Routine Items Occupy City Council

Routine business occupied City Council for 45 minutes at its regular meeting Wednesday night in City Hall.

Petitions bearing more than 200 names seeking a city park in the Montello-Lakeview area were presented and Council referred the matter to the city manager for study, options, etc. Petitions pointed out that the Cammenga property west of Graafschap Rd. at 26th St. was available, and two area residents, Mrs. William Van Ark and Jim Bradbury, pointed to possibilities of semi-development for wildlife in the six-acre area, providing a type of park the city does not presently have.

Councilman Eugene Vande Vusse's substitute motion authorized the city manager to obtain options on the property in question based on city appraisals. Councilman Richard Smith said he did not oppose the move but he felt a more thorough study into other sites also should be made, particularly in view of past experiences in which property on occasions had been donated for parks. City Manager Herb Holt said it was always wise to obtain options before making final decisions.

Council authorized a loan of $35,000 to the Hospital Board to finance installation of a new General Electric Diagnostic x-ray machine. The Hospital Board had agreed the loan would be repaid by June 30, 1964, but Council moved ahead this deadline to the end of the calendar year Dec. 31, 1963. The new equipment had been ordered earlier than planned because of a forthcoming price increase which would amount to some $2,000.

According to city charter, the city auditor presented a list of unpaid utility bills for a period of three months or more as of June 30, totaling $7,453.72 or some $1,000 less than last year. A resolution authorized the city clerk to publish notice to all owners of property within the city that unpaid utility charges not paid by July 31 will be assessed on the city's tax roll.

Mayor Nelson Bosman appointed Donald J. Van Ark and Hazen Van Kampen to the Traffic and Safety commission for three-year terms. Appointments were approved by Council.

Following a public hearing, Council passed a new ordinance rezoning a 95-foot parcel of land immediately south of the commercial development on the southeast corner of Lincoln Ave. and 32nd St. from residential to neighborhood commercial. The rezoning was on request of Paul Baker and Percy Nienhuis.

Council approved low bid of Langeveld Bulb Co. of Netherlands for 125,750 tulip bulbs for fall planting in net amount of $5,307.19. The firm also had the 1962 contract for bulbs. Some substitutions in varieties resulted in a 10 per cent adjustment or a saving of some $400 to the city after the tulips bloomed last spring.

It has been customary for the city to withhold 20 per cent of the payment until after the blooming season. City Manager Herb Holt explained that the bulb company sent a representative to Holland during Tulip Time and that the firm showed every indication of being a responsible agency. The Langeveld bid was lowest of nine bids submitted.

An application from Walter Deitz to move a house and garage from 795 Lincoln Ave. to 180 East 32nd St. again was tabled until next meeting after some difference of opinion was expressed. Since the house cannot be moved until pavement is completed in front of the new site, Council felt the delay would not cause an inconvenience.

Oaths of office were filed for John H. Kemper and Dwight B. Yntema for the Board of Appeals and George Dalman as member of the Panel of Space Heating Examiners.

An application for a permit from Boeve Oil Co. to replace a service station on the southeast corner of 32nd St. and US-31 business route was referred to the city manager for study and report.

An application for a license to solicit funds for Holland Economic Corp. July 1 to Oct. 1 was approved. Mayor Bosman explained that the corporation is retaining the services of a national fund raising agency to conduct the drive.

A petition requesting water service in 35th St. from Pine Ave. to Central Ave. was referred to the city manager for report.

A letter from A. Drew Miles, Park township clerk, proposing the formation of an "airport advisory board" to supervise the operation, maintenance and improvement of the present Park Township Airport was filed, pending a report on a study Council authorized some time ago on airports. The letter proposed an advisory board consisting of two members of Holland city, two of Holland township, two of Park township and one of Zeeland city.

Council approved an application of Don Brink Excavating Co. to move a granary from 37 West 4th

Dredge Haines Completes Channel Work

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' dredge Haines is dredging in Muskegon now after having spent much of last month in the Holland area, according to the engineer in charge at Grand Haven Robert R. Sonnel.

The Haines started its 1963 maintenance dredging season late in March in Grand Haven where it worked for one week until ice conditions improved in the harbor. From there she spent a few days in Holland in April, dredging the shoaled harbor entrance.

The South Haven harbor was also dredged in April as was the Benton Harbor canal. An emergency call was received in May for work in Waukegan, Ill., and Kenosha, Wis. After completing that the Haines returned to the east shore of Lake Michigan and finished the St. Joe Harbor. The first half of June was spent dredging the inner harbor turning basin in Holland.

The South Haven harbor and the harbor entrance and channel between pier and revetments was completed in Saugatuck recently. The Chicago Corps of Engineers' equipment and personnel is being used for repairs at the Holland harbor which includes rebuilding the outer 100 feet of the north and south breakwater and repairing the rubblemound connection between piers and breakwaters. Sections of the north revetment are also being rebuilt.

From Muskegon where she is working now, the Haines will work up the lake shore to Ludington, Frankfort and Charlevoix. It will not return to this area the rest of the summer.

The city manager informed Council he will be absent from the city on vacation for a week beginning July 22 and designated City Clerk Don Schipper to act as city manager in his absence.

All Councilmen were present with the exception of Councilman Henry Steffens. The invocation was given by the Rev. Fred Handlogten of Montello Park Christian Reformed Church.

Ottawa County sheriff's officers said today that three boys, age nine, ten and eleven, have admitted accidentally setting the fire Monday afternoon that destroyed a chicken coop owned by Al Looman at 152nd St. and Ottawa Beach Rd.

Deputies said the three said they were playing with matches in the chicken coop when some straw ignited, setting fire to the roof. Looman estimated damage at $6,000, as the 120-by-40 foot building was destroyed.

Deputies said the three boys have been cited to Probate Court.

Rescue Local Sailor During Big Race

MACKINAC ISLAND — J. C. Petter of Holland, a member of the Mitena's foredeck crew, was washed overboard just before the start of the race at Chicago Saturday but was rescued and escaped injury.

Mitena was the first boat to cross the finish line Monday in the 56th annual Chicago-to-Mackinac Island race. The accident caused Mitena to lose 10 minutes at the start of the race.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Chicago estimated the southeast wind at 37 miles an hour at the time of the mishap. Seven-foot seas were reported. Mitena also broke a backstay and nearly lost a spar just before the starting gun fired.

"We took six passes at Petter before we got a line to him and six of the crew pulled him aboard," said O. W. Lowry, Jr., of Grand Rapids, one of Mitena's owners.

"We got away 10 minutes late and had to run off on the other tack until we rigged up another stay," Lowry, formerly of Holland, said. "That was the last trouble we had," Lowry said.

Petter still seemed shaken by the experience and had bruises where his body slammed against the hull when he was hauled on deck, it was reported.

Blitzen, 56-foot cutter ended the 333-mile race today less than two hours behind the 72-foot sloop Mitena.

Blitzen, owned by Bill and Tom Schoendorf, Milwaukee, Wis., which had a 2-hour, 38-minute handicap over the Mitena, owned by Charles Withey, Grand Rapids, finished at 9:27 a.m., 1 hour, 27 minutes, 54 seconds behind the Mitena.

Mitena had the best time since Royono III, a 72-foot yawl, finished in 37:12.57 in 1948.

Burglars Fail To Crack Safe

Holland police Monday were investigating the theft of a safe from the Four-Star Service Station at 321 East Eighth St. Saturday night.

The safe, two feet square, was found intact Sunday in some brush in the vicinity of the Home Furnace Co. on East Sixth St., after a police search.

Kenneth DeBoer, manager of the station, opened the safe and said money and papers inside were not disturbed.

Police said some tools were found with the safe in the brush, and detectives theorized that the thieves were frightened away by daylight Sunday morning, while trying to open the safe.

Detectives said entry was gained through a window on the south side of the building, which had been pried open permitting the intruders to climb in.

They said there is no indication that a truck or other vehicle was used, and they believe the men carried the safe on foot to the place where it was found, about two blocks away.

Find Nothing Missing In Food Store Breakin

Burglars apparently left empty-handed after breaking into Central Park IGA Food-Liner at 1158 South Shore Dr., Sunday night or early Monday Holland police said.

A wholesale truck driver making overnight deliveries at the store noticed a window broken in the rear door, and notified police. Police called store manager Robert Kuiper who went to the store and confirmed that it has been broken that night. Police said the intruders reached through the window to unlock the door.

A check revealed nothing apparently missing, police said. The safe in the store appeared not to have been disturbed, they said.

Ottawa County sheriff deputies estimated the damage as over $100. Garage screens and windows were also damaged and kitchen cleaner was smeared all over the house, deputies said. The house was owned by Ivan De Jonge of 561 Huizenga St., Zeeland.

Probe Possible Breakin At Local Auto Agency

A Holland patrolman on his round found a window open in a door. Further investigation disclosed file cabinets in the office open, the stock room door left open, and a light on in the stock room.

Officials of the company have reported nothing missing.

Brazil is about the size of the United States. There are four territories and 21 states of the country. The population is 78 million people with a large portion being of European ancestry. Brazil has a democratic government.

The northeast part of the country is very dry. In parts of the dry region there is no rain sometimes for three years. The west one-third is the least developed and populated. The central one-third of Brazil consists of a medium population and there are primitive tribes who still practice cannibalism in this area. The east one-third is the most developed part of Brazil. Nearly everyone speaks Portuguese.

The principal crops are coffee, cocoa, cotton, bananas, sugar cane, pineapples, peanuts, cashews and oranges. Corn, rice and tapioca are grown under irrigation. Some minerals of the country are diamonds, gold and silver.

The Soil Conservation Service has been organized in the state of Sao Paulo with 10 areas and 57 work units. The farms in this area vary from 500 to 1,000 acres.

Re-Roof High School; Company Bears Cost

All of the buildings on the new Holland High School campus are being re-roofed at no cost to the district or the city, Harvey J. Buter, president of the Holland School Board said Wednesday.

Buter said school officials and officials of the Flintkote Corp. of New York were both dissatisfied with the color of the original roofing done on the buildings. They felt that a higher degree of uniformity should have been achieved.

Accordingly, a representative of the roofing concern is in Holland to supervise the re-roofing project, cost of which is being paid by the company.

Treasurer Reports On Tax Collection

Approximately 20 per cent of the total amount of revenue expected from the 1963 city and school taxes has been received by the city treasurer's office in the first two weeks of collection.

This year over 10,000 tax bills, amounting to $2,051,686.03, were sent to residents of Holland. The treasurer's office reported that $401,055.04 had been received.

Bills not paid by Aug. 15 will become delinquent, and taxpayers will be penalized two per cent of their total tax bill. After Sept. 10, the penalty is six percent of the original bill and this amount is added to the winter tax bill.

Taxes may be paid either by mail or in person at the treasurer's office in City Hall.

Two Treated After Car Hits Railing in Woods

GRAND HAVEN — Two Grand Rapids youths employed at Grand Haven State Park were treated in Municipal Hospital after a car accident at 8:50 p.m. Wednesday just south of Lake Ave. in Duncan Woods.

Thomas Timmer, 19, driver of the 1959 convertible, and Hugh Wygmans, 20, were released after treatment.

City police said the accident occurred when Wygmans yelled unnecessarily to Timmer to watch out for a dog which presumably was not there and the convertible hit a long railing in the woods.

Timmer was taken to the hospital by police cruiser. Wygmans was found wandering in the woods by a passing motorist who took him to the hospital. Wygmans was treated for injuries to the head, nose, left eye and leg lacerations.

Police charged Timmer with failure to stop within an assured clear distance ahead.

Local Man Found Dead Near Cadillac

CADILLAC — A Holland man was found dead Friday night in a gas filled cabin on Eggle Lake near Tustin in Osceola County.

The body of Melvin McBride, 48, of 268½ West 11th St., was found on a bed in the cabin by Robert Eggle owner of the cabin.

State Police said "It appears Melvin McBride was overcome by gas fumes which originated from a defective refrigerator located in the kitchen of the cabin."

Police said William Eggle, who had been staying in the same cabin, was hospitalized 10 days ago with an undetermined illness.

Authorities were forced to break down the door to enter the cabin. They said a strong odor of gas was detected.

Several gas appliances were turned off but the pilot light on the gas refrigerator was on but not burning.

Medical examiner Howard Fossnaught ruled "death was due to gas—accidental."

Robert Eggle said McBride was last seen at the cabin Thursday night. Eggle became alarmed when he didn't see McBride Friday and went to the cabin that night when he found the dead man. The cabin is the only one on Eggle Lake.

McBride was employed at the Townsend Manufacturing Co. in Zeeland.

Arraign Man In Burglaries

Howard Pigeon, 24, of 121 Fairbanks Ave., Holland, waived examination in Municipal Court on a charge of nighttime breaking and entering, and was bound over to Circuit Court.

Failing to post $1,000 bond, Pigeon was taken to the Ottawa County jail.

Holland police charged Pigeon in connection with the breakin at the North End Tavern at West Sixth St. early Tuesday morning, in which more than $100 was taken from four machines which were broken open.

Police said Pigeon also admitted to breakins at the Holland Theater and Moor Shoe Store on East Eighth St. Sunday morning and Monday night. They said about $25 was taken from machines and the ticket office at the theater, and about $16 from the shoe store.

Two Suits Filed In Circuit Court

GRAND HAVEN — Two suits were started in Ottawa circuit court Wednesday. The township of Wright and its zoning administrator, Lawrence Hansen, started a suit against Edward Burton, a resident of the township.

The township claims Burton resides in a residential area and is conducting an automobile junkyard in violation of the zoning regulations of the township. The plaintiff asks the court to order the defendant to stop using his property for this business as it is injuring the value of the adjacent properties.

Amalgamated Acceptance Corp. of Illinois started a suit against The Pines Cocktail Lounge Corp. and its owners, Michael Riolo, Margaret Riolo, Woodrow Yared and Jape Yared, of Grand Haven.

The plaintiff company seeks to recover $28,730, plus interest from Sept. 1, 1962; due and unpaid on three mortgages and a promissory note.

Deputies Investigate Reports of Vandalism

tubes under water with a compressor, to float the flivver so it could be brought to shore. Pete Hartsuiker is holding the excavator's hook used to locate the car, when the men dragged the lake. All but McCracken and Birkholz work with the Wolverine Trenching Co., a drainage contracting firm which does land reclaiming work for the State Conservation Department.

'Float' Model T After 35 Years

FENNVILLE — For 35 years people have been trying to raise Cecil Schaffer's Model T from the bottom of Hutchins Lake.

Schaffer went spear fishing on the frozen lake in late February of 1928, and drove the flivver out onto the ice.

When he emerged from his shanty, he said he found one side of the car had sunk through the ice.

He tried to jack it up. The other side fell through.

He put some planks under the car to try to hold it up, and went for help.

When he returned with a neighbor living nearby, there was a big hole in the ice over the spot where the car had gone down.

The car was a kind of legend after that. There were countless efforts to hook onto it and drag it to the surface. No one ever had much luck before Thursday afternoon.

Pete and Jim Hartsuiker, Norman Jones, Orville Atkins and Dick Sinclair are drainage contractors for the Wolverine Trenching Co. of Fennville. Business is slow, since there's been no rain for quite a spell.

Bob McCracken and Leo Birkholz of Fennville like scuba diving. The seven of them teamed up Thursday to raise Schaffer's "tin Lizzie."

Tubing method was amazingly simple — ingenious, in fact.

"We found the car by dragging the lake with a big excavator's hook," said Pete Hartsuiker. "Then Bob and Leo dived down to it, and attached 14 inner tubes to it."

"We blew up the inner tubes with a compressor, and up she came."

Thirty-five years in 20 feet of water does strange things to a car, as Schaffer's resurrected Model T illustrates.

The car was lying on its left side in the mud, and that side was quite well preserved. The right side of the body, which had the car's only door, was almost completely rusted away.

The battery underneath the rear boards was cracked, but otherwise appeared in good condition.

Three of the four tires were in good condition, and a couple still had air in them. The fourth had disintegrated.

The wood in the car seemed to hold up best. The floorboards, rear truck box, and the old artillery wood-spoke wheels were still sound.

Most amazing was the old four-cylinder engine.

"We can still crank it," the salvagers said. "It doesn't seem to be rusted at all, and you can get it still has compression."

McCracken said the car began to leak gasoline and oil as they began hauling it up. "There was

Set Deadline For Needlework Fair Entries

With the opening of the Ottawa County Fair only a short time away, potential contestants in the 1963 National Wool Needlework contest are urged to speed up work on their entries or begin them if they have not already done so.

Preliminary judging will take place at the local fair which opens July 29. Designs must be submitted to the Fair's needlework superintendents, Mrs. Henry Frenks and Mrs. Marvin J. Nienhuis, not later than July 22. The contest is jointly sponsored by the National Hand Knitting Yarn Association and the American Wool Council.

Awards will be made in 10 separate categories, five each for knitting and crocheting. Categories include afghans, sweaters, scarves and shawls (one category); three-piece baby sets and socks, gloves and mittens (one category).

Further details or rules for the contest can be procured through Mrs. Frenks, EX 6-4448 or Mrs. Nienhuis EX 6-7442.

a real oil slick," he said, "and you could smell gasoline all over the place."

What are they going to do with it?

"We don't quite know," they said. "We'll probably contact the Ford Motor Co. to see if they're interested in it. They may want to tear down the engine and examine it."

"And if we can't find anything else to do with it, we'll put it on display in front of the Wolverine Trenching Garage, in an aquarium filled with water and seaweed."

"Maybe it'll feel more at home that way, anyway."

2 Growing Local Businesses Move Into Roomier Quarters

Two Holland businesses are taking a healthy forward step this weekend, as they move into new and larger quarters, in response to the need for expansion to meet increased demand.

Hampson Manufacturing Co., maker of "Insur-Flex" wire insulator for automotive upholstery, furniture and bedding Saturday was operating from its new location at 706 Ottawa Ave.

Into Hampson's former quarters at 346 West 15th St. moves Kars Petersen, Inc., maker of "STOP," an adhesive "fool" for washing machines and other appliances.

Hampson's insulators are used as pad supports between the springs and padding in mattresses and box springs, automotive seats and furniture. The product consists of woven wire used with burlap or cotton and twisted paper cord.

J. C. Hampson, president, said his company supplies manufacturers in the Great Lakes area, primarily. He said insulators for automotive upholstery goes either to the auto manufacturers' trim shops or to the seat pad manufacturers, depending on the company in question.

Hampson, who came here three years ago from Detroit, said the business outgrew its space in the 15th St. building in just two years.

Starting with two employees the company has expanded to a shop employing eight men.

"Different industries we supply have different seasons," said Hampson, "for instance the peak seasons for automobiles and furniture come at different times of the year. This works well for our operation."

He added that demand for bedding remains relatively stable all year around, and that this is a solid, steady factor in the insulator-manufacturing business.

"We like Holland because of its stable labor market and good trucking service," Hampson said.

He said he is also appreciative of the assistance and encouragement received from the Holland Chamber of Commerce, and the Chamber's new executive vice-president, Roscoe Giles.

Kars Petersen, Inc., started in January of this year as a strictly "backyard" operation. The company soon outgrew its facilities until it was forced to seek new space.

"It became impossible to operate as we had been doing," said president Kars Petersen of 57 West 21st St. "We had been using the garage of my home, and part of a shop at Grand Haven."

"But it's illegal to operate out of a residential area on the kind of volume we found building up. We would have had semi-trucks pulling up to our home."

He explained that "STOP" is a high-compact polystyrene cup, with a special adhesive on the bottom that sticks to any flat surface, and is impervious to heat, cold, water, or chemicals. A patent is applied for on the adhesive, which lasts indefinitely.

While "STOP" was originally developed for use under the leveling screws of automatic washers to keep them from moving while the cylinder agitates the water (a condition known as "washer wander"), the devices actually have many uses.

They can be placed under many appliances to hold them stationary, and are also useful for holding portable typewriters in place, and any one of a number of related functions.

The devices it marketed through service sections of appliance companies, in department store chains, and through retail hardware outlets. The chain stores give the product world-wide distribution.

Using dies owned by the local company, a Grand Haven shop molds the cups, which are then brought to Holland where the adhesive is applied and the finished product prepared for shipment.

At the present time, Petersen said, the company is manufacturing the devices at the rate of 20,000 per day.

"Market research," said Petersen, "indicates that we should operate efficiently and profitably at the rate of 1,000,000 per month. We can do that, but we'll need more space. That's why we're moving into Hampson's former plant."

Eight people are employed by the company at present, five in Holland and three at Grand Haven. Plans are to incorporate as much of the Grand Haven operation into the Holland facilities as is possible.

"Eventually," said Petersen, we plan to hire more people as we expand to meet demand."

Petersen is already embarked on diversification. Two new products are in the process of being marketed now.

$340,240 Is Awarded In Allegan

Commission Rules That Consumers Power Co. Must Pay Land Owners

ALLEGAN — Awards totaling $340,240 for owners of 63 parcels of land in the "buffer zone" of Consumers Power Co.'s Overisel gas storage field were announced Friday in Probate Court here.

The ruling of the three-man condemnation commission climaxed the longest legal proceedings in Allegan County's history, and one of the longest in the state.

Commissioners Harlan Partridge, Benjamin Cibick and Walter Morris based their decision on a 136 days of testimony by litigants and expert witnesses.

The amount of the awards was considered a compromise, midway between the $75 per acre originally offered landowners by Consumers Power Co., and the amount sought by the contestants.

It was still a major victory for Allegan attorney John Nahan who aided in the latter part of the contest by Kenneth Frincke of Kalamazoo who fought an uphill battle against legal precedent and a battery of Consumers attorneys, led by Leo W. Hoffman of Allegan.

Individual awards ranged from a high of $41,000 which went to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Essink for their 280-acre farm to a low of $50 for the smallest parcel involved.

The commission's decision obviously leaned toward Nahan's argument that consideration should be given for the value of "gas in place," beneath the contested acreage.

Consumers' offer of $75 per acre was for gas storage rights only.

Nahan said today the awards averaged $150 per acre, which he described as "about 15 times what the power company's evidence would support, and about one-sixth of what we were fighting for."

He added, "we would have been really happy with awards about double what we were given, so you could say we're half-glad now."

He said he didn't feel that the decision would be appealed by his clients, whose awards totaled $315,390.

Cost of the proceedings which got under way Jan. 3, 1962, and ended May 15, 1963 will be paid by the power company.

Consumers could appeal the decision, but it was considered doubtful. Their attorney Hoffman was not available for comment following this morning's ruling.

If the decision stands, it may be considered a precedent for other commission's to follow in subsequent Michigan gas storage condemnation suits.

The commission adjourned until Aug. 1 at which time it will start hearing similar arguments over the amount of awards for owners of "buffer zone" property in the Salem gas storage field, also in Allegan County.

Greenway Family Honored at Picnic

A combined Sunday School and farewell picnic was held Thursday evening at Kollen Park for the Rev. Roger Greenway family by the Fourteenth Street Christian Reformed Church.

Games for the children were held before the picnic supper. The prize for the pre-school scramble game was won by Cristi Achterhof; Timmy Rusticus was awarded the prize for picking pennies from a pail of water. Other prizes were won by Randy Fisher, Natalie Lindsay, Steve Breuker, Gary Fisher and Beth Breuker.

Edward D. Koops gave the opening prayer at the supper. After the meal the Rev. Van Kooten addressed the Greenways and wished them Godspeed in their new field of labor in old Mexico where Rev. Greenway will teach in the John Calvin Seminary. Rev. Greenway responded by telling of their joy in being able to become better acquainted with the congregation during his year of furlough and of their eagerness to begin their new work in September. Rev. Van Kooten offered the closing prayer.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Cherrie Mannes, the oldest woman present and to Dick Plaggemars, the oldest man at the picnic. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vander Myde, who will observe their 60th wedding anniversary next October; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee Koops, the most recently married couple; and little Nancy Dykhuis, the youngest baby present were also honored with gifts.

During the social hour that followed the supper, the young people engaged in a treasure hunt. Jack Blauwkamp and Mike Breuker received the prize for this game.

Rev. Greenway is partially supported by the Fourteenth Street Church and will be the guest minister for three Sundays beginning July 28 when the pastor will be taking his vacation.

PARKINSON'S LAW IN ACTION

In 1957 Professor C. N. Parkinson wrote a book that had the unusual title "Parkinson's Law." The book is a study in administration. Here are some of the laws Parkinson uncovered. "Work expands so as to fill the time available for its completion." "The thing to be done swells in importance and complexity in a direct ratio with the time to be spent." "The number of the officials and the quantity of the work are not related to each other at all."

Recently retired Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs, with over forty years of experience in the diplomatic service, gave an interesting study of Parkinson's law as it relates to the State Department. When he was serving in Czechoslovakia, he was able to get State Department approval to reduce his staff from 80 to 40. But the resistance from Washington finally cut this to two.

By a quirk of history the Czech government forced a reduction in the staff from 78 to 13, which meant that Ambassador Briggs operated the embassy with a staff of 12. The Ambassador reported that this was the most efficient staff he had ever had. The work was done with dispatch and the various services coordinated for a maximum of efficiency. Ambassador Briggs said that his years of service had taught him that we could be twice as effective with half the personnel.

There aren't many men of the stature of Ellis O. Briggs. And when there are, the tremendous bureaucratic resistance stifles their attempts to be efficient. The constant growth in the number of our federal employees is certainly proof of the correctness of Parkinson's Law. With this law a part of our government psychology, we can't expect much of a change in the growth toward bigness. If such a change is ever to come, we will need men of the stature and character of Ellis O. Briggs, with a determination to buck the tide.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday July 21
"Where Art Thou?"
Genesis 3:1-10: 22-24
By C. P. Dame

No matter how old or young we are or where we live we are tempted. A lesson on temptation is for every one since no one can escape this experience. It is a sin to be tempted but it is a sin to yield. May the study of this lesson help us to overcome temptations.

I. Temptation is as old as the human race.

The first temptation deserves study for modern temptations come in a similar manner. God placed Adam and Eve in a beautiful garden where they could eat from the fruit of all the trees save one—the fruit of the knowledge of good and evil.

Satan used the serpent which was "more subtle than any beast of the field to approach Eve when she was alone." It is said to be very dangerous to swim alone and some people are easily tempted when they are alone.

The serpent began a discussion, asking a question, about God's command. Instead of walking away, Eve answered.

When young people begin a discussion about any one of God's commands, such as honesty or chastity, they blunder. These commands need obedience.

Note Eve's answer and observe that she misquotes Gen. 2:16. Eve's readiness to talk gave the tempter the opportunity to tell a lie, the first recorded lie in Scripture: "Ye shall not surely die."

After making this bold statement which suggested that she should not take God seriously the tempter attacked God's character by saying that God was withholding something good from her: "For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened and ye shall be as gods knowing good and evil."

II. Yielding to sin is followed by a sense of guilt.

Temptation is an inducement to do evil—to go beyond the bounds set.

Eve saw that the fruit was "good for food," it appealed to the appetite. The more she looked at it, the more pleasant it seemed to the eyes. Eve also noted that the fruit would make one wise and so she took and ate.

Food, beauty and wisdom won her over. Recall Achan's words, Joshua 7:21, "I saw. . . I coveted. . . I took."

God made Adam and Eve moral beings with the power to choose. By giving them a command God revealed to them his authority which he wanted them to heed. Eve chose to disobey God and follow her own desire.

Eve "gave also unto her husband." One sinner seduces another. Sin spreads and soils other lives. The corrupt try to corrupt others. After both had sinned they became conscious of being naked and hid themselves. God sought the guilty pair and called Adam.

Sin fosters a guilty feeling and causes a separation between God and man. It was God who sought the guilty pair—not the guilty seeking him. God still seeks wayward sinners.

III. Sin is followed by punishment.

Adam lied to God. Indirectly Adam blamed God when he blamed the woman. Adam was the first cad. The woman blamed the serpent. Modern man blames heredity and environment and society.

God told about a threefold punishment which would come to the woman—painful childbirth, her desire to husband and his domination over her.

To the man a threefold punishment would also come. A curse upon the ground, excessive hard work, and a final return to the dust. The Lord drove the guilty pair from the garden.

Sin does not pay, its price has not gone down at all.

Allegan Opens 125th Birthday Celebration Friday Morning

ALLEGAN — Area residents, turning back the clock for the community's 125th birthday party, are learning the answer to the frequently-asked question, "what did you do before cars and television."

"We had fun!" That's the answer most old-timers come up with, and the pre-celebration warm-up events are proving them right.

As the July 19 opening draws near, Alleganites are rediscovering the fun and thrills of uninhibited, old-time shenanigans.

They're learning that there's as much, or more excitement packed into an old-fashioned "tug-of-war" between 20-man teams on Main Street as there is in a drag race or a "Ben Casey" re-run.

Square dances, box-socals, a simple promenade around town or an uninhibited session of the "kangaroo court" are among the pre-celebration events which already have drawn enthusiastic crowds to downtown Allegan.

If an event only attracts the people directly involved in the 125th anniversary organization, a crowd is guaranteed. Nearly a thousand area residents—including between six and seven hundred bearded "Brothers of the Brush" and bonneted "Celebration Belles"—are playing some part in the festivities.

Lake Macatawa Cleanup Is a Community Project

Early this month, in a letter to a congressional committee studying ways to combat water pollution, Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall expressed concern over what he believed to be an alarming increase in the amount of untreated waste material which was flowing into and polluting our lakes and streams.

When asked if he thought the Secretary's remarks could be applied to Michigan's waters, Ralph Purdy, the chief engineer of the Michigan Water Resources Commission, said he thought only one region of the state had a "major pollution problem"—the Kalamazoo River in the Kalamazoo-Plainwell-Otsego area.

Yet for over a year, interested organizations and individuals have been cooperating with local governmental agencies to improve what they believe to be the unnecessary and disgraceful pollution of Lake Macatawa. The list of achievements is commendable.

On paper, their accomplishments are clearly visible. Last January, after a survey of Lake Macatawa, and the drainage ditches and streams running into it, revealed the extent of pollution, Ottawa county adopted its first sanitary code governing waste and sewage disposal.

In practice, the Holland Department of Environmental Health has been working since spring to advise home owners who have inadequate disposal systems of the law, and to see that steps are taken to eliminate these public nuisances.

Outside of the city, the new regulations are being enforced by the County Health Department through the offices of the building inspectors in the various townships.

"But it should not be necessary for health officers and building inspectors to have to track down those people who are violating the law and tell them that they are wrong," Holland's Director of Environmental Health Sam Stephenson said.

"People should be aware of their moral, as well as their legal, responsibility to keep the lake clean," he said.

Stephenson explained that his department, and other enforcement agencies, do not have a sufficient number of personnel to see that all current abuses of the regulations are corrected.

Working primarily from the results of last year's survey, inspectors choose what seems to be a high pollution area and then back track "upstream" conducting further test and examining all drains until the source is located. With limited staffs the cleanup remains a slow operation.

"Home owners have an obligation to the community to see that their disposal systems conform to the requirements of the law," Stephenson said.

The ordinance adopted last January prohibits the disposal of any kind of domestic waste, including sink, laundry and bath water, either above the ground or into pipes or ditches which carry the wastes, untreated, into the lake.

"But ignoring any obligation which a home owner may feel, I cannot understand why a person would purchase lake front property, supposedly for its recreational advantages, and then proceed to create a situation whereby it becomes impossible for him to use it," Stephenson continued.

In eliminating industrial pollution the problems are somewhat different, Stephenson pointed out. The Water Resources Commission allows a limited amount of improperly treated, to flow into the lake. Most industries today use mechanical devices to treat their waste material.

If the equipment is faulty, or if a manufacturer alters his filtration process, he may be, perhaps unknowingly, polluting the lake. Because of the limited number of men the Water Resources Commission has in the field, this condition may not be discovered immediately, Stephenson said.

"Lake Macatawa will be only as clean as the community itself wants it," Stephenson emphasized. From the beginning, the campaign to cleanup the lake has been a community project. Under Michigan law, each locality is left to draw-up and enforce its own health and sanitary codes. Regulations exist only where they are believed necessary.

Before this year, Ottawa County had no regulations governing the disposal of waste products—either domestic or industrial. But was a code necessary? Although several lakefront houses had drainage pipes emptying into the lake, was the amount of sewage from them sufficient to pollute the water? And did not the various industries have to stay within the legal loading limits allowed by the Water Resources Commission?

Realizing that any action would have to be initiated by a concerned citizenry, the Holland Garden Club in April of 1962 called a public meeting at which some of the problems relating to the possible pollution of the lake were discussed.

At subsequent meetings it was decided that a survey of the lake was the most logical beginning. Plans were made to take samples from all water-courses within a 260 square mile area bordering the lake. The project would be under the supervision of Stephenson and would be financed by contributions from local individuals, institutions and industries.

Nearly $1,000 had been received by June, when two Hope College seniors began to collect samples from the various creeks and drainage ditches, the Black River and its tributaries, and representative points in the lake.

During the summer, 264 samples were collected half of which were analyzed for detergents and half of which were searched for harmful bacteria. All tests were made at the branch office of the Michigan Department of Health in Grand Rapids.

When the results of these tests were combined with earlier tests taken by the Water Resources Commission, the need for some kind of regulation was clearly recognized. In January, the County Board of Supervisors approved the code which had been drawn up by health officials along with representatives of service clubs and industry.

The fight against water pollution is not through. Some indication of what concerned individuals and groups will be doing in the near future was given by Mrs. J. J. Brower of the

Portrait Artist to Appear At Village Square Aug. 2

Knud Hougard who will be the guest artist at the Hope Village Square to be held on the campus Aug. 2, was present at a meeting of members of the Women's League of Hope College held Friday afternoon at Phelps Hall. He and his wife were introduced by Mrs. Matthew Peelen of Kalamazoo, the 1963 general chairman.

Mr. Hougard, a native of Denmark, was selected at the age of 16 to study art with Millar Jensen, the famous teacher in Copenhagen. After five years of study he was employed as artist for the Fredericksburg Theatre and later branched out to include other theatres, schools, as well as public building murals and decorations. For three years he was a designer of jewelry for five major concerns and many of his pieces were purchased by the royal family of Denmark. He has also Painted portraits of the entire royal family of Denmark. Mr. Hougard now lives in Arlington, Va., with his wife and two children. The arrival of the artist in Arlington two years ago was the result of many friendships with American officials at the embassy in Copenhagen. As one of the outstanding artists in Denmark, he was called upon to paint members of the American military mission, their wives and families, and thus, through vivid first-hand description of life in the United States he became eager to see it for himself.

Since his arrival in the United States Mr. Hougard has painted many government officials and members of their families, including the First Lady of the land, Jacqueline Kennedy.

The Hope Village Square will feature an exhibit of Mr. Hougard's paintings. During the course of the day he will be doing a portrait in pastels.

Open houses are being planned through the Women's League of Hope College in Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Detroit to honor Mr. Hougard and allow others to see his fine exhibit.

The Hougards are personal friends of Dr. and Mrs. Peelen. A portion of the proceeds received from portraits commissioned through the Village Square and open houses will be given to the League.

MEMORIAL SERVICE—Gov. George Romney speaks to 6,000 uniformed National Guardsmen sitting on Wilson Hill at Camp Grayling Sunday morning at a Memorial service held in tribute of National Guardsmen who died within the past year. National Guardsmen wore raincoats through the service because of light rain which started Saturday. (Sentinel photo)

Holland Guards Enter Second Week of Training

CAMP GRAYLING—Two weeks at Camp Grayling is no vacation. At least that's what 105 National Guardsmen from Holland are finding out.

After putting their best foot forward over the weekend for Gov. George Romney, they were still standing tall Monday as the commanding general of the 3d Army, Lt. Gen. Charles Dodge, began a two-day inspection. Dodge will see almost all the units at work and inspect the new combat training courses.

Dodge's visit coincided with the plunge of National Guardsmen back into their fast-paced training regimen after a brief weekend respite that started following the division review for Romney Saturday.

The men from Company B, 2nd Battalion, 126th Infantry, moved out onto the live firing range today in the second week of their camp training.

Holland Guardsmen will be firing rifles, 81 mm. mortars and 105 mm. recoilless rifles under live firing on different ranges which supposedly simulates the actual war conditions.

Holland Guardsmen attended the morning memorial services held on Wilson Hill Sunday where Gov. Romney spoke before National Guardsmen who attended the services held in memorial of Guardsmen who died last year.

After church and the memorial services, the Holland Guardsmen returned to the mess hall for a dinner of fried chicken, corn and potatoes.

Cols. Herman Steenstra of Grandville, commander of the Second Battalion and William Sikkil of Holland, commander of the Third Battalion were dinner guests of the Holland unit.

Following uniform inspection Saturday morning, Holland Guardsmen joined other units of the 46th Division to pass in review before Romney. Romney earlier rode in a jeep around the division to inspect the troops.

After the one hour and 15 minute parade Romney said:

"It was very impressive evidence of the fine training the Guard is receiving. I was very impressed with the entire review program."

Holland Guardsmen returned to their camp area where their bunks and weapons were inspected by Capt. Willard Severance and Capt. George Smeenge.

Saturday's rain was a welcome to National Guardsmen who stood on alert watching fires which had begun on firing ranges from ammunition. On the other hand, it made a wet weekend for Guardsmen on weekend passes.

Ten fires were reported as having started on the firing ranges Friday, one which was started by a group from Holland who were firing high explosives on a 105 mm range. Other fires on bivouac were quickly put out.

A fire was started Friday morning by Holland Guardsmen and was put out, so they thought. It soon started burning again, ignited a nest of dud explosives and spread over the range where it was contained by three roads. A tanker broke the fire on the fourth side.

The fires were allowed to burn under control to rid the firing ranges of dead brush and grass, according to the Camp Grayling Public Information Office.

The last Holland Guardsmen came staggering into camp at 1 a.m. Saturday morning after having stood watch over the fire they started.

Saturday it rained making it a wet weekend for Guardsmen who left camp on pass with families and friends. Guard duty was called about 8 p.m. and all men still in the Company B camp were rounded up to stand guard on two-hour shifts.

About seven men were left in camp when First Sgt. Raymond Naber rounded up the Guardsmen who had just shined their shoes and put on a clean uniform to go on pass for the weekend. Sfc. Roger Naber was named officer of the day.

The Holland Guardsmen returned to the main part of camp Friday night after four and a half days of bivouac in the woods.

It was the first time they could take a shower in four days, shave with hot water, sit down to a table with tablecloths for meals and eat on a plate and use napkins from a wooden-shoe napkin holder.

Wednesday night the men were put on a blackout alert with one third of Company B men on guard. Two jeeps patrolled the area.

Most of the men from Holland remained in healthy condition although a few did catch cold the first few days because of the colder nights in Northern Michigan.

The men will leave Saturday for home at 7:10 a.m. and are expected to arrive here by 2 p.m.

The Park Township Fire Department was called at 4:45 p.m. and remained on the scene about two hours. The 120 by 40-foot building was erected in 1948 for raising broilers. It had not been in use for six on seven years and Looman purchased it from an estate about two years ago.

Looman estimated damage at $6,000 although he said replacement value would be about $12,000.

Park township Fire Chief Jake De Feyter is investigating the fire. Ted De Graaf is assistant chief.

Family Sets Sail For West Indies

SAUGATUCK — A young Farmington, Mich., family with a yen to "get away from it all" set sail from Saugatuck Thursday for the Virgin Islands aboard a 38-foot Chinese junk.

In search of a new life are Lowell Keith, his wife, Pat, and the couple's two children, David, 8, and one-year-old JoAnn. Keith was formerly a traveling salesman for a furniture manufacturer.

The family plans to make its new permanent home at Christiansburg on St. Croix in the Virgin Islands. Keith plans to make it his business to ferry vacationers from St. Croix to Buck Island National Park, five miles away.

Buck Island has no overnight accommodations, and at present there is only one boat making the run from St. Croix to the island, a popular haven for skin divers. Keith said the junk can accommodate 10 people comfortably during the one-day trip. He said he plans to provide transportation and a picnic lunch at $10 per passenger.

The Keiths will leave Saugatuck for Chicago where they will pick up the Illinois Waterway to the Mississippi River. They plan to sail down the Mississippi to New Orleans, then to Key West, Nassau, San Juan, P.R., and finally to St. Croix.

For several years, Keith, a one-time army swimming instructor, and his wife had been talking about a way of life quite different from their roles as salesman and suburban housewife.

A vacation trip to St. Croix settled the question of where they would start their new life, and a "for sale" sign on the junk in front of a Saugatuck residence answered the question of how.

With the help of Richard Hoffman of Saugatuck, skipper of the Island Queen excursion boat who imported the junk from Hong Kong two years ago, Keith has spent the last week outfitting the oriental vessel for the long voyage.

Extra fuel tanks have been mounted on the cabin, and water storage capacity has been increased. Eight-year-old David has been taught how to operate the bilge pump.

Beginning Thursday, home for the Keiths for several months will be their 38-foot junk, a ship of ancient design but well-known for its cargo capacity and sea-worthiness. And, at the end of that several months, lie a new home and a new life.

Slate Study Of Center At Allegan

ALLEGAN — A thorough medical study of the area served by Allegan Health Center is underway here, local hospital administrator, Floyd Weddle, announced Tuesday.

The 28-bed rehabilitation unit at the Health Center was temporarily closed in May when hospital officials agreed it was "a necessary measure in order to get back on a sound financial basis."

Believing area citizens are "entitled to a complete and impartial analysis of the situation" Weddle said hospital trustees recently authorized the current survey being conducted here by the Bureau of Hospital Administration, University of Michigan.

Weddle also announced appointment of a Citizens' Advisory Committee to "supplement and strengthen the board of trustees in implementing recommendations resulting from the survey." Members will have a voice vote equal to the board only in the particular project now underway, he said.

The survey will focus on determining to what extent surrounding areas affect hospital utilization at Allegan and on isolating factors which may have contributed to failure of the rehabilitation unit, the administrator explained.

"The Allegan Health Center service area must first be defined through investigation and analysis," said Weddle, "then we can proceed to determine needs in the specific categories of medical - surgical, pediatric, obstetric, and long term care."

A statistical analysis will be made of the Health Center, including admission and utilization rate, percentage of beds of the Health Center, including admission and utilization rate, percentage of beds occupied, average length of stay, payment procedures, and outpatient use.

Other important features to be studied will include health resources in the area such as physicians and practices and, in Weddle's view, "availability of qualified professional personnel."

Provide War Compensation

Ratification of a financial treaty between the Netherlands and West German Governments, which becomes effective Aug. 1, will provide funds for the compensation of Netherlands victims of Nazi persecution during World War II.

Persons who were persecuted because of their race, faith or ideology, or their participation in acts of resistance against the Nazis may qualify for payment if they were Netherlands nationals or Netherlands - protected subjects during the war years.

Compensation is to be paid to persons who were imprisoned for three months or longer; suffered disability of 70 per cent or more for not less than five consecutive years as a result of persecutory measures; were under an obligation to wear the Star of David at least six months; or were subjected to sterilization.

Heirs of persons who died during or as a result of persecution are eligible for compensation under certain conditions.

Persons who have reason to believe they may be eligible to file a claim for compensation should inquire at the nearest Netherlands Consulate or at the Embassy of the Netherlands in Washington, D.C. The Netherlands Ministry of Finance will supervise the payment of some $31,000,000 to claimants who qualify.

The Rev. H. G. Arnold officiated at the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shoemaker, 10 East Lincoln, Zeeland, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Garlock, 120 Robinson, Allegan.

TV Inventor, Researcher Enjoys Vacation at Mooring

The monthly bill for lighting New York City will be about a dollar. And the average home will have a collective power load of around 10,000 kilowatts.

A hurricane will be unwound or turned out to sea, and you may be living in a tropical setting in your own backyard all year round.

These are just a few of the things, Philo T. Farnsworth, a research engineer and the primary developer of electronic television, says he believes will be possible in the next few decades as man begins to realize the uses of a new energy source, hydrogen fusion.

Farnsworth is a physicist who left college in his second year to marry and to work in electronic television research. He invented the Orthicon, the television pickup tube which transmits and synchronizes the piecemeal light images which we see as continuous pictures on our tv screen, and holds more than 160 United States patents for inventions in television, radar and electronics.

Farnsworth, 56, and his wife Pam (Elma Gardner) and their youngest son Kent, 15, were vacationing at the Mooring Resort last week. They enjoyed cruising in their 30-foot boat on Lake Macatawa and Lake Michigan so much that they plan to return next week. The Farnsworths have two other sons, Philo T. Jr., 33, and Russell S., 27.

Farnsworth, who runs the Farnsworth Research Laboratories in Fort Wayne, Ind., a division of International Telephone and Telegraph, has spent the last six years in active research on the taming of the H-bomb, or hydrogen fusion. Hydrogen fusion is the energy released when a hydrogen bomb explodes, as distinguished from nuclear fission, which is the principle behind the atomic bomb.

Hydrogen fusion, says Farnsworth, will be the most efficient power source we have because unlike uranium, the basis for atomic power, there is no scarcity of hydrogen-producing resources. Lithium will be the principal source of hydrogen, and will be easily obtainable in large quantities in the near future as it is one of the many by-products of desalinization, that is, the method of reclaiming fresh water from salt water.

Farnsworth predicts that hydrogen fusion will eventually replace the conventional fuels, coal, oil, natural gas and water power, as well as uranium, as the principal source of energy. Like atomic energy, a little hydrogen fusion will produce a lot of power, and it will be cheap to use.

"We have just passed a kind of halfway mark in human history," says Farnsworth. "Before the present era, we were a 'low-energy civilization,' that is, we used small amounts of energy at high cost. We are entering a civilization where energy costs almost nothing."

ing, a sort of high-energy civilization."

One of the first and most immediate effects of the transition into such a world will be to keep people of the world from starving to death as the population continues to expand, Farnsworth noted.

As we learn to use the new power source, he continued, man will be able to reclaim deserts for cultivation. The energy released from hydrogen fusion, for instance, would be great enough to divert whole rivers to the most arid regions of the earth for irrigation purposes.

Man will also be able to mine low grade ore deposits, previously not mined because the expenses for power was greater than the value of the mineral he says.

In this new high energy civilization, Farnsworth continued, man will be able to control the weather almost at will. He will be able to destroy destructive storms and to divert hurricanes and tornadoes from the populous regions of the country.

The high-energy civilization, declares Farnsworth, will be characterized by many things that are now considered waste. And hydrogen fusion is just one of the new forces in this civilization.

New Hospital Head Elected

John H. Van Dyke, a member of the hospital board since 1952, was elected president at the annual meeting of the board Tuesday afternoon. He succeeds Clarence Becker who has served as president since 1957. Becker has been a board member since 1946. Van Dyke is assistant sales manager and advertising manager at Hart and Cooley Co.

The board also adopted a new policy effective Sept. 1 inaugurating a service charge on past due bills. The service charge will be 1/2 per cent per month with a minimum charge of 50 cents. It will affect bills which are 30 days beyond the first mailing date.

The board explained that as of June 30, there is $85,000 on the books in private pay accounts not covered by insurance agencies. Collection of these bills, particularly balances in part-pay insurance accounts, has become an increasing problem. Since the hospital is a self-supporting institution with no revenue other than billings to patients, the slow pay of private accounts has put the hospital into a difficult cash position.

Board members felt this service charge arrangement was preferable to asking for advance deposits which most hospitals practice. The service charge policy is in use in several hospitals in Michigan. The local policy is patterned much like the program in Midland.

In other business, the hospital board voted to ask City Council for a $35,000 loan for one year to finance new x-ray equipment. Order for such equipment has been placed ahead of time in view of a forthcoming price increase.

DRIVER UNHURT—Albert H. Stegenga, 77, of route 2, 112th Ave., miraculously escaped serious injury when his car and a semi-trailer truck loaded with beer collided Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. at the intersection of US-31 and James St. Ottawa County deputies said Stegenga, heading west on James St., pulled out in front of the truck, driven by 26-year-old Virgil

Nelson of Manistee. The crash demolished Stegenga's 1956 model car, and broke open the trailer on Nelson's truck when the trailer overturned in the ditch. The tractor remained in an upright position, and Nelson was not injured. It took two hours to clear the highway of the wrecked and damaged vehicles and debris. (Sentinel photo)
