Wheat Price Set At $2.02 Bushel In Ottawa County

The government farm price support program for the 1949 crop of wheat at a loan rate of $2.02 per bushel, basis U. S. No. 1 wheat, will be available to Ottawa county farmers this year, according to Glenn E. Taylor, chairman of the Ottawa county AAA committee.

The rate was established on the basis of 90 per cent of the parity price of wheat on July 1, 1949. The national average support rate for 1949 wheat is $1.95 per bushel. Price support protection will be made available to farmers through loans on farm-stored or warehouse-stored wheat or by means of purchase agreements, Taylor said. Farmers may apply for loans or sign purchase agreements 30 days from harvest until Jan. 31, 1950.

Under the purchase agreement plan, the farmer receives a contract from the Commodity Credit Corp. that they will pay him the price support rate for his wheat after April 30, 1950, if he holds it until then because of inability to get the support price on the open market. The farmer is under no compulsion to hold his wheat until April 30, 1950, nor is he under any compulsion to sell his wheat then or at any other time to the government.

Under the loan program, heat stored on the farm must be stored in acceptable storage structures approved by the county AAA committee and, in the case of warehouse storage, must be stored in CCC-approved elevators. Details of the program are practically the same as last year except that the closing date for eligibility is a month later this year than last.

There will be a special party for adult scouts. Interested persons are urged to make reservations at the local Boy Scout office in the city hall.

Boats Swamped In Rough Water

Holland Coast Guardsmen were called out twice Sunday into "rough and tumbling" Lake Michigan to rescue boats in distress.

The Coast Guard went to the rescue of the Charles Bertsch family of 816 South Shore Dr., who were swamped in the lake near Ottawa beach aboard their 23-foot sailboat the "Lorelei."

After returning to port for another boat the Coast Guard threw a line to the Bertsch boat and tried to pull it off the sand bar. Later they were aided by N. "Casey" Landman, who came out with his boat and helped pull the Bertsch boat into Lake Macatawa to Jesiek boat docks.

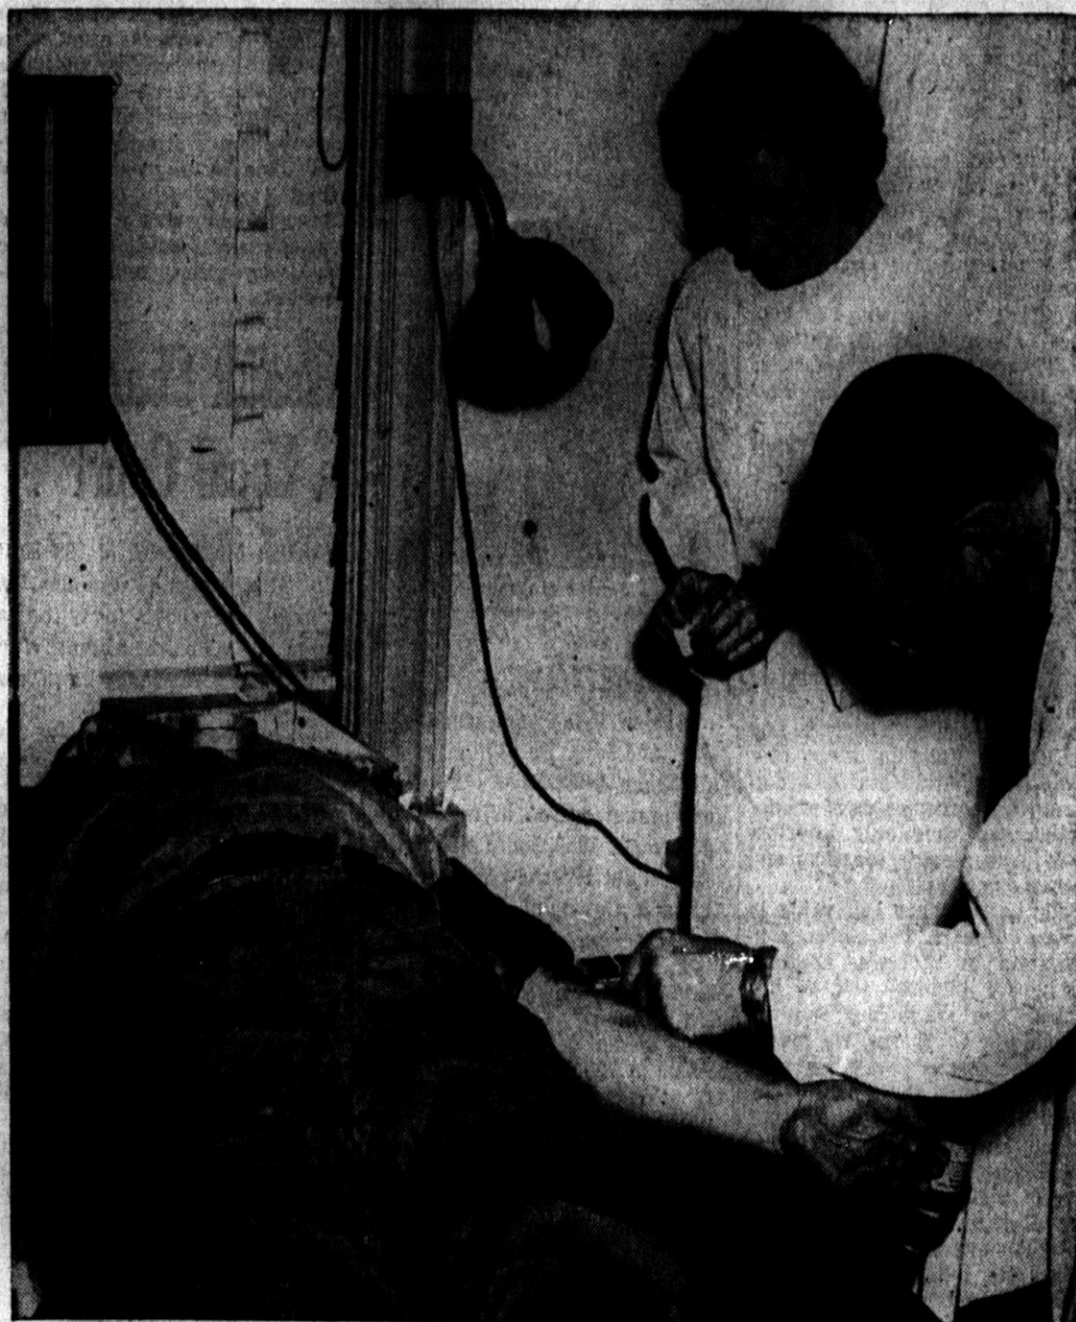

Later Sunday evening, Coast Guardsmen answered a report of a 16-foot runabout speedboat that was swamped near Tunnel park. The boat was owned by Charles Palmer of Grand Rapids. After securing the craft on the beach for the night, Coast Guardsmen went out this morning and towed it into Holland harbor for the owner.

John G. Nichols, young American adventurer, stands on his head at a dad and lad get together of Boy Scout troop 12, a trick which has won him the title of "the upside down man" after he was photographed standing on his head in front of all the capitols in the United States. But hand stands are only incidental to his adventures the last two years in which he has worked as a lumber jack, cow hand, stockyards helper, come-on man in gambling casinos, cub reporter and gold prospector. He will speak Wednesday night before the Chickawa Sportsman's club in Zeeland city hall. (Penna-Sas photo)

He Flaunts Convention And Learns About Life

Standing on his head is only incidental to adventures experienced the last two years by John G. Nichols of Wilmette, Ill., who forsook a conventional life to travel the country and find out what makes different people tick.

Like Grandpa Vanderhof in "You Can't Take It With You," Nichols got tired of routine regulations and attending movies for synthetic thrills. He decided to take adventure first-hand, quit a lucrative job with an artificial eye company, and took to the road. He was out to find out what makes people do the things they do... what makes them happy, what makes them profound.

And he learned plenty in his thumbing adventures of two years and three months.

His first self assignment was spending three weeks in a Trappist monastery near Dubuque, Ia. There he observed the strict rules of the strictest of all Catholic orders, rising at 2 a.m. and eating daily fare which included no meats, fish, fowl or eggs. He found a 10-day stint of complete silence much easier than he had anticipated. He applied himself diligently to his studies in an effort to understand in some measure the philosophies of the Catholic religion. A Protestant himself, he was rewarded by grasping "the essence if not the catechism." The Trappist monastery is one of four for Trappist monks in the United States.

From there, Nichols spent three days in Leavenworth penitentiary—the only inmate in history to pay $4 a day for his board. Oddly enough, life at the penitentiary was comparable in many ways to the monastery. The prison inmates were apart from the world much like the monks. There were no women, and rules and regulations were strict. Yet, the two institutions were actually as far apart as the poles.

Other adventures took him to Emporia, Kan., where he was cub reporter for William Allen White's Emporia Gazette. Then he did gold panning in the Black Hills.

ously had had occasion in New Orleans to share his apartment with Tennessee Williams who was there collecting material for the sensationally successful play, "A Street Car Named Desire."

"I like to flaunt the big conventions, but never the small ones," Nichols said. He approves of giving up a job to find out what makes people tick, but wouldn't think of forgetting the natural courtesies and niceties which make life worth living.

Next week, Nichols leaves to be an actor in summer stock at Kennebunkport, Me., in two plays, "Reunion in Vienna" and "Arsenic and Old Lace." Then he will do two stints in New York, one in the emergency ward of St. Vincent's charity hospital on Manhattan, and as a Barker for a girly-girly show on Coney Island.

Hope Faculty Member At Wisconsin School

James Unger, instructor in Biology at Hope college, is acting as dean of men at the Wisconsin State Teachers college summer camp session at Eagle River. It was announced today by Dr. Teunis Vergeer, head of the Hope biology department.

Besides acting as dean, Unger is teaching field botany. The campus is maintained by the United States Department of Agriculture, forestry division, and is used by many educational groups for teaching principles of forestry.

Unger will return to Hope college Sept. 1.

Flood of Tourists Continues in Holland Area

Continued influx of summer visitors has tourist and resort operators cheering.

A Sentinel survey of selected resorts in the Holland area indicates business is better in most cases and equally as good in many others.

Here is a thumbnail run down on comment from resort operators: Macatawa—Practically sold out through August. "Very favorable for this season of the year."

Castle—Reservations running about the same as last year. No dropping off of custom. Rest of July and August "looks good."

Lakeshore—"No vacancy" sign out. Booked solid through Aug. 6. Some reservations available August and September.

Waukazoo Inn—Sold out next four weeks, excepting for few odd days. "Best cottage season in 20 years."

Warm Friend Tavern—Most custom from tourists. Some vacancies during the week, but good booking for week-ends.

The Mooring—Few more American plan guests could be accommodated. Managers noticed reservations were earlier this year. Cottages mostly filled. Season "not too bad."

Bus companies report many specials are being run week-ends and through the week. Mid-week specials are taking scores of resorters to Saugatuck. Week-end buses are taking passengers further up the peninsula, it was reported.

And the Michigan Automobile club reports record numbers of motorists on the road. The Grand Rapids office issued 600 routed tours in a month and more than 100 were written in Holland. The local AAA office reports out-of-state vacationers are finding better values for their money this year. Facilities are being improved and rates are more "realistic," auto club officials told the Sentinel.

Workmen Tearing Down Old Holland Landmark

Progress is overwhelming another of Holland's landmarks.

Workmen are tearing down the first brick building erected after the disastrous fire in 1871, to make way for a modern-fronted store at 6 West Eighth St.

Burt Post purchased the property and plans an ultra-modern store on the site.

The old red brick building was erected in October and November of 1871, just after fire gutted $900,000 worth of local homes, stores, churches, barns and other frame buildings on Oct. 8-9, 1871.

Hein Vander Haar, one of the first 10 pioneers who settled in Holland in 1847, built the store for his meat business.

"They used to tell us there were more coffee grounds between the twicks than mortar," said Dick Vander Haar, lone male survivor of the Vander Haar family, who lives at 67 West Ninth St.

However, wrecking crews are finding a different story. The edifice was built to last forever, they say. There was a double roof on the building with a two-foot gap between.

Hein sold the building to Mrs. Frank Charter in 1896. It was later used by the Van Zee saloon, barber shops and other businesses. Post bought the property from Mrs. Charter.

Dick Vander Haar was born in an upstairs room of the red brick building. He recalls the barn and house behind the store.

"We had one room in the house behind the store that had 44 yards of rag carpet covering the floor," Dick says.

Between the ceiling partitions, workmen found a Harper's Weekly dated June 8, 1872, and a copy of The Methodist dated Feb. 23, 1878, among other periodicals of yesteryear.

"We used to read Harper's regularly," Dick says.

Two sisters, Mrs. Mary Steketee and Mrs. William Nash, also live in Holland. There were four other boys in the family.

Hein died at the age of 78 in 1899.

"He had an eventful life," Dick says.

"One time he went to California with three other fellows to do some prospecting. They had $8,000 each in gold nuggets at one time but a snowslide wiped out their fortune and took two lives.

"When those first settlers came to Holland they used to walk all the way to Kalamazoo for supplies on many occasions," Dick says.

They were hearty and had a lot of fun.

In 1930 he went to Princeton to be Stuart professor of apologetics and Christian ethics until 1941, and Charles Hodge professor of systematic theology until his retirement. Later he taught classes part time at Hope college.

He has delivered lectures on apologetics and religious education at various theological seminaries. He was a member of the faculty at Winona Summer School of Theology for several years, and taught at many other summer conferences.

He was author of a series of Bible lessons for children and young people and wrote articles for theological journals. For 10 years he was editor of the Leader, Reformed church organ now known as the Church Herald.

He married the former Anna J. Mulder in 1901. She died several years ago and in 1944 he married Elsie Conover Foster.

Policemen Test Oxygen Masks Under Water

Police Officers Ike De Kraker and Chuck Martin gave firemen's masks a try-out under water Wednesday night to see whether they would work satisfactorily in exploring the depths in case of drownings.

The oxygen masks have been part of the firemen's equipment for a few years.

De Kraker said he had difficulty in staying under water and finally took a large piece of concrete for balance. The pair had difficulty in seeing under water. The tests were made at Kollen park about 7 p.m. and it was darker than usual.

Both recommended use of weighted shoes in case such equipment is used.

And they'll probably use earplugs hereafter, Ike said he got an earful of water.

Fishing 'Fairly Good'

Perch fishing at the pier is reported today to be "fairly good." However, not many fishermen are on the scene, the report continues, because of threatening weather.

Motor Co. Edifice Destroyed by Fire; Origin Uncertain

New Addition Burned After Flames Start In Paint Section

Grand Haven, July 14 (Special)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Grand Haven Motor Co. at 1447 Washington St. with a loss to building and contents estimated at $100,000.

The company was owned and operated by Frank Holzinger who handled Buick and Oldsmobile agencies.

Fire Chief Henry Hoebeke said the fire originated in a paint shop in the northwest corner of a new addition which had just been completed last spring. He said flames spread to the rest of the building and between the ceiling and roof. The fire started at 3:15 a.m.

When firemen arrived, the new addition was completely enveloped in flames. Chief Hoebeke was awakened by whistles of the Spring Lake fire department which was called by an unidentified person. The original report listed a fire on Washington St. in Spring Lake.

Firemen laid three lines of hose and fought the blaze 44 hours. The office between the garage and showroom was considerably damaged by smoke and water. Company records in the safe remained intact.

Two new cars were lost in the blaze. An Olds which was to be given away by the Eagles lodge at the dedication of their new building next month was almost completely destroyed. A new Buick was scorched and damaged so badly it is considered a total loss.

There were five other cars in the building, two for repair, a wrecker, a jeep station wagon and a pickup truck.

Tavern Owners Approve Rules

Tavern owners in Holland renewed their agreement with the city Tuesday night, not to sell beer or wine on Sundays for consumption on the premises or for take-out purposes.

The owners met with the License committee of Common Council and Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff at the city hall.

They also assured the committee that their places of business would be run strictly according to local rules and regulations governing taverns.

Ald. John H. Van Dyke, chairman of the license committee, called the meeting and represented the city along with Ald. John Van Eerden, committee member. All local taverns were represented.

Van Dyke called the meeting to discuss the co-operative agreement between the city and tavern operators.

Lakeview Bond Issue Approved

Lakeview school, Park township No. 8 fractional, got the go-ahead signal today to advertise for bids and place contracts for a new school addition.

The Michigan Municipal Finance commission Tuesday approved bond issues for $22,000 for the new addition to include two classrooms, an auditorium, new library, kitchen, office and boiler room.

Largest issue approved Tuesday was $1,300,000 by Southfield township schools in Oakland county to erect a new high school and addition to elementary school.

Lakeview school will probably begin construction in August. The bond issue was approved in a special election last spring. Officers are Gerald Hilbink, moderator; Egbert Brink, treasurer; and Norman Rutgers, director.

Sailboats Swarm Macatawa Waters During Big Blow

High Winds Hamper MBYC Crescents For Regular Race

Lake Macatawa was a sailor's paradise Sunday. A strong north-west wind whisked down the lake and raised white-caps on waters up to the narrows.

It was one of those dream days for sailors to billow out their sails and ride the edges. Many boats ran into trouble in the "freak" waters.

The Crescents racing out of Macatawa Bay Yacht club had trouble with the tricky blow.

Three of the five racers tipped over and the two that finished narrowly missed "going in the drink."

Sally Copeland finished first in the race and Jimmy Fields crossed the line to take second place.

The Lightnings had to lash everything to the decks before starting on the wild ride. The pilots had to ride the edges of their tilted boats to tour the course.

Caryl Curtis finished first in Sunday's Lightning race and Pollock came in second. Jimmy White sailed ahead of Orr to finish third.

After the rains Saturday morning, the wind whipped up Lake Macatawa water for the yacht club races.

Race results were:
Crescents — Sally Copeland, first; Mary Stewart, second; Jane Boyd, third; Jimmy Fields, fourth; Diana Fehring, fifth.

Lightnings — Caryl Curtis, first; Van Den Berg, second; Jim White, third; Pollock, fourth.

Vern Tuls Wins Golf Tournament

Vern Tuls won the June handicap tournament at American Legion country club this week-end by defeating Howard Jalving in the first-flight final.

Tuls won the hole on the 17th green when he was two up.

In the second flight, Laverne DeVries defeated Ray Van Es, two up and one to go.

And in the third flight, Arnold Vander Kolk defeated Les DeRidder, three up and two to go.

Pro Earl Holkeboer announced he is taking qualifying scores this week for the July best-ball tournament that is expected to get under way later this week or next week.

Holkeboer reported a "good" turnout of linksmen at the local course during the week-end. A stiff breeze Sunday, however, limited the number of players.

The families are invited. Each is to bring sandwiches, table service and a dish for the menu. Ice cream will be furnished.

The usual benefit party will be held Tuesday, July 12, with Mrs. Stella Dore and her committee in charge.

Songs of the Temple
Psalms 84:1-4
By Henry Geerlings

The temple occupied a great place in the nation of Israel. It was to be expected that we would find many references to it in the Psalms. The songs of a people are generally related to the principal events in the history of that nation. The temple and its services were one of the things that distinguished Israel from the other nations of the earth. Other nations had temples, many of them costly and magnificent, but they all differed from Israel's temple in that God made a dwelling place there. There never was another building like it upon the earth.

This temple was unique in that its inception was of God and not of man. It followed the pattern of the tabernacle that was built in the wilderness. It was adapted for the needs of the people at that time. It was moveable. But when the people were established in the land, it was built in the capital city. God gave to Moses the pattern and all of its services.

It was unique in that God had a dwelling place in it and made his presence evident by a cloud of glory. This cloud of glory was in the house at its dedication and it remained in the holy of holies over the mercy seat. Once a year only the high priest entered this holy place to make atonement for the sins of the people.

The temple thus established was a meeting place between God and his people. Through the sacrificial services the people individually and collectively could find spiritual help. When burdened by a sense of guilt they could bring their sin offering to the priest and he would offer it upon the altar for them. They had the assurance of forgiveness. This was an occasion of rejoicing and praise. They realized that God was in their midst, not as a terrible judge, but as a friend. They found that He could be approached and would communicate His grace to them.

The temple was a place for worship. Worship is a necessity of our being. We are creatures of religious instinct and must worship something. If there were no God, the human heart would make one.

Worship is worship—a confession of worth. It is a reverential uplook. It is the attitude of the penitent rising and turning his face skyward. Our social instincts cry out for common worship. There is one thing in the services of the sanctuary that cannot be obtained otherwise. The individual burden is forgotten in the common thanksgiving. The tempted, overburdened heart finds release in the assembling together with other souls. The solitary stranger, joining in praise and sharing the communal life of the congregation forgets for the time his solitude. There is something infectious in the spiritual sense of so many people gathered together with one accord.

The social element in worship is not only part of the gregarious instinct, but in the convergence of many wills on one undertaking it produces a volume of prayers that is far greater than the sum of individual prayers would be. There is action and reaction of spiritual influences. This is perhaps most noticeable in great evangelistic meetings or spiritual conventions, where deep religious emotions are stirred up and where waves of spiritual influence may almost be felt. But it is true, more or less, of every congregational group. Different hymns appeal to different minds and stir up different reactions. Different verses of the passages of the Bible which are read touch different natures and appeal to different experiences. One sentence in a prayer finds its way into one heart, another in another.

The church stand for the most vital thing in life—the art of teaching men how to live. On creeds and forms the minds of men have always differed, but right will never lose its lustre. Repeatedly we hear the criticism that the church is narrow; but how otherwise could it be? She is the only organization that tands for unflinching antagonism to wrong. Abolish the church and the supremacy of evil would be unchallenged, the field abandoned, and Satan have his own wicked swing.

God is not tied to particular places. He is not confined to temples made with hands, and in all ages and lands devout souls alone with God in the mountain or the valley or the unpeopled desert have been able to worship Him.

It is the life of the members and not the form of structure that makes a church living. It is as each one is a temple of the Holy Spirit that the combined brotherhood in the highest sense. Devotion in the services of man in the house of God draws out the most devoted talent of the best men and women. In the great Christian lands there is a large army of Christian workers in every living congregation on whom devolves the management of the various activities of the church. Behind them are the main body of the people aiding by prayer and effort. These are the living stones.

Volleys From Ambush

IF YOU SEE Bill Meengs in the movies some day soon, think nothing of it. It will be Bill, all right.

It happened when Bill and his family were in Washington for their vacation. Of course, they visited Mt. Vernon, and there a Hollywood crew had set up shop on the beautiful lawn of George Washington's ancestral home.

While big cameras whirled around Ann Blyth and her leading man, the Meengses and lots of other visitors were asked to "look natural" in the background.

Bill had a chance to observe some of the technical work involved in such a venture. The actress went through takes again and again cool as a cucumber in a slick suit, while Bill and the other non-paid extras were comfortable in shirt sleeves.

We hope the heat wave that was softened Thursday doesn't return too soon. The hardest thing to take during that week-long siege was seeing clerks painstakingly place woolen blankets in downtown show windows!

It's a small world, Sipp Houtman says.

Traveling in the big state of Texas recently, Sipp noticed a car following him for miles. When he stopped the car stopped, and the uniformed driver told him he recognized the familiar KS license from Holland, Mich., and was a mite curious who was traveling that far from home. The driver was Lt. Schutt who was headed for the flying school at Fort Worth. His car bore Japanese occupation license plates.

A little later Sipp and his family stopped at Idaho Springs, Colo., just a small town. Back in Holland, he learned his former neighbor, John Van Huis of Holland, stayed in the same cabin three nights later.

Chuck Bertach believes it's a small world too.

A week ago Friday (the first day it got up to 96 here) Chuck was driving to Rock Island, Ill., to attend funeral services for his wife's mother. He stopped at Troy Grove, Ill., a crossroads with a population of about 40 to buy some coffee in the one tiny restaurant the place afforded.

While there, who should come in but Mr. and Mrs. Dick Miles who live about three-quarters of a mile from Chuck and attend the same church. With them were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Miles. The Mileses were headed for Rock Island too. Hot and weary from the uncomfortable ride, Chuck and Dick hardly made sense in their greetings.

If you wondered about that fireworks picture in Tuesday's paper, here's how it was done. Sentinel photographer Henry Engelman opened the lens of his Speed Graphic wide—F-11 it was—and made a long time exposure of the tulip set and several rockets. Then he shot a flash to get some of the crowd in the foreground. The resulting negative brought a good picture.

Last week's heat wave yielded many cases of sunburn, and some of them were beauts. Lots of people got burnt without being aware of it, and some sported "farmer's tan," where portions of the arms and neck are exposed. The newest twist was a taxi-driver's tan, a nut-brown left arm and a white right arm. Incidentally, speaking of sunburn, this cure was recommended by a nurse: Shake a few drops of iodine in a quantity of baby oil, and apply either before or after skin is burnt. We haven't tried it, but it's supposed to work.

Mrs. John Jonkers, 129 East 22nd St., came across an interesting clipping while looking in old books the other day. It was a picture of the first interurban car to take passengers over Eighth St. July 4, 1898. The fashions were a bit different from today's.

Is Michigan slipping as a tourist state?

James Welsh, the "Old Traveler," thinks so. He says Michigan people lack pride in their home state. They fail to brag (or even talk) about Michigan's wealth of natural resources, its air-conditioned summer climate, its thousands of white-sand lakes, leadership in hunting and fishing, and such unique scenic attractions as Mackinac Island, Porcupine Mountains amid a forest wilderness, and the Tahquamenon falls.

Why? Michigan people are too complacent. They neglect to greet outstate visitors with warm friendly hospitality and say, "Be sure to see this-and-that before you leave!"

The "Old Traveler's" statements were immediately challenged by many booster-minded newspaper editors.

Michigan ranked third among the 48 states in 1948, according to an independent survey, and this year should be tied with California for second place in dollar volume.

New York, surprisingly enough to some people, leads all states in tourist travel business. New York City is chiefly responsible for this.

But Michigan has 3,000 lakes of shore line on the Great Lakes. It possesses 11,000 inland lakes, 36,000 miles of rivers and streams, game and fish for more license holders than any other state in the USA. Bathing beaches are nationally famous. White sand beaches are the rule, rather than the exception.

What other state in the mid-west can boast of 58 state parks?

What other state has created the recreational area plan for a metropolitan area on such a vast scale as Michigan? And don't forget our 62 roadside parks and 300 roadside picnic tables, provided and maintained by the state highway department?

But the bewhiskered "Old Traveler" started something when he prodded newspaper editors. He may have done it deliberately. The result has been a re-appraisal of Michigan's tourist resources.

Two-Hit Shutout Marks Bethel Win

Bethel Reformed and Trinity locked softball horns Monday night in one of three City church league games.

The Bethel crew came out on the long end of a low score, downing Trinity 3-0.

Bob Fortney turned in a masterful pitching performance for the victors, limiting opposing hitters to two scattered singles.

His teammates, meanwhile, were able to mass seven safeties off the mound offerings of Norm Japanga of Trinity.

Bethel waited until the third inning to begin its scoring. In that frame, George Wolters got on first on an error and advanced to second via the sacrifice route.

Brother Rich Wolters punched across the Bethel second baseman with a single to center. Lee De Maat then cleared the sacks with another single.

Both George Wolters and Fortney singled in the fourth to score George Moes who made first on a fielder's choice.

That was more than the margin Bethel needed as it coasted through the three remaining innings to record the shutout.

Dykemas Wallop East Saugatuck

Dykema Tailors took advantage of 10 walks off Pitcher J. Brinks of the East Saugatuck Pure Oils to win a 6-1 softball decision at the Pine Ave. diamond Friday evening.

The locals were outlit, eight to three, but the walks and one error made the difference.

Dykemas scored a run in the first inning on three walks and one error.

The game progressed at a 1-0 clip until the visitors tallied a run in the fifth inning to knot the score. A hit by J. Brinks and a walk did the trick.

That Tailors broke loose with a five-run spurge in the sixth inning. Dykemas had just one hit and four walks in that big fifth inning.

16th St. Holds City Church Lead

16th St., City church league leaders, held on to its top berth Monday night by outclassing Wesleyan 11-4.

The Pine Ave. game looked like a different story up to the fifth inning, however. For despite the fact that 16th scored a run in the first to go out in front, its lead was short lived.

Wesleyan turned on the power in its half of the second to push across four runs and command game play until 16th St. exploded in the fifth.

D. Sundin opened Wesleyan's tally-making second with a single. The Johnson brothers contributed a walk and single to the cruise. Then T. Engle's single, J. De Neff's negotiation of first on an error and a fielder's choice that put F. Shuck on first, scored the four runs.

In the fourth, 16th St. served notice of things to come when it counted two markers. But the tale was told in the fifth when the winners pounded across five runs to take the lead it never relinquished.

In that frame, R. Otten's double was the big blow. But singles by Van Iwaarden, Elmer Ribbens and M. Keen contributed to the cause.

16th St. moundsmen Van Iwaarden and Ed Ribbens held Wesleyan to five hits, E. King, pitcher for the losers, allowed 10 opponent safeties.

Holland horsemen furnished the highlights of the jumping events in the third annual charity horse show held Saturday at Green Hill field, Grand Haven, under auspices of the Kiwanis club and the Grand Haven horse show association. Rain hampered the children's show which was arranged for the morning hours.

Action was furnished by two horses going over the hurdles in one of the popular events of the show. Connie Boersma of Holland, nationally known for this type of horsemanship, and P. T. Cheff, also of Holland, another able horseman, won this class, with Dr. H. P. Harms and Jimmy Helder, local horsemen, placing second.

The judging was done by Miss Nancy Lee of St. Louis, Mo. Arthur Gieseking was master of ceremonies.

One of the interesting events was the Family class, when Dr. Harms, his wife and two small sons placed second, the Locke sisters of Hickory Corners taking the trophy.

Allegan Seeking Additional Funds For TB Clinic

Funds Already in Red; Health Dept. Appeals To State Association

Allegan, July 14 (Special)—With the end of federal funds July 1 which supplied Allegan county its tuberculosis diagnostic x-ray clinic, Dr. Arthur G. Baker, Allegan health department director, reported he would appeal to the Michigan Tuberculosis association for support.

Because county's funds are already in the red, Dr. Baker said he had not approached the board of supervisors, since it was obvious they could not take on a new expense under the present conditions.

A total of 244 x-rays were made and interpreted in 1947, 372 in 1948, and 231 in the first half of 1949, Dr. Baker said. They have been read by Dr. Anthony F. Stiller of Pine Crest state sanatorium, who visited Allegan Health Center monthly for diagnosis and consultation.

In outlining the clinic's needs, if the service is to be continued, Dr. Baker estimated the cost per month at about $50 and a supply of about 40 x-ray films.

"During the past two years we have made few requests to your association, primarily because we had no place where we felt good use could be made of tuberculosis funds," Dr. Baker informed the organization. "The request here seems to be a legitimate one, that cannot be met from tax funds at this time. As the figures show, the service has been well received and this clinic is used by physicians of the county for consultation purposes on private cases as well as for follow-up of cases and contacts that are under health department supervision."

"I also believe that it will be a source of satisfaction to county residents to learn that funds obtained through sale of Christmas seals are being used locally to further the fight against tuberculosis."

Many at Annual Yacht Club Event

A large birthday cake of white gladioli decorated the commodore's table at the Macatawa Bay Yacht club Saturday night for the Commodore's Ball, outstanding social event of the season at the club. Ten candles and red geraniums at the base, decorated the "cake." More than 100 persons attended the dinner-dance.

Life preservers of white gladioli also decorated the tables and the commodore's place cards were small preservers.

Flowers were arranged by Mrs. Fred Pickel, Mrs. Stuart Boyd and Mrs. Herman Pleasant.

Preceding the dinner-dance, Hollis S. Baker entertained commodore and their wives at the South Shore Supper club.

Honored at the event were Mr. Baker, O. W. Lowry, Lester F. Harrett, Phillips Brooks, A. William Tahaney, Peter Van Domelen, Jr., Chester Van Tongren, Edward R. Jones, Jay H. Eyster and present Commodore Warren S. Merriam.

Engaged

Carolyn and Donnie Kievit hold four of their father's Syrian Golden Hamsters. The elder Kievit raises the tiny animals as a hobby. "The Hamster surpasses any other pet I have ever had," he said. Kievit ought to know, he's raised both white rats and guinea pigs.

What's a Hamster? Ask The Man Who Owns One

How would you like to have a mighty mouse for a pet?

You know who the mighty mouse is. He's the champion of all mouse world causes, the little fellow who always manages to save the day for his diminutive compatriots by swooping down from the sky upon some mean old cat.

Well, William Kievit of 57 West First St. has just such a pet—almost, anyway. For Bill raises hamsters. The hamster is a tiny animal, about the size of a peanut at birth and 5 to 6 1/2 inches at maturity. It has a stubby tail and paws like human hands.

Finally, its golden fur and white underside, its gray ears and two pouches on the inside of its mouth used for storing food, make the hamster just about the cutest animal there is.

But the most remarkable thing about the hamster is its ability to do things that seem to contradict common sense. Bill says the hamster is the most common senseless critter he knows.

Take, for example, its name. Now most folks just call it the Golden Hamster. But that's not right. The correct title is: Golden hamster, sub-genus Mesocricetus, variety Auratus. Well, if you had a tag like that you'd probably be just as remarkable as the hamster.

Just to give you an idea, did you ever hear of walking backwards faster than forwards, except maybe by mighty mouse? Well, the hamster can do it. And that's not all.

But you wouldn't guess the hamster could walk on its hind feet or climb upside down or run on a tread wheel for hours. Well, it can, and more, too.

According to the 27-year-old Kievit, the hamster was first discovered in Syria, 30 feet below the earth in tunnels. No youngster this hamster, either; Bill says it's mentioned in the Bible.

But the greatest use for the hamster has been found in research laboratories. The little animal performs valuable service to mankind as a subject for experimentation in disease control.

The hamster is susceptible to the communicable diseases of man. That, in fact, is how Bill started his hobby. He took a pair home from a nursery in Grand Haven.

That was three weeks ago. And today Bill is sold on hamsters. He claims there's practically nothing a good hamster can't do.

So if you're in the market for a small pet, better have a look at the hamster. About the only thing mighty mouse can do that it can't is fly.

And Bill Kievit, hamster lover, is not so sure about that, either.

Man Stands Mute On Assault Count

Grand Haven, July 14 (Special)—Adam Leonard Lee, 32, Grand Haven, stood mute and a plea of not guilty was entered in Circuit Court where he appeared Saturday on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder.

Lee was charged with hitting Grand Rapids girls over the heads with a pop bottle east of Spring Lake June 26 and left them stranded there. He is attempting to raise $2,500 bond which had been reduced from $10,000.

Albert Molenkamp, Jr., 18, Grand Haven, and Wilbur Walker, Jr., 17, Spring Lake, appeared on nighttime breaking and entering charges, involving break-ins at Murphy's tavern and the VFW building.

Molenkamp's case was postponed for two weeks pending the court's appointment of counsel. Walker waived the reading of the information and a plea of guilty was entered. Upon request of counsel, no date was set for sentence. Bonds of $2,000 were continued.

Fireball Skaalen Strikes Out 20 St. Joe Batsmen

Flying Dutchmen Collect 16 Hits; Witteveen Homers

Mike Skaalen did a good job of installing his own air conditioning at Riverview park Monday night. It was shirt-sleeve weather, but Fireball Mike cooled things off by fanning 20 St. Joseph Legion batsmen.

The Flying Dutchmen powdered 16 hits to defeat the invaders 7-1. Big Mike faced 38 batsmen. He allowed five hits and issued six walks. It was his seventh straight victory of the season without defeat.

Skaalen's "hex" was so effective that he struck out the side four times along the route, including the first and last innings.

St. Joe tallied its lone run in the fifth inning on two walks and a disputed cut-off play at home plate. The Umpire Ade Moes called safe. The Legionnaires threatened in the third after Skaalen had walked the bases loaded. However he settled down and struck out the next batter and forced another man to ground out to second.

The Dutchmen tallied twice in the second inning. Bob Greenhoe singled and went to second when the left fielder muffed the pick-up. Whitey Witteveen singled Greenhoe home. Loren Wenzel singled to score Witteveen. Skaalen singled, Wenzel taking third. A pop-fly by Ron Fortney and George Czerkies' strike out ended the inning.

The Dutchmen tallied again in the third on hits by Harry DeNeff and Greenhoe, and a stolen base.

Both teams ambled through the next inning until the visitors tallied that lone run in the fifth. After that, the teams settled down until the locals staged a one-run rally on three hits in the bottom of the seventh. Fortney singled and Lou Borgman beat out a perfect bunt down the third base line. Fortney went to third on an infield out and crossed the plate after Frank Wlodarczyk's single.

Holland added three insurance runs in the bottom of the eighth. Witteveen was the big gun with his home run blast high over the right field wall with Greenhoe aboard. Fortney and Borgman singled and, after stealing second and third, Fortney came home when the catcher threw the ball over the third baseman's head.

Guy Ross went the distance for St. Joe. He struck out two Dutch batters and walked two. His mates committed three errors.

The win gives Holland a season record of 12 out of 19 victories.

New Insect Pest Is Identified

Allagan, July 14 (Special) — A newly discovered insect pest which has been annoying housewives in the Saugatuck-Douglas area is identified as the strawberry root weevil.

Women in the western part of the county sent one of the pests to Mary E. Bullis, home extension agent, asking "What is it? What do we do?"

County Agent A. D. Morley and Ray James, entomologist of Michigan State college, decided the small, hard-shelled insect was the same that feeds on leaves and berries of the strawberry plants in the spring. When its feeding ground dried up, the bug went into homes in search of a drink. There it crawls on the walls but apparently does no damage to the house or furnishings.

Chlordane or parathion were recommended for control of the one-quarter inch dark colored snout beetle. Either dust or wettable powders may be used under window sills according to direction, the agent advises. Small children should not be allowed in contact with the poisons.

Although Hitless, VFW Shuts Out Dykema in Upset

Baker Furniture Topples Holland Furnace in Finale

VFW and pitcher Matt Numinkoski pulled a surprise in City Softball league play Tuesday night by defeating Dykema Tailors, 2-0. Numinkoski added to the upset by limiting the usually free-hitting Tailors to four safeties.

Although the Vets came out on top, it wasn't until the fourth inning that they scored a run. And even at that, the run-producing was over almost before it began.

But the prize mix-up, although VFW won the contest, was the fact that it wasn't able to touch Dykema pitcher Herk Cramer for a single safe hit.

In the two-run Vet fourth, Chick Zych started things by walking. An error that put Doug Harmsen on, advanced him to second. After both runners moved up one more notch on a wild pitch, Chet Pierson walked to load the bases.

Don Van Duren's long fly to left scored Zych. Harmsen tallied a moment later on the error that put Ernie Wehrmeyer on first.

The second game of the softball calendar Tuesday night pitted Baker Furniture and Holland Furnace against each other.

Baker got the contest under control in the first inning and went on to win, 5-0.

Furniture men took and Bird tallied two runs after singling to open the frame.

Baker concluded scoring in the fourth with three more markers on a walk by Oliver and singles by Ribbens, Tooker and Roels.

Furnace, meanwhile, was getting little bit satisfaction from Ribbens, who did the pitching for the Furniture men. He limited the Heaters to five base blows.

Baker, however, belted the offerings of Weener nine times afield.

Vandenberg, Ford Reply to Petitions

Delbert S. Weatherwax, 186 West Eighth St., who has spearheaded a drive for a group of local pensioners to have Social Security payments increased, has received acknowledgments from both Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and Rep. Gerald R. Ford, Jr.

Vandenberg wrote in part: "I have long favored an expansion of the present Social Security law with respect to coverage and increased benefits. Legislation on the subject pending with the Ways and Means committee of the House, and would have to be passed by the House before it comes to the Senate for consideration. When this happens, you may depend upon my interest and activity accordingly."

Ford wrote: "Our Social Security program is vitally necessary for the protection of our older citizens. Despite my support for the program as a whole, I disagree in several instances with the method by which this protection is secured. I particularly refer to the manner in which reserves have been accumulated and invested. Readjustments must and should be made now. Everyone knows the value of the dollar has depreciated materially and for that reason, if for no other, some upward adjustment should be made. I assure you and other signers that I will definitely have your recommendation in mind at the time this legislation comes to the floor of the House."

Wingless Chicken With More Meat Looks Like Shmoo

Veterinary Salesman Says it Took 10 Years To Develop New Flock

By Robert Baldwin

Des Moines, Ia.—Peter Baumann trotted out his flock of 400 chickens for inspection. They ran like chickens and made noises like chickens. But they had no wings.

Baumann, a veterinary supply salesman who breeds chickens on the side, proclaimed proudly that they are "the nearest thing to a shmoo of anything alive."

He said he had spent 10 years developing the wingless flock, and that he expects the breed to set a new trend in chicken dinners.

No longer will the head of the family struggle with wing bones and joints at Sunday dinner, Baumann said. The wingless chicken has a thick layer of white meat where ordinary chickens have wings.

Baumann said he had kept his chickens at secret because he "wanted to be sure it was a success." When the word got out, he invited newsmen to his chickenyard to inspect his wingless wonders.

Baumann said his chickens at first had difficulty keeping their balance without wings, but now they have overcome it.

Baumann, who studied animal husbandry at Iowa State college, said his chickens "are not freaks." "A freak does not reproduce," he said.

The ancestors of his new breed came from Texas, Baumann said. He was traveling through the state in the 1930's when he acquired a light brahma rooster and a white minora hen. Each bird had only stubs for wings.

He bred them, he said, and was astounded when the hen hatched wingless chicks. He began experimenting and inbreeding, he said.

"At first I got only three or four wingless birds out of 100 eggs," Baumann said.

But now, he said, about 95 out of every 100 chicks had no wings at all. He picked up one as a sample and handed it to newsmen. Its sides were smooth—not a sign of a wing.

Some of the others, he said, have stubs or a stub on one side and a wing on the other.

Baumann's chickens average about 4½ pounds, about the same as a leghorn.

Mulching Trees Increased Yields

Mulching cherry trees with straw or legume hay increased yields 100 per cent in experiments conducted by Dr. A. L. Kenworthy, horticulturist at Michigan State college.

This increase occurred on trees receiving only mulch and no fertilizer as compared with trees which received complete fertilizer but no mulch. Yields increased 100 per cent. Tree size and the content of nitrogen and phosphate in the leaves increased 25 per cent over the unmulched trees. Potassium content of leaves increased 30 per cent.

In some areas in Michigan sawdust is readily available as mulching material, and is used successfully on some vegetable and small fruit crops. However, when sawdust was applied around cherry trees, there was no increase in yield, tree size or nutrient content of the leaves, unless fertilizer applications were increased.

Dr. Kenworthy points out that part of the cost of mulching is absorbed by the saving in fertilizer. In many instances a complete fertilizer need not be applied when straw or hay mulch is used. If complete fertilizer is applied, no immediate benefit results if the soil is fairly fertile. Nitrogen applications have been reduced 50 per cent with fresh straw mulch without the percentage of nitrogen in the leaves.

MSC Announces First Rockefeller Grants

East Lansing — Awards of grants - in aid - totalling $2,595 for research into Midwestern culture to five scholars and writers have been announced by Dean Lloyd C. Emmons, chairman of a special Michigan State college committee selected to administer a $30,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, N. Y.

Selected as the first to do research and their awards were: Dr. Mentor B. Williams, Illinois Institute of Technology, $500; Mrs. Allie Johnson, Gwin, $295; Dr. Bernard Duffey, MSC, $500; Prof. Charles F. Hampton, MSC, $300. Professor C. H. Hoffer, Duane Gibson, Frederick Thaden, Judson Landis, and Allan Beegle, all of the MSC Social Research Service, were awarded $1,000 for a joint study into Michigan's 100 year farm families.

According to Dean Emmons these initial studies will be completed in March, 1950. The entire project will continue to at least March, 1952.

Thin Peaches to Get Large, Better Fruit

Peaches must be thinned if large sized, high color fruit is to be produced, advises H. D. Hootman, Michigan State college extension horticulturist. Thinning out of excess fruit should be completed before the pits harden.

Hand thinning of an average tree will require 45 minutes for an experienced worker. Hootman says a good job can be done with a home constructed pole. The center four feet bamboo fishing pole should be selected and a 14-inch piece of garden hose fitted over the pole and worked down about four inches.

Striking about 18 inches from the branch end with a blow at right angles to the direction the branch is growing gives a saving in labor with no tree injury.

Quack Grass Control Done With Chemical

Quack grass can be killed with a water soluble chemical, reports R. F. Carlson, Michigan State college horticulturist.

Tests at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment station have proved that quack grass can be controlled through the use of a chemical commonly known as TCA.

Quack grass is one of the greatest nuisances on the farm and in the garden. During early June when the grass begins to head out is an excellent time to apply control measures.

TCA is the best chemical now available for control of the quack grass, Carlson advises. It is water soluble and is easily applied with any kind of sprayer. One pound of a 60 per cent TCA in one gallon of water is enough to cover an area 25 by 25 feet.

TCA should not be used where any vegetable or other crop is growing. It can be used in vacant lots and along fences where the grass is crowding on the garden.

In some instances it can be used for spot spraying in various vegetable and small fruit plantings where the quack grass is crowding out the plants. It is often advisable to sacrifice part of the crop in order to eliminate patches of the weed which may otherwise eventually infest the whole field.

Carlson warns that as far as is now known, the material is injurious to most actively growing crops plants. If infested lands must be cropped this season, TCA may be applied in the fall. Land will be free of the chemical by spring so crops can again be planted.

Yorkshire Breeders Staging Annual Picnic

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Palmer, III, will be hosts July 17 to the annual picnic of the Michigan Yorkshire Breeders association at their Old Elm farms north of Parma.

Yorkshire breeders from all over the state are expected to attend the picnic, which will feature a type contest and judging contests.

The meeting will open with a basket lunch at noon with ice cream and soft drinks supplied.

Two swine experts from Ohio State University will be present to take charge of the conference on the Yorkshire types. They are Prof. Joseph Coffey and Prof. L. A. Kaufman.

Robert Shannon, secretary of the National Yorkshire Breeders association, and Jack Story of Grand Rapids, secretary of the state group, will be present also.

In announcing the picnic, Palmer issues a blanket invitation to "all persons interested in purebred swine" to attend the July 17 event.

The Old Elm farms are located four miles north of Parma on North Parma road.

Cloudburst Yields 2.60 Inches Rain

A cloudburst Saturday and a heavy rain in early evening and toward midnight Friday yielded a near record rainfall of 2.60 inches up to 11 a.m. today, according to Charles Stetkewich who takes readings at the weather station on Hope college campus.

Saturday's cloudburst was so heavy, the rain container overflowed into a secondary container. The regular container holds the equivalent of two inches of rainfall. This happened on one occasion last summer, Stetkewich said.

The severe electric storm did little damage here. Lightning struck the chimney of the new Reformed church at North Holland and tore off a few asbestos chingles and molding on the roof shortly before midnight. There was no fire.

Judgment Given

Grand Haven, July 14 (Special) — A judgment for the return of a ball bearing moulder was entered in Ottawa county circuit court this morning in favor of the Madison Machine Works of Rockford, Ill., against the Northern Wood Products Co. of Holland.

Michigan First in Number of Cattle Breeding Groups

Michigan ranks first in the number of artificial breeding associations for dairy cattle and eighth in the total number of cows bred artificially, a recent U.S. Department of Agriculture report shows.

On January 1, 1949, Michigan had 133 associations, 29 more than Minnesota, its nearest rival. In number of cows bred during 1948, however, Michigan ranked eighth with 120,000. Wisconsin led with 420,000 cows serviced artificially.

Every state in the United States now has an artificial insemination program for dairy cattle and nearly 2,500,000 cows are in herds serviced.

O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairy industry of USDA, recently pointed to the Michigan program as an example of what artificial breeding can do to spread good inheritance to a large number of cows. The former MSC dairy department head cited that 12 per cent of Michigan's dairy cattle are now being bred artificially.

Figures of the Michigan Artificial Breeders co-operative at Michigan State college show that 40 per cent of the dairy cows in Ingham county are bred artificially. In far away Emmet county, at the top of the lower peninsula of Michigan, the figure reaches 25 per cent.

Dairymen interested in the local artificial breeding associations in their county may obtain information from county agricultural agents.

Strawberry Root Weevil House Pest

"Here are the bugs. What will drive them away?" That was a question received by Mary E. Bullis, home extension agent with a sample bug which has become quite a pest in homes in the vicinity of Saugatuck and Douglas.

The sample was a small, hard shelled insect that is said to enter the homes and crawl on the walls. In consultation with A. D. Morley, county agricultural agent, and Ray Jones, entomologist of MSC, it was decided that the insect was the strawberry root weevil.

This weevil is a small dark colored snout beetle about one-fourth inch long. This beetle feeds on leaves and berries of the strawberry plants and when the plants dry up the bug comes into the house to find a drink.

Chlordane or parathion are recommended for control. Either one of these dusts or wettable powders may be used under window sills according to directions.

Precaution should be used in applying either parathion or chlordane. It should not be used any place in which small children would come in contact such as screens or door sills.

As far as known, the strawberry root weevil does no damage to the homes which it enters.

Pack Clothes Well For Pleasant Trip

If you're taking a trip this summer, you'll want to be sure your clothes are suitable and that they'll look good throughout the trip.

Florence Rann, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State college, says it's always wise to find out as much as possible about the place you are going. A travel agency, newspaper, or magazine will inform you about the temperature in various parts of the country.

The clothes you pack in the going away bag depend on your destination and the activities you will enjoy when you arrive. If you are to be on the go most of the time with infrequent stops, reduce your laundering by taking knit rayon or quick drying nylon underthings that can be rinsed out and worn without ironing.

To avoid muzzing a carefully packed bag when you undress at night on the train, it's wise to put all your necessary toilet articles, gown and robe, in a flat soft fabric case which can be made yourself. Place this at the top of your suitcase. They may also be carried in an overnight case.

If the bag must be opened frequently and you have one or two very special dresses that you wish to keep fresh and unwrinkled, follow this plan:

Fold them with care, packing tissue paper between the layers to keep them from wrinkling. They may be pinned so they won't slip. Place them in a heavy sheet of paper and pin it so it makes a neat package. This package can be put on top of the other clothes and laid aside when some garment is to be taken from the case. Air it an hour or so before it is needed and it will stay fresh and unmuzzed.

Annual Swine Type Day To Be Held at Charlotte

Swine men are looking forward to the fourth annual swine type conference to be held July 20 at the Eaton county fairgrounds, Charlotte. A production exhibit is also planned for the day.

Sponsored by the Michigan State college extension service and the Michigan Swine Breeders' association, the event is planned to keep breeders and producers abreast of the changing trends in show ring type.

A number of swine authorities will speak at the event and swine breeders will bring in judging classes for at least nine breeds.

In addition to the type classes, there will be an exhibit of the top production sows and their litters in this year's sow testing project.

Irrigation Meets High Water Needs

Michigan is the only state east of the Mississippi river which has a sub-humid climate during the growing season in more than 50 per cent of the years.

R. L. Carolus, Michigan State college horticulturist, states that most vegetable crops require from 1,500 to 3,000 tons of water per acre for best growth. One inch of rainfall equals 10 tons of water per acre. During June, July, and August, Michigan rainfall averages about 8.5 inches or only 850 tons per acre.

If crops are to produce maximum yields, the extra 650 to 2,150 tons of water or 6.5 to 21.5 inches of rain equivalent must be added through the use of irrigation.

In an experiment conducted by Carolus near East Lansing in 1948, snap beans, tomatoes, and sweet corn all responded to irrigation. Beans gave the greatest per cent of yield increase when eight inches of water was applied during the season. Wax beans gave an increase of 55 per cent, while green beans increased 31 per cent.

Tomatoes and sweet corn gave the greatest increase in yield when four inches of water was applied. Tomatoes yielded 65 to 70 per cent more and sweet corn gave increases of 110 to 142 per cent.

In addition to yields due to irrigation, quality was also improved. Percentage of sweet corn that was marketable increased 58 per cent.

Portable irrigation pipe and water from a nearby creek were used in these trials.
