Planes Pass Over Holland Quickly

Reports from those Holland persons who were on the lookout this morning verified that seven Dutch bombers flew over Holland en route to Ottawa, Canada, where the 24 officers and 32 enlisted men who recently received their wings from the Royal Netherlands Military Flying school at Jackson, Miss., will visit Princess Juliana and other members of the royal family.

Considerable advance publicity was believed to have aroused interest in the aerial visit of the Hollanders, but their reportedly split-second spurts across the city permitted only the more alert to glimpse the fliers.

Arriving ahead of schedule, the B-25's flew low over Holland at 8:55 a.m. and recrossed ten minutes later. According to observers, the planes were "classy jobs" and the gun turrets could be plainly seen. The planes skimmed close to tree tops.

The squadron was scheduled to leave Chicago at 8:15 a.m. today and fly over Milwaukee, Wis., Muskegon, Grand Haven, Holland, Zeeland and Grand Rapids before striking out for Canada. This was part of the trans-continental operational flight which began from Jackson Wednesday and will end in Omaha, Neb., next Monday.

Rites for Dr. Cheff Will Be Held in Holland Thursday

Dr. Paul P. Cheff, who died at his home in Grand Rapids early Monday morning following a paralysis stroke which occurred July 3, will be buried in Pilgrim Home cemetery, Holland, today.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Ibbelink-Notier chapel, with Dr. Eugene Flipse, Douglasson, L.L., officiating. Dr. Flipse's father, a former pastor of Third Reformed church, was one of Dr. Cheff's most intimate friends and pupil colleagues during his pastorate at Hope Reformed church, and in earlier days when both were divinity students at New Brunswick and Princeton seminaries in New Jersey.

Paul Peter Cheff was born in The Netherlands in 1875, his family stemming from the Huguenots who fled from France to Holland in the 17th century. His early years were spent in Rotterdam. Upon his father's retirement, the family moved to the province of Gelderland, with residence at Het Loo where the royal family had its summer palace.

He attended the provincial college, concentrating on a classical course, with Latin, Greek, Hebrew, French and German as his special interests.

His mother had died in his infancy, and the year of his graduation his father died. At 18 years of age he emigrated to the United States, having his mind set upon the ministry. After some time spent in traveling, during which period he acquired a knowledge of English by working in a print shop in Michigan, he studied at Rutgers college, Princeton and New Brunswick seminary, graduating in 1901 with a bachelor of divinity degree. The honorary degree of doctor of divinity was later conferred on him by Hastings college of Nebraska.

His successive churches were in Forest Grove and Zeeland. In 1918 he was called to Hope church where for seven years he made a strong mark upon the civic and spiritual life of this city. An active, tireless leader and a challenging speaker, he energetically gave of his time and talents in the Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives of the first World war.

From Holland, in 1925, Dr. Cheff took the important pastorate of Westminster Presbyterian church in Omaha, Neb. He retired in 1932 for reasons of health, although for several years he continued to supply Presbyterian pulpits in Sidney, Neb., Sioux City, Ia., and Schoolcraft, Mich. Of late years he made his home in Grand Rapids.

Surviving Dr. Cheff are his widow, Mrs. Harriet Walker Cheff, and five children, Stanley W. of Grand Rapids, Paul Theodore of Holland, Philip W., now in Africa as a bomber navigator, Mrs. Edith May Shroyer of Miami and Donald W., captain in the army medical corps stationed in Texas. There are four grandchildren.

Cafes Adopt Meatless Day

Observance Starting Tuesday Will Comply With Kelly's Request

Local restaurateurs and operators of small eating places observed "Meatless Tuesday" for the first time this week following action taken at a meeting Friday night in the local rationing office.

Nicholas Hoffman, local restaurateur, was named chairman of an association composed of operators of eating places in the Holland-Zeeland area.

J. S. McGrath, meat rationing representative of the district OPA office in Grand Rapids, discussed the serious meat shortage, emphasizing the importance of strict compliance with government regulations. He pointed out that it is impossible for local boards to issue additional points unless restaurants are eligible for them.

Decision of local restaurants to observe a meatless day is in compliance with a recent proclamation by Gov. Harry F. Kelly. All surrounding cities have been observing "Meatless Tuesday," according to John J. Good, chief clerk of the local rationing board. The Warm Friend tavern was the first in the state and perhaps in the entire nation to adopt a meatless day.

About 30 attended the meeting which was the first of its kind in this area where any constructive plans were made.

Mike Coffey, who operates the Vogue Cofee shop, said he was closing his restaurant on Tuesdays.

Drive on Ragweed Is Huge Success

Children of the city playgrounds carried out a most successful drive on "ragweed" resulting in nearly one million plants being dug and brought to the playgrounds Wednesday at 9 a.m. The weeds, tied in bundles of 100 each, for which the children were paid five cents a bundle, arrived in wagons, carts, sacks, some even wrapped in paper and neatly labeled. The piles of weeds then were carted to the city dump at the end of 12th St., by city trucks. Seven truckloads were taken from the various playgrounds.

This drive was in response to an educational campaign put on by Leon Moody and his corps of playground teachers regarding ragweed and its effect on hay fever sufferers. Initial groundwork for the campaign was laid by the public affairs committee of the Woman's Literary club.

Because of the unexpected amount of ragweed gathered, the committee ran short of money supplied for the purpose and were unable to pay all of the children. However, more funds will soon be available, and every child assisting in the campaign will be paid what is due him, the committee stated today.

Including this release the trustees have made available the amount of $548,264.24 to depositors.

Students, Others Aid Preparation For Pickle Pack

Many Boys and Girls And Housewives Have Chance to Aid Heinz

Plans and preparations for taking care of this year's pickle crop, which presents new obstacles and unusual circumstances not encountered in any past season, are now under way at the H. J. Heinz Co.

Some of the school teachers who regularly work for the company during the heavy season are already on the job. In addition, many men and women students from colleges and high schools have enlisted their services.

Boys are unloading cars of empty glass, sugar, tins, salt and other materials to be used in packing the pickle crop. Some are painting barrels, mixing spices and doing general cleaning and preparation of equipment for the season.

Many boys and girls 16 and 17 years of age will have an opportunity to help this year where they have not been able to help in previous seasons. There are many jobs in the canning industry that have been approved by the department of labor and industry for high school boys and girls under the special wartime regulations governing employment of minors in Michigan.

Already many former Heinz employees are placing their applications for seasonal work. There are a number of housewives who are willing to help for a short time to earn extra money for fall who would not consider permanent employment. The U.S. employment service also says they have on file many applications of housewives who are waiting for summer work at Heinz.

Leon Moody has given considerable time to assist in lining up the season's help. He is making a local survey to determine where help is available if a critical period develops. So far he has had gratifying response from local housewives, "Sure," they say, "we are willing to help if we are needed."

The company feels that with this attitude and typically American spirit prevailing it need not worry about failing to pack the 1943 pickle crop.

Police Rescue Flicker Tangled in String Here

Holland police today assisted in rescuing a flicker whose wing became tangled in a piece of kite string between two trees at the home of Ben Van Raalte, 580 Central Ave.

Mr. Van Raalte said the string, perhaps 100 feet long and leading from tree to tree, had been there for two or three years. The flicker or golden wing woodpecker became tangled in a short section of string between two trees.

Attempts of the young bird to free itself resulted in a greater break. Mr. Van Raalte tried to break the string with a pole but could not reach it as the string was 30 or 40 feet from the ground. Police were called about 9 a.m. and broke the string with the aid of a long pole and hook. They helped to unwind the string from the bird's wing and set it free.

The kite string was strong considering that it had been exposed to the elements several years.

"IN 2 HOURS YOUR FACTORY WILL BE FLOODED!"

It had been raining for a week, back in the hills. A farmer, hunting for a strayed cow along the creek, looked up and saw water pouring through a widening crack in the reservoir dam. He ran half a mile to the nearest telephone and made a long distance call to the munitions plant down the valley where his son worked.

"You've got about two hours before your factory is flooded," he told them. Because that call got through in time, scores of workers and tons of vital war material were moved to safety before the crest of roaring water could reach the plant.

Long Distance lines are crowded with calls as never before. Many are war calls which must go through promptly. Others are civilian calls, some vitally urgent, some less urgent. You and you alone can judge whether your call is really necessary.

Please make only the most essential long distance calls.

If you must call by long distance, do all you can to be brief.

YES, MEN AND WOMEN WORKERS WILL BE NEEDED AT HEINZ FACTORY

Many of our friends and neighbors and also people in other communities have asked whether there will be employment for them at our factory this season. Some have been confused by reports of tin, sugar, rubber and other shortages.

Also, people are planning expenditures of time as carefully as they spend money and ration points. They want to make every minute count for Victory.

Every man and woman on the Home Front knows there is a food shortage—a world-wide shortage. They know the war can't be won without an ample supply of food. Many want to aid in increasing food supplies. This is the reason they are asking whether they will have an opportunity to help process food part time or full time in our factory.

The answer is "YES!"

Those who want to work part time or full time should register NOW at our Employment Office, phone 6557 or fill in the following application and mail it to H. J. Heinz Company, Holland, Michigan:

INTELLIGENT SELFISHNESS

The world is at the moment full of examples of nations whose foreign policies are dictated wholly or mainly by intelligent selfishness. Turkey makes no bones about it that her sympathies are with the United Nations but she is standing aloof until it shall be to her national interest to take sides. Various other countries are carefully considering where their national interests lie and shaping their foreign policies in accordance with hard facts. Russia is the outstanding example.

It Stalin had chance to be a starry-eyed idealist instead of a hard-headed realist, he would have rushed into a war with Japan long since. He would have seen his allies hard up for bases from which to bomb Japan, and he would have been more eager to show his sympathy for us than to consider the interests of his own nationals. A pretext for a war with Japan would be easy to find.

But Stalin understands that a two-front war would be just too much for him for the time being.
So we find him warring to the death on two members of the Axis and not only living at peace with the other but on terms of friendship. He is like a man who is trying to kill two-thirds of a rattlesnake and fondling the other third at the same time.

While doing that he is re-proaching us for not opening that long-awaited second front. Such an action would help him and that is all he sees. Suppose it did mean millions of casualties among Americans and British, what of it? It would take the pressure off the eastern front and would save the lives of Russians. That is what Stalin is after. He understands that it involves great risks for us, but risks must be taken in war.

We on our side understand that giving us air bases in Siberia from which to bomb Japan would involve great risks for Stalin, but risks must be taken in war. The parallel is not unduly strained.

Stalin is hardly to be blamed for looking out for his own people. But those people in America and England—and there are many of them—who are blaming our high command for delay in opening the second front have their answer in Stalin's stalling in Siberia. We should not open a second front until it is to our national interest. And in general our Vice President Wallace type of idealists should have it pointed out in their heads that saving America takes precedence over converting the world into Utopia.

MAKING FIRST THINGS FIRST

To succeed in the highest sense one must make first things first.
What that first thing is, is answered by our Lord when he said, "Seek first the kingdom of God." We must find the way into that kingdom and possess the spirit of that kingdom individually. To be a member of the kingdom of God is a personal matter and involves personal obligations and responsibilities. The kingdom is also a social concern, a brotherhood; besides discharging personal duties to the kingdom there are some that must be discharged jointly with others; this brotherhood is best seen in the church. Why not accept the invitation and go church next Sunday?

Little Damage Caused
By Fire at Sligh Firm

A fire of undetermined origin in the boiler room of the Charles R. Sligh Co. furniture factory caused slight damage at 10:20 p.m. Friday. The blaze was noticed by Mrs. Ray Hertz 180 East 11th St. Mr. Hertz turned in the alarm.

The firemen were forced to batter down a door to get at the flames which they quickly extinguished. Jake Mulder, a night clean-up man employed at the factory, aided the firemen in locating the light switches.

Sunday School
Lesson

July 18, 1943
God Encourages Moses—Exodus 3:13-16; 4:10-17

By Henry Geerlings

A thoughtful reading of this lesson is sure to give us the impression that the Hebrews had pretty generally forgotten God.
There can be little doubt that they had appropriated much of the thought and the terminology and the practice of the religion of Egypt. The ease with which they fell into idolatry later would justify this view. The fact that Aaron months afterward made for them at their request the golden calf can leave little doubt about this matter. For the calf was generally an object of worship in the land they had made their home, and from which they were to be led. Their residence of approximately 400 years among the Egyptians could not help inclining them toward a religion that was native to that country.

The additional fact that these people would remember little about the true God and would insist from Moses who he was and who the God was whom he was representing, the impression that they did not know any too much about Jehovah. And yet they knew something about Him, for when Moses told them that "I am that I am," had sent him, they would recognize that to be the name of Jehovah, the Eternal and Self-existing One, their God.

The one way of identifying the God of Moses and Joshua, and Samuel and David and the prophecies preached as the true God was to say that he was the God of Abraham and of Isaac and of Jacob. The people of succeeding generations might forget much of their past history, but if they could remember how He dealt with the patriarchs they could not go far astray. This was one thing that saved Moses. He could say with all the power at his command that he knew this God and it was this God and He alone who had sent him with the message to an enslaved people.

The first step Moses was to take was to call the elders of Israel together and explain to them in detail the experience he had, and how it came to pass that he, a fugitive from their midst, now was returning to them with a message from his God and their God. There can be little doubt that he encountered some difficulty getting the elders to understand his story and to lead them to see that God, who it may have seemed to them had forgotten them, was now ready to lead them out of slavery into freedom. That time was now ripe for such action as the Lord proposed.

Moses was not yet convinced that he was the person possessing all the qualifications of one who was to prove himself competent enough to lead this mass of people, and stubborn at that, out from under the authority of Pharaoh. That he might know this was not man's work but God's, and that even a weak instrument if it was willing could perform wonders. God performed two miracles in his presence to strengthen his faith and to install new courage into his heart. These miracles were but samples of those which would be wrought when the struggle between Pharaoh and Moses was at its height.

As an additional reason why he should not undertake the mission on which God desired to send him, Moses declared that he was not eloquent. Possibly the idea is that his speech was faulty and haling. What Moses had said about his imperfect speech had the appearance of finding fault with God for not bestowing upon him the gift of eloquent and impressive language. God's reply gives the impression that Moses was only quibbling and that he was anxious to find somewhere an excuse so that he would not have to assume this tremendous responsibility. God's reply to both strands and weak excuses was that he saw fit to call to this work a man of imperfect parts. He Himself would be able and willing to add all that was lacking.

It was more important for Moses to know what to say than how to say it, and God would supply both. Of course God does not despise the many-talented person, nor does he place a premium on few talents and small gifts; but what he wants is the individual who is willing to be used of him.

Moses wanted to wash his hands of the whole business. As he viewed matters he concluded that he was not the person for so great a work. The Lord was displeased at Moses for insisting that he be not sent to Egypt to deliver the Israelites. This displeasure did not grow out of the manner in which he thought of his own talents, but of his unwillingness to trust Jehovah to conduct the enterprise successfully. If this was the Lord's work it could not fail.

cording to a story in the Tuesday, Feb. 4, issue. Last night the coma quorum. Because there was no quorum the evening was wasted for the four faithful ones who had come out and some of whom had given up other engagements for the sake of being present at this meeting. The four members are asking the other members either to be present at the meetings to be held in the future or resign.

During the greater part of this year the question as to whether it was better to give final examinations in the high school or judge the students by the daily work has been discussed by the faculty members and the school board. At last it was decided not to give examinations at the end of the semesters and so from now on the students in the Holgrade wholly through the merits of their class work and review tests.

One of the greatest success stories of 1942

About a year ago, America was being asked to increase, substantially, its investment in War Bonds.

And no one knew, definitely, just what America's answer to that plea would be. Today, America's answer is clear—written down in black and white for any one to read. And the reading makes as heart-warming and inspiring a story as anything that has come out of this war. Here are some highlights...

In December 1941, there were 3½ million Americans who owned War Bonds. Today, there are over 50 million. A year ago that figure would have seemed fantastic. There is nothing in all history to match that record. Never before have so many people owned such a tremendous stake in their nation and its government. In December 1941, some 700,000 people were investing about four and one-half percent of their earnings in War Bonds through the Pay-Roll Savings Plan. Today, the 700,000 has swelled to 26 million—the four and one-half percent to nine percent. The MONTHLY investment in War Bonds through the Pay-Roll Savings Plan has grown, in one year, from 8 to 400 million dollars.

Figures like that need little comment. They tell, better than any words, what happened when a free people decided among themselves to lend their government money. Money to help pay for fighting equipment—money to help keep prices down—money to insure peacetime goods and peacetime jobs and a generally decent world to which our fighting men can return.

Peacetime goods and jobs? A decent world? Think what 12 BILLION dollars' worth of War Bonds owned by Americans right now can mean in buying power to be released in the years after the war is won. Buying power that can set factories full of men to making millions of cars and radios and washing machines. Buying power that can set multitudes of other men to building a million new homes for impatient owners. Buying power that can mean better, richer living for every one of us.

And that 12 billion dollars is only a beginning.

For what we have done in '42 to win this war will not be enough to do in '43. Our whole war effort must be expanded. Not a one of us but knows that in the year ahead we must send more men—we must do more fighting—we must build more planes, more ships, more guns—more everything.

And to do this, we must buy more and more War Bonds.

Enough more so that when the record is in for 1943, America's War Bond buying will once again be one of the greatest success stories of the year.

Now Do Your Best!
