Sheriff Dykhuis does not need to worry over a re-nomination this fall. It will come to him unanimously. He has made a splendid official and the county police business was never in more competent hands. He jumped into the office to find confronting him a very intricate murder case. Largely through his efforts this was solved, and the guilty murderer, after one of the most sensational trials in the county's history was landed in prison for life. Other criminal matters of more or less importance have been coming up right along, and Sheriff Dykhuis has been found equal to any emergency. Much of the credit of his successful term is due his son Hans, who as deputy and turnkey has made many friends for himself throughout the county and is one of the pleasantest young fellows to be found.—G. There are five sites now under consideration which are likely to be tendered for the commissions approval. The Grand Rapids Herald says that Postmaster Huddy and Mayor Hoyt called upon Congressman Smith in Grand Rapids Saturday and consulted with him in regard to the public building for Grand Haven. He advised them to have their city council and board of trade send a deed and abstract of each of the several sites that have been talked about for the building to the secretary of the treasury at Washington, and let the secretary take the responsibility of selecting the site. Congressman Smith advised that this action be taken at once so that Grand Haven would be on the ground floor, before the rush begins. EXPLAINED BY BRAGG.

Reported Reference to Cuban Minister by Consul General—Says Statement Was Unwarranted.

Havana, July 16.—Consul General Bragg says the publication of an alleged statement by him in a letter to his wife that "Uncle Sam might as well try to make a whistle out of a pig's tail as to try to do anything with the Cubans," was wholly unwarranted. He has telegraphed to the state department that he was not accurately quoted.

What Gen. Bragg said was that when Uncle Sam got through trying to make a whistle of a pig's tail he would report whether he could make an Anglo-Saxon out of a Cuban. What he wrote was in a private personal letter to his wife without expectation of its publication.

Washington, July 16.—Senor Quesada, Cuban minister to the United States, has called the attention of President Palma to the reported utterances of Consul General Bragg and asked for instruction. Until he receives this he will take no step in the matter.

Havana, July 16.—It is positively stated that the Cuban government will take no action in the Consul Bragg incident. High officials are treating the matter lightly.

SHOT IN THE STREET.

A Merchant at Murphysboro, Ill., Waylaid by Unknown Persons and Instantly Killed.

Murphysboro, Ill., July 16.—One of the most heartless murders in the history of Jackson county was committed on North Seventeenth street, this city, when Ward Gosney, a popular merchant, was almost instantly killed by unknown persons who he had ejected from his place of business earlier in the evening because they were intoxicated.

About two hours after the crime two men were caught near the scene who were thought to be the men. A mob of infuriated citizens had gathered, and when the officers appeared with the men the mob cried out for the lives of the suspects. Coroner Krauer, acting sheriff, owing to the death of Sheriff Fox, and other citizens succeeded in taking the men to the county jail, but not until they had been frightfully pounded and mutilated by the mob.

THREE TOWNS RAZED.

A Cyclone in North Dakota Causes Great Destruction of Property in a Wide Path.

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—The destruction of three towns and the possible loss of lives running into the scores are reported as the result of a cyclone which last night devastated the northeastern part of North Dakota, sweeping southwesterly from the Canadian line. The towns destroyed are Eldorado, with a population of 250; Thompson, whose inhabitants numbered 200, and Borup, a village of about the same size.

The reports indicate that the cyclone developed southwest of the lake of the Woods country and took a course down across the northern portion of the state. Its path seems to have been unusually wide and the effects of the storm outside its primary line unusually severe.

DOOR OF MUSTY VOLUMES.

Is Regarded by a True Book-Lover as Excelling the Rarest Fragrance in Nature.

My friend was holding a book not quite three inches from his nose and rapidly turning the leaves. I suggested that he do his dusting at a rather greater distance, relates a writer in the New York Tribune.

"You have made a slight mistake," said he. "I am not housecleaning. I allow dust and cobwebs on my bottles only—not on my books."

"Then this rite of yours—" I began.

"That is the word," said he, pausing a moment to taste what I had said.

"It is a rite, and only the elect, the knowing, are worthy to witness it."

"Send me of the tribe," said I.

"I fear you could not understand," answered he, shaking his head doubtfully. "But listen. I was perfume hunting on the works of Charles Lamb. You came upon me as I was enjoying the aroma of volume III—the first Elia essays, you will remember. The two volumes of letters are also rather rare, but somehow this is the most delicate in odor of the entire set. Try it," he added, generously handing over the volume. I sought to remember how he had held it.

"Nearer the nose," said he, "you're quite out of range." I adjusted the book to his satisfaction.

"And now you're ready for turning."

I passed the 300 pages rapidly in review before my waiting sense of smell.

"Your thumb touch is not delicate," exclaimed he with some impatience.

"You bear on too hard. Just see how you've blunted the edge of the leaves. They should be sharp as a razor. Once again," I exerted myself to please him.

"That's good," said he. "Isn't it delicious?"

"I was so busy with the machinery of the thing that I forgot to try for the scent," I had to confess in some embarrassment. "And now, finally." This time I had mastered the mechanism and was receptive to the message of the leaves.

"Well," said he, as I hesitated.

"Why, I get a subdued dust and musty odor," replied I. "What else, indeed?"

"I, too, had to serve my apprenticeship," said he in a tone of disappointment. "But if you have the stuff in you, there will come a time when this will be to you the rarest fragrance. Nature is well enough in its way with flowers and foliage and the breath of cattle, but this is altogether finer and makes its appeal to a more highly-developed sense. Take the Bohn library—publishers of Addison, Ricardo, Adam Smith. Of course, each book of theirs gives out its own peculiar whiff but everything they publish comes up to a high standard. You appreciate that this perfume is not something applied to the completed book, as your maid puts cologne on her pocket handkerchief. It is the very essence of the book. It is the product of binding and leaves and cover and print—the perfect blend of the workmanship. Only the English can come at it. Our American books have too businesslike a smell. They are done in haste—machine made and not put together by loving hands. I can always analyze the odor of them into its separate elements. The glazed paper, the glue, are irrepressible."

"It must take long training," said I, making ready to depart.

"The time is well spent," replied he, as he took down a volume of "The Spectator" and lovingly sampled it.

WEDDINGS IN BRITANNY.

Odd Personages and Entertaining Features of a Most Enjoyable Ceremony.

Woman is held in great honor in this part of the French republic, and marriages have a solemnity that they possess in few other places. It is difficult to trace the history of the custom that gives the tailor such high rank at the wedding as the Britons accord him, says Woman's Home Companion. He is the marshal for the groom, and if he be gifted in the art of making rhyme he may be asked to participate in the comedy of formally wooing the bride by reciting stilted verse in her presence. He wears a red hose on his right leg and a purple one on the left, when he makes this journey, while from the end of his wand are suspended two little embroidered hearts. When the nuptials are celebrated, bread and wine are blessed and exchanged with the groom by the bride's parents. The wedding follows immediately, and the bride barricades her house preparatory to receiving the groom.

The lover arrives accompanied by bagpipers, who play in front of the house while the mock parley continues. He makes formal demand for his wife, and her relatives bring forward her grandmother or some other aged person. Meantime the smell of the viands which are being prepared for the feast float on the air. Of course, the aged woman is politely set aside. Perhaps a babe may be the next response to his importunity. He must not lose his temper or insult the one who presents the infant, but with rather exaggerated praise he returns the child. A widow and a married woman are perhaps the next to be offered, and it is not until he has refused them all that the bride is brought out, dressed and ready for the ceremony.

CAMP PITCHED IN THE LITTLE TOWN.

Col. Everts Makes Official Investigation of the Case—Result Shows That Mob Have Attacked the Colored Residents Nightly—Everything Is Now Quiet.

Eldorado, Ill., July 12.—Company F of the Fourth infantry, of Mount Vernon, under command of Capt. Satterfield, accompanied by Assistant Adjutant General Everts, are now encamped here, the scene of the recent outbreak against the negro industrial school, and, indeed, against all negro residents. Never since the civil war has a soldiers' camp been seen in this quiet village.

Col. Everts Investigates. Col. Everts, with the aid of Capt. Satterfield, made a thorough investigation of the affair which has extended over seven weeks, hoping to be able to run down those who have had a part in the many outrages. It developed that a well-directed coterie of men had almost nightly menaced the peace of the few negroes who had dared to remain on the ground, threats and intimidation had been

TRAIN HELD UP.

Four Masked Men Rob Passengers on the Denver & Rio Grande Road Near Chester.

Denver, Col., July 15.—Train No. 315 was held up by four masked men at a point known as Mill Switch, two miles east of Chester, at 8:50 a. m. Monday. They blew open two safes in the baggage car and demolished the sides and roof of the car. The express company advises that no money was lost—the mail car was not molested. All the passengers were ordered to go to the rear of the train and get out on to the ground. After using three charges of dynamite the robbers succeeded in opening the safes and took the contents. They then went back to the passengers and relieved them of their money and jewelry. Many of the passengers threw their money, jewelry and transportation into the grass and rocks.

The bandits mounted horses and disappeared in the ravines that lead into Marshall Pass. The sheriff at Salida and sheriffs of adjoining counties and a dozen possees are in pursuit.

BIG STRIKE DECLARED OFF

The Freight Handlers at Chicago Vote to Go Back to Work.

BLAME TEAMSTERS FOR THEIR FAILURE

No Concessions Are Made by the Differing Railroad, and the Men Are Told to Make the Best Terms They Can with the Railroad Managers—History of Strike.

Chicago, July 16.—The gigantic strike of freight handlers which has almost paralyzed Chicago for the last ten days ended Wednesday at 10:50 a. m., when the men by an almost unanimous vote decided to return to work in a body and secure the best possible terms under the circumstances. A strike of teamsters, which would have involved nearly 20,000 men, has been averted by the abrupt ending of the controversy, and business, which has been demoralized during the last few days, will, with the promptness that characterizes Chicago, soon resume its normal conditions.

The result of the strike was a bitter disappointment to the men. They knew early in the day that the end had come when they received authentic information that their ranks were broken and that many strikers, acting individually, had gone back to the freight yards and asked for work.

The decision of the men to go back to work in a body was largely the outcome of a meeting between President Curran and the members of the state board of arbitration, held Tuesday night. Wednesday Chairman Job and the other members of the board saw the officials of the union again and told them frankly that the men could not hope to secure work unless they went back as the board suggested and went back at once. The state board had felt the pulse of the railroad officials and knew that if the freight handlers did not go back Wednesday they could never go back.

Teamsters' Union Is Blamed. The whole blame for the failure of the strike is laid by the freight handlers at the door of the officers of the Teamsters' union. President Young's order to his men to live up to their agreement and to haul freight of all kinds marked the beginning of the end.

Railroads Issue Statement. Chicago, July 16.—The Association of Railway General Managers, embracing every road which enters Chicago, has issued the following signed statement:

"All of our old men, not before on hand for work, reported at the freight houses at noon to-day, and were put to work. No conference was held with any committee or otherwise, since Tuesday, and no agreement was made with the union or with any committee. The men simply reported for work, and they doubtless expect and will receive the pay offered July 1, and which the railroad companies have been willing all along to pay."

History of the Struggle. The freight handlers' strike began at nine o'clock a. m. Monday, July 7, when the men left work at 24 freight depots in a body.

The strikers demanded 18 cents an hour for truckers, the striking out of the 30 days' probation rule, which provided for less pay for men for the first month of their employment, and the payment of time and a half for overtime work.

The officials of the road refused to grant the demands of the men, and imported labor to handle the freight. For several days both incoming and outgoing goods were handled without trouble. Then the teamsters refused to haul goods to the freight depots, and business was at a standstill.

The Chicago board of arbitration, consisting of team owners and teamsters, tried to settle the strike after the board's proposition had been rejected. Failure came because the railroad managers would not treat with a body having teamsters as a component part, on the ground that the teamsters were in reality on a strike.

The officials of the Teamsters' union induced their men to haul goods irrespective of their destination. The officials took the action because the men were under an agreement with their employers, as a result of a recent teamsters' strike. The men refused to obey their officials, but when their president, Albert Young, who was in Boston, returned to Chicago, he succeeded in getting his men in line. Wednesday they began hauling freight to the depots, and the end of the strike was reached.

Wheelmen in Session. Atlanta City, N. J., July 16.—The annual meeting of the League of American Wheelmen began here Wednesday and will continue until Saturday. The first of the daily runs from Philadelphia, which will be a feature of the convention, left that city Wednesday morning with about 125 starters.

Strike at Richmond, Va. Richmond, Va., July 16.—A general strike of all the street railway employees of Richmond is on. The representatives of the union and officials of the company were unable to get together on the matter of wages.

Brokers Arrested. Rochester, N. Y., July 16.—Norwood P. Keen and Samuel T. Aber, brokers, of this city, are under arrest on charges of grand larceny. The Metropolitan stock exchange, of Boston, is complainant.

daily indulged in and President Alston, of the school; Prof. Lott, one of the instructors, and Rev. Mr. Green, the three most prominent colored residents, were those on whom the mob most desired to wreak vengeance.

Prime Movers Known. Little effort has ever been made to conceal the identity of those who have been the perpetrators of the nightly attacks, and the names of the prime movers in the entire matter are not kept secret. It is considered certain that at least two of the mob will be arrested soon.

The Trouble Over. Eldorado, Ill., July 14.—Col. Everts reports that everything is quiet, that the troops have stationed a guard around the houses of Rev. P. A. Green and J. Beam, and that the mayor of the town has promised to cooperate with the troops in furnishing every possible protection. The troops will remain at Eldorado indefinitely.

Village Destroyed. Appleton, Wis., July 12.—The village of Bear Creek, 30 miles northwest of this city, was destroyed by fire Friday. A dozen stores, the post office, Chicago & Northwestern depot and a lumber mill had been destroyed by noon and the fire was still raging. The fire began at four o'clock Friday morning in a millinery store. The loss may reach $100,000. The residents fought the fire with buckets.

Salisbury Resigns. London, July 14.—Lord Kitchener, former commander of his majesty's army in South Africa, returned to London from the Boer war Saturday. He was welcomed at Paddington railroad station by the prince of Wales and a great crowd of Britons, who cheered lustily as he emerged from his car.

Cuba Accepts. Washington, July 12.—A cablegram received from Minister Squiers, at Havana, by Charles M. Pepper, the commissioner of the Louisiana Purchase exposition to Cuba, states that the invitation for the new republic to participate in the exposition has been accepted.

Fifteen Injured. Des Moines, Ia., July 12.—A north-bound Chicago & Northwestern passenger train ran into a freight train standing on an open switch at Ankeny, 12 miles north of here, and 15 persons were more or less injured.

Murderers Sentenced. Henderson, Minn., July 12.—Death by hanging for Frank Tanke and life imprisonment for his wife is the punishment to which they were sentenced for the murder of John Wellner, Mrs. Tanke's first husband.

Panama Title Clear. Washington, July 11.—It can be stated on authority that the selection of the Panama canal route has been practically completed and that the canal will be built on that line.

20 accounts, involving receipts and disbursements of $5,806,761,014 for the year ended June 30, 1901. The large increase in the number of accounts examined and audited is due to the redemption of stamps under the act to repeal war taxes. The auditor makes no recommendations.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Railroad Companies Declared Not Responsible to Third Party for Loss of Mail Matter.

St. Louis, July 15.—The United States circuit court of appeals, in affirming the verdict of a lower court in the case of Bankers Mutual Casualty company against the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Ste. Marie company, which was in favor of the defendant, declared that a railroad company is merely the agent of the government, and was not responsible to a third party for the loss of any mail matter. It was responsible to the government only.

Death of Archbishop Feehan. Chicago, July 14.—Archbishop Patrick A. Feehan, of the diocese of Chicago, 73 years of age, died suddenly at 3 o'clock p. m. Saturday at the archiepiscopal residence, North State street and North avenue. The death of the aged prelate was caused by apoplexy. When the diocese of Chicago by decree of the holy see in September, 1880, was elevated to the rank of an archdiocese, to Bishop Feehan fell the honor of becoming its first archbishop.

Corn Deal Ends. Chicago, July 16.—Just before the close of business Tuesday on the board of trade it was given out in the Harris-Gates office that July corn shorts had settled, and that the deal is at an end. The July price closed at 65½c. Elevator people claim that the big run of corn threatened to swamp the bulls, and that the longs "settled" with the shorts. It is said that John W. Gates made $3,750,000 in the deal.

Claimed Self-Defense. Davenport, Ia., July 11.—The inquest into the killing by Mate Dan Green of the two patent medicine fakirs who terrorized passengers on the steamer Dubuque resulted in the acquittal of Green. He shot both men shortly after they got on the boat at Rock Island, Ill., and claimed to have acted in self-defense.

 Whereas a goodly number of the citizens and tax payers living in the southwestern part of the city of Holland are anxious that 17th St. should be opened up to Ottawa St. on the west;

And whereas a careful examination, by different members of the Common Council, into the conditions and location of the property through which said 17th St. will pass if opened up, has been made;

And whereas said 17th St. is now opened up from the city limits on the east to the section line between section 31 and 32 and is about to be opened up to the 8th line running north and south through the northeast quarter of said section 31;

And whereas these several matters have convinced the common council of the city of the advisability and necessity of opening said street from said 8th line to the limits of the city on the west, at the present time:

Therefore be it resolved:

(1) That we, the Common Council of the City of Holland hereby declare and assert that the opening up of a public street 66 feet in width through the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 31 in said city and being a continuation due west to the city limits of 17th St. in said city as it is now located and established, as a present and immediate necessary public improvement in the city of Holland.

(2) That the said improvement, namely of opening up 17th St. in said city to the western limits of said city through said northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 31 is a necessary improvement for the use and benefit of the public at large and not simply a benefit to the adjoining property owners.

(3) That in order to make said public improvement of opening up opening up and extending 17th St. to the western limits of the said city, it is deemed necessary by us to take the following private property herein-after described for the making of said public improvement: the private property deemed necessary to be taken to make said necessary improvement as above determined and set forth are the following parcels of land and the owners thereof as near as the same can be learned and ascertained:

Parcel No. 1. A strip of land 66 feet in width beginning on the east line of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 31 and being 18 rods due south from the center of 16th St. running thence west twenty rods, thence south 66 feet; thence east 20 rods; thence north to the place of beginning. Owner Nels Hanson.

Parcel No. 2. A strip of land 66 feet in width commencing at a point on the east line of the west half of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 31; and being 18 rods due south from the center of 16th St. running thence due west 20 rods; thence due south 66 feet; thence east 20 rods; thence due north to the place of beginning. Owner Oscar Peterson.

Parcel No. 3. A strip of land 66 feet in width beginning at a point on the east line of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 31; and being 18 rods due south of the center of 16th St., running thence west 18 rods; thence due south 66 feet; thence due east 18 rods; thence due north to the place of beginning. Owner Hans Knutsen.

Parcel No. 4. A strip of land 66 feet in width beginning at a point on the west line of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 31 and being 18 rods due south from the center of 16th St. running thence due east 22 rods; thence due south sixty six feet; thence due west 22 rods; thence due north to the place of beginning. Owners, Mrs. Nels Knutsen, Mary Knutsen and Nellie Knutsen.

By Aid. Riksen.

Said street to be 66 feet in width as determined upon by the common council at its regular meeting held on the 15th day of July, A. D. 1902; and said city attorney is hereby further directed to forthwith institute necessary proceedings before said justice to obtain the necessary private property to open up said public street; said property being fully described in said resolution passed by the common council and therein described as "Parcels one to four" inclusive, a copy of which said resolution is hereby attached and made a part thereof in order to more fully describe and identify the several parcels necessary to be taken as determined by the common council.

John F. Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin Co., which is to exhibit here on July 19th is considered to be the largest organization of the kind in the world. It travels on its own special train and plays under a monster tent with a seating capacity of 4500 and 500 reserved opera chairs. Prof. Bellinger's celebrated band of 20 pieces may be seen in the noon day parade. The stage occupies a space of 42x64 feet. The scenery and transformations are said to be elegant. Mr. Stowe is a nephew of Harriet Beecher Stow, author of the beautiful story, and feels more keenly than any other person in which the ever popular drama is recollecting at the hands of unscrupulous managers. Fifty people take part in the entertainment, which in reality, is a big double show. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

Body of Mrs. Geertje Eilander Found Floating in Black River.

Her husband ran away with another woman 20 years ago and after brooding over the affair, an affair that broke her heart, she became so despondent that death seemed the only relief, and death she sought in the sullen waters of Black River—such is the story of a life that was ended today.

The body of Mrs. Geertje Eilander was found floating about 20 rods from the west side of the Grand Haven bridge spanning Black River about 6:30 o'clock this morning by Derk Van Oort who was summoned by his neighbors to look for the body and hurried to the scene in a rowboat with the necessary implements to grapple for a drowned person.

But the grapple nor pike pole were not needed, for the body was on the surface drifting with the current in about twelve feet of water. It is strange that it floated so soon after death for as a rule bodies do not come to the surface until nine days have elapsed while in this case death had come 3 or 4 hours before the body was found.

Mrs. Eilander lived with her son on the north side. With him and his wife she was at a neighbor's house until nine o'clock. She has for the last couple of years taken her meals at the home of her son but slept and spent her spare time in a small house of her own near by. She left them to go to this small house a little after nine last night and they saw no more of her until her body was discovered this morning. An examination of the little house showed that she had slept there last night and it is presumed that sometime in the early morning she left her bed to throw herself into the river.

A coroner's jury consisting of Arthur Van Duren, John Elferdink, Jr., Wm. Westhoek, Henry Conkright, Peter Boot and N. J. Whelan was impanelled by Coroner Mastenbroek and after viewing the remains at Nibbelink's undertaking rooms listened to the evidence of Derk Van Oort regarding the finding of the body and of Klaas Eilander, son of deceased, regarding her life and the circumstances surrounding her death. It developed that about 20 years ago Mrs. Eilander's husband eloped from here with another woman and went to Patterson, N. J., where he is living at present. Mrs. Eilander secured a divorce some time ago. For the last three years she has been living with her son and about four weeks ago she signed over to him the house in which he lives and transferred to him other property and some money. Since the time her husband left her she has been subject to melancholy moods and repeatedly declared that she intended to commit suicide. Nine years ago she tried to shoot herself. It seems that despondency finally drove her to seek for relief by suicide.

The coroner's jury will finish it's deliberations Tuesday forenoon. Mrs. Eilander was 62 years of age.

New Band Instruments.

The determined efforts of the committee that solicited funds for the purchase of new band instruments have borne good fruit and tomorrow the instruments will be here. They were purchased of B. W. York & Sons, of Grand Rapids. They are first class in every respect and are listed at $600. Holland is now in a position to have a good band as long as the city remains on the map as the instruments are the property of the city and will always remain in charge of a committee that will have control of them and will see that they are used in the interest of the city.

It will take a couple of days for the members of the band to become accustomed to the new instruments, but it is expected they will be ready in a couple of days and that some time next week a concert will be given in order that the public may see what the boys can do when they have the right equipments.

WESTERN MINE HORROR.

Explosion in the Daly-West Mine at Park City, Utah, Kills Many Miners.

TWENTY-SEVEN DEAD ARE TAKEN OUT.

Over One Hundred Men in the Mine at the Time of the Disaster, Most of Whom Have Probably Perished.—Relief Party Entering Mine Fails to Return.

Park City, Utah, July 16.—Two powder magazines at the 1,200-foot level of the Daly-West mine exploded about one o'clock Wednesday morning, causing a loss of life that at present cannot be estimated nor even guessed at. At four o'clock 27 men had been taken out of the mine dead, and several others had been recovered in a half dazed condition. These were all brought out through the Ontario mine shaft, which is a mile distant from the Daly-West, in which the explosion occurred. The 1,200-foot level of the Daly-West corresponds to and is connected by tunnel with the 600 level of the Ontario.

In the Daly-West mine between 100 and 150 men were at work. In the Ontario were nearly 100, it is believed.

Number of Dead Unknown.

It is not known how many of these are dead, but the disaster extends to the Ontario, as the noxious gases that have been let loose are known to be the cause of several of the deaths. The presence of these gases leads many miners to believe that the powder was burned, that the explosion, if one occurred, which, in the excited condition of the town it is impossible to ascertain with absolute certainty, was not the chief cause of the disaster. There are two powder magazines at the 1,200-foot level of the Daly-West, one at each side of the shaft, with a capacity of one to two cars of powder each. A car of powder was added to the supply within the past few days.

Three Dead Taken Out.

Three dead men have been taken out of the Ontario shaft. They are: George Garvin, Sweibel, employees of Ed Copp, who has the ore hauling contract for the Daly-West, and Soderup, a miner employed in the Ontario, who was working at the least a mile from the magazine that exploded. It is believed all three were suffocated.

The explosion occurred at about one o'clock in the morning, at an hour when every person in town was either asleep or at work. The shock was so tremendous that it awakened every one within a radius of miles. As an example of its awful force, it is told that two horses in the ore tunnel, one and a half miles away, were killed by it.

Excitement Tremendous.

The excitement is tremendous. Not a person in the town but has friends or relatives working in the mine. Women and children are thronging to the Ontario shaft house, which is midway between Park City and the Daly-West. Nearly all of them have husbands or fathers in the mines, and their grief is pitiable. All of the doctors in town are at either of the mines. They are doing what they can to resuscitate the unconscious fellows as they are taken out, but it is difficult to obtain information downtown, as the telephone to the mine has stopped working.

Relief Party Missing.

Members of a relief party who went into the Ontario mine shortly after the explosion occurred have not yet returned, and fears are entertained for their safety.

Thirty-Three Bodies Taken Out.

A telephone message from Park City at ten o'clock says that 33 bodies have been removed from the two mines. Officials of the Daly-West state that only three more bodies are in the mine. Miners, however, assert that there are 12 or 15 still unaccounted for.

Deaths Caused by Deadly Fumes.

The fumes from the explosion were overpowering and caused most of the deaths.

John McKeaglin, one of the rescuers, who went down the second time to help, died on being brought to the surface. He was asphyxiated. Eight miners escaped through the Anchor tunnel unhurt.

Mine Stocks Take Drop.

Salt Lake, Utah, July 16.—On the local mining stock exchange Wednesday morning, Daly-West dropped from $34 to $48 a share, a loss of over $1,000,000 on the entire capital stock.

Awarded a Heavy Judgment.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 16.—In the orphan's court Wednesday an opinion was handed down awarding Dr. W. C. Browning, of Philadelphia, $29,239.25 against the estate of the late State Senator Chris L. Magee, for professional services. The doctor claimed $350,000. Of this amount about $200,000 was for profits in stock speculations which Dr. Browning alleged the late senator had made for him.

Morgan's Offer to Austria.

Vienna, July 16.—The Neue Freie Presse states that the shipping combine, of which J. Pierpont Morgan is the head, has written to the Austrian council of industry, offering to build ships for the Austrian trade and to work the ships when they are completed.

STORM STORY EXAGGERATED.

No Confirmation of Destruction of Several Towns in North Dakota with Attendant Loss of Life.

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—Telegraphic communication with the Red river valley is still interrupted, but as brief telephone conversation with Grand Forks before noon brought the news that the storm was very widespread, and did much small damage which will be heavy in the aggregate, but there is yet no confirmation of the report that several towns have been destroyed. These reports are discredited at Grand Forks, as also are the reports of loss of life. It is believed many are injured but none killed. The storm started near Devil's lake, in northern North Dakota, swept over and up the Red river, then jumped across Minnesota, and went tearing down the Mississippi river into Iowa.

La Crosse, Wis., July 16.—The most severe thunderstorm of the summer broke on La Crosse at three o'clock Wednesday morning. Two inches of rain fell at Prairie du Chien, and about an inch here and at Red Wing. The storm was general, according to the weather bureau, along the upper Mississippi river. Here two barns owned by Jacob Renner were struck by lightning and totally destroyed. Much damage was done to the crops in the neighboring country.

WANTS SPOONER INDOSED.

Resolution Offered by Stalwart Delegation in the Republican Convention of Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., July 16.—The republican convention was called to order at 12:15 by Chairman of the State Central Committee George F. Bryant in the big university gymnasium, which was comfortably filled by about 3,000 persons. Gen. Bryant, after naming the officers of the convention, introduced Rev. Dr. Butler, who delivered the invocation. At the conclusion of the prayer, Gen. Bryant announced the appointment of Judge Levi H. Bancroft, of Richland Center, as temporary chairman of the convention.

Three resolutions were offered by a member of the Stalwart delegation from Milwaukee county, which were accepted without being read and handed to the committee on resolutions. One provides for an indorsement of John C. Spooner for reelection unconditionally to the United States senate; another is against the proposed primary legislation of the La Follette wing, and a third provides for a modification of the tariff laws on strict protection lines. The last is in line with the views of Congressman Babcock.

The convention adjourned until four o'clock.

ADMONISHED AND RETIRED.

Gen. Smith, Author of the "Kill and Burn" Order, Disciplined by President.

Washington, July 16.—Secretary Root brought from Oyster Bay the case of Gen. Jacob H. Smith, tried by court-martial at Manila, on account of orders issued to Maj. Waller. Gen. Smith was found guilty of the charges by the court and sentenced to be admonished by the reviewing authority. The president has so admonished Gen. Smith, and retired him under the law, which provides that officers having reached the age of 62 years may be retired at will by the president. Secretary Root supplements the reprimand of President Roosevelt in a long circular in which he explains the conditions which resulted in the court-martial of Gen. Smith, and shows that although Smith issued the "kill and burn" order, as a matter of fact very few persons were killed as a result of that order, the casualties being confined almost wholly to the 11 natives killed under Maj. Waller's direction. The findings of the court and the reviews by the president and Secretary Root were made public later in the day.

Closes Its Session.

Silver Bay, N. Y., July 16.—The city section of the Young Women's Christian association closed its annual session here with an address by Mrs. Effie Kelly Price, of Chicago, on "The Freedom of Christ." The attendance at this session was 322, the delegates representing 34 affiliated city associations. This is the largest number of delegates ever present at a city conference of the Y. W. C. A.

Divers Examine the Illinois.

Christiania, Norway, July 16.—The United States battleship Illinois, flagship of Rear Admiral Crowninshield, was towed into the inner harbor Wednesday and divers are now trying to temporarily repair the damage which she sustained Monday when she struck an obstruction while standing into the outer harbor, so that she can proceed to Chatham, England, and go into dry dock.

Revolutionary Victory Recalled.

Stony Point, N. Y., July 16.—The capture of British fortifications here by Gen. Anthony Wayne, in the American revolution, was celebrated Wednesday, the one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of the event, by the dedication of a public park at the scene of the conflict. The site, which overlooks the Hudson river, is an ideal one.

Meteor III Wins Race.

Dover, England, July 16.—Emperor William's schooner-yacht, Meteor III, was the first to arrive here in the race from the island of Heligoland, Germany, for the von Busch trophy, valued at 600 guineas, and two other prizes. The yachts started in the race Monday last, but were becalmed in the North sea.

AN AWFUL MINE HORROR.

Scores of Lives Lost by an Explosion in a Colliery Near Johnstown, Pa.

CAUSE OF THE DISASTER IS UNKNOWN.

Rescuers Overcome by the Gases and Perish—Miners Reach the Surface and Give the Terrible News—Pathetic Scenes—One Hundred and Fourteen Bodies Taken Out.

Johnstown, Pa., July 11.—An explosion of fire damp in the Rolling Mill coal mine of the Cambria steel company, under West Mont hill, just after noon Thursday brought death or injury to a great number of the 600 miners at work. Conservative estimates place the number of dead at 175, the mine officers admit that over 100 men are entombed in the mines, while some miners declare at least 400 persons are still buried. The scene of the accident is known as the "Klondike."

Cause of Explosion Unknown.

About a score of American miners who were at work in the Klondike district noticed the presence of fire damp in their apartment soon after the explosion occurred, and started at once for the main entrance. They were almost overcome by the deadly gas, but reached the outside world in safety. One of the men who got out safely said it is not known what caused the explosion, and that it will probably never be known, as he believed none of the men at work in the Klondike district can be saved.

Rescuers Meet Death.

Mine Foreman Harry Rodgers, his assistant, William Blanch, and Fire Bosses John Whitney, John Retaille and John Thomas were overcome by the gases and perished in a heroic attempt to rescue the fated miners.

Miners Reach the Surface.

Several miners have reached the surface who were working near the scene of the explosion. They say that they passed through a portion of the Klondike district and saw the bodies of at least 50 men. The men who came out were foreigners and were in such an excited condition that it was impossible to get a connected story from them.

Pathetic Scenes.

It was nearly an hour after the explosion before any general knowledge of what had happened got abroad. Men who came from the mines, escaping with their lives, told the terrible news and soon it spread like wildfire all over the city. In scores of homes there was the most pathetic scenes. Mothers, wives, daughters, sons and relatives were frantic with grief. Hundreds rushed to the point and with sobbing hearts awaited news that did not come from the ill-fated mine.

Funerals of Miners.

Johnstown, Pa., July 14.—One hundred and fourteen are now known to be dead from Thursday's explosion at the Rolling Mill mine of the Cambria Steel company. It is not probable that this record will be swelled to any great extent. Many funerals took place Saturday, every undertaker in Johnstown having more than he could well attend to. Down below a quarter of a mile the streets of Conemaugh City were clogged with corteges.

The Mine Reopens.

Johnstown, Pa., July 15.—Operations have been started in every section of the Rolling Mill mine of the Cambria Steel company, except the Klondike, where the fatal explosion of Thursday occurred. A majority of the 50 men on hand when the first trip went into the mine were foreigners. No more bodies were brought out or have been discovered, and the mine has apparently been explored fully. Nevertheless some miners claim that many bodies will still be found there in.

Families Homeless.

Argentine, Kan., July 15.—Water from the Kaw river broke through an improvised earth dyke and flooded a large tract of land, rendering 45 poor families homeless. The Missouri and the Kaw rivers here are both higher to-day than at any time since the present flood began, a result of the rise in the Kaw west of here.

King Leaves London.

London, July 16.—King Edward left Victoria station at 11:35 o'clock Tuesday morning for Portsmouth, where he boarded the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, and at 4:20 p. m. the yacht anchored in Cowes. The king was not fatigued by the journey, and his majesty expressed great pleasure at the change.

Death of Gen. Morgan.

New York, July 14.—Gen. Thomas J. Morgan, who has been ill at Yonkers, where he lived, is dead. Gen. Morgan was commissioner of Indian affairs under President Harrison. At the time of his death he was secretary of the Home Mission society of the Baptist church.

Judges Nominated.

Joplin, Mo., July 16.—The following were nominated for judges of the supreme court at the republican convention here: Moses Whybark, of Ballinger; Henry Lamm, of Pettis, and Edward Higbee, of Schuyler.

Now a Permanent Office.

Washington, July 15.—The president has issued a commission to Director Merriam, under the new permanent census law, as director of the census.

Answer It Honestly

ARE THE STATEMENTS OF HOLLAND CITIZENS NOT MORE RELIABLE THAN THOSE OF UTTER STRANGERS?

This is a vital question. It is fraught with interest to Holland. It permits only one answer. It cannot be evaded or ignored. A Holland citizen speaks here. Speaks for the welfare of Holland. A citizen's statement is reliable. An utter stranger's doubtful. Home proof is the best proof.

Mrs. John Kloosterman, two miles from Zeeland, says: "For ten or twelve years I looked in vain for some medicine to free me from distressing kidney complaint. I suffered at intervals during that period with aching pains through the loins, twinges up and down the muscles of my back, irregular and unnatural condition of the kidney secretions and frequent attacks of dizziness."

My son, John Kloosterman a tailor, 133 East Eighth street, Holland, noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in the Holland papers and highly recommended by people who had used them. Thinking that they might help me he procured a supply at J. O. Doesburg's drug store and sent them out to me. I noticed shortly after I commenced the treatment that it was doing me good and as I continued my condition improved. In my estimation Doan's Kidney Pills are by far the best remedy on the market."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

FARM GARDEN

GREAT THINGS.

The Southern Cowpea and Tall Corn From the Philippines.

The following are among the notable things of which mention is made in Rural New Yorker:

The cut shows a single volunteer plant of the Black Renovator cowpea, which grew in the garden of a Pennsylvania farm the past season. The plant completely covered a circle twelve feet in diameter. The stem was three-quarters of an inch in diameter where it entered the ground and was still growing rapidly when taken up Sept. 23. This plant did not come to the blossoming stage owing to the abnormal season. Last year the Black Renovator matured seed on this same ground. The grower says:

"Cowpeas have come to stay at this farm. It was formerly claimed that this plant was of doubtful value this far north (latitude of Cleveland, O.), but our experience has proved the error of such claims. We have grown chiefly the Early Black, but have also tried other varieties, notably Warren's Early and Renovator. On the whole, the Early Black gives as good growth of vines as any. Besides, the seed is much cheaper to buy and much easier to shell if we save our own seed. With us all the varieties mentioned matured seed in 1900."

"Our favorite method in the future will be to mow a portion of our meadow land, say, during the fore part of June, immediately fit the soil and seed to cowpeas, using a small quantity of chemicals. As soon as the vines are frosted plow under and seed to rye, using lime, the rye to be turned under the next spring for potatoes. Soy beans have promise with us. We shall try sowing a mixture of cowpeas and soy beans next season."

A Massachusetts man writes: "June 28, 1896, I sowed cowpeas in a worn-out pasture—light, sandy soil. In October, after several severe frosts, I plowed the peas—a light crop—and sowed rye. In the following spring the rye was plowed in and corn planted, with no manure to speak of. The result was a crop of corn which was a surprise, considering the soil, due to the peas. These were the Black. Since then I have sown cowpeas every year for green manuring and fodder with good results, using the Whip-poorwill, which is smaller, earlier and makes a better growth than the Black. This variety readily matures a crop here in central Massachusetts."

A northern New York correspondent considers cowpeas a grand thing in light, sandy soil and would as soon have a good growth of cowpeas to turn under as the general run of manure, and they are a great deal cheaper.

In New Hampshire, in latitude 43, they made a fine growth and opened seed.

A Long Islander sends The Rural New Yorker a picture of corn on his place 16 feet 6 inches to 18 feet in height. The seed came from Luzon, Philippine Islands, but the corn is said not to grow to that height there. It was planted without any care or cultivation and with an idea that it would not grow on Long Island, not to speak of its enormous height. The corn is red, round, beadlike and very easy to shell. The stalks are very hard and strong, withstanding the winds better than the domestic, regardless of its height. The leaves are long, wide and sweeping.

RESISTANCE TO FROST.

A Study in Strawberries—Nine Strong Varieties.

Throughout a large proportion of the strawberry growing localities light frosts often occur in the late spring, killing a variable percentage of the flowers and recently set fruit of the strawberry. The injury from such frosts appears first in the blackening of the pistils, which occurs within a few hours after the frost. Fruit upon which the pistils have been injured by frost either fails to develop or produces a small berry of irregular form.

On the grounds of the Montana station it was observed that a considerable variation prevailed in the resistant power of different strawberries to frost.

In general it was found that injury to such fruits was confined to the achenes or seeds of the strawberry. The pulpy mass or receptacle was in no case injured, and the surface of the pulp did not become blackened or show any other changes which would indicate injury from the frost. The seeds in varieties which suffered injury were killed by the frost and rapidly showed discoloration and a decomposition of their tissues.

Upon studying thin sections of injured and uninjured strawberries of different varieties at the same immature stages of development it was found that in those varieties which did not suffer from frost the seeds were more deeply imbedded in the substance of the pulp than was the case in those varieties which were injured. In those varieties in which the seeds were so deeply imbedded in the pulp that they were protected from the frost by a layer of tissue the protruding styles or tips of the pistils were killed by the frost, as in the case of varieties where the seeds were also killed. It was noted however, that, although the surface of the berry at first exhibited the blackened tips of styles, the fruit proceeded with its development, and ultimately all trace of the injury disappeared.

In the varieties which were most damaged by the frost the seeds were most exposed upon the surface, and they were least exposed in those varieties which suffered least. In general it was found that a somewhat regular series of gradations prevailed extending from varieties which were uninjured to those which were most damaged.

It was found during this study that nine varieties of strawberries had escaped all injury from the frost. These varieties were Biel, Crescent, General Putnam, Princeton Chief, Parker Earle, Robinson, Stevens, Shuster Gem and Warfield, all of which have the seeds deeply imbedded in the pulp. Varieties with short fruit stalks and long leaf stalks are less liable to injury from late spring frosts from the fact that their flowers are to some extent protected by the foliage.

It may be found upon further investigation that the conditions reported for Montana do not prevail in all localities.

CURING BACON.

Careful Trimming, Scalding and Packing in Straw or Hay.

The hog having been properly fattened and killed and the offal removed, let the carcass hang until the flesh is firm enough to cut well. Cut up as usual. The first point of importance is to carefully trim each piece, using a sharp knife. Make the flesh side as smooth as possible. There is no waste in this, as all the trimmings go to the lard or sausage tubs. As far as possible try to have the surface of lean meat. Rub well and pack down. Use an ounce of saltpeter and three to four pounds of sugar to fifty pounds of salt. Arrange for drainage and cover well with salt.

When well salted, which will be within three or four weeks, according to size of hog, have a kettle of boiling water and immerse each piece in this for about one and a half minutes. This will make a hard crust on the flesh side and will also harden the skin, making it almost impervious to insects, and the scalding will destroy all insects and fermentation germs that may be on the surface. This I consider the second point in importance.

Then hang and smoke thoroughly with hardwood sawdust, if such can be had. Oak of any sort is excellent, because it is rich in pyroligneous acid, which gives to smoke its value as a preservative and also contributes its characteristic flavor to the meat. When sufficiently smoked, scald again, rub with black pepper and pack in boxes with straw or clean, sweet hay, and the meat will keep indefinitely. Hams and shoulders should be salted separately or, as is usually done, placed on the top of the pile.

In the southern part of the state I would stick a knife straight into the joints of the hams and shoulders, letting out the sinuous fluid and filling the hole and joint with salt. I have cured as nice breakfast bacon as any person could wish in the city of Galveston and in midsummer by packing in salt for three days and scalding and smoking in a sugar hogshead. These sides were, when cured, about two inches thick. This meat was cured more by smoke than by salt.

Every farmer is supposed to know how to both salt and smoke bacon. The only points I insist upon as important are the careful trimming, the scalding and the storing in straw or hay. The trimming destroys the favorable hiding and breeding places of deleterious germs, whether animal or vegetable. The scalding destroys all such germs on or near the surface, and packing in straw or hay prevents the entrance of such germs after the curing process is complete and protects the bacon from atmospheric influences, dust and mildew, as well as putrefying germs and destructive insects.—A. A. Pittrick, Texas, in Orange Judd Farmer.

SLEEPY CREEK FOLKS

The last car of the limited express whiskered around the curve and with it disappeared all reminders of the strenuous life. With a sigh of relief the passenger who had just stepped from the train tilted his slouch hat on the back of his head and his face lit up with a smile of pleasure and anticipation as he turned to the countryman who stood by his side watching the disappearing train.

"Well, Mac, how are the folks?" he asked.

"All right, sir, and they will be very glad to see you. The missus has plenty of spring chickens and I've saved you a fine fowl from one of them Berkshires to boil with your greens to-morrow."

"That's bully. Have you any bait, and is the water in condition?"

"Yes, Jake spent the forenoon seining for minnows and got a hundred beauties and the water was never better. Jim Mosely caught eight bass before breakfast this morning."

The two had been walking up the cinder path by the trackside as they talked, and now reached the little group which had gathered about the small station in front of which the forward coaches had stopped. Sleepy Creek wasn't much of a place, just two houses and a small freight shed, painted red, on the platform of which rested an odoriferous bag of fertilizer, two plows and a couple of slabs of "side-meat."

On the ground beside the freight shed was a group of residents, headed by Beg Holliday, who kept the general store and, as the mail pouch swung across his shoulder indicated, also was postmaster.

A chorus of "howdys" and cordial handshakes greeted the passenger's salutation, after which he walked toward the river to get the boat ready, while his guide lingered until the mail was opened. Depositing his grip in the boat he sat in the stern and filled his pipe, and after the first long whiff settled back with a grunt of satisfaction as he took in the scene.

To the eastward Old Broadback stretched away across the landscape, massive and ponderous, his rugged heights touched by the last rays of the departing day, while the shadows already were darkening in the ravines below. To the westward in the gap in the Siding hill, the sun was sinking, clear and red, promising a fine day for the morrow. Up that way the river flowed in a narrow channel of molten gold, rippling to the line of shadow cast by the mountain on the water.

Nearer by the river went deep, silent and dark. With the going down of the sun the air had turned suddenly chill and came flavored with a little tinge of forest smoke that betokened a fire in the mountains. Once the passengers caught a whiff of bacon that was more stimulating to the appetite than a cocktail. Wood smoke, bacon and mountain air form a combination of outdoor odors that once smelled can never be forgotten.

Soon old man Mac came trudging down the path with the mail and his purchases from the store and shoved the boat off. As they rowed across the river they heard some fellow along the towpath singing that quaint country song, "Old Joe Bowers."

From a farmhouse near the river a chorus of frantic squeals and grunts indicated feeding time for the hogs. The jangling of cow bells in several different keys was evidence that Little Hank was getting the cattle in for the night. The odor of bacon in the night air was unmistakable now, and with it came a flavor of coffee and hot bread. The passengers were getting hungry.

The unpretentious frame house on the hillside, just above the river, looked very inviting, with its lights and a little wood fire glowing in the fireplace to keep off the dampness in the night air. Old Mac's daughter was sitting about the room setting the table when the two went in and were greeted by Mrs. Mac and little Hank and the rest of them.

After supper the men folks sat on the porch to smoke, being joined by Jake and Jim Mosely and Pete Hawkins, neighbors, who knew there would be visitors when they saw the limited stop at the station.

It was beautiful out there on the porch. One seemed very much closer the sky than in town. The great arc of the heavens was studded with stars shining brilliantly in the clear mountain air. A whippoorwill's mournful cry came from the dark hillside across the river, while the night sounds of the forest nearer by filled the air.

"Old Mrs. Purdy died this week," said Mac after a pause which had followed a desultory discussion of the prospects of fishing for the next day. They lived out on "The Ridge," just where you turn off the pike to go to Haines' mills.

"We all went to the funeral, of course. She was buried in the graveyard at Mt. Pisgah church, and Parson Welch preached a powerful sermon. Old Man Purdy seemed to kind of lean on me in his hour of tribulation, and I brought him back to his house in my buggy. I wanted him to come home with me, but he said no, so we drove up to his little place all alone, the other folks having turned off at different roads."

"It was late in the afternoon, just before sundown, when the sunshine had that lonesome, melancholy look, you know. The little house looked mighty forlorn, because we knew there was something missing in it. The chickens stood around the back door step, kinder dejected, as if they suspected there was something wrong and that feeding time might be missed. Old Mrs. Purdy's cat was stretched out on the kitchen window sill, and I am sure the critter knew what had happened."

"We went into the back sittin' room. There was old Mrs. Purdy's specs on the table by the window, and one of his socks she was darnin' the night she took to bed. He would allow nobody to touch it when they were settin' up with her. The sickly looking sunshine fell in a square patch on the frayed rug carpet, which Mrs. Purdy had made when she and the old man were a heap younger. I stayed with him until his niece, Sarah Jennings, came over to get him his supper, then I started home."

"As I drove over the hill I looked back and saw Old Man Purdy settin' on the back door step, his head in his hands. The cat was rubbing up against him and the chickens stood around, with their heads cocked up one side, looking at him, but he didn't seem to see them. I reckon he must have been crying."

The passenger knocked the ashes out of his pipe on the porch railing.

"I'm a-goin' to kill them two Berkshire pigs, this fall, that you thought was so purty," said Jim Mosely, breaking the silence.—Washington Star.

AT THE TELEPHONE.

It was between midnight and one o'clock in the morning. Work in the editorial rooms of the Daily Forum was at its height. At desks about the big room a dozen reporters were pounding typewriters at top speed. They were closing up late stories to catch the "first" edition. At the huge round desk in the center of the room five men, with green shades over their eyes, were "reading copy" like mad, sheet after sheet as they finished it being grabbed up by waiting copy boys and carried away to the linotype machines. On a long-distance phone one of the assistant city editors was busy taking off a story from a reporter who had been sent 30 miles into the country on a late train. The night editor, waving a bunch of copy in one hand, was exhorting the night city editor to "get a move on him."

It was the busiest hour in the 24—the 60 minutes into which are crowded the concentrated effort of a strenuous day. The steno-typers, their molten metal sizzling in the pots; the pressmen, their huge two upper story machines trembling with pent-up power; the wagon-men outside, ready to make a wild dash for the early mail trains—all were waiting in nervous anxiety on the work of the men "up-stairs."

Suddenly the telephone bell rings. One of the men on the desk lays down a bunch of copy with a sigh and goes to the phone.

"Well?" he says, as he takes down the receiver, with nervous haste.

"Hello!" says a voice at the other end of the wire. "Is this the Forum office?"

"Yes. What is it?"

"Is 'Charley Edwards' there?"

"No; he's gone home."

"Well, who's this?"

"One of the copy-readers. What do you want?"

"A what?"

"A copy-reader. What do you want?"

"Well, I've never heard of a copy-reader before. Is—"

"Do you want anything?"

"I wanted to speak to Mr. Edwards. I met him once out at the—"

"Can I do anything for you?"

"Why, if Edwards isn't there I suppose maybe you can give us the information we want."

"Well?"

"You're sure Edwards isn't there?"

"Yes. What is it?"

"Well, you see, John Hawley and I took a party of friends to the theater this evening. Say, the show is rotten. Have you seen it?"

"No. What do you want?"

"After the theater we went over for supper to the Artichoke. We're there now. We got into a little dispute awhile ago and Hawley bet me a bottle of wine that he was right. Do you know Hawley? He's the most stubborn man I ever saw."

"Yes. What's the point?"

"Say, Hawley just interrupted me. Wait a minute. Hold the wire—Hawley wants to know how the prize fight came out."

"I don't know. Is that all?"

"No. Hawley and I had a dispute about how tall President McKinley was. I said he was 5 feet 5, and Hawley bet he was 5 feet 7. We agreed to leave it to Edwards. Now—"

"Look it up. You can do it as easily as I can."

Two minutes later the telephone bell rang again. At the moment there were three men from "downstairs" calling for "copy" and only 15 minutes were left before the first edition went to press.

A sad-eyed man answered the phone.

"Hello!" sounded a woman's voice. "I'm sorry to trouble you but I'm writing an essay for the next meeting of our club and I've been sitting up to finish it. I've looked in the back part of the dictionary and everywhere I can think of and I can't find it anywhere."

"Well, what is it?"

"Our general subject is 'The Indirect Influence of the Napoleonic Era on Ecclesiastical Art.' You've no idea how much reading I've done."

"What can I do for you?"

"Why, I want to know just how old Napoleon was when he died and how many days he was ill?"

"Hello! Say, I wish you'd settle a bet for me. What's the private fortune of President Roosevelt?"

Hello! Is there such a thing as a national holiday? I'd like to know right away, please."

Hello! Is this the Forum? All our clocks have stopped or are running wrong. I wish you'd tell me what time it is. Thank you."

"Where's the head of that Waukegan story? Harlow's reading it. It's a wonder he would spend all night at the telephone. Don't he know that we close up at 11:10? Great Scott! He's enough to drive a night editor crazy."

"Hello! Forum office? This is Mrs. Bresten. I've been taking your paper for three years and I have every confidence in it. That's why I'm calling you up now. My little girl, Clara, woke up a few minutes ago and she's extremely hoarse. I'm afraid she's going to have croup. Now, could you tell me the name of a good doctor to call for croup? And if Clara gets worse before the doctor comes can you tell me what I'd better do? I've heard kerosene oil recommended."

"Madam, I'm sorry, but the croup editor has just gone home. Any doctor in your neighborhood would be able to help you."

Hello, Forum! This is Blackly, the attorney. Some time last February I read an article in your paper about some chap that had murdered his great-grandmother. Will you just look it up and mail me a copy? Send me a bill with it, please."

"Hello! Is the sporting editor there? No. I'm sorry, but perhaps you can tell me. We've been playing pingpong all evening and we want to know whether it is true or not that the rules allow only one serve? And after advantage in do you have to win three times to get the game?"

"Say, dis is Devlin's saloon. Did John L. fight Ryan de third time in ten rounds or nif? I got my dough up dat he did an 'I want to know, see?"

"Say, Forum, who beat?"

"Beat what?"

"The boat race."

"Which boat race?"

"The Oxford-Cambridge race."

"It isn't rowed until day after tomorrow."

"Why, is that so? Then I'm mistaken. Awfully sorry to have bothered you."

"Hello, Forum! Hello! I can't hear you. Talk a little louder, please. That's a little better. Now, closer to the phone. Ken. Now, I can hear you. Was the hull of the Shamrock painted blue or white?"

Holland Wins Rubber.

The Ionians came here Saturday to win the deciding game with Holland and so near did they come to accomplishing their purpose that 600 fans were in mortal terror. Not in the first inning however, for then everything looked rosy to Holland. Kangaroo Ver Stay, the serpentine twirler of Grand Rapids was in the box for the visitors and he was thrown so far skyward by the rooters in the first inning that Holland made four runs before he with a portentous thud returned to terra firma. Three of the runs were due to Jim DePree who made the timeliest hit of the season. In the second "Kang" allowed another Hollandite to cross the plate but never more during the game did he allow the trick to be repeated.

Bail was in the box for Holland and kept the game well in hand until the fifth inning when the visitors found him for enough hits to bring in a run, a forced one.

Blanks in the sixth, but fireworks in the seventh netted another run for the red suited bunch of kickers. The signs of the times grew dark for Holland in the ninth. Bail was touched up more freely than he has been touched since he came to Holland and the word "Victory" would have graced the Ionians banner had not the Holland boys given their beloved captain perfect support. Main among the supporters was Bennie Van den Berg whose sensational fielding cut off runs in magnificent style. His work was the best of the year and called from the crowd an ovation.

The game was so close that there is still a question as to which is the stronger team in the minds of the fans and another series will have to be played to settle the question especially so far as the Ionians are concerned for they are loud in their boasts that they can master Holland.

Otsego Here Saturday.

The Otsego team will be here Saturday and the game will be watched with interest by the residents of two counties. Otsego claims the championship of Allegan county and as proof points to decisive victories over the Allegan club. Holland holds the undisputed championship of Otsego county and is after state honors. Therefore the game will be a test whether or not Allegan county stands in the way of Holland's march towards the top of the list of independent teams. Otsego is playing banner ball this year and the fans have the fever in an aggravated form as the following from the Otsego Record shows:

"Otsego has been able to trim Allegan and Kalamazoo and will not allow this year to prove an exception. The stockholders say they must do it to maintain the town's base ball record, and do it they will, and that right speedily as is shown by the reorganization of the team and the unanimous decision to add new men, strengthening the weak points materially. The manager was instructed to 'play ball' and not allow the matter of expense to prevent getting together one of the fastest teams in Southern Michigan."

Sporting News

Buckner, the colored phenom that caused every base ball team in northern Michigan to quaff the bitter cup of defeat during the recent tour of the Greenville team, will be in Holland next Tuesday and Wednesday and while here will hold afternoon sessions with the Holland club in an effort to convince them that he is the greatest pitcher in the state. These two games between two of the fastest independent teams in Michigan will be exciting enough to fill with enthusiasm the most exacting lover of the great national game. Greenville has been sweeping the state in its triumphant march but Holland hopes to be the stone wall that will stop its progress.

Holland 11; Big Rapids 2.

Big Rapids would rather lose its industrial school than be defeated by Holland. It would rather pass through a Mount Pelee eruption than have Van der Hill or Tibald be parties to that defeat, for these young men would be playing with Big Rapids had not Con De Pree held the best hand and won them for Holland. That is why Big Rapids on Wednesday hired the mighty Moore from Thompsonville to pitch against Holland; that is why every fan in the little city with the big name broke a suspender in an effort to aid their team to victory, that is why they roasted Tibald and Van der Hill till the air was blue that is why they put a sign on Van der Hill's back saying that 13 of his kind could be bought for 25 cents.

But all their mad endeavors were in vain. Tibald, every time he was hissed knocked the ball into the river; Tony made three hits and caught like a glugman; Karsten made three hits; Neal Ball pitched winning ball and struck out 14 men; and the entire Holland team played circles all around the hired men that help keep Big Rapids on the map.

The score was Holland, 11; Big Rapids, 2. Errors: Big Rapids, 11; Holland, 2.

Big Rapids Broke up in Business.

Big Rapids was put out of the business yesterday by Holland. For seven innings the Holland boys toyed with the locals and piled up fourteen runs. In the seventh Karsten went a "little wrong" and Big Rapids made five runs. Then something happened that broke up the game and broke up base ball in that town. One man was out and Nobblets was on third trying to sneak home when a fly was knocked to Marshall in right field. It bounded from Marshall's hands and Nobblets ran for home.

But he did not figure on a gentleman named Root who caught the ball as it bounded from Marshall's hand and relayed it to third putting Nobblets out. Tards Ver Schure was umpire and declared that the side was retired. The Big Rapids men agreed with him; but the manager of the team displayed lobsterian tendencies and said he would not allow his men to play unless Nobblets was called safe. "Tards" could find no rule under the sun that would allow him to do that and he declared the game forfeited to Holland by a score of 9 to 0. So disgusted were the Big Rapids fans at the action of the manager and a few of the players that the team has been scattered to the winds and Big Rapids is in mourning.

Fennville shut out the Twin City team yesterday by a score of 18 to 0.

Holland Base Ball Team.

Would you like to hear of our ball team? Well, it is something worth hearing you bet. Praise and victory make their faces beam, but the "swell head" they never get.

Well there's Ball, Cap't of the nine, The crack pitcher with a state-wide fame. There is never a moment, a second of time, That he is not right in the game.

Now look at Tony, the joy and the pride, Stealing to third so sly, And he gets safely home without a slide! For the ball thrown to third passes by.

"Strike two," the umpire loudly called, The crowd is wild, but no suspense, For it is the mighty, invincible Tibald, That lifts the sphere over the fence.

The little lad with the beaming face, Is Fairfield, of whom it is yelled, That in the '9's or on third base, He cannot be excelled.

A ball comes whizzing down to first, "Reach for it, Jimmy," they cry, How often the antagonists have cursed, For "Jimmy" never lets a ball pass by.

With a face all smiles and wreathed with joy, Our Bennie new wields the bat, Although a little left-handed boy, The pitchers find a hard problem at that.

Next in line is the Zealand lad, The stalwart Karsten, so kind, At the bat he is one of the best to be had And in pitching is not far behind.

There's Root, who the bat does not wield, But sometimes pitches quite fine, And out in the center field, Is the best in the nine.

Now the most amusing, jolly sport, Is watching Andrews, who is never still, Andrews the unmatched, wonderful short, Who always stops a ball when he says he will.

The last man who has joined the team, Is Marshall, wonderful at the bat, And while chewing gum, he with the ball, Can perform the juggler act.

Rise, ye fans, Rise, shout and sing, Rise, I say, and make the fence-top ring. "Why," you say, "this about and call!" "Home run, over the south fence goes the ball!"

Sometimes the sky looks awful hazy, To the antagonists and they cannot shout, But the Holland boys get almost crazy When the game ends with another "shot-out."

Now why is it the "maiden" so fair, Shout with excitement, "Get there," When their favorite makes a run Is it his straight manly grace?

His determined, anxious face? "So, Ah, No!" "Well, do they then think it fun?" Again "No," accompanied with scorn, It is because he wears a ball uniform.

Kissed Terrible Terry.

Miss Maybelle Moore who a couple of seasons ago captivated the guests of Hotel Macatawa by her clever dancing when she came here to resort, met with an adventure last Saturday that will interest her friends now sojourning on Macatawa Bay. A dispatch from Atlantic City in the Detroit Journal describes it as follows:

"Miss Maybelle Moore, daughter of W. H. Moore, a Chicago manufacturer, and part owner and leading woman of the Huntley-Moore stock company, was saved from drowning this morning by Terry McGovern, the pugilist. Miss Moore was bathing near Helms pier and McGovern and some friends were swimming near by. She started to swim out to the buoy, a distance of 100 yards. When she neared the buoy she found herself in the undertow and was carried out to sea."

"She called loudly for help, and McGovern swam quickly to her, seized her under the arm and started back for shore."

"Some of Miss Moore's friends got a lifeboat and rowed to the rescue. McGovern and his exhausted companion caught hold of the boat and both were taken ashore."

"When Miss Moore learned who her rescuer was she put her arms around his neck and kissed him."
