Holland Relaxes In Cool Breezes; Midwest Still Hot

Some Rain Falls in East,
But Drought Unbroken;
Crop Damage Mounting

Hollanders relaxed in the cooling atmosphere of the lower 70's today after a second shower Wednesday, occurring in early evening, sent the mercury down 20 degrees and kept it there.

A heavy shower in early morning reduced the temperature but offered no relief from the high humidity. By noon, the mercury rose again and the maximum for Wednesday registered 89. Total rainfall up to 5 p.m. was .60 inch.

At 11 a.m. today, the mercury stood at 71 degrees. Predictions called for a maximum of 80 today and continued cool weather through Friday. Lake Michigan was 62 today compared with 78 Wednesday.

But in many other places in the United States, the heat wave continued unabated. Hot and humid air overlaid the midwestern and plains states, and rain increased rather than relieved the heat and drought damage to crops.

A heavy overcast blanketed the searing rays of the sun over New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio, but in Dixie, the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, and across the plains it continued hot and humid. South Dakota braced for a high of 105 degrees.

A United Press survey showed that 411 persons have died as a result of the heat since 6 p.m. Friday. Of the total, 116 died of heat prostration, sunstroke or heat-induced heart attacks, and 295 were drowned while seeking relief at beaches.

Light rains fell on the drought-stricken belt ranging from middle New England southward through New Jersey but farm experts said they did not break the drought. Crops already have suffered damage of $75,000,000.

It was so hot at Newark, O., that hundreds of eggs discarded at the garbage dump started hatching. Kids ran to get free chicks as pets.

At Indianapolis, ice man Lester Tallaferra's horse showed the good sense horses are noted for. Weary of hauling tons of ice to cool humans, the nag walked into a canal, pulling the wagon after him.

And the heat was no help to Chicago's strip teases and "exotic" dancers. Jack Irving, regional director of the American Guild of Variety Artists, called 100 of them in for lecture. Heat or no heat, he said, they simply must keep some clothes on them in their acts or the law would step in and throw them out of work.

June, 1949, Was Hottest In at Least Five Years

Continued warm weather with slight let-ups in heat and humidity were promised by the weather bureau today for the long July 4 weekend. For many, this week-end starts at sundown tonight and ends when they return to work Tuesday morning.

Today's hot breezes threatened to set a new season's record, one higher than the 93-degree record set Thursday. A high of 95 was predicted for today. At 11 a.m. the reading was 88 degrees, one degree higher than Thursday's reading at the same time.

Thursday's 93-degree record was the highest June reading in at least five years. It also was indicative of the 5.1-degree increase in the average normal temperature, according to Charles Steketee, who compiles weather data at Hope college.

June's average temperature was 71.9 degrees, compared with 66 in 1948, 65.4 in 1947, 66.3 in 1946 and 61.6 in 1945. Oddly enough, the month's minimum temperature of 36 degrees was second lowest in five years. Low temperatures were 43 in 1948, 41 in 1947, 37 in 1946 and 32 in 1945.

Actually, June's average temperature was more than five degrees higher than June weather of the past five years. The other four years all showed a decreasing departure from normal, listing -8 in 1948, -1.4 in 1947, -5 in 1946 and -5.2 in 1945.

June had three days which recorded 90 or above, compared with 1 in 1948, 1 in 1947, 4 in 1946 and none in 1945. These temperatures ran 93 in 1949, 90 in 1948, 1947 and 1946, and 87 in 1945.

Precipitation in June totaled 1.99 inches, compared with 2.40 in 1948, 3.59 in 1947, 2.70 in 1946 and 1.90 in 1945. There were four thunderstorms in 1949, two each in 1948 and 1947 and none in 1946 and 1945.

With good summer weather in prospect, motorists were expected to jam highways, and safety experts feared that 600 would be killed during the week-end, 290 of them in traffic crashes and the remainder by drowning, in fireworks, accidents, and miscellaneous mishaps.

6 Persons Hurt As Cars Collide

Saugatuck, July 7 (Special)—Six persons were injured in a collision involving three cars Tuesday evening at the intersection of US-31 and M-89, south of Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Madden of Saugatuck, who were in another car, were treated at Douglas hospital and released.

The other car involved was parked and belonged to Stella Manski of Kalamazoo.

According to police, the Madden car was going across US-31 onto M-89 and the Loomis car was coming north on US-31. The force of the impact, when the two cars collided, knocked the Madden car against the raked Manski car.

The Madden and Loomis cars were damaged extensively, according to South Haven state police who investigated.

Mrs. Loomis, who is chairman of Kent county Young Republicans, had returned to Chicago with Jim White of Holland, from the national Young Republicans' convention at Salt Lake City. Plans for the third-floor addition and two wings call for a capacity of 104 beds, but action has been delayed because of high costs.

Establishment of a hospital authority to include neighboring communities also was discussed.

Four Local Play Centers Begin Summer Activities

Summer playground activities began on Tuesday as four play centers were opened to Holland children. Lincoln, Washington, Van Raalte and Longfellow schools are conducting play sessions each day, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to noon. At 9:30 this morning, 468 children were counted at the four centers, according to Leon Moody, director.

On the play schedule are games, athletics, handicraft and art. Each Friday is a special day, reserved for doll shows, dress up shows, amateur contests and pet shows.

Ball games are to be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Both boys and girls' teams are being organized.

Moody announced that the playgrounds will be open for four weeks, ending July 29.

Carroll Norlin, director of junior boys' baseball, has organized nine teams. Their games will be played at 6:30 p.m. at the 19th St. diamond each day, Monday through Friday. Joseph Moran is in charge of tennis.

At each school activities are supervised by an adult staff. Leaders at Longfellow school are Fred Weiss, Faith Den Herder, Catherine De Koning, Mrs. Gladys Van Huis and Mrs. Joe Borgman.

At Van Raalte school are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Damson, Mrs. R. W. Radseck and Mrs. Clarence Wagner.

Lincoln school leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Norlin, Mrs. Ralph Smoenge and Mary Kooysers. At Washington, leaders are Mrs. Russell Welch, Connie Hinga, Ruth Topp and Bob Tama.

Dr. Joseph A. Vance, 84-year-old pastor-emeritus of the Presbyterian church, dutifully rinses his sandy feet following a refreshing dip in Lake Michigan in front of his cottage at Castle Park. A swim in the lake is a daily rite every nice day for the minister, who has spent nearly all his summers at Castle park since purchasing property there in 1900. For almost 30 years, Dr. Vance served First Presbyterian church in Detroit, a pastorate now held by Dr. Frederick H. Orlert, formerly of Holland. (Penna-Sas photo)

Original Castle Park Cottager Active at 84

Dr. Joseph A. Vance, long-time cottager at Castle Park, is as active at 84 as most persons half his age.

The retired Presbyterian minister takes a dip every nice day in Lake Michigan, and preaches nearly every Sunday. Besides that, he chops wood, rakes his yard and takes an active interest in the doings of Castle park where he has lived since 1900.

He also writes books. Among them are "The Upward Way," "The Way of the Cross," "America's Future Religion," "Why We Are Going to War," "The True and the False in Christian Science," "Christianity and Capital Punishment" and "Religion and Money."

Dr. Vance has seen Castle park develop into a fine natural summer resort over the years. Castle park was started by an old Hollander who built a brick house with a turret roof as a home for himself and his daughters.

But the family was lonely and later the property was taken over by Dr. John H. Parr who had given up preaching because of his health. He planned to operate a private school there, but this was unsuccessful and he turned the property into a summer resort.

He had married one of four sisters of a family of college women. His wife's sisters and their husbands and his own sisters were the first purchasers of lots after the park was subdivided.

Dr. Vance, through connections with the Parr family, purchased lots nearest the lake in 1900. His bride, the former Mary B. Forman of Louisville, Ky., though brought up in the city, fell in love with the place and spent happy summers there until her death in 1943.

In the fall of 1900, Dr. Vance and Dr. Parr cut down dense growth and laid the foundation for the Vance home which has since been enlarged three or four times.

The Vances spent all the summers at Castle park except when they were out of the country. Now, Dr. Vance shares the summer home with his three children and four grandchildren.

The park has grown year to year, mainly by original cottagers suggesting the place to their friends. Consequently, Dr. Vance says, it has grown up without ostentation and is peopled by congenial and cultured people. Most of the residents are teachers, preachers and professional people.

Carter Brown, a nephew of the Parrs, spent his boyhood summers at Castle park and purchased the interest several years ago. E. Paul McLean of Holland later became associated as partner.

Dr. Vance was formerly pastor of Hyde Park Presbyterian church in Chicago, and from 1911 to 1940 was pastor of First Presbyterian church of Detroit, a pastorate now held by a former Holland man, Dr. Frederick H. Orlert. Dr. Vance has often preached in Hope church in Holland and at one time was urged by Dr. Kollen, then president of Hope college, to take the pastorate here.

He is a Tennessean by birth, born in 1864, the closing year of the Civil war. During his long distinguished career, he has held two other pastorates. They were in Louisville, Ky., and Baltimore, Md.

NEW INTER-COM SAVES Banging on Cell Bars

Allegan, July 7 (Special)—Nowadays, when a prisoner "gets ready to talk," he gets quick service at the Allegan county jail.

Until now, the only attention-getting device prisoners had was to bang on his cell door. Installation of a new inter-communicating system has changed that.

Turnkey Walter Runkel can talk to any or all prisoners from his desk in the sheriff's office. Similarly, the prisoners can talk to Runkel when necessary.

It saves a lot of time. And a certain amount of wear and tear on the cell bars.

DELAY COSTS $2,400

Allegan, July 7 (Special)—Camp avoidable delay in re-leasing Allegan's airport cost the city a $2,400 state appropriation for improvements. After a new lease was signed with Charles M. Gray, city officials applied for the city's allotted share, to find the money already had been returned to the general fund. City Manager Philip Beauvais said. No more state or federal aid can be expected until another appropriation is made.

More Signatures Needed for Calling Pension Election

Special Vote May Be Called Later if Bureau
Gets 4,000 More Names

Grand Haven, July 7 (Special)—Ottawa county won't vote immediately on repealing the pension plan, but a special election may be called later if the Ottawa Farm Union gets an additional 4,000 signatures on petitions.

The rules and legislation committee of the Ottawa Board of Supervisors Thursday recommended "no action" after studying legislation governing the initiative petition. On the committee are Supervisors John H. Ter Avest of Polkton, John Gallen of Holland and Nicholas Frankena of Zeeland.

The situation at present involves a technicality. It was explained that the Board of Supervisors can put such issues only into general elections which in this case would be November, 1950, almost two years after the plan is in effect. Such action calls for petitions bearing signatures by five per cent of the voters.

However, if petitions are signed by 20 per cent of the voters, they may be filed with the county clerk who must call a special election 120 to 180 days after the date of filing.

Prosecutor Wendell Miles ruled that inasmuch as the petitions have not been filed with the county clerk they may be held by the Farm Union which may continue to get signatures and thereby call a special election.

County Clerk William Wilde pointed out that the retirement system is now in effect in Ottawa county and seven persons who are now retirement age may retire and receive pensions. Should the county withdraw from the retirement system, Wilde said these employees would continue to receive their pensions. He said the law has been amended so that after Jan. 1, 1950, no new employee will receive credit for prior service.

There are between 28,000 and 30,000 registered voters in the county. Approximately 6,000 signatures would be needed to call a special election. The Farm Bureau, which vigorously protested the pension plan passed in the last general election on the grounds that certain long-time employees would cost the county too much for "prior service" pensions.

In other business, supervisors passed a resolution expressing appreciation for the unselfish work by Clarence Reenders of Grand Haven township in selling state-owned lands.

Reports of the equalization committee were to be considered today.

Two Periods Scheduled

Allegan, July 7 (Special)—Un-Kidwell, Allegan County's new 4-H camp on Eagle lake, will be opened to groups of 80 young people for two periods the week of July 24 to 30, William MacLean, county agent said today.

Present plans call for a group of 10 to 12 year old club members from July 24 to noon July 27, and 13 to 20 year old members the remainder of the week.

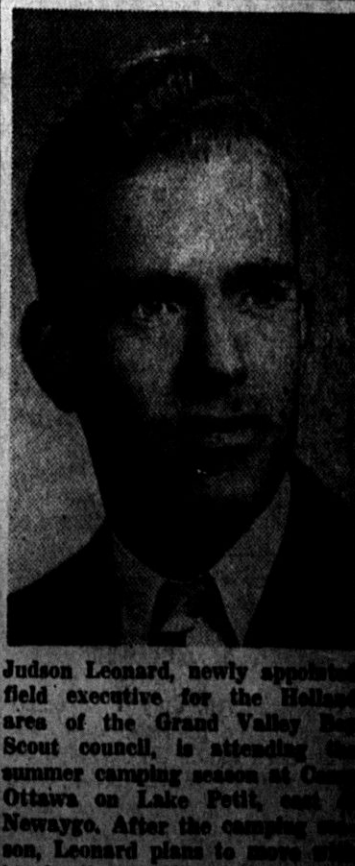

If enough applications are received, a second period will be planned. Each club member's cost will be $4.

Letters are going out this week to all of the county's 1,200 members with application blanks.

With little time left to complete the remodeling program at the camp, 4-H leaders, members, and parents still must complete the kitchen, pour concrete floors in the two new cabins, and install some windows.

Summer Taxes

Summer tax collections Tuesday amounted to $10,785.98, according to City Treasurer Henry J. Beckfort. The annual tax bills were mailed Saturday and the first was paid Tuesday morning at 8:45. Deadline for payment without penalty is Aug. 15.

Henry De Ridder of Port Sheldon township suggested that jail inmates accompanied by officers clean up brush in county parks, but was informed inmates are few at the present time.

"AS OTHERS SEE US"

An English citizen who lived in the United States for an extended period has now gone home with an intimate report on the domestic life of the Americans. As a bluff, independent Briton he is particularly concerned about what he considers the supineness of American men. He is glad to be back in the United Kingdom where men are not tied to their women's apron strings. Over there, he asserts proudly, the man may occasionally wipe the dishes as a special favor to his wife, but he does not make a practice of both washing and wiping them.

And so with everything else. He is glad to see the British pubs filled with men on Sunday afternoon—men who are free from their women and who insist on living their own lives and engaging in their own man-talk, instead of being creatures who play second-fiddle to their wives, as American men do. He has a good many other things to say along the same line. All of them together add up to an assertion of the superiority of the British male's life to that of the American.

About ten years ago an American woman, the wife of an American professor who had been serving as an exchange teacher in England, published a book she called "With Malice Toward Some," in which she loudly asserted the superiority of the American, both male and female, over the British. The book caused a stir in England, the British angrily asserting that the American author was unfair. About a century ago two noted Britons, Mrs. Trollope and Charles Dickens, similarly called attention to the shortcomings of the Americans in their domestic life. And there have been plenty of Americans who have had a similar say about the English.

And all of it is more interesting than important. It is fatality easy for anyone to go and live in another country for a few months and then point out what he finds wrong with the people who were his hosts. Usually he considers those things wrong that do not conform to the domestic mores of his own land. But frankly, why should the British be like the Americans, or the Americans like the Russians? What's wrong with the Chinese acting like Chinese, and the Hottentots like Hottentots?

Our present British critic can doubtless give ample proof for all the assertions he makes about American men. But so what? It proves nothing. It has no value beyond that of hot-weather gossip. Frankly our last few days are even too hot for gossip.

Pilgrim Marching Songs
Psalms 120-134

By Henry Geerlings

All who have made the Book of Psalms their study must have been struck with the deep and unaffected piety of the authors. The psalmists speak throughout the whole book of praising God, and praying to God as none could speak unless they were in earnest. There is fervor in the language used by them which proves how surely their hearts were interested in what they uttered; which shows that religion was not to them a hollow form, something put on for policy or custom's sake, but a living, animating principle of conduct, the bread of their spiritual life, as necessary for their happiness as the food they ate was for their bodily existence.

Our lesson today is taken from a group of fifteen Psalms. They cover a wide range of subjects. And if they were sung by the pilgrims as they journeyed together up to Jerusalem to worship, it is not to be wondered at. The minds of the people would be filled with the memory of their past experiences and of blessings that God had given to them, and while there was a change of subject there was no change of sentiment. In our praise services each hymn that we sing has an individual truth. The wider our range of subject in a service like this, the more exultant should be our praise.

Perhaps 121 was sung at times by pilgrims as the mountains of Jerusalem loomed in view. A lofty and worthy view of God is expressed. He is the creator of all things. If we really believe that the Lord is on our side, and that His eye, that neither slumbers nor sleeps is upon us for good, then we may well take courage and find comfort. A trust in the Lord brings satisfaction and peace. If we give ourselves fully to Him and seek to do his will, He will keep us from evil and preserve our souls. It is our high privilege to come into His presence as often as we will and ask that He preserve our going out and our coming in day by day and hour by hour.

In Psalm 122 we have a literal picture of the tribes going up to Jerusalem to worship in the house of the Lord and to give thanks to His name. Naturally these people are interested in the welfare of the city, and they pray for its peace. That house is in a peculiar sense God's dwelling place. It is the religious center of devout Hebrews no matter where they might be. Today we are not confined in our thought to one pre-eminent place of worship. Prayer for the peace of Jerusalem in a high sense today is prayer for the welfare of the church and for the progress of the gospel throughout the world.

Psalm 124 is a song of praise to the Lord for deliverance. The psalm is sung today by Jews at the feast of Purim to commemorate the deliverance from Haman. To the present day there are people who have encountered opposition and danger that the waters would have gone over their souls had it not been for the protecting hand of the Lord. Missionaries and Christians who were saved from death during the late war could fittingly thank God for their deliverance as well as the military forces that God used to bring about. And today if temptations come with such terrific force that we are in danger of being overwhelmed we can call upon the Lord for help.

Psalm 125 expresses the security of those who trust in the Lord. People who are unwavering in their trust are as Mount Zion which cannot be moved. We know from the past history that trust in the Lord does not guarantee protection from earthly harm or even from martyrdom. But what happens to our property or even our physical frame is a small matter compared with the protection which God gives to the souls of those who rely on Him. When the apostle Paul knew he was facing a martyr's death, he expressed in his last letter no hint of defeat, but his words ring with a note of triumph. It is comforting to know that the Lord is round about His people and able to protect us according to His wisdom and will. The protection we need most is against the power of Satan and Sin, and that in this realm we can confidently rely on His help.

Psalm 126 was apparently composed after the return from captivity. The edict of Cyrus and the events that followed seemed to be too good to be true. There was laughter and singing, and Jehovah's prestige among the nations was increased. He had proved His power to rule—overrule in the affairs of nations. He was able to use men like Cyrus who had not known Him to work out designs. It is comforting to know that this God is our God, and that He can undertake for us also no matter what the conditions and circumstances may be. But our dominant thought ought to be upon spiritual victory and grace. The redemption of a soul from slavery of sin is a greater and more important work than the redemption from any physical bondage.

A total of 113,342,000 gallons of water were pumped during June. For the same month last year, 78,343,000 gallons were pumped, or 34,999,000 less than this year.

The highest daily total came last month when 5,250,000 gallons were pumped in one day.

Two additional wells have accounted for the records, BPW officials said.

Furnace Tramples Moose in Softball

Although outit, Holland Furnace defeated Moose Thursday night, 6-3, in the City Softball league.

The Heaters collected seven hits while Moose massed a total of 11 off pitcher Corky Weener.

However, what the Furnace club lacked in hitting it made up in playing finesse, especially on the base paths.

Furnace capitalized on three Moose errors to score three runs. In the first inning Bill Prince took advantage of two Lodge miscues and a double by teammate Ken Bauman to tally the first Furnace run.

And in the two-run fourth, another error, a walk to Russ Bouman and a single by Mel Scheerhorn accounted for the markers.

Moose, meanwhile, scored in the third on Paul Fortney's single and stolen base, a fielder's choice and a wild pitch.

Other run making by the Lodge men came in the fourth inning on a pair of singles by Fred Handweg and Dale Boeve and a fielder's choice.

In addition, Furnace scored once more in the sixth and Moose in the seventh.

Weener was top stickman for Holland Furnace with two hits, including a double, in three times at bat. Don Hulst of Moose had a perfect three for three.

Calm Water, Heat Balk LMYA Race On Lake Michigan

Intense heat and calm waters on Lake Michigan Sunday, disrupted the annual Lake Michigan Yachting association's 10-mile race around a triangular course off Holland harbor in Lake Michigan. Of the 47 boats that started the race, only 10 finished, according to Harold Ashton of Chicago, LMYA race committee chairman.

"The calm water and heat forced several boats to give up the race and others were disqualified because they went around fish net markers instead of race buoys," Ashton said.

The 47 boats included four classes in the Cruising division, two classes of racing Universals, Lightnings and Thriftles.

Hollis Baker, Jr., of Holland, took first honors in class C of the Cruising division and Trident, sailed by Philo Danley of Chicago, won top honors in class A of the same division.

Ashton said other winners would be determined later after he contacts boat owners in Chicago.

Caryl Curtis won the six-mile race on the Lake Michigan course Sunday for Lightnings. Because of calm waters, the event took four hours. Jimmy White came in second and Pollack was third.

The Thriftles didn't finish, Ashton said.

Other boat results of the MBYC and LMYA for small sailboats on Lake Macatawa during the week end were:

Saturday:
Crescents—Sally Copeland, first; Jane Boyd, second; Mary Stewart, third; Diana Fehring, fourth; Jimmy Fields, fifth.

Lightnings—Caryl Curtis, first; Van Dur Berg, second; Jimmy White, third; Pollack, fourth.

Thriftles—Sandy Douglas of Mentor Harbor, first; Robinson of Chicago, second; Tony Herrmann, of Racine, third.

Sunday:
Crescents—Mary Stewart, first; Jimmy Fields, second; Jane Boyd, third; Diana Fehring, fourth; Sally Copeland, fifth.

Monday morning:
Lightnings—Curtis, first; White, second; Pollack, third; Van Dur Berg, fourth.

Monday afternoon:
Lightnings—Curtis, first; Van Dur Berg, second; White, third; Pollack, fourth.

Crescents—Mary Stewart, first; Diana Fehring, second; Jimmy Fields, third; Jane Boyd, fourth; Sally Copeland, fifth.

Receipts at Holland post office have shattered new records.

Revenue for April, May and June amounted to $90,024.43, the largest total for any quarter in the history of the post office.

This year's receipts for the second quarter represent a 27 per cent gain over the $70,664.29 collected for the same period during 1948.

The record-breaking total is almost $4,000 more than the previous record established during the Christmas quarter of 1948. During that time receipts were $86,678.33.

For the first six months of 1949, receipts were $173,812.50, another new record. This amount is 25 per cent more than the $139,136.18 collected during the first six months of 1948.

During June this year, the post office took in $24,810.41 compared with $22,814.55 for the same month last year.

60 Truckers Get Safety Awards

Safety awards have been presented to 60 drivers of the Holland Motor Express for driving without accidents one to 14 years. Awards for 1948 were made at a quarterly meeting of employees here Sunday.

This record represents 11,220,000 miles without mishap, or 187 man years of safe driving for the 60 drivers.

John Bussies of Holland headed the list with 14 years of safe driving. William Van Slooten was listed for 13 years and Henry Roseboom, 10. Others high in the list were Melvin Brooks, nine years; Stanley Lampen and Eugene Verburg, eight years; Irwin Cooper and Lester Walker, seven years; Stanley Rutgers, Allen De Vries and Ed August, five years.

Twenty-three drivers received pins for one year, 13 for two years, five for three years, and eight for four years.

The company expects even a more impressive record for 1949 since the first six months reveals considerably fewer accidents.

Coast Guardsmen

Holland Coast Guardsmen report an exceptionally orderly week-end of heavy boat traffic. The Coast Guard had to fish passengers of a small sailboat out of the lake near the north breakwater after the boat turned over. They were called to the Eagle Crest vicinity on Lake Michigan Monday when it was reported a body had been seen floating in that area. However, after exhaustive search, Coast Guard termed the report a false alarm.

A versatile trailer has been designed by William O. Bridge, vice president of Tri-Level Trailers, Inc., of Detroit, and full-scale production will be underway by mid-summer. The trailer can carry four cars and on the return trip the entire interior can be converted into a single compartment for general freight. The trailer also is convertible to haul fewer cars with the remaining space for freight. It can be operated by one man.

Build Good Food Storage Space

Those canned foods you have worked so hard to prepare deserve good storage space to prevent spoilage.

Good storage space, according to Olivia C. Meyer, extension home management specialist at Michigan State college, is cool, dry and dark. Insulation and ventilation will help keep the storage cool in hot weather and protect against freezing in cold weather.

Ventilation helps to cool the storage and ventilators should be located at the bottom and top of the food storage. Shutters make it possible to open or close the ventilators as needed.

Food storage may be either a cabinet or storage room, depending on the amount and kind of food and the space available. It should be located near the canning center which may be the kitchen or basement. Cabinet type storage is often best suited for the kitchen.

Cabinets with inside depth of 12 inches are best and two rows of jars can be placed on each shelf. A cabinet with an inside depth of six inches will take care of one row of fruit jars.

Storage rooms usually are best for basement use. At least two square feet of floor space should be allowed to provide room for one person to enter and set cans on the shelves or remove them. You can plan the amount of shelf space needed if you will allow one foot of 12-inch shelf space for each five cans of any size. Allow 20 feet of shelf space for 100 cans.

Top shelves should not be more than 72 inches above the floor. If shelves are more than three or four feet long they should be supported at 32-inch intervals. Place canned meats on the lower shelves, vegetables next, and fruits near the top.

New City Booklets Put Into Circulation Today

The new city booklets, issued for a third year, were available today. The new gray covered booklet has 20 pages, compared with 16 last year and eight the first year. "Holland Marches On" is the title of the new version. It lists a brief resume of city functions, lists mayors from 1867 to the present, lists councilmen, officers, committees and boards. It also has a map of ward boundaries, and has data on elections, licenses, permits and gives information on city and school taxes.

Officers Praise Careful Driving Of Crowded Roads

No Serious Accidents Reported in Holland, Surrounding Areas

South Haven state police, Allegan county and Holland area deputies and Holland city police today commended Fourth of July week-end motorists for careful driving on jammed highways and roads in this area.

Officers report no serious accidents. However, a few persons were cut and bruised and received minor injuries in mishaps and when cars bumped.

Mrs. Robert Parkes of 195 West 11th St., was treated at Holland hospital for bruises and shock received in an accident on US-31 near the 40th St. crossing Saturday evening.

She was riding in a car driven by her husband, Robert Parkes, that was struck head-on by a car driven by Frank J. Tegel of Detroit. The other car involved was driven by Jake Elenbaas of 161 West 17th St.

According to Allegan Deputy Earle Tellman, Tegel was passing Elenbaas and struck Parkes, who was coming south on US-31. He nicked the rear of the Elenbaas car while passing.

Tellman today appealed for an unknown Zeeland motorist who saw the accident to contact him or the Allegan Sheriff's office.

William A. Pontious, 8, of 214 West 12th St., was treated at Holland hospital Monday afternoon for a cut on his left foot received in a motorcycle-car collision at the corner of River Ave. and Eighth St.

He was riding on a motorcycle driven by Le Roy Pontious, that was going north on River Ave. The car was driven by Gene Geib of route 2, Dorr.

Geib told police he was making a left turn onto Eighth St. from River Ave., with the green light when the motorcycle suddenly started up. Pontious said he was going north with the green light and the car made a left turn in front of him.

In an accident Saturday afternoon on River Ave., 150 feet south of the 15th St. crossing, cars driven by William H. Moore of 454 West 18th St., and Robert E. Thompson of Blue Island, Ill., collided.

Moore said he started to turn and thought he had plenty of time. Thompson said the other car started to turn and then stopped. Moore was given a ticket for making an improper left turn.

No one was hurt in a two-car accident Saturday evening on US-31, a mile and a half north of Saugatuck. The cars were driven by C. Ray Clark, Jr., of Grand Rapids, and Chris Muckerman, Jr., of St. Louis, Mo.

State police gave Muckerman a summons for failing to yield the right of way.

Irrigation Serves As Frost Protector

Irrigation is being cited as a practical and economical method to prevent frost damage to crops in addition to serving as a protection against dry weather.

According to Jerry Mandigo, district horticultural agent in Berrien county, the strawberry growers there reported nearly 100 per cent success against frost on those crops kept covered by sprinkler irrigation systems this spring.

From data collected by these growers on freezing nights, it was found that temperatures inside the irrigation systems were about five degrees higher than those outside the irrigation. When the temperature rose above the freezing point, there was a slower rise in temperature inside the irrigation, thus protecting against injury from too warm a morning following a freeze.

The growers found the following factors seemed to give the best results in the irrigation operation according to MSC horticulturists:

1. The water should be turned on when the falling temperature reaches about 33 degrees.
2. Six to 10 gallons per minute per sprinkler head is the most favorable rate of operation. Regular sprinkler nozzles can be used by plugging large opening and putting proper sized disc in small opening.
3. Water can be shut off when temperature is rising and reaches 29 degrees. The pipe should not be moved to new locations during the night.

Mesick Chamber Plans Special Flower Show

Members of the Holland Chamber of Commerce have received an invitation to attend the Northwest Michigan Gladioli show and homecoming at Mesick Sept. 3, 4 and 5.

The invitation was extended by Ernest Belville of the Mesick Chamber of Commerce.

Mesick boasts of 20 trout streams in a 20-mile radius along with boating and swimming facilities.

CLEAN EGGS

Production of clean eggs should be one of the big aims of the successful poultryman, say Michigan State college poultry specialists. Eggs that get dirty and have to be cleaned lose quality more rapidly than eggs which are produced clean.

Allegan School Considers Job Training Program

Co-Operation Sought From Employers for Assortment of Jobs

Allegan, July 7 (Special)—Actual job training in a widely expanded assortment of jobs is in prospect for next year's trade and industrial education department of the high school if local businessmen will co-operate.

Richard Cain, co-ordinator of the department, said he plans to secure a varied list of stores, offices, and services where students wishing experience may work as part of their school curriculum.

At the same time, businessmen will be gaining a group of workers from which future employees may be had, he pointed out. The city can benefit by training young people for specific jobs here, thus keeping them and their families in Allegan.

Some work has been done on a small scale for the last three years. Students have been working half-days at Blood Brothers Machine company, learning various factory trades, in offices, furniture making, selling, maintenance work, oil fields, telephone work, and cooking.

"Since only about 10 per cent of our seniors go to college, special education is needed for the others who wish to work at trades or vocations where experience is the best means of learning," Cain said. "Where employers are willing to set up a plan of regular instruction for upperclassmen, they frequently find good workers ready to be hired after graduation day."

In addition to his 24 students, Cain has about 65 veterans on farm training, either as self-providers or as hired men, and 40 others on job training programs in business and trades.

In all cases, the instruction is highly individualistic. Students learn by working on the job and receiving special material for study in night classes.

Corrections Chief Says Delinquency Not Gaining

State Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks explained the functions of his department, in its three divisions, probation, prisons and industries and paroles, at the Thursday noon meeting of the Holland Rotary club at the Warm Friend Tavern.

Among highlights of his talk was the fact that juvenile delinquency in Michigan has increased little over a period of several years, and while talking about prisons, Commissioner Brooks said that the state prison at Jackson was the largest in the world.

The speaker also urged that citizens of Michigan not attach undue consideration to the fact that a man or woman has been in prison and is a parolee, for, he said, "we never see 80 per cent of them again."

Dutchman Outlines Plans For Farm Improvements

A two-fold program for improving farming in the Netherlands was outlined here this week by Dr. Johannes Linthorst Homan, head of town and country planning in that country, currently on tour of Canada and the United States to observe farming methods.

Dr. Homan said a program of re-allocating farm land is under way in the Netherlands, one in which farmers eventually will have their small farms in one plot. Although the average farm in the Netherlands is 16 to 18 acres, most farmers have their pastures in one part and their crops in another.

The other major program is arranging co-operative farming in which farmers unite to purchase and use equipment which they could not afford separately. Dr. Homan said the government is attempting to put into effect these two programs and yet retain some of the finer traditions of the past. For instance, many farms bear the same names that they were given six centuries ago.

"It is most important that we get out of the soil what we can," he said. He explained the United States has a population of 46 to the square mile, Canada eight to the square mile, whereas the Netherlands has 754 to the same area. Besides this, two-thirds of the land is under sea level and the country was fortunate that only 12 per cent was flooded during the war. Dr. Homan said the inundated land is now 95 to 100 per cent productive of pre-war time.

Meanwhile, the Dutch women are doing a great deal to break down some of the old traditions of the past. There was a time when they discarded the fine old pieces and purchased cheap hideous furniture. Now, they are making things for themselves, making their homes more home-like and growing flowers as well as vegetables in their gardens.

Dr. Homan, who was born at Assen in the province of Drenthe, addressed the July 4 celebration at Drenthe Monday. He explained the difficulties of small farming in Europe, described the character of old country folk, and related the necessity of modernizing the whole picture of European agriculture.

Dr. Homan has represented his country at several ERP meetings in Paris. Enthusiastic over progress in the program, he said he personally believes ERP is the real answer to problems there.

As president of the National Plan, a government office in charge of town and country planning, Dr. Homan came to Canada to attend agricultural conferences at Guelph near Toronto for representatives of 23 countries who formed the organization after the war. Later he crossed Canada to Vancouver and visited California and Texas before coming to Holland.

On his first visit to this country, Dr. Homan was particularly impressed by the enormous wealth of territory and the enormous possibilities offered in farming. He visited Dutch-Americans in many places, and spent considerable time at Iowa State college at Ames. He plans to visit Michigan State college later. He plans to pass along ideas for agricultural training to such colleges in the Netherlands.

While in Holland, he presented two maps, reproductions of an early map of Drenthe province prepared in 1634. One map went to the Netherlands Museum and the other to the village of Drenthe.

Dr. Homan is a brother of H. P. Linthorst Homan, the queen's commissioner for the province of Friesland, who visited Holland during the Centennial Celebration in 1947.

New Vitamin B-12 Stimulates Rapid Growth of Swine

MSC Researchers Say Pigs Getting Vitamin Gain More, Eat Less

Will vitamin B-12 revolutionize swine feeding practices? Michigan State college researchers don't say it will, but they're finding that this new vitamin is doing some rather remarkable things in swine feeding these days.

Michigan Agricultural Experiment station researchers, like those from many other similar stations, are finding that vitamin B-12 has growth stimulating properties for pigs. When added to a diet of corn, soybean oil meal and B vitamins in very small quantities it results in gains for dry-lot pigs that rivals the efficiency of pasture performance.

W. N. McMillen, swine specialist in the department of animal husbandry, co-operated with Dr. R. W. Luecke, research chemist and Dr. Frank Thorp, Jr., animal pathologist, in making some recent tests at East Lansing.

Two lots with seven weanling pigs each were fed identical rations except one lot which got an addition of a very small quantity of vitamin B-12 concentrate. The pigs getting the B-12 gained 1.5 pounds a day while consuming less feed than did the control pigs that gained slightly less than a pound a day.

"It's too early to predict what B-12 will do to future feeding practices, but it seems likely that it will influence the animal protein feeding," remarked McMillen.

Vitamin B-12, the scientists say, is the same kind of a factor that is used to treat pernicious anemia in humans and is found in animal liver. McMillen says cattle seem to have an ability to manufacture their own B-12 so experiments with these animals show no remarkable gains when it is added to rations.

We're wondering now if B-12 concentrate will do the job in helping get better reproduction from sows as it helps to get better growth in pigs," remarked McMillen.

Back during the war years—especially in 1942 and 1943—farmers and feeders couldn't get enough animal protein to supply the proper ration for their pigs. With vitamin B-12 entering into the picture researchers say that such a shortage may not occur in the future.

Where do farmers get this vitamin B-12? McMillen advises them to wait. It's being manufactured now—like some of the other B-vitamins—concentrates. But since it is new, the volume of production cannot supply the demand. But researchers think they should have a chance to find out more about the limitations before farmers start using them on a large scale.

"The next few months will unfold an interesting story and may change a lot of ideas about what's necessary to get good swine gains," McMillen concluded.

List Sprays for Use on Potatoes

Potato insects and diseases come along each year to trouble growers. Better methods of control, however, are continually being studied at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment station.

Walter Morofsky, Michigan State college entomologist, advises the use of DDT at the rate of one and one-half pounds of 50 per cent wettable powder in 100 gallons of water for good insect control. This mixture is for control of flea beetle, Colorado potato beetle, tarnished plant bug, and leaf-hoppers. When aphids appear, use Parathion at manufacturer's recommendations or nicotine sulfate at one pint in 100 gallons of water.

For fungus leaf diseases, J. H. Muncie, MSC plant pathologist, advises the carbamates (organic sulfurs), and fixed coppers both at manufacturer's recommended dosages or Bordeaux mixture 8-4-100. First application should be made when plants are four to six inches high adding the insecticide in the spray material.

Combination fungicide and insecticide dusts may be used in place of sprays. The dusts contain the same active principles as the sprays.

Both sprays and dusts should be applied at seven to 10 day intervals throughout the season or more often if late blight disease is present.

Low Moisture Important in Grain Storage

Make certain that small grain is down to at least 14 per cent moisture for safe storage, urges the Michigan State college farm crops department.

Roy Decker, department head, cites a survey made last winter among more than 100 elevators in the wheat growing sections of the states. Estimates said that from 20 to 25 percent of the wheat delivered in 1948 direct from combine to elevator had more than 14 per cent moisture.

The result was a loss to the grower. Some elevators are refusing to take wheat that contains an excess of moisture. Musty wheat delivered to the elevators during the winter months indicated that growers had stored it when moisture was too high.

Many grain buyers are equipped to test samples of small grain for moisture content. They urge farmers to check the moisture before they start to combine the entire field. If testing is to be done at the elevator, grain should be placed in an air tight container for transporting to the elevator. Samples placed in a sack and carried on the car seat for several miles may lose some moisture.

The remedy for bin damage is not simple. When grain is nearly dry and becomes wet it will swell and lose in test weight. Some growers are tempted to rush harvest in uncertain weather or if a custom combiner is doing the work.

The farm crops specialists report that combines are great labor savers but should not be used until the grain is dry enough to store without fear of damage in the bin.

Grain Bins Need Good Cleaning

Good housekeeping on the farm now means a thorough cleaning of grain storage space, say agricultural specialists at Michigan State college.

They predict better results in protecting grain from damage by insects if bins are well cleaned. Insects can live over from crop to crop in cereal material that remains in emptied grain bins. They start trouble when newly harvested grain is stored.

An empty bin should be the signal for housecleaning, the specialists advise. The earlier in the season it is done and the bins sprayed, the more hold-over insects remaining in the bins will be killed.

Clean bin insurance involves two stages—cleaning and spraying.

Physical cleaning of the emptied bin includes vigorous sweeping and any necessary scraping of walls, floor, and corners. Cracks and crevices need cleaning to get out old grain. Steel bins should be caulked to make them weather-proof and wooden bins repaired to make them tight as possible. Roofs should be waterproof.

The accumulations of grain, feed, bran, or screenings in and around the bins and feed rooms should also be removed and destroyed.

Treatment with an insecticide helps to kill remaining insects. County agricultural agents can give advice about materials to use for this job. Thoroughness is needed and care should be used in the job.

Coast Guard Cutter Accompanies Yachts

The Coast Guard cutter Frederick Lee of Chicago accompanied the yachts racing Friday night and Saturday from Chicago-Saugatuck. The cutter docked at the Holland Coast Guard station after seeing the 70 racing boats safely into port.

Lt. John Dalin is commanding officer of the Frederick Lee.

The boat was to accompany the yachts out into Lake Michigan for Sunday's races but engine troubles forced it to stay docked. However, after repairs, it left Sunday night to accompany the boats racing from Lake Macatawa back to Chicago.

Whisper III, Skipped by Baker, Wins Chicago-Saugatuck Race Fete

Hollis Baker, Jr., sailed his sleek Whisper III from Chicago-Saugatuck Friday and Saturday in 17 hours, 16 minutes and eight seconds to record a stunning upset in the Cruising division of the 29th annual yachting fete.

A total of 70 boats participated in the race sponsored by Jackson Park Yacht club of Chicago.

The Holland owned boat's time was good enough to beat winners of A, B and C classes of the Cruising division, including the favored Taltohna of Jackson Park in class B.

Hollis Baker, Sr., William Ferguson, Nate Bryant and Jack Uhl crewed for the race. The white-hulled boat was built by Owens Shipbuilding Co. of Maryland in 1946.

"We had trouble because of no wind coming out of Chicago Friday night, but after we got going, the wind picked up and we were able to come right along," Baker said.

The race is divided into six divisions, four Cruising and two Universal. Onkayha of Chicago, won class A Cruising division honors by sailing the course in 17 hours, 41 minutes and 11 seconds. Taltohna was first in class B with a time of 17 hours, 23 minutes and 35 seconds. Vanitie, sailing out of Milwaukee crossed the finish line after 19 hours, 27 minutes and 19 seconds to take first in class D.

Kamaaina was second behind Whisper III and Flight was third. Horizon was second in class A and Venturone came in third.

Hugh Schadele's Hilaria, sailing out of Macatawa Bay Yacht club, was in the race but didn't place.

Cara Mia, skipped by O. Karas of Chicago, won the large Universal class for "Q" boats by sailing the course in 15 hours, 13 minutes and 26 seconds. Gale and Falcon, both out of Chicago, were second and third.

Dr. A. Ver Bruggen of Chicago, won the small Universal class honors with his Gypsy. His time was 15 hours, 10 minutes and 34 seconds. Gossoon was second and Yankee third. Both are out of Chicago.

All are corrected times.

William Moore, race chairman, said the absence of wind accounted for slow times and turned the race into a drifting match several times during the night.
