$4,420 ACCOUNTING MACHINE — Virtually all bookkeeping functions of the auditor's office switched from the manual method of painstakingly writing in dozens of ledgers to a mechanical one on July 1, the start of the city's fiscal year. The new machine, operated by Janet Fik, will be used to write payroll and voucher checks, post receipts, list disbursements, and budgetary accounting. The new method will enable each department head to know exactly how much he has left in his budget on a day-to-day basis. The machine will enable the auditor's department, headed by John Fonger (standing) to take on more auditing functions without adding any more help. Along with the new machine, brand new checks for paying city bills are now being made. The checks have a background of tulips and a windmill and point out Tulip Time in May every year. Farmers Sign Up To Try Seeding

Seven area farmers have signed up to try aerial seeding of cover crop in corn at a meeting sponsored by the West Ottawa Soil Conservation District at Forest Grove last week.

All agreed to try ryegrass. It looks similar to rye except that it doesn't get as tall and doesn't head out. It does make more root growth than rye.

Weather permitting, the 127 acres will be seeded by airplane July 12. Farmers who have signed up are urged to meet some sort of flag at each corner of the field to be seeded and to be present to serve as guide to show the pilot the proper interval.

Those interested in watching may do so at any of the farms in the following order: Henry Ver Meer, corner Byron Rd. and 32nd; Hiram Yntema, Forest Grove; Jack Nyenhuis, Forest Grove; Nathan Van Bronkhorst, three-quarters mile south of Forest Grove; Milbert Holleman, Byron Rd. and 16th; Melven Klooster, 20th Ave., one-half mile north of Adams, and Bert Plaggmeyer, 12th Ave. just north of Jackson St. in Georgetown township.

As police began checking cars moving over Ottawa Beach Rd., Den Uyl tried to figure out who whoever had the car got it started. He never leaves the keys in the ignition.

A minute later and Den Uyl was on the phone again. This time the call was to a local service station. "Yes," came the answer to Den Uyl, his car was on the grease rack shortly after it had been picked up at Den Uyl's earlier request. The keys had been left in the car for the mechanics.

The missing car report was cancelled. Den Uyl had his car back today, but he has a red face too.

Engineers Will Compile Survey For Parking Lot

ALLEGAN (Special) — A firm of Grand Rapids engineers will start work this week on surveys for Allegan's proposed municipal parking lot, according to City Manager P.H. Beauvais.

The city has entered into an agreement with the J. and G. Dayerman Company to provide all the necessary surveys, plans and specifications for the project, he said.

Preliminary surveys will cover the entire area from the Griswold building to the rear of the Allegan State Bank along the river, but plans will be made in two sections. Two weeks ago council approved dividing the project in two parts and ordered an immediate start on the area closest to the business district. Each section will provide parking space for about 150 cars.

At Tuesday night's meeting council accepted bids on a truck for the street department and a three-wheel motorcycle for the police department. Hult and Son were low bidders on the truck with a net bid of $3,100 plus an allowance of $844.59 on a trade-in. McGovern Cycle Sales, Grand Rapids, was awarded the motorcycle contract for a net of $1,070.

Council heard a petition protesting plans to construct curb and pavement on Bond St., but decided to go ahead with present plans and hold a hearing for objections on the project at a later date. Petitions for curb, gutter and paving on Knapp St. were also received.

City Manager Beauvais was authorized to advertise for bids on a new storm sewer to serve the Water St. area. He was also given authority to obtain new steel posts to support traffic signals and lights at Locust and Trowbridge and Hubbard and Locust Sts.

Also approved was an expenditure of $789.72 for additional lighting equipment for night football games at Riverview park. According to the Board of Public Works, two additional poles with lights will be installed at the south limits of the football playing field for the football season. The poles will be removed after the football season. Work of installing and removing the equipment will amount to $327 a year. The BPW submitted estimates on installing two and three poles. Council okayed the two-pole program for the present. If not satisfactory, a third pole could be installed another year.

While in an apparent spending mood, Council instructed the city manager to prepare plans and estimates for paving the parking lot at Civic Center.

Councilman Raymond Holwerda suggested a traffic signal at 19th St. and River Ave. in view of numerous accidents at the corner.

City Attorney James E. Townsend reported that Circuit Court has ordered the removal of the two houses at 13th and River within 60 days.

Mayor Harry Harrington presided at the meeting which lasted an hour and 25 minutes. Councilman Laverne Rudolph gave the invocation. Councilmen John Beltman and Bernice Bishop were absent.

Two Local Firms Named in Suit; Includes Guzman

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — A new trouble turned up Friday for Guatemala's deposed strongman president, Jacobo Arbenz Guzman.

He was named in a one million dollar damage suit by a woman chemist and physicist who said the Guatemalan government and a company in which he was principal stockholder teamed up to do her out of a chemical process she developed while working in Guatemala.

Dr. Maria Moritz, who is a partner in a Vicksburg, Mich., chemical company brought the suit against two Holland, Mich., firms and two Guatemalan companies. Guzman is principal stockholder in one company.

She charged she developed a process for extracting carotinoid products on a large scale from a tropical plant while working as a scientific consultant for an oil company in Guatemala. She said she went to New York in November, 1953, and got an order for $458,000 for the product from Charles Bowman Co. of Holland.

She said she then went back to Guatemala and helped the government set up equipment to extract the chemical. When she sat down to negotiate with the Guatemalan companies for sale of the process, she said trouble developed.

Miss Moritz said she was told by government officials that since she wasn't a Communist and wouldn't cooperate with the Guatemalan regime the process would be taken without payment. She tried to leave the country, but said she was told she would first have to write down the entire process and formula. She said she turned both over to the Guatemalan firms on Dec. 18, after which she was permitted to return to the United States.

The firms named in the suit are the Bowman Co. and the Bowman Feed Co., both of Holland, and the Compania Agricola Industrial and Essential Oil Association, both of Guatemala. Guzman was listed as principal stockholder of the Agricola company.

Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr issued a temporary injunction preventing either of the Holland firms from buying, selling or using products made as a result of the discovery. He set July 12 as the date for a hearing on making the injunction permanent.

Miss Moritz charged the Holland firms have purchased one million dollars worth of the products resulting from the discovery.

Tunnels on Rail Trip From Lucerne To Paris Prove Pesky for Tourists

By Bill Butler

Enroute to Paris, Saturday, June 26 via Swiss train and one of the International Railway's old plush parlor cars, we traveled to Basel, Switzerland where we were met by the immigration and customs officials of both Switzerland and France.

We were on leaving Lucerne during a bright sunny noon after an early lunch.

The temperature was around 85 but with the gentle breezes off the lake it was a delightful day for the yacht races that were about to start. But we must go on.

Pierre has told us that he will leave our party that has now reached 11. We will lose two more because Mrs. Garcia and her niece Miss Coll will leave us Wednesday when they fly to Madrid, Spain to see some of their relatives before returning to U.S.A. They then will go home to Puerto Rico.

Mr. Pierre Theriault who traveled with our GI's for five years during the war is a former hotel manager from Rome although he lives when he is home in Fribourg, Switzerland.

We passed through several short tunnels and they made us roll up the windows. Then when we reached the end of the tunnel we opened them again.

We noticed the usual amount of industry as we traveled along with the flowers growing and flower boxes at all the stations. We passed a Ford truck assembly plant, some large rayon and nylon factories and a large foundry.

The train conductor entered the coach and we found that he wanted to see our green ticket. It's the same ticket that we received when we left Zurich. We travel on a collective ticket for 15 people because it's cheaper than individual tickets. It also allows our party to have the use of the entire coach.

The smokers took over one end and the non-smokers the other end. We had rose colored, velvet chairs and the smokers had blue, with a door in between.

We saw quite a number of large chicken farms. Fruit trees were numerous.

We passed Zolingen and noticed a large publishing plant where they publish a great number of weekly publications. The name is Ringel and Co. Then there were more lumber and pole yards, and of course we must not forget the many watch, clock and jewelry factories as well as the Rolex camera factory.

The Swiss people are great for precision building and modern machinery.

We passed through another tunnel into the city of Olten on the Aar river.

In Basel, we had about an hour wait while they switched our coach back and forth with the usual amount of whistle blowing, bell ringing and tooting. Again the Swiss and French immigration and customs, and we started with a French steam engine. It burned fine soft coal. From there on to Paris we either had to keep the windows up or ride in the cinders, smoke and dirt. They could stand some modern air conditioned coaches on trains or some diesel engines. But the train moved right along and we continued to try and figure out just where the next curve was so that we could close the windows on the proper side to keep out the smoke.

We went through Saint Louis, France. We had our dinner in the dining car at 6 p.m. We passed on into Lure where we saw several hundred French soldiers and sailors. They were moving to some other train that was near us and they had all of their gear with them. They looked as though they were going on some kind of duty.

Many French farms are much larger and they are all fenced in with barbed wire. I suppose a great amount of barbed wire was left in France by the armies.

We noticed some factory and apartment construction and a large amount of railroad tie and pole production along the way.

Dinner proved to be quite good and it was served in the usual French style. First we had French bread, then wine, a wait, then they came in with large silver platters and they had a veal roast all carved and the French fried potatoes. Next we had salad and new green beans. Then we had dessert—that consisted of an assortment of cheese or fresh fruit such as cherries or apples and bananas. It was rather hot because all of the windows must be closed to keep out dirt. We had red wine and Coca-Cola. We have not acquired a taste for their bottled water.

We traveled on and started to get dark and some rain fell. It continued to rain all the rest of the way into Paris and it cooled the air. We arrive in Paris. The rain still continued and we were directed to our bus by the American Express and continued on our way to the hotel that is located on the Champs Elysees. Along the way we were able to see some of the department stores, the restaurants both inside and out—in other words the sidewalk cafes. I must say that Paris night life looked a little dampened. We are hoping for a nice day Sunday.

The report when we arrived was that it had been raining all day so perhaps we were lucky in one way to be traveling, even though it was a 12 hour trip.

We understand that most of the people get out of town Sunday so that we should be able to get around and see some of the sights. There are many in this city of about 6 million people, but then I need not tell you this because a great number of people from our part of the country have been to France. If they have been to France of course they have been to Paris.

Time for breakfast so will mail this and send you more after we have had some sleep and the rain stops.

Chix Held to Two Hits, Lose to Allegan, 8-0

ZEELAND (Special)—The Zeeland Chix lost their holiday encounter with the Allegan Independents here Monday as Allegan's Troesch threw a two-hit, 8-0 victory.

Four of Zeeland's regulars were gone for the holiday, a factor which hurt the Chix considerably. Kamper started on the mound for Zeeland and was relieved in the second inning by Marv Warner who finished the game.

The Chix, tied for second place in the Southwestern Michigan Baseball League, have two crucial games this week. Thursday, they travel to Grand Haven to play the league-leading Athletics and Friday they host Holland's Flying Dutchmen.

Grandstanding...

By Jack Kolo

Notes picked up while watching Holland netters sweep most of the honors in last week's Southwest Michigan Closed Boys Tennis Tournament:

It would seem that the Holland Optimist Club endangered its treasury just a bit by feeding the hungry crew of 42 under 15 and under 13 tournament entries out at the Elton House Monday night. But like the "Optimists" that they are, they went through with the banquet anyway and according to reports from the boys, they were well satisfied.

In a way, it was a good thing some of the contestants could fill up after a heavy schedule of first and second-round matches forced somewhat of a curtailment of regular meal schedules. With singles and doubles competition running simultaneously, many netters played as many as three matches in a single day.

This didn't bother the heavy eating habits of a few hungry players, however. Take Muskegon's 12-year-old Truman Keeter, for instance.

Truman, a chunky 137-pound red-head had an under 13 semi-finals match scheduled with Holland's Jack Damson at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. But that didn't stop him from shoveling in such delicacies as two hamburgers, a chocolate malted, a couple of bottles of root beer and a candy bar for lunch Tuesday noon.

He was surprised—that everyone was surprised about his meal, or something like that. "That's nothing," he protested. "One time last year, I had eight hamburgers and two malts at noon before a match."

At that, he did outweigh Damson Tuesday afternoon—by a small margin of about 40 pounds. Damson tips the scales at 98, but he didn't let a little thing like that bother him. He promptly took care of Keeter by eliminating him, 7-5, 6-1.

It was quite a match. When Keeter took a spill flat on his face while attempting a difficult return, the spectators gave him a big hand. But he was never in the ball game during the second set.

"Truman used to be good," remarked one of his teammates—"until he got fat. Look at him waddle around." When Keeter finally peeled down to his tennis shorts out on the boiling court in the second set, another teammate explained:

"He always does that when he's losing."

Keeter was losing once before in the tournament. In fact, he did lose. Holland's Ted Fik dropped him, 6-3, 6-1, but Fik couldn't stay around to play in the semi-finals so they gave the match to Keeter by default just to give him another chance. Such generosity didn't seem to affect him, however. He was just as cocky as ever.

Bill Bos, the Muskegon contingent's tennis coach, had a fantastic number of entries in Muskegon's Junior Center tournament. No less than 294 tennis players took part in the tourney, Bos explained, however, that Muskegon draws players from a huge surrounding territory that includes Cedar Springs, Whitehall, Montague, Sparta, North Muskegon and Muskegon Heights.

Recreation Director Joe Moran figures that Holland has a pretty fair chance to take its third straight boys under 15 singles title in the state tournament at Kalamazoo next week. Les Overway, Junior Center and Southwest Michigan champ, and Rog Plagenhoef, runner-up in both tournaments, will carry the main local hopes.

Two years ago, Hank Vlisscher won the under 15 crown and last year, Paul Dykema came home with the bunting. Both are playing in the under 18 division at present.

Moran wasn't too confident about Holland's prospects in the under 13 competition. "Damson is pretty steady," he said, "but he's still running around backhand shots. He's got to overcome that fault."

Odds and Ends Dept.—Ron Appledorn, former Holland High, Hope College and Hillsdale all-sports star, has accepted a teaching and coaching position at Greenville High School. Appledorn, a graduate of Hillsdale and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Appledorn of 267 West 15th St., will teach history and coach JV football, basketball and either baseball or track.

The wheels are turning for a "George Zuverink Day" in Holland. Instigator of the movement is the Holland Flying Dutchmen Boosters Club. Monday, July 12, has been set since Zuverink will be home during the All-Star break. He'll be honored before the game between the Dutchmen and Cedar Springs Monday night at Riverview Park. Final announcement is due early next week.

Muskegon Home Furnace didn't have a Superman on their baseball team when they played the Dutchmen the other night, but they came pretty close—with a "Sopernan."

Zeeland Football Fans Heartened By Lighting Plans

ZEELAND (Special)—Zeeland Chix football fans who watched lights at Zeeland Athletic Field fall at crucial moments in recent years, will be heartened by changes announced today by Superintendent of Schools Julius F. Schipper.

Schipper said the city has agreed to install a new electrical service entrance at the field. The new service will have greater capacity and put a halt to the blown fuses so frequent recently. Contract price is $376.13.

Lighting was also in the news over at the Senior High School building as workmen started installation of fluorescent lights in rooms, halls and offices.

The new lighting system was badly needed, as any visitor who has strolled through the halls will verify. Work is being done by Arnold Van Duren on a $6,639.32 contract.

Schipper also announced a number of other projects for the summer. The Industrial Piping Service of Holland has been awarded a $1,750 contract for installation of a vacuum heating pump. According to officials the old one was in bad shape.

Outside of the Senior High building is also being spruced up as sand-blasting crews complete three sides of the building and the boiler room. The south side was done a couple years ago. Contract price is $10,266.

Over at Lincoln Elementary school cramped library facilities have been relieved by doubling room area. A partition between rooms was knocked out but even the new area is considered insufficient.

Rooms on both the first and second floor of Junior High School are being enlarged by removal of partitions. Stephenson Contractors of Zeeland has the $1,725 contract.

Supt. Schipper said work this summer is included in budgets for both 1954-55 and 1955-56 school years.

In traveling around the country, I notice many corn fields are showing yellow especially in the lower lying areas. This yellowing indicates lack of nitrogen due to excessive water. Unless this corn greens up soon I feel an early application of nitrogen would benefit it. Nitrogen should be applied at the rate of 40 pounds of Nitrogen to the acre. Which means about 120 pounds of 33 per cent ammonium nitrate. Tests have proven that nitrogen sidressing of corn on fields which have no manure or green matter plowed down will increase yields from 10 to 20 bushels per acre.

I saw another case of excellent control of flies in barn yard Malathien. The walls and ceilings of the stable were sprayed 24 days ago and the material was still killing the flies. That's the way DDT used to act.

Results from the winter barley plots in Ottawa County show two varieties leading the others. Wong and Hudson both stood up well and make excellent combine varieties. Some of the deverted wheat acreage could go to barley. Barley makes excellent feed for livestock equivalent to corn in feeding value. Certified Wong seed will be available this summer. Check your local elevator. Registered seed will be available for Wong, Hudson and Kenbar. The Michigan Crop Improvement Association will accept a limited number of certified growers in Ottawa County. Applications for growing certified seed are available at the County Agent's office Grand Haven.

Some ground work has been done in establishing a Farmers Retail Market at Holland. We would like to hear from any farmer or producer in Ottawa County who might be interested in such a market. Future meetings on this project will be held and those interested will be notified.

Varsity Club Is Backing Tribute To Jack Schouten

Rare is the athlete who didn't pass through Hope College with some personal reason for recognizing John H. (Jack) Schouten as one of Holland's sports immortals.

At least that's the consensus of the Hope Varsity H club that is undertaking a $60,000 refurbishing job on Carnegie Gymnasium as a tribute to Jack.

The name Schouten and Carnegie gym just seemed to go together naturally. Jack was already a part-time member of the athletic department when Andrew Carnegie granted $20,000 for construction of the gym shortly after the turn of the century.

The college matched the amount, and in 1906 the then modern structure was dedicated. Two years later Schouten assumed the baseball coaching duties at the college, and in 1919 he was elevated to the post as director of physical education.

Schouten officially stepped down in 1952 from that position, but retirement proved impossible.

A steady stream of college and high school athletes came to his door for treatment that only the old master could give. Many local doctors were in the habit of sending patients to Jack for hard to cure ailing muscles.

On top of this Schouten was awarded an A.B. degree by the board of trustees in 1949. He has attended Hope preparatory school and summer classes at the University of Illinois, Michigan and Notre Dame.

So when it became apparent last year that something had to be done in bringing the gym up to date, it was natural that it be in the form of a Jack Schouten tribute.

The move got underway with support of the H club, which received hearty approval from college authorities. Efforts now are directed toward raising the funds, although work is already about one-third finished.

Solicitation has been started, and persons interested in aiding the tribute are invited to send checks in care of the Hope College treasurer.

Changes in the building include just about everything except the shell. The basement partitions have been rearranged to include locker and shower facilities for both men and women students.

Formerly girls had to dress in the dorms, and then put on coats to get over to the gym. Training and equipment room space will also be included.

On the main floor a new hardwood playing floor will be installed, and large glass brick areas put in to replace old windows. The old stage is being replaced with two handball courts that officials hope to open for public use after completion.

Exterior changes, aside from the glass brick areas, will center around two straight-in front entrances highlighted by limestone blocks of modern design.

Work is scheduled to be completed by Sept. 1 in order that delegates to a national conference may be housed in the main floor.

Let's Plant Beauty; Roses Are Always Our First and Last Love

Having stirred the imagination of poets for centuries, the rose is still the most and best loved flower and no garden, however small, can be said to be complete without a few roses in it.

The small but well-cared-for garden of Marinus Pott, 238 West 17th St., is enclosed in white picket fencing against which choice roses bloom continually throughout the summer. Among the many hybrid tea roses, Mr. Pott's favorites are American Flagship, the very fragrant Nocturne, Etiole de Holland, Senator McFarland, Diamond Jubilee, and Frau Karl Druschki. His luxuriant climbers include the everblooming Peace, Crimson Glory, Blaze, Pink Aloha, and the light shell pink, New Dawn. Like steeped churches in country towns, the blue spires of delphinium rise to offer the perfect foil for all these gorgeous blooms. These giant Pacific Hybrids are represented in the light blue Summer Skies, the dark blue and purple King Arthur, and the Glistening white Galahad series.

When pruning his climbers, Mr. Pott usually cuts out old canes that have bloomed and some of the thin new growth; however, he feels that sometimes it is judicious to retain old sturdy growth as a source of food supply for new blooms. All blooms past their prime are meticulously removed.

Four sweetly burdened rose trees present a formal array of loveliness at the entrance of the Melvin Groteler home at 685 South Drive. These four are White Swan, Peace, Tallyho, and Charlotte Armstrong which carried up to 80 blooms at one time. Two others, Saturn and Crimson Glory, accent the east border. Since rose trees are much higher above the ground, they do not succumb so easily to disease as their sister hybrid tea roses. A thick mulch of peat moss is spread around the roses each spring. In preparing them for winter, the Grotelers tie up the branches, enclose each tree in chicken fencing, fill the enclosure with straw, and cover the top with tar paper.

An array of floribundas edge the front of the house. Among the several varieties are the newer favorites Fashion, Vogue, Ma Perkins, and a red, a yellow, and a pink Pinnocchio.

Henry Van Klink of 117 West 21st, who neatly maintains his yard with well kept evergreens, spruce and Michigan Holly, confines his choice in roses to four climbers—New Dawn Blaze, American Beauty and Primrose. His roses occasionally are treated to a diet of fish heads.

Artistic use is made of red old-fashioned Seven Sister climber at the Martin Diekema home at 125 West 21st St. One is trained as a pillar rose to cover an arch while two others pleasantly accent the house door and corner against dark green trellises.

As always, cleanliness and good housekeeping in the garden reduce the problem of controlling rose enemies to a minimum. This includes picking off and burning not only all diseased leaves but also those near the bottom of the plant which have yellowed, discolored or become spotted. One prominent rosarian buries a forkful of six-month old cow manure between every two rose bushes as a "hidden force." The Number 1 requirement of rose plants during July and August is plenty of water. At this time you can let up on the fertilizing but do continue your spraying or dusting program of once every ten days depending on the condition of your plants. A thing of beauty is a joy forever and to such belongs our favorite—the rose.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a wing collar and lace yoke. Long lace sleeves came to points over the hands and the full skirt and chapel train were highlighted with panels of lace. An off-face halo of matching lace edged with seedpearls held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of mums and stephanotis centered with an orchid.

Miss Rosemarie Brandt, Oak Lawn, Ill., was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Shiley Horton, Miss Phyllis Galle and Mrs. Louis Follis. They wore identical waltz length gowns of Pacific blue nylon taffeta with matching headbands and white gloves. They carried Italian baskets filled with red roses. Miss Patti Werling was flower girl. She was dressed in a blue floor-length dress and carried a miniature basket of red roses.

Dick Underhill of Battle Creek, cousin of the groom, was best man and ushers were Larry Nichols, La Grange, Ill., Jim Knight, of Jackson, brother of the bride, and Dick Eddy of Plainfield. The bride's cousin, Russell Follis was ring bearer.

Mrs. Knight chose a beige and linen dress enhanced with rhinestones, white accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Underhill wore a blue silk organza dress, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

A reception was held at Hotel Van Orman. The couple will make their home at 204 West 20th St., Holland.

The American Foundation for the Blind of New York offers many devices to help blind homemakers. For egg separation, there is a small funnel that retains the yolk while letting the white slip through. To identify vegetables or soups there is braided Scotch tape that can be affixed to cans.

A FAMILY AFFAIR — Brothers and "Pink" Steggers lay bricks in the future office section of the multi-million dollar General Electric project on West 16th St. as cousin Lloyd Steggers, foreman of the masonry work, looks on. Handling the huge project is the L. O. Stocker Co. of St. Louis, Mo., which sublet the masonry contract to Elzinga & Volkers, Inc., of Holland. (Sentinel photo)

Busy Ed Weaver took a few minutes between barking orders.

As resident engineer for the multi-million dollar General Electric construction job on East 16th St., he's got a mighty big job. He's top dog at the scene of the sprawling project and has more than 100 men working for him.

"I run the show here," Weaver said. "And what a show!" Weaver was sent to Holland by the L.O. Stocker Co. of St. Louis, Mo., the construction firm handling the project which sprawls over 32 acres. He makes it extremely clear that he isn't here to waste time.

"We ought to be closed in by the time cold weather sets in," he predicted. "And from what I hear about this state, no one knows just when that will be."

Weaver said that the job will only be about half finished when the building is closed in. That's why he's so anxious to get all of the outside work completed before the snow starts to fly.

"We could use a little better weather," he complained. "Those heavy rains can make things pretty rough. But we're gonna move full blast ahead until we're done."

Jobs remaining after the building is closed in are such things as electrical and heating installation, interior decorating in the office section and the usual finishing work in the rest of the plant.

"With good luck, we'll have the building ready—inside and outside—by the first of February," Weaver said. But then they still have to move in the machinery and we don't have anything to do with that."

He said he expected that "all of the steel would be up by the first of August." Masons already are going to work laying bricks, which will surround the office section and come up to the window sills the rest of the way around the plant. Except for the all-brick office, aluminum siding will be used above the sills.

Holding the sub-contract on the masonry work is a local concern, Elzinga & Volkers, Inc. Foremen of the masons is Lloyd Steggers of 298 East 32nd St.

"We'll probably use about a hundred thousand bricks," Steggers estimated as his men lumbered by with wheelbarrows full of mortar. "The whole job should take around five months."

Last week, Steggers had six masons on the job, but he planned to put six more to work when things really got rolling. In some ways, the masonry work is a family affair—Steggers has two cousins—brothers Bud and "Pink" Steggers—laying bricks.

All of which is just another act of the big show—and, as Weaver says "what a show."

Wives of Michigan Congressmen Find Plenty to Do in Washington

by Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
WASHINGTON (Special) — The wives of the 20 member delegation from Michigan in Congress don't seem overwhelmed unduly with the glamorous social Merry-Go-Round of the nation's capital. Maybe it's because they are all forthright Midwesterners, not social climbers.

In this city of transients and lobby-pressure groups it takes a bit of pushing to get the most coveted of invitations. Topping the "official" list is the bid from the President and Mrs. Eisenhower to come to the White House for the annual state reception, or, more desirable, for a small occasion.

Michigan ladies were all invited to the Congressional Reception and the Michigan leaders in Congress have been in on many a small function.

One barometer of social achievement is reflected in Washington society pages. By that criterion the wife of the senior Senator, Mrs. Homer Ferguson, well described recently as "just naturally friendly," is a topnotcher. As her favorite Senator climbed to the GOP policy chairmanship, the invitations climbed upward, too. Then as a member of the Foreign Relations committee, the Senator raises entertainment-recognition from the 78 foreign embassies, legations and missions. Myrtle Ferguson is seriously interested in things political, national and international, and gives generously of her talent for speaking and writing.

The wife of the junior Senator, Mrs. Charles Potter, is equally as friendly and outgoing but she is always trying to curtail the "extras" to protect the health of her 39-year-old husband, who lost both legs in World War II. Since the Army-McCarthy hearings, she finds his TV appearances have made more demanding the requests for speaking and social engagements.

No other Michigan woman will disagree if we call "Betty" Ford, wife of the up and coming Grand Rapids Congressman, the prettiest. And this isn't all, she gifted as a hostess, and reigns as president over the 81st Club, composed of the wives of husbands who came to Washington with the 81st Congress in 1949. There are many of these clubs so it takes real ingenuity for a president to dream up some unusual programs. But she has.

The freshman Congressional wife getting the biggest kick out of the goings-on in Washington is the smartly frocked, gray-haired Mrs. Charles Oakman of Detroit. For Washington old timers, she is a joy in her appreciation of the glories of this capital of the free world. She doesn't even mind shepherding a bunch of constituents around on a sightseeing trip to historic shrines!

The hardest worker in the middle of Capitol Hill activities is Mrs. Jesse Wolcott, who rolls up her sleeves and helps her busy husband right in his office. As chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee he is one of a handful of GOP House leaders operating behind the scenes. An efficient secretary before her marriage, Mrs. Wolcott said she "worked for Jesse for 24 years but didn't go on the payroll until this year." She has no young children now to keep her home and she likes the office work at which she's so proficient.

The wealthy Alvin Bentley's wife of Owosso is something new for the Michigan delegation. They have a butler and a chauffeur! They prefer a quiet life and most of their entertaining is given for small groups of visiting friends or Congressional intimates. They accept "only 10 percent of their invitations." Their social engagements were also curtailed by the long illness of the congressman, who was shot by those fanatical Puerto Ricans back in March. Then shortly thereafter they had a baby.

Mrs. Kit Clardy, wife of the Lansing representative, "Never made a campaign speech and doesn't intend ever to do so." This is the first session for the Clardys and Mrs. Clardy has been concentrating on keeping her husband in good health while he has been making things unhealthy for any subversives as a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

In contrast, Mrs. George Meender does "a little to help in the campaigning." She has even done "door to door" work and has addressed thousands of envelopes in campaign headquarters.

The Michigan delegation is concerned over the grave illness of Mrs. Paul Shafer and the Battle Creek Congressman hopes Congress will adjourn soon so he can be with her all the time.

First termers Elford Cederberg and his wife are trying to see if they can live in two places at the same time. Their two teenaged children so hated to transfer from their Bay City school and friends that the Cederbergs have become champion commuters.

Mrs. Clare Hoffman of Allegan alone can brag she has a grandchild as well as five grandchildren! Her husband described her for us as "the best looking, most stylish and best dancer among all the congressional wives."

The wives of the five Democrat congressmen, all of Detroit, seem glad (although they probably wouldn't want their husbands to know about it) that the Republicans are now in control. It does make a difference in the number and importance of demands made upon them. They, as do most of the wives, belong to the Congressional Club, to which only the feminine members of congressional families can belong. Some Michigan widows are seen there too, noticeably Mrs. Roy Woodruff, of Bay City, a very active member.

Victories Mark Teams To Watch in B League

De Nooyer Chevrolet, Holland Hitch and National Guard scored victories in Recreation B League play Thursday night.

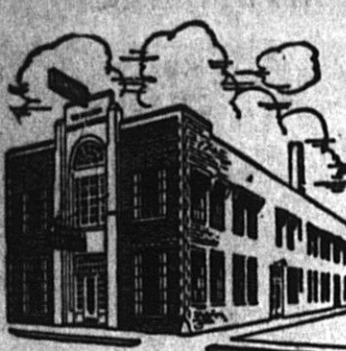

Pete Voss hurled an excellent game to lead De Nooyer to a 6-2 win over Stam's Moblilas. He was backed up by a solid hitting attack paced by Pete Welling's blazing triple.

Holland Hitch ended its record at 1-1 by dropping Holland Racine in a close contest, 6-5. It was no contest in the final game as National Guard scored at will to beat Young Calvinists, 19-7.

In games Tuesday night De Nooyer handed the Guards their first defeat of the season, 4-3, while Stam's downed Young Calvinists, 5-4, and Holland Racine beat AFL 2391 by a similar 5-4 margin.

Play will be resumed July 15 after a one-week layoff.

WISHING TRUMAN WELL

Not only does politics make strange bedfellows, it also causes queer changes in the people who are not political bedfellows. When former President Truman was taken dangerously ill, the American people almost with one voice wished him well, quickly forgetting all the passions that only a year or two ago caused millions to call him all the bad names they could lay their tongues to. His bitterest political foes parked their politics outside the sick room.

The same thing would be true if a Republican leader of similar standing should be faced with a similar danger. The Democrats would be quite as quick to discard their political animosities and sincerely hope for his recovery.

This is true for both parties, even if recovery means renewed competition. When former Senator Blair Moody was stricken while on a speaking tour in the upper peninsula, Senator Ferguson sent him a letter of best wishes and hope for speedy recovery. This was of course good politics, and part of the motivation was doubtless the thought on Ferguson's part that the Michigan voters are attracted by good sportsmanship. But even politicians in the midst of a campaign are human enough sincerely to wish their opponents well when serious illness strikes them.

In the case of Mr. Truman, the renewal of competition is not involved in the well wishes of his political friends and foes. Politically speaking, he is on the shelf; it does not seem likely that he will ever try for public office again.

He has in his time aroused perhaps greater bitterness on the part of the politicians of the other party than any public man in recent political history. His attacks on congress while he was still on the political battle front were such that a foreign observer might have been expected to believe that his words could never be forgiven. But if that same foreign observer should revisit America today he would note that the same man Mr. Truman abused are sending him messages of cheer and are expressing the wish that he will soon be himself again.

That's the way Americans are. That is the spirit of American politics. Public men in both parties fight hard, but through it all they remain human. There isn't much of anything wrong with the American political system when bitter foes of Truman can wish him well when illness strikes him.

Sunday School Lesson

Are We Growing as Christians?
1 Corinthians 3: 1-3; Ephesians 4:11-16; 2 Peter 1: 5-8; 3:18

by Henry Geerlings

The Scriptures which serve as a basis for this lesson are taken from the epistles of Paul and Peter, and are expressions of their concern for the spiritual growth of the Christians in Corinth, Ephesus and elsewhere.

The Corinthian church established by the labors of the apostle Paul during some eighteen months of preaching and teaching was soon beset with difficulties from within as well as from without. Some were indulging in practices which were most unworthy of their profession. Bickering and divisions were disrupting the peace of the church and threatening to destroy it. The letters of Paul were attempts to get them to forget their differences, to cease acting like babes, and become grown men in Christ, to lay aside their carnal practices and emphasize spiritual growth, not only becoming but absolutely essential.

The apostle Paul spent about two years in laying the foundation for the church at Ephesus, speaking at first in the synagogue and later in the school at Tyrannus. As a result of his work many became Christians and many of them also which used curious arts brought their books of magic and burned them publicly. These Christians Paul urged to continue until they became Christlike.

Peter's list of Christian virtues reveals his concern for continuing growth both in grace and in knowledge.

Normal growth must occur in every area of life—in the physical, the mental, the social and the spiritual. Our concern for the growth of an individual is often determined by the ease with which we may measure that growth as much as by any other single factor. The ease with which we may measure the growth, and our familiarity with the instruments for measurement, frequently determine our desire and interest in taking such measurements.

Surely parents ought to be concerned about the spiritual well being of their children. If a child becomes ill a doctor is sent for. If teeth need attention we take him to a dentist. If he is not getting his school work we spend considerable time with him at home. Why do we not have as great a concern for the spiritual welfare of the child, especially since development in this area of life builds for eternity.

We ought to be concerned about our own spiritual growth. It should be our first concern. Surely we ought to be supremely concerned about that part of our being which spans time and dwells in eternity. We owe it to ourselves to take advantage of every opportunity that will contribute to our spiritual growth, both for our own sake and for the sake of others.

During the growing season on the farm, it is very important that the rain come. It is a million dollar rain, we hear someone say when a good, soaking downpour comes just at the right time to revive the fields that are becoming parched. In the desert lands, the sunshine, the seed, and even the soil may be satisfactory for there is no growth. In America we have seen such desolation turned into fertile fields and orchards by irrigation. Moisture brought the needed ingredient for abundant crops.

In the Christian life refreshment and revival are necessary. These are found in fellowship and service, in unity and love. Jesus realized this need when He provided the Lord's Supper as a monument in His memory. When the Christians gather about the Lord's Supper in obedience to His invitation and partake of the elements as He directed, they are strengthened and nourished in their growth. Earthly parents consider a child sick when he refuses to eat at the family table. Prompt attention is given to discover the ailment and apply the remedy. Christ is concerned when His followers do not observe this institution. We must give prompt attention to discover the ailment and apply the remedy.

The Bible provides advice and rules by which we can test our growth. We can measure our own lives against the word pictures of Christ conduct and attitudes given by inspired writers.

Busy Fourth Officially Opens Resort Season

Holland's resort season got off to its official start this week with a real Fourth of July bang—despite failure of the unpredictable weatherman to comply with all vacationers' desires.

Weekend rains and cooler temperatures couldn't mar the booming success of traditional holiday weekend festivities at the many popular resort meccas in this area.

Hotels, motels, cabins and parks report busy fun schedules by capacity or near-capacity guest lists. A big season is anticipated by all resort owners, with the attractions of Lake Michigan and Lake Macatawa luring sailors, water skiers, swimmers and suntan seekers to their shores.

Waukegon Inn
Waukegon Inn enjoyed one of its best opening weekends this year. Entertainment included a magic show by Danny Johnson and an accordion concert by Lloyd La Vaux, "the poet of the accordion."

After the married men beat the single men at baseball Sunday afternoon, the losers asked for a return match Monday. But experience was too much, and the married men won again.

Among the guests at the Inn are Dr. Charles Blare and family of Cincinnati; the Ralph Johnson family of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Senoa of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fraser and Mrs. Leslie Kennedy of Royal Oak; Miss Harriet Jones, Evanston, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roysterer, Ann Arbor; Bernice Lynch and Eleanor Beekman, Kalamazoo; Mr. and Mrs. Bland Button, Chicago; the Bland Button, Jr., family, Winnetka; Mrs. G. H. Jewell, Evanston; and the Kenneth McCoy family, Indianapolis.

Cottagers include the Willis Diekmans of Holland at Sunset, the Howard Besudens of Cincinnati at Blue Heron; H. G. Walters of Chicago at White Pine; Richard Munsons of Chicago, Laughing Squirrel; the Robert Bensons of Chicago, Playhouse; G. M. Rodger, Chicago, Woodstock; Arthur Turner, Evanston, East Wind; Norval Arbogast, Richmond, Ind., Parakeet; Barbara and Sonny Daly of Marshall, Ill., Nippon; Charles Hasemann, St. Louis, Ouilmette; Dr. Willis Pugh, Evansville, Ind., Oriole.

The Albert Gardners of Clayton, Mo., have opened their cottage, the Bob-o-Link. Mrs. Irene Noonan of Cincinnati has opened "The Corners" and Mr. and Mrs. James Fank are in Nestor's Rest. Capt. and Mrs. J. W. McKenna have returned from Tucson, Ariz., to spend the summer in the "Grooters" cottage. The Mack family of Chicago were weekend guests of the McKennas.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carpenter and family of Delray Beach, Fla., are spending the month here with the Diekmans. Sally Diekema is commuting between Waukegon and Chicago where she is associated with the "Welcome Travelers" program.

James Martij and Miss Mary Rodger were guests of the Jack Rodgers in Woodstock.

So far, Bill Pugh is the champion fisherman—with his M. D. touch for hauling them in.

Castle Park

A season of much social activity and a variety of events for guests of all ages is planned at The Castle, where a big holiday weekend crowd gave the season a memorable start. A good summer season is anticipated with many old guests planning to return and many new guests registered for vacations throughout the season.

Weekend highlights were the Monday field day, with children and parents entering into many events. Boys from the Castle defeated boys from Macatawa in a spirited ball game, edging the Mac boys 5 to 3.

Several traditional features will be continued for Castle Park guests this year. The first of the dances on the beautiful Dance Dune by the lake is scheduled Saturday night, with dancing for children from 8 to 9 p.m. and for adults the remainder of the evening. Dune dances will be held each Tuesday and Saturday, with Chuck Ranson's band providing music.

Beach suppers are planned on the dune every other Friday, and the popular supper services, featuring various local ministers, will be continued each Sunday.

Maple Shade

Vacation time officially opened at Maple Shade resort at Port Sheldon last weekend with swimming, shuffleboard and tether tennis headlining as favorite sports.

Activities for this week include movies and a potluck supper. Newly-arrived guests are Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and Ralph and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Womack, Barbara and Ray of Steger, Ill., and Mrs. Nellie Light of Chicago Heights, Ill. From Findlay, Ohio, are Mr. and Mrs. Max Briggs, Doreen, Dennis and Don, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thomas, Steven, David and Bobby and Judy McCoy and Pat Hartzell. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chalfont, Norman, and Gregg and their friend Eddie McKelvey are here from Cincinnati. Gregg celebrated his seventh birthday anniversary last Saturday.

Other guests include Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schols, Nancy, Barbara and Mary and Miss Sena Bos, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Deters, Jerry and Phil, all from Grand Rapids.

Macatawa

Hotel Macatawa's opening during the holiday weekend was one of international flavor, with guests from South Africa, Norway, Switzerland and many places in the United States.

A real weekend whirl was enjoyed by the vacationers, whose busy schedule included Cabaret Night Saturday, square dancing Monday night and the highlight event—the regular Sunday night concert, featuring Barbara Manas of Chicago and Genevieve Aleksunas, piano soloist who has been a favorite entertainer at Macatawa in past years. The concert was ably conducted, as usual, by John Urban.

Shuffleboard tournament play is underway now and the schedule of game nights—held weekly on Tuesday and Thursday—has begun. Rehearsals are in their final stages for the big staff show—scheduled this Friday.

Fleetwood Takes Queen's Cup Race

MUSKEGON Mich. — Fleetwood, a yawl owned by Nick Geib of Chicago, won the Milwaukee-to-Muskegon Queen's Cup race Friday.

The Chicago boat completed the 80-mile run in a corrected time of 16 hours 6 minutes. Second place went to Gypsy, owned by J. F. Schoendorf, Milwaukee, which trailed the winner by seven minutes.

Third place went to Copperhead, owned by Charles Kotovich, Milwaukee, while Tahuna, owned by Herb Bathke, Milwaukee, finished fourth.

Fireworks No Fun For Dutchmen — Lose 3 Contests

The fireworks were mighty rough for the Holland Flying Dutchmen over the weekend.

Saturday night they slid all the way down into fourth place in the Southwest Michigan Baseball league by losing to the South Haven Merchants at South Haven, 13-4.

Holland could manage only six hits for braces of runs in the third and eighth as the Merchants squared the Dutchmen league record at 3-3 by pounding Jim Reece for 14 hits. Five of Holland's regulars were absent and Manager Russ Wolrding had to shuffle his lineup with such drastic changes as Paul Mack behind the plate, Lou Humbert at third and Al Glupker at first base.

Monday, the Dutchmen found Kalamazoo Sutherland could live up to its high rating when they were outscored twice in a morning-night doubleheader at River-view Park, 13-1 and 10-2.

To make matters even worse, a former Dutchman player rammed a one-hitter at the Dutchmen in the first game as Rog Eggers hurled sparkling ball for Sutherland. Left Fielder Al Dykema got an infield safety in the fourth inning to ruin Eggers' bid for a no-hitter. The Holland right-hander attends Western Michigan College.

Jack Kemper absorbed the loss in the first game while Jim Prins was battered in the second contest. The Dutchmen were held to five hits in the nightcap.

Holland gets a short rest before its next game—a league encounter with the Zeeland Chix in Zeeland Friday night.

The standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Grand Haven	4	2	.667
Zeeland	3	2	.600
South Haven	3	2	.600
Holland	3	3	.500
Cedar Springs	0	4	.000

According to sheriff's officers, Wiersma said he fell asleep at the wheel. Damage to the 1939 model car was estimated at $250. Moderate speed by both autos prevented a serious crash at 7:50 p.m. Monday on 96th Ave., three miles south of Zeeland.

Juvenile Court Busy With Cases

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Since the county-wide meeting on juvenile traffic violators June 9, there has been an understandable upswing in violations reported to juvenile court. Avery Baker, county agent for Probate Court, and juvenile referee said Ottawa is devoting special attention to the juvenile violator.

Under the new arrangement, all law enforcement officers are referring juvenile violators under 17 directly to Baker's office rather than warning and releasing them. In case of violations the youthful driver is given a ticket and a copy is mailed to the juvenile division of Probate Court. Baker then contacts juveniles charged with traffic violation and arranges for suitable punishment.

Prosecutor James W. Bussard has ruled that any fines or punishment meted out by any criminal court are illegal in the case of juveniles. He says the new system will go far in correcting the abuse of driving privileges by teenage children within the county.

Since fines are illegal for juveniles under 17 cases usually are disposed of by warning, probation or recommended suspension or revocation of operator's licenses for a stated period.

July is expected to be a record month since already many referrals on violations have been received from beach areas. The court views the problem of drinking juveniles with particular alarm, Baker said.

Eighteen presidential nominating conventions have been held in Chicago.

NO ONE WHO HAS EVER BEEN IN the basement of Carnegie Gymnasium on Hope College campus would ever believe there is so much room. Originally constructed as both a gym and theater, many of the rooms were waste space when the building was used exclusively as a gym. Current remodeling plans make use of every square inch and include locker and shower facilities for men and women students. The main floor includes two large handball courts, plus office and classroom space. The large playing floor, equal in size to the Armory floor, will be laid with new hardwood flooring. The project is a tribute to Jack Schouten, long time member of the Athletic Department.

Dutchmen Shade Muskegon, 3-2

Score All 3 Runs In First; Kempker Hurls Five-Hitter

Holland's Flying Dutchmen found revenge mighty sweet Thursday night as they scored three runs in the first inning, then held on behind Jack Kempker's masterful, five-hit pitching to nip Muskegon Home Furnace, 3-2.

Kempker was in control all the way as he mowed down the Furnace, striking out nine and allowing only single runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Some wild base-running on the part of Muskegon helped the Dutchmen, however. In fact, Muskegon probably would have tied the game in the ninth if it hadn't been for one of those "miscues" on the basepaths.

Muskegon's Sopernah blasted a drive into right field to open the ninth, but was cut down by right fielder Ron Van Dykes throw to shortstop Paul Mack when he overslid the bag. Later in the inning, Muskegon's Morse singled to center.

In the sixth, Muskegon's Billings clouted a double into center, but lost an excellent scoring opportunity when he tried to stretch it into a triple. Second baseman Bill Sandahl took the throw from Lou Humbert, then whipped the ball to third baseman Bob Van Dyke to nail the runner.

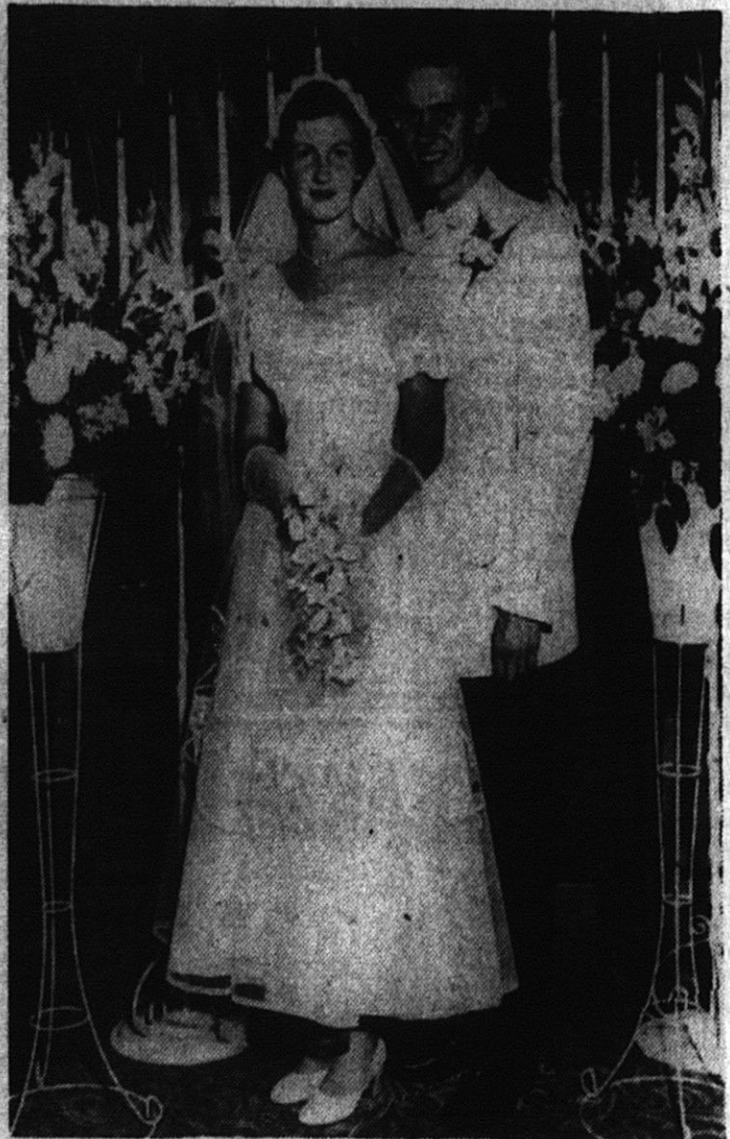

Five singles in the first were it as far as Dutchman scoring was concerned, but it was enough.

After Sandahl had fanned to open the inning, Mack and Bob Van Dyke slammed singles into left field. When Lou Humbert popped up to the third baseman, Ron Boeve cracked another single into left to score Mack. Left field was the target for the fourth time as Al Dykema clobbered a single and Bob Van Dyke came home with a second run.

Yskes finished scoring with the fifth single—to right for a change—that scored Boeve.

From then on, however, Muskegon's Eaton held the Dutchmen under his thumb as he limited them to a total of three hits in the remaining eight innings for a total of eight safeties.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Paul Unema

A waltz-length gown of gossamer sheer nylon tulle was worn by Miss Crystal Mae De Weerd for her marriage to Norman Paul Unema on June 25 in First Hudsonville Christian Reformed Church.

The gown featured a pleated motif at the V neckline, basque bodice and short pleated sleeves with Alencon lace applique. The fullness of her circular skirt was emphasized with a scroll embroidery of Alencon lace and silk ribbon. Her veil of French illusion was held in place by a Juliet nylon tulle cap. She carried a white Bible with white phenopsis and pink stephanotis and pink and white moon-glow streamers. Her pearls were a gift of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry H. De Weerd, 84 West Chicago Dr., Hudsonville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Unema, 33 West 21st St., Holland.

The Rev. Eno F. J. Van Halsem performed the double ring service in the church auditorium decorated with pink and white altar bouquets, palms, seven-branch candelabra and pew candelabra. "Bless These Two" and "Together Life's Pathway We Tread" were sung by Miss Evelyn Huizenga. She was accompanied by Mrs. John Tibbe, organist, who also played the wedding marches. Sisters of the bride were attendants, Miss Lavina De Weerd was maid of honor and Miss Mary Jane De Weerd, bridesmaid. Winds Sweep Allegan Areas

GRAND RAPIDS, Michigan — A severe wind storm near Moline in Allegan County about 15 miles south of here caused damage estimated at $50,000 Friday night.

Allegan County sheriff's officers reported that four barns were flattened and many trees uprooted. Heaviest damage was on a farm owned by Lawrence J. DeHaan who lost a barn, chicken coop and tool shed. He estimated the storm caused a "conservative $25,000" damage to his farm.

Residents at Moline believed a tornado had hit the area but the weather bureau here said there was no evidence of a tornado.

Hospital Differential Rate Is Abolished

Differential rates at Holland Hospital have been abolished as of July 1, following the signing of agreements on the part of Holland, Park and Fillmore townships to assume their just share of the operating deficit, the amount to come from contingency funds at the end of the fiscal year.

For several years, the hospital had maintained a differential rate in which patients outside Holland city paid a slightly higher fee.

Paris Offers Tourists Hundreds Of Historical, Noted Attractions

By Bill Butler

PARIS, FRANCE — We are in Paris ready to see the sights, all the historical statues, buildings, churches, and museums. Today we will travel around Paris and we no doubt will be very busy while we are here for a very short time.

The tour of Paris began as we went down the Champs-Elysees to the Arch of Triumph where we made a short stop to take pictures and listened to the history that our woman guide ran through in her best English.

We climbed back into the bus and proceeded with much rattle and roar, as the bus was a large diesel that made a lot of noise. We much prefer our American buses that we have been riding around in Europe most of the time.

The bus continued on to Concord Square, where during the Revolution the guillotine worked, and were told more about the city and the many points of interest.

The Germans did not bomb Paris, because they expected it for themselves, according to our guide. Many of the buildings still have bullet marks in them however.

We saw the hundreds of second-hand bookstalls on both sides of the Seine River, and more of the government buildings, as well as our embassy, with the American flag flying.

As many of you may know the traffic in Paris is another one of the many things one must reckon with. Sunday is quite a good day to go sightseeing because the traffic is light.

After the tour of Paris in the morning, also including the Eiffel Tower, The Palace of Invalids, built by Louis XIV for wounded soldiers, Napoleon's tomb, with the light of the dome reflecting on the crypt, and the tomb of Marshall Foch. The Officer's Training School of the 18th century, an ancient Egyptian Obelisk, brought from Egypt (only one could be brought because of the weight) and many other buildings of historical interest, we returned home to eat lunch before setting out on the afternoon portion of sightseeing Paris.

After lunch we continued on with our tour of Paris. The first stop was the Palace of Louvre. According to our guide, there are six distinct museums combined in the buildings. One could, no doubt, spend many days here without seeing the whole museum. A quick run through for about three hours touched on some of the high spots, viewing the buildings inside and out, and of course the headless winged victory, Venus de Milo, and Mona Lisa, by Leonardo da Vinci. The Mona Lisa was stolen and is now protected by a glass frame, since it was recovered to prevent further theft of the picture.

From the Louvre we continued to Notre Dame, world famous cathedral. Notre Dame was begun about 1163 and finished about 1270. The magnificent old wood-stained glass windows in the Cathedral are especially beautiful, and represent a skill of glass dying that is no longer known, according to our guide.

After the Louvre we went through the Latin Quarter crossed the Seine and headed back to our hotel where we washed up and then went to the Eiffel Tower for our dinner. The view of the city at sunset and the lights coming on at dusk was exquisite.

The TV station is atop the tower and they say that they have the best signal in Europe, but the rottenest programs. I did not have time to find out if this was a fact. We did not, however, notice many people looking at TV or many antennas. They may have sets but not antennas.

The next day we went to Fontainebleau. On our way we stopped off at Barbizon which is famous as the homes of Millet, a converted barn where he painted "The Man With the Hoe," "The Gleaners," and "The Anglers." We continued on to Fontainebleau, the hunting lodge of the Kings of France. Situated in the middle of a large forest Fontainebleau is one of the most beautiful palaces in France. The apartments of Napoleon and Marie-Antoinette are especially interesting.

You will no doubt remember that Versailles was built by the fabulous Louis XIV. It is still considered by the French people, and I suppose many others, as one of the great show places of the continent. We no doubt would not be a good judge as we have not been able to spend enough time there to see all the many buildings and rooms. There are many large and small rooms like one sees in many of the castles of Europe. This is in fair state of repair and while there are a number of places where there could be considerable cleaning done to my way of thinking, this is only my opinion.

We understand that the Rockefeller Foundation has been generous with their money in the repair of Versailles. There are a great number of trees and bushes. They are not very well trimmed and the gardens, while they are huge, could stand some of the real horticultural know-how of the other European countries.

France does not seem to keep their parks and gardens in very good condition. We think they could do wonders with the large areas that they have in these many large grounds and parks. It may be that they do not have the money. It is at least one of the opinions that I heard stated when I talked about the wonderful possibilities.

We saw the Hall of Mirrors where the Versailles Treaty was signed during 1919, the artificial lakes and the fountains that were not running because of the expense. They only run certain a few minutes at a time on certain occasions, according to our guide.

The Trainons, the first one built by Louis XIV for Madame de Maintenon and The Petit Trainon, originally built for the Madame du Barry by Louis XV, this was the one used by Marie-Antoinette.

Then we walked around in a great many rooms and viewed the many rooms and the furnishings. I must say that if you plan on seeing all the many historical parts of Paris it would take a great many days. We recommend doing the parts that they are interested in first and then going back to pick up some of the places that you missed.

This afternoon we are going to Versailles and we will take another quick look at some of the shops and restaurants with their sidewalk cafes as we travel along.

Also we see some of the city parks and the wide and narrow streets, then the more than 50 bridges.

We see more book stalls and places where they sell prints and paintings and a great number of people strolling along and looking in the shop windows as well as sitting in the parks and along the sidewalks. They say that if you sit long enough in a place you will see most of your friends pass. We do not seem to have time to try this. At least we have not so far.

This morning I neglected to report that we stopped at the highest spot in Paris, Montmartre, and looked around at the small shops and studios. This is the spot where all the artists live and work. They say that they are allowed to run this part of the city with their own government.

Here again my French was not good enough to find out if this is fact or fiction. It was a nice warm sunny noonday and the area was well filled with people. The usual amount of tourists from all parts of America as well as a great many other parts of the world were there.

THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN at 5:15 p.m. Friday looking east on Eighth St. showing dark cloud overhead which a few minutes later let loose with a rainstorm that almost deluged the town, overflowing gutters and lashing utility lines. Street lights were turned on and motorist turned on car lights when skies darkened. Only the east and south horizons were light. Up to early Saturday, rainfall measured .81 inch. The electrical storm knocked out several telephone circuits in Holland area, but all service was expected restored by early evening. There was a minimum of damage in power wires. For photo enthusiasts, this picture was taken at F/8 at 1/25 second on Type B film. (Sentinel photo)

just look. They seem to spot the tourists and the prices are high. Then I suppose this is the same the world over.

We notice a great many signs in Europe announcing that they are a member of the Anglo-American Tourist Association and a sign that they have people that speak English, French and usually one other language.

We did not go into the old church, The Sacred Heart, as they were just completing their noon Mass. This is supposed to be one of the oldest churches.

We could see a good deal of the city from this point due to the nice sunny day. We were glad to have this after arriving in the rain. We have noticed that a good deal of repairing and rebuilding has been done. There is this to remember, however, the main part of the city is not industrial so only the industrial parts were bombed. We noticed some of this in the industrial areas.

Classes Slated In Instrumental Summer Program

Music Director Art Hills of the Holland Public Schools said Saturday that the summer instrumental program will begin this week.

Students from grade school through high school will be eligible to enroll for class instruction and band and orchestral rehearsals.

The $3 entry fee covers cost for instruction and also rental of an instrument if a school instrument is used. However, most students will have to provide their own, as the school supply is limited and there are never enough to go around.

The following list will tell the student what day to come on this week:

Tuesday July 6, Junior High; Wednesday July 7, Van Raalte; Thursday, July 8, Longfellow; Friday July 9, Lincoln; Monday July 12, Washington.

All students were to report for the first day as listed above at 9 a.m. for time and lesson assignment. Mrs. Wanda Rider has been engaged to instruct all string students. All string players met Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. in room 1 of the Junior High Bldg.

The Holland senior band will rehearse every Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Band Room. A trip to Chicago in August will be the climax of the summer rehearsals. First senior band rehearsal will be on Thursday, July 8.

In the grade and junior high divisions beginning classes as well as more advanced classes will be held. Scheduling will be made so that there will be no conflict with the sports school.

Good American Meal, With Drinkable Water Proves Real Treat for Tourists

By Bill Butler

LE HAVRE — We arrived at 6:30 p.m. by boat train from Paris. There were 16 cars on our train and all were filled. Many people are returning to the United States. All space on the United States is taken.

We enjoyed the train ride as the weather was cool so that the windows were closed. So we did not have the dirt and dust as well as the smoke and cinders. Our French courier was very interesting as he handles a great number of military people on short trips. He had a list of 350 military U.S. officers and regulars as well as some Navy. They were to leave for Paris tomorrow. He will have two assistants. We had the usual filling out of forms and three tickets for boarding the ship. That amounted to 12 for the Butlers.

Just finished dinner, a good American dinner with plenty of good cold water to drink. It tasted very good.

Le Havre is a large port and there has been considerable building of warehouses. They are mostly reinforced concrete. Many large cranes are used for handling of all types of cargo.

Some lights now, although it is still twilight and a little rain.

We noticed that the men and women all have on their heavy clothes, many fur coats! This is cool for July.

We have not had time to see if our luggage has been placed in our room. We will no doubt go to the movies. Last evening after all day sight-seeing by walking we had planned to go to the Passion Play outside at Notre Dame, but it was not warm enough to sit out. The weather man said rain. The Passion Play is a large, fine production by the people from Austria, Oberammergau. There were many bleachers seats, all right out in the open.

We saw the celebrated Flea Market with the many blocks of shops made of all kinds of canvas and corrugated iron as well as wood. Here again, they were offering everything for sale. And I mean everything.

It looked quite like Maxwell St. in Chicago.

We traveled around in the Opera House district where we again found many sidewalk merchants. One person from San Francisco said that the way the dogs were scratching would lead one to believe that there were fleas.

The Normandy country is filled with grain and fruit and many herd of cattle, but our courier said the French working people cannot afford the beef.

One wonders just what the real answer is to all our world problems.

Motorist Injured

Ottawa county Deputies said, Lamar was issued a ticket for failure to yield the right of way.

Only Holland boy eliminated in the under 15 bracket was Gary Taber who ran into tough No. 1 seeded Gerald Doble of Hamtramck and was blanked with two love sets.

Hungry Thief Takes Chicken Leg, Meat Loaf

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Sheriff's officers are looking for a hungry man who broke into a cottage at Strawberry Point on Spring Lake and took a chicken leg and a piece of meat loaf from a refrigerator. A loaf of bread and a butcher knife nearby indicated he made himself a sandwich.

SENTINEL CARRIER Don De Kraker really has the answer for delivering newspapers during the rainstorm Tuesday afternoon. He removes his shoes, rolls up his jeans and borrows mother's umbrella to keep his supplies nice and dry. Besides that, he rings door bells and if there's no answer tries to leave the paper inside the door. Don, the 14-year-old son of Police Sgt. and Mrs. Isaac De Kraker, was snapped while walking his beat on 14th St. near Washington Blvd. during Tuesday afternoon's rain. The rain continued all night and Wednesday and measured 1.14 inches. Predictions call for continued cool weather and maybe some more rain by Friday.

Chest X-Ray Unit In Holland Again

If you missed an opportunity to have your chest x-rayed last February you will be able to have this service performed free of charge this week by the same mobile unit of the Michigan Department of Health.

The unit was open Wednesday at Chris-Craft Corp. from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. On Thursday, Friday and next Monday, it will be open to the public at City Hall. Hours are noon to 8 p.m. on Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, and 1 to 9 p.m. on Monday. On Tuesday, it will move to Harrington Coal Co. to serve industrial firms in that area.

The unit operated in Ottawa county this year from Jan. 18 to Feb. 28. More than 5,000 persons took advantage of the service in Holland city. This week's schedule is particularly aimed at those who did not have chest x-rays last winter. It is for all persons over 15, but particularly for those over 50.

This week's program is arranged by the Ottawa County Health Department which also is carrying on an extensive sodium fluoride program for children. Fluoride clinics have been completed in Montello Park school and are currently operating in Zeeland. After the Zeeland clinic, the fluoride crew will move to Beechwood. Separate fluoride clinics are held for Holland city in Washington school.

Klein, 31, route 2, Coopersville, was given 48 hours to pay $50 fine and $5.50 costs when he pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Tuesday to a charge of stealing a quantity of fireworks from the Nelson Baldus service station on M-104. Alternative is 15 days in the county jail.

Harold Van Raalte, 30, Ferrysburg, chose to spend 10 days in the county jail rather than pay $20 fine and $5.50 costs after pleading guilty Tuesday to a drunk and disorderly charge. He was arrested by sheriff's officers in Ferrysburg July 3. Van Raalte will be serving his term at the same time as Duncan Tucker, one of four assailants who alleged beat and robbed Van Raalte in a fracas at North shore park several months ago. Tucker was given a 30-day sentence as part of his probation before Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith last week.

Tucker, however, is allowed no visitors other than his relatives. Harry Gray, 21, and Charles Riker, 18, both of Lansing, both paid $25 fine and $5.50 costs. Former Resident And Daughter Hurt In Fatal Accident

A former Holland man and his daughter were seriously injured in a two-car crash on US-131 in Antrim county near Mancelona Monday noon which took the lives of two Grand Rapids Navy veterans.

Daniel J. (Don) Zwemer, 53, of Marquette, formerly of Holland, and his daughter, Judy, 12, are in fairly good condition in Kalkaska Health Center. Zwemer recovered consciousness Tuesday. He received severe multiple body lacerations and possible internal injuries. Attendants were fairly certain there were no fractures. Judy received fractures of both legs near the hips and lacerations. Another occupant of the car, Robert Plough, 14, also of Marquette, received fractures of both legs.

Killed in the crash were Dominic Amante, 24, and Robert Zalsman, 29, Navy veterans of Grand Rapids. State police said Amante was driving one car with Anthony Denny, 43, and Zalsman as passengers. Denny received fractures of both hips, a fractured arm and possible internal injuries. Amante died shortly after arrival at Kalkaska Hospital and Zalsman died five hours later in Munson Hospital.

The Zwemer party was returning home after spending some time in Holland celebrating the 55th wedding anniversary of Zwemer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Zwemer. The anniversary falls on June 1 but the family celebrated the event July 4 so that all children and grandchildren could be present. Mrs. Don Zwemer is doing secretarial work at The Castle this summer.

After hearing of the accident, Mrs. Zwemer was taken to Muskegon by James Zwemer of Norfolk, Va., and Harold McLean of Burbank, Calif., her brothers-in-law, and boarded a chartered plane for Kalkaska. James Zwemer accompanied her to Kalkaska and returned two hours later.

Boudreau was walking with Mr. and Mrs. George Overway of Holland. George Overway died of injuries.

Plaintiff alleges he was a hospital patient until Sept. 28. The declaration alleges he received a fractured left leg and a permanent scar on his left hip, also scars on his face.

Hollis Brower of Holland has filed suit against Melville and Shirley Arvidson, seeking $1,000 which represents the balance due on a note given to First National Bank, Oct. 30, 1932, and endorsed by the bank to Brower Oct. 8, 1933.

The car was repossessed and sold at public auction, the amount credited to Brown.

Julius Chillon of Robinson township has filed suit against Olive J. Ralya, also of Robinson township, seeking $3,000 for injuries received in a tractor-car accident three miles east of 120th Ave. in Robinson township Oct. 26, 1933.

Paint Spraying Racket Halted

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—The paint spraying racket which operated in Ottawa county a few days this week was all over today, and the persons involved were far, far away, perhaps never to return.

Sheriff Gerald Vanderbeek took into custody two 16-year-old boys from Frankfort, Ky., and two Negro boys in the Mame area Friday afternoon, after receiving a complaint that the crew had painted the home of a Wright township widow, charging her $7.65 per gallon for the 113 gallons of "paint" used.

In the course of the investigation, it was learned that there were six to eight such rigs in operation in the area, but that most work had been done in Allegan county, mostly on barns. Each rig was manned by one white boy and one Negro boy. The white boys acted as salesmen and the Negro boys did the work.

The foursome was released at 6 p.m. on orders of Prosecutor James W. Bussard who said no complaint was signed in Ottawa county and no money had been exchanged hands. It was learned later that all the other crews hastily left the area after receiving "hurry-up" calls to go home. It would have been extremely difficult to establish identification in a court case, since all the Negro boys looked alike, and all sprayed with their own spray paint.

The crews used a mixture of fuel oil, an asphalt base and powdered aluminum in their work. Vanderbeek said it would cost about 40 cents a gallon. The only possible use for the mixture could be on a metal roof to serve as a reflector. It could not be used satisfactorily on wood.

The crews operated mostly among scattered homes in back roads where traffic was at a minimum. After the boys were released Friday, it was learned that they had done many jobs in Allegan area. One man said his barn looked pretty good first, but after last night's rain it looked pretty bad. He paid $125.

The equipment used by the crews was an orchard spray rig.

Car Demolished When It Hits Tree, Rolls Over

A car driven by Gordon Van Herwyn, 19, of 60 East 16th St., was demolished when it struck a tree and turned over Sunday afternoon on a road north from the Castle Park Rd., near Holt's Lake.

Van Herwyn and a passenger, Glenn Nyland of Holland, were released after treatment for injuries at the hospital.

Deputy Henry Bouwman, who investigated, said the '49 model car came to a sharp curve and was going too fast.

'George Zuverink Day' Scheduled Monday by Club

With a rather timely announcement the Holland Flying Dutchmen Boosters Club today issued final plans for a "George Zuverink Day."

Zuverink reached his pitching peak Monday by flogging a three-hitter as the Detroit Tigers nipped the league-leading Cleveland Indians, 1-0.

Ceremonies have definitely been scheduled for next Monday before the Dutchman - Cedar Springs Southwest Michigan league game at Riverview Park, Booster Club President Gabe Kuite said this morning.

Mayor Harry Harrington will introduce Zuverink, who will be home for a couple of days because of the break for the All-Star Game which will be played in Cleveland Tuesday. Time of the ceremonies is 7:40 with the game scheduled to start at 8.

Also on hand for their share of the honors will be Zuverink's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Zuverink of 266 Lincoln Ave., and his wife.

Kuite said that most of Holland's service and social clubs are promoting the fete along with the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion.

Zuverink will be presented with a few nice gifts, according to Kuite, and donations are currently being accepted for these gifts.

Tickets for the ceremony and game are available at the fire stations, sporting goods stores and from members of the Booster Club or any of the organizations promoting the event.

This gem on "So You Want to Be an Executive" found its way to the desk of Fred Burd, local hospital director. He got a laugh out of it. So did we. So will you, if you can manage to get through it.

"As nearly everyone knows, an executive has practically nothing to do except to decide what is to be done; to tell somebody to do it; to listen to reasons why it should not be done, why it should be done by someone else, or why it should be done in a different way, to follow up to see if the thing has been done, to discover that it has not, to inquire why, to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it, to follow up again to see if the thing has been done, only to discover that it has been done incorrectly, to point out how it should have been done, to conclude that as long as it has been done, it may as well be left where it is; to wonder if it is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing right, to reflect that he probably has a wife and a large family and that certainly any successor would be just as bad, and maybe worse, to consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been done if one

CAR TOTAL LOSS—A reckless driving charge was filed Friday against Ted Nichols, 17, of 330 West 13th St. following an accident with a 1939 model car (above). Nichols pleaded guilty to the charge before Municipal Court Judge Cornelius vander Meulen. He was fined $64.70 or 30 days and an additional 20-day jail term was suspended when Nichols surrendered his driver's license. Nichols was driving the car, owned by Dick Ross of 325

Columbia Ave., on a diagonal across property between 14th St. and Harrison Ave., heading Northeast. He hit a concrete abutment, went up in the air, and came down firmly wedged between two abutments. Nichols fled the scene and was arrested Friday. It took several men working with a wrecker and crane two hours to remove the car which police said was a total loss.

Most Hollanders have a better-than-average share of civic pride, and it makes us feel "purty good" when others recognize some of the nice things about Holland.

So today our hats are tipped to Tina Proctor, artist and fashion writer for the Chicago Tribune, for her article last Sunday on "Guess Where We'll Drive on the Holiday Weekend." Yes, Holland, of course!

The article involves what to wear on the 3½-hour drive, and a run-
