Hope College Is Ready for Start Of Pilot Training

List of Applicants Is Awaited at School With Certificate Received

A certificate authorizing Hope college to conduct civilian pilot training on what is called the accelerated or full time basis has been received from government authorities by Dr. Wynand Wichers, college president.

The training will run in eight-week periods. A student is required to give full time to the program, the purpose of which is to produce glider pilots, utility pilots, service pilots or instructors for non-combat air service.

Candidates for the training must apply for enlistment in the army air corps enlisted reserve. There are two age classifications, the 18-27 age group for those who do not pass physical or mental examinations for the air corps enlisted reserve, and a group for those from 27 to 37 years of age.

In order to receive the training a candidate must make application to the college coordinator, Dr. Bruce M. Raymond, before taking a required mental examination. If the mental examination and a preliminary physical examination are passed successfully, the applicant must take an army physical examination.

Ground work for the training will be done at the college and flight training will be given at the local airport under the direction of the Northern Air service of Grand Rapids.

Expenses of the course, including board, lodging, transportation, ground work and flight training, will be paid by the government. Anyone interested in the training should apply immediately at the college office, Dr. Wichers said. Training will begin when enough applicants who have passed required examinations are secured.

High school graduates, whether they are interested in a college program or not, are eligible for the training if they meet requirements.

Salvage Aided as Flames Destroy Old Barge at G.H.

Grand Haven, July 2 (Special) —The fire which destroyed the old hulk of the steam barge L. L. Barth here Saturday was marked up today as beneficial to the war effort.

Salvage operations to recover many tons of iron were under way when sparks from an acetylene torch set the 150-foot relic of early lake shipping days afire at the bend in Grand river on the island where the craft had rested for 17 years.

This was the second fire to occur in that locality within two weeks, the dredge Progress of the Lyons Construction Co., valued at about $125,000, having burned about two weeks ago. The Barth had no value except for salvage as its wooden hull was rotted and warped. It burned to the water's edge.

Until recently it was owned by the Construction Aggregates Co. which sold it to Matt Wipperfurth who immediately began cutting up the metal in the ship for salvage. The Barth was one of the few examples of ships of its kind which once vied with the two and three masted schooners in carrying cargoes on the Great Lakes.

The barge was built about 1888, according to available information. The old ship is now no longer listed in vessel registers and at the time of launching it was one of the finest vessels on the lakes.

Soon steel ships made their appearance and the wooden steam barges began to be used in the odd jobs of the lake carrying trade. Many of them foundered and quite a few burned in the lake, death traps for their crews, but the sturdy Barth continued to sail and eventually was fitted as a sand and gravel carrier.

About 1925—the year the steam barge Hennepin, a ship of similar build and familiar to veteran lake men, sank off South Haven—the Barth steamed into Grand Haven and was tied up at the Construction Materials Co. shipyard on the island, never again to sail.

A familiar sight to navigators who use the river here, the Barth became more weatherbeaten as the years went by and finally its frame warped, it was viewed as a menace and the Construction Aggregates Co. employed a watchman to warn would-be boarders, most of them boys and an occasional adult, away.

At one time it was proposed that the Barth be patched up, towed into Lake Michigan and set afire as an embellishment for the Coast Guard Water fete to show lake lumber visitors just how serious a fire as sea really is. The idea was abandoned when the hull was examined.

Many Grand Haven residents expressed a desire that the hull be removed but it was not worth wrecking until the present war emergency made scrap metal valuable.

The hull of the tug Freedom, decommissioned by the Construction Aggregates Co. also burned. It was alongside the Barth and Grand Haven firemen played hose streams on the Liberty whose hull is still sound, and on nearby bathhouses to save them from the flames.

There was little wind Saturday and the fire was hardly the menace it might have been had a wind been blowing. The blackened timbers fell in the harbor and floated downstream.

Police Officer Hurt in Crash

Motorcycle and Truck In Headon Collision on Lake St. Near Factory

Police Officer Rance Overbeek, 29, 635 Michigan Ave., will be off duty for a few days while he recovers from an injury to his right leg which he suffered about 4:15 p.m. Tuesday when a police motorcycle and a semi-truck trailer collided on Lake St. in front of the Western Machine Tool works plant.

Driver of the truck, according to local police, was Herbert E. Harrington, Jr., 79 East 19th St. It was owned by Louis Krikke, West 16th St.

Overbeek was riding the motorcycle west on Lake St. Police said the truck driver drove to the left side of the road preparatory to backing into a driveway to the factory.

The two hit headon and the motorcycle slid under the front of the truck. Overbeek was removed to a physician's office and then taken to his home.

Merwyn Van Doornick, six-years-old, 77 River Ave., suffered bruises about 4:20 p.m. Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile on Fourth St., about 75 feet east of River Ave.

July 4th Holiday Will Be Observed Informally Here

Most of Plants, Stores To Close; Week-End to Open Resort Season

With prospects somewhat uncertain, the 1942 tourist and resort season will open in this vicinity over the holiday week-end when July 4 is observed.

The season for all-summer resorters generally gets under way as soon as schools are closed but this particular holiday is regarded as the opening date for the season which will continue until Labor day.

This year, the country is at war, sales of automobiles and tires have been restricted and threats of gasoline rationing continue, hence it is believed that travel this year will be curtailed and the tourist and resort business will show a decline, according to best reports.

Although the July 4 holiday will be observed in Holland this year, no big celebration has been arranged as in the previous years.

The Holland Chamber of Commerce reported that most of the factories will close for the holiday and week-end while some will continue operations.

The majority of the retail stores will be closed Saturday but will remain open until 9 p.m. Friday for the benefit of shoppers.

The Holland State bank, Peoples State bank and Ottawa County Building and Loan association will remain closed; the Sentinel will not be published Saturday; all offices in the city hall will be closed.

However, upon orders from Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, Holland post office will render its usual Saturday service. The local selective service board will be closed Saturday in compliance with orders from Lansing.

The local office of the U. S. Employment service, located on the second floor of the Mass building, 10th St. and River Ave., will be closed all day.

The Netherlands museum at 12th St. and Central Ave. will be open Saturday all day.

A special holiday baseball game has been arranged by the Flying Dutchmen for 10 a.m. Saturday. The Chicago Detlof Florals will furnish the opposition for the game to be played in Riverview park.

A full holiday week-end racing program has been scheduled by the Macatawa Bay Yacht club. Some of the boats in the Chicago-Saugatuck race are expected to come here. A race from Milwaukee to Macatawa bay will be held.

The two fleets will engage in a return race. A dance will be held at the yacht club Saturday night. Other races will be held on Lake Macatawa and Lake Michigan for local boats.

A blind bogey, an army and navy game and a flag day event has been arranged at the Holland Country club for local golfers who are expected to utilize the holiday for an extra round of golf.

City Included in Raid Signal Test

'Yellow' Alert Heard Twenty-Two Minutes After Lansing 'Alarm'

Twenty-two minutes after a test "yellow" alert had been flashed in Lansing for the entire state of Michigan, the warning was received at police headquarters in Holland.

Donald S. Leonard, state civilian defense commander, said in Lansing the alert was sounded at 10 a.m. Local police received their signal from the Grand Haven state police post at 10:22 a.m.

The "yellow" is the confidential preparatory signal used when enemy aircraft are an estimated hour's distance. It goes to key civilian defense officials, to war plants and some public buildings to give personnel time to get ready for a possible air raid.

Leonard ordered state police headquarters here to "warn" the eight state police district headquarters, which called each state police post in their district. The state police posts then were to call all city and county police in their area.

Local defense control centers that have been completed were also to receive the warning. The warning system is temporary pending establishment of district state defense control centers.

The "yellow" was by telephone. No radio communication was used because in an emergency radio might be ordered off the air, Leonard said.

Dutch Captain Whose Ship Was Sunk By U-Boat Is Feted at Luncheon Here

Dutch hospitality for which Holland is noted is being extended here to a Dutch sea captain who recently arrived in this country after his ship had been attacked and sunk by an enemy submarine "somewhere in the Atlantic."

The captain is Barteld van Dijk whose Netherlands merchant ship and a German U-boat engaged in a fight to death one night recently and the Dutch ship lost to the heavy gun of the submarine.

Capt. van Dijk was a guest of honor at an informal luncheon given by the Holland Chamber of Commerce Wednesday noon in the Marine room of the Warm Friend tavern. The luncheon was attended by a small group of local businessmen.

He advised the luncheon guests that he could not talk "for publication," having been advised before leaving New York city to refer all questions and requests for interviews to the British navy.

However, Capt. van Dijk said he could discuss his experiences "among friends" and during the informal gathering told at length of what had happened to his boat and his other experiences on the sea.

However, it can be said that the fight between Capt. van Dijk's ship and the submarine began when a flare lit the evening sky about 2,000 yards away from the merchant ship. At once the crew of the Dutch vessel opened fire. The submarine replied shelling the merchant ship and setting several fires.

Crew members took to three lifeboats and the submarine came in closer to the sinking ship. The commander of the U-boat asked indignantly why the merchant ship had fired on the submarine.

Capt. van Dijk replied that he had given his crew orders to shoot immediately when a U-boat was sighted. The submarine commander gave the seamen the course for land.

Four days later the men were picked up by an Allied ship. Two members of the crew of the Dutch ship were killed and four are missing, leaving 35 known survivors of the uneven battle.

Having read and heard a lot about the Dutch settlement in Western Michigan, Capt. van Dijk decided to visit Holland and Grand Rapids. He arrived here late Monday and plans to stay the biggest part of two weeks.

His hosts during his stay in this vicinity are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Herrmann of Grand Rapids who are staying at their cottage at Macatawa park. Mr. and Mrs. Herrmann sailed on Capt. van Dijk's boat on two occasions when they took a trip to South America and became acquainted with him.

Tuesday, he was taken for a sailboat ride on Lake Michigan by Mr. Herrmann and the captain proved to be a good inland sailor.

Capt. van Dijk said the Michigan coast with its sand dunes reminded him very much of the Danish coast.

All post office windows will remain open until 2 p.m. but the lobby will continue to be open until 8 p.m. for the mailing of letters.

One city delivery will be made Saturday by carriers but rural deliveries will not be made, Mr. Kramer said.

Postmaster General Walker ordered the regular Saturday service on this national holiday because "in view of the present war conditions, it is obvious that there should be no interruption in the service to all business connected with our war program."

Two of Ottawa Are Sentenced

Grand Haven, July 2 (Special) —Marvin Glocksinn, 18, and Harold Katt, 18, both of Ferrysburg, pleaded guilty Saturday afternoon in Justice George V. Hoffer's court to a charge of breach of the peace. Each was sentenced to serve 15 days in the county jail and pay a fine of $10 and costs of $6. If the fine and costs are not paid each will be required to serve an additional 15 days. It was not expected the fine and costs would be paid.

The two were arrested by city police upon complaint of James Schmitt of Grand Haven, an employee of The Barn. On Saturday night, June 20, the two indulged in a fight and accused Schmitt of telling the manager of the Barn, Joe Davis. Later in the week the youths followed Schmitt some distance to his home and threatened him. When police happened along, the arrest followed. Not being satisfied with their present difficulty, after the warrant was issued, the youths went to the Barn and quarreled with Davis about the situation.

Boy Is Drowned In Pit at Zeeland

Funeral Services for Lester Vander Hulst Is Held on Tuesday

Concluding his investigation into the drowning of Lester Vander Hulst, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vander Hulst, 33 West Central Ave., Zeeland, Coroner Gilbert Vande Water has returned a verdict of accidental death by drowning and said no inquest will be held.

The boy lost his life Saturday about 7:15 p.m. while he and a friend, William Foist, also 9, were playing on a raft in a water-filled gravel pit on South Maple St. in Zeeland township, just outside the city limits.

Coroner Vande Water said the property is owned by Ted Bos, former Holland resident. When Foist reported his friend was missing, an immediate search for the body was launched.

Ted Boeve, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Boeve of Zeeland, was aiding Zeeland Police Chief Fred Bosma and Officer Lester De Pree, Sheriff William Boeve and Deputy Sheriff Edward Brouwer in the search for the body, discovered it in about five feet of water.

Although the body was in the water only about 10 minutes, efforts to restore Vander Hulst's life failed. Zeeland Boy Scouts applied artificial respiration until Police Officers Rance Overbeek, Isaac De Kraker and William Bouwman from Holland arrived with the department's resuscitator. For two hours they worked over the body without success.

The two boys live across the street from each other. Young Foist told investigators that Vander Hulst, who could not swim, slipped off the raft. The gravel pit is from 20 to 30 feet wide and Vander Hulst's body was found near the middle.

Besides the parents, the youth is survived by two brothers, Delbert and Ernest and two sisters, Irene and Viola, all at home.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. from the home and at 2 p.m. from the First Christian Reformed church in Zeeland with the Rev. D. D. Bonnema officiating. Burial was in Zeeland cemetery.

Former Holland Resident Works In Plane Factory

Streur Urges Salvage Of Scrap as Vital to Aircraft Production

From a former "Dutchman of Holland" who is now working at the North American Aviation, Inc., plant at Inglewood, Cal., comes word that Hollanders can help in the building of airplanes by conserving all valuable resources.

"For instance," said A. F. Streur, 11408 Birch St., Hawthorne, Calif., all the soldered electrical connections on our B-25, and there are hundreds of them, can be made by being sure 60 empty tooth paste tubes are turned in. Slaty tubes will do the job on one B-25.

"Approximately 25 old tires turned in will supply all the rubber needed on a B-25 by releasing that amount of new rubber for each ship and making the old rubber available for your retreats. The same applies to your old steel scrap, aluminum scrap, as it takes all of these materials to build one B-25," the letter to The Sentinel from Mr. Streur son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Streur, 124 East Ninth St., said.

When he resided in Holland, Mr. Streur worked for the Spring Air Co., Western Machine and Tool works, Dunn Manufacturing Co. and Buss Machine works. At the North American Aviation plant, he is known as "Dutch Streur" and is using the skill and knowledge he gained through the valuable and patient instruction given him by the men in the local factories and others; not listed, to teach and supervise the new crop of youngsters, both male and female, to build the B-25's, also known as "Jap Traps" or the Rising Sun Setters.

"Give us your scrap materials and our American airplanes will give you victory," Streur wrote. The North American firm manufactures the famous B-25 which Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and his squadron recently used to bomb Tokyo, Kobe and Yokohama. Accompanying the letter was a copy of the Skywriter, official publication of the company, which reported on Doolittle's visit to the airplane factory which he described as "Shangri-La."

"We men of Holland Dutch extraction are very proud of the record these ships have made and are making every effort within our ability to build them faster and better and by fall you will probably hear that these same B-25's are daily destroying the main cities of Japan and in that way making this entire world safe to live in without having to pay tribute to crack-pot house painters like Hitler and mental degenerates like Hirohito and Mussolini."

"Don't forget to help us build these ships by turning in your old scrap of every kind and we will work day and night with what you give us to build these babies that will bring our type of democracy to all these totalitarian countries," Streur said.

Summer Taxes Are Due Monday

Holland Students Exceed Quota for Model Airplanes

Forty Boys and Girl Aid National Project; Honors to Van Dyke

The Holland public schools have exceeded their quota of model airplanes assigned by the United States navy department. The navy department asked the schools of the nation to make one half million model airplanes. Holland's quota was 50. Forty boys and one girl of the Junior and Senior high schools participated. Each student voluntarily accepted the responsibility of making one plane. Several students made more than one. The planes were made from blueprints furnished by the navy department and were drawn to scale of one to 72. There are 50 different models and at least one plane of each model was made. They vary in size from the very small Russian fighter to the four-motored flying fortress, the B-17, and the Pan American Clipper. There are planes of the United Nations and planes of the enemy nations. These planes are needed in the navy and aircraft training stations to assist the trainees in recognizing the planes of the United States and both friendly and enemy nations and for training in gunnery sighting practice.

The average time taken to complete one of these models was about 24 hours. Some of the work on the planes was done in Manual Arts classes in the Junior high school but for the most part they were made out-of-class time. As each modeler (the participating student) completed a model which met the rigid requirements, he became a cadet airman. This is an honorary rank conferred by the navy's bureau of aeronautics. The certificate of rank bears the signature of Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, and of Supt. of Schools E. E. Fell. Forty-one Holland students will receive these awards.

The highest rank achieved by local students was won by James Van Dyke of the tenth grade. He receives a rank of ensign airman, after having completed three types of models. He is nearing completion of his fourth model. His selection of types to make are the most difficult and his craftsmanship will stand up with that of the best model makers.

Peggy Prins enjoys the distinction of being the only girl to make a model plane. She has just completed the ninth grade.

The local exchange club has added enthusiasm to the local project by offering a prize to the boy or girl whose plane was chosen as the best of the group. The prize, a fine flying model plane, was awarded to James Van Dyke. The exchange club committee headed by James Bennett and Russell Welch has taken the responsibility of packing the models and shipping them to the Detroit naval base.

The instructors who directed the students in this project are Francis Drake and Gerrard Harworth of the manual arts department. Mr. Drake secured and prepared the stock, a good quality of white pine, and Mr. Harworth directed the making. The project was started in March. The cost of the materials used in the planes, consisting of white pine, plastic wood, glue, lacquer and shellac, was $17.00.

The students who have made model planes are Melvin Church, Conrad Coleman, Ted Crouch, Bill De Wilde, Dale Drew, Pierce Erb, John Essegger, Allan Fisher, Marvin Gebgen, Dick Gee, Jack Glupker, Bill Halker, Bob Horn, Carl Immink, Bob Isaacs, Roger Kemmers, Warren Knapp, Willis Nash, Chester Oonk, John Pershing, Peggy Prins, Bob Prins, Vernon Ratering, Bill Reeve, Paul Roberts, Jack Seidelman, Ralph Stolz, Bob Stoppels, Bob Sundin, Russell Sysma, Roger Vandenberg, Jay VanderBie, Dale Van Oort, James Van Dyke, Donald Van Ess, Alvin Van Meeteren, Bob Van Vuren, Bob Verbeek, William Volkema, Bob Welton, and George Zuidema.

William Welmors Aids in Compilation Of Grammars in African Languages

With Africa becoming increasingly more important as a theater of war, three students at the University of Pennsylvania among whom is William Welmors, son of Prof. and Mrs. Thomas E. Welmors of 46 Graves Place, are compiling with the aid of native informants grammars, phrase books and dictionaries in languages with which no one except missionaries or traders heretofore concerned themselves.

Each student investigator specializes in one of the Sawhill, Fanti and Hausa languages, asking his informant how to say "mother," "father," "market place," "I am hurt" and countless other words in the African tongue, and recording the pronunciation and probable spelling in English on neat white cards. The project, designed to enable us to know more about the land, the languages and the folk among whom our fighting forces may soon be, is being carried on at the University of Pennsylvania and the University Museum under the sponsorship of the American Council of Learned Societies, a private organization. Dr. George C. Vaillant is director of the museum.

The three Negro languages now being concentrated upon are among the most important on the continent, where hundreds of distinct languages and dialects of ancient lineage are spoken. Most natives speak more than one, however, and these three are outstanding trading and cultural tongues. Hausa is spoken by between 155,000,000 and 18,000,000 natives in Nigeria and the south-west Sahara area. Swahili is the native tongue of 10,000,000 dark folk of Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda. Fanti is the language of about 3,000,000 on the Gold Coast.

Informant for William Welmors is Francis N. Nkrumah, nephew of the Adadi of Nuaem, who rules 5,000 natives on the Gold Coast of west Africa where Fanti is spoken. Nkrumah, a scholar, student in philosophy at the graduate school, is considered an excellent informant in this work. Fanti is said to be more difficult for a foreigner to grasp than English.

The other two informants are Diaf More Akelsa of Nigeria, in Fordham in Hausa for Carleton College of Springfield, Ill., and Joseph Lenggo who is helping Fred Luckoff of Philadelphia, Pa., with Swahili. Akelsa was lecturing on African music in Harlem when the linguists found him and Lenggo is a dapper young Negro with strange designs tattooed on his forehead who hails from the Belgian Congo, an expert with the tomtoms who was formerly with Frank Buck's traveling show.

There are said to be not more than 150 native African blacks in the United States. Frequently they are students, occasionally sailors.

Goes to Prison For Local Theft

G.R. Youth Sentenced For Ransacking Cars; Others Are Arraigned

Grand Haven, July 2 (Special).—One prisoner was sentenced and four others were arraigned on criminal charges on Tuesday before Judge Fred T. Miles in Ottawa circuit court.

William Thomas Smith, 21, of Grand Rapids who pleaded guilty Saturday to a charge of larceny from an automobile, was sentenced to serve from two to five years in Southern Michigan prison.

He is alleged to have stolen a pair of glasses and other personal property from the car of V. R. Patteugell of Lansing last June 24 in Holland. He also was held for ransacking through four other cars near Ninth St. and River Ave. in Holland.

It was learned that Smith was arrested once before in Grand Rapids for the same offense and served 30 days in jail. He was arrested another time for theft from a house and sentenced to serve one and one-half years in Ionia reformatory. He was arrested four times in Grand Rapids for intoxication, was fined twice and served 10-day and 20-day jail terms.

Married and the father of one child, Van Dyke was arrested Monday afternoon by Sheriff William Boeve and Deputy Sheriff Edward Brouwer. He is alleged to have picked up two girls, 16 and 17, both of route 3, Zeeland, Friday afternoon. The officers charged he showed the girls obscene literature in his car and made further advances. When he halted his car, the girls jumped out, hailed a passing motorist and they, together with the two occupants of the car, obtained the license number of the car.

Stuart Zysk, 107 1/2 Washington St., and Donald Seifert, 1400 Washington St., both 16, pleaded guilty to charges of grand larceny. They were released on their own recognizance and ordered to return July 11 for sentencing.

The Ottawa probate court waived jurisdiction in their cases Monday afternoon. They were later arraigned before Justice George V. Hoffer, waived examination and were bound over to Ottawa circuit court.

The boys in a confession to Sheriff Boeve, admitted having taken a number of motorbikes, including those of Jay Cottrell, Henry C. Meyers, both of Grand Haven, Hillman Boat Livery in Crookery township and Charles Gibson of Nunica, from Petty's bayou. All of the boats were recovered by the sheriff's department.

They were more interested in the motors than the boats and several were painted or in other ways changed to disguise their appearance. A third boy involved has been returned to Kent county juvenile department.

Zysk was charged with the theft of the Gibson boat, valued at $650 and damaged about $157. Seifert was charged with the theft of the Gibson boat, valued at $100 and damaged $45.

William Ernest Kline, 33, route 1, West Olive, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving, second offense. Upon his promise not to drink any intoxicating liquor in the meantime, he was allowed to return home until July 11 when sentence will be passed.

It was revealed that Kline's operator's license was revoked at the time of his first arrest, thus he was driving a car while his driver's license was suspended.

He was arrested by state police in Spring Lake township last June 27. He was first convicted in Holland municipal court on Jan. 5, 1942, at which time he paid a fine and costs of $81.55.

Gerrit Van Dyke, 26, Grand Rapids, who pleaded guilty Tuesday morning in circuit court to a charge of indecent exposure, was placed on probation Tuesday afternoon for one year. Huge Acreage in Ottawa Is Listed For Tree Planting

Two Million Seedlings Will Be Available for Soil District Next Fall

Grand Haven, July 2 — More than 1,300,000 trees have been planted in the west Ottawa soil conservation district and efforts will be made to continue the reforestation project for years to come, according to Hunter Hering, chairman of the district's board of directors, and L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent.

Several thousand acres are listed for planting. The district maintains its own nursery and more than 2,000,000 small trees will be available next fall.

Removal of the CCC camp here will have some effect, they said, but farmers are interested enough to carry on extensive plantings. More than two-thirds of the trees placed this spring were planted by owners themselves.

The past spring was ideal for the plantings in the county, they pointed out, and recent rains almost assure a high percentage of survival even if dry weather sets in later.

Two or three years ago the county goal was 1,000,000 trees per year in the district. Last year plantings amounted to 2,500,000 trees. To date more than 1,200,000 trees have been planted under the district program. In addition, Mr. Arnold has records of 93,522 trees purchased from Michigan State college and the Conservation department. Thus the known total to date is over 1,300,000. Thousands of seedlings also were lifted from privately-owned farmer seed beds.

Some growers are going at the tree planting with a vengeance. Frank Van Slooten, West Olive, is a well known grower of pine trees. He now has about 50 acres planted. Some of the trees are over 10 years of age. During past years he has raised his own seedlings. Several pounds of seed were purchased by Mr. Van Slooten this spring. He expects to plant a solid 80-acre tract within the next four years. The district was unable to supply Mr. Van Slooten with varieties he desired this spring so he placed an order for 38,000 trees with Michigan State college.

Deputies Probe Two Accidents

The Ottawa county sheriff's department have investigated two automobile accidents east of Holland.

The first crash occurred about 3:45 p.m. last Thursday three miles east of Holland at the intersection of the East 24th St. and Niekirk roads.

Drivers of the cars were Lawrence Ridder, route 3, Holland, and Mrs. Jennie Hooze, Hudsonville. Mrs. Hooze was driving west on the East 24th St. road and Ridder was traveling south.

The force of the impact shoved the Hooze car into a post turning the car around, facing east in a ditch. Ridder's car continued through the intersection and overturned in the middle of the road.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Brower said Ridder had been mailed a traffic summons charging him with failing to yield the right of way. The second accident occurred late Thursday night on M-21, one-half mile east of Holland.

A car driven west by Wynard Kloosterman, 16, route 2, Zeeland, attempted to pass another west-bound car. Kloosterman said the driver of this car, whom deputy sheriffs believe was Willard Ten Have of Zeeland, increased his speed.

The driver of a third car from East Lansing, eastbound on M-21, drove onto the road shoulder to avoid a collision. The investigating officer said Kloosterman lost control of his car and "dragged" all four wheels 100 feet. The car then whirled around on the pavement and continued backward 117 feet before stopping against a guard pole.

Kloosterman's car also is reported to have barely missed striking Catherine Ter Hoorst, 143 Fairbanks Ave., who was riding a bicycle. Seeing the swerving car approaching her, she threw herself off her bicycle against the guard rail and the car barely touched her clothing, the officer said.

Truck Driver Fined In G.H. Justice Court

Single List Is Not Exhausted Here

But New Draft Order Offers No Permanent Stay for Wedded Men

Draft boards in Holland and Grand Haven have received telegrams from state selective service headquarters advising them to temporarily postpone induction of men who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, pending further notice.

However, draft officials in Lansing said the instructions in compliance with the federal law signed last week offered no permanent guarantee of exemption to married men. Local boards which have ordered induction of all single men in their areas will continue to call men with dependents in the four-category sequence of the new law, they said.

Holland's board said it still has single men to fill draft quotas, but the extent of future calls will determine how long the board can continue filling them without calling those temporarily deferred.

State officials said some local boards had more single men eligible for induction than others. They said a few boards had already used up their supply of single men and that such boards would have to take men from deferred categories—men with financial dependents other than wives and children, men with wives, and men with wives and children, in that order.

Call Upon Knitters To Aid Red Cross

A plea for assistance from Holland knitters is made by the local Red Cross chapter, which has received an order for 200 sweaters for the armed forces to be shipped by Aug. 15. This is a large order, but if all knitters will "rally to the cause," it can be accomplished. Mrs. Clarence Lokker, in charge of the work, said. Those who are working on other items may lay them aside for the present and assist in filling this new quota, it was indicated.

The ordinance, which was given immediate effect as it does not include penalties for violations, is similar to the building code adopted by Holland city's common council June 3 and seeks to restrict construction of unsuitable houses. It affects a district within one and one-fourth miles of the corporate limits of Holland city.

Volunteer Nurse's Aide Unit to Be Formed in City

Under auspices of the American Red Cross, a Volunteer Nurse's Aide corps will be organized in Holland.

Due to the increasingly large numbers of nurses enlisting for service with the armed forces, hospitals everywhere are feeling the effects of an acute shortage of graduate nurses and are turning for help to the Volunteer Nurse's Aides.

Miss Rena Boven, Holland hospital superintendent, has appealed to the Ottawa county Red Cross chapter to organize such a corps for this area.

Mrs. J. J. Brower of Holland, chairman of volunteer special services for the Ottawa county chapter, has requested Mrs. John K. Winter to serve as chairman of the Nurse's Aide Corps committee. Other members of the committee are Mrs. W. G. Winter, Mrs. Nelson Miles, Mrs. Peter Notter and Mrs. Ernest V. Hartman.

Careful selection of candidates for this training is necessary in order to maintain the high standards of hospitals and consequently the requirements are such as to discourage any except those who are sincerely eager to serve on a strictly volunteer basis.

Holland hospital has been approved as a training center, the instructor will be a well-trained graduate nurse and all aides will work under the supervision of a registered nurse at all times and never as an independent worker.

Applicants must be between 18 and 50 years old, a high school graduate or its equivalent, in satisfactory physical condition and be willing to give a minimum of 150 hours yearly service without remuneration.

The training course will consist of a 20-hour first aid course and an 80-hour program under the instruction of a registered nurse, half of which time will be devoted to classroom work and the other half in practice in the hospital.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, the nurse's aide will be assigned to work in the hospital, designed to relieve graduate nurses of minor routine duties and to give the latter more time for strictly professional service.

Slight Profit Is Shown for Fete

Bureau Will Continue In Existence Till Fall Under Wartime Policy

The Tulip Time bureau held a meeting on last Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce office to receive a financial report from S. H. Houtman, festival manager, on the 1942 festival.

Mr. Houtman reported total receipts of $6,859.55 and total disbursements of $6,740.37, leaving a balance at the present time of $119.18.

His report also showed that receipts for the band revenue amounted to $1,973.68 while disbursements totaled $1,468.53. The Little Netherlands exhibit showed a large profit with receipts of $1,605.09 and disbursements of $720.80.

Because of the recent action of the Chamber of Commerce in suspending the Tulip Time festival for the duration, it was anticipated that Thursday's meeting would be the last in wartime. However, since Mr. Houtman's contract runs to Oct. 1, it was felt the bureau should continue in existence until that date to consider any question that would necessitate a meeting of the bureau.

CRITICIZING THE BRITISH

American correspondents stationed in London reported recently that the British passionately resent American criticism of British military prowess. After the fall of Tobruk the English themselves were loud in their criticism of their political and military leadership; members of parliament signed a petition
lack of confidence in the Churchill government, and the man in the street was unparading in his criticism. But when the American papers arrived with their comments on this major British defeat both members of parliament and the man in the street turned against the American criticisms with singleness of resentment.

Nothing is easier to understand than this British reaction to American criticism. If the cases were reversed we would probably react in the same way. If we lost a major battle with Japan we ourselves would feel perfectly free to damn the government and our military leaders, but let the London papers do the same thing and we would damn those same London papers and the whole British people.

All that is in line with human nature, but it is worth pointing out that such an attitude is unreasonable in the kind of world
we have been entering during the past few months. Both the British and the Americans consider it entirely reasonable for the people of each country to rejoice in the victories of either;
for purposes of this war we are not England and the United States and the other countries allied with us, we are the United Nations. What helps one helps all; what hurts one hurts all;
when the British lose, we lose;
when the British win, we win.

In this setup British leadership is our leadership, our leadership is England's leadership. If we blunder the English would have a right to criticize; if the British blunder we have the right to criticize. All the more so in our case because we have been furnishing planes and tanks and men and guns. What is done with the sinews of war we furnish is directly our affair, and if we think the British have not used them to good advantage we have a perfect right to criticize them.

It is not as it was in the old days when the two nations were completely separate national unities. In criticizing the British we are criticizing ourselves, a part of our United Nations leadership.
British resentment is understandable but it is not reasonable. In similar circumstances American resentment at British criticism of American military leadership would be understandable but not reasonable. Since Pearl Harbor
we are all living in a new world;
many people are not yet awake
to this fact.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

The Reverend Dr. Herbert Booth Smith, the retiring moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, says, "The Church is practically the only international organization in the world that is still functioning in spite of the war. The church today is international because it is supernatural based on the conviction that above all nations is humanity,
and above all humanity is God."
Dr. Smith urges that the Church keep five lamps burning. These five are truth in a world of falsehood and confusion, brotherhood in a world of brute force, Christian zeal in a world indifferent to spiritual values, and regeneration
as a preparation for reconstruction.
Why not accept the invitation and go to church next Sunday?

God the Creator
Genesis 1:1-5; 24-31

By Henry Geerlings

We are not overstating the facts
when we say that the first chapter of Genesis is the most remarkable account of creation that has ever been penned by the hand of man. It is not a full and final account of what happened on those creative days, but it is a survey in long epochs of the successive stages by which the creator brought order out of chaos. The more frequently we read it the more deeply are we impressed with its dignity, its beauty, and its divine origin.

In some respects it resembles
other ancient accounts of creation, and its similarities with them have often been pointed out. It would be very foolish to deny that Moses was familiar with some of those creation stories. However, its superiority to them more than hints that he wrote it under divine inspiration. He availed himself of the best ideas on the subject then attainable, put them into worthy form, freed them from all disfig-urements, stamped them with the impress of religion. But he did this under the direction of the divine Spirit. What we have here is pre-eminently a religious document, and therefore it is a revelation of God.

The writer does not argue in favor of the existence of God. He assumes it. He begins with that postulate. Back of all creation he finds God. He has no other way of accounting for what his eyes see and his heart feels than by the acceptance of the belief that God was before all things. When you see the tracks of a camel in the sand we conclude that a camel has passed that way. There is only one rational accounting for this universe, and that is the faith that puts God before all things. Before the stars sang together he was. Before the hills arose, or the trees budded, or the sun shone, or the human pulse beat he was. Begin with God and we have the solid ground of a working faith.

And what he made is good. We like to think of our world as a good world. Of course it is hard to think of it in that light sometimes when we remember how terrible some of its forces are and how heartless some of its processes are. Earthquakes are hardly merciful agencies as we see things. Floods and pestilences and fires and droughts and wars are not to be courted. But even that may work out some beneficent purpose in the end. We do not see the ultimate of things. If we were to destroy all that we think is not good and that serves no good visible or understandable purpose possibly there would be little left in the world. I would have no snakes, no alligators and no sharks and no wild animals in the world and yet all unknown to me
these ugly creatures may have a good purpose in their being. We should not like to think that there is an all-powerful creator, but he is not good and wise—he is malevolent. We should not want to think that he did not create in wisdom and love and with a far-flung gracious purpose. Strange and cruel as some things seem in the world, we would rather think that it is a place intended as the most valuable school man could have in the process of his development. Man is a becoming creature and the world is a divinely conceived aid to his becoming.

And there is another thought as we study this story of creation and it is that man is the very crown of creation. He is God's masterpiece. He is the creator's greatest and sublimest thought. He is most like Him. He can think God's thoughts after him. He too can create. When one begins to wonder why God created man he is compelled to do some very serious thinking and he does not get very far along. But does it not look as if God could not help giving expression to Himself and so He made him to do things too. Therefore He puts him in a world where he must find out things for himself.
He gives him many forces, but He does not accompany them with a handbook of instructions. He must learn the secret of these forces and how to use them. He gives him lightning, but he must make his own telegraph and telephone. He gives him trees, but he must make his own furniture. He gives him stones, but he must build his own temples. He gives him a mind but he must learn to use it. He must write his own books, he must create his own literature, he must take care of his own ideas. It looks as if he has put man into the world to grow a personality.

Vacation Reading Club

with the young readers last summer, will start again July 6 at Holland public library.
Members may register July 6

Holland
In 1912

While Walter Meeks, chef at the Castle Park hotel was on his way to meet the automobile that runs between the Castle and Macatawa, he was accosted by three men who pinned him down and took away from him a diamond pin valued at $75 and all the change he had in his pockets,
began a story in the Thursday,
July 18, issue of the Holland
Daily Sentinel published in 1912.

Yesterday a committee of the Old Settlers' association of Holland and Zeeland located the spot between the two cities where the first shanty was erected in 1847
which was used as a storehouse for the Zeeland pioneers when they arrived in America. The spot was located on the farm of Mrs. Soer, 1,175 feet from the main road between Holland and Zeeland. The committee put a large field stone there on which a copper plate was fastened. On the plate a few facts about the arrival of the people are told and in this way the history of those early days will be preserv-

Vocation School To Launch New Phase of Work

Eighty-One of Men Who Have Taken Courses Have Gained War Jobs

The Holland vocational school for the training of war workers completed all its present contracts with the state board of control for vocational education on June 30 and commenced operations under new contracts July 1, Supt. E. E. Fell of the Holland public schools reported.

More than 400 men have taken instructions in all courses since the vocational training school was organized in Holland four months ago to train men for war industries, he reported, adding that up to the present time, 66 men from the pre-employment machine shop courses and 15 from the pre-employment boatbuilding course have obtained employment in war industries.

Under the expiring contracts, two types of courses are given. The pre-employment courses are for men who are not employed and who are preparing to enter war industries. These run 30 hours a week, six hours a day for five days a week. There are at present three pre-employment courses in machine shop practice.

One of these classes starts at 6 a.m. and continues until noon and another starts at noon and lasts until 6 p.m. These two courses are under direction of Rodney R. Hostlin and Carl A. Schulz. The third class under direction of George H. Rookus and Anthony Tilmans runs from 9:30 p.m. until 4 a.m.

There is one pre-employment boatbuilding class which operates 40 hours a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, five days a week.

The second type of courses are known as supplementary courses, and are for the upgrading of men who are already employed in war industries. These classes are held six hours a week in the early evening, two or three periods a week of two or three hours each between 6 and 9 p.m. Some are held on Saturday morning and others on Saturday afternoon.

At present, there are four supplementary classes for machine shop practice, one for boatbuilding, one for blueprint reading, one for precision instrument reading and eight for general blueprint reading.

Some courses, similar to those now in progress, will be held and others will be organized under new contracts that took effect July 1, which is the beginning of the fiscal year, Mr. Fell said. The three pre-employment courses in machine shop practice will be reorganized under the same instructors. Some of the supplementary courses will also be reorganized under the same instructors and new supplementary courses will be organized.

The one pre-employment and one supplementary course in boatbuilding which have been carried on under the direction of Nelson Longell, will be terminated, and new courses will be organized to open July 6 under the direction of Walter Wick of Ironwood. Mr. Wick has been a carpenter and builder for 28 years, the last 12 years of which he has been engaged in wood boatbuilding. He comes highly recommended by the office of the state board of control for vocational education and by Arthur E. Erickson, superintendent of schools at Ironwood; where he is now engaged as an instructor in wood boatbuilding.

"Wood boatbuilding offers an unusual opportunity to young men who desire to learn a trade for which there is a great demand at present for producing boats for the navy and for which there will be a continuous demand after the war is over," Mr. Fell said. "Many boats large and small of our merchant marine have been sunk and will need to be replaced in order to carry on commerce after the war, and many boat builders will be needed. With several boatbuilding establishments in and near Holland the opportunity here is especially good, and it is expected that the full quota will register for these courses."

Local Couple Married In Quiet Ceremony

Slayer of Many Once Local Man?

Huntsville, Tex., July 2 — Police are somewhat inclined to believe that, with the death of Orrin J. Brown in the electric chair, the murderer of many persons has paid for his crimes.

They also believe that Brown's real name is not Brown and that he was born somewhere near Holland, Mich. Beyond that they know nothing of his early life.

Brown was executed for the hammer slaying of Mrs. Leota Murphy, Marion, Ind., poetess whose body was found along a lonely Texas road in March, 1941. A jury found the 52-year-old man guilty of that crime but police believe the mysterious tight-lipped slayer was responsible for many of the "unsolved" murders around the country.

He was sentenced as John Blodgett in 1915 to Joliet penitentiary, as the leader of an auto thieves ring. He was paroled in 1920, but soon thereafter was returned as a parole violator and stayed in prison until 1931.

Four years later Chicago police walked into a north side flat and found Brown and his wife melting down stolen silverware.

The couple was wanted throughout the country for similar crimes and Brown went to San Quentin where he was kept until 1940.

Then began his career of matrimonial agencies. Police believe that while engaged in this business Brown was responsible for the deaths of many lonely women who had money but wanted a husband.

Police didn't catch up with him, though, until March of 1941, when he stole a car and headed west. Tire markings in the vicinity of the murder of Mrs. Murphy, and letters in her room, led them to his Chicago apartment where he was seized with valuables of Mrs. Murphy's in his possession.

A jury in Spearman, Tex., found him guilty in June of 1941, and after hearing the verdict Brown asked for a sandwich and glass of milk, then went to sleep.

A year later he died in the electric chair still insisting that some one else had killed Mrs. Murphy.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

THE Fourth suggests picnic menus so, although an actual picnic may not be planned, the family will appreciate a picnic atmosphere to the holiday dinner. To give the homemaker an even break, at least one of the main week-end meals should be cold, leaving the head of the kitchen time to participate in the holiday activities.

Among the better week-end buys are cantaloupes, avocados, cherries, plums, watermelons, beets, beans, cabbage, carrots, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, radishes, squash and tomatoes.

Smoked hams, frankfurters and cold cuts are in the group of Fourth of July specials featured by the largest of the food chains. Fowl, broilers and fryers offer other budget suggestions. Chucks and legs are the best buys in lamb, and ribs, chuck steaks and boneless chuck pot roasts in beef.

Marion Rouse Budd, director of the . . . Kitchen, has planned the following menus which suggest the Fourth of July:

Low Cost Dinner
American Goulash
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Enriched Bread
Strawberry Sparkle Gelatin with Custard Sauce
Iced Tea

Medium Cost Dinner
Barbecued Chicken
Fresh Succotash
French Fried Potatoes
Corn Sticks
Fresh Raspberry Ice Cream
Hot or Iced Coffee

Very Special Dinner
Appetizer Salad
Sirloin Steak with Broiled Tomatoes
Creamed Potatoes

In a game called at the end of the eighth inning because of darkness, the Flying Dutchmen of Holland and the Muskegon Lakeviews battled to a 1-1 draw Thursday night in Riverview park.

Muskegon gained a 1-0 lead in its half of the first inning and Holland did not score the tying run until the last of the fifth inning.

Parker, rightfielder for Muskegon and first batter, struck out. Carlson, third baseman, connected for a single to short stop reached second on a stolen base and went to third on Kowolski's single after Wroblewski had previously struck out. Carlson scored on Kowolski's single to left field.

Bob Vanden Berg, pitcher for Holland, struck out in the fifth inning. Cecil Serier, centerfielder, reached first on his single to second baseman and advanced to second on the second baseman's error. He scored when Loren Wenzel sent a single hit into right field. Wenzel gained second base when Ken Vanden Berg, third baseman, was walked, then advanced to third base when Vanden Berg was forced out at second base.

Allen Piersma was the starting pitcher for Holland but, after allowing three hits in the first inning, he was replaced by Bob Vanden Berg who held Muskegon to one single the other seven innings. Mattfojt, pitching for the Lakeviews, allowed the Dutchmen only six scattered hits but two singles in the fifth inning allowed them to score the tying run.

Piersma had two strikeouts to his credit while Vanden Berg chalked up five strikeouts. Mattfojt had 10 strikeouts.

State Property Is on Sale Here

Russell Klaasen of Holland, exclusive supervisory sales agent of the state land office board for Ottawa county, reports that he is conducting a private sale of state-owned lands in an attempt to dispose of all property which was offered at previous "scavenger" sales but was not sold.

These parcels of property came into possession of the land office board for non-payment of taxes. Mr. Klaasen has been representing the board for more than two years.

The sale is being conducted from his office above the J. C. Penney Co. store, Eighth St. and River Ave. and the office hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday.

Mr. Klaasen explained that any prospective purchaser may come to his office or go to any other broker in the county and have him submit the offer through Mr. Klaasen to the land office board which will have a list of all properties for sale with the minimum bid listed. The prospective purchaser must bid at least the minimum price for the property.

He said the bid will be held at his office for seven days to give any other individual a chance to raise the bid within that period which must be at least 10 percent or $25, whichever is the greater, above the lower bid. This procedure will be continued until no other bid is made over the seven-day period. It is the responsibility of the bidder to determine whether any other bids have been made for the property.

Mr. Klaasen will continue the sale as long as any property remains to be sold. Any persons making an offer will have to deposit cash for the amount of the purchase if it is under $100 but if the purchase price is above that amount, a 20 percent down payment, not less than $100, is required.

All deals that are accepted by the land office board will be closed at Mr. Klaasen's office whenever the state sends the deed or contract to him.

At Friday night's session, the Rev. Lawrence Bash of Auburn, Neb., associate president of the International Society of Christian Endeavor, delivered a challenging address on the subject "Doing Good—Always."

"What the world is to us and what we are to the world depends on what window we look through," he said. He described the south window as that of the lazy way, the butterfly existence; the west window as the sunset or the end of the day; the north window as the arctic winds or the pessimistic outlook; and the east window as the sunrise or dawn, symbol of hope and promise. He commented on the war today and urged the young people to use their influence as Christian citizens as they face the greatest challenge in the history of the world.

Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, missionary, teacher, educator and writer, who is well known in Holland, delivered the keynote address Thursday night using for his subject, "Always." He compared two Old Testament heroes, Moses and Sampson, seemingly having nothing in common, yet being alike in faith.

"There is more psychology in the Old Testament stories," he said, "than in all the college textbooks."

"What we are 'sometimes' determines our action for the moment—our reputation. What we are 'always' determines our character and destiny. The subconscious mind is our real self. Character is what we are in the dark," he explained.

Approve Pine Ave. Crossing

Switch Will Be Moved And Street Made Ready For Opening This Fall

Extension of Pine Ave., north from Seventh St., which has been under consideration since the east end of Lake Macatawa was filled in a few years ago and part of the land used as a site for the municipal power plant moved another step towards a reality Wednesday night when common council approved an agreement with the Pere Marquette railroad for the relocation of a railroad switch at Seventh St. and Pine Ave.

At the present time the railroad track crosses Pine Ave. just north of Seventh St. with a switch about in the center of the avenue.

Under terms of the agreement, the railroad will install the crossing and furnish all the labor and materials needed for the work and to move the switch. However, the city of Holland will pay the expenses involved which are estimated at $361.67, including $336.67 for the materials and labor and $25 for railroad property which the city will use for street purposes.

If the expense amounts to more than the estimate, the city will pay the difference but if it is less, the railroad will make a refund. Upon completion the railroad will maintain the crossing.

Ald. Herman Mool said his street committee had examined the agreement and found it in order. His motion that it be approved and that Mayor Henry Geerlings and City Clerk Oscar Peterson be authorized to sign the agreement for the city was seconded by Ald. Bertal H. Slagh.

City Engineer Jacob Zuidema pointed out after council had adjourned that Pine Ave. had been graded northward from Seventh St. to Third St. but is now being allowed to settle. He expressed belief that Pine Ave. will be graveled and likely opened for traffic either this fall or winter.

Unable to Agree On Location of Two Stop Signs

Police and Fire Board And Council Committee Favor Own Locations

The board of police and fire commissioners and common council's public safety committee were unable to agree Monday afternoon on the location of the stop signs at Seventh St. and Columbia Ave. with a result that James Borr, chairman of the board, referred the matter to its committee on traffic and marking and to the council's committee for further consideration.

Originally the signs were placed on Seventh St. but recently the board ordered them changed to Columbia Ave. only to have residents object on the grounds that their children could not get across Seventh St. due to the heavy truck traffic.

Ald. Ben Steffens and Herman Mooi appeared at Monday's board meeting to request, upon council's instructions, that the signs be restored to their original location.

Board members took the position that to change the signs back to Seventh St. would result in the return of heavy trucks to Eighth St., which they have attempted to prevent. Commissioner William Meengs said he voted for the change because he felt there would be less danger should an accident occur to a gasoline or oil transport truck if it used Seventh St. instead of Eighth St.

Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff and other members felt there were intersections more dangerous than this one. The police chief pointed out that installations of slow signs on Seventh St. had somewhat remedied the situation.

Steffens proposed making the intersection a four-way stop. Mooi asserted that council had recommended the placing of the signs on Seventh St. and felt the safety committee should have been contacted before any change was made.

The board felt that since schools are now closed the signs should remain where they are to determine how it will work out and, if not successful, to change them again.

Somewhat irked by the "pressure" being brought by council to have the signs changed, John Donnelly expressed an opinion that someone should seek election on the council who would support the board on various traffic matters rather than condemning the commissioners' actions. He said the board had little to say on traffic problems.

Members of the traffic and marking committee are Meengs, William H. Deur and Donnelly.

Upon motion of Donnelly, supported by Meengs, the board approved the awarding of the contract to Rhine Vander Meulen for the placing of a 10-foot ceiling in the old smoke stack at the former Fifth St. station where the new police radio transmitter will be located. He submitted a low bid of $105, including the installation of a drain. Abel Smeenge, the other bidder, submitted a bid of $83 for the ceiling and $25 extra for the drain. The two sealed bids were obtained by the police chief upon orders of the board.

After Fire Chief Andrew Klomprens pointed out the fire department's hose situation is "serious," the board upon motion of Donnelly, seconded by Meengs, authorized the fire chief to proceed with his efforts to obtain a priority from the war production board for the purchase of at least 1,000 feet of new hose. An order with a company for the purchase of 500 feet which cannot be delivered without a priority rating would be canceled because of its "cheap" quality and an attempt made to purchase a better grade of hose from another company.

Chief Klomprens advised the board he had written the war production board for a priority only to receive a letter requesting additional information on the age of the hose and how much had been purchased in the past eight years. He said the department can equip three trucks with about 7,100 feet of hose but some of this was purchased in 1919. He said that if two fires were to occur within a short time of each other during winter months, the department would be handicapped since the hose would have to be dried before it could be used again.

The board approved action of the police department in responding to calls from outside the city with its resuscitator.
