Summer Resorters' Son Escapes Red Purge in Hungary

Albert Sherer Family Sent From Budapest After Prelate's Trial

The son of Castle Park resorters barely escaped a recent Communist purge in Budapest, Hungary.

He is Albert Sherer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sherer of Chicago and Greenwich, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Sherer have been vacationers at the Castle for the last 30 years.

Their son, who was third secretary of the legation in Budapest, was ordered out of that country by the Red regime on July 5. He was given just 24 hours to pack the belongings of his family and get out.

The ouster order involved a controversy that grew out of the spy trial of Archbishop Josef Groesz.

Communications via telephone and cable between the son in Austria and his folks in America disclosed that he made it to Vienna, Austria, with just 40 minutes to spare under the 24-hour limit. His wife and two children, Peter, 5, and Susan, 4, accompanied him.

Miss Ruth Tryon, information officer and head of the United States information service, was ordered out with Sherer. He had been doing political reporting on Hungary for the United States in Budapest.

Both were named by witnesses at the Archbishop's trial. The United States would have recalled the duo at that time, except for the fact that recall would have been an admission of guilt.

Instead, they were declared "undesirable" by the Red regime and ordered out.

Sherer has been in the foreign service for the last five years. He entered the service after World War II and served in Tangier, Morocco, before going to Budapest one year and 10 months ago.

He was graduated from Yale university and Harvard law school and served in the armed forces for four years and seven months during the war. He was discharged from the Air Force as a major.

According to Sherer, the Communists have closed libraries and all information services in Budapest. The American legation, numbering 60 persons when Sherer arrived, now is greatly reduced. The minister left Budapest four months ago.

Sherer told his parents in the telephone conversation that he was "very tired" and plans a European vacation before coming back to New York Aug. 4.

His next assignment will be in Washington, D. C., according to his mother. She expects him to visit the Castle with his family later this summer.

His mother, Mrs. Albert Sherer, is a native of New York City and is now living in the Castle.

His father, Mr. Albert Sherer, is a native of New York City and is now living in the Castle.

Ten Cate, Hallan, Winter Elected To School Board

One new trustee was elected and two incumbents were re-elected at the annual Board of Education election which attracted 678 voters to Junior high school Monday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. John K. Winter, trustee for the last three years, led the ticket with 544 votes, and Vernon D. Ten Cate, who also served one three-year term, was second with 413 votes.

James A. Hallan, a new candidate, defeated incumbent John Olet, member of the board for 18 years. Hallan received 390 votes and Olet, 337 votes. Willis Wellington, another candidate, received 265 votes.

All terms are for three years. Voting was fairly steady throughout the afternoon followed by a big influx of voters in early evening. Serving on the election board were C. J. De Koster, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Hartman and Marvin De Vries.

Hallan, newcomer to the board, attended the regular board meeting which followed the election. He is a native of Minnesota, was graduated from Hope college in 1939, returned to Holland in 1945 after four years in the Navy and at present is personnel director at Baker Furniture, Inc. He is married and has two daughters.

Mrs. Winter is a graduate of Zeeland high school and Hope college and received a master's degree from Northwestern university. She taught secondary school in Zeeland before her marriage to a local physician. They have two sons. Her chief interests in the work of the Board of Education have been the professional personnel, its problems and the policies regarding curriculum.

Vernon D. Ten Cate, local attorney, who has completed his first three-year term, has particularly been active in the financial operations of the Board of Education. A native of Holland, he is a graduate of Hope college and the University of Michigan.

City Trucks Busy

City trucks from both the street and park departments continued today to haul away tree limbs and other debris left from Sunday morning's baby tornado that struck sections of Holland. Engineer Jacob Zuidema said that the branches would be taken to the city dump.

Statewide Search Ordered for Man; Description Given

Hotel Netherlands Is Scene of Crime Early This Morning

A statewide search was ordered Saturday for a man who staged a hold-up in Hotel Netherlands at 4:15 a.m. Saturday and escaped with $54.

Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff said state police and other enforcement agencies were alerted as quickly as possible after Mrs. Ella P. Schmidt informed local officers a man had just robbed the hotel cash drawer.

Mrs. Schmidt, who with her husband, William A., operate the hotel, told police the man was about 30 years old, five-feet seven-inches tall, 165 pounds, dark hair and eyes and dark thin mustache, and wearing washed out khaki pants and shirt, and three-quarter length khaki coat. She believed he also wore a khaki cap with visor but wasn't sure.

She explained the man came in about 4:15 a.m. and asked for change to make a telephone call. She gave him change from the cash drawer, and later locked it, put the key in her pocket and went to sit in the lobby. The man spent considerable time in the closed phone booth but didn't seem to be getting any call through.

When he emerged he kept his right hand in his pocket and told Mrs. Schmidt to sit right where she was and she wouldn't get hurt. When he found the cash locked he asked for the key, and Mrs. Schmidt didn't argue. He helped himself to bills and large coins, leaving a supply of nickels and one dime amounting to $1.30. He apparently did not want to be bothered by small coins.

As he was leaving he asked, "How far is it to Grand Rapids?" Mrs. Schmidt replied, "About 23 miles."

Those were the only words she spoke during the entire situation. She told the Sentinel today, "He was a perfect gentleman and didn't have any accent. I was angry about the whole thing because I just couldn't do anything but sit in that chair."

She woke her husband immediately afterwards and then called police. She said she was unable to see the sidewalk from the second floor lobby window because of a cement ledge and couldn't see which way the robber went.

"It wasn't until much later I remembered I could have seen it from the fire escape," she said.

She said she believed the man asked the distance to Grand Rapids in an effort to provide a false clue.

She recalled shortly before the man entered that she had seen a car pull into the alley at the Kroger store nearby and turn off its lights. Whether the man came from that car could only be speculation.

"I'm a calm person and don't get excited quickly," Mrs. Schmidt said today. "But it was maddening not to be able to do anything."

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt have been operating Hotel Netherlands for almost six years.

Holland Man Presents Charter in Montana

Matthew Wilson of Holland, former secretary of Holland chapter, SPEBSQSA, Inc., and editor of its bulletin, is in Glasgow, Mont., where he presented permanent charters to the Glasgow SPEBSQSA chapter in behalf of the international society. The local chapter sponsored the Glasgow chapter, which received a temporary charter a year ago.

The charter program was preceded by a smorgasbord at the Glasgow country club. Wilson was introduced by August Isen, president and chorus director, and presented the charter to the first and retiring president, Clair Dunnell.

As master of ceremonies for the program, Wilson introduced two quartets and the chorus and conducted a quartet contest.

The Wilsons, who recently returned from Hawaii, took part in the program. He played the ukulele, assisted by a quartet singing "Little Brown Gal" and "The Hawaiian Song." Mrs. Wilson danced Hawaiian hulas.

In the year of probation, the Montana chapter has developed a fine barbershop chorus and five excellent quartets, according to Wilson. The groups have appeared at more than 17 state and local events.

Zeeland Soldier Wounded In Korean Fighting

Zeeland (Special) — Pvt. Donald De Koster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob De Koster, Jr., of 256 South Wall St., Zeeland was wounded in action in Korean on June 8. He has been sent to Japan and is to remain there for another month.

Drafted into the Army, Sept. 8, 1950, De Koster was one of the first draftees to leave from Ottawa county. He was born in Zeeland and is 22 years old.

When cherries are down this low, it's easy picking for the young migrant workers in Allegan County's fruit belt. The McCord twins—two sets of them—co-operate on salvaging the fruit on this wind-wrecked tree on the Clyde Earl farm near Fennville.

Fennville, Glendene and Wilma Jean, 9, and Robby Eugene and Jill Frances, 11, are from Arkansas and came north with their mother to work in the cherry harvest.

Cherry Pickers Busy Salvaging Beaten Crop

Fennville (Special) — Picking cherries on hands and knees?

That's what workers in some of western Allegan county's fruit belt are doing.

Some cherry growers, facing a disastrous loss after Sunday's near-tornado wind, are trying to salvage the fruit on the broken and uprooted trees.

Most of the county's cherries were bruised by the high wind, but some orchards took a terrible beating when the gale dipped into them, ruining probably hundreds of trees.

Clyde Earl, route 3, Fennville, was a farmer who took a bitter loss. With nearly 200 trees down, he estimates damage at $5,000, considering the cost of replanting his orchard and losing fruit.

"Last year, I took 64 tons of Montmorencies out of this orchard," he said. "I'll be lucky if I get 20 tons this year."

Migrant workers went to work on the fallen trees first, working on their knees or straddling ground-level limbs to do their work. The ground was practically covered with the ripe fruit.

The farm of Mrs. Helen Tucker, adjoining Earl's, was also in the path of the wind. Her son-in-law and partner, Ed Smierka, said 65 to 75 of their cherry trees were ruined.

County Agent A. D. Morley, making a quick survey of the county's condition, said he believed the storm would take a 20 per cent toll of the crop over the county at large.

The crop was already about five per cent less than last year's big production, he said.

Rev. Brunsting Called

Grand Haven (Special)—The Rev. Bernard Brunsting, pastor of First Reformed church, Grand Haven, has received a call to Bethel Reformed church of Bellflower, Calif., which was extended in a telegram Tuesday morning.

Rev. Brunsting has been pastor of the local church since June 1, 1949, and in 1948 served the church as its summer pastor. The Bellflower church has a membership of about 168 families, compared with 400 families in the local church.

The charter program was preceded by a smorgasbord at the Glasgow country club. Wilson was introduced by August Isen, president and chorus director, and presented the charter to the first and retiring president, Clair Dunnell.

As master of ceremonies for the program, Wilson introduced two quartets and the chorus and conducted a quartet contest.

The Wilsons, who recently returned from Hawaii, took part in the program. He played the ukulele, assisted by a quartet singing "Little Brown Gal" and "The Hawaiian Song." Mrs. Wilson danced Hawaiian hulas.

In the year of probation, the Montana chapter has developed a fine barbershop chorus and five excellent quartets, according to Wilson. The groups have appeared at more than 17 state and local events.

Aged Grand Haven Man Dies After Short Illness

Grand Haven (Special) — Emil Meschky, 90, died Tuesday afternoon at his home, 1208 Columbus St., after a week's illness. He was born in Germany July 3, 1861, and came to this country at the age of 23. He settled in Chicago, where he married Johanna Seifert, and where he was associated with a sugar concern until moving to a farm in Grand Haven township and later to Grand Haven with his family about 40 years ago.

He retired a number of years ago. Since the death of his wife in 1933 his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Reghel, had made their home with him.

Besides Mrs. Reghel, he is survived by a son, Ernest, of Grand Haven, and three other daughters, Mrs. August Berg and Mrs. Herman Balgooyen of Grand Haven and Mrs. Fletcher Carveth of New York City; five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Christian Science services will be read by Franklin Fisher at Kinkema funeral home Friday at 3 p.m. Burial will be at Lake Forest cemetery.

Muskegon Truck Driver Fined on Fishing Count

Grand Haven (Special)—Clare Hoffman, 35, a Muskegon truck driver, was charged by conservation officer Harold Bowditch with failing to produce a fishing license on demand June 25 on Spring Lake. He paid $5 fine and $7.40 costs.

Andy Dykema, Grand Rapids, was arrested by a deputy of the county road commission July 2 for an overloaded truck on Stearns Bayou bridge and he paid $100 fine and $2 costs. The officer alleged Dykema, hauling a caterpillar tractor on a trailer had a load of 21,440 lbs., the gross load limit on the bridge being 8,000 lbs.

Both were arraigned before Justice George Hoffer Monday.

Sportsmen Plan To Honor Leader

Grand Haven (Special)—Thursday night at 7 p.m. the North Ottawa Rod and Gun club will honor Dr. John H. Kitchel, at "Dr. Kitchel Night," with a fish fry at the club house.

Dr. Kitchel has served the organization as president for three successive terms and has provided the club with outstanding leadership for five years, during which time the club leased 39 acres of land in Grand Haven township which has since been developed as club grounds.

A 12-year goal of the local sportsmen was completed this summer when the finishing touches were put on the volunteer-labor-built club house.

For the past year Dr. Kitchel has been editor of the monthly Ottawa Out-of-Doors conservation magazine published by the county game clubs. He also was instrumental in securing Deremo's island for club duck hunting members and has been active recently in trying to lease more marshland between Grand Haven and Spring Lake for a wildfowl sanctuary so the state will release geese in local marshes.

Hope Abandoned For Two in Lake

Lexington—Hope was abandoned today for two missing members of a fishing party lost on storm-tossed Lake Huron late yesterday.

Clarence Smith, 40, Detroit, and Brother Aubert Krass, 64, Buffalo, N. Y., were last seen clinging to their upturned rowboat.

Smith is a brother of Mrs. Harold Vander Ploeg of 1645 South Shore Dr., Mrs. Vander Ploeg left for her brother's home in Detroit Wednesday shortly after hearing about the tragedy.

A 20-hour air-sea search was called off last night when no trace of the boat had been found and it was virtually certain the two had perished. The body of another victim was washed ashore shortly after the tragedy and there was one survivor who swam more than a mile to shore with the boat's only life preserver.

Two Holland Residents Receive Garden Awards

Two Holland residents are winners of the Garden of the Week selected by the Holland Tulip Garden club. They are Bernard Jensen, 134 West 14th St., and Egbert Bareman, Jr., 136 West 14th St.

The gardens are nicely laid out, well cared for, and have interesting plant material, according to garden club officials.

The lots are narrow in this vicinity and are not plainly visible from the street, garden club members, said.

2 Deaths Caused By Severe Winds In This Section

A near tornado swept Western Michigan and sections of the Midwest early Sunday morning, uprooting trees, leveling buildings and caused the deaths of two persons in this area.

Walter Theodore Nelson, 55, Grand Rapids, was killed while trying to remove a fallen tree from his boat channel at Douglas. The tractor he was driving overturned on him, crushing his chest and causing internal injuries. The accident occurred about 10 a.m. about three and a half hours after the worst storm in many years hit the lake shore.

Mrs. Sinabelle Smith, 67, of Toledo, Ohio, was killed when a car driven by her husband, Frank, 66, swerved to miss a tree blown down across US-31 near Muskegon, and went out of control. The driver and Lucetta Shmik, 54, of St. Charles, Ill., were slightly injured.

As the wild wind hopped destructively through Allegan county, it broke limbs from several trees. There were estimates that gusts hit 50 miles per hour. The county's hardest hit spot for building damage was Cheshire Center, but a quarter-mile strip in Casco township fruit country was a path of wreckage.

Several limbs were broken off trees in red ripe cherry orchards in the southwest section.

While high winds swept Western Michigan, stronger storms battered Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois throughout the week-end, claiming at least seven lives. Two men were drowned when their boat capsized in high Lake Michigan waves off Chicago and three persons were killed when their car skidded into a truck in a heavy Indiana rainstorm.

A series of thunderstorms battered Wisconsin causing hundreds of thousands of dollars damage. Winds reached 88 miles an hour. Chicago had 2.41 inches of rain that flooded underpasses. Wind and lightning knocked cornices off buildings, tore trees down and caused several fires.

Installation Set Friday Evening

Grand Haven (Special) — Dr. Gerrit Menning, graduate of Hope college and Western Theological seminary, will be installed as pastor of the Hope Reformed church in Grand Haven township Friday evening.

Dr. Menning has been pastor of the Reformed church in Waupun, Wis., since 1943. From 1927 to 1943 he was pastor of the Third Reformed church in Pella, Iowa.

The Rev. Harmon Wierenga of Muskegon, president of the classis, will preside at the 8 p.m. services. The Rev. G. J. Rozeboom of Coopersville will charge the pastor; the Rev. Russell Redeker of Spring Lake will charge the congregation and the Rev. Bernard Brunsting of Grand Haven will deliver the sermon. The Rev. A. T. Laman of Conklin will offer prayer and Dr. Menning, who was presented with a doctor of divinity degree from Central college, Pella, Iowa, this spring, will close the service with benediction.

Special music will be furnished by a trio.

Hope Reformed church has been without a pastor since the second Sunday in April when the Rev. William Vandenberg accepted a call to Sanborn, Iowa. Peter Breen, student pastor, has been conducting the services in the church.

Ponstein Damage Suit Adjudged to July 19

Grand Haven (Special)—The case of William Ponstein against Elizabeth Lowing, both of Hudsonville, in which plaintiff is seeking $20,000 for permanent injuries allegedly received in an accident May 31, 1947, has been adjudged until July 19. It was originally scheduled to be heard in Ottawa circuit court Friday.

Instead, an appeal case of John F. Hyde, 29, route 2, Grand Haven, who was found guilty by a justice court jury Dec. 28, 1950, of drunk driving, will be heard. Defendant, charged under the city ordinance, will be prosecuted by City Atty. Jacob Ponstein.

Break-In Probed

Plan Commission Gets-Together With City Fathers

Informal Meeting Features Explanation Of Primary Goals

Common Council was introduced to the why and wherefores of city planning Tuesday evening at an informal meeting with the City Planning commission in City Hall.

It was the first get-together for the two important municipal units.

Scott Bagby, planning consultant, was on the floor for most of the session, explaining Holland's goal and answering questions by aldermen. Marvin C. Lindeman, chairman of the planning commission, presided.

Bagby started with a "two-and-two" explanation of purposes of a plan for Holland and branched into problems, plans and proposals for this area.

"We have tentatively predetermined that our master plan for Holland must provide for 40,000 people in this metropolitan area," Bagby said. "Right now there are 25,000."

He explained that "we don't guess" but base figures and goals on careful studies of business, industrial, home and financial growths.

Bagby used illustrated maps freely in explaining his points. These maps embraced the general area included in Holland's proposed master plan. It includes Riley Ave. to the north, Lake Michigan in the west side, new US-31 to the east and 46th St. on the south side.

He pointed out, among other things, that this area must concentrate on getting rid of a few blighted living areas and must provide zoning and other requirements that will keep average and above average residential areas from losing their values.

He explained that in recent years the trend has been for persons to move out of the city to suburban areas. However, that trend is reversing these days because families who moved to outlying areas now are confronted with high costs of providing schools for their children, sewers and sanitary facilities.

"One of the big problems is meeting future high school and junior high school needs for outlying areas," he said.

Bagby briefly outlined the Planning commission's proposed traffic picture that now is under study by the state highway department. Even with US-31 by passing Holland, the consultant pointed out that much of the truck and passenger car traffic still terminates or originates in Holland.

The proposed long-range traffic picture would include a few one-way streets and main arteries of travel. Many other streets in the area, especially in residential districts, would be bypassed by most cars, Bagby explained.

Lindeman pointed out the necessity for close harmony between council and the commission, and called for a mutual exchange of ideas on these proposals from time to time. He said "the picture is starting to emerge" and this is the first step in getting it in motion.

Bagby said the master plan for Holland would be ready sometime early this fall or early winter at which time it will be submitted for public hearings and council adoption.

J. H. Volkers Dies After Lingerin Illness

J. H. Volkers, 78, died early this morning at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vander Ploeg, 275 East 16th St., after a lingering illness. Before retiring he was a farmer near East Saugatuck.

Surviving are seven sons, Harry, Clarence and Marvin of Holland; Joe of Douglas, Francis of Wyoming Park, Justin of East Saugatuck and Charles of Hamilton; four daughters, Mrs. Vander Ploeg, Mrs. Hallie Bryan of Douglas, Mrs. Harvey Rutger of Holland and Mrs. Pinar Sather of Saugatuck; one son-in-law, Henry Holtgeerts of Holland; 30 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m., private, at the Vander Ploeg home and at 2 p.m. from the East Saugatuck Christian Reformed church with the Rev. Peter De Jong officiating. Burial will be in the East Saugatuck cemetery. Friends may call Friday at the Nibbelink-Notter funeral chapel from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday at the Vander Ploeg residence from 10 to 11 a.m. Arrangements were by Clarence Mulder.

Break-In Probed

Housewife Faces Charge of Passing Worthless Checks

A Zeeland housewife waived examination in Park township Justice Court Tuesday on a bad check charge that clears up a wave of 11 bad checks for an estimated $400-$500 passed in the Holland area during the last two months.

Mrs. Eva Jean Kouw, 32, of 318 Washington Ave., Zeeland, furnished bond of $500 for appearance in Circuit Court next week.

The specific charge listed on the complaint is that Mrs. Kouw allegedly cashed a bad check for $48.22 at the Hartman Chevrolet garage in Hudsonville on June 27. Mrs. Kouw "bought" some spark plugs and a fan belt and took the change in cash.

Officers said the checks were passed from May 11 to June 27, and ranged in value from $32 to $64. Included in the list of 11 victims were three merchants in Hudsonville, two each in Allegan and Holland townships, and one each in Holland, Zeeland, Hamilton and Kalamazoo. Officers said that Mrs. Kouw admitted passing these 11 checks.

The clue that broke the case was supplied by the Zeeland woman's latest victim, who suspected the check was phoney. He took down her license number and called the state police. Trooper Reed Harris of the Grand Haven post was sent to this area to work on the case, and he contacted Deputy Clayton Forry. The two men picked up Mrs. Kouw Tuesday morning and put the case together during the day. She was arraigned before Justice C. C. Wood Tuesday afternoon.

Officers said that Mrs. Kouw said she obtained the names she used on the checks from a directory. The checks were made out by typewriter.

Local Lions Club Installs Officers

E. R. Dangremont turned over the gavel and duties of Holland Lions club president to R. O. De weerd at the installation of officers banquet at the Warm Friend Tavern Tuesday evening. The club finished its 24th year and "one of unprecedented progress" as an active service organization.

During and after the dinner the more than 100 members and guests were entertained by the Starlighter trio and the Pettigree-Pedegree barbershop quartet. "Bud" Baker and "Curly" Wiegink led the group in songs.

The following officers were installed by International Councilor Lem Brady of the Saugatuck-Douglas Lions club: Dr. J. A. Lubbers, first vice president; Rudolph Mattson, second vice president; Stanley Boven, third vice president; Harvey J. Barkel, secretary; William G. Oonk, treasurer; Gerrit Wiegink, lion tamer; Ernest Bear, tall twister.

George Stephens and Preston Manting were installed as directors for one year and Burt Kruiswyk and Cornell B. Baker were installed as directors for two-year terms.

In his inauguration speech De weerd named the club's three primary objectives for the year of 51-52 as attendance, membership and service. The slogan "Plan your work, work your plan," was adopted for the coming year.

Saugatuck-Douglas Lions club president Carleton Hutchins and wife were among the guests present.

Missionary Feted At Farewell Showers

Two farewell showers were given by Mrs. Lucas Meiste and Mrs. Harvey Breuker of Hamilton in honor of Mrs. Lorraine Meiste, who will leave soon as a missionary to Nigeria. The parties were held at the Meiste home.

On Friday evening, July 6, guests were the Mesdames Albert Meiste, Albert Lampen, Albert Meiste, Jerry Meiste, Gerald Meiste, Julius Meiste, George Meiste, Justin Meiste, Jake Zoerhof, Edward Van Der Poppen, Andrew Blystra, John Meiste, Harlan Meiste, Dick Rietman, Donald Rietman and the Misses Garys, Marian and Alene Meiste and Jean Ruth Zoerhof.

Guests at the other shower, on June 29, were the Mesdames Fred Grote, Edward Grote, Henry Grote, John Kolvoord, John Lohman, Jerry Lohman, Laurence Lohman, John Bowman, Vernon Lohman, George Lohman, Bernard Lohman, John Smidt, Addison Lohman, Kendall Lohman, Henry Eding, Gerrit Hemeke, Austin Eding, Alvin Nykamp, Hollis Eding, Alvin Eding, Louis Lohman, Harry Lohman and Misses Aletha Lohman, Darlene Smidt, Blanche Eding, Eileen Lohman and Alvin Breuker.

At each of the parties, games were played and prizes awarded to the winners. A two-course lunch was served by the hostesses. The guest of honor received gifts which she will use in her mission work.

Fined For Argument

Howard Bird, 58, living at a local hotel, pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge Monday and was fined $29.70 in Municipal Court. The charge involved an argument between Bird and his wife at the hotel Saturday night. Mrs. Bird was treated at the Holland hospital for knife lacerations on the left hand.

Fountain and Marker Dedicated in Zeeland

Zeeland (Special) — A 20-foot memorial fountain and a granite marker were dedicated at ceremonies Tuesday night in Church St. park as a memorial to the pioneers who settled here in 1847.

As the granite marker was unveiled, the switch was thrown on for the lighted fountain and Zeelanders "ohed" and "ahed" as colored lights played in seven different combinations on the dancing waters.

Mayor Nicholas Frankena was assisted in the dedication and unveiling by Peter Brill, Cyrus Vande Luyster and Walter Van Asselt.

Dr. Nelson Vande Luyster, great grandson of Jannes Vande Luyster, the colony's financial backer, traced the history of the early pioneers and emphasized the heritage they left and "our obligation to uphold the ideals which meant so much in pioneer days."

Dr. Vande Luyster is a professor at Citadel university in Charleston, S. C.

Municipal Judge Cornelius vander Meulen of Holland, a direct descendant of the Rev. Cornelius Vande Meulen, spiritual father of the colony, spoke in eulogy not of pride but of humility. He mentioned his grandfather's fervent faith in God which caused him to leave his lucrative profession in engineering to become spiritual emigration leader, and characterized him as a lover of children, friend of the underdog and a peacemaker.

Cornelius Karsten, president of the 1947 Centennial committee, expressed appreciation of the Centennial Memorial committee for its efforts in securing the memorial and to the Zeeland Garden club for beautifying the park.

The Rev. John den Ouden of First Reformed church led a brief devotional service. Stanley De Pree sang and the Rev. D. D. Bonnema of First Christian Reformed church gave the closing prayer.

Several Appear In Circuit Court

Grand Haven (Special)—Several grand persons were arraigned in Circuit Court Monday and some cases were disposed of while a few others were remanded back to justice court for examination.

Burton Chittenden, 27, Spring Lake, who was found guilty of drunk driving by a circuit court of July 2 on an appeal from a justice court conviction of April 6, was sentenced to pay $100 fine and $100 costs or 90 days. His operator's license was surrendered to the clerk of the court. A request for a stay of proceedings on the judgment for an appeal to the supreme court was granted.

The case of Howard Stone, about 35, of 593 Bay Ave., Central Park, Holland, charged with gross indecency, was remanded back to justice court for examination Friday afternoon. His bond was continued. The alleged offense took place June 13 in Park township.

Douglas John Gordon, 34, of 34 West 17th St., pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to procure the commission of an act of gross indecency and will return Monday, July 16, for disposition. He is not Douglas Gordon who lives at 259 West 16th St.

The cases of Ruth Veemena, 26, and Lillian Cook, 37, both of route 1, Coopersville, charged with committing an act of gross indecency were remanded back to justice court for examination. The alleged offense occurred on or about June 18.

Gordon Burke, 17, of 42 East 22nd St., Holland, charged with felonious assault with a deadly weapon, waived the reading of the information and a plea of not guilty was entered. Burke was placed on probation for three years out of Ottawa court June 11 after pleading guilty to a charge of gross indecency.

Herman Ramsey, 32, of 14 East 18th St., Holland, pleaded guilty to a charge of fraudulent disposition. He allegedly turned in a car to Reliable Auto Sales June 23 on a 1949 car while the 1941 trade-in was subject to a chattel mortgage to First National bank.

Variety of Activities Highlights Resort News

The week of the Fourth of July set Holland area resorts in full swing. Each resort in the area holds parties, ball games and other special events for guests. Many out-of-state visitors this week at local resorts are from Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. However, they also come from such far away places as Lithuania, Washington, D.C., British Columbia and Toronto.

Waukazoo Inn
Several hundred people watched the belated fireworks display at Waukazoo Saturday. The event was postponed from the Fourth of July because of wind. Walker G. Everett and Henry G. Walter of Chicago, provided the display. Walter is known as unofficial "mayor" of Waukazoo.

Dr. Harry Wood, dean of fine arts at Bradley university, will give a talk on art at the Inn Sunday evening. Dr. Wood now is in the advertising business in Peoria, Ill.

Among the recent arrivals at the Inn are Mr. and Mrs. Bland Button, Jr., Winnetka, Ill. Walker G. Everett, New York advertising executive, spent the week-end visiting his sisters Mrs. Ralph Evinrude and Mrs. Roger Q. White.

Charles E. Walker, of Toledo, entertained friends with a spaghetti supper at Oullimette cottage at Waukazoo last Friday. The opening dance of the season was held last Friday. Len Rummier's orchestra provided music.

A week ago the Carl Gorr family arrived in the "Golden Dawn" to spend a few days at the Inn. Twice they were ready to return to Chicago but bad weather kept their boat at the Waukazoo dock.

Sunny Brook resort has hosted many vacationers this week. Arriving at the courts this week were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boerbor, from South Bend, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Porter, George and Tommy, Cincinnati, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. H. Bultow, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. W. Sutton, Kay and Donald, from Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Eckelberry and son, Battle Creek.

Others are Mr. and Mrs. J. Adinoff, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. J. Sennes and children of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Tolley, Richmond, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Nicholson, Joliet, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bayer, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Also resorting at Sunny Brook are Mr. and Mrs. B. Ohlich, Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maley, Waupun, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. S. Bellofine, Berwyn, Ill., an Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bell and family, Butler, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutton were winners of the shuffleboard tournament. They defeated Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Porter.

Lakeshore Cabins
Lake Shore Cabin guests were entertained at a barbecue Tuesday night. The evening program also included water skiing exhibition. Members of the group included Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Heil, from Ferguson, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young, from Louisville, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. George Gauthier, Jr., of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Elvea and son from Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. J. V. O'Shea, from Chilliawac, British Columbia, Canada.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dorsky and Betty Ann, McKees Rocks, Pa.; Miss Alyce Hipman and party, Gary, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. James Hunt, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. William Dom, Rose Point Woods.

The Mooring
The Mooring has proved a popular spot for many families. Arriving from Toronto, Canada, to spend a vacation in the Holland area is the Sidney Starfield family.

Mooring guests from Chicago are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Child and daughters, Jeanne and Susan, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Coombs, newly weds, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Schowchow, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treash.

An Ohio contingent registered at the Mooring lists Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mearing, Toledo; Mr. and Mrs. Henri Marc and daughters, Lourette and Marilyn, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Boyd and Mrs. Boyd's parents, all of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Talley and family, Cincinnati; and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hodepp, Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armsby, Mooring guests, of Washington, D.C., were visited by Dr. and Mrs. Irwin J. Lubbers, of Holland, Monday evening. Mr. Armsby is a member of the U.S. office of education.

Another Mooring guest is Miss Olive, Hadly, Ind.

Castle Park
New guests at Castle Park include Mrs. J. Paul Jones and children, from South Bend, Ind.; Mrs. H. Uhl, from South Bend, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. F. ## School Board Hires Teacher

Mostly routine business occupied the Holland Christian school board of trustees at its monthly meeting Tuesday night. Much of the business dealt with enrollment problems for the next school year and the opening of the new West Side school in September.

The appointment of one new teacher was confirmed by the board. Appointed to the fourth grade in the South Side school was Lorraine Verduin of Caledonia. She attended Calvin college and spent three years teaching in the mission school at Zuni, N. M. Supt. Bert P. Bos reported that most of the teaching vacancies had been filled.

Bos reported on the problems connected with the expected increase of pupils next September. He estimated that the elementary enrollment alone will be almost 1,000.

Preliminary plans for dedication ceremonies in connection with the opening of the West Side school, were discussed. It was decided to hold the ceremonies and "open house" on Aug. 30.

Bos also reported that he and several of the faculty will attend the annual Christian school convention to be held in Bellflower, Calif. in August.

The Rev. Oliver Breen, president of the board, presided.

Three persons paid fines in Municipal Court Monday. B. Jolly of Grand Haven, paid $13.90 fine and costs for failure to make a milk law report to state board of agriculture on time. Bernard, Bouwman, 44 West 31st St., paid $7 fine and costs for failure to observe assured clear distance. Dorothy LaBoueff, 276 West 20th St., paid a $1 parking fine.

The government began taxing cigarettes as such in 1964.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Boers

Claude Boers and his bride, the former Evelyn Folkert, were to be at home today at route 2, Holland, after a honeymoon in northern Michigan. They were married June 29 in Overisel Reformed church. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Folkert of Overisel and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boers of Olive Center.

Rev. Arnold Brink Called By 14th Street Church

Fourteenth Street Christian Reformed church voted on the first ballot to extend a call to the Rev. Arnold Brink, educational secretary of Calvin college, at a congregation meeting Monday night.

Rev. Brink, who conducted services in the local church three times this season, is a graduate of Calvin college and seminary, and for the last four years has been educational secretary for the college.

The son of a minister's family, Rev. Brink previously served as pastor of Bethany Christian Reformed church in Muskegon succeeding the Rev. John Dolfin. Rev. Brink also served Bluffton church in Muskegon which had been started by Bethany. He is married and has two children.

The local church has been without a pastor since the Rev. William Van Peursem left in April for a new charge at Lee Street Christian Reformed church in Grand Rapids. He was in Holland almost six years.

ALLEGAN—THE "IRIS CITY"

Holland wishes the best of luck to its neighbor, Allegan, in that community's endeavor to win fame
as the "Iris City." Imitation is the sincerest flattery, and if Allegan can succeed in popularizing itself
through the medium of iris plantings, the way Holland has done
the past two decades in growing tulips, this community should be the first to wish Allegan success.
Apparently getting the idea
from Holland, other Michigan communities have fairly recently taken steps to adopt specific flowers. One of them, for instance, has chosen the lilac as the community flower, yielding to the urgings of garden clubs and others interested in such projects. Even if those communities fail to match Holland's record, their projects
are still worthy of encouragement.
Anything that makes life worth living is desirable.

But if Allegan and those other cities that are adopting flowers wish to attain the results that have been achieved in Holland
one or two wholesome facts will call for emphasis. It isn't enough for a community to "adopt" a flower. It isn't enough for parents to "adopt" a baby; unless that baby is nurtured with the most painstaking care that adoption is not going to mean much. Unless a community follows the adoption with practical development, the world will soon forget what that town's adopted flower is.

It was a little over two decades ago that Holland adopted the tulip. During the first few years the hardest kind of work was required to "sell" the idea to enough people so that the flower would become a universal symbol of the town. Many of those who are still active in the exploitation of the idea remember the hard work of the early days and the practical problems that had to be solved.
Such things do not grow without effort. Like plants that are not cultivated they are likely to die.

Holland tulip cultivation is beyond that point. Although there is still an occasional voice protesting that the Tulip Festival might better be abandoned, such voices are so rare that they can't be taken seriously. But the success of what is now a permanent institution did not come of itself; it came through the hardest kind of work. And that is what other communities adopting flowers will need. The thing we need now to keep our Tulip Festival, Inc., on a sound financial basis is for everyone to mail our Secretary-Manager Lawrence Wade a contribution for our $10,000 fund we are building.
Please do it now.

Patrolman Oosterbaan
Goes to Police School

The city of Holland and its police department sent Patrolman Donald Oosterbaan to a police administration school at Michigan State college for one month beginning Monday.

Purpose of the course is to provide instruction in basic knowledge, skills and techniques of police service on the patrol officer level.

Charles F. Rhodes, former Pontiac chief of police, is co-ordinator
for the law enforcement training.

Co-operating agencies are the Michigan State police, Michigan
Sheriff's association, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Michigan State college, Michigan Department of Public Instruction, and the Michigan Municipal league.

Local Soldier Wounded

Corporal Raymond Rosendahl,
husband of Mrs. Jeanette C.
Rosendahl of Jenison Park has returned to the Korean front after being slightly wounded in Korean fighting June 9. He was wounded in the hip. He was married last September to the former Jeanette
Pitcher. His father is Peter Rosendahl of 377 East Fifth St.

Sunday School
Lesson

July 15, 1951
Safeguarding the Home
Matthew 19:3-9
By Henry Geerlings

I read only a few days ago that the average marriage in Hollywood lasts five years, at the end of which time it goes on the rocks.
If you were to take from the newspaper, covering one week,
clippings bearing on this subject
you would have a fair sample of the apparently low esteem in which the sacred vows of mariage are held. Any records you can get hold of will enlighten you in respect to the rapidity with which the divorce courts are kept going.

This matter of people getting married and then shortly after being divorced is a shame and a disgrace. The fact that it is possible for a divorce to be granted
on almost any grounds after residence in any place for several weeks seems almost unbelievable.
It would seem that we lead all the nations of the earth, even the pagan ones, in the percentage of marriages ending in divorce.
The average seems to be one in six.

It appears that about the only real reason necessary for legal separation is for the husband or wife to say that he or she desires to marry someone else. And it is not unusual for the second mariage to be performed within a few minutes after the divorce has been granted. And now in the face of this awful situation we are asked to think about the sacredness of the home.

There could be no more serious blunder than to suppose that there are very few persons who are faithful to the marriage contract.
The widest publicity is given to those that end disastrously, while no mention is made of those homes in which peace and fidelity rule. Perhaps it is the bad apple on the tree that attracts our attention first, but the chances are few of that kind can be found. It is the unfaithful marriage that is held up to the public gaze, while the husband and wife who have lived long years happily together never break into print. On these homes we depend for the maintenance of those principles which have always undergirded our national existence.

In addition to divorce and wrecked homes there are the children to be considered. The children of divorced parents suffer from the loss of normal family life and affection. They must bear the burden of the evil deeds of their parents. Their whole life is affected by this disruption of the normal life in the home. Parents suing in court for the custody of their children, and children spending a month with their father, and then being transferred to the care of the mother, present a gloomy and tragic picture. Jesus gave some very strict warnings
against these and other actions that harm and warp the lives of children.

It is a sad situation that the intimate and sacred relations of marriage are made the basis of many obscene jokes. Many young people feel that to be up to date
they must make light of sacred things. Lewd pictures, sexy magazines, maudlin songs and obscene literature are in many otherwise respectable homes. They have become so commonplace in our lives
that we are beginning to regard them as the spice of life. All of these thoughts and ideas poison
the mind, and if expressed in action will lead to tragic consequences.

The young people of today will be the homemakers of tomorrow. For this reason it is essential to future happiness that they build attitudes that are Christian in respect to the sacredness of marriage. If their home life is to be successful it must be established upon Christian truths. Consider a few of the things that young people can do to safeguard
the institution of marriage. First,
they can respect the members of the opposite sex. The young man who respects the young woman
will be courteous and gentlemanly. The girl worthwhile will deeply appreciate this courtesy.

This attitude is needed today
more than ever because of the free association between the sexes. This new freedom may very easily lead to license. Sincere respect for the other party will prevent the rise of impure thoughts and desires. The girl too must respect the boy. This respect will prevent flippant and suggestive remarks and poses. She will not tempt the boy to make advances.

Secondly, young people can accept the sinless standard. The young men will not demand of his bride that virtue he himself does not possess. He will be as pure as he believes his bride to be. She will come to her husband chaste and virtuous. Only on such a foundation can lasting happiness
be built.

Thirdly, young people can begin now to build attitudes that will result in happy home life later on. Purity of thought and action, reverence for the human body, as wholesome attitude towards the sexual side of life, and a Christian perspective of the home and family, will prevent many actions and thoughts that tend to pervert marriage and home life. And here we come back to the teaching of Jesus. If we would be pure we must think pure thoughts.

The harem of Mouley Ismail, sultan of Morocco, presented him with 1,100 sons and daughters. He died in 1727, aged 80.

Rex Chapman, 699 State St., works in his garden following his retirement from 28 years of teaching in several Michigan schools.
Chapman has taught every subject except Latin, Spanish and domestic science. He taught at Holland High for 16 years and also coached the basketball team. His retirement plans include hunting, fishing and travel.

And Now He's Got Time
For Fishing, Gardening

Rex E. Chapman, who has retired after teaching chemistry in Holland high school 16 years, is looking forward to doing a lot of things he never found time to do before.

These include some more hunting, a little more fishing and maybe even some traveling. Besides that, there's always the lawn and garden to look after at his home at 699 State St.

With his retirement in June,
Chapman ended 28 years of teaching and a generous sprinkle of athletics and other extra-curricular work such as debating. During this span he has taught every subject but Latin, Spanish and domestic science. Besides Holland, he taught in Mt. Pleasant, Lansing, Shepherd and Nashville.

Chapman's method of teaching chemistry in Holland high has met with some difference of opinion throughout the years. He believes in rewarding the student for initiative and ability and lets each student chart his own way, progressing as fast or as slowly as he chooses.

He points with pride to 100 of his students who specialized in chemistry and now have doctorates. Several are working for leading oil companies throughout the country. Many girls have turned to nursing after making good records in his chemistry classes.

Although his system of teaching is progressive, Chapman objects to the term, "progressive education."
He doesn't particularly care to be associated with ultra-modern educational programs.

He's proud of his part in coaching basketball at Holland high. In 1937 his cagers were finalists in the state tournament, losing the last night to Muskegon. In 1938 and 1939, his teams won Southwestern conference crowns, the first Holland high team to do so.
Chapman was born in Mt. Pleasant and received an A.B. degree
in 1923 from Central Michigan college and a master's degree in 1930
from the University of Michigan.

Consent Judgment Given
In Local Damage Case

Grand Haven (Special)—A consent judgment of $2,400 was awarded Thomas J. Miller, by his next friend, Anne Miller, against Henrietta Bos, in Ottawa Circuit Court Monday afternoon. All the parties are from Holland.

The judgment resulted from an accident June 16, 1949, at 10th St. and Maple Ave., in Holland, when the child, five years old at the time, was carried along on the Bos car about 20 feet, then fell off and was run over by the car,
resulting in a fractured pelvis,
fractured right arm and body
bruises.

A settlement of $1,600 with the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Miller, for expenses incident to the care of the child at the hospital, and medical expenses,
was also made.

Fined on Two Counts

Grand Haven (Special)—Oscar
Williams, 25, Muskegon, charged with reckless driving early Sunday morning on US-31 in Olive township, was sentenced to pay $25 fine and $450 costs. For having no operator's license, he must pay $10 fine and $6 costs. If fine and costs are not paid he will be required to serve 30 days in county jail. He was arraigned before Justice George V. Hoffer Monday.

Holland

More than a hundred members of the Chamber of Commerce gathered Tuesday evening for the initial meeting since the reorganization of Holland business body,
began a story in the Wednesday,
Feb. 14, issue of the Holland Daily
Sentinel published in 1917.

The severe snowstorms
marking this winter mean a heavier burden on the taxpayer is shown in one instance at least by the City Engineer in a report of his department. So far this winter, to keep the sidewalks and streets open, it has cost the city $414.67. Last year's total of the entire winter was only $391.35.

Grand Haven's last trench was sentation speech was made by Walter A. Scholten. The picture will occupy a prominent place in the Van Raalte hall Gallery of Fame.

The Hope college junior class in an enthusiastic class assembly
Tuesday afternoon unanimously voted to issue another college annual. The following staff was chosen by the class: Editor in chief, James Mulenberg; literary editor, Walter Scholten; athletic editor, Bernard Hakken; art editor, Miss Louise Brusse; joke editor, John H. Karsten; manager of photography, Henry Bowen; business manager, Eldred Kulzenga;
subscription manager, Orren Chapman.

Next week Wednesday a battle
royal will be staged in the high school gym, according to a story appearing in the Thursday, Feb.
15, issue. The Chemicals and Warm Friends again won their games last night, are still tied for the lead of the league and will meet each other next week.

About 70 young people, members of the Tuesday evening cathechetical classes of the Rev. H. J.
Veldman, sat down to tables tastefully arranged in the basement of the First Reformed church last Tuesday evening and partook of an oyster supper given by the pastor. This marked a new departure in catechetical work, as the spread had been promised to the class provided they reached a certain enrollment.

Among those who attended the Democratic banquet last evening were W. O. Van Eyck, John Damstra, Dick Van Oort, William Bender, Bert Slagh, C. De Keyser, Ed Evenhuis, John Dykema, Walter
Scholten of Hope college Wilson club.

The marriage of Miss Reita
Roberts and Leonard Den Houten
of Grand Rapids will be solemnized
this evening at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. Edward Roberts, 133
East 17th St. The Rev. J. Roberts of Ruak, father of the bride, will perform the ceremony.

Mayor John Vandenbrouk and Henry Geerlings leave tomorrow for Detroit, where a meeting will be held of the boosters of the 1918
Michigan State Sunday school convention to be held there. They have asked the local men to advise them. A banquet tomorrow evening will feature the meeting.

That the city fathers are going to improve fire fighting conditions
soon is the hint given by Fire Chief Blom to the members of hose company number two at a
"blowout" in the engine house
Thursday night. This news story appeared in the Friday, Feb. 16, issue.

The Misses Gladys and Marguerite Tromp entertained a number of friends Thursday evening with a Valentine sleighride party ending at their home, 26 West

Mr. and Mrs. B. Blink have returned to their home in this city
after a three week's visit with relatives and friends at South Holland, Ill.

The national week of song will be observed during the week of Feb. 22 in our schools. Many are learning the greatest national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," with other patriotic songs.

Students of the Simplis Business college surprised Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gaze Thursday evening at their home. They were presented with a beautiful electric toaster.

Members of the Harmony club
of this city were entertained at the home of Mrs. Bert Veneklasen on the Zealand road. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Diekema, Mr. and Mrs. Volney Dibble, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Stegman, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nibbe-link, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoek, Mr.
and Mrs. Willard Van Sickle, Mr.
and Mrs. Tom Marjelle and Mr.
and Mrs. Alfred Van Duren.

Nine presidents of the United States espoused the Episcopalian faith. There have been two Baptists, one Congregationalist, one Quaker, four Methodists, five Presbyterians, two Reformed Dutch, and four Unitarians.

Small Boat Races
Torn by Storms
On Lake Macatawa

The small boat sailors on Lake Macatawa again had to work hard Saturday afternoon against gusty winds that shifted rapidly.
Two non-racing boats lost masts before the race started, indicating strength of the variable winds.

Sunday, no races were held, the small boats having been scattered, upturned, and hammered by the intensity of the morning storm.
At least two boats flipped over
on their backs, and several others broke their moorings, ending up aground along the shores. Along with this, a driving rain churned
the lake at race time.

But Saturday, 10 Lightning
class boats and three Lawley 110's raced. The Lawley fleet, usually numbering about 10 boats, was riddled because crewmembers had gone on the Muskegon to Macataw race for larger boats.

I the Lawley's Saturday, Ken Scripsma took first place over Pete Sears, with Mary Stewart
third.

In the Lightning class, Caryll
Curtis and Jim Pollock skipped their boats carefully on the last leg of the race, but Miss Curtis was able to overcome a good-sized deficit and win by a scant few feet. Ed Orr took third in the race, and Bill VandenBerg fourth.
Others were Rick Linn, Sally
Copeland, Mary Duffy, Virginia
Hansen, Jane Boyd, and Dick Den
Uyl finishing in that order.

'B' Lead Tied
As Morse Wins

H. E. Morse unloaded a 10-hit attack and got no-hit pitching
from Jerry Prince to defeat Hart and Cooley 7-4 Saturday in a Recreation "B" league game. The win advanced Morse into a first place tie with Western Machine Tool.

In addition to pitching a no-hitter, Prince was the big gun in the Morse hitting attack. He cracked a homer over the center-fielder's head in the second inning
and sent two singles into right field later in the game.

Bob Elzinga had a double and a single for Morse and Harlen Nienhuis two singles.

Gordon Hulst was losing pitcher. He was relieved by Harry Lar-man in the fifth.

Zeeland

(From Monday's Sentinel)
Billy Wentzel returned to his home in Zeeland Wednesday after a three week visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bunce in Edon, Ohio. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Wentzel, went to Edon to get him.

MSC Announces Date
Of Sheep Field Day

Michigan sheep breeders have picked Friday, July 20 as the date for the third annual sheep field day. It will be held this year at Michigan State college instead of the Eaton county fairgrounds, Graydon Blank, MSC livestock specialist, reports.

Results of recent experiments
in preventing lamb losses, particularly from stiff lamb disease, will be featured on the program.
The usual judging contest and discussion of purebred breeds will also take place.

Sentenced to Jail

William Olsen, 26, of Grand Haven, was sentenced to 10 days
in jail Monday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Olsen was on probation from the Holland court. He was arrested Saturday night on East Eighth St.

Four local golfers participated in the Spring Lake Invitational Golf tournament last week. Dr. Walter Hoeksema, (upper left) and George Silkkers, (upper right) are teaming as one twosome, and Bob Greenhoe (lower left) and Lee Klela (lower right) teamed together. All but Silkkers played in the tourney last year. Klela and Greenhoe played together last year. The limit for the tournament is 75 teams, and is based on low medal score.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

The questions that seem the simplest may prove to be the most difficult to answer. Early in our history, some time, in fact,
before the opening of the American Revolution, Jean de Crevecoeur asked the simple question,
"What is an American?" Although he answered it in an essay that has been famous for more than a century and a half, the world has kept on asking the question ever since, and has repeatedly tried to find more and more adequate answers.

A fairly recent answer was contributed by a Columbia university professor of history, Henry Steele Commager. His book, which he called "The American Mind," is doubtless still new to much of his potential audience, although it was published in 1950.

The author of "The American Mind" would probably be the first to insist that he has not fully answered deCrevecoeur's famous question, even though he filled 476 pages in the attempt. For the American mind—by which the author means the whole of the American beyond merely the physical—is far more complex than Hollywood would have us believe.
It has changed elusively from generation to generation, so that the Washingtons and the Lincolns would probably be horrified by the mental assumptions and beliefs of the very people who worship them most effusively as well as most sincerely.

So late as 1929 another American writer tried to answer deCrevecoeur's question, by tracing those changes in American mental and spiritual points of view from earliest times to the twentieth century. This analyst was V. C.
Parrington, and his book was a three volume study called "Main Currents in American Thought."
Although it remained unfinished
at the time of Parrington's death in 1929, it has become a kind of bible for those who have a sense of curiosity about the mental changes of Americans. But Parrrington's study was mainly concerned with America's past. Henry Steele Commager is concerned mainly with the America of the twentieth century. It is therefore in one way a kind of continuation of Parrington.

"The American Mind" begins with the 1880's and it brings the record up to the present day. In the main it is concerned with the question, Is there an American mind, as distinguished from minds
from other world cultures?

Commager would hardly have taken the trouble to write the book if his answer had not been
"Yes." But that brief "Yes" that seems so simple is in fact so complex that it can hardly be more than hinted at even in 476 crowded pages.

To provide the answer Commager found it necessary to give an analysis, for instance, of American literature since the eighties
that for detail and comprehensiveness has seldom been surpassed in far more voluminous works. He seems to have read, intensively and in detail, every important American novelist from William Dean Howells to William Faulkner;
every American poet from William Vaughn Moody to Edna St.
Vincent Millay; every dramatist
from Clyde Fitch to Eugene O'- Neill.

And literature is only one of several facets through which Com-mager looks at the composition of the American mind, one of the proofs he suggests that the American mind is different from, for instance, the European mind. He treats the American newspaper
and magazine in the same way;
also the work of American philosophers from William James to George Santayana; also the work of the scientists and politicians,
and of several others.

The American mind turns out to be one of the most complex minds in human history. And what Hollywood is making out of it is one of the biggest jokes of the twentieth century.

Hartman Elected Head of Local School Board

New Superintendent Suggests Classification Of School Policies

E. V. Hartman was elected president of the Board of Education at an organizational meeting of the board Monday night after the annual election. He succeeds A. E. Lampen who has been president the past year.

Jay L. De Koning was elected vice president, succeeding Hartman, and Mrs. Kenneth De Pree was named secretary, succeeding John Olet. The board adopted resolutions recognizing contributions of the retiring president and retiring clerk.

Monday's meeting, held in Junior high school, was the first meeting attended by Holland's new school superintendent, Walter Wood Scott, who assumed his new duties last week.

In his first report to the board, Supt. Scott said he had made several observations during the last week on policies and codes on the Holland system and suggested a classification in terms of function.

The suggestion was heartily seconded by Trustee Vernon D. Ten Cate who said he realized such a study might take perhaps a year, but believed it would be of definite benefit. He said steps should be taken to codify the policies.

The board endorsed the general program in the following order:

1. A statement of responsibilities and functions between the Board of Education, school administration, principals, supervisors, teachers and non-teaching personnel.

2. Study of non-resident student problems and a better understanding of rural students' needs.

3. Publication of a Holland school code and school personnel policy which together with the fine Philosophy of Education already done would form the foundation and framework for the continuance of a good school.

The new superintendent announced that three positions are still open: Fourth grade in Lincoln school, English and Journalism in Holland high and chemistry in Holland high.

Mrs. Kenneth De Pree announced the informal reception for Mr. and Mrs. Scott next Monday in Hope church from 8 to 10 p.m. She said invitations had been mailed but that anybody interested in meeting the new superintendent may come although such persons are asked to inform the committee first.

Investing $58,000 of a new high school building fund was referred to Hartman, Ten Cate and the new superintendent, with recommendations that the sum be invested in building and loan associations for short-term investment.

Holland and its Tulip Festival has won further acclaim through distribution of the above photo to almost 500 daily newspapers and 100 magazines throughout the country. Oldsmobile division of General Motors used the Holland background as a typical place to visit in traveling by Oldsmobile Super "88" convertible. The woman in Dutch costume is Mrs. Henry Ter Haar, wife of the Oldsmobile dealer in Holland, and the little girl in costume also lives near Holland. The picture was taken during the recent Tulip Time Festival. The two people in the car are professional models from Lansing.

ments, not to exceed $10,000 in any association.

Supt. Scott commended Holland on its foresight in launching such a program whereby rural and city school districts put aside $50 for each high school student each year to form a sinking fund for a new school. He said Holland was the first in the state to adopt such a program and other places are rapidly following suit.

The board approved additional expenditures in the building program including $201.71 for various additions in the Longfellow building and approximately $2,500 for revamping the heating system in the old Longfellow building before it is connected with the new system. Additional sums okayed for the Lincoln building was $23.95 for electrical; $595.68 for blackboards; $485 for stairs, etc., for stage, and $1,811.31 for increase on labor costs as per contract price.

Claims and accounts totaled $83,394.06 of which $41,234.96 was for teachers' salaries and $28,229.90 for the building and site fund. All trustees were present with the exception of Mrs. John K. Winter. President Lampen presided and Mrs. De Pree gave the invocation.

West Olive 4-H Worker Awarded Scholarship

Grand Haven (Special) — Orrie Bennett, West Olive, was named today as one of the 46 recipients of scholarships to Michigan State college for outstanding achievement in 4-H club work.

The four-year scholarships are awarded annually to high school graduates on the basis of leadership, outstanding work in 4-H club demonstrations and judging, and high school scholastic standings.

The scholarships awarded by the state board of agriculture cover the full four-year college course provided the student maintains a satisfactory scholastic average while attending Michigan State college at East Lansing.

According to the Smithsonian Institute, Michigan and the adjoining Great Lakes were one vast inland sea at one time.

Credit Costs Cut By High Payment Says Economist

Lansing — Can I reduce my mortgage costs? Many borrowers ask this question when they negotiate a loan. F. E. Ferguson, Michigan State college agricultural economist, offers some answers to the problem.

Most people, he says, pay what obligation their mortgage or contract calls for, with little attention to the possibility of higher payments. Increased repayment, however, will cut interest costs and reduce the overall cost of the loan.

The cost of carrying a $10,000 loan at six per cent interest with $400 principal payment each year is $7,800 over the lifetime of the loan. By increasing the repayment schedule just $100 per year, the cost would be reduced to $6,300 or a saving of $1,500.

By stepping up repayment on such a loan to $600 per year, total costs of the loan is reduced by $2,500. Comparative savings on a four or five per cent loan are somewhat smaller, but is still a major reduction in the cost of credit.

Main reason for the reduced cost when repayment schedules are increased is the fewer number of years for which the money is borrowed, Ferguson points out.

A mortgage with a small, required annual payment is desirable. Uncertainties such as reduction in prices or income, sickness, or other circumstances which makes an unusual demand on farm income, makes a low required annual payment desirable.

Lakes Michigan-Huron Levels High for June

The United States Lake Survey reports the following mean stages of Lakes Michigan and Huron for June, determined from daily readings of staff gauges:

Feet above mean tide at New York, 581.17; change in stage from May to June, plus .23 foot, average since 1900, plus .24 foot; difference in stage of June last year, plus 1.61 foot; 10-year mean, plus .87 foot; difference of stage from low water datum, plus 2.67 feet. Based on past records, monthly mean levels for July are likely to be 581.3 and not less than 581.1 feet.

Lakes Michigan and Huron are 1 foot below the high stage of June, 1929, and 3.30 feet above the low stage of June, 1934. Lake Superior is .07 foot below the high stage of June, 1916, and 2.91 feet above the low stage of June, 1926. Lake Erie is .36 foot below the high stage of June, 1947, and 3.57 feet above the low stage of June, 1934. Lake Ontario is .14 foot below the high stage of June, 1947, and 4.58 feet above the low stage of June, 1935.

Rain Cuts Down Visitors To Holland State Park

Holland State Park Manager Clare Broad reported today that last week 88,738 persons visited Ottawa beach. This brings the total for the year to 492,809. Broad said.

Camping permits issued during the past week totaled 168, bringing the total for the season, so far, 592.

The largest attendance for a single day last week was reported Wednesday, the Fourth of July, when 31,200 visited the park. Saturday, 12,600 were at the park, and Sunday only 7,000 persons entered, with the rainy weather being responsible for the small attendance.

It was estimated that in 1932 40 million Americans were consistent violators of the prohibition law.

Borculo

(From Tuesday's Sentinel)

The Rev. T. Yif of the Ninth Street Christian Reformed church had charge of the Holland service Sunday afternoon.

Baptism was administered during the morning service to the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kraai.

The Ladies Aid of the Bauer church has invited the Ladies Aid and Golden Hour societies of Borculo church to meet with them on Wednesday at 8 p.m. The speaker will be from the staff of the Bethany Home. Pictures will be shown.

The annual meeting of the local school districts will be held today.

Andrew Koeman underwent surgery last Monday morning. He returned to his home on Sunday afternoon from the Holland hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weennum announce the birth of a son last Saturday.

Otto Terpstra is confined to his bed and remains in ill health.

The Rev. and Mrs. R. Evenhuis and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goodyke spent a few days at Baldwin, Wis., last week.

Dorothy, Elsie, Evelyn and Lucille Geurink and Marion Neinhuis enjoyed a week's trip to Maryland to visit Pvt. Vernon Nienhuis. They also spent a few days at Washington, D. C.

The Girls society enjoyed an outing with a potluck supper at Kollen park last Tuesday evening.

Camp Dates for Allegan 4-H Members Announced

Allegan (Special) — The summer camp dates were announced by William J. MacLean, 4-H club agent for Allegan county.

Summer 4-H camp will open for members ages 10-12 years old on July 16-19. The camp program will include handicraft, nature study, crops and garden judging, swimming and recreation. The camp capacity is 80 campers, so first reservations received will be honored first.

The second camp will run from July 23-27, with a complete program of crafts, hikes, educational classes and recreation. Classes in first aid, junior lifesaving, and firearm safety will be conducted by nurses from the county health department, and members of the State Police department.

Grand Haven Churches Consider Home for Aged

Grand Haven (Special) — Representatives of Reformed and Christian Reformed churches in the tri-city discussed plans Friday night in First Reformed church for a Christian Home for the Aged. Herman Van Beukering, who was chairman when the project started some time ago was re-elected chairman. He will call a meeting soon for representatives of all churches in the area. His committee will investigate locations and costs and draw up articles of incorporation.

Dinner Party Honors Miss Koop and Finance

Mr. and Mrs. Randall C. Bosch and Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Bosch entertained at a dinner party Friday evening in honor of Miss Ruth Koop and Jack Yeomans, who will be married Aug. 15. Dinner was served at The Castle. Thirty-seven guests attended.

Ter Haar Has Used Car Lot

A person buying a used car at the Ter Haar Auto Co. at 126 East Eighth St. has the reassuring knowledge that he is dealing with a firm which has its own reconditioning department for used cars.

Such an arrangement, the management says, makes for better used cars. The new used car lot located just a few doors west of the main garage has been in operation two or three months. There is plenty of free parking space on the lot for those interested in looking at the models.

The big demand for new Buicks and Pontiacs is making available many choice late model used cars, most of them previously owned by local persons. There are usually 20 to 40 late model one-owners, local cars on the lot.

The Ter Haar Co. also makes available the GMAC finance plan which arranges all details in one deal at low interest rates.

Judge Fines Violators

Four drivers paid traffic fines in Municipal Court Friday. Herman J. Bouws route 6, paid $15 fine and costs for speeding. Philip Cobb, route 3, and Jim Rozeboom, route 6, each paid $12 fines and costs for speeding. Mrs. Frank B. Knoop, route 4, paid $5 fine and costs for operating a vehicle without a license.

The cigar lighter was patented in 1871 by Moses F. Gale.

The American Red Cross was organized in 1881.

Waverly School Elects

Donad Essenburg was elected a trustee for two years of Holland township school district No. 13 (Waverly school) at an annual election Monday night. Herman De Visser, who was appointed moderator within the past year to fill a vacancy, was elected to that post for a three-year term. Other officers whose terms did not expire are Adrian Casauve, director; Gary De Jonge, treasurer, and William Honnold, trustee.

Several Women Fete Soldiers at Hospital

Sixteen young women from Holland went to Percy Jones hospital Friday to entertain with a ward party. The women are employees of the Morse factory. More than 100 soldiers attended. The party was under the auspices of the Entertainment and Instruction committee of the Red Cross.

Delegate Reports On Seaway Project To Holland Council

Raphael Explains Views Expressed At Inland Confab

Holland and the entire Midwest stand to profit considerably from the St. Lawrence Seaway, Edwin Raphael, told Common Council Thursday night.

Raphael reported on the first annual governor's conference at Omaha, Neb., June 17 and 18, which he attended at the request of Mayor Harry Harrington. More than 200 were present including governors, federal officers and many others interested in promoting the Seaway, long a subject of debate.

Raphael explained the importance of the project which would cost an estimated $818 million. He said the St. Lawrence river is a deep waterway with the exception of a 110 mile stretch from Ogdensburg, N. Y., to Montreal, Quebec. Surprisingly only 44 miles would require dredging and construction. The latter would include locks, canals, dams and hydro-electric power projects.

Tolls charged at locks plus sale of 11 million kilowatts of electricity for New York and New England would make the Seaway completely self-liquidating, Raphael reported.

The reason that the output of electricity would be sold to private power companies for resale is that the production of this power in no way will be allowed to become another TVA, Raphael reported.

He said Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson termed this project vital to our national economic strength and urgent in terms of mobilization requirements.

Raphael quoted a counsel for a large ore mining and transportation company as saying, "the inland lake area has become the greatest fabricating and manufacturing area in the world through the use of cheap water transportation to bring together the three raw materials necessary for steel production."

The Seaway attaches additional importance, Raphael said, because of the new development of high grade ore fields in the Labrador-Quebec area, the distance to the great steel processing centers of the inland area, through the proposed waterway, are about the same as the diminishing sources in the Duluth area.

Raphael envisioned for Holland, an immense growth, with docks capable of handling transoceanic steamers. The beauty and graciousness of Holland could be used to full advantage in saying Welkom Vreemdelingen and Vaarwel Vrienden to the tourist industry for overseas travel, he said.

Mother Starts Suit In Death of Youngster

Allegan (Special)—Suit for $25,000 has begun by the mother of a 16-year-old Burnips boy killed in a traffic accident last March. Mrs. Lily Lynn, administratrix for Ralph Eugene Lynn, has filed the case against Sylvester Weber, Dorr, driver of the auto which collided with the youth's motor scooter on a road south of Burnips.

The accident caused the first in the county's tragic series of 13 traffic deaths the past three months.

Mrs. Lynn charges Weber was driving on the wrong side of the road when the vehicles collided. The youth died two days later.

American railroads spent nearly $510 million for iron and steel products in 1950, an increase of approximately $55 1/2 million over similar expenditures in 1949.

Sgt. Don Ailiff, veteran of the bloody Chosin reservoir battle in Korea, holds his two-month-old son, Bobby, whom he never had seen until he arrived home from the war on Wednesday. Two-year-old David didn't care much for the camera, but agreed to pose anyway.

Holland Solider Home From Front Line Duty

July 4th had a special meaning to Mrs. Hester June Ailiff of 24 West Third St. Her husband Sgt. Donald Ailiff arrived home from Korea on the Fourth.

One of 27 survivors of an infantry battalion in the battle at Chosin reservoir, Sgt. Ailiff has a 30-day leave before reporting back to Fort Custer for reassignment.

His two-year-old son, David, spoke to his daddy for the first time when Sgt. Ailiff telephoned from Chicago on his way home. David hadn't learned to talk when Sgt. Ailiff left for Korea. Sgt. Ailiff saw his two month old son Robert, or "Bobby" as he calls him, for the first time Wednesday.

Sgt. Ailiff enlisted in the service on Nov. 5, 1948, and landed in Korea in August 1950. He was attached to the 31st Infantry Regiment and fought from Pusan to the Chosin reservoir. He took part in the Inchon landings and other amphibious operations along both coasts of Korea.

Getting meat was an ever-present problem while the men were on the line, he said, but once in a while they managed to kill a cow or a pig. Then "some of the boys from Texas who claimed to know how, butchered it," he said.

"Getting water at the front was a problem too," Ailiff said, "if you were lucky enough to have a nine man squad, you could send one for water, but my squad was down to three men several times."

Ailiff called the cooks in his outfit, "good Joes." They would crawl up to our positions, against regulations, with food. One day we had ice cold lemonade, thanks to a cook who risked his neck to reach our positions.

Plenty of credit was given to the artillery and Air Force, by Sgt. Ailiff. When the enemy attacked the infantry would withdraw in the fact of the 20 to 1 odds while the artillery and Air Force laid down their fire reducing the enemy in numbers so that we could counter-attack, he explained.

Sgt. Ailiff spent two weeks in the Eighth Army hospital at Taegu in February when he was wounded in the thigh by a burp gun during heavy fighting in the Yongsong area.

Arguments prevailed in the lines over the MacArthur issue, he said, but most of the talk is about rotation and getting back home. Some of the mail and a lot of the packages sent to him were never received, he said.

It took nine days for a telegram announcing Robert's birth to reach Sgt. Ailiff in the front lines. Snipers have a habit of picking off the mail runners to the lines, he said.

Sgt. Ailiff spent eight weeks in the service in World War II at the age of 15 before his father caught up with him. Now he is "just resting" at home listening to the radio and hoping that peace will come to Korea.

Red Cross Offers Course To Teach Home Nursing

Mrs. Peter Van Domelen, Jr., home nursing chairman of the American Red Cross, today announced another training course for graduate nurses and lay persons interested in teaching home nursing.

The course will be given at Michigan State college in East Lansing at three different periods. The first is July 12 to 20; the second July 23 to 27, and the third, July 30 to Aug. 3.

Anyone interested in assisting in the Civil Defense program in this manner is requested to get in touch with the Red Cross office immediately. The chapter is willing to aid in some way for expense involved if persons agree to teach the courses in this county on completion of the instruction.

Home economics or physical education teachers on vacation are particularly urged to take advantage of the opportunity.

Poverty wants some, luxury many, and avarice all things.—Covley.

Council Gives Reluctant Okay To Outside Dairy

City Fathers Talk 45 Minutes On Problems Of Milk Distribution

With no other alternative, Common Council Thursday night reluctantly approved a license for Jolly's Sanitary dairy of Grand Haven to sell milk in Holland, after a 45-minute discussion on milk distribution in the city and area.

Alderman A. V. Hertel was in favor of protesting local dairy operators, particularly in view of the fact that no great need for more milk supply had been demonstrated, but City Attorney O. S. Cross said denial of such an application could result in a law suit inasmuch as the supreme court recently upheld a case of a dairy which had been denied a license in Grand Haven. The three-mile limit for processing milk no longer is legal, the city attorney said.

City Manager Harold C. McClintock who studied the request with Inspector Ben Wiersema had said a license could be issued to the Grand Haven dairy since it could comply with local regulations. He said, however, that such distances might work a hardship on inspection.

Generally, he said he favored the new standardized regulations which tend to make milk drinking safe practically everywhere, but he said such blanket regulations usually tend to complicate situations locally, and council should consider carefully all measures involved. He said Jolly's dairy sells its milk in paper containers, a system eagerly sought by stores which then have no bottle refund problem.

Two other applications for licenses to sell and deliver milk and milk products in Holland were referred to the city manager and the inspector. They came from Dairyland Co-operative Creamery of Carson City and Grocers Co-operative Dairy Co. of Grand Rapids.

A communication from Lokker, Den Herder and Boter on behalf of Western Foundry Co. requesting approval of construction of a new sidewalk to cross Eighth St. was referred to the city manager and city engineer for study and report to council. The letter also called attention to a petition submitted a year ago for vacating certain alleys between Eighth and 10th Sts. in exchange for a parcel of land on Ninth St.

Alderman Hertel said the closing of Ninth St. years ago should not be overlooked by those studying the situation and council should perhaps institute a suit to recover the land on that grounds. Alderman Lavern Rudolph requested the city manager to write the management of Crampton Manufacturing Co. seeking some solution to reducing noise and removing refuse about the premises.

A letter inviting the city manager to attend the 37th annual International City Managers' association conference at Poland Spring, Me., Sept. 9-13 was read. McClintock said he had always found these conferences most beneficial but would not take time out this year.

The city manager reported he had spent 1 1/2 to two hours with bus operators on a new Vander Kolk-Brinkman agreement but had not come to any final conclusion. He also recommended council authorize construction of a storm sewer on 30th St. from Lincoln to State. Council approved. He also reported Vans Food store had withdrawn its request for renting city-owned property opposite the store for advertising purposes.

Council approved the city manager's recommendation to purchase 25 manhole rings and covers from East Jordan Iron Works at a unit price of $30 each.

Mayor Harrington presided at the meeting which lasted two hours and 10 minutes. Alderman Robert Visscher gave the invocation. All Aldermen were present except Alderman Raymond Holwerda.

Contagious Diseases Total 105 During June

Holland had 105 cases of contagious disease during June, Common Council was informed Thursday night. Health Inspector Ben Wiersema listed 85 cases of measles, nine of scarlet fever, eight of mumps and three of German measles.

The building inspector's report for June listed 41 building permits, 40 heating permits and one sign permit, and the fire inspector's report listed 145 inspections and 10 warnings.

An application for license to operate a pool room at 76 East Eighth St. by F. John Zigterman was referred to the city manager for investigation and report at the next meeting.

Leaves for Palestine

Grand Haven (Special)—Harriet Ringelberg, teacher of the third grade in Central school, left Thursday morning for the first lap of an extended tour to Palestine. Mrs. Kathryn Boot and daughter, Kathy, accompanied her by car to Pittsburgh, and from there Miss Ringelberg will join her party in New York, under a Jewish rehabilitation program. She will go to school in Jerusalem for three weeks and also work in the immigration countries, studying in the morning and touring in the afternoon. She expects to be away until Aug. 31.

Couple Wed in Zeeland

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jay Vander Kolk

First Reformed church, Zeeland, was the scene of a wedding Tuesday evening, June 26, when Miss Arloa Jean Van Der Velde became the bride of Kenneth Jay Vander Kolk. The Rev. John Den Ouden officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Van Der Velde of Zeeland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vander Kolk of Vriesland.

Sherwin Hungerink, soloist, sang "Oh Promise Me," "Because" and "A Wedding Prayer." He was accompanied by Elmer Lieveuse, organist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported white marquisette and Chantilly lace over taffeta, designed with a fitted bodice. The dress featured a Peter Pan collar on a sheer lace yoke and the skirt terminated in a long train. Her fingertip length veil of imported illusion was held in place by a sweetheart styled headpiece. She carried a nosegay of white roses.

The bride's sister, Jane, was the maid of honor and another sister, Ruth, served as bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of light blue frosted organdy with matching headpieces and carried nosegays of yellow roses. Lynn Munro, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a yellow gown of frosted organdy with a matching headpiece.

Attending the groom was his brother, Pvt. Alvin Vander Kolk, best man, and Carl Van Der Velde, brother of the bride. Ushers were Robert Burton and Edward Brink.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Vander Kolk were master and mistress of ceremonies.

The couple left on a northern wedding trip after the reception.

Strong and bitter words indicate a weak cause.—Hugo.

Hamilton

(From Wednesday's Sentinel)
The Rev. Victor Maxam of First Reformed church in Kalamazoo conducted services at the local Reformed church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis De Boer announce the birth of a daughter, Barbara Jean, born at Holland hospital.

Mrs. Carol Stillwell of Ionia was a guest in the home of Mrs. Jesse Kool and mother, Mrs. P. H. Fisher while Mr. Kool was at Camp Ottawa with the local Boy Scout troop.

The Rev. and Mrs. Peter J. Muyskens and children have returned from their two-week vacation at Big Star lake. The former conducted services at the Richmond St. Reformed church the past Sunday, the pastorate he served previous to the local church.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Strabbing attended baptismal rites at Trinity church in Holland Sunday morning when their young grandson, Kenneth Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Strabbing, was baptized with five other children of the church.

The Sunday school of the local Reformed church has set the date of the church picnic for July 19 at Tunnel park. A basket picnic supper is scheduled at 5:30 to be followed by a program of sports and other activities.

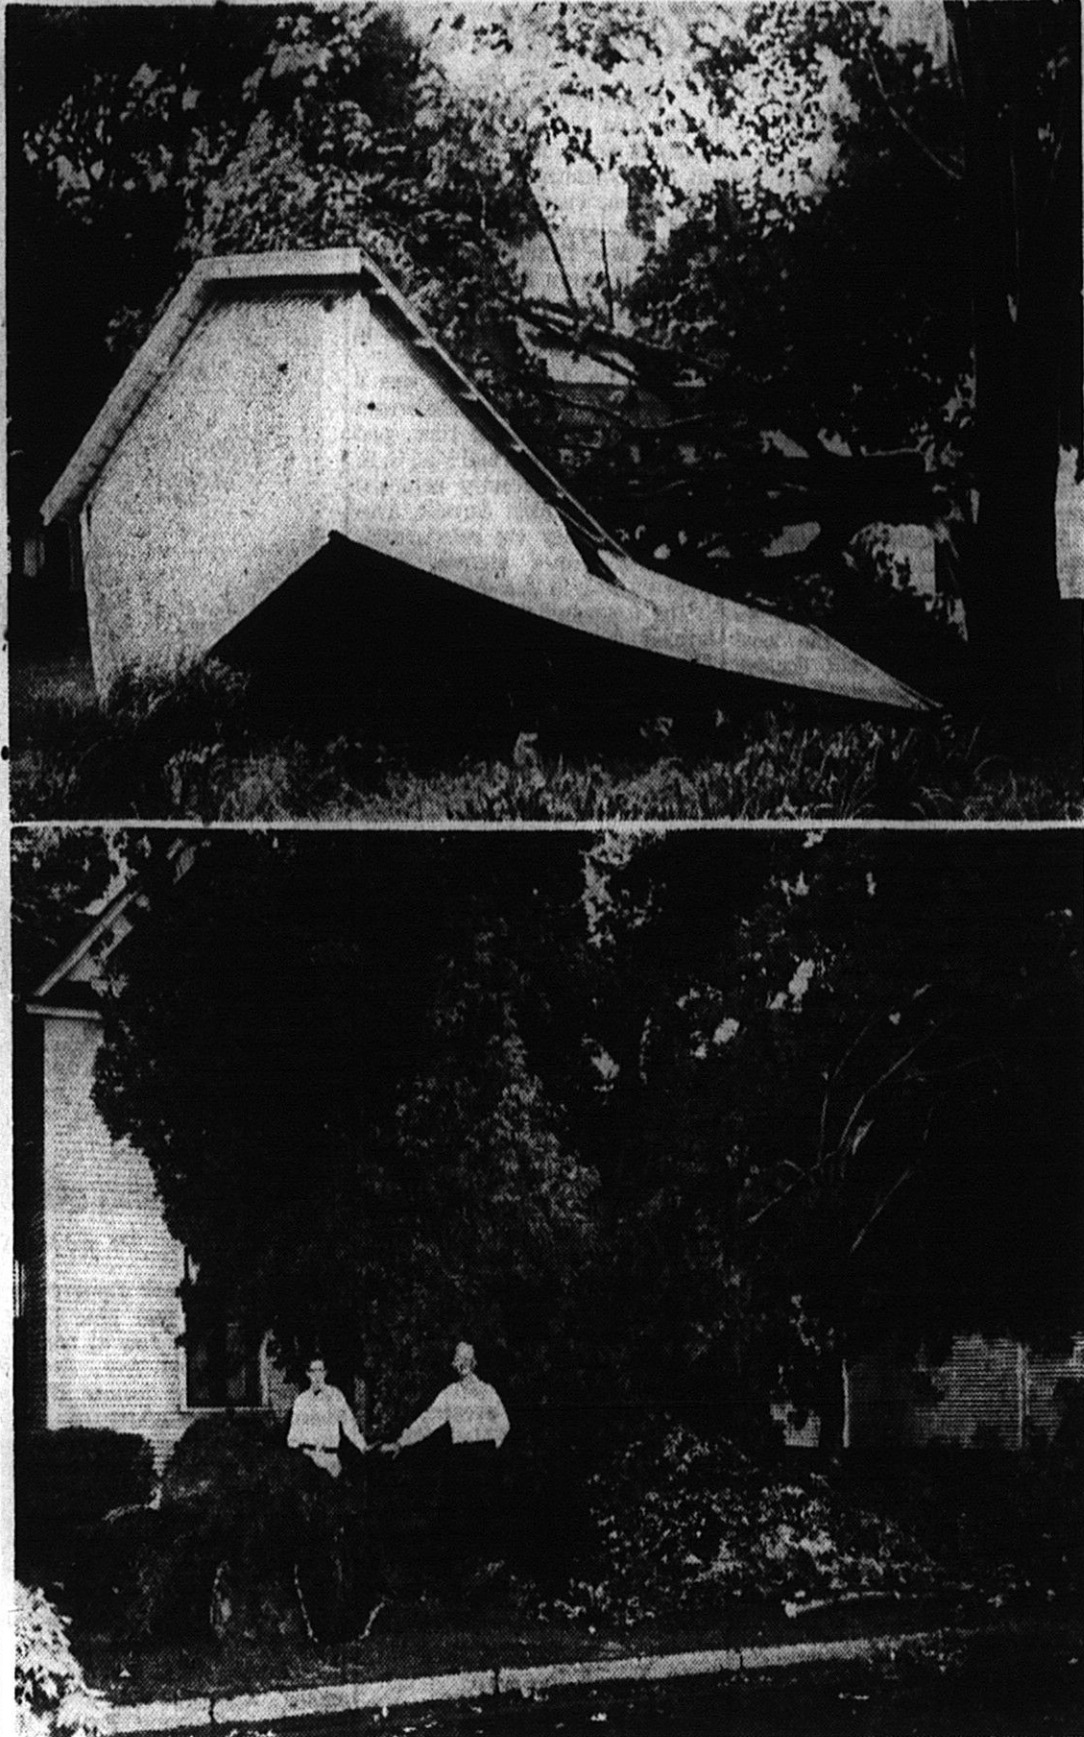

Local relatives and friends received word last week that Miss Fannie Bultman had undergone surgery at Rochester, Minn., and is confined to Kahler hospital in that city. Her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Veldhoff and daughter, Nedra, spent a few days in Rochester and Minneapolis, also visiting their sister, Miss Gladys Bultman, at the latter's place.

The Rev. Peter J. Muyskens of the local Reformed church is considering a call to the Reformed church of Hudsonville. He has served the local pastorate for almost seven years, coming here from Richmond St. church in Grand Rapids. The congregation has made rapid strides in growth during his term as pastor and has built a beautiful new sanctuary to accommodate the growing membership. Also during his stay the merger of First Reformed and American Reformed churches was effected, and it is now known as the Hamilton Reformed church.

Scheduled to attend the Bible conference at Camp Geneva as delegates of the local Reformed church Sunday school from July 16 to 23 are Marilyn Hansen, Phyllis Brink, Marilyn Nyhof, Beverly Veen, Darlene Smidt, Connie Haakma, Beatrice Deters, Marlene Folkert, Elaine Brower, Shirley Schipper, Clifford Japink, Bruce Brink, Glenn Folkert, Dale Jipping, Edward Miskotten, Carl Kemme and Wendell Kemme. A group of eight are attending the younger group conference this week.

Mrs. Harry J. Lampen spent several days in the home of her children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall, caring for her grandson, Bruce, while his parents were on vacation.

Miss Della Bowman was a weekend visitor in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bowman of Fremont.

Three examples of the extensive damage to trees and property brought by Sunday morning's flash baby-sized tornado are shown here. In top photo, the garage at the home of Leo Salisbury, 98 East 24th St., was flattened by the part of the tree that fell across its roof. Luckily, the Salisbury car was not in the garage at the time. Salisbury works for the Board of Public Works and was at the De Young power plant when the storm hit. In the middle photo, John G. Kronmeyer (right), 157

West 17th St., and a neighbor, survey the tangle of leaves and branches that engulfed their front porch when the huge shade tree toppled over. The bottom photo was taken at the home of William Overway, 115 Jefferson Ave. The falling tree caused minor damage to the roof of the car at right and other damage to the roof of the house. Overway is shown sawing branches to clear his house.

Martin Bolt, pastor of Drenthe Christian Reformed church, officiating. Burial will be in West Drenthe cemetery.

More deadly fires start in the kitchen than in any other place in the home, according to an insurance company.

Uprooted Trees, Limbs Clutter Many City Streets

Violent winds of twister proportions ripped across Holland and the surrounding area shortly before 6 a.m. Sunday, leaving a checkered path of uprooted trees, dangling telephone and power wires and a litter of broken branches everywhere.

Most persons awakened by the fierce windstorm said the storm lasted only about three minutes, but during that short period 18 to 20 trees were uprooted inside the city limits and enough general destruction in the area to keep repair crews busy all day and part of the night.

Most uprooted trees fell conveniently into the streets or across yards. Battered trees "leaned" against a house on 17th St. and one on 18th St., and flattened a garage on East 24th St. A tree also fell across a car and a house on Douglas Ave.

Telephone Co. officials said the rainstorm on June 2 was much more destructive than Sunday's storm, and Holland State park Supt. Clare Broad said, the state park and the beach are in much better condition than following the wild lake storm of July 4.

The windstorm seemed to "funnel" its way through the area, hitting some sections hard and completely missing others. Hardest hit was a section on 17th, 18th and 19th Sts. near Maple Ave.

Work crews of the park and street departments went on duty immediately and had most streets open to traffic by afternoon. The power saw rig was in constant demand since most trees had to be cut up before a path could be cleared. Nearly all city trucks were out Sunday.

Two large maple trees and half of a third were uprooted in front of the Richard De Witt home on route 1 on West 32nd St. The large trees missed the house. More trees were down at the creek. Porch furniture was carried over a wall into the vegetable garden.

Across the street, a maple tree three feet in diameter was uprooted at the William Hoving home. The large tree, located between the house and the garage, missed both buildings but tore up the cement driveway.

H. P. Zwemer said he heard the storm coming for a half hour before it struck Zwemer's beach on Lake Michigan. He said it was accompanied by a five-foot tidal wave. The twister split a tree in half which fell across a high tension wire, knocking out electricity from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

A toll circuit to South Haven and points south was knocked out when part of a barn roof was blown off at the turn on M-40 a mile south of the city limits. It fell on the toll lead 50 feet away snapping the cable necessitating splicing of some 36 wires. In South Haven a tree knocked down the circuit leading to Holland.

Holland telephone crews were assisted by four crews of Grand Rapids. Other phone damage was reported in Greenville, Belding and Ionia. The storm seemed to by-pass Grand Rapids. All damage came from falling trees. There were no lightning hits. Saugatuck was completely isolated from phone service until 2 p.m. All telephone service was restored by 7 p.m.

The Board of Public Works received 19 trouble calls, none of them serious. All were called by trees or limbs falling over wires. Three poles were down on Waverly road between Eighth St. and M-21 and Federal school and the Legion club was without power for a time. Seven men were out Sunday, three quitting at noon and four working after 6 p.m. Further clean-up work was in progress today.

Consumers Power Co. fared worse and work crews were still at work Monday, some coming from Grand Rapids to assist. Many circuits were out all day Sunday and half the night. Many housewives cooked Sunday dinner on camp stoves and borrowed water from neighbors.

Several trees were uprooted and the main road was blocked at Borculo. All telephones were out and it was expected it would take several days before all service is restored on the private line.

Some shingles were blown off the North Holland church. From 35 to 40 camps broke up at Holland State park when the storm hit early Sunday morning, but Manager Clare Broad expected that the 18 vacant trailer spaces would be taken up again by tonight. He said bulldozers would level the beach sand blown up a task to be duplicated after the wild July 4 storm.

Survivors include five daughters, Mrs. Harold Branch of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Lee Hessler of Holland, Mrs. Marion De Weerd of Wayland, and Mrs. Gilbert Hall and Mrs. Owen Branch of Hudsonville; 13 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Improvements Progress On South Shore Drive

Improvements are progressing on parts of South Shore Dr., according to Albert Hyma, Ottawa county road commissioner. The widening will be completed next week.

Grading has been completed, but culverts have to be put in and the widened sections must be blacktopped.

A few driveways were chopped up to make the road wider at some points. West Michigan Construction Co. of Zeeland is contractor.

Work has been slowed down at various times because workers tried to keep traffic moving at all times. Thus part of a section could be done while traffic moved over the opposite side of the road.

The dentist's chair was designed by M. W. Hanchett in 1848.

Leo Vander Kuy Weds Miss Arnett

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Vander Kuy

In a wedding in East Lansing on June 30, Miss Charmion Arnett became the bride of Leo Vander Kuy. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven S. Arnett of East Lansing and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Vander Kuy, 123 West 23rd St., Holland.

The Rev. Brandt Tefft officiated at the double ring ceremony, which took place at the Delta Delta house in East Lansing. Floor candelabra, ferns, white snapdragons and roses formed the altar.

Mrs. Harold Retan, the bride's sister, was matron of honor and Tom Vander Kuy, brother of the groom, was best man.

Miss Eileen Corrigan, pianist, played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Frances Hanslovsky, who sang "With This Ring I Thee Wed" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride chose a white faille gown with round neckline featuring a net sweetheart yoke set in with tiny pearl roses. The long sleeves ended in points over the hands and the full skirt ended in a train. She wore a pearl tiara and fingertip veil and carried a semi-colonial bouquet of white roses and snapdragons.

Mrs. Retan's white organdy gown had a navy blue faille bolero and she wore a pink ostrich feather in her hair. She carried a semi-colonial bouquet of pink snapdragons and carnations.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony for 75 guests, including several from Chicago, Portsmouth, N. H., Hartford City, Ind., Grosse Pointe Farms and Holland. Assisting about the rooms were the Misses Dorothy Vickers, Eileen Corrigan, Mary Jane Languis, Nancy Lostutter and Frances Hanslovsky.

Mr. and Mrs. Vander Kuy left on a wedding trip to Houghton Lake, Mackinac Island and St. Ignace. For traveling the bride wore a dusty pink sharkskin suit and white linen accessories. They now are at home at 415 North Ingalls, Ann Arbor.

Mr. Vander Kuy is a graduate of Holland high school and the University of Michigan. Mrs. Vander Kuy is a senior at Michigan State college.

Children Making Plans for Amateur Shows at Four Summer Playgrounds

Holland's four summer playgrounds are making plans for amateur shows Friday July 13, according to Joe Moran, head of the sponsoring Recreation department.

Activity is continuing this week at each of the sites.

Washington
Average enrollment. Main project for younger children was to make paper chains. The older children, under guidance of Miss Hopkins, started on handicraft. This week Miss Hopkins will be at Washington to instruct the children.

They started the week making coin purses, wrist purses, billfolds, key cases, and small purses Miss Hopkins had between 50 and 60 children Monday morning at the Washington playground.

Also the children had their story hour, sang songs, played jacks, ping pong, badminton, volleyball. The older boys practiced softball and played horseshoes.

Van Raalte
Large enrollment. The children at Van Raalte made paper rabbits and book marks. They had their story hour and their usual out-of-door games. Also they played jacks, badminton, ping pong, volleyball and horseshoes. The Van Raalte play center is making arrangements for the amateur show this Friday. One group is working on an operetta.

The Misses Dirke and Rooks had 50 children for twirling lessons Monday morning. They were divided into groups according to age. The children were taught the hand pass twirl and the backward figure eight.

Longfellow
Fair enrollment. The children made funny faces and lone ranger masks. The masks were made out of construction paper and cotton and other items were pasted onto the paper. The children heard stories, and played badminton, jacks, ping pong, and volleyball. The older boys played horseshoes and played scrub softball.

Frobel
Average enrollment. Children at the Froebel playground made paper chains. They played ping pong, jacks, volleyball, and badminton. The older boys practiced softball, and played horseshoes. Some of the girls played softball with the boys.

Maureen Bishop Wed To Lawrence Geiger

Miss Maureen Mary Bishop became the bride of Lawrence Otis Geiger on Saturday, June 23, at 4 p.m., in a double ring ceremony in Berean church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bishop, 216 Aniline Ave., and the groom is the son of Mrs. L. Marguerite Geiger of Muskegon and Lawrence T. Geiger of Mount Pleasant.

The Rev. Frank Moore read the rites before an altar decorated with ferns and mock orange blossoms. Bouquets of wild roses, sweet peas and daisies tied with white ribbons marked the bridal aisle. Mrs. Manley Beyer was organist and Jack De Vries of Dorr was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina-length gown of imported Belgian lace with off-the-shoulder neckline, a bolero jacket with Peter Pan collar and long sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and gardenias with ivy streamers.

Miss Barbara Bishop, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a pink ballerina dress trimmed with black velvet. Bridesmaids were Misses Twila and Sonya Geiger, the groom's sisters, and Miss Phyllis Mortensen, his cousin. They wore matching ballerina dresses. Sandra Kay Sherrell and Jimmy Bishop, cousin of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer.

Maurice Geiger attended his brother as best man and Oscar Lemon was groomsman. Ushers were Earnest Bishop and Richard Nead, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mortensen, uncle and aunt of the groom, were master and mistress of ceremonies.

A reception for 125 guests was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Curtis Perkins, the groom's sister, and Miss Effie Bishop, cousin of the bride, were in charge of the gifts. Guests came from Wauwatosa, Wis., Grand Rapids, Dorr, Lowell, Allegan, Hamilton, Nunica, Spring Lake and Grand Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Geiger now are at home at 100 East Eighth St.

Harbor Group Passes On Lake Construction

Many applications for lake construction were processed at Tuesday's meeting of the Port of Holland Authority.

Requests for sheet piling made by C. Van Tongeren and Dr. W. G. Henderson were sent back to the owners for further drawings. The authority granted permission for construction of slips on the Kendrick Wright dock.

The Texas Oil Co. sent a request for its New York office asking clarification of lake regulations as concerns its tankers entering Holland harbor. The company expressed concern that its tankers do not infringe on speed limits. The board assured them that past operations had been excellent, and that a full interpretation of the law's meaning will be sent.

The board met at the home of Charles R. Sligh, and Edwin Raphael presided.

Police Check Suspects In Local Hotel Robbery

"Nothing to report," is the word from the Holland police department concerning Saturday morning's robbery of $54 from the Netherlands hotel in Holland.

"We're still checking on three suspects," Chief Jacob Van Hoff said, "But we have nothing to report yet."

He added, "I didn't know there were so many guys with pencil mustaches and washed out Army clothes."

Those were two points of identification supplied by the victim of the early morning robbery.

VOLLEYS FROM AMBUSH

The commotion has died down but the memory lingers on.

The all-night search for the yacht Buccaneer and its six-man crew was brought to a successful conclusion early Thursday morning when it hobbled into Holland harbor under half-power. But many hands went into the rescue that very possibly could have ended in tragedy.

One of the busiest places on the lake front was the Holland Coast Guard station. Chief Francis Caron and his crew were busy—waiting and listening to their radio. The Holland lifeboat went out at 6:35 p.m. with three men aboard: Edwin Feddick, James Robinson and Louis Gionwey.

The boat headed straight west to where the Buccaneer was supposed to be. In fact, the Holland sailors think they overshot the mark and went out about 35 or 40 miles. The yacht was supposed to be 20 miles straight west.

The Holland boat was secured from the search at 11:50 p.m. after contacting the steamer Norman B. Ream, which had a pretty good line on where the Buccaneer was foundering. So the three local men turned back and began their long, choppy and wet ride to Holland.

What was estimated to be a three hour return stretch—and stretched—and stretched. Chief Caron and his boys waited patiently and drank coffee and played solitaire and kept a sharp lookout.

Finally, at 4:15 a.m., the three cold and wet Coast Guardsmen landed their light craft in front of the station and stumbled into the building for hot coffee, rest and reports. Feddick, Robinson and Gionwey were out in the same sea that dismantled the 72-foot yacht for almost 10 hours in a lifeboat half the size of the object of the search.

"If you make anybody the hero of this story, make it Kenny," five members of the Buccaneer crew said.

Kenny is the engineer—Kenneth Cole. He fixed one motor twice and put in at least eight hours straight at the wheel while the Buccaneer was battling 30-foot high waves and 45-mile an hour winds.

The other five men aboard the boat awarded the lion's share of responsibility for keeping the craft afloat to their engineer.

Skipper Willet Watkins claims the biggest lesson he learned from the water experience was always to keep at least two sets of charts aboard. When the Buccaneer's charts blew overboard Wednesday afternoon, the crew didn't know exactly where it was or where it was going. Then when the mast snapped, the compass went haywire and the motors coughed dead, the boat just "drifted."

"We drifted as much as anything would drift when the waves are 30 feet high," the crew said. "About all you can do is hang on tight, hope and pray."

The Buccaneer's strong radio played a major part in directing the rescue ships to the yacht's position. And it almost wasn't there.

Owner Watkins said that it was a last minute decision to include the radio in the boat's equipment for her vacation cruise from St. Louis to Saugatuck.

"We didn't think we'd need it," Watkins said, "and I almost didn't have it put on. But, oh brother—"

The six members of the crew present a varied alignment of occupations. Cole is the boat's full-time engineer. Watkins is connected with mining. Charles A. White is in the Army, and was on furlough for the cruise. Duff S. Allen, Jr., is a student. Lee Toberman is connected with a manufacturing firm. Nelson Reed is a salesman.

Only Watkins is an ex-Navy man.

Somehow, it wasn't dramatic at all.

After all the hue and cry on distress signals, radio telephone connections, news flashes and even television, the real docking after a harrowing experience seemed definitely anti-climatic.

The 72-foot Buccaneer, its one motor chugging, pulled up to a new dock under construction at Jesiek's, scarred up a few spots on its slick hull, and finally the six-man crew, one by one, elatedly, there wasn't much said. Only a couple of reporters and a photographer were on the dock.

As conversation progressed, the crew learned what ruckus they had created on land. At first they thought reporters were kidding when they mentioned radio news flashes, short wave and television, but a couple of feet of United Press teletype copy quickly reassured them. Then they became more talkative.

One by one, they made their way to the telephone booth to call their families in St. Louis—charges reversed. Some had heard newscasts; others hadn't.

Duff Allen, Jr., 22-year-old former Princeton student, learned his father had heard a broadcast while in bed at 5 a.m. He wisely refrained from telling his wife until breakfast time. Duff, Jr., called only a few minutes later.

Some crew members just couldn't understand all the fuss. "Surely, with this big lake and all these boats, lots of other people must be in distress at times," one member commented.

Anybody relish a nice job of housecleaning? This photo shows what can happen to interior furnishings when a boat is mercilessly pounded by heavy seas for hours on end. It was taken by Lee Toberman of St. Louis after the 72-foot Buccaneer docked safely in Holland Thursday morning after being tossed by 30-foot waves in a 45-mile-an-hour wind on Lake Michigan for about 12 hours. Photo shows general damage in the main cabin, its floors flooded and everything else soaked and battered. The six survivors said water would rush in through broken hatches and wash out through the stern, carrying with it everything that wasn't nailed down. For additional details see Volleys from Ambush on page 5.

That may be true, but the sudden storm coming up as it did on a holiday when all the newspapers in the country were accident and disaster-conscious accounted to some degree for the attention given a single ship.

The Buccaneer was particularly lucky in having a radio. Had it been unable to send a distress signal, its plight could only have been speculated, and a search futile if not impossible.

Most comments were trite. "It's certainly good to be back on land."

"I was afraid we'd never make it."

"That Coast Guard cutter certainly looked good to us."

"Let's get some breakfast."

Jesiek's were plastered with phone calls from many areas, as were Coast Guard stations in Holland, Grand Haven and other places on the west coast.

Don Jesiek finally gave up.

"I'm referring all calls to The Sentinel," he said.

United Press scored a clean scoop on the arrival of the crew. That pay station at Jesiek's was a busy place that morning, and Skipper Willet Watkins (a nice guy) consented to tell his story to Unipresser George Zarry in Grand Rapids. George plugged the yarn in his usually brisk and snappy style.

With the battered craft safely docked, a lone nylon stocking dangled listlessly from the radio aerial.

"What's that for?" one reporter asked.

"That's our windsock," a crewman replied.

He explained that that sock was really a life saver while 30-foot waves pounded the vessel relentlessly for eight hours. The compass was out, but the skipper could see the stocking and when it blew straight back he knew the boat was headed north and in a position to take the waves head-on.

One wire report listed waves 10 feet high.

That brought a laugh from the sailors, now on shore.

"They were more like 60 feet high, only nobody will believe that," one member said. "Better say 30 to 40 feet, and you won't exaggerate one bit."

All crew members were soaked over and over again when the sea pounded the trim Buccaneer. The water would swoosh over the bow, pour into the hatches, flood the galley, and carry off chairs, mattresses, pillows, food, and everything else that wasn't nailed down. Duff Allen was wearing a nice raincoat, but that didn't help much. He was just as soaked as the other members.

Did you ever stop to figure how effective a raincoat is when gallons and gallons of water keep pouring on you from above and finds its way inside your collar?

Midget Netters To Have Chance In State Finals

Dr. Allen B. Stowe, who manages the state tennis tourney at Kalamazoo each year, has decided to put the midgets, the under-13 year age group, to a test in the finals next week. The group has not competed in past years. The state tourney runs from Tuesday through Friday of next week.

Dr. Stowe's decision means that Holland will send an aggregation of youngsters to compete in that age bracket, Joe Moran, said today. Moran directed the local tourney last week that decided who could go to the state finals.

Two youngsters going to the finals in the under-13 class are Tom Overbeek and Jim Vander Poel. Tom beat Jim in the finals of the local tourney this week to cop the under-13 singles crown. But then the two singles finalists got together and whipped John Stryker and John Landwehr in the doubles finals.

Another boy in the under-13 class who will go to Kalamazoo is Paul Dykema, who reached the finals in the under-15 class this year, but was beaten by Rich Sharda.

Dykema chose to enter the higher age bracket although he could have competed in the easier under-13 group.

Moran also announced that Dave Moran, singles champion in the under-18 age division, has been invited to play with Conrad Fisher in the state doubles.

This, Moran said, is a real break, giving Moran and Fisher a strong chance of taking the state double title. Fisher was runner-up in the junior division of the state finals last year, and won the boys' singles title the year before last. He also was runner-up in the Eastern Interscholastic competition this year. Last year, he won the Canadian Junior tourney.
