Stubborn Blaze Damages Mill, Big Warehouse

Flames, Fed by Grain, Spread Rapidly; Local Firemen Aid in Fight

Zeeland, July 8—Fire, believed caused by spontaneous combustion, almost destroyed the John A. Vanden Bosch feed mill and warehouse located on M-21 at the east entrance to Zeeland Friday night. The business was located near the Heinz pickle station and not far from the Zeeland power plant.

Vanden Bosch, who is sole owner of the mill, estimated that damage will approach $75,000.

The Zeeland fire department, consisting of about 15 volunteers and two 500-gallon pumps, was called to the scene about 10:45 p.m. and the Holland department was called soon afterward. Eight men of the Holland department including Fire Chief Andrew Klompars and a 1,000-gallon pump responded and remained on the scene until 2:30 a.m. when the fire seemed to be pretty well under control.

The Zeeland department under the direction of Fire Chief John Wyngarden remained until morning and even then about six volunteers and a pump remained on the scene to keep close watch.

Wyngarden was appointed Zeeland fire chief about two months ago and this was his first major fire, although he has served on the force as a volunteer for several years.

In spite of the late hour, hundreds gathered to the fire and the Zeeland police force and officers of the sheriff's department were on hand to keep the crowds back. Spectators remained throughout the night.

The mill, a two-story building, was 60 by 90 feet and the warehouse adjoining was 36 by 200 feet. The east wing of the warehouse was saved although the other parts of the two buildings were destroyed. The mill, of wood and steel construction, was built in 1939 or 1940, according to the owner.

Vanden Bosch said he will attempt to rebuild the mill and warehouse, but for the present will continue the manufacture of feed at the former mill, a 45 by 45 foot building and a warehouse 132 by 100 feet on M-21 near the west limits of the city. The mill engaged in the manufacture of poultry, dairy and hog feed. The product was distributed over Western Michigan by its own trucks. Twelve trucks of two units each, tractors and semis, are a part of the business. Eight of the trucks were at the scene of the fire but were removed to safety. Normally the trucks are housed in a separate garage downtown, also maintained by Vanden Bosch.

The Vanden Bosch office is a separate building somewhat removed from the mill and was not harmed by the fire.

One of the drivers parked his truck at the mill about 10 p.m. and noticed nothing unusual.

Contents of the mill and warehouse proved "excellent" fuel for a fire. Grains and cottonseed meal and other inflammable materials aided in making the blaze a big one. The blaze spread rapidly once it began.

The fire had gained such headway when the departments were called that it was useless to try to save much, and the firemen confined their efforts to saving the other buildings. Loss is covered by insurance.

Vanden Bosch said he believed some of the machinery of the mill could be salvaged. Most of the fire was confined to the two upper stories and equipment in the basement was thought to be intact aside from superficial damage by smoke and water.

Four Hundred Phones North of City Out of Order When Conduit Is Broken

Andrew G. Sall, local telephone manager thinks that a certain section of Holland has a good idea of what might be expected should a demolition bomb make direct hits on telephone cables, following an accident Tuesday in which a conduit was severed, putting 400 lines out of order in the northern part of the Holland area.

Workers constructing the new road on River Ave. between Third St. and Madison place severed a telephone conduit containing 400 pairs of wires when using a steam shovel in excavation for a new road bed between noon and 1 p.m. The road is being constructed by the J. W. Hoebeck Construction Co.

Three repairmen worked 18 hours tying and insulating the maze of 400 double wires. Manager Sall explained that the broken wires were paired off properly by employing an electrical device which produced a buzz in the corresponding wire in the maze of twin wires. After all wires were tied, the "buzz" was insulated. Sall indicated that hereafter the cable probably would be buried deeper.

Industries located across the lake were vitally affected by the breakdown and emergency telephone crews set up an auxiliary line for Armour Leather Co., Holland Furnace plant No. 5 and Chris-Craft Corp. later in the afternoon.

According to Diepenhorst, Mrs. Stanley sank immediately and he dived several times trying to save her before she was pulled out of the river by fishermen.

Later they were joined by John Diepenhorst, a brother of Erwin, and Jack Hacklander who dragged from another boat. Diepenhorst and Hacklander recovered the body about an hour after they started dragging.

Kempker at present is confined in Letterman General hospital in San Francisco but thinks he may be transferred to a hospital in Arizona or Texas.

Buy More Bonds and Aid the War Effort

Holland Fails to Meet June Bond Sale Quota

Frank M. Lievense, local chairman in charge of the sale of war bonds and stamps, said today that for the second time in two months Holland has fallen below its assigned quota in bond sales.

According to Lievense, local sales during June amounted to $115,968.75, or $37,831.25 under the June quota of $153,800. Sales of bonds the first half of June amounted to $50,325 and for the last half $65,643.75. The county quota for June was $297,000. Ordinarily Holland sells more than half of the county quota.

Holland also fell short in May, Mr. Lievense said, although the city was way ahead in the big drive during April.

Five-Cent Boost Here Protested

Higher Rate for City Employees Sought; Ten
Cate to Explain Policy

Mayor Henry Geerlings said today he will accompany City Attorney Vernon D. Ten Cate when Ten Cate meets with representatives of Local No. 515 (AFL) composed of municipal employees who expressed dissatisfaction with the recent wage increase in a communication to common council Wednesday night. The complaint was signed by G. J. Groenewoud, union secretary.

Following reading of the communication which recommended that council reconsider its former decision in granting employees a five-cents-an-hour raise whereas works board employees received a 10-cent raise, the communication was filed and the city attorney was instructed to explain the council's stand to the union representatives.

The city does not recognize a union in negotiations and the city attorney suggested that an explanation might help ease the situation which evoked heated opinions here three weeks ago. Council agreed that this procedure which would at least acknowledge the communication would be preferable to closing the matter by filing the letter. Ten Cate will not attempt to make any negotiations.

Local 515 takes in nearly 100 per cent of all municipal employees, according to Groenewoud. Up until three weeks ago only employees of the board of public works, the park department and three employees of the hospital were affiliated. Following council's action June 16 in voting the five-cent raise, most of the other municipal departments joined the union, he said. Lester Overway and Groenewoud, both employees of the board of works, are union president and secretary, respectively.

Holland and Former Grand Haven Youths Believed on Lost Destroyer

Two navy men of this area apparently were aboard the U. S. destroyer Strong when it was sunk Sunday night at New Georgia island in the Solomons.

The Strong, with a normal complement of 250 men, was sunk during a bombardment of Vila and Bairoko on Kula gulf Sunday, a prelude to the Kula naval battle. It was presumed that a Jap sub torpedoed the destroyer.

The two are Seaman First Class Jack Hiemenga, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hiemenga, 181 West 15th St., and Seaman Robert Hill, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hill of Grand Rapids who spend summers at Highland park, Grand Haven. The Hills formerly resided in Grand Haven.

Mrs. Hiemenga said that four letters dated from June 20 to 27 were received Tuesday from her son. Both she and her husband have high hopes of the local boy's safety since they believe the ship could not have been far from shore.

Seaman Hiemenga who was stationed behind anti-aircraft guns on the destroyer, according to his parents, would have a pretty good chance of escape if he was not injured. He enlisted with the navy July 31, 1942, received his boot training at Great Lakes, Ill., was sent to Portland, Me., and was assigned to the new destroyer which was leaving on her maiden voyage. The destroyer did convey duty on the Atlantic for several months and returned to New York shortly before Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Hiemenga visited their son in New York at that time.

The ship left on Christmas day for the Pacific area and the next the Hiemengas heard from their son he was in the South sea islands. Hiemenga was 22 years old May 1. He indicated a sailor from Alma was aboard the Strong.

Seaman Hill is a member of the Sons of the American Legion of Grand Haven and his father is a member of the Grand Haven American Legion post.

Defense Plants to Issue 'A' Rations

Other Book Holders to Apply Through Office When Forms Arrive

Autoists here should not apply for basic "A" gasoline ration books until the renewal blanks are received in Holland, the local war price and rationing board said Friday.

When the new forms arrive in Holland they will be available at local service stations. In applying for the new "A" book, the applicant must include the back cover of the old "A" book, the tire inspection sheet and the renewal form (R-570) completely filled out. These applications must be mailed to the local rationing office, not taken in, office personnel pointed out.

As an added convenience, defense workers may secure their new "A" books at their plants. Arrangements have been completed to set up centers at the Fafnir Co., Mart and Cooley Mfg. Co., Holland Hitch Co., Holland Furnace Co., Western Machine Tool works, Dunn Mfg. Co., Holland Precision parts, H. J. Heinz Co. and Holland-Racine Shoes, Inc.

The present "A" book expires July 21.

The rationing office also said 300 applications for tires have been carried over from June to July and these applications will exhaust the July quota. Effective July 1, holders of "A" books who do not use their cars for occupational driving will not be eligible for new tires. This temporary restriction will be in effect for two months. "A" book holders using their cars for occupational driving who apply for tires must state clearly under item 5 of the second page how much their cars are used for essential driving.

For the present, due to the limited quota, local holders of "B" books will be eligible only for grade 3 tires, the board said.

Second Aide for Vande Bunte Is Voted by Board

Lamb Said to Be in Line for Job; Action On Pension Delayed

Grand Haven, July 8 (Special)

The Ottawa county board of supervisors voted 21 to 5 Thursday afternoon in favor of authorizing County School Commissioner Dick H. Vande Bunte to hire an additional second helper at a salary not to exceed $2,000 per year and a further allowance of five cents per mile for necessary travel not to exceed a total of $600 in any one year.

Mayor Henry Geerlings who submitted the motion said boys and girls of rural communities should be given every opportunity the board can possibly give them. Henry Slaughter of Tallmadge township stated he felt Mr. Vande Bunte should take over some of these duties himself and help out the teachers instead of taking someone else from the field which is now so short of teachers.

That the plan was a step forward was pointed out by Gerritt Bottema of Spring Lake who said he was under the impression Mr. Vande Bunte had a man in mind for the job. Mr. Slaughter stated that this person should also act as a truant officer.

It was later brought out that the person Mr. Vande Bunte has in mind as his assistant is Raymond Lamb, district 4-H club agent.

Maynard Mohr of Zeeland township said he understood the second helper teacher would devote some time to vocational work and also to special delinquent problems.

Mr. Vande Bunte expressed his thanks for the action of the board and said, "It gives me renewed courage and faith and I hope I won't betray the trust that you have placed in our department and our office. I assure you we are going to get the very best possible individual for this particular job which I have in mind, one who will work with young people in delinquency, vocational, training and guidance work." He treated the board to candy and cigars.

No action was taken by the board on the proposed pension plan for employees of the road commission. Mr. Mohr made a motion that the matter be referred jointly to the good roads committee and the committee on finance and budget.

Two reports of the finance and budget committee were adopted by the board. One recommended that $300 be appropriated to assist in payment of traveling expenses of a 4-H agent who will devote half his time to Ottawa county, providing a like amount is appropriated for the payment of the remainder of such expenses by either Allegan or Muskegon county, such agent to devote half his time to the county making the appropriation.

The other report recommended that the request of the county agricultural agent be granted for the appropriation of $150 for traveling expenses of Roy Lowing in his work of assisting the agent in securing and placing farm labor until the federal government provides for such payment, the amount to be later repaid by government funds when available.

Group Commissioned in Australia

Among 19 western Michigan men who were commissioned as second lieutenants upon graduation from officers' candidate school "somewhere in Australia," was Homer C. Lokker, son of Mrs. Nellie Lokker of 108 East 14th St.

Mrs. Lokker said she had received no official word from her son but she is expecting a cable confirming his promotion. In a letter written May 30, he described his work at the school and said the course would last about 4½ weeks more, which would place graduation ceremonies about June 30. The officers' training course lasted three months.

Lieut. Lokker said he was thankful he had not accepted a commission before going to the school as he welcomed the opportunity for rigid training he received there.

Prior to entering officers' training school, Lieut. Lokker saw action in New Guinea where he was with a headquarters detachment as a first sergeant. Lieut. Lokker was a member of Co. D of the national guards and left with them for initial training in 1940 in Louisiana. He was also stationed in Massachusetts for a time before going overseas.

State Threatened By Army Worms

The destructive army worm has made its appearance in Michigan from reports heard by L. R. Arnold, Ottawa County farm agent. Van Buren and Muskegon county farmers are now reporting attacks. The army worm will attack small grains, hay fields, or almost anything. The work on small grains can be recognized by the bare stalks with heads lying on the ground. On corn the worm sometimes eats the entire small plant.

Farmers should be on the lookout for this enemy, Arnold said. Prompt action is necessary if the insect does appear. If the first brood is unmolested a second and worse brood will follow. The worms have appeared before the normal date due to wet and windy weather. In bad infestations the worms have been known to occur a million to an acre and in some instances have blocked highways and stopped trains. The insects have a tendency to march in solid mass from field to field.

The entomology department, Michigan State college, recommends that farmers look for the pest at night and place a poison bait of bran and sawdust or ground grain. A pound of white arsenic, paris green or sodium fluosilicate and chopped lemon or orange should be mixed with each bushel of bran or grain, broadcast at rate of 40 pounds to an acre.

Sometimes furrows are plowed at the edge of field and when worms have accumulated in the furrows they are plowed under. An infestation in 1943 would be most serious. No farmer should allow this enemy to get in any ticks during this war year, Arnold emphasized.

To Discuss Rationing Of Food Here Friday

J. S. Stuart McCrath, district meat rationing representative, will explain various problems in connection with food rationing at a meeting of local restaurant operators Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the war price and rationing board office on the second floor of the John Good building. There probably will be some emphasis placed on a meatless day.

"I'm a Signal Corps soldier. In our outfit we fight with field telephones, wire and switchboards, as well as with machine guns. So I know what happens on a long distance switchboard when too many folks want to make calls at the same time. There's an overload — and calls are delayed."

You must be the judge as to whether your call is sufficiently important to justify its being placed on the warburdened long distance system. Even if you ordinarily make only two or three long distance calls a month, you will be helping if you cut down on the number.

To help speed the handling of the most essential calls, you are asked to do these things —

Please make only the most necessary calls.

WELL, THAT WAS THE IDEA

President William Green of the AFL wrote President Roosevelt, after the passage of the anti-strike bill over the president's veto, that it would be the endeavor of his organization to see to it that there would be no strikes for the duration. That policy, he pointed out, would make the Smith-Connelly bill "in-applicable."

In almost the same words, the president of the CIO conveyed the same information to the president.

Well, that was the idea of the anti-strike bill. Congress was looking for a formula or device that would keep the nation free from strikes during an emergency that is threatening the very life of the nation. The administration had failed to prevent strikes—in spite of the president's persuasive argument that "labor" had lived up to its "no-strike pledge." So congress took on the job.

The president in his veto message, the presidents of the AFL and CIO and nearly all other opposing labor leaders protested that the bill would encourage strikes instead of preventing them. Then in almost the same breath those same leaders declare that the "labor" they control will conduct itself in such a way that it will not be necessary to apply the anti-strike bill.

That's fine. If the anti-strike bill has the effect the labor leaders seem to think it will have it will do what congress—and the American people, whose wishes congress quite certainly voted in law—wanted it to do. We average citizens who are interested in not much of anything else just now beside winning the war don't care a rap if the anti-strike bill is never applied. We hope that it will remain merely a printed statute in the government's records. It's results were after.

The anti-strike bill is obviously an emergency measure. The labor leaders are evidently afraid that it will affect labor after the war. Why else all the hostility assert that during the war the bill will not be applicable? The bill may have many faults but it would be worth while if for no other reason than that it has given notice to what is after all a small minority of America's laboring men—organized labor—that the American people are determined to do what must be done to win the war.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

There are two vital functions of the church that ought now to be greatly intensified, they are worship and prayer. Jesus made this fact clear by precept and example. By these means Christian character is formed, and that is what this world needs.

In every prayer our boys in arms ought to be remembered. It is suggested that this added verse to "God Bless America" be sung often as a prayer:

"God bless our service boys, Boys whom we love;
Walk besides them and guide them

In the light of thy love from above;
Hold them safely in thy keeping

Till this worldwide war is o'er,
God bless our service boys
For evermore."

Why not accept the invitation and go to church next Sunday?

God Calls a Leader
Exodus 3: 1-12
By Henry Geerlings

At Joseph's death the Israelites were well established in Egypt. If they had a leader between that time and the rise of Moses we do not know of him. They must have missed this wonderful son of Jacob when the reins of government slipped from his hands. Perhaps his troubles with the Egyptian authorities began about that time.

The birth of Moses was one of God's answers to the cries that arose to Heaven. The training of this son of obscure parents from early infancy until he was 80 years old, while having no particular point in his own mind, was God's way of qualifying him for one of the greatest services ever rendered by one individual to the human race. The hand of the Almighty was signally upon his life from the very start. He was a man marked for distinguished service and honor. And any reading of Moses' life that lets God out fails to find the secret of his strength.

Moses had godly parents, and, despite the cruel decree, he had the privilege of being under their care for eight or ten years. In that tender and plastic period they were able to plant in his life the fundamental principles of the religion of the one God. Knowing that he was soon to be taken from them made them all the more serious to start him right by confirming him in the faith of his fathers. And it would be a strange thing if we had to believe that even when he was separated from them there were no safeguarding contacts between him and his home. Then there was the education he would get in the king's palace. And what training there! He was schooled in all the wisdom of the Egyptians. He had the chance of looking into the machinery of law-making, national movements and government operations. Quietly he was learning the lessons that were to be indispensable for him in later years. And then there were the 40 years in the wilderness. Here he received his spiritual training.
He had time to commune with God. He thought of himself, his people, his life work, his God. The wisdom gained in the palace was knit to a high purpose through a terrible heart struggle.

When a believing race was to be developed it was God and Abraham who did it. When a nation was to be set free, it was God and Moses who did it. When the hordes of Midianites were to be hurled back it was God and Gideon who did it. When nations were to be shaken to their center by Christian truth it was Christ and Paul who did it. When wonderful righteousness was to be combated and the pure gospel restored to the people it was Christ and Luther who did it. Man is God's human colleague in earthly enterprises.

It is impossible to think that God's care of Moses at any point from the cradle to the grave was for the benefit of Moses alone.
His eye was on the people whom He had chosen. The qualities in which Moses was being cultured were to be employed in the breaking of the bonds of slavery.
So far as we know nothing Moses was or learned or achieved was for himself alone. God thought of it in connection with a nation of human souls. What I have and own is not mine, all and only for myself. In the mind of God it is fuel for fire in many hearts.
What we used to interpret as personal providence we are now interpreting more as a social providence, without destroying the personal element in it.

The church of Christ is indestructible. The bush was on fire, but it was not consumed. That was unusual, for the acacia wood, dry and brittle, burns easily. And Moses expected to see the tree no more when he beheld the eager flames wrapping themselves about its leaves and branches. It was a symbol to him of the persistence of life that Israel possessed, even though enshroued with the fires of affliction. The truth there set forth in figure, Jesus clearly proclaimed when He said that upon this rock He would build his church. The ingenuity of all her enemies and the combined armies of darkness have not been able to check her conquering march. God is in the midst of her.
She shall not be moved.
