Dean of Holland Physicians Dies In Hospital at 89

Dr. Leenhouts' Career
Is Largely the Story
Of City's Development

Dr. Abraham Leenhouts, 89, prominent Holland physician, died at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday in Holland Hospital after a two-year illness. His death occurred on the 38th anniversary of the death of his son, Willard G. Leenhouts, Holland's first World War I casualty, a marine killed at Belleau, France. It is for the latter that the Willard G. Leenhouts post No. 6, American Legion, was named.

Dr. Leenhouts was born July 28, 1866, in Zeeland, son of William and Martje Leenhouts, and the grandson of James Vande Luyster, founder of Zeeland.

He attended Hope College Preparatory school and was graduated from the University of Michigan and its medical school in 1891. He specialized in ear, eye, nose and throat at the University of Chicago and practiced there until he moved his family to Holland in 1900. He then went into general practice until World War I when, because of health, he returned to his specialty following a refresher course at the Polytechnic Institute at Columbia University in New York City.

In those early years, Dr. Leenhouts felt the need for a hospital in Holland and in 1917 he spoke to a group of 60 members of the Chamber of Commerce which resulted in Holland's first hospital which is now Netherlands Museum.

After his son's death in 1918, he was commissioned a captain in the medical corps and was stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. When he returned from this service in 1919, he helped organize the American Legion post and was its first commander.

He ended his active medical practice a few years ago and then served as first resident physician of the Hope College health clinic. During his professional career, he was a member of the American Medical Association, state and county medical associations and the Emeritus Club of the University of Michigan. For the last 40 years, he had been secretary and treasurer of his University class of which three still survive including Dr. Novil of Ann Arbor, dean-emeritus of the University medical school.

Dr. Leenhouts was a humanitarian and his life was filled with interests for others — his country, community and church. His life in Holland the last 56 years is largely the story of Holland's community growth.

His 25 years of service on Holland's Board of Education covered the period of the building of the present high school and junior high school.

Serving the city as health officer between 1905 and 1915, he aroused the community to existing causes of disease and even death due to lack of sanitation and brought about health regulations that decreased infant mortality and deaths from typhoid materially and prevented much spread of communicable disease.

After a hospital was organized here, it was at Dr. Leenhouts' suggestion that the Woman's Literary Club formed a civic health committee and Mrs. Leenhouts was the chairman. This committee established a free medical and dental clinic in the hospital annex and later operated the well-baby clinic.

In 1919 the University of Michigan appointed Dr. Leenhouts lecturer on its extension bureau for Western Michigan giving health education addresses under the Gorgas Plan emphasizing preventive medicine, periodic health examinations, press and radio health publicity, support adequate hospital and nursing organizations, and to work with PTA's on health programs for schools.

For 20 years, Dr. Leenhouts was a consistory member of Hope Church and at one time was president of the Federation of Men's Bible Classes. He also taught Sunday School many years.

He was a charter member and first president of the Social Progress Club which was organized in 1910 and remained active until his illness. In 1911, he was president of the Exchange Club. He and Mrs. Leenhouts also were life members of the Century Club.

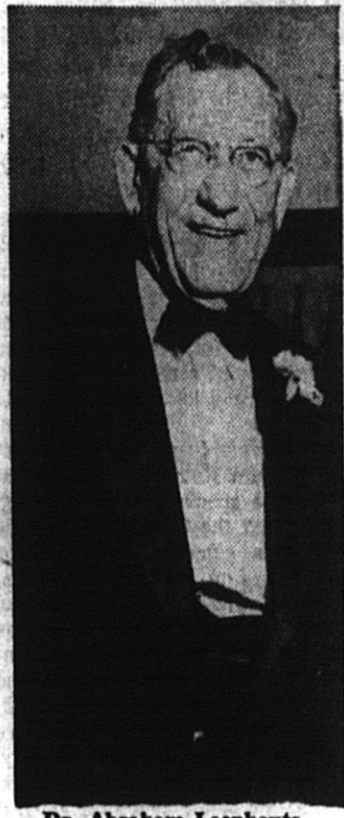

He won national recognition in Boy Scout work and was awarded the Silver Beaver in 1936 after being a registered Scout for 35 years. He was proud of the fact that his grandson was Ottawa county's first Eagle Scout.

Dr. Leenhouts was a prime mover in bringing about a Community Chest for Holland and was its first president in 1930. He headed the Red Cross drive in 1937.

He was one of the promoters when the Netherlands Museum committee was organized in 1937, and in 1952 he was made a knight of the House of Orange — Nassau by the Queen of the Netherlands.

Dr. Leenhouts made a fascinating appraisal and record of his pioneer boyhood beginnings, his education, romance and married life, his career as a physician and community worker in a book published in 1948 entitled "From the Crest of the Hill."

Surviving are a son, A. Donald of Jacksonville, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. May Hadden, Sr., and Mrs. Eve Pelgrum; seven grand-children and 14 great grand-children.

Dr. Abraham Leenhouts

Three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Coburn, Mrs. Elizabeth De Hope and Miss Jane Leenhouts of Holland, and a brother, Robert of Holland. Mrs. Leenhouts, the former Elizabeth de Kruit of Grand Rapids, died two years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday from Hope Church with Dr. Marion de Velder and Dr. James Weyer officiating. Services at Pilgrim Home Cemetery will be in charge of the Willard G. Leenhouts post of the American Legion. Friends may call at the Dykstra Funeral Home tonight from 7 to 9 p.m.

It is the wish of the family that instead of flowers that tokens of respect or sympathy be sent to the remembrance fund of Holland Hospital which meant a great deal to Dr. Leenhouts who was dean of local physicians.

4 Local Boats Entered in Race

Four Macatawa yachts, "Whisper IV," "Rorotonga," "Corvette," and "Revenge," will leave Milwaukee Friday evening for the start of the historic Queen's Cup race from Milwaukee to Muskegon. The Queen's Cup, 103 years old, has been the trophy for the race since 1938.

Winners of the race have usually been Milwaukee boats, but Charles Phelps' "Corvette" was the cruising class winner in 1951. "Corvette" is entered again this year in class C.

"Whisper IV" owned and skippered by Hollis M. Baker is making its third start in the race. Last Friday, "Whisper IV" finished third in class B in the Chicago to Saugatuck race.

This will be the first race of the season for owner — skipper W. D. Nanson of the "Rorotonga." Charles Bissell's "Revenge" has competed in several races this year.

The boats expect to arrive in Muskegon Saturday morning, well permitting, which means that all the navigating will have to be done at night, adding to the difficulty of the race.

All four local boats are kept at the Jesiek Bros. shipyards.

Lakeshore Cabins Feature Skiing

This is Indianapolis week at Lakeshore Cabins. Mr. and Mrs. David J. Fox and Mrs. Raymond C. Fox arrived Wednesday for a week's stay. The Fox family are friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, also of Indianapolis, who have a summer home on Lake Macatawa on South Shore Dr.

Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Hendrickson of Indianapolis who have been staying at the cabins for the past week called their friends, Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Meyer, who have a Higgins inlander they keep on the river. They brought the boat on a trailer and plan to do some water skiing for the next four days.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kish and son, Vincent, Jr., and daughter, Cynthia, of Lincoln Park are enjoying the swimming and boating. Just arrived are Mr. and Mrs. George Haag, Sr., and George Haag, Jr., of Lorain, Ohio. They brought with them their 15-foot Lyman to use during their stay.

Planned for the weekend is the official opening of the Sligh Ski School, with champion instructor, Laurie Ann Kohl and assistant Chuck Bradford.

A couple of avid water skiers, Mr. and Mrs. Muri Miller, who are spending two weeks on Lake Macatawa, did twice a day at Lakeshore. Their son, Muri, Jr., a law student at University of Indiana, joined them on Tuesday.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller have water skied in Florida and Jamaica as well as on Macatawa two years ago. The Millers are both attorneys.

Pfc. Harvey L. Lubbers, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lubbers, route 1, Hamilton, recently completed a refresher course in medical aid practices in Germany, according to the Army Home Town News Center. Lubbers an aidman in Medical Detachment of the 2nd Armored Division's 12th Infantry Battalion, entered the Army in January, 1955. His wife, Harlene, is with him in Germany.

Vote Set Aug. 7 For Package Deal In Ottawa County

Package Would Include
Court House Buildings,
Jail and Detention Home

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — The Aug. 7 primary election will be enlivened considerably in Ottawa county through a special vote of one mill for four years on a package deal which would provide a new court house annex and jail in Grand Haven, county facilities in Holland and a new detention home for the county.

The Board of Supervisors took this action at its meeting Tuesday afternoon. According to current plans, the court house annex would cost $140,000; a jail, $400,000; facilities at Holland, $90,000, and a detention home, $75,000, for a grand total of $705,000.

The building and site fund currently has $61,167, and based on the county equalized valuation, the extra mill over four years would bring in $680,000. The equalized valuation at present is $170,000,000.

Facilities in Holland would be near City Hall, fronting on 12th St. The building would house the welfare department, Bureau of Social Aid and provide space for the health department, facilities for the sheriff's department, plus offices for Avery D. Baker, Mrs. Ruth Van Duren and for the prosecuting attorney. For many years, these county services have been provided through city facilities at no rental to the county.

The court house annex in Grand Haven would be built on the northwest corner of Washington St. and would house the health department, offices of the probate judge and the education department. This would release space in the crowded court house for rearrangement of other offices.

The board also allocated $2,000 for professional services in promoting the campaign and engaged the Lindeman agency in Holland for this week. Chairman Roy Lowing also appointed a four-man committee to head a citizens committee to assimilate and distribute literature. Appointed were George Swart of Grand Haven, chairman, Lawrence A. Wade of Holland, Henry Vermeer of Jamestown and William Kennedy of Allendale.

In other business, the board voted 21 to 4 to hire the J. M. Clemenshaw Co. to reappraise real estate in the entire county at a cost of $121,400. The work will start about Oct. 1 and will be completed not later than Dec. 31, 1957. When the subject was discussed Monday, it was brought out that there was not enough money available to pay immediately, and Tuesday the special appraisal committee submitted a rider to the original contract dated June 5, 1956, that no payments would be made until January, 1957.

Casting dissenting votes in the appraisal question were Henry Slaughter of Talmadge, Chris Fend of Port Sheldon, Albert W. Wright of Port Sheldon and Robert L. Murray of Polkton.

Slaughter informed the board that he had been advised by Dr. Ralph Ten Have that Michigan has coming $3,000,000 in federal aid for hospitals and health service and that Ottawa county could qualify for a portion of the amount, the exact amount to be known later this month.

Generally, the board did not react favorably to applying for federal aid. Mayor Robert Visscher said use of federal aid eliminates all but union contractors on any job and John Stephenson of Zeeland said if Ottawa county got $60,000 it would cost $120,000. Howard Fant of Grand Haven said that inasmuch as no commitments were made, further investigation would be made and the matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

The board adjourned subject to call of the chair.

Pleasure Boats Being Built by Beacon Boat Co.

Building boats is one of the most fascinating businesses to be in as Orville Munkwitz of Beacon Boat Co., can tell anyone who takes the time to take a trip through the boat building establishment.

At the moment, there are four International 210 sloops being constructed at Beacon, with two already sailing. The 210s are 30 feet long, made of plywood and weighing 1,200 pounds. Designed by the prominent naval architect, C. Raymond Hunt, the 210s first made their appearance in the East in 1946. They are roomy and a good family boat as well as tops for racing. Filled with a styrofoam substance, they are "unsinkable."

B. W. Baker of Spring Lake took his 210 home for his son, who will sail it in Spring Lake races. Dr. E. W. "Rendice" Muskegon purchased one for his four children, a girl of 14, a son of 12 and twins, who will race the boat at Muskegon.

Beacon is constructing a Lightning class boat for Herb Marsilje's family, Louise and the twin boys. The boat will be all set for the opening races at Macatawa Bay Yacht Club.

Herman Carus of La Salle is waiting for the deck of his 39-foot yawl, "Trade Winds," to be refinished before he takes the boat to Benton Harbor for the summer. Well-known to Great Lakes sailors are the "Raritonga" owned by W. D. Nanson of St. Louis, Mo., who races his 39-foot Alden cutterwise yawl under the MBYC banner. The "Raritonga" was built at Beacon (then Campbell Boat Co.) three years ago.

The 40-foot utility boats that Beacon built for the Navy are all in commission, with some on the carrier Forrestal. The Navy contract was completed in March, 1956.

Frank W. Alderman of Chicago, Ill., is cruising at Charlevoix on his 32-foot cutter "Grady." Alderman is a mink rancher with a ranch at Muskegon.

A new Century resort is to be commissioned by Carl Tannetwiz of Grand Rapids, who has a summer home on Lake Macatawa. Tannetwiz, who also has a star boat "Eclipse" at Beacon, is in Europe and is expected home in July.

Murdoch T. Burton of Glendale, Ohio, who spends the summer at Castle Park, ordered a Lightning for his son and grandchildren.

Arthur Read, Holland School architect, plans to present a 23-foot Chris Craft the "Lady Ann" to his wife on their July 2 anniversary. Munkwitz welcomes visitors to the boat works that the late Kenneth Campbell established here. Campbell was a marine architect and his boat designs are used all over the world.

Beach Popular Despite Weather

Apparently the weather neither dampened nor cooled folks' desire to go to the beach for the Fourth of July holiday, as the Holland State Park reported that 19,026 people kept the beach crowded most of the day.

Lake Michigan was too cold for all but the bravest, but picnicking was popular.

Park officers announced that trailer and camp space will be open today after having been completely filled during the holiday. There were 403 camps in operation yesterday, but many are moving out today, officers said.

The water was still cold today — 54 degrees — and officers said it will take a south wind to warm it up again.

Hearing Set

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — A hearing has been scheduled at 1:30 p.m. July 9 in Ottawa County Circuit Court on an order of abatement covering property known as Zwemer Hall of Western Theological Seminary of Holland. The case involves an additional fire escape for the dormitory.

Child Injured

Franklin Bowman, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bastian Bowman of 37 East 14th St., was treated in Holland Hospital Wednesday for friction burns of the face and chest after he was hit by a neighbor's car which was backing out of a drive. Driver was Roger Beckman, of 41 East 14th St. The child was released after treatment.

Average Temperature
Was 70.2 Degrees or
5.8 Above Normal

After a cold spring, the weather man really broke through for the month of June and gave Holland an average temperature of 70.2 degrees or 5.8 degrees above normal.

A warm June was in keeping with temperatures for the month in other years. It was over six degrees warmer than normal in 1952, 1953 and 1954 and 2.7 degrees warmer in 1955, according to weather statistics compiled by Charles A. Steketee of Hope College.

But while June was warm, it was also one of the driest months on record for any month. Precipitation amounted to .44 inch or 2.42 inches below normal. Precipitation had fallen on only five days.

All in all, it was a month of extremes. The maximum was 95, the minimum 36 and there was thunder on six occasions, all in the last half of the month.

Maximum was 95, compared with 90 in 1953, 93 in 1954, 101 in 1953 and 94 in 1952. Minimum was 36, compared with 48 in 1953, 39 in 1954, 45 in 1953 and 46 in 1952.

Average maximum was 81.4, compared with 78.7 in 1955, 81.9 in 1954, 83 in 1953 and 81.5 in 1952. Average minimum was 59, compared with 55.4 in 1955, 59.1 in 1954, 58.7 in 1953 and 60.1 in 1952.

Departure from normal was plus 5.8, compared with plus 2.7 in 1955, plus 6.1 in 1954, plus 6.5 in 1953 and plus 6.4 in 1952.

Precipitation was .44 inch, compared with 2.10 inches in 1955, 6.73 inches in 1954, 4.81 inches in 1953 and 2.61 inches in 1952. Departure from normal was -.242 inches, compared with -.86 inch in 1955, plus 3.87 inches in 1954, plus 1.95 inches in 1953 and -.25 inch in 1952. Precipitation fell on five days, compared with seven days in 1955, 13 days in 1954, nine days in 1953 and 13 days in 1952.

Largest amount of rain in a 24-hour period was .24 inch, compared with .55 inch in 1955, 3.55 inches in 1954, 2.78 inches in 1953 and .89 inch in 1952.

Citizens Protest Shopping Center

GRAND HAVEN — City Council has scheduled a public hearing for Aug. 1 on the matter of a proposed shopping center on US-31, following a spirited meeting Monday in which 20 irate citizens from the east end of the city voiced their protests to the development.

Arthur Reenders, contractor who built many homes in the section, was spokesman for the delegation which was outspoken in its criticism of a shopping center in that location which is bounded by US-31, De Spelder St., Marion St. and Park St.

John Casemier, who recently built a new home on Waverly St., received loud applause when he chaired Council. Casemier, who operates three supermarkets in Grand Haven, Ferrysburg and Spring Lake, was refused a zone change in order to expand his operations in commercial-residential area in the 1100 block on Washington St. Among other things, Casemier said there is no representation for people on the east side of the tracks. "What have you done to help the east end of Grand Haven... Let the people of the east end decide what they want there."

Verne Cutler, planning commission chairman, explained that the commission has given long consideration to a shopping center site. He explained that Park St. will become a major street for east-west traffic in the city's major street plan, and for that reason, the location seemed to be a logical one for serving a large portion of the area.

At the time of the hearing Aug. 1, a representative of Plumb's Supermarkets, Inc., will explain plans for the shopping center.

Demands Examination

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Louise K. Carroll, 45, Muskegon, demanded examination in Municipal Court this morning on a charge of larceny by conversion involving $680 allegedly taken from employees at the Henry Casemier Super Market in Grand Haven July 3. Bond of $500 was furnished but no date was set for hearing. Carroll, sales manager for a freezer plant, was apprehended Wednesday by Police Chief Richard E. Klempel while he was having his car serviced in Muskegon.

New Recreation Head

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Hector (Chris) Christiansen, 29, of New York City, is the new Grand Haven city recreation director. He takes over the reins today from Ray Schaubel who has combined the job with that of dean of boys and assistant principal at Grand Haven High School for the past 10 years. Christiansen has spent many summers in Michigan camps and received his college degree and masters in physical education from the University of Michigan.

Many Local Folks Enjoy Their Boats On Lake Macatawa

Several Take Part
In Summer Races
At the Yacht Club

Many local people keep their boats ranging from small sailboats to cruisers and speedboats at Jesieks during the winter and as soon as the ice is off Lake Macatawa they get them ready to put into the water. Most Holland people that own boats have cottages or year-around homes equipped with docks or moorings.

David Boyd has a 22-foot speedboat that for many summers followed the small boat races at Macatawa Bay Yacht Club. Chuck Bradford, actually from Chicago, but a summer resident of Macatawa, is using his 17-foot Chris-Craft to practice for the National Water Ski championships to be held this year in La Porte, Ind. Chuck is a ski instructor at Lakeshore this summer.

Dr. Nelson Clark of Waukegan has a new 30-foot cutter that was recently delivered to him from Ohio.

Dick Den Uyl and his wife, Kay, spend as much time as possible in their 17-foot speedboat. Their infant daughter, Marjorie Kay, will not doubt grow up to be a water enthusiast.

Professor Clarence De Graaf and his family relax by cruising on the lake in their speedboat. De Graaf is at Hope College.

Family fun is the main reason the Bernard Donnellys have their 28-foot "Stout Fella" cutter. The entire family enjoys sailing on both Lake Macatawa and Lake Michigan and the children have become excellent sailors.

Andrew DuMeez keeps his 20-foot Continental at a dock at his South Shore Dr. home. Har Eggers has a 20-foot cruiser, George Heeringa has an 18-foot speedboat for cruising. Verne Houting boasts a 20-foot Lyman runabout.

Herman Windolph takes many guests aboard his 42-foot Mathews cruiser. Bill Jacobs of Holland has a 20-foot Chris-Craft cruiser and Andy Millard and Peter Mieras own 16-foot express cruiser and 20-foot speedboat respectively.

Sidney Johnson and his wife, Kay, who have recently moved into their new home on South Shore Dr., have a 22-foot seaskiff they keep at Jesieks. William La Barge has a 20-foot sailboat. John Muller keeps his 22-foot sportsman at his cottage on Macatawa as does Verne Norquist, who has a 25-foot express cruiser.

A South Bend, Ind., man Roy Worden, keeps his Lyman Islander and International 110 moored at his cottage at Macatawa Park. The Worden family has been sailing for a long time. E.A. Smid of St. Louis, Mo., and longtime Macatawa reporter has an 18-foot Century runabout for family pleasure and accommodation of guests. Another cottager at Macatawa, C. Richard Walker of Grand Rapids, keeps the family Nipper and outboard at the cottage.

Road Commission To Widen Street At Zeeland Limits

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—The Ottawa County Road Commission Thursday received a request from Zeeland City Council to widen West Main Ave. from the city limits to M-21. This involves some 200 feet and the commission instructed Engineer Henrik Stafseth to proceed with construction as soon as the county program permits.

The commission rejected two bids entered by West Shore Construction Co. for improving Lake-wood Blvd. from Beeline Rd. to old US-31, and improving Byron Center Rd. in the vicinity of Black creek east of Zeeland. Both bids were about 35 percent over engineer's estimates.

The commission also opened re-advertised bids on improving old US-31 in Ferrysburg and Fruitport Rd. north of Bowen bridge after bids had been rejected at the last meeting because they were 20 percent over estimates. The new bids, entered by three firms on both projects, were said to be more in line with original estimates and currently are being studied by engineers. Both concrete and blacktop were advertised in the new bids.

The commission adopted resolutions in connection with the Muskegon-Grand Haven expressway in which the commission agrees to allow the State Highway Department to close certain roads. Second St. in Ferrysburg will be closed as will Burchell Rd. north of the Ferrysburg school, but a new service road will be built at the latter place for persons living east of the expressway. Hickory and Wilson Sts. also will be closed. Third St. and Wagner Rd. will have access onto the expressway. There will be a grade separation without access at Taft Rd.

A request from the Board of Public Works of Holland was received declaring that the board may sell the old interurban right-of-way terminating in Park township. Since Park township is interested in developing this right-of-way as a new road, the county commission will set up a meeting for Park township and the city of Holland to determine the best possible uses of the property. In any event, the Board of Public Works will retain rights for using the property for its own lines.

Allen Westbroek of Zeeland was low bidder to haul 5,000 yards of gravel for Crosswell Ave. in Port Sheldon township. His bid of $9,000 resulted in a contract.

Ottawa Supervisors Study Detention Home Data

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — The question of whether Ottawa county shall operate its own detention home was discussed thoroughly by the Board of Supervisors Monday afternoon and then referred to the buildings and grounds committee and the ways and means committee to report back.

Appearing on behalf of a county detention home were Allen Robinson, Coopersville school superintendent, and Mrs. Dennis Allen of Spring Lake, president and secretary of a special committee studying the need for such facilities, and by Avery D. Baker, probate court agent.

Brief outlines listing needs, costs and other classifications were distributed. Mrs. Allen pointed to the necessity for some action in view of Grand Rapids' decision to move its detention program to smaller quarters, thereby limiting its services to Kent county. The Grand Rapids rates of $4 per day have been doubled.

Generally, a detention home is used for a hold-over place for children who come out of bad home situations, for runaways, for those whose offenses are such that they need supervision, and for those juveniles in need of observation.

Operation of its own detention home would save Ottawa county some $4,000 in time and mileage a year, it was estimated. Besides that, the state pays half of the cost of operation and such a home receives wide consideration in food benefits. It was also pointed out that Allegan county would be interested in using the facilities of such a home, thereby providing another source of revenue.

Baker gave several cases in point, saying that the county has an average of four or five children in detention homes a day, although figures range from one or two to sometimes over 12. The recommendation for such a detention home for the county lists facilities for 12 children, preferably a ranch-style building which looks like a home with girls in one wing and boys in another. Estimated cost was listed at $60,000, plus another $15,000 for furnishings. Ottawa county has been paying an estimated $10,000 a year to Kent county for the services.

Supervisors also engaged in a lengthy discussion on allowing an election for Ferrysburg village which would vote on becoming a fifth-class city. Although the county board's action in the matter was only a technicality on okaying the resolution calling for such an election, Spring Lake Supervisor Gerrit Bottema introduced several persons opposed to the move.

William Hyland and Bill Draper, summer residents on the no-h shore, represented that group of resorters in protesting the incorporation, emphasizing that few if any were registered voters in Spring Lake township and would have no voice in the decision.

The proponents were represented by William Balgooyen, Muskegon attorney, whose resolution called for a special election Aug.

23 from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., the cost to be borne by the county but reimbursement to be made in case the vote carried. The resolution also called for electing a nine-member charter study commission, each candidate to present a petition with signatures by 20 qualified voters.

But after the wrangle which seemed to take well over a half hour, the supervisors split their vote right down the middle—14 to 14. Because the vote did not carry as such, Board Chairman Roy Lowing declared the issue lost. Of the 30 members on the board, only two were absent.

John Stap of Grand Haven questioned the board's action. In view of the fact that it was only a ministerial action, would the board be criticized for allowing itself to become involved in a strictly local affair. Howard Fant said the board most certainly could be open to criticism. He said the group petitioning for the election could either reconsider and perhaps redraw its boundaries or could insist on its legal rights and through higher-ups insist that the board okay the election.

Another question which evoked considerable discussion was the recommendation of a special committee headed by George Swart of Grand Haven to authorize the J. M. Clemishaw Co. to conduct a county-wide appraisal to be completed Dec. 31, 1937, at a cost of $121,400. The Clemishaw bid was the lowest of three bids.

Up sprang fiery Henry Slaughter of Tallmadge township who through the years has kept a tight grip on the purse strings of the county. "Where are we going to get the money?" he called out. He rambled on about county finances for a time and suggested the matter be delayed for a year. It was virtually the same thing he had said last year when reappraisal came up.

Martin Boon of Grand Haven questioned Slaughter about the extra $100,000 which had been put into the budget for "extras" and Slaughter said increased wages and a host of other things had hit that fund. There was some bickering about who was resorting to double-talk.

Henry Ver Meer, who with Swart and William Koop of Holland comprised the special committee, suggested that the Clemishaw people conduct a school each year for supervisors to work on personal property valuations. Such a school would be a good refresher course for the long-timers and excellent training for new supervisors, he said. Koop agreed. He said real estate appraisals are much more permanent than personal property, and a Clemishaw appraisal on real estate would serve for several years whereas personal property must be appraised each year.

By that time it was after 4 p.m. and supervisors tabled the issue which would become the first business at today's session at 1:30 p.m.

Elzinga-Volkers scored its lone run in the seventh. Van Haisma was safe on a fielder's choice and scored on a double by Gary Gibbons.

Chief Andrew Klomprens

Klomprens Is Full-Time Fire Chief of Holland

City Council has authorized the appointment of a full-time fire chief in the budget of 1956-57. Andrew Klomprens is now a full-time fire chief as of July 1.

Klomprens, of 135 East 14th St., feels that the duty of the fire department is not only to fight flames but to prevent the possibility of fire. He believes in the slogan which always proved sound, "prevention is better than cure."

The chief expressed his satisfaction as he said, "We are a fifth class insurance city though our department is still full-time and part-time." Every fireman has an alarm system in his house which calls him in case of emergency.

Andy, as he likes his friends to call him, says "for years Holland had no big fires. All fires which broke out were on a very limited scale. The inspection system which the department had devised helps people to bring, an end to fires that may start out of carelessness."

"Though we have only 13 full-time men and 22 part-time, we assign two of them for inspection every day," he said. "Basements, electrical systems are checked and advice is given, when necessary, to prevent fires from starting."

Klomprens says, "I would like to have an ordinance requiring that every building or store in town have a square hole eight by eight inches with a pulling leading to the basement which would enable us in case of emergency to reach the blaze in the basement with our lines. Smoke and furious fire may prevent firemen from entering the basement despite their masks, but such holes could help a great deal."

The man who spent 15 years in his position as a part-time fire chief since the fall of 1941 recalls some bad fires which Holland had suffered and which caused serious damages and losses. Among these are: Holland Rusk Co., De Pre Chemical Co., North American Boat, Precision Parts and Dodge Garage.

"Always call 2345 as soon as possible or use the boxes around the corners in case of fire emergency. The life and property you save may be your own," Klomprens said.

HEAPS OF LIVING

Writing from Bonn, Germany, Guy Vander Jagt, formerly of Holland told Sentinel readers about a German truck driver who paraphrased America's Edgar Guest. According to Vander Jagt the truck man said, "It takes a heap of livin' in a land to make it free."

As background for the statement the former Holland man quoted the truck driver further: "We Germans need a strong leader to tell us what to do." And he added that there is "in many German people a disturbing readiness to submit passively to all authority." In general Germans would have to do a lot of living before even West Germany could turn into a real democracy.

Such an analysis by an objective American observer on the spot deserves the attention of all Americans. Because of the fact that Germans had not done a "heap of livin'" in democratic practice, hundreds of thousands of young Americans had to give up their lives in the present century. So Americans have a real stake in the reality of democracy even in Germany. It can happen again.

But we can't do the "living" for the Germans, and we can't impose it upon them. But we can do the "living" for ourselves, and what the German truck driver has a bearing on us. For us the paraphrase should be: "It takes a heap of livin' to KEEP a country free." We are free—relatively at least—and our forefathers did a heap of livin' to make their country free. It is doubtful that we of today are doing enough "living" to keep our country free, to preserve the freedom that was handed down to us.

Mississippi's William Faulkner, Nobel prize winner, recently pointed out to his fellow southerners who shout loudly for state's rights: "State's rights which the Mississippi voices are talking about do not exist anymore. We—Mississippi—sold our state's rights back to the federal government when we accepted the first cotton price-support subsidy twenty years ago."

And the South is not alone in this business of selling freedom for various forms of security. We are doing it all over the land. Unwilling to do a "heap of livin'" to pay our own way to keep our freedom we have been handing it to the Great White Father in Washington in return for handouts from a system of bureaus so complicated that no one can even understand where they are leading us.

The grim fact is that we are far less free than we were even a generation ago. But to avoid doing it themselves millions of Americans want to hand over to Washington our educational system, our medical practice, and all sorts of other things.

The West Germans are at least doing some "living" to make their country free. How much "living" are we Americans doing to keep our country free? We think this along with safe driving and our American 4th of July are good to remember. Not only tomorrow as we observe the 4th.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association again in 1956 supports this growing tradition, see back page.

Christian Endeavor

Sunday, July 8
by Raymond E. Weiss
Samuel, God's Messenger,
and Later Samuel,
I Sam. 3:15-21, 12:1-25.

To the leader: This is the second in a series of biographical topics in which the life of a Bible personage is contrasted with other men of God. There are two ways to develop the latter part of the topic. You may either find men and women who stood in the spirit of Samuel as messengers of God, irregardless of name or you may specifically seek great Christians who had the name Samuel. As suggested last week you may ask others to give short talks on the lives of the "later Samuels" that you choose while you present the main talk on "Samuel, God's Messenger." For background study read the entire book of I Samuel.

Suggestions for the Leader's Talk: Most of the messages of Samuel were rebukes for sin. We should notice how he fearlessly put his finger on specific sins of the people and of the king. While we do this we should not forget that he promised God's mercy and care if they would heed.

1. He called the people from idolatry (7:1-6)—God was not tolerant of false gods. Men could not add other gods to their worship and expect God's blessing. Many of these false gods were worshipped with very sinful practices. Samuel told the people to put these gods away. It is not very popular today to preach that there is only one way to be right with God, but that is the message God's servants must bring today as in Samuel's day (Jn. 14:6).

2. Samuel protests Israel's desire for a king (8:5-22, 10:17-19, 12:1-25). Israel had been ruled by God through judges, prophets, and leaders that God appointed. The other nations had kings. God wanted Israel to be ruled by the way He appointed for them, remembering He was their ruler, but they wanted to be like the other nations and have a king. Samuel protested. Here, too, Samuel was courageous. Samuel did not preach to please the crowd, but only to please God.

3. Samuel rebukes the king for his sins (13:8-14, 15:13-23)—Here again Samuel shows himself to be truly God's messenger. He does not speak to please even the king, but calls him a sinner and announces God's judgment on his sin.

Do you think of others like Samuel? Here are four, as suggestions. You may think of others equally as good.

1. John Wesley who preached God's truth day and night and dared to apply it to the evils of his day, as slavery, buying smuggled goods, bargaining for sales instead of setting fair prices.

2. Martin Niemöller who spoke against the Nazi regime of Hitler.

3. Billy Graham who speaks boldly against sin in people's lives today.

4. Martin Luther King, Negro minister of Montgomery, Ala., who has led a very peaceful, but persistent fight for a God-given principle—equal rights regardless of race.

Questions for discussion: What characterizes a messenger of God? How do the people studied show that they are God's messengers? If a man claims to be a messenger of God how can one tell if he is or if he is not? Is it hard to tell of God's way of righteousness? Are all of us expected to be messengers of God? Right now?

Jesus is the Son of God
Hebrews 1:1-3; 2:14; 6:1-3
By C. P. Dame

(Based on copyright outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. and used by permission.) We do not know who wrote the Epistle to the Hebrews. The epistle was written to Hebrew Christians who were in danger of drifting back to Judaism. The purpose of the epistle is to show the superiority of Christianity over Judaism. It has all that Judaism has, and much more. The lesson fixes our minds upon the truth that Jesus is the Son of God and God's final revelation to mankind.

1. God has spoken through his Son. The Bible does not argue for the existence of God nor for his revelation—it simply says that God has spoken and revealed himself finally to man, through Jesus. In past times God spoke to the prophets who conveyed his message. The superior revelation was made through Jesus Christ God's Son. This revelation is superior because Christ the Son is greater than the prophets. Christ is the only begotten Son whom God appointed heir of all things. He is also the Creator for "through him he made the worlds."

Christ is also the Revealer of God—"Who being the effulgence of his glory and the very image of his substance." Jesus Christ is also the Sustainer for we read, "Upholding all things by the word of his power." We know Jesus best as Redeemer. The words, "When he had made purification of sins" speak of his redemptive mission. Jesus is also our Ruler. After completing his redemptive mission Jesus "sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high."

II. To neglect this great revelation is perilous. The Bible contains many warnings. The lesson warns us against drifting. There are many drifters in the world today and some are in the church. Carelessness, indifference, worldliness cause drifting. It is tragic to drift away from faith in Christ. Disobedience in the Old Testament times was punished. To disobey in view of the greater revelation is most serious. To neglect so great a salvation is bound to result in disaster. The salvation is great because it was received directly from Christ and attested by signs and wonders, and with miracles, and the gifts of the Holy Spirit. We do not have to oppose the gospel or ridicule it; all we need to do is neglect it and then we will be lost. We know what neglect will do in daily life and we are familiar with its tragic consequences. How tragic will be the consequences of neglecting the soul!

III. The Lord wants Christians to be mature. Many are not for they are still babes in Christ and what is more serious they are content to remain babes. Many church members are only familiar with the simplest, elementary truths of the gospel. There are a large number of church members who are no better, no more experienced, no more intelligent members now than they were ten years ago. It seems as if they have no goal. The writer of Hebrews urges all believers to "go on unto perfection." The word "perfection" is used eleven times in the New Testament. It never means sinlessness but rather maturity. It is said that today there are many immature people. It is also true that there are many immature Christians. How commendable it would be if all Christians would strive for spiritual growth and grow up!

1. We believe in God and we believe that God spoke—He is not a silent God.

2. Some people believe Jesus was a good man. The Bible teaches Jesus is the Son of God.

3. We do not know God fully until we know Jesus Christ.

4. It is tragic when people neglect so great a salvation.

5. There is no excuse for spiritual immaturity. There are many opportunities offered us for growing spiritually.

Library Adventures

We are not a book reading people. That observation, made more than once in this column, is validated by a carefully documented article in the Saturday Review from the pen of no less a writer than Gordon Dupee, president of the Great Books Foundation.

Only 13 out of every 100 citizens of our 166,000,000 population borrow books from the public library. Moreover, there are far fewer public libraries in America in proportion to population than in most foreign countries. Dupee estimates that if the United States had the same proportion of libraries per capita as Sweden there would be in this country 7,500 public libraries but 77,000.

But perhaps Americans buy more books than the citizens of less prosperous nations and hence do not have to patronize public libraries to the same degree that the nationals of other lands do. Again the guess is wrong. Dupee resorts to the unusual method of comparing book-shelf room in American homes with such equipment in European houses.

It is of course obvious that the typical residence unit in an average European country dates much farther back than the vast majority of American homes. European home libraries may not contain the latest publications, but books are at least to be found in the homes of most of the reasonably prosperous citizens.

No so in America. Again according to Dupee, 20 years ago 15 percent of new American homes had built-in shelves. Of the houses erected in the past 10 years only 12 percent have them. "Forty-two percent of the houses in America today are without bookcases," he bookshelves of any kind," to quote

by Peter Boggs
The Fourth of July

Most localities now have restrictions on fireworks, but nevertheless there will be a lot of noise-makers around this Fourth of July—and a lot of unhappy dogs.

This national holiday is one day that is both mystifying and frightening to our canine friends. Just imagine the bewilderment of a puppy awakening on his first Fourth of July morning. From all sides come loud explosive noises that he has never heard before. No wonder many dogs disappear on this holiday morning, to be found a day or so later hiding under the front porch or

Let's Plant Beauty -- Coldframes Have Many Uses During Summer Months

It is the general impression, but a wrong one, that coldframe gardening ends with June and the setting out of all early plants. A coldframe has so many uses throughout the summer that you can keep it working overtime so to speak. Seeds for rock garden plants can be sown in here just as soon as your early cuttings are removed, and if you have a rock garden that has finished blooming, you can propagate cuttings from the young shoots that sprouted since the flowering.

Cuttings can also be made at this time from boxwood, winged euonymus, beautybush, Mockorange, rhododendron, snow azalea, hybrid tea roses, bridalwreath, Japanese snowball, and weigela. To test whether or not azaleas are ready for rooting, the young shoots should break with a sharp snap or being bent at right angles -- about three weeks after flowering. Many roses root best just after the petals have fallen. Coldframes are among the most useful propagating structures for this work. It is good to have supplementary coverings such as slatted lath shades, cheesecloth, or coarse burlap to protect recently planted cuttings.

English ivy and red salvia can be propagated in a coldframe from root cuttings -- the salvia will also make a good house plant if potted. Seed of zinnias and calendulas planted now in the coldframe will assure you of flowers from late August until frost. One of the great mistakes for summer coldframing is to reduce the intensity of sunlight which enters -- or one will have to call this project hotframing! Tact muslin, cheese cloth or lath strips one inch apart to a frame without glass or give the coldframe glass or glass substitute a coat of lime wash and raise it above box with wood blocks for freer circulation of air.

Perhaps a word on how to make cuttings is expected. Cuttings can be either made from the stem or the root. In stem cuttings one uses a razor blade and makes a cut just beneath the point where a leaf emerges, leaving several eyes or points of growth below the cut so that the older plant can sprout again. This treatment rather than harming established perennials is good for them as it makes them thick and branching. Now remove the lower leaves and any incipient flowers at the top; insert the bare stems an inch or so in a coldframe of moist sand. Be sure coldframe is shaded. Plants that take kindly to this treatment are rockrose, hardy candytuft, phlox, or pinks.

The root cutting method is a good way to extend your stock of bleedinghearts, phlox, sea lavender, baby's breath, anemone, and oriental poppy. This is however should be done in late August or September. Lift the plant you wish to propagate and select roots the size of a lead pencil. Cut these into three-inch pieces and lay horizontally in rows in the coldframe, spacing them about three inches apart. Firm over with one to two inches of sand and peat moss mixed. Leave frame open until after freezing weather; after frost, close frame and keep closed until warm weather occurs in parts of February. As spring advances, ventilate progressively.

In late summer you can also start pansies, daisies, forget-me-nots; but right now you can coldframe Canterbury bells, foxglove, hollyhocks, sweet William, columbine, Delphinium, pyrethrum and the rock - garden arabis, aubrieta, alyssum, snow-in-summer, various dianthus, thyme, tunicia, and silene.

Ottawa County Farm News

by Richard Machiele, County Agricultural Agent

We have a request from Willard Wichers, director of the Netherlands Information Services at Holland, asking for a placement of two foreign visitors for a two-week period with some of our Ottawa County farm families. We are interested in finding families who would play host to these people. They are particularly interested in observing the farming operations especially those that deal with soil conservation. They will be here for a two-week period beginning Aug. 3 through 15.

We would like to hear from any of our farm families who are interested in having these people from the Netherlands. Please let us know immediately so that detailed arrangements can be made.

Since last week's news article we have had many requests regarding the control of army worms. We find them in practically all fields in all parts of the county. The corn fields infested with the worms are being damaged severely. Let's repeat the treatment. First choice would be Heptachlor at the rate of 1/2 pound actual to the acre. In other words 2 pounds 50 percent wettable powder or one gallon of the emulsion will control them. This material must be sprayed directly on the crop. However, 10 days must be allowed between treatment and harvest.

Methoxychlor can also be used at the rate of 3 pounds to the acre. It should be used in the emulsion form.

We would like to impress that the ordinary weed sprayers do not give adequate control on heavy foliage crops because there is not enough pressure to drive the spray where it is needed. However, with the corn being the height it is at the present time, a weed sprayer should do a good job.

Now is the time to spray for the terminal shoot moth. All the larvae have not emerged but it is advisable to start spraying and repeat the application in about 10 days. Spray with 50 percent wettable DDT using 3 pounds to 100 gallons of water. For small amounts, use 3 level tablespoons to a gallon of water. Best advice is to watch your emergence as spray is most effective when the adults are flying.

Farmers who want to make sure there is no insect damage after they store their newly harvested wheat can apply a protectant to the grain before or at the time it goes into the bin.

A wheat protectant can be purchased at a chemical supply house or can be obtained through some elevators.

The chemical can be mixed with the grain at the most convenient time during harvest, but the amount applied has to be measured carefully following the directions on the label because too much can make the grain unsalable for human food.

The wheat protectant will help to a sure insect control job if the wheat is stored in tight, clean bins, and if the grain has less than 14 per cent moisture. Fumigation to keep the grain insect free then may not be necessary.

Since the sanitation requirements on market wheat became more rigid on July 1, safe storage of wheat is more important than ever.

Other tips on how to prevent damage to stored wheat are contained in a new free folder at the county extension office. It's called Extension Folder F-134.

Peach leaf curl, a disease reported by many home gardeners this spring, can be controlled by spraying either in the fall or spring.

The disease is important in Michigan about three out of every five years. Cold and slow growing conditions plus some wet periods encourage leaf curl infection. And severe infection cannot be predicted.

A spray of ferbam may be applied for control. One and one-half to two tablespoons of ferbam per gallon of water is the proper concentration. Apply enough spray to get a thorough coverage of the tree.

Timing is also important in the control measures. In the fall, put on the spray after leaf drop. In the spring, be sure to get it on before the buds swell. To be certain of control, apply the spray before infection begins.

This is a description of leaf curl symptoms: Infected leaves become thick, swollen and brittle. They become puckered and curled and their color varies from light green to red. Early in the summer, the swollen, infected leaves soon turn yellow, wither and fall to the ground.

Right now is a good time to get soil samples tested. And it could mean lots of money saved on fertilizer.

Many farmers may be able to cut down on the amount of potash or phosphorus they customarily apply because there is enough left over in the soil.

A soil test now is especially valuable for a field that is in sod and will go into row crops next year. These tests will show how much lime and fertilizer will be needed. And there will be plenty of time to order the lime and fertilizer and to apply it.

July, August and September are the best times for getting soil samples to the test lab and the county soil test laboratory can give quicker service than when it's swamped with samples to test.

The Ottawa County A.S.C. committee is very willing to help if you have soil to be tested. They offer a fine service in collecting samples directly from your farm. In order to be eligible for the county conservation payments, samples must be taken through the local A.S.C. office.

Whether you have a new or old field sprayer, you have to calibrate the machine in order to be sure you're applying the recommended amounts of chemical.

You want to be sure about a new sprayer, and the nozzles on older sprayers wear. So it's a good idea to calibrate a sprayer every year.

Here's a simple way to do the job:

Measure the length of the sprayer boom in feet. Divide 4,356 by the length of the boom, which gives you the number of feet you will travel to cover one-tenth acre.

Take this example:

If the boom length is 30 feet, dividing 4,356 by 30 would give 145. So, you measure off 145 feet -- the one-tenth acre. Fill the supply tank full of water and spray the distance you have measured at a speed and pressure that you're sure you can maintain in the field. Refill the tank, measuring the amount needed. It's best to use a quart jar in order to be most accurate. Say you need two gallons. Multiply the two gallons by 10. So, 20 is the number of gallons your spray is applying per acre. Now, for every 20 gallons your supply tank holds, add the quantity of chemical recommended for one acre.

The Revenge, owned by Chuck Bissell of Macatawa Bay Yacht Club, was nosed out for first in the Class A competition by Freebooter. Watch Your Heart In Warm Weather

The Michigan Heart Association issued its annual warm-weather warning today to persons unaccustomed to violent or sudden exercise which might strain the heart.

Dr. E. A. Irvin, president of the association, said too many persons make the mistake of embarking on rip-roaring vacations after sitting behind desks most of the year.

He advises:
1. Avoid unusual exercise and undue physical exertion. This is especially important after eating because the heart is already hard at work supplying blood for the digestive processes.

2. See your doctor. Protect your heart by having your doctor examine you regularly. Never diagnose your own ills, real or imagined. If you have any unusual or peculiar discomfort or pain in the chest, or find yourself becoming easily winded—a doctor should be consulted immediately.

3. Get enough rest. Give your heart a chance to relax. Get at least eight hours sleep every night, more if possible.

4. Keep your weight down to normal—don't let those extra pounds make your heart work harder.

There's a nice story about Holland, Mich., and Tulip Time in the May issue of popular Gardening. Opposite it is a story about tulips by Felix R. Tyroler of New York, head of the National Tulip society who has been in Holland on many occasions in connection with flower shows and Tulip Time.

Speaking of magazine articles, School Supt. Walter W. Scott has written a real humdinger for the May issue of the Michigan School Board Journal. It's entitled "How and Why Holland Built Better" and tells the story of Holland's new Thomas Jefferson elementary school.

The article gives considerable credit to the work of the Planning Commission and emphasizes the value of a school building consultant, pointing out that the latter made several changes which reduced the cost of the building by $35,000 without detracting from its fessional entertainers from Chicago.

Bids were sufficiently low that the board was able to accept two additional alternatives of two extra classrooms as well as some lesser items. Other economies on independent contracts, architectural fees and commissions resulted in savings of $15,000 for a total saving of $50,000 on the building.

Biggest laugh of the Chamber of Commerce get-together at Legion Memorial Park Wednesday occurred when Don Ledeman went up for his prize. The prize was a flo-ball pin which he had donated himself.

Carrying a basket of pink rose petals, Cathy Risselada, the flower girl, wore a pink flowered nylon ogdandy gown with lace trim over a pink ruffled taffeta petticoat. She wore matching headband and gloves.

The groom selected his brother, Norman Kalkman, as best man and Glen Bonzelaar as groomsmen. Glen Arendsen and Keith Horn acted as ushers.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the church parlors. Mrs. J. Bouman and Mrs. J. Van Harn were in charge of the gift room and Phyllis Vliem and Shirley Prins served punch. The groom's sister, Janice Kalkman, was in charge of the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Sid Risselada presided as master and mistress of ceremonies. The program featured a solo by Mrs. H. Schaap, a marimba solo by Jay Bonzelaar and a reading by Kay Keane.

The bride's mother chose a light blue dress for the occasion with white accessories and a pink rose corsage. The groom's mother was also attired in blue with white accessories and a pink rose corsage.

After their honeymoon, the newlyweds will be at home at 21 West 32nd St.

The bride, a graduate of Holland High School, is employed at Otte's Beauty Shop and the groom is employed by Elzinga and Volkens.

The bridal party was entertained by the groom's parents at a rehearsal dinner in Cumerford's dining room Wednesday evening. Pre-nuptial parties for the bride were given by Mrs. Glen Bonzelaar and Miss Carol Venhuizen, Mrs. Peter Kalkman and Mrs. A. Van Harn.

"unstuck" the door and girls prevailed on them to carry out the table too.

It turned out they were the professional, the entertainers billed as "The Musical Wades and Jackie Burtell" had to perform and run. They had a 9 p.m. engagement in Lansing the same evening. They didn't quite make it on time.

Tornado Warnings Posted in Holland For Sixth Time

Lake Michigan Beaches Cleared After Giant Wave Hits Ludington

For the sixth time since April 3 when the disastrous twister struck Hudsonville, the Holland area was in a potential tornado area Sunday.

The alert was first sounded early in the afternoon and within minutes city and county authorities were notified and placed on an emergency status.

Ottawa County deputies immediately manned the former Coast Guard tower at the entrance to Lake Macatawa as an observation post.

At the same time Allegan County deputies along with Holland police and auxiliary officers manned a lookout post midway between Holland and Saugatuck overlooking Lake Michigan.

A second warning was sounded late in the afternoon when a seiche or giant wave struck the Lake Michigan shore line from Ludington as far north as Grand Traverse Bay.

Coast guardsmen said the seiche sent water rushing 100 feet past the normal shoreline along Ludington. Beaches had been cleared of swimmers barely 30 minutes before.

The beaches at Holland and Grand Haven state parks and at Tunnel Park were immediately cleared by deputies and part authorities.

Holland Coast Guardsmen posted warning signals and ordered all boats back into Holland Harbor from Lake Michigan.

At the Saugatuck-Douglas oval Allegan deputies were notified by Holland police and the beach there was cleared.

At Grand Haven Lake Michigan waters swept up onto the beach periodically as much as 50 feet.

Authorities from Grand Haven to Saugatuck expressed appreciation for the fine cooperation given them by the public.

All alerts were lifted at 6:15 p.m. Thunderstorms moved in over Holland late in the evening and the area received some long awaited rain.

Elsewhere in the state winds of hurricane force, 75 to 78 miles an hour, slammed into Traverse City unroofing barns and damaging several homes between Traverse City and Elk Rapids.

The 325-foot antenna of station WCTM went down knocking the station off the air for a time. Also hard hit by the winds were Alden, Reed City and Everett where houses, house trailers, and farm buildings were damaged.

Fallen trees blocked so many roads that an emergency call for help in clearing the highways went out to residents with power saws. Report of tornado funnels which did not touch the ground came from four miles southwest of Davison and 10 miles east of Flint. One twister swept over Camp Lake and unroofed a cottage.

At Beaverton a tornado blew down three barns, unroofed others, damaged some homes and sent trees, antennas and wires crashing down.

At Midland, a 175 by 30 foot sheet metal airplane hanger at the municipal airport was lifted off its foundation. Three of the planes inside the hanger suffered damage estimated at $400 and the hanger received damage figured at $3,000.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. late Sunday night reported telephone service still out to 2,000 subscribers and the entire communities of Empire, Beulah and Glen Arbor.

Two Men Rescued By Coast Guard

Two Chicago men aboard their 27-foot cruiser were rescued Saturday afternoon when their boat ran out of gas 25 miles southwest of South Haven in Lake Michigan.

Coast Guard rescue boats from Holland, St. Joseph and South Haven and a plane from Traverse City were ordered out when a nearby vessel radioed the universal distress call of "Mayday."

The plane finally used its radio directional finder to locate the disabled cruiser and stayed overhead until the 40-foot cruiser from St. Joseph arrived.

The Chicago men, Fred Wirtz and M. Spivak, and their boat were towed into Holland Harbor. They were enroute to Saugatuck from Chicago.

Shortly after the rescue craft put out, the South Haven Coast Guard boat broke down 14 miles out of port. They were towed back by the Holland boat.

Raphael's made one each in the first and third innings. Singles by Warren Plaggemars and Jay Fredericks, plus a couple errors and a passed ball gave Fords the first three runs.

Doubles by Vern Bloemers and Fredericks drove in the fifth inning tallies and Frank Kraai's single drove in How Bosch, who had doubled, for the other run.

Mel Koenes' single scored Herb Maatman with the first Raphael's run in the first and Rich Wolters, who was safe on a fielder's choice, scored on an error by the left fielder in the third inning.

The winners made eight hits with Fredericks getting two. Syg Disselkoen, Wayne Hop, Plaggemars, Bloemers, Bosch and Kraai made the other hits.

Local Fishermen To Investigate God's Lake, Near Hudson's Bay

THESE MAPS show the trip to be made by four men, three of them from Midland, one from Holland, Mich. The solid line in the top drawing shows the auto trip of 950 miles to Kenora and the broken line the 500 mile plane trip. The second map is detail of the God's lake and river country which snuggles up fairly close to Hudson's bay. See stories and pictures on this page

Rich, Arbury,
Towsley Going

By PHIL RICH

There is a God's Country! And what's more there is a God's lake and a God's river and three Midlanders and one person from Holland (Mich.) are on their way to what fishermen call "that heavenly spot" right now.

For some years I've been hearing about the God's lake area up in Manitoba — 800 miles north of Duluth or 500 miles north of Kenora, Ontario. Today we are on the first leg of the journey which we hope will bring us to the finest fishing of our lives. A couple of days to motor to Kenora and then with the dawn June 30th we should be flying over that lake-packed paradise lying way up close to Hudson's Bay.

Those on this trip will be: Dr. W. D. Towsley, Midland physician and life-long resident here; Howard H. Arbury, insurance man and who has also spent most of his life in Midland; W. A. Butler, Holland (Mich.) Evening Sentinel publisher, with whom I made part of the trip to the Pacific Northwest last summer, and myself. To get a head-start we took off today (Wednesday afternoon) so that it would not be such a mad rush.

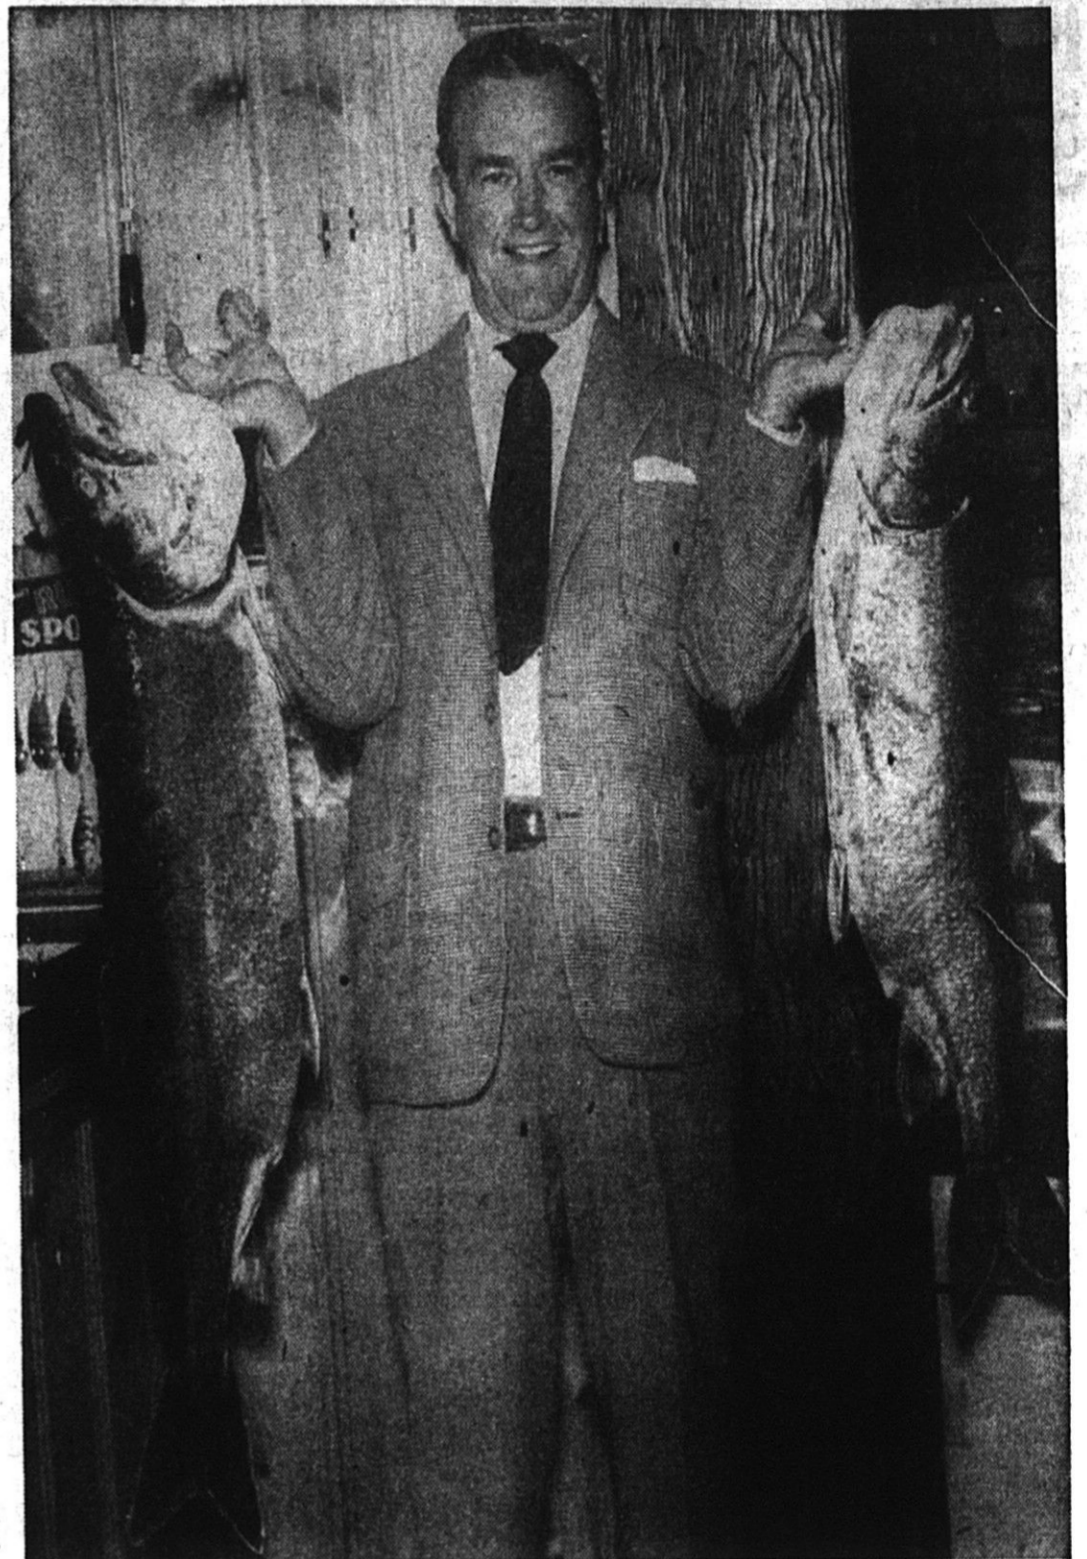

I first heard a graphic description of the God's lake fishing from Jack Parry, South Bend outdoor writer. If I'd not known Jack's veracity, his story would have been put down as another good "fish story." It was so fantastic. But he backed it up with photographs. And later I met others who told the same tale.

Wib Towsley and I, who had taken what we thought were large trout in Ontario and done some other fishing, were intrigued by the "yarn" that speckled trout were commonly caught which would weigh six pounds. Also that some of them had gone better than EIGHT pounds. These were reports last year. On lake trout, pictures were shown in which trout weighed over 45 pounds. Walleyes and northern pike of giant size also. So we started making plans. 'Ere long we interested Arbury and Butler to make this "trip of a lifetime" . . . and here we go.

God's lake is a big one — 70 miles long. There are hundreds of other lakes; dozens of rivers and streams flowing northwest into Hudson's Bay. We will not be too far from the big bay when we get up to God's river and our latitude will be far north of James Bay to the east and south.

There are several camps scattered about this vast wilderness in an area of more than 25,000 square miles. The one we have chosen is run by one of the first operators — Barney Lamm, who has a string of camps running from Ball lake, 50 miles from Kenora to God's river 500 miles away.

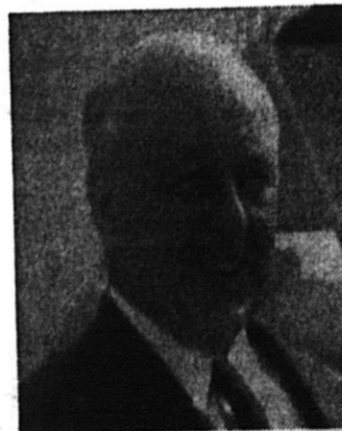

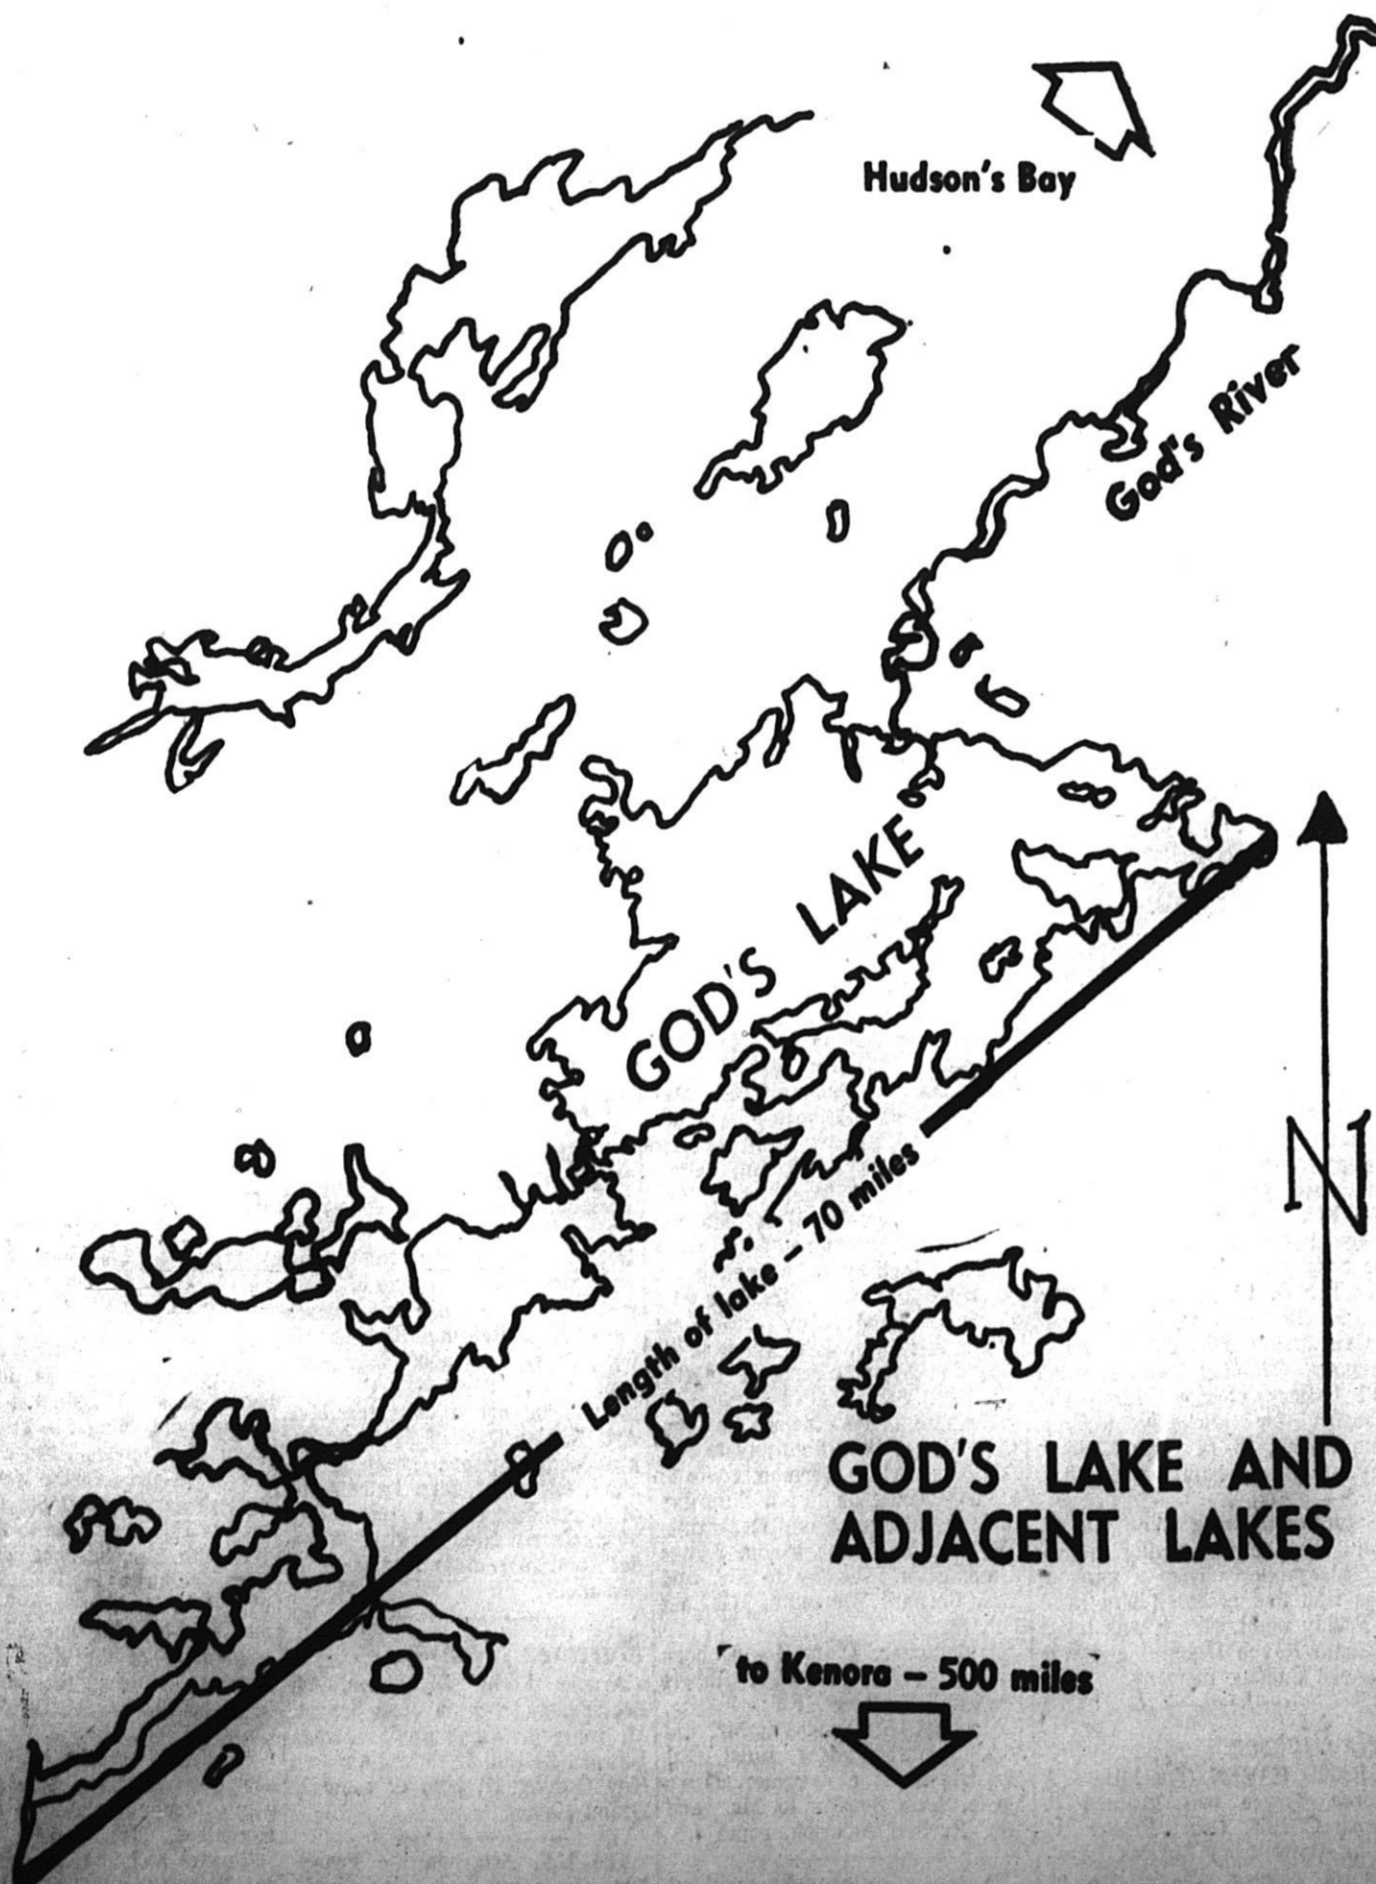

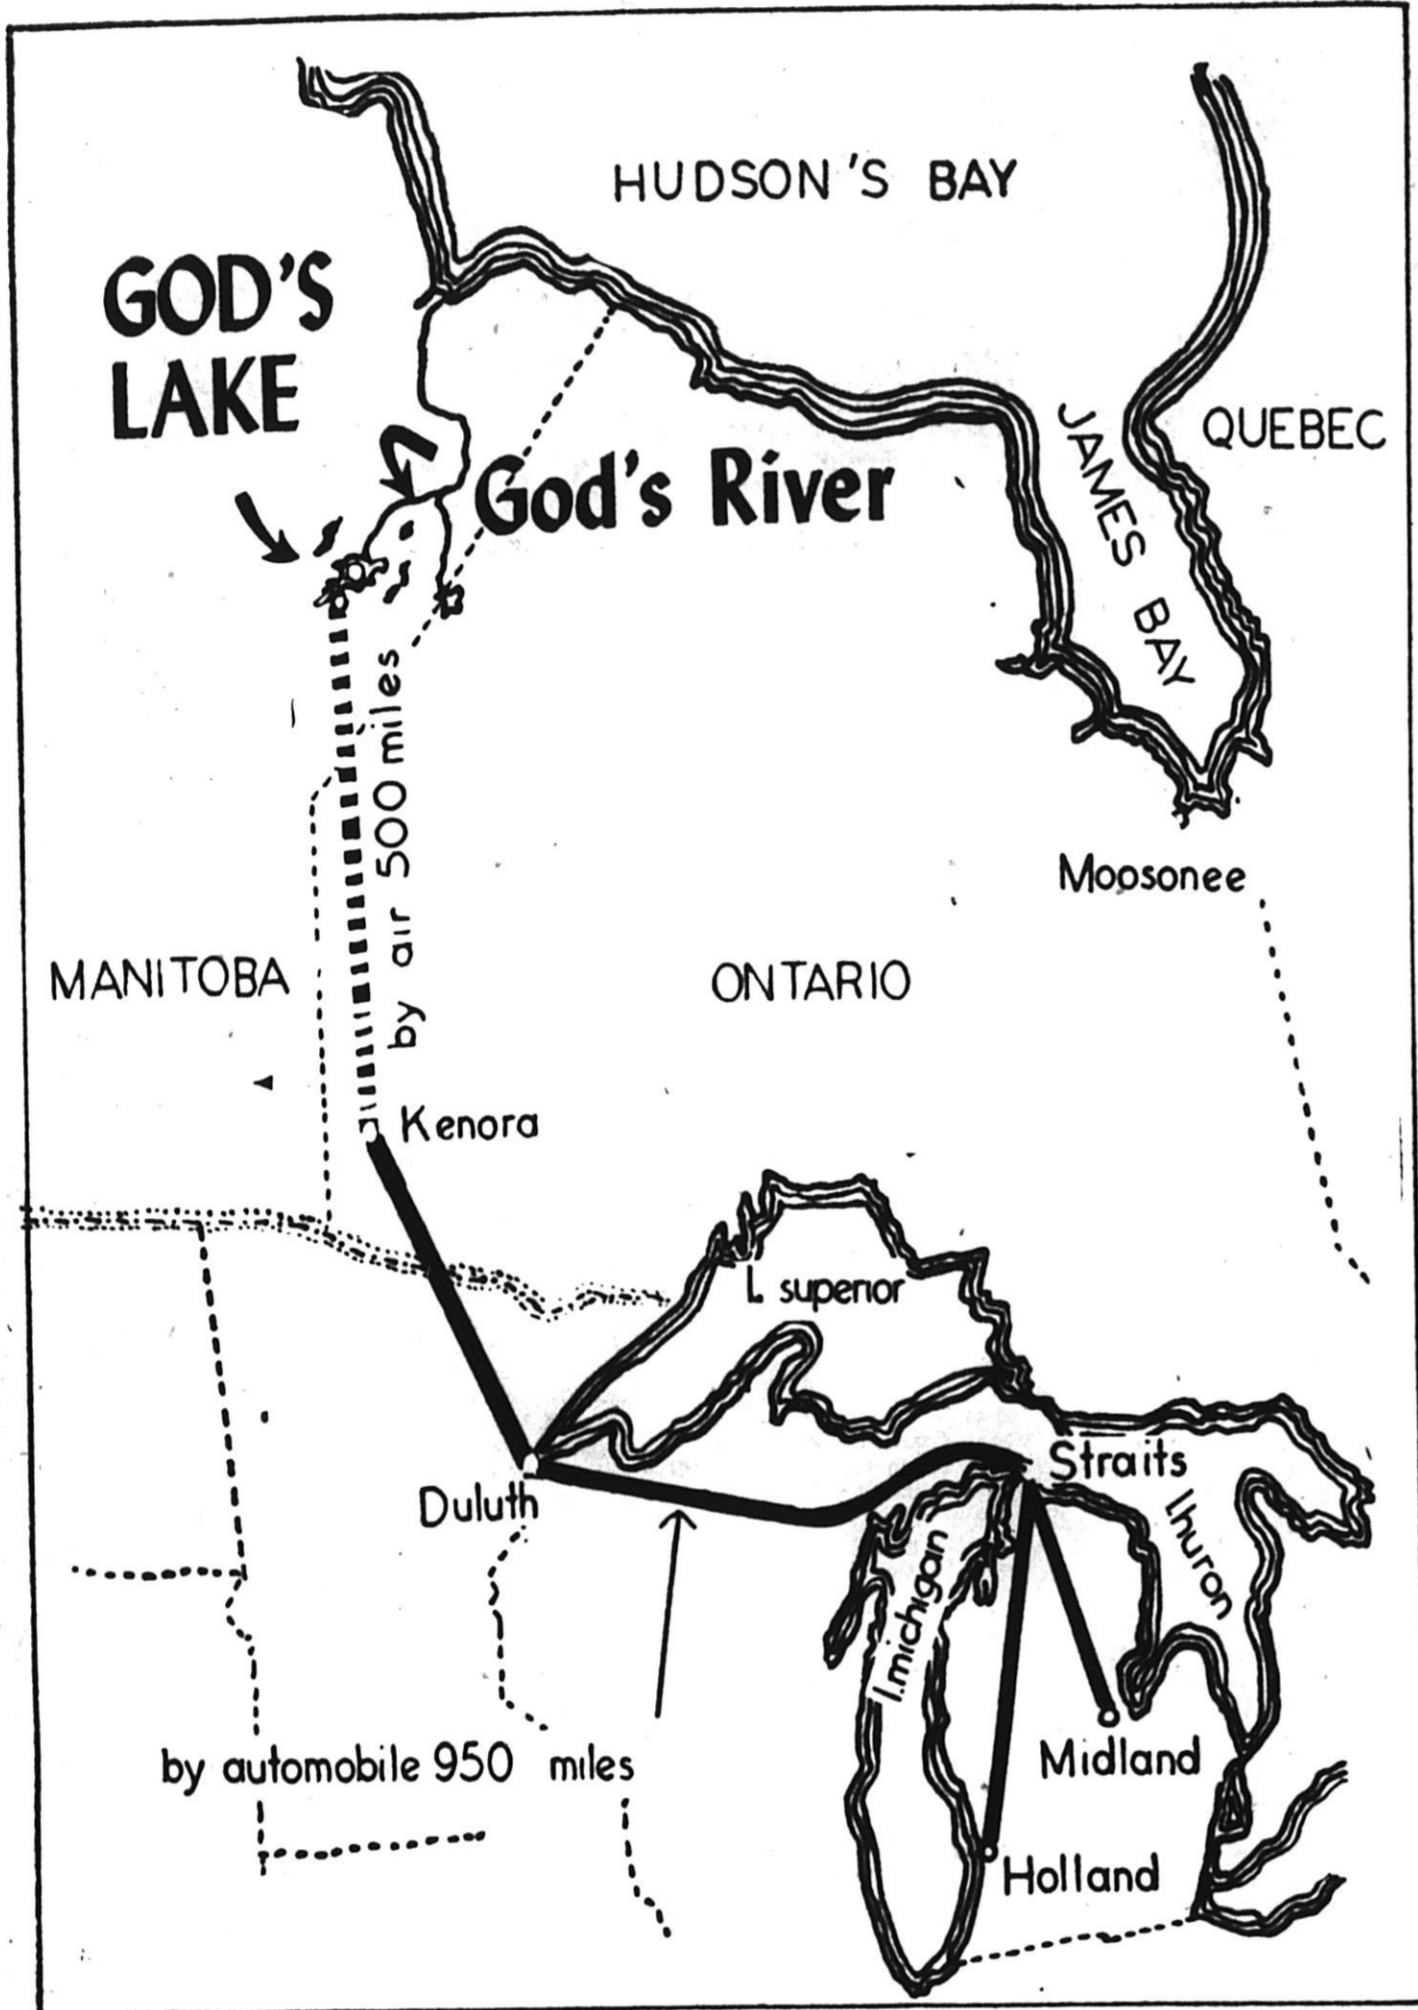

Barney runs the airlines up there and has 22 planes and a small army of guides. We'll ride the big waters in 20 foot freighter square-tail canoes run by a couple of Cree Indians and powered by outboards of good size to buck swift currents and with a bowman to keep us off the huge rocks. It's a package deal—and expensive—but includes 1000 miles of air transport; canoes, gas, sleeping and eating quarters—in fact everything except personal effects and fishing equipment with fish food and delivered back to Kenora.

SOME OF the fish they hope to get: 36 pound and 29½ pound lake trout caught in God's lake by fishermen last year. This stimulated interest on the part of the Midland-Holland party when they heard such catches were not rare but could be expected during a short trip.

C. D. SCHLESSELMAN, Iowa fisherman at God's river, took out a couple of speckled trout. These giant size brook trout often run from 6 to 8 pounds say those who have been up there. Such fish give the huge area, extending up to the Hudson Bay region a reputation among fresh water fishermen everywhere.

LEFT TO right: Howard Arbury, Wib Towsley and Phil Rich check maps and final plans for takeoff to God's lake in Manitoba. June 30th they fly from Kenora, Ontario, 500 miles north, after driving there in two days from Midland. The men with Bill Butler, Holland (upper left), will be in the wilds for 10 days
