Under the license suspension law licenses can be revoked only where the driver has been convicted of driving while drunk, recklessness or leaving the scene of an accident."

"A 1919 statute, however, bars persons mentally or physically unable from holding a driver's license, DeLand says. At the hearings in Lansing the state will attempt to show that drivers convicted of speeding are mentally defective where traffic laws are concerned."

"The mental tests at Lansing will be conducted by DeLand, as the first step by the department of state in the campaign to rid the roads of incompetent drivers. A dozen or more convicted drivers, named by Judge Bartlett, have been notified to appear for the hearing."

"According to Chilson arrests and convictions for speeding do little good with certain classes of drivers. Their licenses cannot be taken away for speeding. If arresting officers would charge them with recklessness as well as speeding, when circumstances appear to warrant such action, they could be deprived of their license and be prevented from repeating the offense, he said."

"Mental incompetency need be established only as far as traffic laws are concerned, in the opinion of DeLand."

"Letters sent to persons to whom the mental tests will be applied read as follows: 'You are hereby notified that complaint has been made to me under section 8, act 358, of the acts of 1919, that you are a person who is physically or mentally incapable of operating a motor vehicle upon the highways of the state.'

The Cold Weather Retards Corn Crop

Prospects for a good corn crop are not very favorable at the present time. Lack of proper drainage on the heavy land to take care of the heavy rains and the resultant cold soil with little plant food available has caused corn to make a slow and a yellow growth. Corn on sand is growing much better. Poor seed is showing up in poor stands in many places.

Twenty-seven members were on hand, all but Mayor Hillman of Grand Haven. Two new faces are seen this session. Hugh Lillie, newly appointed city attorney, of Grand Haven, and William Wilda, lately appointed county clerk, to take the place of Orrie J. Sluiter, who is acting as clerk for the body.

The session is for the equalization and apportionment of taxes over the various townships of the county. The committee directly in charge of this work is John Van Anrooy, Grand Haven, Edward Vandenberg, Holland; Gradus Lubbers, Zealand; Fred Gordon, Crookery and Henry Roek, Zealand.

OTTAWA JERSEY MEN TO MEET

Ottawa county Jersey breeders are planning on holding an exhibit and enjoy a picnic at the Jameson picnic grove on August 10th.

Representatives of the American Jersey cattle club, H. E. Dennison, formerly of the state college and now field man for the Jersey breed in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, will be present to speak and to assist in perfecting a county Jersey organization.

Mr. Dennison has stated that the Jersey breed is growing in number faster in Ottawa county than in any other county in Michigan. Many of the dairymen are swinging into purebred Jerseys and half of the calf club boys and girls have Jerseys. Ottawa county has some splendid Jersey herds and with proper organization and promotion may become a center of good Jersey cattle as well as a center of the hatching and poultry industry.

GROWS ALFALFA ON DUNE SAND

Ten years ago Wm. Taylor, a farmer living a quarter mile west of West Olive, in the heart of Ottawa county's sand dunes, made up his mind that he would grow alfalfa on the dune west of his house. It had been blowing and covering valuable ground and he determined to stop it.

Having read of the wonders of alfalfa as a soil builder and hay crop, and because neighbors said it couldn't be done, Mr. Taylor, a Scotchman, said he would do it. He studied available information telling what a lime loving plant alfalfa was, how it was inoculated, seeded and grown. His first step was to plow under a heavy coat of manure and he gave the field a heavy top dressing of hydrated lime (ground limestone) was not available locally. He sent out west for Gramin alfalfa seed, inoculated with soil from around sweet clover plants, seeded the alfalfa with a light nurse crop of oats and let nature do the rest. Since that time the field has been cut from two to three times a year and has produced as high as two and a half tons of hay in one season. June grass is coming in now but still there is a good crop of alfalfa on the blow sand.

Mr. Taylor states that alfalfa will yield more hay per acre per year than his best corn. It is a good place for anyone to visit who thinks it can't be done—growing successful alfalfa on a blow sand ridge.

SPRING LAKE WOMAN PASSES AWAY MONDAY

Mrs. Katherine Vink, a well known and respected citizen of Spring Lake, died at her home on Lake Ave. Monday morning at 10:45. Although Mrs. Vink had not been in good health for a number of years, her death came unexpectedly. She had been a resident of Spring Lake and vicinity since 1869, locating there immediately upon her arrival from the Netherlands with her husband, Herman Vink by whom she is survived. Mrs. Vink was seventy-nine years old, having been born in the Netherlands.

Thirty-six grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren and the following children survive: Mrs. Jacob Diphous, Mrs. John Ennenga of Grand Haven, Kious Vink, John Vink, Walter Vink and Gertrude Vink of Spring Lake and Mrs. Williams of Muskegon.

Funeral services were held at the church had charge of the service. Burial was in the Spring Lake cemetery.

SAND DUNES ARE SAFE FOR PRESENT TIME

Many citizens of Grand Haven, who were very much disturbed and exercised over the removal of the sand dunes around that city a few years ago will be interested to know that Grand Haven has concluded its contract with the Grand Haven Sand Co., of Michigan City and that the danger of entirely removing the old Five Mile sand dune is over from that source at least.

In 1920 the city council made a contract with the Grand Haven Sand Co., of which A. E. Ohlmacher of Michigan City and Frank Hubble, Detroit, were the president and vice president. The contract was to remove the sand from the Wadsworth addition, which they purchased and also from any of the city property adjacent to his addition. They guaranteed to pay the city one dollar a load for every load of sand taken from this location as payment for the use of the right of way over which to haul this sand.

The sand company was unable to use the sand belonging to the city as it was of an inferior quality so purchased additional property from the Monroe addition.

At that time the city went up that the beautiful hills surrounding the harbor were to be removed and the entrance would be but a waste of dreary, unproductive sand, in place of the beauty of trees, on dune formation, which is one of the attractions of this section. Largely due to the insistence of the public, the company abandoned any further efforts to get sand from that section and so are now concluding any further interest in the sand removal from that city.

The city is, however, decidedly the gainer in this project. They have had removed at no expense much of the high hill around which Harbor Avenue curved and which before the road was built went directly down to the river for quite a distance.

This sand to be cut out to make the road passable during all seasons and the city has not only gotten rid of the sand nuisance but has been paid $5,500 for the privilege. They are also in possession of the side track leading into this property and are in a position to use it for any purpose which may arise. This tract may need to be graded at some time, and the rails may be handy.

The property abutting the river fronting Harbor Ave. belongs to the sand company and this company is cognizant of the commercial value as either resident or factory real estate.

The owners refused to sell to the city a short time ago, but have improved it with setting out of trees and not intending to leave the section as dreary a waste as was at first feared by many.

Sand is being taken in great quantities from the Rosy Mound section but other than this there are no activities about the city that bear out the fear which has prompted many citizens to protest to the city on the ruining of natural beauty spots. The cry was not unheeded as has been shown by the Sand Co. ceasing operations on new property leased, after the first negotiations were concluded.

Suffers Stroke While In Church

While Mrs. Dirk Kaper, aged 62, was in church at Hamilton Sunday taking part in the singing of a hymn, she suddenly suffered a stroke of apoplexy and sagged to the floor. She was taken to her home and soon regained consciousness, but she died in the afternoon. Mrs. Kaper had seemed in good health when she went to church in the morning.

CAP EXPLODES WHILE WORKER LIGHTS PIPE

Dennis Nyland of East Saugatuck is minus parts of three of his fingers as a result of an unusual accident. Dynamite had been used to loosen in the gravel in a gravel pit in East Saugatuck and one of the caps used to explode the dynamite was lying about. Mr. Nyland, who was getting a load of gravel out of the pit, picked it up and he was not aware of the fact that it had not been exploded. Idly holding it in his hand he lighted his pipe and the cap caught fire and exploded.

The result was that Nyland's hand was badly lacerated. His thumb had to be amputated; also the second finger at the second joint and the third finger at the first joint. Mr. Nyland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Nyland.

HUDSONVILLE HAS A REAL BROODER HEN

H. Sterkins of Hudsonville owns a hen of mixed breed which takes the prize for feminine persistence and perseverance.

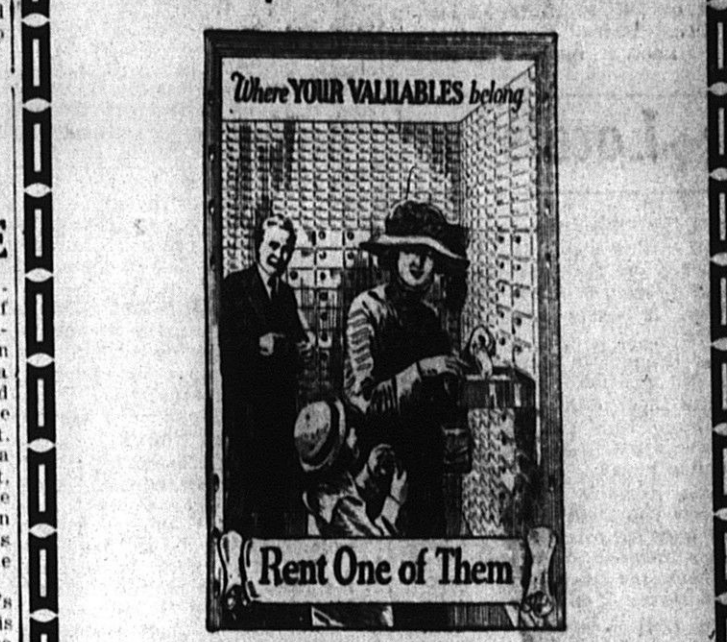

During the latter days of last April the hen was missed from her usual haunts. Search finally revealed she was covering six teeth from a cutter bar of an old reaper that lay in a keg. She was dislodged and the nail kept turned bottom side up.

But again she disappeared and when next found she was covering five of the baby's marbles and a discarded oil can. This time she was located under the front porch. Biddle next was discovered covering the hub of a broken wheel of a baby car.

About this time one of the cats on the place brought out a litter of kittens. The hen's motherly instinct was so highly developed she laid claim to no motherhood of the kittens. The kittens however, were again taken up with the self-appointed mother, but finally consented to do a part, at least, of their sleeping under the soft, warm wings of the hen.

The hen mother is inclined to pugilism when the mother cat insists on giving the kittens their natural nourishment.

The first county women's camp for the rural women of this county will be held August 2 to 6. The headquarters will be at the Prospect Point Hotel at Spring Lake.

The purpose of the camp is to provide a satisfactory and pleasant vacation for women interested in home economics extension work in the county and at the same time be of educational and inspirational value to them. The women present will represent their local groups.
Many of them will be women who acted as leader during the winter projects. The home economics extension department of the Michigan State College will co-operate in the camp project by supplying speakers on various subjects of interest to women. Mrs. Louise H.
Campbell, state home demonstration leader, will be a guest at the camp during the week, which will afford an opportunity for the women to become better acquainted with her and to discuss the individual problems and needs of each community represented. This will enable her to meet these individuals in future extension programs and projects. Mrs. Campbell's talks always appeal to the women but her talks that week will be especially interesting as she will have just returned from a European trip where she has been working on a study of rural conditions and problems in various countries.
Each evening her talk will give a glimpse of some phase of rural life in Europe.

training in parliamentary law she

a pupil of Gen. H. M. Roberts, author of "Roberts' Rules of Order," whose text she uses in her work, a most instructive course no doubt will be given.

Miss Edna V. Smith, state household management specialist, is to be in the county this winter each month to present her household management. Fifty per cent of the women present. Achievement putting on the health and recreation program. Talks on agricultural subjects will be given by C. P. Milham, agricultural agent.

Music appreciation, community singing, stunts, games and other entertainment features will conclude the program.

Friday, the last day of the conference, camp will be open to the members of the home demonstration group members and families. A special program will be arranged for the day. Picnic lunch will be served at noon.

PREPARATIONS BEING MADE FOR THREE PERIODS AT THE BOY SCOUT CAMP

The boy scouts of Ottawa county will have plenty of opportunity for summer camp this year. There will be three periods in camp, from July 28 to August 7, from August 11 to August 21, and from August 25 to Sept. 4.

Camp McCarthy is located eight miles south of Grand Haven on Lake Michigan where a beautiful tract of 30 acres has been set aside for this purpose. It contains a mess hall and other camp equipment. Each patrol of six or eight scouts will have their own table.
A kitchen adjoins the mess hall.
In addition there is a store room and a cook's quarters.

Each scout will be provided with a steel cot and bed sack but he must bring his own blankets, pillow and sheets. There will be from two to five adult leaders in camp at all times. Scout Executive F.
J. Geiger, who has directed eight camps, will act as general camp director.

There will be a well balanced program every day and the Sunday program will be in keeping with the Sabbath.

George Washington Taylor will be the camp cook and good eats are assured for the hungry boys.
The cost of camp for each boy will be $3.50 for a period of 10 days, which is several dollars less than the actual cost to the council. The deficiency is to be met by a $500 budget appropriated for this purpose. The fee for scouts not in the Ottawa county council will be $10 for the same period.

All registered scouts in good standing may attend camp and they may stay one, two or three periods, providing the camp capacity has not been reached when their registrations are received.

A camp store will be operated and will be open at regular hours every day. Each scout will be allowed to purchase ten cents worth of confectionaries each day. Handbooks, badges and a few other articles of scout supplies and equipment will also be handled.

Visitors are invited on Sundays all day and on Wednesday evenings. Each scout camp go west from Agnew to the old M-11 road, one half mile south on it to school house, west again to end of road, south again one half mile to Camp McCarthy sign on right side of the road.

Every camper must submit to a physical examination before going to camp, to guard against contagious disease in camp.

Following is a list of what the camper should bring to camp.
Clothing: Scout uniform (if you have one), 1 extra pair pants or shorts (khaki preferred), 1 extra shirt, 1 extra suit underwear, 3 pairs stockings, bathing suit or trunks, 1 sweater or coat, 1 pair pajamas, poncho or raincoat. A clean regulation Scout belt is necessary for belt honors.

Toilet articles: 3 towels, 1 wash cloth, floating soap, tooth brush, tooth paste, small mirror, comb,
six handkerchiefs, small mending kit, shoe brush and polish.

Bedding: At least three wool blankets or equivalent, pair sheets, pillow case, a yard or two of mosquito netting.

Miscellaneous: Scout handbook, test card, camper's log book, notebook, writing paper, pencil, small Bible or Prayer book.

Optional: Pocket knife, haversack, mess kit, scout axe, flashlight, camera, athletic equipment, musical instruments, watch, compass, diary, field glasses, first aid kit,
signal kit, nature study book, etc.

Little tips: The good camper makes himself as comfortable as possible. Only the novice will sleep between scratchy blankets when he can have clean sheets, etc.

No state, with the possible exception of California, has as many possibilities for recreational purposes as Michigan," declared John A. Doelle, executive secretary of the Michigan Real Estate ass'n at a meeting of realtors who are dealing in lake frontage properties throughout the state and especially in Western Michigan, in Muskegon Monday night.

"Yet with all her natural abilities, her industrial wealth, her climate and prevailing westerly winds, one of our greatest problems at this time is to meet the competition in advertising which being put out by other states, but which we have so far practically neglected," said Secretary Doelle.

"There is the problem of taxation," he continued, "which is one of the most important questions to be taken up this week at the Lansing meeting of the legislative committee of the state association. During the past year 35 per cent of the wealth largely represented in real estate was taxed for 85 per cent of the revenue. This is not an equitable distribution of the tax burden and if the state association can do anything to adjust the situation, it will have accomplished an important thing."

"That Michigan farmers have a home market in the great industrial centers of the state and thus are not in half as bad shape financially as the generally said to be was the statement of Mr.
Doelle. He went on to point out, however, that "the time is coming when these lands will be more valuable for recreational purposes than farming."

"With the development of the St. Lawrence waterway probable within the next 10 years, property values are bound to go up," he said. "Men are now working on the proposition and it is likely that it will come up before Congress at the fall session or approval in the approval by the United States Congress would go to the Canadian parliament. Then about seven years would be necessary for doing the actual work."

A gas station at Holland was robbed of over $100 Sunday night.
What caused the interest here, especially among station owners, is that a holdup was pulled, but that $1,000 was obtained. If local gas station owners ever took in $1,000 in one day they would demand that the bank open at once.—C. D. M. in

Three Sea Scouts Qualify as Red Cross Life Savers

Leo Peters, Fred Stokette and James Van Landegend, members of Holland Sea Scout Ship, have qualified as senior Red Cross lifesavers before Mr. Moreau, director of lifesaving in the central division.
Peters and Stokette, being of the required age, also qualified as examiners, the highest rating in life-saving awarded by the Red Cross.
Mr. Moreau speaks very highly of the ability of the three. "Even under the handicap of being in almost ice cold water they met the requirements in a most remarkable fashion," he said.

Mr. Moreau spent Monday in Holland, and Tuesday in Grand Haven. He was busily occupied during the entire two days giving instructions and examinations.

The Sea Scout reserve program which embodies the Red Cross life-saving program will be pushed very energetically this fall. It is aimed to have every Scout in camp this summer qualify as a cabin boy and as a swimming beginner.

All Eyes Toward Camp
Every scouting person is now casting anxious looks toward the summer camp which will open at Camp McCarthy on July 28.

A program which will make every scout leap with joy is being prepared.

The camp staff of older Scouts is now being selected and will go into camp on July 13th. On the 16th they will return home for one week after which they will return to camp to remain throughout the camping season.

Applications should be sent in as soon as possible.

Sea Scouts Launch Boat

The large steel boat of the Holland Sea Scout ship was launched last week and made its initial cruise on Black Lake. The cutter, which is being reconditioned will be ready this week. This gives the Holland ship two splendid boats.
The shipment of the Grand Haven boat has been delayed, but it is expected that it will be received within a very short time.

Camp Fire Pow-Wows To Be Held

A heaping big camp fire program will be held in each district next week. A whole evening of fun is being arranged. Games, songs, ceremonies, stunts, etc., will all be included in the program, also a few eats.

The pow-wows will be held in Grand Haven, Tuesday evening, Coopersville, Wednesday evening, and Holland, Thursday evening.
The programs will start at 8:00 P. M. sharp and close at 9:30. The rather late hour is necessary due to the late evening.

All Scouts are expected to attend, and troops and patrols are invited to provide short stunts;
funny ones will be preferred on this occasion. It is proposed to make these the biggest Scout gatherings ever staged in their respective districts.

TROOP NEWS

Troop 3, Presbyterian Church,
Grand Haven

Assistant Scoutmaster Ray Spels who has just completed his course at Ypsilanti Normal school, received a rousing welcome at the troop meeting last Wednesday.

To make the meetings as interesting as possible for the boys they will be held outdoors for the summer. Tonight it will be at the foot of Five Mile Hill.

The probability of constructing a cabin to which the boys could go on overnight hikes somewhere near Rosy Mound was discussed and two boys appointed to investigate the matter.

Troop 9, Hope Church, Holland

Troop 9 held their last meeting last Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock. The troop as a whole has discontinued the meetings until September 8th, but the patrols will carry on through the summer.

Troop 4, Coopersville

A short troop meeting was held last Friday evening, prior to the Scoutmaster-Patrol Leaders Pow
Wow. A feature of the evening was the introduction of "Kinies Game," which was won by the Cat
Patrol by a margin of one point.
The troop is also in charge of the distribution of part of the literature from the Chautauque.

Scout Jas. Luther has completed his first class test work and will appear before the next Court of Honor for his first class badge. He will then be ready for his merit badge tests.

Judge O. S. Cross of the circuit court of Ottawa and Allegan, was in Grand Haven this week listening to civil cases and arraignments, and any matters pertaining to law that came in his jurisdiction. The first case to come up was a civil suit brought by Gordon Van Eenam plaintiff, of Zeeland, against the Ornamental Co., defendant, for the alleged non-payment of commissions and accounting claimed to be due him. J. N. Clark, of Zeeland

EXPLOSION OF FIREWORKS IS RESTRICTED

Just a few days more and the nation will unite in celebrating one of the greatest days in the calendar of holidays and one that marks the independence of this great and glorious country. It has always been a time when some unusual form of celebration seemed the only adequate way to set it out from the other holidays. Fireworks and noise makers grew gradually in prominence and the manufacturer every year made bigger and more beautiful displays until people began to realize that the toll of life was getting to be quite in excess of anything that could be called patriotism. Every year the list of fatalities grew and the dreadful sufferings from burns, blindness and maimed individuals were the price that the nation paid for its show of patriotism. Laws began to be passed restraining the manufacturer and every year rumors of no more fire crackers and fire works in general were noised abroad making little youngsters and the grown up, as well, feel that this was always the last year for the free use of his rights to have a little fun. Time and again the Michigan legislators have seemed on the brink of passing such strict measures, that the prevalent use of fire works would be very much controlled but always there was found some loop hole and some way of continuing the sale. Today there is very little understanding of the law in Michigan that governs the rather primitive way of celebrating. In 1921 the legislature passed a law, then again in 1923 and then once again in 1925. This last is the one that governs present privileges and perhaps if it were lived up to strictly and the little children were watched with greater care there would not be the awful suffering and loss of life that the 4th of July sometimes sees.

The present law provides in substance that fire crackers are unlawful that are over two inches in length and one-half inch in diameter. These are not to contain any dynamite whatsoever. Blank cartridges, and blank cartridge pistols, skyrockets of any size, roman candles having more than ten balls, cannons, balloons made of tissue paper or inflammable material and inflated with hot air, day-glo bombs or other bombs, once using caps with a composition using any kind of ammunition, are unlawful to shoot or light at any time.

The only exception to this is the fact that larger roman candles and skyrockets may be used in large public demonstrations or private gatherings providing they are in the hands of competent operators. It is also unlawful for any person to explode, ignite or light in public any fireworks of any description except on the third, fourth and fifth days of July. Of course, these laws were broken and the small boy has begun to set the big cracker off and shoot the little pistol that looks so like a real one. The simplest firecracker or has some element of danger; the modest sparkler has been known to set fire to flimsy dresses that have caused death and the most intense suffering that could hardly be endured and lived through. Where there is the smallest spark, there is the seat of some small danger. Children can be taught to realize what they are playing with, perhaps this year without the usual sacrifice, on the altar of patriotism, of eyes limbs, and lives.

Chief Van Ry of the Holland police department stated today that although the sale of fireworks had been legal since the 21st of June it was unlawful to shoot any whatsoever until the 3rd, 4th and 5th of July and persons found overstepping the law were liable to arrest. Three days are ample time to celebrate the nation's birthday and they will be on the heat to see that this 1925 law is lived up to.

Alvin Nevel of Hope college and Fred Oert of Holland have been taking a trip of 2,000 miles through Northern Michigan and Wisconsin. Mr. Oert visited for a few days at the home of Mr. Ne-vel at Waupun, Wisconsin, and returned to Holland alone. Mr. Oert states that the roads are fine and wonderful scenery can be found in the Dells at Devil's Lake and at the Indian reservation at Shawano. At the latter place the Indians still live as they did in Michigan and Wisconsin before the forests were cut away.

Informed that the officers were not doing this on Sunday, he then stated that he really did not come for that purpose anyway. He was not detained by the officers for arrest.

Wednesday morning at six o'clock the temperature was 53 degrees, rising in two hours sixteen degrees.—Grand Haven Tribune.

ASSOCIATE OF ANNA HELD WITH STOCK PLAYERS

STOCK COMPANY COMES WITH CARLOAD OF SCENERY

The Holland theatre is beginning to make preparations to shift over to stock players for the summer, which has always proven to be a popular change in Holland.

The management of the Holland has secured a company that will surpass anything that ever showed here. In fact it is a question to the company whether Holland will support the putting on of such an elaborate outlay.

This stock company comes with a carload of scenery and at least eight or ten men extra must be hired to help change scenery during acts.

Miss Myrtle Ross is said to be the cleverest leading lady of her type on the American stage today. She not only directs all her own shows but takes care of the business affairs, directs the building of all her scenery and sees that the scenes are properly placed for every act.

It is said that Karl Way, the leading man, is built and acts like the real heroes in the story book. A regular matinee idol.

Don Maryfield, an old time character actor, and all stock companies have them, was at one time associated with Anna Held on Broadway, New York, in her day, the idol of America and France.

There are several other actors associated with the show especially fitted to take certain parts. In fact a great deal of time was necessary to pick the proper persons for these parts.

The company takes with them special spot lights and a crew to handle these and also furniture and electrical effects used in certain productions.

Traveling with the company are two southern society girls from Lexington, Kentucky, who have become interested in stage work. Another lady is a native of Grand Rapids who is said to be a wonderful actress.

This stock company plays such well known productions as, "Lightin' Through," "Dancing Mothers," "The Flapper Tamer," "The Music Man," "Forbidden Fruit," "East is West," "The Fool," "Little Miss Bluebeard" and all the latest New York releases.

The show opens Monday the 5th of July at the Holland theatre with Miss Ross starring in "The Misleading Lady".

EAGLES NATIONAL MAGAZINE SPEAKS WELL OF HOLLAND ORDER

The July issue of the Eagles National magazine, says as follows:

"Every hospital patient in Holland, Michigan, early on Mothers' Day, received a bouquet of flowers from Aerle No. 1594. In this expressive way, Holland Aerle showed reverence to all Mothers. This little aerle stepped into 2nd place in membership increase in Michigan during March. Detroit was first and Albion, third. Substantial classes in April and May will keep this aerle well to the front."

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD OPENS AGAIN

Two enterprising young ladies namely Miss Sally Robinson and Miss Gladys Little have opened up at Bussard Beach for the second season what is known as the Kitchen Cupboard.

The girls aim to carry a full line of groceries and dainties as well as soft drink and cigars; they make a specialty to sell fresh bread with a "hungry smell."

Their place of business is located in the Grey cottage and the young ladies were very successful last year. A short distance from their place of business is a little gasoline and kerosene to the cottagers.

LITTLE GIRL RESCUED IN THE NICK OF TIME IN FRONT OF COAST GUARD STATION

The United States coast guard crew at Grand Haven rescued a fourteen year old girl who tried to swim across the river near the station the other day.

The little girl started out from the south government pier across the river from the coast guard station. Well out in the stream the swimmer showed signs of distress, and members of the guard put out in a skiff immediately and picked her up. She was taken into the boat in an exhausted condition and it is doubtful if she could have kept going much longer.

Capt. W. J. Preston, keeper at the Grand Haven station, warns swimmers not to attempt to swim across the stream unless someone accompanies them with a boat. Current and water conditions, which they do not understand are likely to react against the swimmer, particularly if they are inexperienced. Fortunately in the case cited the coast guards were watching the swimmer and were able to render aid in time. Under usual circumstances there is hardly a chance for a swimmer who is seized with cramps, or who may become exhausted because of water conditions.

The chances are too great for anyone to attempt, and swimmers are strongly urged not to attempt to swim the river under any circumstances.

THREE HALF CENTURIES

Three half centuries ago we as a nation, declared ourselves independent and capable of managing our own affairs. That we were well able to shape our own destinies, the passing years have proved.

At no other time can we more suitably declare our independence, as individuals, than at this time when we are celebrating the anniversary of our independence as a nation. None can be independent until they have money laid by to meet emergencies.

OIL STATION IS HELD UP IN HOLLAND AND THE THUGS GET AWAY WITH BIG SWAG

A sensational holdup was staged at 11:15 Sunday night, when two masked bandits entered the Warm Friend service station at River ave. and 7th street, ordered George Maatman to hand over the money bag and at the point of a revolver backed him into a toilet room, locking him in.

Mr. Maatman states that he was just about to close, had turned out most of the lights which brightly illumined the station, when two short men with masks covering their eyes and forehead walked in while he was taking the cash and checks from the cash register and placing them in a bag, as he does each night before retiring.

The receipts were unusually heavy, including the money and checks taken in Saturday afternoon and evening and all day Sunday. The total amount was $1317.28.

Maatman states that the two men with drawn pistols confronted him and backed him into the toilet room, and no sooner had he been looked in when he proceeded to smash the window with some heavy object, and called for help.

The commotion brought Al De Weerd, manager of the Holland auto company, from his apartments across the street, and the police were immediately notified. Within a few minutes officers Donteke and Dornbos were on the job.

The only clue that could be found was foot prints in an alley to the east, where it appeared that an automobile had stood concealed behind a trellised fence, and the ground would indicate that two men had been restlessly walking around for some time watching the windows of the oil station, no doubt for an opportunity to enter when the coast was clear.

Officer Donteke states that he passed the oil station five minutes before the robbery is said to have taken place and saw nothing unusual. He saw Maatman busy, but nothing happened to cause suspicion.

He saw no automobile in the neighborhood and two officers were present within a few minutes after Maatman was released from his prison by climbing through the broken window frame.

When the officers arrived there was no sign of a person in sight, nor was there an automobile near. In the amount taken there were several checks and the managers are now endeavoring to trace these for they will be useless to the holdup men.

Warm Friend service station is fully protected by burglar insurance.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Henry Brunink, Rev. J. B. Battema, officiating. Interment was in the Holland cemetery.

The opening of the new Peter Maas furniture store on Tenth street, near River avenue, was held Saturday and the day was extremely successful for the new firm, far beyond expectations.

Flowers were sent by the following concerns: De Vries & Dornbos, Vandenberg Bros., West Michigan Furniture Co., of Holland; Kimark Rug Co., Neeah, Wis.; Bald-Knob Furniture Co., New York; Dekker Furniture Co., Muskegon; Slight Furniture Co., Johnson-Handley-Johnson Furniture Co., Luxury Upholstery Co., Wolverine Upholstery Co., National Mattress Co., of Grand Rapids; Krolik Dry Goods Co., Detroit; Ypsilanti Reed Furniture Co., Ionia and Quick Meal Gas Stove Co., of Chicago.

The music was furnished by the Colonial orchestra.

This Bird So Loves Auto Camping

Folks who take camping trips say that it is lots of fun. You should start preparing for the trip about three months in advance. Most any time in the summer will do for the camping trip as long as you have warm days and cool nights. You should take along plenty of bedding, all the trailer will carry. When you get ready for bed, it is well to place the bulk of the bedding on top of you. Then as the cold starts creeping through from under you can start removing bedding from the top and place it underneath. About midnight you will find that you have the cold shield off from below and you will discover also that you have no bedding left over you. At this time an experienced camper will start removing the bedding from under and placing it on top. Along about 3 a. m. this work will be completed and then you will be in that frame of mind so that you will get up and start a bonfire and sit around it until you get ready to go on to the next camping place. SAUGATUCK BEAUTY
SPOT AGAIN DRAWS
PAINTING STUDENTS

For the 17th consecutive year at Saugatuck the Summer School of Painting is inviting students to its cool forests, singing sands, sparkling waters and hospitable inn. The setting for this school is attractive, having the sweep of the Kalamazoo river at its front door with Lake Michigan and its sand dunes just beyond. Here in this beautiful, quiet spot, secluded and remote yet so near this village the class works and plays the summer days away.

The school opened this year on Sunday under the direction of F. F. Fursman. The enrollment promises to reach about 100 students this year, including representatives from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Georgia, Florida, Missouri, New Jersey, and Minnesota.

CARS NEAR COOPERSVILLE IN ACCIDENT

Three cars participated in a motor car crash near Marne, Ottawa county about 11:30 when a Ford touring car driven by Edward Beach of Grand Haven and a Chevrolet sedan driven by G. E. Glans of Grand Rapids, met outside of the village going toward Coopersville. Beach was returning from Lansing where he is employed. His car was sideswiped into the center of the road in disabled condition.

While stranded across the highway, the Ford was again struck by a rapidly driven Hudson coach driven by Carl Schmidt of Grand Rapids, with the result that it was completely smashed. Schmidt could not stop and his car was thrown into the ditch and demolished. He was slightly injured. Beach's car was not covered by insurance.

Sheriff's officers were called but aside from clearing the highway, no action was taken.

Chicago Firm Gets P. O. Contract

The job for building the extension to the mailing vestibule on the northside of the Holland post office and for enlarging the driveway has been let to the Pearson Regnell Co., of Chicago, that firm being the only bidder. Fifteen feet will be added to the north side of the mailing vestibule and driveway and the patches of grass north and south of the building on River avenue will be covered with cement.

CHICAGO SYNOD BACKS ACTION OF ZEELAND-CLASSIS

Rev. H. Wierenga of Jamestown remains a deposed minister by a decision Saturday of Christian Reformed Synod meeting at Chicago, which upheld the action of classis Zeeland. Rev. Wierenga was given ample time to defend his views. He preached the entire sermon which brought about his deposition and was asked many questions by members of synod.

Springing one of the biggest surprises of the session, synod elected Rev. B. K. Kuiper to the chair of historical theology, vacated by Prof. S. Volbeda, who has just accepted the chair of practical theology. Rev. Kuiper is at present principal of Englewood, N. J., as stated supply.

From 1900 to 1918 he was professor of history at Calvin college and during that time spent four years in Europe studying, most of the time at the University of Amsterdam. He left Calvin to take up editorial work, serving as editor of De Wachter from 1918 to 1922, and also as editor of the Christian Journal. He is a candidate for the degree of doctor of theology, having only to write his thesis.

Prof. F. Weseman was chosen alternate, should Rev. Kuiper decline the chair.

Synod was busy with minor protests Saturday and was unable to finish its sessions.

COUNTY TRAF- FIC COPS ARE VERY ACTIVE

The officers of the Ottawa county traffic squad were very active in North Ottawa and are continuing their campaign to examine the brakes and lights and horns of the cars in that community, looking over about one hundred cars. Twelve car owners were ordered to clean up defects and of the twelve, eight had reported back with everything in good condition. The percentage of cars in poor condition is very low and the officers are complimenting the drivers on the fine condition of brakes looked over this far.

Traffic officer Rykena of the sheriff's department reported the arrest of two speeders. Fred Williams of Grand Haven Twp., was arrested for speeding 60 miles an hour. He was arraigned before Justice C. N. Dickinson of Grand Haven pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs of $4.20.

R. W. Guthat, Grand Rapids, was arraigned at the same time, paid $10 and costs.

The last arrest made was that of Gerrit Bottema of Spring Lake found driving in a reckless manner on Savidge street of Spring Lake. He paid a fine of $5.00 including costs. Trooper M. Peck made the arrest.

Carl Burman is in the Holland hospital where he had his tonsils removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stegenza and son Sydney motored to Fremont on Saturday to visit friends. Con De Free of the De Free Co. has returned from a month's business trip to the Pacific Coast.

CENTRAL PARK VISITED BY $6,000 FIRE

A disastrous fire at 4:15 Saturday afternoon destroyed the summer home of John Kloet of Grand Rapids and also the garage near the house and a garage belonging to John Hesselink of Grand Rapids, and a barn of M. Tom who also lives in Grand Rapids.

The fire is rather a mysterious one, starting in the Kloet garage where there was no oil, gasoline or anything else stored, since the building was vacant. The supposition is that spontaneous combustion was started from a heap of oil rags in one corner of the building.

When the fire was discovered the garage was all ablaze and soon the flames communicated with the home near door and with the barn and the other garage close by.

A bucket brigade was formed but since the buildings that took fire were doomed the fire fighters turned their attentions to the buildings near the fire and a call was also turned in to the Holland fire department asking for aid. An alarm was turned in to box 21, hotel corner. Chief Blom ordered one of the pumps to Central Park and with some difficulty the big machine was run up on the dock and 750 feet of hose was laid. The Holland fire fighters had the fire under control within a few minutes.

Chief Blom's men came just in the nick of time, for the cottages of Hesselink and Tom were already ablaze in spite of the fact that a dozen men were on the roof of these buildings attempting to put out the clouds of fire brands that kept falling from the burning building next door. Both the Tom and Hesselink cottages are badly blistered because of the heat.

The timely arrival of the Holland fire department saved at least seven cottages at Central Park is the claim of the neighbors whose homes were saved. A few minutes more and fire would have swept the entire row of seven cottages built closely together.

The cottage of Rev. John E. Kuiper who had a church call, it being the second cottage from the one that was burning.

The owners of the summer home, Mr. and Mrs. John Kloet, are traveling in Europe but the cottage had just been occupied a few days before by Prof. Janus, a student and family children of the Kloets. It is estimated that the fire loss will not be less than $6,000.00, partly covered by insurance.

There was a brisk wind blowing and the fire fighters, before the Holland fire department came, were compelled to leave their positions often because of the intense heat.

ONE FAMILY HAS SAME FARM FOR 90 YEARS

William farm on M89 one mile west of Fennville, was seen under the direction of the McCormick family since the original grant was given in 1836 by President Martin Van Buren to James McCormick. This grant was given the year before the state of Michigan was admitted to the Union.

McCormick came here in 1837 and built a log cabin in which he resided until 1856 when another house was built.

When he came to what is now Fennville there was only one settlement west of Allegan. That was known as Bailey Mills, and was about six miles from the location of the farm.

McCormick came to Fennville from Allegan with an ox team, bringing with him his wife and one child.

William H. McCormick, a son was born in 1840, was the first white child born in that part of the country.

One winter when James McCormick resided in the log cabin 14 persons were sheltered in the house and the neighbors were all Indians.

WRECK IN THE HARBOR HINDERS BOAT TRAFFIC

The trip of Steamer City of St. Joseph out of Chicago Friday night last week direct to Saugatuck arriving there Saturday A. M. was canceled due to the wreck.

The wreck still lodged in the Saugatuck harbor. The Saturday night direct trip to was also canceled. The manager of the boat company has been in direct communication with the government the past week and Mr. Goddard at Grand Rapids has advised Saugatuck people that perhaps he can get a derrick there to get the wreck out of the channel this week. Had more pressure been brought to bear from the village the clearing of the wreck might have been hastened. Steamers now leave Holland daily, 9 P. M. and Saturday two steamers 9 A. M. and 10 P. M. Starting Saturday Goodrich steamers will make stops at the Saugatuck Pier at Macatawa both morning and night. The Saugatuck office of the boat company is now open and tickets are sold there so as to accommodate the patrons in every way possible; ware house is open and receives all freight.

"TWO CHURCHES HAVE COMMON CAUSE," WAYER

Dr. H. H. Meeter, of the Neland Avenue Christian Reformed church, Grand Rapids, was elected to the chair of exegetical theology in Calvin seminary by synod Thursday morning, after Prof. L. Berkhof announced that he would accept the chair of dogmatics to which he was recently elected.

Less than a month ago Dr. Meeter was elected to the chair of Bible at Calvin college, and should he accept the new appointment, this chair must be filled by synod. Synod adopted the principle that a classis may depose a consistory, since it upheld the decision of classis Grand Rapids West which some time ago deposed the consistories of Hope and Kalamazoo colleges.

It was decided not to reduce the number of delegates for three reasons: fear of centralization of power; the belief that the education and inspiration gained by the delegates justifies the larger number, and a belief that a larger number of delegates makes for congeniality and solidarity.

Rev. James Wayer, of Holland, spoke Thursday afternoon as a delegate from the Reformed churches of America. He stressed the fact that the two churches have a common faith and a common task.

At present synod is engaged with the Sioux center controversy, but hopes to finish all business this week.

CONCRETE JOB ON M-11 COMPLETED

John R. Edelman, Muskegon contractor, has completed the last of the five and one half miles of concrete highway on trunk line M-11 in Grand Traverse county. The bulk of the pavement was finished last year.

The one mile of concrete pavement running from Bailey and connecting with the pavement on trunk line M-54 will be opened to traffic Sunday. The completion of this pavement provides an improved highway from Bailey to Grant and as soon as the relocation of M-54 is paved will give a paved highway from Muskegon to Grant. The relocation is to provide a highway from trunk line M-46 straight through to Bailey, rather than the present route out of Canby.

Mr. Eldman has started work on the pavement at Fruitport. He obtained the contract for the jobs in Muskegon and Ottawa counties. Concrete is now being poured on the Fruitport end of the highway, while the grading is being done in Ottawa county. The completion of this pavement will provide a paved route through the village of Fruitport and on into Ottawa county connecting trunk line M-16.

Another job being done by the same contractor is the foundation of the Elks club house at its tract at Lake Harbor. The foundation for the club will be completed in 10 days or two weeks.

Sign Tells About City of Holland

A beautiful new bulletin board, reading "Welcome to Holland, The Place Where Folks Really Live; Stop and See our City and Resorts," has just been erected by the City Sign Co. for the Merchants Assn. It is 112x25 and stands next to M-11 between Montello Park and the Telling home.

This is just a starter and the Merchants Assn. is planning on erecting two more, one north and one east of the city.

Mrs. Marie Phillips and granddaughter Maxine Ward, of Grand Forks, N. D., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bertach at Beechwood.

Mrs. O. E. Dodson of Los Angeles arrived in Holland Saturday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bertach of Beechwood. Mrs. Dodson was formerly Miss Olive Bertach.

The Grand Rapids department stores will close Saturdays at one o'clock in the afternoon from now on until September 1st. In order to give employees their summer half holiday.

HOLLAND BOY KILLED NEAR ANN ARBOR

Tragedy swift and sudden snuffed out the life of little six-year-old Freddie Wade Nies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nies, Michigan avenue, Sunday forenoon at 9:30 near Chelsea on the highway from Detroit to Grand Rapids. Fulling away from his mother, the little boy ran out on the highway and was struck by a passing automobile, which injured him so severely that he died two hours later in the University Hospital in Ann Arbor to which he was hurried as fast as the car could take him.

Mrs. Ray Nies and Mrs. Burrell Rice, accompanied by their two little boys, Freddie Wade Nies and Harold Rice, were on their way from Detroit to Holland. About 12 miles out of Ann Arbor, near Chelsea, the party stopped to look at a wreck by the side of the road. The little boy pulled away from his mother's hand and dashed out on the road where he was struck by the passing car.

Without moment's delay the little boy was rushed to the hospital in Ann Arbor, the nearest place where accommodations could be obtained, but there was no hope from the beginning. The boy had been so seriously injured that death was almost inevitable.

The family brought home to Holland and arrangements for the funeral were made. The funeral was held on Wednesday forenoon at ten o'clock at the home on Michigan avenue.

Knitting Company Holds Opening

The Associated Knitting Mills, occupying the building formerly occupied by De Vries & Dornbos, had their opening Saturday and large crowds visited the place during the day. So large was the crowd that it was impossible to make the stocking caps for children that were given away free fast enough and so the company was hard at work Monday making up the supply they fell short on Saturday. It was a big day in every respect and the company was highly satisfied with the result of the opening.

COMPANY D IS READY FOR SUMMER CAMP

At this early date Captain George reports all in readiness for the 15 days' field training to be held at Camp Clearing, Mich. The tentage and kitchen equipment have all been examined and placed in readiness for use in the sheltering and feeding of the troops. Special efforts have been made toward getting complete new uniforms for every man in the company, as it is desired that Co. D present as neat an appearance as possible.

Ever since March, 1922, until last September, Co. D has been quartered above the Wolverine garage, where they lacked usual facilities of armory. But they overcame that handicap and each year progressed in their work, to the point that they earned favorable recognition on several occasions for being a well drilled and disciplined outfit.

Now that the armory has been built and they have drilled all winter in it, it is desired to show the headquarters that they have taken advantage of the added facilities. Holland may as well be proud of its company, as it has always reflected credit on the city.

TO HOLD A PARTY MONTHLY

Members and friends of the Spanish War Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Jane Van Asselt, 253 East 8th St., last evening and had a very enjoyable time at their birthday tea party. The first part of the evening was a short business meeting and it was decided to have one afternoon a month, the first Friday in each month, to be spent in sewing for the Auxiliary. The first meeting will be held at the G. A. R. room of the city hall and after that at the different homes of the members.

Members are asked to come out to these meetings as there will be plenty of sewing for everyone. Two comforter tops and a pillow top were donated by different members of the Auxiliary.

After the business meeting a program and a social hour were enjoyed. Games were played and prizes were won. A two course luncheon was served by the following hostesses: Mrs. A. Hamm, Mrs. E. Mooney, Mrs. M. Wilms and Mrs. M. Den Ridder.

SCHOOL CAUCUS HELD JULY 1TH

The annual school caucus for the nomination of three members of the board of education has been set for July 7. This annual election will take place July 13. The trustees whose terms expire are Henry Geerlings, Fred Beuwerkes and Gerrit Vanderhoff.

Mrs. O. E. Dodson of Los Angeles arrived in Holland Saturday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bertach of Beechwood. Mrs. Dodson was formerly Miss Olive Bertach.

The Grand Rapids department stores will close Saturdays at one o'clock in the afternoon from now on until September 1st. In order to give employees their summer half holiday.

WOMAN EX-SLAVE
IS DEAD AT 115
Jane Moore, negro woman, said by her relatives to be 115 years of age, is dead at her home in Gleboe a suburb of Chicago. A native of Alabama, she was a slave of antebellum days.

A cow belonging to Elmer Barnaby, farmer, residing near Hds. sonville was killed Saturday afternoon when a lightning bolt struck the barn, tore a hole in the roof and penetrated several feet of straw to the stables. The barn did not take fire.

DELEGATES TO 10TH DISTRICT CONVENTION HAVE A HAPPY DAY OF IT HERE SATURDAY

Some 150 delegates to the annual convention of the tenth district association of Michigan left Holland Saturday night happy and well contented with the entertainment received here and with the success of the convention. Much was crowded into a single day and there was something doing every minute from the time when at ten o'clock in the forenoon the business meeting opened until late at night when the banquet in the Warm Friend Tavern ended.

At the business meeting in the forenoon officers for the coming year were elected: District director, two years, J. A. Whitworth of Grand Rapids; president, V. R. Pittinger, Lansing; vice-president, E. R. McLaughlin, Midland; vice-president, Cyrus T. Goodrich, Battle Creek; secretary, Fred S. Bott, Grand Haven; treasurer, James DePree, Holland, all for one year.

At the close of the business session at about 12 o'clock there were two luncheons, the men going to the country club and the women holding a luncheon in the main dining hall of the Warm Friend Tavern. The luncheons had a tone of friendly informality and the visitors were thoroughly at home in Holland by the time the whole company gathered at the country club in the afternoon for a golf tourney. While the men played golf the women played cards. The golf winners received their prizes in the evening at the banquet held in the Warm Friend Tavern and attended by men and women both. Willis A. Diekema led the singing and there was an atmosphere of campus hilarity about the music that recalled college days to the guests.

James De Pree introduced C. Vander Meulen, who proclaimed the winners of the afternoon contests and awarded the prizes. Frank Steketee won the low score golf prize, which was a silver water pitcher. The Midland delegation presented Fielding H. Yost with a Midland-made brassie golf club in appreciation for his services as Michigan's coach. James DePree then introduced G. J. Diekema as toastmaster.

Arthur H. Vandenberg, editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, and Coach Fielding H. Yost were the main speakers of the evening. Mr. Vandenberg was introduced by Mr. Diekema in the latter's usual felicitous way and the Grand Rapids editor pointed to Mr. Diekema as one of the best examples of the type of man that the University of Michigan should produce. He said Mr. Diekema and Mr. Yost are the kind of men who reflect honor upon their Alma Mater and they represent the alumni who prove that the service the university is rendering is a worth while one.

Vandenberg made a strong appeal for the maintenance of law and order and for maintaining the American ideal of government. He declared with emphasis that he would rather see all the universal principles of the ground than to have the principles of the disruption of law taught there.

"America needs," said Mr. Vandenberg, "educated leadership to be gotten on the college campus. Education is not an end. The university of today must avoid graduating a man who thinks that his diploma is the end of his education. True qualities of leadership must be instilled, respect for law must be maintained. Wherever encouraged, the modern trend of rationalism which excludes all faith is a detriment to education which alumni should seek to exclude from Michigan campuses."

Coach Yost, who has spoken in Holland before and whose hearty method of address has won many friends for him as a public speaker in addition to admiration for him as a football leader, confined himself for the most part to his own department of sports and athletics. He told football history of former days during the years while he has been responsible for Michigan's career in the game. He gave some attention in his address to the proposed new stadium, and he told of the benefits derived from athletics in college, not only benefits to the body but to the mind and soul as well.

Mr. Yost pointed with pride to the achievements of the university in building an athletic plant, saying it had been made possible by the boys on the football field who have raised $250,000 in the past five years toward the $1,144,000 investment in stadium, field house, etc., now on the campus. Plans for the new stadium seating 70,000 persons to be completed in the fall of 1927, a new field house and golf course will require an issue of $1,500,000 bonds in single bonds of $500 no person being allowed to buy more than one. They bear 3 percent interest and are to be sold by the method of purchasing for ten years tickets for good seats at the football games. The stadium will be sold for out of football earnings.

Lansing is to be the next convention city, the invitation of that city having been accepted at the business meeting in the forenoon.

Mrs. Arthur Van Duren gave a novelty shower Thursday afternoon for Miss Esther R. Mulder, who is to be married June 10th. About sixteen guests were present and bridge was played, after which refreshments were served. The color scheme of yellow and white was followed in decorations and refreshments. The bride-to-be received many beautiful and useful gifts.

The out of town guests were: Mrs. Albert Van Zoeren of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. C. B. Muste of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Miss Margaret Vining of Wayne, Mich.

John C. Madigan, veteran Grand Rapids R. Y. Co. superintendent, retired from the service Aug. 1 after 25 years in the employ of the company. Madigan is well known in Holland, having been identified with the Holland Inter-urban for a short time.

FENVILLE CANNING CO. STARTS STRAWBERRY PACK

The strawberry season started for this vicinity this week. The Fenville Canning Co. has started its 1926 pack of this fruit. Cold weather has held the berries back considerably and some growers believe the crop has been somewhat damaged by the weather although no frosts have been experienced. The prediction is that the crop will be as heavy as in the past several years.

CAMP GRAY HAS OPENED

Camp Gray at Saugatuck opened this week with about 300 young women from shops and factories in the middle western states. These young women are delegates to the Y. W. C. A. Industrial Conference for this region. They are to spend ten delightful days in the camp and from the way things started out it is evident that they are to have the time of their lives.

The camp was quite ready to receive them and everything moves along nicely. These young women will return to their station of duty much improved in health and with a heart full of courage for the year which intervenes among them the 10th district U. of M. Alumni association tournament Saturday. So we'll put it over till the week following and set Friday, July 2nd, as the big day. Having it then, our good friends the resorters can be with us in force, and the occasion may provide some entertainment for our Fourth of July guests.

At 6:30 a dinner will be served to all who make reservations in the enclosed card. It will set you back only $1.25 a plate. As soon as we've put the "groceries" away, your president, not being so good at public speaking, will stand up and issue a call for a volunteer toastmaster and some of the "professionals" (whatever they are). Then just proceed to hand out the diplomas to those who passed their examinations at the Holland Country club last year.

Following this presentation we'll ask every recipient to make a nice, long, carefully prepared speech, and if he does we hope there'll be a few things left on the table that we can throw at him to make him stop.

With these formalities out of the way there'll be nothing left to do but have fun. The orchestra we've hired for the occasion will help some. The floor has been specially braced for the Charleston, and if it cracks under the strain we've always got the table in reserve. (Dancing free to all dinner guests.)

Come on folks! This is our opening party. We've waited a long time to get together. You shouldn't miss this occasion, and if you do, what can we say dear, after we say we're sorry? Cordially, W. A. DIEKEMA, President.

Remember! — Friday evening, July 2, at 6:30 and send the enclosed card now before you lose it. If we know well in advance how many to expect, we can take good care of everybody. So please "reserve places" if you should overlook this little detail you might be out of luck, for we expect a big crowd, and our kitchen facilities are not very elastic.

Bids were received Thursday morning in the offices of the Otis-McCormick Co. for the construction of a bridge at Milwaukee Bayou to take the place of the old structure now serving the traveling public.

The bids were opened by Engineer Carl Bowen and read as follows: Nelson Brothers & H. Thel, $1,133.64; Green Construction Co., Muskegon, $5,358.78; C. J. Place Co., Grand Rapids $6,522.48; Van Anrooy and Jensen, Grand Haven, $7,200; Peter Brill, Zeeland, $6,435.98.

Commissioners Wm. M. Connelly and J. B. Kamp of Zeeland retired and discussed these bids but due to the absence of Commissioner A. Harrington from Holland no action as to awarding of the contract was taken. The board adjourned to Tuesday of next week, when the contract will be let. The Milwaukee Bayou is south of the city and completes the cement road recently laid on this side of the river.

A beautiful home wedding took place Thursday evening at six o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Damson, 187 West 9th street, when their daughter, Marie Laverne was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas James Simmons of Kalamazoo. The marriage was performed in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends, about 25 in all. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. De Vinney, pastor of the Methodist church, and Rev. J. J. Banning, D. D., missionary to India, officiated. The bride, Marie Laverne, served as bridesmaid and Mr. Frank Simmons, brother of the groom, was best man. The ring bearer was little Thomas Cook Simmons of Kalamazoo. Miss Marjorie Du Mez played the wedding march and Mr. Deagon sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride wore a beautiful gown of cream lace over pink satin and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of green crepe romaine over green satin, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The bridesmaid is a close friend of the bride, the two having gone through high school and the Normal together.

An interesting feature of the wedding was the fact that among the guests were two newly married couples, intimate friends of the bride, who had been married last Saturday. They were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Schell of South Bend, and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Heady. The bride and groom have left on a short wedding trip to Indiana and will be home in Holland on Saturday. The bride graduated from the Holland high school in 1920 and later from the Western State Normal. She has taught in Hastings, Ovid and Detroit. The groom is coach and gym instructor in Hastings high school.

BE PREPARED IS MESSAGE OF COMMANDER

A number of American Legion men from Holland went to Grand Rapids Friday and attended a luncheon at Hotel Pantlind where Commander John H. McQuigg was the principal speaker.

Declaring that "the United States of America is the richest prize of the ages, the greatest inheritance since time began," the national commander asserted that it will be ours only so long as we know we are ready and prepared to defend it. He added that world courts and tribunals "cannot do away with man's cupidity nor quench a nation's thirst for power and dominion when it thinks it is strong enough to win."

"America is today the richest nation on earth," he continued. "Our national wealth, insofar as it can be computed, has been estimated at three hundred and fifty billions of dollars; a sum so vast that the human mind cannot comprehend it. We are not only the richest nation, but at the present time we are the bankers of the world."

"The money center has shifted from London to New York. The civilized world is indebted to America for the credit of the universe, and the frailties of humanity are such that debtors are not specially fond of their creditors. We were one of the powers least affected by the war—last in and first out after the job was done. The very fact that we were not creating some feeling abroad."

"With the most magnificent territorial empire on which the sun shines, with a temperate climate and material wealth far beyond that of any other nation, the United States of America is the richest inheritance since time began. It will be ours only so long as the world knows we are ready and prepared to defend it."

"The American Legion has no patience with those well-meaning but misguided people who even now are making strenuous efforts to palsy the arm of America and deprive us of the small defense we now have. They shut their eyes to the history of our country and ignore all the experiences of the past. They are apparently willing and anxious to nullify the military instruction in our schools and colleges and are just now engaged in a nation-wide campaign to force the government to abandon such instruction. They set much store by world courts and Hague tribunals and that is the danger."

"But let us remember that neither courts nor tribunals can accomplish the impossible. They cannot change human nature in the space of a few years. They cannot do away with man's cupidity nor quench a nation's thirst for power and dominion when it thinks it is strong enough to win."

"Those opposed to any adequate defense dilate upon our isolation and the protecting power of two great oceans, utterly oblivious of the fact that 150 years ago—with the crude method of transportation then in use—both England and France landed armies on our coast, one to make war upon us and the other to assist us in founding a nation."

"What was done then was repeated on a mighty scale just eight years ago, only the ships were sailing east instead of west and were carrying American troops instead of British and French."

"So long as the nations of the earth are striving for trade and wealth and commercial advantage; so long as human nature remains substantially as it is; so long as world peace is in the making, it is our duty to assist by sound methods of our own determination in speeding the day when swords shall be beaten into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks and nations shall learn war no more; but in the meantime let us have a care and provide the necessary means, such as we now have, to the National Defense Act, to make sure that no harm comes to the temple of liberty our fathers have here builded."

Commander McQuigg, turning to the question of world peace, said: "The Legion has been, is and will continue to be for world peace, so long as that peace is honorable and based on justice and square dealing. But we recognize that justice is seldom automatic, and for that reason the Legion has advocated the adherence by the United States to a permanent court of international justice."

"The men who compose the Legion know what war is. They have seen it at its worst, and they want no more of it if it can be honorably avoided. But the Legion recognizes that controversies and quarrels between nations are almost certain to arise, and that mere agreements not to have such things happen have been to a large extent futile."

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Dongen, prominent residents of Grand Haven for many years, Sunday celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at their home. The Van Dongens are believed to be the oldest married couple in Ottawa county.

They were married at Zierikzee, The Netherlands, in 1866 and came to this country in 1872, making their home at Grand Haven, where Mr. Van Dongen practiced his trade of bricklayer, which he learned while a boy in Holland. Four years ago he retired, after following the trade 60 years.

Mr. Van Dongen is 80, his wife 78. Both are faithful members of the First Reformed church, which they have attended all during their long residence there. Five of the 13 sons and daughters born to them are living.

WOMAN MAY DIE AS RESULT OF CROSSING CRASH AT WEST OLIVE

John Names and Mrs. Mary Hancock of R. F. D. No. 2, West Olive, were seriously injured Saturday afternoon when a special freight from Grand Haven struck the sedan in which they were riding at West Olive. The Nibbelink-Notter ambulance was called and the two were taken in an unconscious state to the Holland hospital. Mrs. Hancock's injuries were found to be extensive and her condition was serious. Names suffered some deep gashes about the head and after several hours had lapsed regained consciousness. Hospital authorities state that Mrs. Hancock is much improved Monday and that Mr. Names was discharged Sunday.

CALL IS SENT FOR COUNTRY CLUB AFFAIR

President Willis A. Diekema has sent the following letter to members of the Holland Country club: June 24, 1926

Members of the Holland Country Club: Our club champion, Mr. T. Frank Whelan, has returned from the Golden West. Let's celebrate!

He still has to collect the president's trophy for his last season's prowess and there are a number of other awards to be made.

Yes, we know it's pretty late to be handing out 1925 prizes, but that couldn't be avoided. A change in schedule has now been authorized by the board of directors and our annual meeting will hereafter be held in the fall, at which time the board will be reorganized, new committees appointed, and trophies awarded for the current season.

Meantime last year's officers and committees will function during the next two or three months. More about this party:

We'd like to have it this week, but there are a lot of other things. G. H. Tribune—Twenty-five years ago the man who has an automobile was the envy of the world and the horse and buggy were still the most approved and usual manner of travel and transportation and locomotion.

Now, with cars in almost every family, with an automobile ride no longer a treat, the automobile is swinging back to old dobbin and once more it is the swank thing to have a horse. Especially true is this of the riding horse. Cities are providing riding academies, with teachers and every park has its bridle path where hundreds ride and canter in the open.

Several families in this city and Spring Lake are joining in this new sport and the young people of the city are seen daily cantering on the highways. Among them to recently purchase beautiful riding horses are George P. Savidge, who bought two over from Chicago with him, E. P. Sherwood, who has a horse, and is renewing a pastime much enjoyed when he first came to this city. J. F. Johnston has a nice looking horse and James Oakes also owns his horse. John and William Van Schelven are riding and before the summer is over there will no doubt be others, who will join in this fascinating and very healthful pastime.

An ancient human skull, decomposing from age, was found recently at Grand Haven at the old Emlaw Boom near the car ferry slip. Some children at play on the spot where once humming, throbbing lumber mills turned out their millions of feet of pine boards discovered the skull and remained there and told their parents with the result that city police were notified. The youngsters had no way of telling that the skull was an old one so that the officers believed they had been put on the track of a fairly recent tragedy but inspection of the skull showed that it was the skull of a man who had been growing through it and that the bone was almost decomposed. The officers buried it and left it there. The skeleton was not found.

While finding of human skulls is not very frequent except on the spots where old cemeteries have been, there is something about a discovery of this kind that causes a good deal of conjecture as to "why and wherefore."

In the group of men talking over the affair, one advanced the theory that perhaps some one fell from a catery into the slip but this was discounted as improbable because of the apparent age of the skull found.

Another called to mind the old mill days with lines of lumber schooners lining the docks and rivermen and mill hands populating the thriving primitive country. Many men carried knives in their belts or were otherwise armed and many a slight jest on the part of one may have ended in a fatal stab within a few hours for words were taken seriously then and honor was protected with steel. Old times often tell of the rough and ready crews of schooners coming ashore, getting "lit" at one of the ever handy saloons and then having a hard and usually bloody clash with the dock men or perhaps with the crew of another schooner.

Wild the second theory seems probable, that the skull found belonged to some unfortunate who perished in a riverfront brawl or fued, still there may have been the Indian arrow or tomahawk that did the deed. The human skull may have been taken by some Indian with head hunting inclinations, either belonging to another red man or perhaps to some curleu-bols, a forerunner of Rix Robinson and the others who came and heaved the site for Grand Haven out of the wilderness on that shore.

The alumni of Hudsonville high school held the annual banquet at the Congregational church hall there Thursday night, 75 of the old students attending. Maynard Bowman of Grandville was elected president, Glenn Hubbard vice president and Mrs. Gladys Stalmaga, secretary-treasurer.

VILLAGE IN OTTAWA TO BE DESERTED

The devastated areas in the wake of what the residents of San Francisco always refer to as the "fire," looked no more ghastly than will be the village of Gooding, four miles west of Sparta, in Ottawa county, within a short time. For the village is about to be one-half razed.

Settled nearly 75 years ago by a family who gave their name to the village, the settlement thrived by reason of a grain elevator located there and operated by a son of the first settlers. Prosperity appeared just around the corner, and the settlement had almost reached the booster stage, when, last year, the grain elevator burned.

Then it was discovered that the merchants had been a bit too sanguine, and that there was really no pressing demand for the implement store and hardware store, with the general store and garage, made up the business section of the town. The population recently was given as 74.

Accordingly, when the owner of the elevator moved away, declining to rebuild, the business life of the village sickened and died. Now the implement store and hardware store are about to be torn down, and Edward A. Heaton, a house wrecker, has been engaged to remove the two monuments to failure.

The job will take a month, after which the railroad station of the T. S. and M., a branch of the Grand Trunk, a garage and general store will constitute the village until progress again reaches the spot and heralds by the echo of saws and hammers.

Salem, Mass., June 25.—For more than half a century this city has celebrated Independence day with a gigantic bonfire on the peak of Gallows Hill. On the night of July 4 this year the fire will have special significance for it will usher in the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Salem. Parades, a banquet at which the Vice President of the United States, Charles G. Dawes, will be the principal guest, a pageant, and numerous other attractions will occupy the entire week.

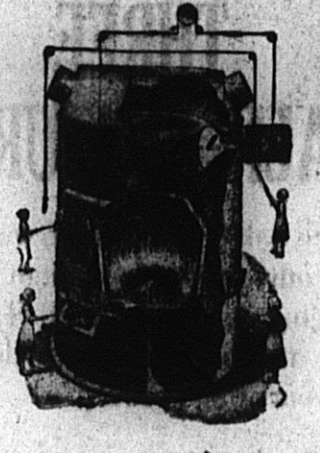

The bonfire this year is 115 feet high, situated on the highest eminence in the city. Its peak is 250 ft. above sea level. More than 1000 discarded railroad sleepers form the base of the huge stack, on top of which have been carefully piled about 3000 barrels of varying sizes. Great hogheads are placed on the lower tiers and these taper to comparatively tiny lime casks at the top.

Every barrel is nailed securely in place and reinforced with wood-braces, as the stack must withstand some heavy gales and the inevitable thunder showers before it is ignited on the night of the Fourth. Inside the stack is a well about eight feet square at the bottom and tapering to the top. It is flanked by the breeze atop the uppermost barrel. Needless to say, the flag is removed before the stack is torched.

May, George J. Bates, who heads the celebration committee, is expected to light this year's fire. An oil-soaked torch will be lighted at the base of the pile inside the well and will be quickly hauled to the top, allowing the stack to burn from the top down. Through many years of practice the men of Gallows Hill have become very adept in building these barrel stacks and they have a beauty all their own, both before being touched off, and while they are ablaze.

Miss Esther Fairbanks gave a miscellaneous shower at her home, 274 West 10th St. Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Marie Damson. A delightful evening was spent and refreshments were served. Miss Damson was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Those present were: Mrs. Edward Baker, Miss Ethel De Jong, Mrs. Margie Beeverde, Mrs. John Warendorp of Grand Rapids, Lucy Moody, Marie Markham, Lucy Damson, Mabel and Gladys Fairbanks, of Holland.

LETTERS TELL OF IMPRESSIONS THAT THE P. T. A. DELEGATES RECEIVED AT MEETING HERE

Ever since the state P. T. A. convention in Holland letters have been coming to Supt. E. E. Fell from all over Michigan containing expressions of appreciation for the manner in which the convention was conducted here. If all the letters were printed they would take up more room than any newspaper could very well give, but the letters are of such great interest and show so well how Holland is regarded in many parts of the state as a result of the visit of the delegates to the P. T. A. convention that a few excerpts are printed below. They are a fair sample of what the letters are like.

Sagunaw, West Side, Mich.
June 2, 1926.

Supt. E. E. Fell,
Supt. of Schools,
Holland, Michigan

Dear Mr. Fell:—I want to congratulate you and the good people of Holland on the splendid manner in which you conducted the convention. I feel as do all of the delegates I have talked to, that it was a real success.

I was especially impressed with your young people. Their wholesome manners are surely the result of years of fine leadership and training. While there, I did not see one girl with a painted face, nor one boy with a pompadour.

Very sincerely,
OTILLIA M. FRISCH,
County Comm. of Schools,
The following from Mrs. A. J. Hendle, 613 N Bond St., Saginaw, West Side:

I might say in this connection that I was much impressed by the happy wholesomeness of the young people of Holland. They surely are a credit to any community. I also noted the almost entire absence of cosmetics, at least painted cheeks and lips, and so little cigarette smoking among the young men. This I might say was really discussed and commented on by delegates.

11400 Dalrymple Ave.,
Detroit, June 7, 1926

To the President of the Holland Parents and Teachers Association and to the Holland Citizens.

After returning to Detroit as a delegate from the Winterhalter School to the convention held in your town, it seemed to me a wonderful hospitality, would express a little of my gratitude.

I have declared that my three days visit in Holland was one of the great privileges which has come into my life. Altho I have had a goodly share of pleasure, travel, and education, never before have I had an opportunity to listen to so many fine speakers with such great vision, and fine ideals.

William followed with the family, working in the lumbering section around Big Rapids with the Blodgett interests.

He described Grand Haven as being just a few hours ride from Grand Rapids, a struggling village, no railroads, very few roads and wild life in plenty.

His father joined the Union army at the opening of the Civil war and fought in the southern division and later William entered the western division, remaining in the service until after Lee surrendered.

For some reason he never came back to Michigan but married in Beavertown, Pa., and farmed near there the rest of his working days. Traveling was not very easy in those days and although he often wanted to see the family, his own car multiplied and he let the years slip by, never seeing any of the brothers and sisters he left so long ago.

Not until he heard of his brother's death did he fully resolve to come back and see what changes time had made in the land of the west as he thought of it.

The message seeming to come from the nowhere fascinated him and awakened memories and desires to learn first hand what had become of all the men and women related to him by ties of blood.

John Dreese of Ferrysburg and John Ten Hagen and numerous other families in the village have been having many reunions in honor of the visitors, and a great time showing their uncle the changes that have taken place in all this section.

Of the many things he has seen nothing that has impressed him more than the motor cycle climb that he saw up a sand mountain near Muskegon.

They left Thursday for Kalamazoo and Sturgis, and then will journey back home.

"Born in 1846, Mr. Dreese will be eighty years old this summer and as he says he does not expect to come back here again but it has been one of the pleasures of his life to compare his thrilling state with the stirring times of the frontier where the huge mill's were just beginning to sing and civilization just starting the Indian on one more move to the still farther west. He is hale and hearty and for many years has retired from active farm life enjoying the evening of his days in the old town that he has always lived in.

AN INDIAN LEGEND OF OUR BLACK LAKE IS VERY INTERESTING

A rather weird but at the same time interesting Indian legend dealing with our own Black Lake is handed down to the present generation. The truth of this Indian story is very problematical and no doubt would bring a laugh from the noted astronomer and scientist, Garrit R. Seiviss who is contributing articles to the national press daily under the head "Popular Science."

Anyway the story goes that years before the white man had cut down the stately forests of Michigan and the lands were occupied by the Ottawa Indians, radiation hath it that what is now Black Lake was a beautiful valley. The sloping hills were covered with trees which gave the Indian hunters and favorite camping grounds and furnished them with abundant game. Following this valley, the Indians came to the great lake (Mitchum Lake), later called Lake Michigan.

In a short time the missionaries began to come, namely, Marquette Dablon and Alonzo, who began exploring and ministering to the Indians. One of the party, Father Rene, was charmed by the beauty of the spot and decided to establish a mission. He erected a hut and began to minister to the Indians who were very friendly.

He had scarcely been here a month when a severe drought began. The sun poured down its fiercest rays and everything began to wither. The springs dried up and many of the young braves grew sick with a fever and died.

The medicine man of the tribe said that "the Great Spirit" was angry because they had listened to the pale face. To please the Great spirit the pale face must die; and after a council of the old men the decree was executed. Then they fired the hut and danced around it in wild fury. But the fire thus built spread thru the dry grass into the forest and there found abundant food. The Indians hurried to the Great Lake which was their only refuge, and many of them perished because they were unable to reach it.

For days the fire continued, leaving behind it a blackened, desolate waste of burned trunks and charred logs. However, the great thunder shower arose and burst upon the raging flames. Torrents of water fell, and it seemed as though the very hills would be loosened from their foundations. Following this a cold icy blast from the west came and froze all the water, making a field of ice. Upon this mass of ice the snow began to fall and continued until the valley was filled with snow. Snow was piled upon the hills around and yet it fell, drifting deeper and deeper.

Late in the spring following this terrible course, heavy rains fell upon this accumulated mass of snow and ice, and the streams went pouring down into the valley, which was the only outlet. This strong current forced its way to the Great Lakes taking everything along that lay in its path, and so dredged a channel to the sea which has never since been dry. The storm outburst, but over the once beautiful valley there lay the expanse of water which is now called Black Lake.

This is an old legend gotten from the Indians by the missionaries and thus preserved and brot down to us.

GYPSIES NOW ROVE IN MOTOR CARS

By Erwin Greer

Once upon a day, years ago, gypsies roamed their laughing, care-free course along the open lanes in horse-drawn vehicles. Many of them had splendid horses and fine equipages. They were sharp horse traders. They could trade one good horse for two better horses and get the price of a third to boot.

But now they speed their smiling course along the highways in automobiles. A glance at the cars parked here and there in camps shows them to be expensive makes. And the gypsy men hold true to their trait. They can trade one good car for two better cars and make you throw in a motorcycle, or at least a pair of roller skates, for good measure.

The outfit is pitched in a California auto camp near Los Angeles—has been there all winter in order to deride the children to school. It is presided over by King Mitchell. His brother, Tino Binabo, of Chicago, is said to be the reigning king of all the gypsies in the United States, in South America, and in some of the European countries. Each gypsy family pays an annual money tribute to the "king of the rats" or king. When he dies Frank Mitchell will succeed to the crown and the fortune.

King Mitchell when asked for his opinion of gypsy life said: "A man a fool to live other way than this. Here every man master of his own tent. Fresh air, much to eat, much sunshine. Give a man big chest and feel good. Not worry very much. Live out in woods and easy to feel happy. Man was born to live free outside. Not set in walls and work like damn fool and get sick."

The kypsy, to our way of thinking, is a peculiar creature. But he is, in the main, content, and his mission is new vistas, new sunsets, and a closer ear to the song that is sung afar off. He has cast his old wagon to the wayside and now darts from campsite to campsite, motor speed. Piled in his automobile are soft, feather quilts. He will sleep warmly and happily where the breeze breathes gently upon the embers of the wood fire before his tent, no matter where that may be.

The case of Harry Lyons, Holland, charged with a statutory offense had a hearing in Justice C. N. Dickinson's court, Gr. Haven Thursday afternoon. Due to insufficient evidence the charge was niled, and Lyons was discharged and he paid $15 which included fine and costs.

RESORTERS BE WARE—POISON IVY VINES

Of all plant pests, poison sumac, with its kindred species, poison ivy and poison oak, are the most dreaded. The slightest contact with the sap, the broken leaves and branches gives rise to a most painful irritation and itching of the skin.

There are persons so susceptible that they are seriously affected by merely handling things that have come in contact with the poison sumac, such as garden tools or the clothing of one who has walked through a poison sumac patch. Then there are others who are more or less immune.

In spring and early summer poison sumac is especially poisonous, but when pores of the skin are opened by perspiration, people who are at all sensitive should give it a wide berth at any season. Usually this sumac grows in wet, swampy ground; its bark is gray, its leaf-stalks are red; the leaves are compounded of fewer leaflets than those of the innocent sumacs—that is, of from seven to thirteen—which are green on both sides; the flowers, which are dull whitish-green, grow in loose panicles from the axils of the leaves, and naturally the berries follow them in the same unusual situation. All the harmless species have red fruit clusters at the ends of the branches, whereas both the poison sumac and the poison ivy's axillary clusters are dull grayish-white. Poison sumac, Rhus typhina, is also known as swamp sumac, poison elder, poisonash, poison dogwood and thunderwood.

Its natural habitat is from the New England coast as far as Florida and westward to Minnesota, Arkansas and Louisiana. It takes the form of a shrub growing in clumps, with tall slender stems 6 to 10 feet or more in height; also frequently as a tree up to 20 or 30 feet high, with a trunk 10 inches in diameter. As suggested by the names applied to it, poison sumac is frequently confused with elder, certain kinds of ash, and various other shrubs and trees bearing somewhat similar foliage; also with dogwood to which it bears no resemblance.

Although it is free to four at the edges of swamps and bogs or where the ground is somewhat dry during part of the year it is at once excluded from plants growing in high, dry locations. Its loose, drooping clusters of flowers, followed by small, round, greenish fruits, are readily distinguished from the densely covered upright terminal spikes of the harmless sumacs, which are conspicuously red in the fruiting stage, and from other shrubs with which it is occasionally confused.

There are certain individuals who are apparently immune from the effects of poison sumac, but experiments seem to show that complete immunity to ivy poisoning does not exist, and many supposedly immune persons have not been immune to ivy poisoning.

The symptoms of sumac poisoning are produced as the irritant poison penetrates the outer surface of the skin. They may appear within a few hours from the date of contact or may be delayed until five days or even longer after exposure, depending upon the individual.

It should be remembered that the surface of the skin and may be removed by a thorough washing and rinsing repeated several times. Careless washing only serves to spread the poison. Do not use delicately perfumed toilet soap—go to the kitchen sink and get the ordinary yellow soap—such which has an excess of alkali is best, like grandmother's soft soap of old—and with plenty of hot water scrub the poison off. The soap should be used freely so as to lather the exposed surface of the skin. Then rinse it off. Do this four or five times and keep the water clean or running freely over the exposed parts. Do not use a stiff brush as it may serve to rub the poison into the bloodstream. Washings may be used if thrown away afterward. When home remedies fail call a physician.

Newspapers mailed in individual wrappers are known about a print shop at a single A. middle-aged lady called at this office the other day to pay her subscription. "Are you on the single list," inquired the subscription clerk mechanically. "Yes, thank the Lord, yes, and I am going to stay there," retorted the lady.

Rest-A-Rest's show that the total loss in the Grand Haven depot fire will reach well over $5000, according to Harry De Marce, P. M. agent at Grand Haven. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

COMMUNITY CHEST PLANS COMPLETE WITH ELECTION OF PERMANENT OFFICERS

Final plans have been made for the community chest in Holland and the organization has been completed with the selection of officers. Wynand Wichers has been named president, Mrs. G. J. Dieken and B. P. Donnelly vice presidents, A. E. Van Lente treasurer and Peter Prins secretary. The executive board will be made up of the president and secretary and three other persons, Charles Kirchner, R. McLean, and J. A. Vander Veen.

The council of the organization is inviting all charitable organizations who wish to participate in the community chest to make their applications at once at the office of the chamber of commerce in the city hall.

Quicker the application is made the better it is stipulated that all applications must be in not later than November first. Those who are not under the wire by that time cannot be accommodated at all. It can wait until then, but must start immediately if it is to be finished in time and so all should get busy without delay, the officials of the community chest state.

Applications must be accompanied by a financial report of the past year's activities, showing expenditures and giving details of what has been done with the money. In addition to this, there must also be a narrative report giving in some detail the story of the character of the work, what has been accomplished, how it has been done and what its purpose is.

The executive committee will go over these reports at their monthly meetings. Representatives of the organizations may also be called in at those meetings so that they can explain in more detail what they are trying to do and how they are trying to do it. The executive committee will make recommendations on the basis of these investigations and will recommend a budget to the council, which is the body that makes the final decision.

MILK MAIDS DEFEAT HOLLAND INDEPENDENTS

The Holland Independents were defeated by the Grand Rapids Dairymen at Grandville in Thursday night's twilight game by the score of 5 to 2.

Reynolds for the Dairymen allowed the Independents just 5 hits, but really a hit at the right place would have turned the tide in Holland's favor, for several times runners were on the bases waiting for just a little punch to send them in.

Boorman of the Federal Factory League club pitched the game for Holland and allowed a dozen safe hits. However, his support was wobbly at times and if the Independents had worn their usual batting togs the outcome would have been different. Half of the game was played in the rain which seemed to dampen the ardor of the local outfit while the Dairys seemed to thrive on it. The Dairys will come to Holland in the near future for the clincher since each team has won one game.

Reynolds, who is a hard pitcher to beat, will pitch again in the deciding contest. Tomorrow Albers will be on the mound against the strong Otsego tribe. Play starts at 3:15 sharp at Riverview Park.

Score by innings:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R H E
Holland 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 3 5 3
Dairys 1 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 5 12 1

Batteries: Holland—Boorman and Spriggs; Dairys: Reynolds and Gordon.

One of the most interesting games of baseball played this season was between the Holland Independents and the strong Otsego team Saturday resulting in a 6-2 score.

In the first half of the game goose egg after goose egg was piled up on the score board for both teams. In fact there were no scores until the fifth inning when the balloon went up for Holland, and Otsego registered three tallies. In the fifth inning Albers, who had been playing fine ball up to that time cracked a double, two men to first base on balls then allowed a double and a single which brot in three runs.

The Hollanders tallied in the 6th inning on an error and a two base hit from Japina. Again in the 8th inning when B. Batema led off with a single and scored when Japina touched up Woodhouse for a two base hit. At the end of the eighth the game stood three to two in favor of Otsego, too close for comfort, the visitors' thought, and proceeded to pound Albers for six hits, scoring three runs which proved too much for the weakened Holland team to overcome.

Woodhouse is a wonderful slasher. The 400 Holland fans present saw some real pitching and too much Woodhouse explains the defeat of the locals. But for the wonderful work in the field and on bases displayed by the Holland team, there would have been considerable more tallies to record.

There was some very sensational playing. Kleis recently added from the factory league, in one instance ran up on a ball catching it, but was compelled to turn a somersault to hold it. Kleis and DeGroot also made some other sensational fielding plays and did fine work with the stick.

During the last two games the locals have shown a poor batting eye, which in a measure accounts for the two consecutive defeats.

In Saturday's game Woodhouse allowed only five hits while Albers let the visitors have twelve.

Batteries: Otsego—Woodhouse and Maher; Holland—Albers and Spriggs.

Michigan will have a population of 5,800,000 within the next 25 years, a survey shows.

LEAD OF FIVE, RUNNING AFTER BALL, QUICKLY CRUSHED TO DEATH BY HEAVY TRUCK

A terrible accident occurred at 5:30 Thursday night at the corner of Sixth street and Elliott avenue, Grand Haven, when a large Standard Grocery Milling company truck of Holland, which was heavily laden with sugar, ran down and crushed Dwin Eustace, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eustace, 404 Sixth street, Grand Haven.

According to report, the little fellow was playing ball with other little boys in the yard near his home, when the ball rolled over into the street and the lad darted after it, not seeing the ponderous truck that was within a few feet of him.

The heavy machine passed over the little body, completely crushing it, and the boy no doubt was killed instantly. Although he was rushed to Hutton Hospital, it was found there that Dwin Eustace was dead.

The man who drove the Standard Grocery Milling company truck was Henry Nienhuis, 13 W. 18th street, and after the accident he was prostrated and could not drive the vehicle back to the local firm sent another driver to Grand Haven immediately to finish the unloading there and to take the distracted driver back to Holland.

Coroner Gilbert Vande Water of Holland was immediately summoned, and he made a thorough investigation of the accident, and together with Chief Pippel of Grand Haven they tested the brakes of the truck and found them in excellent condition.

An investigation by Nienhuis applied his brakes as soon as he saw the boy, and the truck was stopped within twenty-five feet of where the accident occurred. Mr. Vande Water, however, immediately impounded a jury to make further investigation.

The body of the unfortunate boy was taken to Van Zant's Funeral Home. He is survived by parents, two brothers and one sister.

ZEELAND FIRM MANUFACTURES UNIQUE CLOCK

Over in the wonderful space of the Colonial Mfg. Co., of Zeeland in the Keeler building, Furniture exposition, Grand Rapids, they have a wonderful line of clocks, of desks, of book cases and other furniture which is built as well as it is possible for the best of designers to design them. They have there every kind of fine clock imaginable. These clocks are all in splendid cases, wonderfully carved or decorated as the type demands, but one clock is without decoration of any kind and it has a case—after a fashion. It has a name, too. Most of the clocks have some sort of name appropriate to their design and construction, but the name attached to this clock doesn't seem to mean anything particularly. Moreover, while all the other clocks have sweet and beautiful chimes, this one is a cuckoo clock, the only one in the line. The name of it is "Uhde" and it cuckoos not on the hour or the half hour, but every time somebody manages to hang something on Billy Croll or Charlie Burkhardt. Let somebody come in with a remark about Billy's silvery locks and the cuckoo lets go at once. No, this particular clock is not for sale. It is the only one that isn't. More over, only one has ever been built and no others will be. It is not for sale, but Billy would give it away if anybody would drag it out when it lets go one of its cuckoos.—G. R. Herald.

Coming to the Holland Theatre Monday, July 5th, the Gross Ross players will inaugurate a summer season of dramatic stock. This company comes to Holland after successful runs in Milwaukee, Columbus, Port Wayne and Lexington, Ky. It is called the record-breaking stock company, possessing the enviable record of having played 87 consecutive weeks of stock. This is truly a record among resident companies.

The plays that this group of players will offer in Holland will be "The Cat and the Canary," "The Old Maid," "The Bat," "The Misleading Lady," "Katrina's Irish Love," "A Play Like 'Abie's Irish Rose'" "I Love You," "The Seventh Guest," etc.

All plays will be Broadway successes. The Gross Ross Players carry a complete equipment of electrical and scenic requirements for the production of superior stock.

The cast of players includes Karl Way, Myrtle Ross, Russell McCoy, Gordon Taylor, Don Merrifield, Frank Altenberg, Manfred E. Gross, Mary Lyons, Jane Foster, Violet LeClear and Chester Worland, scenic artist. While in Holland, Mr. Billie Dale, who was a member of the Gross Ross Players, will play some of the roles he played while with the company.

The presentation of two plays each week, the first opening on Monday and the second on Thursday. It is only because this company has played so long together that a successful two plays a week policy can be successfully maintained.

The season starts Monday, July 5th, with that popular comedy "The Misleading Lady," followed the second half of the week with another delightful comedy "I Love You."

Henry Kammeraad of Grand Haven who had been previously announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination of register of deeds of Ottawa at the September primaries, has decided not to enter the race after all. Mr. Kammeraad stated Friday that he had decided not to get into the race this year, having made other plans. He wishes to thank his friends for their many expressions of friendship and loyalty and to assure them that he appreciates their support.

Mr. G. Kooyers of Holland, representative from this district, is stated that Mr. Kammeraad is at study of the U. of M. this fall.

The assessed valuation of Muskegon county probably will be boosted $5,000,000 this year, it was indicated today by the equalization committee, which is holding its session. Of this amount, 80 per cent will be on real estate, the rest being on the assessed valuation about the point demanded last winter by Chairman George Lord of the state tax commission.

On Saturday, June 26th, Miss Martha Jane Gibson of Hope College, Department of English, will sail from New York to spend the summer in England, Ireland, and Scotland.

A number of Holland folks were in Grand Rapids Monday morning in the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

SHERIFF INVESTIGATES ABANDONED CAR

Herman Timmer of Zutphen awoke to find a Chevrolet automobile parked out in his meadow, and upon investigation found it bearing a 1926 Tennessee license plate. The car was a 1926 model and had evidently been abandoned, as no one could be found in the vicinity to whom the car might belong. The sheriff's office at Grand Haven was notified and an investigation begun.

The indications were that a tough bunch had abandoned the car after driving it from Tennessee where it had probably been stolen. In the car were found a few pieces of soiled clothing and some bottles that must have contained liquor. It now seems doubtful that the parties that abandoned the car will be found.

CORONER'S JURY HAS BEEN SELECTED AT G. H.

Coroner Gilbert Vande Water, was in Grand Haven Friday, and together with Grand Haven officers selected a jury to pass upon the death of Dwin Eustace, who was killed by a Standard Grocery and Milling Co. truck, driven by Harry Nienhuis of Holland.

The jury selected are all Grand Haven men and they are: John Van Dyke, John Klaver, John Van Hoeks, John Pulstema, Albert Bolt Jr., J. Ball.

If the Republicans should lose the next presidential election; if McAdoo or any one of several other candidates should fail to win the Democratic nomination; if on the other hand "Al" Smith should be named by the Democrats—if all these things should happen then Lakewood Farm might become the "summer White House." This is how C. D. M. tells about it in his column, "Most Anything," in the Muskegon Chronicle.

"A Muskegon democrat suggested to Gov. Al Smith of New York, that the Lakewood farm near Holland would become the summer White House. Mr. Smith smiled and remarked, 'Well, it would make quite a White House.' And while the remark was somewhat jokingly, if such a thing should come as Al Smith being named president it is a pretty good bet that the Getz farm on Lake Michigan would become the summer home of the president. Several vice-presidents have made their home in Michigan during the summer months, but never a president. What is more, a president of the United States would have to travel and search for some time before a summer White House such as the Lakewood farm could be found.

"Few Muskegon people realize the beauty and extent of the Getz estate. This farm is open to the public and hundreds visit it weekly during the summer. Yet few Muskegon people have been there. The Chicago man has a zoo which would credit to a large city. At one time this zoo was much bigger than at present. That was before the war. When the war came Mr. Getz decided that most of the animals should go as he held it the other half of the animals eating food, which might be needed by the Allies.

"Close to 20 gardeners are required at the Lakewood farm, which is located on the shores of Lake Michigan. Here we find ripe bananas, melons, tomatoes, and other fruit growing in the hot houses at the present time."

Mrs. John Griesen, aged 66, died Friday night at her home in Graafschap. She is survived by her husband and four children: Mrs. John Haringsma, Mrs. Jacob Knoll, Gerrit of Adrian, and Henry of Holland. The funeral was held Monday at one o'clock, standing at the home and at 1:30 at the Graafschap church. Rev. Mr. Heeres officiating. Interment was in the Graafschap cemetery.

Allegan is without a crack independent baseball team this year for the first time in years and badly misses it. Allegan fans depend upon the Otsego team for the entertainment this year and are hopeful that it will play some of its games in Allegan this season. Early in the spring a movement started for a team to be formed that would jointly represent Allegan and Otsego. The Allegan team has been organized and is playing one year at Grand Rapids and was strongly in the running in two other state tournaments.

Holland will also miss the Allegan boys but judging from the game played Saturday Otsego has an excellent substitute.

ETHYL GAS BLOWS UP IN DEPOT FIRE

The first fire at Grand Haven since May 31st, when a house owned by Harry Reeves was struck by lightning, came Thursday morning at about 10:30 when fire broke out in the Pere Marquette railway station and before the city department could get a line of hose on the blaze the rear end was enveloped in flames.

How the fire originated is not known, the first flames being seen right over the coal pile in the warehouse. The warehouse man was sweeping cement out of cars on the siding at the time and saw no one enter this part of the building.

Rough estimates at the time of fire placed the value of sundry packages in the burned warehouse at about $1500, principally inbound. This estimate included four trunks possibly owned by incoming resorters. As the records were all in the burning office, it could not be determined at once to whom the trunks belonged.

Later estimates of the loss mounted high with the reported loss of $4000 worth of radios in care of the American Railway Express. Another $900 consignment to a Grand Haven manufacturing concern was reported as a part of the material destroyed. Estimates of the total loss on buildings and freight cars and contents may mount to $15,000 or more.

Both the agent and cashier were in the office at the time of the outbreak and they had not noticed any one in the rear of the depot and could in no way account for the conflagration.

A string of cars, three with household goods and pianos, were on the siding, and these were soon burning in good shape. The loss can now be ascertained at this time. The switch engine in the yards was brought up as quickly as possible to remove cars not burning.

One of the thrills was the exploding of a 10 gallon barrel of ethyl which with a noise and pillars of flame made a most spectacular and startled the crowds.

This was one of three cans, but for some reason the others did not explode. When the first explosion took place there was a great rush for safety by the crowd. The depot at Grand Haven was built more than 50 years ago.

One-fourth of the school children of Michigan have been protected from diphtheria since January, 1925, according to a report just issued by the Michigan department of health. Figures show that enough toxin-antitoxin has been sent out from the department to protect from January, 1925, to June, 1926, to immunize 188,979 persons. This is approximately one-fourth of the estimated population of the state between the ages of five and fifteen. How far ahead of the rest of the state is shown by the fact that in Holland about 90 per cent of the pupils have been immunized.

"Judging from the constantly increasing requests coming in to our offices for information and for toxin-antitoxin, this is just the beginning," says Dr. R. M. Olin, state commissioner of health, in commenting on the report. "As more parents realize that toxin-antitoxin actually prevents diphtheria, that it is furnished free by the state, and that its administration is a harmless procedure, the number of children who are ready to carry out the percentage of protected children will increase."

The child of pre-school age is receiving the greatest emphasis in diphtheria protection campaigns throughout the state; reports to the state department indicate. More than 50 per cent of the deaths occur in this age group.

No harmful effects of toxin-antitoxin have been reported in the nearly 200,000 persons treated. This is due, health authorities state, to the very mild toxin-antitoxin preparation now in use.

Brother and sister met at Otsego, Allegan county, this week for the first time in 15 years when Mrs. Seth Bishop, of Grosse Pointe, N. Y., arrived to visit John Otto. At their first and only previous meeting, back in 1851, Mrs. Bishop was only a few hours old. Her coming into the world cost the day of the funeral. Otto came to Michigan without again seeing his baby sister.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Bishop learned through a distant relative that she had a brother and that he was still living in Otsego. For three weeks of a century neither knew that the other was living.

Lieutenant Governor George W. Welsh of Grand Rapids, chairman of the state narcotic conference, has called a meeting of his state-wide committee at Lansing next Tuesday.

In a telegram to Mayor Elvin Swob, whom Welsh has appointed on his committee, the lieutenant governor stated "the number of narcotic addicts is increasing rapidly, resulting in increased theft and crime. I believe a state conference to discuss the situation is advisable and imperative."

The meeting will be held in the executive chamber of the state capitol and it is probable recommendations will be presented by officials of the Narcotic Educational Association of Michigan.

Grand Haven Tribune—The steamer Carolina came in Saturday morning with a passenger list that included about one hundred individuals that had been attending the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago last week. It is said there have been one million attending this convocation, the largest number of persons ever to congregate at a like meeting and said to be the largest number of people transported to a single city in the world's history. Many from this city attended and are returning during the coming week.

A number of Holland folks were in Grand Rapids Monday morning in the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

The Outdoor Girl

By Betty Jean of the J.E. Penning Co. Home Office—Holland

These are the days when men are—men—and girls are not what they used to be! No longer does the "golf widow" wait at home, or the intrepid miss sit on the beach while the boys swim out to sea!

No, indeed, the girl of to-day is the athletic girl and she participates skillfully in all sports.

Probably this is due to the fact that the athletic apparel of the present modes permits complete freedom so that the feminine world may become adept in all the various forms of Summer activities.

Suits for Swimmers!

The Australian Crawl is no longer the swimming stroke for boys—sister shakes a wicked fin, and, while she will not swim as fast as brother, her endurance is far greater.

The knit bathing suit is now the universal style. With a short skirt for sweet modesty's sake, it is worn from coast to coast, in the surf, at swimming pools, at inland lakes, and wherever swimming is popular (and where isn't it?).

This season the Jaquard patterns predominate. They allow all manner of fancy designs, knit right in the suit. Gay, bright colors will be seen on the beaches everywhere.

The two-piece suit for men and boys is still "doggy"—with a fancy belt and buckle. Of course, for men, women, and children the solid-color suit is always smart.

With several of America's champion swimmers essaying that greatest aquatic feat, the English Channel, much attention is paid to swimming. These champions sponsor the simple, well-knit boyish bathing suit.

Two bathing caps are better than one—so keep the hair dry. A tight skull cap underneath proves most effective. Some girls make gay bandanas of silk to tie over their caps.

Knickers Are Nifty

Knickers, of course! Way back in almost prehistoric style days girls did play golf, tennis, and hike in clumsy skirts. But those days have gone forever.

The popular fabric for outing apparel are khaki, linen, and tweed. Linen is perhaps the most striking and the most practical, for it wears and mends easily.

However, many women sacrifice these for the sake of style! Khaki is the choice of the professional hiker, the Girl Scout, etc., for it is strong, durable, and inexpensive. Tweed shows very little soil.

The sleeveless vest, with a couple of swaggar pockets for luck (and use, too!) is especially favored for wear with knickers.

The New Zip-Knick

A new development which will surely be worn in girls' camps all Summer, as well as in gymnasiums, is the novel Zip-Knick, which takes the place of the cumbersome old gymnasium bloomer. It looks something like track trunks, but has a tight-knit cuff inside. It fastens with a zipper instead of buttons. Already the most up-to-date athletic misses are swearing by Zip-Knick!

Sweaters, Again

And sweaters come into their own! For several years they have been less worn than ever before for sports. Novel effects this season bring them back with certain success.

Sport Frocks

Of course, there are many Summer occasions in the world of outdoor activities when one is dressed in a smart frock—probably a tub silk or perhaps a jolly print in either georgette or flat crepe. Long sleeves will be seen most, although short sleeves are making their appearance, too. Skirts are gloriously short!

Little felt hats and soft straws are what the outdoor girl chooses in millinery. Cretonne parasols prove attractive for the beach and promenade in the scorching sun.

Another acclaimed style is found in the two-piece sport suit of Jersey in the pastel shades. A polka dotted tie adds the piquant dash of color!

A novelty shoe from Florida is the sport oxford of woven leather in white, black, and colors. It is flat-heeled.

The Outdoor Girl will have no difficulty this Summer in finding all manner of apparel suitable for her fascinating activities which make her the charming cynosure of interested attention.
