Police Chief Asks New Ordinance Controlling Liquor

Holland Drinking Habits Getting Worse, Annual Report Says

A new liquor ordinance for Holland was recommended by Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff in his annual report submitted to Common Council Tuesday night.

Chief Van Hoff emphasized the advisability of regulating closing hours, Sunday closing, sanitation, entertainment and various other regulations, rather than limiting the number of places selling intoxicating liquor. Only beer and wine may be served on the premises in Holland.

It is now quite apparent that beer is here to stay; that drinking conditions, even in Holland are getting worse. Therefore, we feel that we should have an ordinance regulating the sale of intoxicating beverages," the chief said in his report.

He said only Ludington has a black list similar to Holland's. In this practice, names of all persons guilty of drunk charges are put on the lists which are sent to all taverns and bartenders are instructed not to serve any beer or liquor to that person for a year.

Van Hoff said Ludington, Alma, St. Joseph, Big Rapids, Benton Harbor, Flint, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Bay City and Royal Oak all have ordinances on the sale of liquor and also provide a misdemeanor charge for minors falsifying his age.

He said several cities have ordinances limiting the number of places selling intoxicating beverages and all licensees are able to enjoy a profitable business. In Holland there are 10 places where beer is consumed on the premises plus four clubs, comparing favorably with other cities. Sault Ste. Marie has limited the number of taverns to 26 with provision that no new licenses be issued until the number is at 20. Grand Rapids has 250 licensed taverns and plans to cut to 175 in the future, according to the report.

Van Hoff also suggested that the ordinance requires an applicant to have been a resident of the city for at least six months before applying. Lansing and Flint have such ordinances and Flint, Saginaw and Grand Rapids refuse to license any person convicted of a crime, the report read.

"Royal Oak has an ordinance making it unlawful to employ any person under 21 where intoxicants are sold except the son or daughter of the owner who may be employed at the age of 18," the report said.

His report concluded, "Of course, we should not expect our city attorney to draw up all these new ordinances on the small salary paid him as such. It takes a lot of time and research to compile a good ordinance and he should be paid for this extra work accordingly."

The proposed ordinance was referred to the License and Ordinance committees for study.

Mediation Panel Now Considering Job Classification

New Reports on City Labor Dispute To Be Submitted on July 8

Settlement of a wage dispute between municipal employees and the city of Holland, which resulted in a one-day strike May 8, rested today on drafting a job classification system within each department of the city, following several meetings here Monday.

This information is expected to be compiled this week and will be submitted to the three-man mediation commission appointed by Gov. Harry Kelly last May, according to the Rev. Marion de Velder, chairman of the three-man panel. Other members are Dr. Irvin J. Lubbers, president of Hope college, and Philip J. Maloney of the state labor conciliation service.

The commission met at 4 p.m. with representatives of the employees, at 7:30 p.m. with representatives of the city and called a joint meeting at 9 p.m.

De Velder said four proposals were discussed in detail. They are:

1. Minimum wage or minimum hourly rate for city.
2. Adjustment of wages based on certain percentage above wage received Jan. 1, 1941.
3. Review of job classification within each department or board.
4. No reduction in any employee's wages.

De Velder said the first proposal was discussed at length. He added complete agreement was not reached but came very close.

After a long discussion on the second proposal, it was felt it could not be separated from the third proposal, and meetings were recessed until 4 p.m. Monday, July 8, at which time the panel will meet with representatives of the city and municipal employees.

De Velder said the commission was appointed to mediate the dispute between the city and employees of the police department, park and cemetery department and board of public works. He said while the commission has no real jurisdiction over other departments on the same basis.

All benefits will be retroactive to May 1, de Velder emphasized. After the dispute is settled, Maloney likely will present a report to the governor.

Chief Van Hoff Urges Sane Fourth in Holland

Pointing out the fact that Holland has been comparatively free from serious Fourth of July accidents in recent years Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff today urged local residents to "keep it that way" and issued a warning to "especially watch the children."

Park Superintendent Dick Smal-jenburgh said Robert Van Dyke will be on duty as life guard at Kollen park between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Thursday.

The national safety council predicted earlier today that 1,300 persons will be killed accidentally throughout the U.S. during the long Fourth holiday, Thursday through Sunday. Of these, it said, 450 will die in traffic mishaps while 850 will be killed by fireworks, drowning, falling down stairs and similar accidents. They expected 800 deaths to be reported immediately and 500 later.

It's the Cross Before the Name That Counts; Overt

Proper procedure on putting "write-in" candidates on the ballot for the board of education election Monday, July 8, was outlined today by John Overt, clerk of the board.

Overt emphasized that the cross (X) before the name is necessary for the vote to count. Hence, should the voter wish to substitute a name or names for one or more of the three incumbents seeking re-election, he should list the new name or names in the blank portion under the regular candidates and make the required cross.

Polls in the GAR room on the first floor of City Hall will be open from 2 to 8 p.m. Members seeking re-election are C. J. De Koster, member for 15 years; Prof. A. E. Lampen, member for 12 years, and E. V. Hartman, member six years.

To date, no candidate has appeared as a write-in candidate, although it was understood one or two men were being considered.

The school election is open to all qualified voters in the city and is not limited to taxpayers or persons who have children of school age as is popularly believed.

City Clerk Oscar Peterson said there is no deadline on registration for the school election. He said the only time registration of voters is closed is 20 days before the primary election and 20 days before the regular election.

The city's registration books are used here as basis for qualified voters in the school election. Some cities have separate registrations.

Travels 8,000 Miles With Master

Ex-Col. "Snooky," discharged at Camp McCoy, Wis., in May poses in full military regalia. (The feet belong to Harvey Van Tatenhove, his master.)

Col. Snooky Sports Good Conduct Medal

"Snooky's back in civvies and don't think he doesn't enjoy it during these hot 'dog days!'"

However, the playful pup still retains the snap and dignity becoming his rank of "colonel" in the Red Arrow division, though his discharge is carefully tucked away with that of his master, Harvey Van Tatenhove of route 2.

It all started when young Van Tatenhove, Red Arrow vet and son of Mr. and Mrs. Marinus Van Tatenhove picked up "Snooky" (whose name on Army documents reads "Boony Lee Snooks, colonel"), from another GI in Kyushu, Japan.

So attached did he and his buddies become to the animal that they had a Yokohama tailor prepare a "made-to-order" uniform for their pet. "Snooky," as the enlisted gang affectionately called the "old man," wears many ribbons and decorations (including the good conduct ribbon) and is justly proud of the eagle on his breast.

A product of Spitz and French poodle parentage, "Snooky" is rapidly becoming acclimated to life in the United States after his 8,000 mile trip home with Van Tatenhove. He was smuggled aboard ship in a small handbag by his master and traveled in the hold. When Van Tatenhove was discharged in May at Camp McCoy, Wis., he also obtained a photograph of a discharge for "Snooky."

Colleys from AMBUSH

Feeling slightly conspicuous, the Ambusher makes this initial bid for your favor. How long he survives will depend on how long he can interest you with the amusing side lights that bring chuckles to the reporter as he goes about his daily task of assembling the news that goes to make up your news paper.

The Ambusher thinks you should know no definite program has been outlined. No sturdy reportorial oak he—knowing all in the manner of more fashionable commentators—but the slender willow quick to respond to caprices of the elements.

The Tower clock may be pining. At least it has refused to function as a time piece since Police Sgt. Jerry Vanderbeek left on vacation. No less rank than Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff thrice climbed the tower to serve as official winder. His efforts availed him not.

Bill Schierbeek and Henry Ver Hulst, city hall janitors, are deserving of good neighbor medals. Figuratively they rode to aid a lady in distress. 'Twas no dragon to be slain. The L.I.D. had dropped her car keys through the grating into the sewer drain five feet below street level. The city servants lifted the grating and fished the keys out with a rake. It was a neat trick, too, since a foot of muddy water and sludge in the drain covered the keys.

A "state of the union" note—During the Senate battle over OPA extension a United Press writer filed the following: "Administration leaders today promised a night session if necessary to break a threatened filibuster. . . . As much as to say that keeping the Senators after hours was the ultimate punishment."

And Sea Scouts aren't supposed to be superstitious! Skipper Fred Bocks of ship 17, the Ben Homme Richard, adopted a stray kitten in St. Joseph. The gray and white stray was formally named "Bonnie." And Bonnie is credited with bringing luck to the locals at the West Michigan Senior Scout rendezvous. Besides bringing home Bonnie, Skipper Bocks brought home first prize for the Sea Scout division. A $300 compass, no less. Bocks wouldn't part with Bonnie now under any condition.

It takes a lot to distract a determined female from a nylon line, but troubles of a clerk in a local department store gained him a considerable audience of shoppers for hard-to-get items. One of those fascinating little change carrier cars got stuck. He unstuck it with unsteady proddings with a long pole. Then it stuck again. While the gallery cheered, it was prodded loose and the clerk fielded it neatly.

Final repairs were made from the top of a ladder.

253 Army Dead In Ottawa And Allegan Area

War Department Lists Total United States Losses at 308,978

Names of 166 men and women of Ottawa county and 87 of Allegan county are included in the World War II honor list of dead and missing, released today by the War Department.

A 66-page booklet for Michigan Army casualties is one of 50 such booklets published for each state plus one for the District of Columbia and one for the territories and possessions of the United States.

The project is the first consolidated listing of Army dead and missing in World War II, a compilation of the names of nearly 310,000 men and women who gave their lives in the nation's service.

Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties are not included in the War Department report.

An over-all death and missing rate of 2.98 per cent from all causes was indicated by the listing. Of more than 10,000,000 men and women mobilized into the Army between the Presidential declaration of unlimited national emergency May 27, 1941, and the concluding date of the study, Dec. 31, 1946, a total of 307,554 had been killed in action, died of other causes or became missing, later to be determined dead. In addition, 1,424 persons were still carried as missing last Jan. 21, bringing the total number of names in the list to 308,978.

The Army's compilation — its first official listing of war casualties — lifted to nearly 400,000 the number of deaths in World War II. The Navy department announced last week that 87,659 members of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard are listed as dead or missing.

To insure greatest accuracy in preparation of the lists, the Adjutant General's office in Washington used punch-card tabulating and printing machines which automatically printed from coded cards the information appearing in the books. In releasing the booklets, the War Department pointed out that the listing was a preliminary one, and might because of its scope contain errors that would be corrected when determined.

The state of Michigan contained 3.91 per cent of the population of the United States and possessions (excluding the Philippine Islands) in 1940 and contributed 4.06 per cent of the total number who entered the Army. Of these men and women of Michigan who went to war, 3.12 per cent failed to return. This figure represents 4.20 per cent of the Army's total dead and missing. In Michigan 7,766 were killed in action, 1,165 died of wounds, 40 died of injuries, 3,066 died (non battle), 788 were declared dead after a lapse of at least one year, and 61 are missing, making a total of 12,885.

HOW IT WORKS

There are two atomic energy control plans before world public opinion at this time. One was suggested by Bernard Baruch and received the blessing of President Truman; in general it may be looked upon as the American plan. The other was suggested by the Russian delegate to the UN security council, Comrade Gromyko, and presumably has the endorsement of Stalin; in general it may be regarded as the Russian plan.

Well and good, so far. There is no reason why we here in America should necessarily assume that our particular plan must prevail. But neither is there any reason why the people of Russia should assume that their plan is a "must." In a genuinely reasonable world both the people of America and those of Russia would stand up the two plans side by side and look at them from all angles. Having done that they would then pick the one that would give the greater promise of maintaining the peace, or perhaps they would merge the two, if that held out the best prospect for achieving the same result.

But up until this moment — while this is being written, there may be a relaxation later—the people of Russia do not know there is such a thing as the American plan. The Russian proposal has been published in full in the controlled Soviet press and it has been fully discussed in the inspired editorial columns. Although the American plan was actually suggested several days before that of Comrade Gromyko, not a word of it or about it was published in Russia.

Hence all the Russian people know is that their government has made a proposal for the control of atomic energy. That plan is presented in such a way that it will seem entirely reasonable to them. When the Western democracies do not adopt it, as of course they will not, those same Russian people will be driven to the conclusion that the democracies are bent on destroying them by means of another war.

Those common people of Russia are not to blame. How can they be expected to come to a reasonable decision on so vital a matter if they are given only one side of the story? American Reds always have much to say about our "controlled press," but at any rate our people are given a full chance to get at the facts about the Russian plan, while the Russian people do not even know there is an American plan.

July 7, 1946
The Law in Jesus' Day
Exodus 20:3-17; Deuteronomy 6: 3-9; Matthew 5:17-20;
Mark 10:17-22

By Henry Geerlings

This is the first of a series of lessons on "Jesus Interprets Old Testament Laws." The purpose of the series is to show Jesus' attitude toward the Old Testament and to point out examples of what He meant when He said that He had come, not to destroy the law or the prophets, but to fulfill them. These lessons should give sufficient answers to persons who say that Christians do not need the Old Testament. Indeed, the more we study the teaching of Jesus, the more important the writings of the Old Testament become. These ancient scriptures were His Bible. He began with them and then went beyond them; fulfilled them, clarified their original content and purpose, heightened their religious and ethical meaning. The Old Testament and the New, therefore, belong together. Each is incomplete without the other.

This series of lessons furnishes opportunity for two important emphases, each of which requires careful thought. One of these is the compelling personality of the Master as He taught His disciples and the multitudes. There is nothing in the New Testament that suggests in the slightest degree that He was the pale Galilean.
On the contrary, He must have been the most compelling person who ever lived. He was the master of every situation, and all who came under the influence of His ministry were never afterward the same. He drew men and women to Him by the power of His love, transformed their lives, gave them new courage and new hope, sent them out into the world with a victorious outlook on life.

The second emphasis is the inner, spiritual character and content of the teaching of Jesus.
Quickly brushing aside the external matters that caused the professional teachers of the law so much concern, He went straight to the inner content of the spiritual truth. They dealt with abstractions. He with persons and personal values. They emphasized correct creedal statements and exact ceremonial practices. He laid stress on inner character and conduct. His teachings impressed His hearers as living good news, and they heard Him gladly. For once they were face to face with reality.

People in Jesus' day could recall three instances when the law was recognized as sacred. The first was on Mt. Sinai, when God, in a glorious manifestation of His power gave the law to the nation. The second was in the revival of Josiah, when the book of Deuteronomy was read. The third was when the remnant had returned from the Babylonian exile. Ezra's lawbook, read before the people at that time was a part of the Pentateuch. The three instances mentioned would indicate that the belief of the people in the authority of the inspired law had lived on from Moses to Ezra, almost a thousand years.
Belief in the sacred law was so grounded in the minds of the people that the Samaritans, after their break with the Jews, took a copy of the Pentateuch with them, and it became their own Bible.

The most convincing testimony to the divine authority of the law is the inspired message of God, is that Jesus so accepted it. He defended the law and demanded that men rededicate themselves to its fulfillment. To Him it was a complete revelation, but He saw clearly that man's appreciation of it was very incomplete. It was God's revealed law for the whole world.

Jesus believed that the law of God as revealed in the Bible was more searching, exacting, and far-reaching than men understood it to be. His express purpose was to fulfill the law beyond the point of lip service in which Scribes and Pharisees were very proficient.
As one reads the account of His criticism of these religious leaders, it seems clear that their hedred for Him was aroused, not by His having introduced a new doctrine, much less a new religion, but by His having shown them how miserably they had failed to teach the word of God, as they read it in their own Bibles. They had killed and crucified prophets and wise men and scribes who came with the age-old message of God upon their lips. And Jesus knew when He preached the true and unchanging revelation of God as it had been flashed from Sinai, He was choosing the cross.

The interview with the rich young ruler illustrates Jesus' attitude toward the law. The young seeker wanted eternal life. Jesus answered was thou knowest the commandments, and He quoted several of them to refresh his memory. Certainly he knew them.
He had learned them in early boyhood, just as Jesus had, and declared he had observed them from his youth. The young man's enthusiasm, his sense of direction, his familiarity with the devotion to the law, touched Jesus. He loved the man. But in another breath the young man dissipated any hope Jesus may have had for him.
He had scrupulously observed some of the commandments, but he had made the grievous error of glossing over the basic one—the commandment calling for an unconditional surrender of life to God.

The war is having its effect on

Couple Married in Home Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Boter
(Holland Craftsman photo)

In a simple ceremony performed at 11 a.m. Tuesday, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heasley, 303 Maple Ave., their daughter, Helen Mae Mahwinney, was united in marriage to James D. Boter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Boter, Park road. The Rev. Marion de Velder of Hope church officiated. Gerald Hanchett played the wedding music. Palms, ferns, white peonies and candelabra formed a background for the service.

The bride wore a navy blue suit of Forsman wool with large white hat and white accessories and carried a colonial bouquet with orchid center. Her mother of honor, Mrs. Robert L. Heasley, wore a gray gabardine suit with black hat and accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of Talisman roses and sweet peas.

Peter Boter was his brother's best man.

Twenty-two, including the immediate families and a few friends, attended a wedding luncheon in the Marine room of the Warm Friend tavern where summer flowers and a three-tiered wedding cake formed the table decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Boter left on a wedding trip to Mackinac Island and will be at home after July 1 in their new home at Waukazoo.

Mrs. Boter was graduated from Holland High school and attended Hope college. Mr. Boter, graduate of Holland high school and the Cumberland Law school at Lebanon, Tenn., was separated several months ago from active Navy service with the rank of lieutenant.

Mail Goes Through ...
Soon It'll Be Even Faster

The mail must go through...
Like most things that are completely a part of daily life, postal service is generally taken for granted. In a way this is a compliment to postal people.

A letter is mailed in Holland; matter-of-factly, soon it is delivered in California. Newspapers and periodicals are mailed by their publishers and soon men and women in cities and rural areas read what folks elsewhere are thinking or what is happening to them.

A valuable manuscript sent from Washington to a student in Tennessee is registered, and so on.
Practically every individual, every organization and business enterprise is to a large or small extent dependent upon postal service. It is a big and important job.
And there will be more improvements soon...

Plans are under way for snappy new uniforms for carriers as part of Postmaster Hannegan's new streamlined program for the country's largest business enterprise.

Flying mail service also is on the list for future service. In this program, the post office department will operate mail planes with clerks sorting mail in flight.
This service will guarantee 24-hour service anywhere in the United States.

Legislation is expected to be passed soon reducing the eight-cent air mail fee to five cents.

In larger cities, the department will install "mail-o-mat" machines in which the client puts in a coin to cover the amount of postage, turns a knob, shoves the letter in a slot and it's stamped and on its way. Machines that will sell postage stamps on the spot will be installed on street corners.

In Detroit there will be helicopter service from the post office to points within a radius of 50 to 75 miles. Lower cost postage is also in the plans, with the letter or package going by train or plane for the same price, depending upon which is faster to the given destination.

The streamlining came about when Postmaster Hannegan started checking back and saw the few changes in the system since the government agency first was established in 1775, with Benjamin Franklin the first postmaster.
"Despite the tremendous volume of business that we do today, we continue to operate along the same parsimonious lines set by Franklin," Hannegan said.

The Holland post office is right in line with the new improvements, according to Postmaster Harry Kramer.

Since V-J day, the post office staff has been increased by seven or eight new men, all veterans of World War II and city deliveries have been extended on the north side and to Montello park. Late collections were begun June 1. All employees are on a 40-hour a week basis.

The Holland post office operates six rural routes in place of 12 routes during the horse-and-buggy days.

In addition to regular mail service on trains, the local post office operates two star routes daily to Hamilton, two to Macatawa park and Castle park, two to Saugatuck and Douglas, one to West Olive and Grand Haven, and one to Grand Rapids each day.

Van Wieren Fans Fifteen as Dutch Beat Muskegon

Fifth Straight Triumph For Flying Dutchmen; Lefty's Fourth Win

Lefty Clare Van Wieren fanned 15 Muskegon batters as Holland Flying Dutchmen won their fifth straight game in Riverview Park Thursday night, 7-2.

Lefty had a five-hit shutout going into the ninth then gave up going into the ninth then gave a walk to Jim Fitzpatrick and singles to Ernie Johnson, Stan Janzik and Ed Subler. It was Lefty's fourth win against a single defeat.

Holland left two men on base every inning except the fourth and eighth and in those innings one man was stranded. Fourteen men were left on base but it didn't matter because Van Wieren was mixing up curves and fast balls to the dismay of the Muskegon Mobiles.

Holland scored a run in the first inning because of an error. Loren Wenzel was hit by a pitched ball, took second on a fielder's choice and scored when First Baseman Johnson let Harold Van Wieren's grounder go through his legs.

The Dutch added another in the second. Frank Bagladi singled home Vern Vande Water, who had been safe on an overthrow at first. Holland added two in the third. Harry De Neff singled and scored when Juke Van Huis doubled. Vande Water tripled Van Huis home.

In the sixth Holland got one more. Wenzel doubled and came home on a single by H. De Neff. Holland added a final two in the seventh when Vande Water doubled. C. Van Wieren walked. Bagladi singled and the Muskegon shortstop made two errors.

Division of School District Asked

The board of education, school district No. 4, Park township, today had received a petition from voters in the Harrington school area, requiring a proposition be submitted to the voters to decide upon dividing the school district into three new districts.

The proposition will be voted upon at the next annual school meeting, July 8.

If such a change were made each new district would include one of the three schools in the present district — Harrington, Lakeview and Montello Park. Each unit would have its board of education.

A two-thirds majority is required to carry the proposal. Boundaries of the new districts could not be set until action is taken by a joint meeting of the township boards of the four townships in which the present school district lies. These townships are Park and Holland of Ottawa county and Laketown and Fillmore of Allegan county.

Other business to be taken up at the annual meeting July 8 includes the question of paying new tuition charge for children of the district attending Holland high school and the election of a new member to the board to replace Edward J. Wolters, president, whose term expires.

Dutch Girl Describes Life Under Occupation

Jeanny van Wely, a 19-year-old girl living at Dodewaard, Betuwe, the Netherlands, describes life under German occupation, in a long letter to her cousin, Henry Derksen, route 3.

Miss van Wely, whose mother is a sister of Derksen's father, started corresponding after the war, particularly in response to parcels sent by local relatives when food and clothing were sorely needed in the Netherlands.

She described in detail the arrival of the American fighter planes Sept. 17, 1944, on their way to Arnhem.

"They were flying very low and we waved at them. My brother who had a telescope saw them waving back to us. Of course, the Germans in the village here were very frightened and left as soon as they could. They stole a lot of horses and carts including a horse and cart from us to carry ammunition. How glad we were to see them leave!" she wrote.

"On Sept. 23, the underground asked the family to make orange bands and an English tank appeared in the village. Everybody went to see them and I'll never forget the first time I talked with them. I could speak English a little. But we were not allowed to wear orange for the Germans could come back at any time.

"The next day a lot of Tommies entered the village and we all went wild with joy. They gave us chocolate and cigars. But danger was not over since the Germans were just north of us on the river Rhine.

"On Sept. 20 my father was killed by a German shell. After two days the English left our village and the Americans came instead. It was a parachute regiment infantry, the airborne. At first I was a little afraid of them. Most of them were so tall. They made the first frontline along our house and dug holes everywhere. Their watchword was 'We Don't Go Back.' They walked through our house as if it were their own home. The first thing they did was wash themselves and have dinner.

"At first it was hard to understand them for they talked much different from what I learned at school. We washed some clothes for them. But then the Germans came and there was terrible shooting. We could not reach our shelter in the orchard so we ran into a barn. We emerged after several hours. Many shells had fallen around the house but none of the soldiers were wounded or killed. But there were a lot of bullet holes in the clothes on the clothesline and mother had to repair the garments.

"It was a dangerous time, but still it was a nice time. We liked the Americans very much because they were so brave. All the people in the neighborhood had gone away, and on Oct. 8 the head of the underground told us we had better go away too.

"We were allowed to live in the house of a collaborator two miles away and here we met a lot more Americans. They often came to see us and drink coffee. We enjoyed it very much and they did too. They gave us chocolate, cigarettes and chewing gum, all the lovely things we had not seen for a long time. We attended some of their church services and they attended some of our Dutch services.

"Then we had to move again, this time five miles from home. Sometimes we saw Huns passing with their hands up. We were surprised at all the big American tanks and trucks and we understood how you Americans, English and Canadians must have worked to liberate us. We are very thankful for it and we'll never forget it.

"Then we were sent to Belgium and the Americans went to France for a rest. Later we learned they fought at Bostogne and some of them were killed. We were very, very sorry. They died for us.

"We were in Belgium 31 months and at last in May, 1945, we were allowed to return home, but it was not a nice return. Everything had been destroyed or damaged. Many had no homes. Furniture and most of the things had been stolen. Everywhere was the nasty smell of dead cattle. Water was dangerous to drink. People worked as hard as they could and many emergency dwellings have been built. Our house which was hit by five shells has been repaired.

"But however damaged our land may be, we are very, very glad that we have been liberated from the Germans and are free again. Many, many thanks, brave American soldiers, especially the airborne. We'll never forget you!"

Mike Skaalen chalked up his sixth straight victory for the Holland Flying Dutchmen Monday night in Riverview Park, 4-0. He fanned 17 of Stoughton's Tigers and gave up six hits.

The game was played in an hour and a half.

Holland had eight hits and one earned run off Frank Cook, a veteran southpaw with control, fair speed and a neat curve.

Holland scored its first run in the fourth. Harry De Neff singled to right and got to third when Cook tried to pick him off first and the ball got away from the first baseman. He scored on Don Van Lente's bouncing single to center.

The Dutch added two in the sixth. Frank Bagladi was safe on the third baseman's error. He took second on an infield out and scored when Harry De Neff doubled down the rightfield foul line. De Neff scored when Juke Van Huis rifled a double to left.

In the eighth Holland got its fourth marker. H. De Neff was safe on an error by the second baseman, going to second on the play. Van Lente hit a roller that the pitcher, second baseman and first baseman went for with nobody covering first. The second baseman got to the ball first and raced Van Lente to the bag with De Neff coming all the way from second to score.

It was Skaalen's second straight shutout, having blanked Kalamazoo Quality Bakers last Monday, 6-0. In the last 27 innings Holland hurlers have allowed but two runs. Lefty Van Wieren, in beating the Muskegon Mobiles last Thursday, had a five-hit shutout until the ninth, then yielded three hits and two runs.

Zeeland Man Pays Fine After Crash

Gilbert Bosch, 18, of 215 Alpine Ave., Zeeland, was assessed fine of $50 and costs of $3.90 Saturday when he pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith to a charge of reckless driving, with driving ability impaired by use of intoxicating liquor.

Sheriff's deputies, who placed the charge after a two-car crash at 6 p.m. on old M-21, two miles east of Holland, said Bosch had been drinking but was not drunk.

Sheriff's officers said Bosch who was driving a car owned by Peter Bredeweg of Zeeland passed two cars at a high rate of speed and then crashed into one driven by Mrs. Gertrude Belmont De Ridder who was in the process of turning left into her own driveway.

The De Ridder car was damaged to an extent of $500, officers said. The front of the car driven by Bosch also was badly damaged.

Riding with Mrs. De Ridder was her 71-year-old mother and three small children. All were severely shaken. Bosch received slight head injuries and Glen Heyboer of Zeeland who was riding with him received a cut on the head.

Officers said skidmarks on the pavement measured 100 feet to the point of impact.

The owner of the car, home on furlough, was at Ottawa beach at the time of the crash. He had loaned the car to Bosch who wanted to go to Holland.

Training Here Qualifies Boy Scouts as Life Guards

The Boy Scout aquatic course, conducted by the local council, and directed by Fred Bocks, ended Friday after a week's intensive training in water front maneuvers. Eighteen boys from the Ottawa-Allegan council participated and 14 qualified. They will be given awards at the next court of honor.

Bocks attended Toledo and Milwaukee waterfront schools. Boys earned merit badges, life saving, canoeing, swimming and rowing. Bocks will be waterfront director at a camp at Otsego. He was formerly a member of the Coast Guard.

Boys had to be at least 14 years old to qualify for training, which is the first step in a campaign to specialize members in each troop in some activity to insure the health and safety of the group.

Boys attending were Roger Northuis, troop 6; Bill Vander Yacht, troop 8; Joe Fendt, troop 10; James Neidema, troop 10; Bill Filkins, troop 10; Bernie Geerts, troop 10; Roy Stringholf, troop 30; Virginia, park; Ted Stickle, troop 30; Vern Hohl, Jr., troop 30; also Paul Van Kovering and Keith Van Kovering, troop 21; Zeeland: Wondie Wyngarden and Vernon Gebben, troop 40; Zeeland: William Fuller and Thomas Bent, troop 49; Otsego: Jerry Clason, troop 18; Douglas, Jim Slaght, ship 17, and John Vermeulen.

City police adopted the policy of the force Monday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the force Monday afternoon. Scooters and motorbikes will be impounded for five days. Operators 17 and over will be charged and arraigned in Municipal Court, according to Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff.

Sheriff's officers turned a complaint into an opportunity Tuesday night after learning that a group of scooters was blocking an intersection in the east part of the city. Investigation revealed 11 scooters grouped so that the operators could chat. They were unaware they were blocking traffic and officers said the safety talk was well received.

Although scooters can travel 35 miles an hour and the speed limit in Holland is 25 miles, officers asked scooter operators not to exceed 20 miles an hour. Operators also were warned to ride not more than two abreast (singly on the highway is much better) and never to divide and travel on both sides of the road.

Officers said passengers may be carried on scooters and motorbikes only when there is an extra seat and rest for the passenger's feet. Motorized vehicles also must have lights.

Soda Fountain Intrigues Student of Netherlands

Getting acquainted with such fascinating American institutions as the corner drugstore (which he termed "amazing") is Koenraad Swart, Netherlands scholar from the University of Leyden, who has arrived in Holland to do special research on the history of the Dutch people in Western Michigan. Willard Wichers, director of the Netherlands Information Bureau, expects much of Swart's research to be valuable for use in connection with Holland's Centennial celebration in 1947.

The visitor, who studied American history at Harvard last term, praised the great American universities as being perhaps the "best in the world" and says, on his first visit to this "very complicated" country, he likes America even better than he had anticipated. Mixing a bit of American slang with his excellent English, Swart said he was fond of soft drinks and ice cream and the "cozy" atmosphere of American drugstores. "Hot dogs" are unknown in The Netherlands, he said.

Swart holds a doctor's degree in history in the Netherlands and taught Dutch history in a high school at Wassenaar, near Leyden, for a year and a half during German occupation.

"Liberty of expressions of my opinions" he listed as the thing he missed most during war years and he chafed under pressure of having to teach the Nazi concepts of history. Unfavorable remarks about Hitler or the Germans would have cost a teacher his position and likely his freedom, he said.

Swart's big hope is to be able to go back to his country as a professor of American history in one of the Dutch universities where more an dmore interest is being shown in America. The university at Amsterdam has begun reorganization with a new emphasis on social and political science, he said.

Active in the underground movement, Swart said the movement gained impetus when the Germans closed Leyden university and it became almost "fashionable" to work for the underground. When boys were no longer allowed on the streets, much valuable work was done by women members. Several times it was necessary for Swart to hide from the Germans.

"A Netherlands survey similar to American public opinion, Swart said, revealed that Americans are the "first-loved people" in the hearts of Hollanders. This choice may have been influenced by the welcome dropping of food parcels, he said, and the fact that there was no American occupation. Other fliers dropped food too, he said, but American pilots were less discriminate and dropped packages where they were more readily available to ordinary citizens rather than at pre-arranged depots. "One landed in our own garden," he said.

Swart will continue his studies at Harvard in the fall where the subject of his thesis will be "Political Corruption Throughout the Ages," most of it concerned with European history. He is one of the first eight students to be sent to America for study on special fellowships. Most emphasis previously has been on science, engineering and medicine, he said.

On a charge of failing to report an accident Spanola paid $10 fine and $4.45 costs, in the same court.

Donald Ackerman and Kenneth Warner, both 19, and both of Grand Rapids, paid $10 fine and $3.50 costs each in Justice Hoffer's Court Monday on a charge of violating the State park rules. Hollanders to Study Chicago Festival Plans for August 17

Mrs. Robert Cavanaugh, Klompen dance director; Mrs. Clyde Geerlings, accompanist, and Willard C. Wichers, Tulip Time Festival manager, will go to Chicago Wednesday to make further arrangements with the Chicagoand Music festival committee for the appearance of 120 Klompen dancers at Soldiers' field Aug. 17.

They will confer with Mayblossom Macdonald, Chicagoand dance director, on routines she is developing for a supporting cast of 800 Chicago dancers. They also will discuss details for costuming of the Chicago dancers with Philip Maxwell, festival manager. Wichers has provided the Chicago festival leaders with large supplies of pictures and data on authentic Dutch dress.

Maxwell also has arranged an appointment with Henry Weber who is arranging the Dutch music for the 110-piece festival orchestra. The local group is taking along three or four photostatic copies of the original scores of both the Klompen dance and wedding fantasy music brought to this country by Mrs. Lester J. Tazelaar of Grand Rapids who danced to this music at weddings when she was a small girl in the Netherlands. She rescued the sheet music from the ruins of her home in Arnhem as the family evacuated during Allied action in September, 1944.

Mrs. Tazelaar and her three children appeared at the "Parade of the Provinces," a costume show in the Woman's Literary club during the 1946 festival. It was for this event that Mrs. Cavanaugh originally planned the wedding fantasy dance.

Anthony Weller Operates Nursery

The Waverly Drive Nursery, located on the northwest corner of the Waverly Road and the Ottawa beach shortcut, is owned and operated by Anthony Weller. Mr. Weller was born in Boskoop, Holland, one of the greatest nursery centers in the world.

In 1821 his family settled in this community and until 1941, Mr. Weller was associated with his father and brothers in the Weller Nurseries Co., Inc. He opened his own nursery business in April, 1945.

He offers a wide variety in evergreens and shrubbery and also specializes in landscaping and sodding. Sodding is almost as economical as seeding and advantageous because the lawn can be used three days after the job is completed.

Mr. Weller also offers a stock of lawn, cemetery and ornamental pottery and outdoor fireplaces.

Competent men who do clean courteous work are employed by Mr. Weller. He is prepared to give efficient work following 16 years of travel in 35 states where he gained unlimited experience and ideas in landscaping, thus assuring his customers individual ideas.

Geerds-Veltman, Inc., 700 Michigan Ave., are representatives for Frigidaire commercial and domestic refrigerators, electric ranges and water heaters, appliances made in large Frigidaire factories at Dayton, O., under modern and efficient conditions. Because of large production facilities, the local firm has delivered several units each month this year, and when peak production is reached, one refrigerator per second will roll off the lines. Orders are being filled in rotation, with preference to ex-servicemen.

Geerds-Veltman are also dealers for Bendix radio, made by the largest producers of precision radio and radar equipment during the war. A complete line of new models will soon be on display.

Another important item in their business is oil heating equipment. Customers can choose between a gun type power burner made by Delco Appliance Division, General Motors, and a gravity flow burner made by the H. C. Little Burner Co. of San Raphael, Calif. Estimates on all jobs are cheerfully given and installations are made as fast as products are available.

Equipment Available To Back-Injured Vets

Veterans suffering from spinal injuries which cause paralysis of the legs now will have the proper equipment for their comfort in their own homes when they leave Veterans Administration hospitals.

The VA now has the authority to issue to these patients for home use a hospital bed with overhead bar, an inner spring mattress and two mattress covers, if doctors determine that such items are needed for proper home care and treatment.

World War II produced 2,000 spinal cord cases and eventually VA will be responsible for the care of virtually all of them.
