The Kitchen is The Heart of the Home

On its successful management depends the health, and therefore, the happiness of the family.

Much has been done during the past 20 yrs. to add to the comfort and beauty of the entire house—with the exception of the most important room—the Kitchen. And yet, it is in that room, devoid of beauty and conveniences, that the real home-maker spends a large share of her time. Her work is drudgery—unnecessarily so. It can be materially lessened by the use of one of our

May Have Saloons

The Common Council met last night as scheduled. There was considerable business of a routine nature which was first transacted.

One of the very important matters that came up was the milk ordinance on its first and second reading. Dr. Mersen made a short explanation of the ordinance and the clerk was instructed to send a printed copy to each one of the aldermen so that it could be thoroughly perused before the next meeting. There is no doubt but that when this ordinance is put on the statute books that other cities will sit up and take notice and as one alderman expressed himself last evening, "What is the sense of our following other cities? Let us be leaders in this highly important matter." One of the main things in this ordinance is that all milk shall be subject to inspection before the peddler goes out instead of while he is making his rounds. Another thing in the ordinance is that the Health Board has authority to look for tubercular cows but that they will, whenever they find such animals, call in the state inspector who will destroy the animals as provided by the state law. This clause was put in for the reason that the owner would then receive compensation for any animal's killed, from the state, while this would not be the case if exterminated by the Board of Health of the city. (A complete copy of the new ordinance will appear in this paper within a few weeks in the official publication of the council proceedings.)

John Vander Veen brought in a bill to the council asking for two months rent. He gives as his reasons that when the city vacated the building that the City Clerk did not turn over to him the keys at the proper time and because this was the case he demands two months rent. The council men properly and promptly turned the matter over to the committee on claims and accounts.

A resolution was adopted last evening to spend $1500 in remodeling Engine House No. 1.

A letter was read by the City clerk containing a proposition from an organization asking the city of Holland to join the association in which standardizing of paving material is the main object. This will save all cities joining the pact considerable money in paving and will insure a higher standard of material. The third annual convention of the organization will be held in New Orleans in January, 1912.

The great question of the evening at last night's council meeting came up when the council went into a committee of the whole and the liquor question took the center of the stage. The sum and substance of the request was a recommendation by the police department and the ordinance committee bringing up for discussion first, that beer be sold in quantities of one pint and whiskey to remain the same as heretofore, being one pint. The second consideration is that the hours be changed from 8 o'clock to 9 o'clock.

This agitation was brought about by the continual notoriety we are now receiving through the state press in regard to our "Jungles" and drinking places where decent men have to congregate in order to drink the amber brew that is prohibited by an ordinance of the city to be consumed at the place of purchase.

Alderman King started the ball rolling as usual explaining in detail the outline of the abuses under the present system. Summing it up in a nutshell, King said that a man who wishes a drink must buy a drunk and that this has been brought about by the "Jungle" system. Alderman Jellema, as the only exponent of the opposite stand said that he did not see where a change in the present system would better conditions in the least. He said, "If you are going to sell it by the bottle why not sell it by the glass?" The people have voted down this proposition on several occasions and for this reason Mr. Jellema was in favor of immediately tableting the whole "smear" as he expressed it.

Then upon a motion of Alderman King, seconded by Alderman Drinkwater it was asked that the police department enforce the state law according to the provisions of the same regarding wholesale houses instead of enforcing the special city ordinance which conflicts with the state law and necessarily cannot hold water. The state law embraces the nine o'clock closing and the single bottle feature asked for by the aldermen of the second ward.

This naturally brought the whole matter up before the council. While the motion was under discussion Alderman Jellema was the only advocate against it and during one of the heated arguments Alderman Drinkwater invited the aldermen to come to his home and watch the basket parade going by in the evening. The Alderman said that within one hour he and other neighbors counted fifty-five baskets each one with a different man attached to it going to the yard where the telephone company has its poles on Central avenue (not the "Jungles") where a high carnival was held.

Alderman King spoke up and said, "If you cut out the basket business and give them the single bottle you'll get rid of the basket clubs and men will simply buy their actual needs instead of buying more than they want or need."

Alderman Mersen who is very much interested in conditions in this city and who can safely be put down as a man who is opposed to liquor based arguments not on fanaticism or hearsay. He has made personal inquiry and has gone into the matter first hand. He said that a liquor dealer told him that at present we have 600 liquor dealers in the city, that the liquor was bought by the basket by individuals and sold by the bottle to others in the "Jungles" and other drinking places and the police are simply powerless to stop this retailing of liquor. Mr. Mersen said that young men under this system had easy access in this way to all the liquor they wished to drink.

After this discussion Mayor Stephan took a hand. He said that this "Jungle" drinking had been on his mind for some time and he wished to investigate thoroughly, first hand. He said he and another gentleman went down to the so-called Jungles on a Saturday evening. The sight he saw there was beyond belief according to his statement last night. "Congregating by the scores were men of all walks of life, not bums, mind you," said the mayor, "but good honest laboring men who are not considered 'drinking men' but who wished their bottle of beer and in order to obtain it were forced to follow this means. Today," continued the mayor, "here is more liquor being sold than when we had ten open saloons. Further if all the bums and heavy drinking men in the city were enumerated they would not total up to a hundred and under this system these men get all they want and the rest of the ten thousand respectable citizens who would ordinarily confine themselves to a bottle of beer are either compelled to go without, take it in their homes, or use the 'Jungle' method." Although, as everyone knows, the mayor is for the strictest liquor legislation yet this system in his mind is radically wrong. He stated his belief to be that thoughtful action should be taken on this matter and that after the subject had been considered from all sides Holland would present some liquor legislation that would be a model for other cities to follow. This legislation should not be accompanied by biased prejudice or fanaticism but good common horse sense.

This question is a great question and this city is not the only city that is trying to solve it.

Aldermanic Comment

Alderman Jellema: "If you see by the bottle there will be a continual drunk all over the city. Men will be carrying the beer around with them in their pockets."

Alderman King: "I have my opinion of the man who can get a drunk out of one bottle of beer."

Alderman Mersen: "I have taken my pastor, with whom I have had considerable argument and scrapping forth and back, around to these places and I think if you ask his opinion on the matter now that you will find it considerably altered."

Alderman Harrington: "I have made up my mind how to vote on this matter but I think it is wise to give the other aldermen ample time to see conditions first hand and then apply the proper method to better them."

Alderman Kammeraad: "I do not like to see the hours changed and will not vote for it; but the condition that exists in the city is deplorable."

Alderman Drinkwater: "If a man wishes to be convinced about this drinking business let him stand on the corner of Seventh and River and watch the continual trail going to the swamp."

Alderman Mersen: "This system gives the liquor to the habitual drinker and shifts out the moderate drinker who is the only man who has any excuse for drinking if there is any excuse at all."

"I know of a city charge who is given one bottle of beer for every basket that he brings to the Jungles from the wholesale houses, because the men that send him feel too respectable to carry the basket themselves."

Three quarters of the aldermen and the mayor expressed themselves that three or four well regulated saloons, screens down, void of gambling devices and opened just as any other trade would be, would be ever so much better than the present condition. The men applying for licenses to conduct such places must be of the highest possible standard in that line of business.

EGG-EATING HENS.

It is extremely disappointing to know that the hens are laying and yet never to get an egg. This is the case when you have egg-eating hens. If you suspect your hens are eating eggs you can easily determine to your satisfaction. Take a china egg (or even a hen egg if you are willing to sacrifice one) and roll it on the floor of the pen before the hens that you suspect. If they are egg-eaters they will, every one of them, make a rush for the egg and pick it vigorously, breaking it if it is a hen egg. If they are not egg-eaters they will regard the egg curiously and will make no effort to eat it unless it is broken, and then any chicken, no matter how innocent previously, will eat eggs.

As for the prevention of this habit, several remedies are offered. Some claim that by throwing several imitation non-breakable eggs on the floor that the fowls, after several days of fruitless pecking at them, will become discouraged and will not break a real egg, even when laid on the floor. This method does not work every time, for some hens are very obstinate and insist on trying to break every egg they see. Darkened nests are excellent to break up this habit. Since the hen can not see the egg, it is impossible for her to break it. Nests with false bottoms, which permit the egg, when laid, to roll down out of the hen's reach, are sure preventives of egg eating, but those eggs that are laid out on the floor exposed to the attack of the whole flock, there is no method of saving except by sacrificing the hen that does the eating. —Atlanta Georgian.

Slagh, a graduate of Hope College and the U. of M., returned home after having spent the last few weeks since the close of the school year camping and fishing in the northern part of the state. The party will visit most of the important places in that part of the country including New York City, Boston, Atlantic City, Baltimore and the national capitol. If Congress is still in session at that time it is the intention of the party to see the national law making body in action. The purpose of the trip is to become acquainted at first hand with the great centers of the country and is also in the nature of a pleasure trip. Mr. Slagh will return to Manistee at the close of the vacation to resume his duties as professor of Latin to which position he was reappointed at a substantial increase in salary.

TURNS HIS BACKYARD INTO GARDEN OF EDEN

INDIGNANT NEIGHBORS HAVE STATEN ISLAND MAN ARRESTED FOR LACK OF CLOTHES.

New York.—A fig leaf fan would have been more appropriate than the palm leaf one over the edge of which Magistrate Marsh peered in the Stapleton (Staten Island) court at a prisoner. Detective Edward Conboy of the Central office stood leveling a forefinger at the culprit, a man of fine appearance, who was plainly nervous.

"This man is Louise C. Gerkin of Eltingville Beach," said Conboy, "and he has the Garden of Eden in his back yard—which isn't right. The neighbors won't stand for it, so I arrested him for disorderly conduct."

In a "Fig Leaf" Suit.

"He cuts the grass, hoes the garden and sprinkles the lawn in a loin cloth, and not another blessed thing does he have on," explained the detective, "and the neighbors are tired twisting their necks to look the other way."

"The garment I wore when this man arrested me was quite sufficient for my needs," testified Gerkin. "I have worn it about my place for five years, and I would be wearing it yet if one of my neighbors had not got sore and made this complaint. Why, people go in swimming right off my beach with nothing on and nobody objects."

Gerkin explained he had rheumatism and was taking the sun and salt air cure with the consent of his wife, whom he described as "a most prudish woman." He admitted the costume wasn't quite the thing for Broadway and for that reason he had moved his domicile to Staten Island.

When the magistrate was shown the garment he said: "I find you guilty and suspend sentence for six months." Gerkin promised to reform his style of dress and hurried home.

MAN FELLED BY WILD GOOSE

St. Louis Hunter in a Blind Is Knocked Senseless by Falling Bird.

St. Louis.—Being knocked senseless by a wild goose is probably not a common experience among hunters, but that is what happened to a St. Louis man. In company with W. C. Reel, a well-known local sportsman, he had built a blind on a sand bar in the Mississippi. The blind consisted of a box buried even with the surface of the bar. A flock of geese came flying overhead and Reel, from his blind, fired into them, killing a large gander. It started to fall and Reel shouted to his companion to get out of the way, but the other hunter was not quick enough. The result was that the falling goose struck him just as he arose to get out of his blind. He was knocked senseless and for some time it seemed that he would not recover, but Reel, an experienced woodsman, finally brought him around by loosening his clothes, throwing water in his face and otherwise applying "first aid to the injured."

Knocked Down by a Wild Goose.

NO CAUSE FOR GREAT ALARM TO TAKE PLANT IMPRESSIONS

Large Number of Defective School Children an Old Phenomenon, Now More Evident.

The enormous number of defective school children should not alarm us too greatly. Bad as it all is, there is plenty of evidence that it is an old, old phenomenon—as old indeed as man himself—but now more evident because there are more people. It is less in rural districts, though still present, and as the population is now largely urban, it is quite natural that the proportion of defectives should increase, though as a matter of fact there is no evidence that it has. Big cities are modern affairs and that is why their phenomena are being discovered, but the accounts of London some centuries ago showed a deplorable number of defectives, probably far greater in proportion than in New York now. Though it is appalling that there should be nearly a quarter million diseased school children, yet the defects are of minor things, while formerly they were severe. The seat of most of the trouble is said to be malnutrition, but it is not nearly so bad as in European cities of the last century. That is, the new facts must not cause undue pessimism, but rather the reverse, for they show that though there is an immense preventive work ahead of us, the progress made in a century or even a half century has been enormous. Optimism is in place, even if we are sure that perfection is unattainable. Moreover, our preventive work is rapidly becoming more and more efficient now that we are learning the exact conditions and their causes.—American Medicine.

OLD-FASHIONED SWEET HERBS

Lavender, Thyme, Rosemary and Others That Give Forth Odors Both Fresh and Invigorating.

I spent most of my schoolday holidays at my grandmother's place, in Yorkshire, England, where many of the customs of Queen Anne's time remain unchanged. So to me lavender and herbs seemed indispensable in a self-respecting household, and, as soon as I owned a garden, they were installed.

At grandmother's sheer muslin bags, filled with lavender, thyme and rosemary, were kept in every cupboard, bureau drawer and chest. Large jars, filled with rose leaves and mignonette, all the herbs and many spices, were stowed in the sitting rooms and halls, the lids were removed for about half an hour each day, after sweeping and dusting were done, so that a faint, indescribable perfume permeated the whole house, and was most delightful.

Even physicians agree that sweet odors are beneficial and valuable as disinfectants. Those who have never experienced the delight of sleeping between sheets redolent of sweet herbs have before them a joy that will not soon be forgotten. Punk sticks and pastilles have a positive odor, pleasing for a time, but it becomes tiresome; herbal odors are fresh and invigorating.—Kate V. St. Maur, in the Woman's Home Companion.

Man and the Crowd.

An address once made by President Schurman to the graduating class at Cornell was an eloquent appeal for the individual against the crowd. "Would you abolish poverty, would you advance civilization?" he asked. "Then educate individuals one by one to be more virtuous, more intelligent, more skillful, more industrious."

Upon the soundness of the plea there will be general agreement. It is but a new statement of the philosophy of Jesus that each man should take care of his own soul. But it is a creed that has been much more successfully taught on lonely farms and pastures than in universities.

Still, the creed is a good one to teach. It can never be taught too often. Better than all laws against vice and crime and folly is an impulse toward self-reform. And perhaps such an impulse was never more needed than now, for never was the voice of the crowd more clamorous nor the influence of the crowd more potent. He that can make sure of his own thought amid its noises is a philosopher. He that can stand against its power is a hero.—New York World.

What Geese Said.

An Englishman hired Kerrigan to attend to his stock farm, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. In the evening he asked Kerrigan if he had fed the stock and what he had given to the geese.

Kerrigan—Two bales of hay, sir.
Englishman—What? Two bales of hay to the geese to eat?

Kerrigan—Yes, sir.
Englishman—And did they eat it?
Kerrigan—No, they did not; but they were all talking about it when I left.

And Women Only Glow.

There are rules to be observed even in expressing one's self concerning the effects of the weather upon one's anatomy. A young Frenchwoman, who was learning English while on tour with an American governess, once inadvertently exclaimed, "Oh, my, I am all of a sweat!" "Made-moiselle," exclaimed the governess, severely, "never let me hear you use that word again! Horses sweat, men perspire. Women only glow."

Two Methods That Result in Pictures Which Closely Resemble Good Steel Engravings.

Here is a way to take impressions of plants which will resemble steel engravings. Two of them, in fact; take your choice.

The first method is to take half a sheet of fine woven paper and cover its surface with sweet oil; let it stand a moment or two, rub off the superfluous oil and hang it in the air. When it is fairly dry, move it slowly over the flame of a candle, lamp or gas burner (caution) until it is quite black, lay the plant or leaf on it, place a clean piece of paper on top and rub equally with the fingers for about half a minute; then take up the plant and place it on the paper on which it is desired to leave an impression. Cover it with a piece of blotting paper and rub as before. The engraving-like impression will then appear.

By the second method, burn a common cork until it is reduced to a powder, add a teaspoonful of olive oil and mix into a thick paste. Next paint the under side of the leaf with a camel's hair brush, lay the leaf carefully, painted side down, upon a piece of clean paper, press it in a book under a strong and even weight for about a quarter of an hour and remove the leaf carefully from the paper. As before, the impression will appear thereon.

SHARP REPORTEE OF GILBERT

Famous Librettist Always Would Get the Better of the Actors at Rehearsals.

Gilbert's facile repartees came in useful at rehearsals. One afternoon a well-known actor had been made to repeat one scene over and over again. When he was told for the forty-seventh time that it was all wrong he stepped down to the footlights and said: "Mr. Gilbert, I must tell you that I'm not a very good tempered man." "No," said Gilbert, "neither am I." "Furthermore," the actor went on, "I'd like to have you know, Mr. Gilbert, that I'm a very strong man." "Well," said Gilbert, "I'm six feet four in my socks, but if you really want to know the difference between us—I am an extremely clever man."

There was another actor who objected to being continually corrected and snapped out: "Look here, Mr. Gilbert; I know my lines." "I know you do," answered Gilbert, "but the trouble is, dear boy, that you don't know mine."

Where Courting Is Dangerous.

Four young men have been shot at Vex (Valais) by an irate father to whose daughter they had come to pay court, says the London Express. They were refused admission to the house, and when they tried to force their way in the father took down his gun and fired. Two of them were slightly wounded and the other two seriously. The father was arrested.

The encounter and its almost tragic ending were due to ancient custom which prevails in the villages of the canton of Valais and in the Alpine hamlets of the German cantons. After a girl has reached the age of eighteen her parents are not surprised to receive the visit of several young men after the day's work to ask to see their daughter and pass a pleasant evening in the family circle. The visit is looked on as a compliment, and as the young men bring with them wines and food they are generally welcomed by the parents. The custom, which is known as Vellée, results in introductions and often in marriages.

A Limited Edition.

Privately printed books constitute a very interesting bypath of literature. One produced by the Prince Consort is a subject of inquiry in the current Notes and Queries. The Court Journal of September 23, 1865, mentions that the Prince Consort made a special study of Balmoral.

By his directions and largely with his assistance a book on the Balmoral country, topographical, botanical, geological, descriptive and reminiscent, was compiled. It was beautifully printed by an eminent London firm, but by the Prince's strict orders only six copies were struck off. Is there a single copy now in existence? The British Museum, the Windsor Library and the Balmoral Library have been searched in vain.—London Chronicle.

Take Your Choice.

"Don't you think, Dr. Fourthly," said his literary parishioner, "that the larger, fuller intellectual life of the present day, with its freedom from the baseless fears and superstitions that have kept the human soul in bondage through the centuries, has been a potent agency in bringing about the demonstrated and well established increase in the average duration of human life?"

"O, yes, to be sure," said the Rev. Dr. Fourthly; "and then people take better care of their teeth nowadays than they used to, you know."

Fickle Popularity.

"You started with the full confidence of your constituents and now you are criticised on every hand." "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "my experience has been very much like that of a man who good-naturedly consents to umpire a ball game."

It does not lie in the wearing qualities, surely not in the style and fit. Former Holland Man Sentenced

A. M. Cosgrove, formerly connected with the local light and water company pleaded guilty in a Grand Haven Justice court to the charge of tapping the city water mains. This charge and plea of guilty was the further development of the water works scandal that was told about in the News last week. Justice Wachs inflicted a fine of $50 with 30 days confinement in jail added. The sentence of the court came as a surprise to the spectators among whom were a number of city officials.

Mr. Cosgrove was not represented by an attorney and the prosecution was handled by Walter L. Lillie, representing Louis H. Osterhouse, prosecuting attorney. Mr. Cosgrove was rather badly broken up by the jail sentence proposition and he immediately announced that he would appeal to the circuit court from the sentence of Justice Wachs. The appeal bond was fixed at $200 which Mr. Cosgrove furnished.

Rural Carriers Elect

At the regular meeting of the Ottawa County Rural Carriers Association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Pres., Anthony Rosbach, Vice-pres., Gerrit Rutgers; Sec., John Brinkman; Treas., Simon DeBoer; all except the last named being re-elected to the same offices they have held during the past year.

It was decided to name two delegates to the state convention which is to be held at Bay City this month, the date of the convention being July 26 and 27. A. Rosbach of Holland and Vernon VanderHeide of Zeeland were named as delegates. This year the National convention is to be held in Milwaukee some time in September. As it is the first time that it has been held near this county it is expected that a good many carriers from this section will go to Milwaukee. Last year the convention was held at Little Rock, Ark.

A QUEEN'S APPETITE.

The Hague, July 12.—Some particulars concerning the commissariat of the palace have leaked out, which go to show that Queen Wilhelmina has the largest appetite among the crowned heads of Europe.

Her majesty has a weakness for lamb and beef steaks cooked in the English fashion. She has no fewer than six meals a day. In the morning she drinks coffee and eats several slices of black bread and butter. The queen breakfasts at 10 o'clock. Warm pastry and cream figure in the breakfast menu. Her majesty also drinks a couple of glasses of sweet red wine. The queen has another meal at 2 o'clock, and at half past 4 tea and sandwiches are served. Her principal meal is at 8 o'clock in the evening. It assumes the dimensions of a banquet. The last meal of the day, composed of wine and biscuits, is taken at 10 o'clock. The prince consort has charge of the wine cellar, which he has filled with the best brands of burgandy, champagne and old tokay. —London Sketch.

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

Probate Judge Thompson of Allegan was somewhat surprised a few weeks ago to receive a letter from John E. Harper, a resident of Knox county, Georgia, in which he declared that several years ago he was "ordinary," probate judge, of his county. He then called attention to the estate of George W. Lewis which was probated here a dozen or more years ago. Mr. Lewis owned considerable property in that county in Georgia and the estate was probated there as well as in Allegan county. It was closed here in due time and in the regular way. Mr. Lewis' heirs in this county were satisfied and nothing more had been thought of it since the final accounting was made. The letter said: "I am somewhat chagrined to tell you that when I closed that estate, $200 was kept out of it. I am getting old now and am not very well, and I want to straighten that matter up." He went on to say that if possible he wished Judge Thompson to find the heirs and reopen the estate; that he wished to pay the money to them with interest at ten per cent. compounded annually. Mr. Thompson answered the letter and looked up the heirs. Mrs. Ella E. Hazlit of Wayland is one of them, and David Stockdale was administrator of the estate of Mr. Lewis. Mr. Harper evidently became anxious about the matter for, in about ten days he wrote Judge Thompson a second letter asking what he had done in the matter. Soon after a third letter came urging haste. Finally the estate was reopened and Mr. Harper notified. It was but a few days after his notice that he sent Judge Thompson a check for $645 and expressed thanks for the very satisfactory culmination of the case. He had evidently cleared his conscience. This event reminds of the experience Mr. Ira Chichester, father of F. I. Chichester of Allegan one time had with a distant relative of his. He came to the Chichester home here many years ago, rather unexpectedly and was without means of any great amount. He stayed a few days and then left for the east where he lived. When he was about to depart he arranged with Mr. Chichester for a loan of $40 and he borrowed a little gray, woolen shawl, such as many men wore over their shoulders in those days. A good many years afterward Mr. Chichester received a letter from a London attorney. He had forgotten about the money and the shawl. The letter said the writer represented a wealthy and influential gentleman of that city who had directed him to make inquiry about the value of a certain shawl borrowed from Mr. Chichester by a distant relative a few years previous. Mr. Chichester regarded the letter lightly, but answered after a time, placing a value upon the garment and in return received a check for more than $200 in payment of the whole debt.

DEATHS.

Badger officiating.

Sterilizing Liquids.

Perfect sterilization of liquids by means of filtration only seems to be made possible on a large scale through a process originated by two French scientists and reported to the Academy of Scientists at a recent meeting. It is known that membranes of collodion have the property of retaining all the microbes in a liquid filtered through them. But they are very fragile and therefore impractical outside of the laboratory. By re-enforcing the collodion membrane with a fine wire screen imbedded in it, just as a pane of glass is thus re-enforced, the two scientists constructed a filter not only strong enough for practical purposes but so effective as to exclude even molecules of salts dissolved in the liquid.

Over sixty citizens of Holland paid their dollars Friday morning to the board of public works for failure to obey the order made by the board relative to the hours for sprinkling. A few of the disobedient ones were inclined to make a fuss over the result of their own laxity but nearly all accepted the fine in the spirit in which it was levied and paid up without murmur.

At a meeting of the creditors and their representatives of the Van Motor Works, held in Grand Haven, C. M. Frost of Jackson was instructed to apply to the United States court at Grand Rapids for appointment as receiver of the company. Mr. Frost held the assignment of about $12,000 worth of claims against the company. Representatives to the number of about half a dozen were present at the meeting. It is the intention at present to start the plant, if possible, after the formal appointment of the receiver by the court, and to continue to turn out cars if proper arrangements can be made for so doing. A number of unfinished cars are at present in the shop, and it may be possible to finish them up and dispose of them. Mr. Frost is now the heaviest creditor and it is very likely that he will be officially appointed receiver by the proceedings of the court.

To clean up the "Jungles" at Waverly is the purpose of the Ottawa county officials and receiving the assistance and co-operation of the residents in that neighborhood, they expect their purpose to be quite easily accomplished. Since the recent murder in that locality a determined attitude has been taken by the officials and it will not be long before the hoboes will be glad to give Waverly a wide berth. The means to the end sought will be to make the "Jungle" less attractive as a haven of rest and to send every hobo caught there to jail. It is an essential part of a hobo's life that he spend the "good old summertime" out of doors and a few jail sentences will doubtless serve as an example to other weary ones. Otto C. Van Dijk 26 W. Eighteenth St., Holland, Mich., says: "I can say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the most reliable kidney remedy on the market today. A short time ago I was suddenly taken with a sharp pain in the small of my back. I did not pay much attention to the trouble at first, but it gradually grew worse and my condition became so bad I was unable to walk. When a member of my family with excellent results advised me to try them, I procured a box at Geo. L. Lage's Drug Store and I had taken only a few doses before the pains were greatly lessened. My family who had used Doan's Kidney Pills continued using this remedy and gradually improved until I received a complete cure. I attribute my present good health entirely to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Arrests are coming in thick and fast now since the motor cycle is in good running order. The police force is determined to put a stop to speeding of autos and it looks as if they will be successful if the present rate of arrests continues. Beside the $10.00 fine recently paid by Mr. Wiggers, a like sum has been collected from Mayo Hadden for violating the speed law. THESE ARE YOUR ANCESTORS

When One Considers Their Vast Number Pride of Descent Seems Very Foolish.

Are you proud of your ancestors? Of how many of them?

Since the beginning of the Christian era—a mere 1911 years—you have had 139,235,017,489,534,976 ancestors. Imagine, if you can, how many persons were needed since the beginning of the world to bring you forth—you, who are reading this now. It works the other way, too. If a single couple had started 5,000 years ago to populate the world, and everybody had grown to maturity and married at the age of 21, the earth's population would be 2,199,915, followed by 144 ciphers. However, this world would not hold them all; it would not be large enough to give all these people breathing space the size of the world would have to be multiplied by 3,166,528, followed by 125 ciphers. That is the only way in which these enormous numbers can be expressed.

How futile, then, is ancestor worship! Every one of us, high or low, has had in his ancestry kings and peasants, criminals and saints; it is almost impossible to name any one of one's own race to whom one cannot prove in some way a remote relationship.

NOT UP TO EXPECTATIONS

Mankind and the World Frequently Disappointing to Hopeful Youth, Says Theodore Parker.

I suppose many of us are a little disappointed with mankind. The world of the girl's dream is not the world of the young woman's actual sight and touch, and still less is it so of the woman no longer young. In the moonlight of dreamy youth, as we look out of the windows and rejoice in the blooming apple trees, how different does the world seem from what we find it the next day, when in the heat of a May sun, we go about and remove the caterpillars from the scrubby trees. A boy bred in a wealthy family in a little village, secluded from the eyes of man, filling his consciousness with nature and the reflection of human life which deep poems and this great magnificent Bible and other religious books mirror down into his own soul, goes out into the world, and finds things very different from what they appeared when seen through the windows of the home which his father's and mother's affection colored with the rose and violet of their own nature.—Theodore Parker.

Rank Materialists.

In their outlook on life most Chinese are rank materialists, says a writer in the Century. They play the stranger with questions as to his income, his means, the cost of his belongings. They cannily offer paper money instead of real money at the graves of their dead, and sacrifice paper images of the valuables that once were burned in the funeral pyre.

Yet no one who comes into close touch with the Chinese deems this utilitarianism a race trait. They are, in fact, capable of the highest idealism. Among the few who have come near to the thought of Buddha or Jesus one finds faces saintlike in their depth of spirituality. The materialism is imposed by hard economic conditions. It is the product of an age long anxiety about tomorrow's rice and is not to be counteracted by the influence of the petty lift them above sordid anxieties.

Remorse.

An agent in a flourishing western town writes as follows regarding pangs of conscience experienced by a former loss claimant. The claimant's method of easing his mind is unique and possesses the advantage of economy. The letter is as follows:

"We had a call this day from the Rev. _____, formerly of this city, who had a loss with you in 1892. He wanted to know the amount paid him on the loss, which he thinks was only a paint damage of from $12 to $14. He now concludes that it might not have been right for him to have accepted the money for the painting, as he says the building really needed painting at the time. He would now like to have the payment which was made him considered a donation from you."

BETRAYS HERSELF BY PAINTING HOOF

MRS. BERRY'S RUDE TO ESCAPE OFFICERS BY DECORATING FOOT HASTENS ARREST.

WOMAN ADMITS TWO THEFTS

Makes Stolen Horse Resemble One Sought by Sleuths—Tells Sheriff She Needed Money to Pay Mortgage on Her Farm.

Columbus, O.—Her artistic effort to conceal the identity of a horse she had stolen in Dayton, caused the arrest of Mrs. Rosa Berry, alleged leader of a gang of horse thieves. She declares the allegation is nonsense for she stole the horse simply because she needed an animal on her farm and lacked the cash to purchase one. In her cell in the jail in Marion she declares she is willing to pay the penalty of her crime but feels bad to think she ever stooped to so low a crime.

Mrs. Berry went to Marion and hired a $400 horse and buggy from Jim Squires. She drove that outfit to Muncie and to Richmond, where she sold it for $75. She took an Interurban car to Dayton, and in that city hired another $300 horse and buggy. The horse she got at Dayton had one white foot and Mrs. Berry painted out the white foot and made the horse a dark bay. That bit of painting was her undoing, for when she changed the color of the Dayton horse she caused it to be an exact likeness of the Marion horse, which was advertised all over the country and for which the horse-thief detective associations were looking. She was arrested because she had a horse of the description of the horse stolen from Jim Squires, and then it was learned that the horse she had was stolen at Dayton.

"I know they have had a great deal to say about me," said Mrs. Berry. "but this is the first crime I ever committed. I have not been mixed up with any horse-stealing gang. I took the horse at Marion and sold it because I needed the money to pay debts, and I took the Dayton horse because I needed an animal to work on my farm and did not have the money to buy one. That is all there is to it. I never stole any horse any more."

where else, and if I had not been so desperate for money I would not have stolen these."

Mrs. Berry says she is 48 years old. "My father and mother were artists," she says, "and lived in the town of West Decorah, Ia., where I was born. From there we moved to Waukegan, Mich. Later my parents went to Ohio and we lived in different parts of that state. I took naturally to painting and drawing, and before I was 18 years old I won a number of prizes at the Ohio state fair, held at Columbus. I was graduated with honors at the Delaware Female Academy of Painting and I made a good deal of money with my brush. I married William Berry, who was also an artist, and we lived together for a number of years and were happy."

"My brother got into trouble over some horses and cattle and was sent to the penitentiary, and was out on parole when Tony George arrested him for horse stealing. It took about all the money I had to try to save him, and with what I had left I bought a little farm near Vista, not far from Goshen. I was in debt. I had a lot of paintings ready for the market, but I could not get any money. Even those who had ordered my work did not pay for it, and I simply got desperate."

Paid Up After 65 Years.
Long Beach, Cal.—Col. Jacob I. Hill did some surveying, 65 years ago in Randolph county, W. Va., and has just received a check for $125 in payment for his services. The work was done on the See estate and the heirs took the settlement of the estate into court, where it has been for many years.

CHRISTMAS DAY OF "DEVIL"

Printer's Lad, Waiting for Copy From Masson, Spent Holiday in the Author's House.

It happened that sad Christmas tide of 1863, when Thackeray lay dead and all the London papers were busy with his name, my father received a hurried little note from Edward Levy—after Levy Lawson, the present Lord Burnham—asking him to write the article for the Daily Telegraph on Thackeray's death. I found the note not long ago among some papers. It was dated "December 25, 1863," and asked my father to "do for us today a leader on the present condition of English literature apropos of the death of Thackeray." And there was a postscript: "The bearer will walk about the country till you tell him to return for copy."

The story of that little printer's devil and how he spent his Christmas day in our house in Finchley road has been handed down in the family annals. He may, in obedience to his employer, have taken a little walk about the wintry Hampstead or Kilburn fields, but he most certainly and sensibly came back to eat his Christmas dinner; I believe he was with us all day. It must have been quite late at night when the parlor maid, so the story goes, looked into the study with a rather scared face and whispered to my mother: "Please, ma'am, the devil has been sitting by the kitchen fire the whole evening and cook says hadn't she better give him a hot supper now?"—Miss Flora Masson in Cornhill Magazine.

LIGHTHOUSE HAS NO KEEPER

Volcano on San Salvador Whose Flashes of Light Come Regularly Every Seven Minutes.

"What do you think of a perpetual lighthouse, needing no keeper, and yet as regular in its flashes of light as one maintained by the government?" asked Albert D. Van Wyck, a globe trotter, at the Raleigh.

"This natural light never fails, and that means much for navigation. It is a volcano on the island of San Salvador. This volcanic lighthouse is about eight miles inland from the port of Acapulco. It is a veritable pillar of cloud by day, and the flash of its light by night has been valuable to mariners for years. It can be seen far out at sea, and a burst of flame has gone upward every seven minutes, without the variation of a second, for many years."

"The few visitors who stop at San Salvador amuse themselves the first few days by holding their watches and timing the outburst of flame. "A lighthouse fee is collected of all vessels that put in at the harbor nearest the volcano, and no skipper objects. He knows that the volcano is more reliable than the lighthouses kept by human beings on other coasts, and the novelty of the light is worth the price charged by the government. There is the usual detonation caused by the eruption every seven minutes, and the ground is shaken, but, after a short sojourn on the island you fail to notice it, and would be the more shocked if it did not occur."—Washington Post.

Where David Copperfield Was Written

"Bleak House" at Broadstairs, England, which has failed to find a purchaser, is of interest to the Dickens lover because the greater part of "David Copperfield" was written there. But it is not the "Bleak House" of the novel, which is definitely located in Hertfordshire. The novelist and his family appear to have been somewhat tightly packed in their Broadstairs home. When Lord Carlisle contemplated paying a visit to "Our watering place" in 1851, Dickens wrote promising him the North Foreland Lighthouse for a night light in his bedroom, and he continues: "As we think of putting mignonette boxes outside the windows for the younger children to sleep in by and by, I am afraid we should give your servant the cramp if we hardly undertook to lodge him." During the last few years the house has been transformed out of all recognition.

Great Saving of Time.

The manager of one of the electric light companies of the western part of the country has greatly facilitated the business of making the monthly readings of meters by having these instruments placed on the rear porches of houses instead of in the cellars. About half of the meters of this company are now located in some convenient and protected place in the rear of the house, where it is always accessible without regard to the presence or absence of the inmates of the house. The result is that the average time formerly consumed by the inspector has been cut about in half.

The Kind.

"I have a new vacuum cleaning proposition and I'm trying to find some financial backing to put it on the market. What kind of a capitalist would you suggest as best to approach?"

"Why not try a sucker with the dust?"

A Warning Heeded.
"I once heard your wife recite 'Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight,'" said the remonstrant friend.

"Yes," responded Mr. Meekton, with a smile of confident approval. "And I take notice that the curfew has gone out of business."

DIGNIFIED ROOSTER GETS ON A DRUNK

RUM DEMON CAUSES THE IGNOMINIOUS OVERTHROW OF A STATELY "DEACON."

FINDS FERMENTED CHERRIES

Boss of Barnyard at First Warns Flock to Pass Temptation, but When Giddy Young Pullet Dares Him, Downfall Comes.

Salville, N. Y.—Chantecler, the prize rooster of Mrs. Acton W. Smith, is in disgrace. Chantecler is of aristocratic Plymouth Rock descent, the egg from which the American branch of his family sprang, having come over in the Mayflower, and until recently he was prominent in the Young Men-Chickens' association and a leader in all the social activities of the Smith barnyard. The younger cockerels called him "Deacon" when he was out of earshot, but from the widowed hens and marriageable pullets he always received the most considerate treatment.

The Deacon was a dignified bird, with a tall eight inches long and feathers four inches thick all over him. The whole barnyard fell to silence when he cleared his throat, deacon fashion, before he crowed.

It was the rum demon that overthrew the Deacon—the rum demon and a woman. He is not the only deacon who has—

But, as Mr. Kipling would say, that is another story—several others.

Mrs. Smith had a number of cans of cherries that had begun to ferment. She had them thrown out of the cellar and behind the barn. The chickens gathered around and looked at them. It seemed as if they might be good to eat. But it always has been etiquette in the Smith barnyard to refrain from eating any new thing until the Deacon passed upon its edibility.

"Deacon" on a Drunk.

ity from hygienic and moral standpoint. The Deacon, with every eye turned upon him, solemnly regarded the cherries. He had never seen anything like them before, but he looked wise and thoughtful for several minutes.

"No one," he said, finally, "no one who cares to keep my regard—especially no member of the Young Men-Chickens' association—will debase himself or herself by partaking of that stuff."

Sadly the rest of them turned and walked away. The cherries had looked inviting. The Deacon lingered. If he had not lingered, this history of his downfall had never been written. While he looked at the enemy a young pullet from a neighboring farm, a giddy thing, with hobbles feathers and a most unwholesome breadth of comb, came mincing up to him.

"You are afraid of it," she mocked. The Deacon maintained his dignity. Who was this silly female that she should affect to be able to tempt him? Still, there was something about the cut of her wing feathers and the way she walked and carried her head that was very fetching.

"You might offer a lady a cocktail," said the giddy young pullet, smirking at him. The Deacon passed over her pun as beneath his dignity. But he was a broad-minded rooster. Because he disapproved of fermented cherries himself was no reason he should fail in courtesy and be rude to a guest in the barnyard, even an uninvited guest. He gingerly picked up a soaked and fermenting cherry, dripping with alcoholic juice and handed it to her with his bill.

Heads!

He had never tasted anything like that before in his life.

Was it possible that the rum demon had its good points, after all?

In twenty minutes there was not a cherry to be seen. He and the young pullet—that bold, unwholy thing—flushed them together.

Later a drunken, red-combed, staggering, debauched, blowsy, frowsy, disreputable, leering rooster, lurching and reeled into the barnyard, cackling out silly jokes, daring staid old hens to fight, singing ribald songs in the very spot where he had often led the Young Men-Chickens' association meeting, and finally collapsing in sodden slumber upon a pile of straw.

A GODLY YOUNG KING
II Chronicles 34:1-13—July 23
"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth"—Eccles. 12:1.

KING MANASSEH of our last lesson had a bad son, Amon, who reigned but two years, and was murdered by his courtiers in his own palace. His son, Josiah, the central figure of today's study, became king in his eighth year. By the time he was sixteen his heart had begun to seek after and to desire to serve the Almighty God. By the time he was twenty his religious convictions were so deep and fixed, and his authority as a king so in his own hands that he dared to begin the work of reformation. The idols and their temples and groves for idolatrous worship were destroyed. The valley of Hinnom, as already suggested, was desecrated and made a dumping-place for the offal of Jerusalem.

The temple of the Lord was repaired and cleansed of all its idolatrous defilements and worship and praise therein to the Almighty was restored. More than this, the king extended his influence for the destruction of idolatry into what was once the territory of the ten tribes, north of his kingdom.

The Wrong Way.

Mistake to Assume That Wild Oats Must First Be Sown

What a force there is in our text, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth!" What a great mistake some parents make in assuming that their children must have an experience in "sowing wild oats" before they will be prepared to appreciate righteousness and become its servants! This thought is reflected upon the minds of the young, both male and female; rarely do they seek to live by a higher standard than that expected of them by their parents or guardians. We have known salutary mothers to unintentionally lay snares for the feet of their children by introducing them to ways of the world in which they themselves would not walk. Their expressed sentiment was, "I must not put upon these children the weight of the cross, nor expect of them sainthood; if ever they become truly consecrated saints of God they will then know the trials of the 'narrow way' and have plenty of them."

Alas! such Christian mothers have failed to grasp the situation properly. They have failed to realize that, at the present time, there is no real happiness in the world except in the "narrow way."

A Certain Simplicity and Honesty in the Mind of Every Child

Of the few who do find the narrow way after having walked in the broad road their plaint is, "Oh, why did I not earlier find the way of the Lord, the way of Truth, joy, peace and happiness!"

Notwithstanding the depravity with which all are born, there appears to be a certain simplicity and honesty in the mind of every child. It is that principle which must be used by teachers and helpers in general, if the child is led in the right way by which he would most quickly attain a relationship and harmony with his Creator;

nor is it necessary always that there shall be a preceptor. At times, under God's providence, the message from on High reaches the heart and draws it with seemingly little resistance. The hollowiness of life is perceived, the need of wisdom from on High is recognized, and perhaps by the servant, perhaps through parental instruction, perhaps through the counsels of a friend, perhaps by a tract or a book, the young heart is shown the way of wisdom and is pointed to the Lord.

We are to remember that the will is the real director of our destiny, under Divine providence, and that it is all-important to have the will rightly directed and established. Many a one is in the broad road of sin and selfishness—away from God today—who has in his makeup many good qualities entirely out of sympathy with his position and course in life. But without the will to guide, to lead he goes downward. Similarly, there are some on the narrow way who have many physical, mental and moral blemishes of heredity continually drawing them toward the broad road, but who are kept in the narrow way of the Lord, not by the self-will of the flesh, but by the power of a renewed will. How important, then, the proper directing and fixing of our wills in youth! How much greater blessings we may enjoy in the present life, and how much more adequate preparation we may thereby have for the future life!

King Josiah of today's study is an example of the proper course for every young person to take. First of all, the heart should be given to the Lord in the days of youth, before the evil days and evil experiences have come; before one shall have learned so much of evil that the remainder of life would not suffice to eradicate it.

A daring attempt at burglary was made late on Tuesday evening at the store of Messrs. P. & A. Steketee, and but for the timely discovery by the young Piet Bram, who sleeps in the store, might have resulted in a more serious loss. As he was about to unlock the door to go into the store, he noticed one of the lights was broken and at the same time a man hidden behind an empty dry goods box. The man started and Piet after him. He arrested him near the Etna House, took him back to the store and sent after the marshal, who placed him in the lock-up. Upon examination the money drawer was found on the floor and what little change there was usually left, had of course been transferred. A panel in the back door was nearly cut out; but aside from this nothing was missing. The arrested party had another coat with him besides his own. Suspicion was at once fixed upon a trio that had been, "tramping" through the town that day, and through the efforts of Messrs. P. Koning, C. Blom and Chas. Odell the other two were caught during the day. They are now secured in the county jail, awaiting the return of Prosecuting Attorney Adsit, when their examination will take place sometime next week.

The schooner Jose of Holland was run into on Sunday morning last in Chicago harbor, between Wells and Lake Street bridges, by the steam barge John B. Lyons. The Jose lost her bowsprit and jibboom, some stanchions; burst her plankshear, and carried away her headgear. The damage is estimated at about $500, which the steam barge will have to pay. Part of the crew had been paid off, while she is being repaired, and some of them are home on a visit. Later, while the schooner Jose was lying in Ogden Canal a squall came along and took out her foremast on Wednesday.

Holland will have another flour mill within 60 days. W. H. Beach of this city and James Cook of Zeeland have purchased the property of the Zeeland Milling Co. at Zeeland. The transfer places these men in control of the entire flour milling interests of that village, including two large finely equipped mills. It is the intention of Messrs. Beach and Cook to dismantle the old mill at Zeeland, move the building on the ground now occupied by the new mill and bring the machinery to this city where a new mill will be erected near the Pere Marquette siding adjoining the elevators of W. H. Beach & Co.

It will be of brick and stone 50x350 feet, and will be built between 15th and 16th streets south of the Holland Sugar factory.

A WORD WITH WOMEN.

Valuable Advice for Holland Readers.
Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter. It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." When the kidneys get congested and inflamed, there are many such aches and pains and the whole body suffers. You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. They can't get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have brought sound backs and new life and strength to thousands of suffering women. They are endorsed by thousands—endorsed at home. Read this Holland woman's convincing statement:
Mrs. E. Van Den Tak, 243 E. Eleventh St., Holland, Mich., says: "I have been so greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills that I am pleased to recommend them. I suffered for a long time from ma dull, nagging backache and in the morning on arising I was so stiff and lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift. I always felt tired and had but little strength or energy. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a box from J. C. Doesburg's Drug Store and soon after I began their use, they had driven away my trouble. I can now rest well and I do not have those dull pains in my back."

To whom it may concern:
Be it known, that on the 8th day of June A. D. 1911, an application was filed with Edwin Fellows, County Drain Commissioner of the County of Ottawa, for the locating and establishing of a certain drain, which said drain was described in said application as follows, to wit: Commencing at a point on side of highway, and about 30 rods east of northwest corner of Section 26, Town 5, north of range 16, west, where a certain creek crosses said highway, thence east along south side of highway about 40 rods where said drain crosses said highway to the north side of said highway, thence east to east line of a highway running north and south on one-fourth Sec. line Sec. 23 Town 5, North of range 16 west, thence north along east side of said highway, about 30 rods thence due east to east line of west one half of southeast one fourth, Section 23, thence north on said line to where it intersects and old drain, thence northeasterly in said drain about 60 rods, thence due north about 60 rods thence east to east line of Section 23, Town 5, north of range 16 west, said drain to be 4 feet in the bottom at outlet, that said drain will traverse the township of Holland.

Be it further known, that on the 21st day of July, A. D. 1911, a meeting of the township board of the township of Holland will be held at Luke J. Valing at nine o'clock in the forenoon for the purpose of determining whether or not the said proposed drain is necessary and conducive to public health, convenience and welfare; and at such meeting all persons owning lands liable to assessments for benefits, or whose lands will be crossed by said drain may appear for or against said drain proceedings.

Given under my hand this 10th day of July, A. D. 1911.

A Charming Woman

is one who is lovely in face, form, mind and temper. But its hard for a woman to be charming without health. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood;
give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion and perfect health. Try

HERMIT AND ARTIST IN WEIRD WEDDING

DYNAMITE BLASTS AND INCENSE OF BURNED CEDAR BERRIES USED IN CEREMONY.

CUT OUT "HONOR AND OBEY"

John Otto and Miss Farnham Made
One Before Rock-Hewn Altar on Ledge 100 Feet High—Devise Second Ceremony.

Grand Junction, Colo.—With weird and picturesque ceremony, preceded by a wedding banquet, cooked and served by the bride, and followed by a series of dynamite salutes to his bride and the American flag, Miss Beatrice Farnham, the Boston artist and sculptress, was married to John Otto, the trail builder, in the mountain fastnesses of Monument canon.

Out of deference to the minister, the plans for marriage on top of Independence rock were abandoned, and the ceremony was performed on Grand ledge, 100 feet high. The Rev.
F. A. Hatch, Congregational minister at Fruita, officiated and there were half a dozen invited guests.

The bride and bridegroom stood before an altar which they had fashioned from quartz and granite, under an arch of evergreen. In the rock the bride had carved the words "Truth, Honor, Love and Justice."

The usual ring service was used,
but the clergyman omitted the words
"honor and obey" from his questions to Miss Farnham, because of Otto's declaration that he did not believe in that part of the ceremony.

"What is the use of making women promise to honor and obey," he said,
"when they don't have any intention of doing it. Half of the marriages performed simply force the woman to

He and I don't want my wife to make any promises she can't keep, for only so long as love lasts can marriage endure."

The marriage was solemnized by a double ceremony. To comply with the laws of the country, Otto secured a marriage license and was duly wedded by Rev. F. A. Hatch. The legal ceremony, to the mind of Otto, a professed atheist, and Miss Farnham, a free thinker, was not sufficient to "bind them in the holy bonds of wedlock," hence following the words which made them man and wife in the eyes of the law and the public at large, they climbed to the top of Independence monument, 550 feet high, by a fragile ladder of iron spikes, and went through a fantastic ceremony of their own. They were alone on the top of the pinnacle and to the few spectators on the ground their actions could not be plainly seen.

It had been their plan from the first to have both ceremonies performed on the top of the monument, but no minister or justice of the peace could be secured in any part of Mesa county who would risk his life in this task for love or money.

Following the ceremony Otto burned incense to his wife in the form of cedar berries, which he sprinkled on the camp fire. Then the bride and groom together planted a young spruce tree, which they designated as their witness tree, and declared would grow as long as their love lasted.

was sinking for the second time when watery grave at great peril. He had to fight the drowning boy off until he got him by the hair, and then hauled him to safety.

tend the ordination of her affianced

BOY PUTS HIS FOOT IN PRESIDENT'S SOUP

Real frontier days will be portrayed at Jenison Park Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week when Lucille Mulhall & Co., will present their Western Skit "Cheyenne Days." The act consists of three people and four horses and is a complete wild west show in itself. Lucille Mulhall born and bred on an Oklahoma Ranch near the famous Miller Bros. "101 Ranch" at Ponca City is the champion lady rider and roper of the world. Miss Mulhall whose father is an old time partner of Col. W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) was formerly with Buffalo Bills Show. Arthur Bode, a native of Wyoming is the world's champion roper, rope spinner and a rider of no mean importance. Otto Kline who holds the title of "Broncho Buster" will pull off some stunts on a bucking broncho which will make you sit up and take notice. The company also present beside their exhibition of their skill a little playlet in which a "cattle rustler" plays a leading part which is very exciting and novel. This attraction will be used as a free out-door act by the park management and will take place twice daily at 3:30 and 8:30 p. m.

SPORTS.

The Holland Independents were defeated by Fennville Saturday afternoon in the latter town by a 11 to 10 score in a game that went ten innings. Hadden and Vik formed the local battery; Morse and Morse were in the points for Fennville.

Bennie Batema, who has been playing at short for Boyne City since his release from the Holland team some time ago, has received his release from the Boyne City team and is back in Holland. Batema has been hitting at a lively clip but his fielding percentage has been at too low a figure to give perfect satisfaction.

Friday afternoon the plumbers beat the carpenters by a score of 12 to 7. The line-up was as follows: Carpenters—Smith, c; H. Verhuis, p; W. Dieters, 1b; Dyke, 2b; Brat, ss; Mulder, 3b; Bremer, lf; Bomers, cf; J. Verhuis, rf. The Plumbers—Burgess, c; Enstrom, p; Thompson, 1b; Verschure, 2b; Damstra, ss; Steketee, 3b; Woldring, lf; Knoll, cf; D. Steketee, rf.

Slocum, pitcher for the locals, has been released by Manager Dickerson. Bales of East Liverpool, Pa., and "Snapper" Schaefer are the latest acquisition to the local twirling staff. Saturday afternoon the South End Independents won from the Beauty & Co. team of Grand Haven on the Jenison Park grounds by a score of 7 to 5. The batteries were: Brouwer and Rowan for Holland; De Ryke and Scott for Grand Haven.

Muskegon is rejoicing in the acquisition of Johnny Levan who was released so that club some time ago. He will stop the short fast ones for that team and Erickson will be released. Short stop was the one weak spot in the Speed Boys' line up and that is why the Muskegon fans are glad.

ST. LOUIS HUSBAND
QUITS A NEGRO WIFE

SEEKS TO ANNUL MARRIAGE
WHEN WOMAN'S LINEAGE IS KNOWN—CLOUDS CRADLE.

St. Louis, Mo.—Declaring his son's wife has negro blood in her veins, Owen L. Collins has filed suit for the annulment of their marriage. Young Collins, who is only 20 years of age, left the woman as soon as he learned the accusation against the Clamorgan family, of which she is a member. Mrs. Collins declares she will keep their baby and will fight the case to the last resort. The laws of Missouri provide that any marriage between a white person and one with one-eighth or more negro blood is unlawful.

For four years the family of Louis P. Clamorgan, for years a city employe, has been prominent in Maplewood and Ellendale social circles. The five daughters were accomplished musicians, and the son an athlete as well as leader of a coterie known as the Riverside Park set. The son is said to have courted a white girl in Maplewood, while one daughter, Blanche, who is a reader in the Christian Science church at Maplewood, is betrothed to a white man, who declares he will not break off the engagement because of developments. The elder Clamorgans are college graduates. The father and mother have both stoutly maintained that they are descendants from a Spanish nobleman. This accounted satisfactorily enough for the unusually dark complexion of the Clamorgan girl, and for their wavy hair, which bears but little resemblance to the "kinky" hair of the full-blooded negro.

Heredity, atavism, the reappearance of racial characteristics after even more than two or three generations, all have part in this remarkable case. White as she looks, Mrs. Clamorgan's maiden name was McDougal, and she is said to be of a family well known in negro circles.

There are six of the Clamorgan children. Five are girls. Maud Clamorgan became the wife of L. E. J. Davis, a clerk in the postoffice. Mrs. Davis had a baby girl not long ago. The baby has reverted to its negro ancestors, however remote, and has most of the characteristics. Thus the Clamorgans' descent was discovered, it is said.

ousting the teacher and pupils in terror. The simian hopped from bench to bench, then back to the desk of the pretty school-ma'am, who had retreated to a safe place outside. The intruder thoroughly enjoyed his freedom.

Finally, one of the boys, braver than the others, caught the animal after a hard struggle, placed it in a sack and restored it to its home, but Mr. Monkey had created such a disturbance that the rest of the lessons for the day in the Buckley schoolhouse were called off.
