Mr. and Mrs. P. Boot lost their infant son, Otto, aged sixteen months, Monday. A severe attack of lung fever ended its earthly career.

H. Van der Ploeg is making a canvass of the city for the Biographical Sketch of Rev. Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, by Rev. H. E. Dosker. It is published in the Holland language.

Hope church Sunday school not holding an annual picnic this year, the two classes of the Misses Sue Martin and Lena Herold celebrated on their own hook, Wednesday, and enjoyed a day's outing at Macatawa Park.

List of letters advertised for the week ending July 20th, 1893, at the Holland Post Office: Mrs. Henry Cherry, George L. Lathrop, Mr. P. Pothoff, Mr. Louis Stearns.

G. J. VAN DUREN, P. M.

The steam barge J. H. Johnson of St. Joe came into port Sunday, and remained here all week. On Thursday she took the place of the str. Macatawa between the city and the resorts, to enable the latter to clean her boilers.

Will Debridge, a farmer on the Lake Shore, owns a team of horses which is too lively for his purposes. It ran away twice with a selfbinder this week, Mr. D. driving them on both occasions. He escaped fortunately without serious injury.

The str. Macatawa, after leaving the city dock at her usual hour 1:15 p. m. on Saturday of this week, and calling at the resorts, will leave from there at 2:00 o'clock for Saugatuck, and after stopping there half an hour, make the return trip for this city. Fare, from the resorts, round trip, 25 cents.

The dead body of Ole Anderson, on the whale exhibition boat, washed ashore between Port Sheldon and Grand Haven, Friday of last week. It was discovered by Chas. De Boer. The coroner was informed, an inquest held, the father notified, and the body embalmed and taken east, to Long Island, for interment. The boat is now at Whitehall.

At the adjourned session of the circuit court, Tuesday, three liquor cases were disposed of, by the respondents coming into court and pleading guilty: J. Healy, of Berlin, selling without having filed the required bond; Geo. Haas, of Grand Haven, selling on the Fourth; L. Van Drezter, of Grand Haven, not removing screen on Sunday. Another saloonkeeper of Grand Haven, Mr. Booyink, also charged with not removing screen as required by law, had his examination before Justice Pagelson and was held to the circuit court for trial at the next regular term.

Wednesday morning while C. J. De Roo, secretary of the Holland and Chicago Transportation Co., was looking for the arrival of the str. City of Holland, he received a telegram from Chicago, stating she was still at that port, unable to make the trip to Holland. It appears the steamer left Chicago at her usual hour on Tuesday night, and after being out about forty-five miles the steam chest gave out. The break was of that nature that it could not be repaired, and as they were in the path of Chicago bound vessels a sharp lookout was kept. Early in the morning the steamer Saugatuck, bound from Holland to Chicago, was sighted, and in response to their signals came near and stopped. On learning the nature of the accident a line was at once taken to the disabled steamer, and the Saugatuck started to tow her consort back. Both vessels arrived in Chicago about noon. The Saugatuck at once took the freight and passengers of the City of Holland and left for this place, arriving here Wednesday evening, again leaving for Chicago that same night. The broken parts were taken to the Montague works for repairs, and it is expected that the steamer will resume her position by Saturday or Sunday evening. Arrangements were forthwith made with str. McVea to take the place of the disabled steamer while the repairs were being made, and daily connection was kept up uninterruptedly.

Marshal Van Ry is collecting water rates.

Real estate transfers in Ottawa County are not nearly as lively as they were last year.

The new creamery in Jamestown has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $6,000. See notice for meeting of stockholders.

Philip P. Schulmyer of Otsego, has established a cigar manufactory in this city, in the store of D. Bertsch, two doors east of Botsford's. He will start out with three hands.

Congressman Richardson of this district expects to leave for Washington to attend the extra session, about the 1st of August. He informs us that before his departure he will visit our city and harbor and acquaint himself fully as to its condition and needs.

During the severe thunderstorm of Sunday lightning struck a small stack of grain on the harvest field of B. Luden, near Overisel. In spite of the thorough drenching from the rain the flames devoured their prey in a comparatively brief space of time. The damage was fortunately limited to the one stack.

Jo Essebaggers is carrying on successfully, in a small way, a bakery and confectionery, at his place on Seventh street, the former Sooter broom factory. Jo is a first-class workman, his goods advertise themselves, and as he makes occasional calls at your house, give him a part of your patronage. He is worthy of it.

Lightning struck the house of Gerrit Wyngaarden, Vriesland, Sunday night. It knocked the hanging lamp down, which was scattering the burning oil all over. Mr. W., who was just passing through the room. He called for help and his wife and son appearing at once on the spot, saved him from being burned alive. As it was he escaped with some serious burns on his legs.

Last week we mentioned the death of Theo. P. Sheldon, the banker of Kalamazoo, who died in a private asylum for the insane at Flint. We have since learned that Mr. Sheldon's mind was shattered upon one point, and that was constant dread he would die a pauper. For that reason he refused to partake of anything but the scantiest of food, intimating all the while that he could not pay for a good meal.

A pleasant feature at Macatawa Park, during the assembly week, will be the presence of a large party from St. John's Episcopal Cathedral, of Chicago, including the full choir. They are among the finest church vocalists in Chicago, and they will assist at the services. Macatawa Park was chosen by their committee as the place to spend their annual vacation, after a visit to all the Michigan resorts.

Another incident in connection with the electrical storm of Monday evening of last week we find in the Kalamazoo Telegraph: The electrical storm struck the railroad station at Yorkville, near Kalamazoo, three times in succession, and the operators, Mrs. H. Jacobs and Frank E. Doeburg had a very narrow escape from death. Frank was just going to ground the wire when a flash of lightning struck the depot. In an instant the depot was one mass of flames. Both operators lay flat on the floor stunned. Mr. Fox, a store keeper across the road, saw it strike the depot and saw it in a blaze. The depot was full of electricity. All the instruments were burned out. A number of trees, houses and barns were struck around here.

From a trip to the Holland (Wis.) Daily Press we learn of the marriage, in that city on July 11, of Miss Katharina M. Brouwer with William Garnich, at the residence of the bride's parents. The many friends of the bride in this city her former home, will perhaps read the following with interest.

"The bride, Miss Kittie M. Brower, is a daughter of Capt. F. R. Brower, and a young lady who is admired and loved by all her acquaintances. During her residence in Ashland she has made a large circle of friends, and hearty greetings and congratulations came to her from her old home, Holland, Mich. She is an accomplished elocutionist and musician and has always been ready to assist at home entertainments for church and charity, where her efforts have been highly appreciated.

"Will Garnich, the groom—well, he is one of Ashland's own sons, having lived in this city during the greater part of his life. He is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Garnich, who were among the early pioneers to this section. Everyone knows Will, and a more brighter young business man does not exist. The young couple have left for a three weeks' wedding trip, visiting Chicago, the Worlds Fair and other cities east."

The new postmaster at Bass River, Ottawa county, is J. H. McCue.

Bernardus Kieft has his new residence on Eighth street nearly completed.

The new U. S. minister to the Netherlands, Mr. Quinby, will sail for the Hague, Saturday.

A. G. Van Hess of Zeeland, on Wednesday, marketed the first new wheat at the Standard Roller Mills of this city. It brought 62 cents.

Dr. F. R. Hynes of Allegan was instantly killed, Sunday afternoon. While out riding with his wife the horse took fright and tipped the buggy over, throwing them both out.

There will be a large Mich. Central excursion to attend the Assembly at Macatawa Park on next Thursday. The steamer City of Holland will leave here that day at noon, to give an excursion on Lake Michigan.

Just after the storm last week E. M. Kent, a farmer residing about three miles from the city, on the west North-Holland road, found his three-year-old colt dead in the pasture. It had evidently been struck or scared to death by lightning, although no evidence of it could be found on the body.

James Huntley and one of his sub-contractors, Thomas Haw, of Muskegon, in settling up a year's business could not make their respective footings tally, and inasmuch as the discrepancy runs way up into the hundreds, the latter has availed himself of the prerogative of the courts to force an agreement.

For the benefit of those that love to worship at the shrine of the goddess Flora we would announce that this (Friday) evening between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock there will be on exhibit at the drug store of Martin & Huizinga a Night Blooming Cereus, in full bloom, placed there through the kindness of Mrs. J. C. Post.

The steam yacht Adele, with its owner John W. Blodget and bride of Grand Rapids on board, made a two days' stop at the resorts, leaving Tuesday for the World's fair. The Adele is one of the finest and fleetest steam yachts on the Lakes. She carries a crew of five men and makes her 14 miles an hour without extra effort.

This, Friday, evening, the Steamer Macatawa gives a moonlight excursion to Saugatuck. Boat leaves Holland at 7:00 p. m., returning to Holland at 10:00 p. m. Only 50 cents for this delightful trip.

HOLLAND CITY NEWS

G. VAN SCHELVEN, Editor.

SATURDAY, JULY 22, 1893.

Matters Municipally.

The common council proceedings this week are lengthy and what is of greater merit, they are of importance, and interesting.

It goes without saying that our municipal affairs this year are running smoothly and satisfactorily.

The infusion of a little new blood by the extension of our corporate limits has proven to have been the right sort of stimulant for the body corporate.

The many changes and innovations introduced in the city charter, as far as they have been tested, are found to be agreeable to the conditions that impelled their introduction.

School matters have adjusted themselves to suit the new order of things, and a more satisfactory state of affairs than now exists, could not be desired by the most earnest friend of the American schools.

The board of public works, as the successors of the old board of water commissioners, in conjunction with the Mayor and a committee of aldermen, have taken hold of the electric light question in a business like way, and judging from the present tenor of affairs the only thing that stands between electric street lighting and the erection of a city plant is the negotiating of our city bonds, about which however, in view of the depression in the money market, there appears to be some doubt just at present about their being negotiated—that is, without sacrifice.

The matter of Block A is also receiving due attention, and although the official labors connected with the establishing of the necessary number of streets through this large tract of land is enormous and complicated, nevertheless we have every reason to hope that the matter will not be unnecessarily delayed.

To this satisfactory state of affairs however, there is one exception, and that is in connection with the board of park trustees. One promenade around Centennial Park is sufficient to confirm this allegation.

It took the members of this board some time after their appointment to organize. They held one meeting, and after petitioning the common council for an ordinance further defining their powers and duties, they adjourned, and have been ever since and are still awaiting the passage of that ordinance.

Now one of two things is true, either the common council is faulty in not giving the board that ordinance, or the board is too technical for practical good. The terms of the charter, in title eleven, are broad and liberal. What the board lacks just now is not an ordinance, but funds. Let it submit to the council a general and complete plan of improvement, and then let the council determine the amount that can be spared this year towards a beginning. If in the course of time it requires an ordinance for the regulation or protection of the park, well and good.

In the mean time we are raising this season in Centennial Park a crop of weeds and undergrowth which would do credit to any abandoned homestead in the Valley of Hepsidam.

Board of Supervisors.

The board met in special session Monday, for the purpose of changing the contract for the erection of the new court house from Messrs Ward & Russell to A. J. Ward, as will be seen from the following:

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors of the County of Ottawa.

Gentlemen:—We hereby ask to have the contract entered into between the undersigned and the county of Ottawa, on the 17th day of June, 1893, for the construction of the new county court house cancelled and annulled, and on our part hereby releasing the county of any and all obligations to us, or either of us, under any of its provisions. And we further ask that the same contract with all its conditions and terms, be renewed and entered into on the part of the County, with A. J. Ward, a duly qualified contractor, the firm of Ward & Russell, the said change being made for the purpose of having the same agreed upon by both members of said firm.

We herewith submit a plan of agreement duly entered into and in part cancelled and contract.

Dated at Grand Haven this 17th day of July, 1893.

WARD & RUSSELL.

Whereupon this action was taken.

Resolved: That the petition of Ward & Russell, for the cancelling of the contract for the new county court house, as now presented, be granted, and that the said contract entered into between the County of Ottawa and the said Ward & Russell on the 17th day of June, 1893, for the construction of the new county court house be and the same is hereby cancelled and annulled, and the chairman and the clerk of the Board of Supervisors directed to sign the memorandum transmitted as above.

RESOLVED, That a new contract for the construction of the proposed court house be entered into between the County of Ottawa and Andrew J. Ward, of Flint, Mich., in accordance with the terms of the communication now before the board and that the chairman and clerk of the board be and they are hereby directed to sign and execute said contract in behalf of the County, upon the same terms and conditions, with the same plans and specifications, for the same consideration, and with the same requirements as to sureties as were set out in the above mentioned contract with Ward & Russell, except that the time for the completion of the building, be changed from June 15th, 1894, to August 15th, 1894.

Several accounts were presented, through the board of health of Olive township, growing out of the recent diphtheria case in the family of August Brecker. The expenses incurred were large and the board directed the committee on claims and accounts to investigate as to the liability of the county, especially with reference to medical services. The health laws and the decisions of the courts are very positive and direct in this matter, except in the opinion of a majority of the board, on this one point.

One other matter was brought before the board, relative to forestry. The steady removal of our forest trees is a matter of great interest, and its effects are being noted, especially in the case of the timber. The motion of Supervisor Kerhof a committee of three was appointed to give this matter consideration and devise some plan by which the importance of this subject may be brought to the attention of the citizens of the county and report at the October session. The committee consists of Messrs Lagers of Holland, Thurston of Chester, and Pruim of Spring Lake.

The work on the new court house under the immediate supervision of Contractor Ward, is progressing well. The walls up to the level of the basement floor will be completed this week. J. F. Smith of this city, sub-contractor for the cut stone, commenced with a force of ten men, Tuesday.

The Bersch Brick and Tile Co., of Spring Lake have the contract for the brick, except the re-pressed red brick, for the outside, which will come from Detroit. Fred Engle of Muskegon has taken the contract for the slating and galvanized iron. In regard to the south vault of the old court house, which is partly in the way of the new building, the committee at their meeting on Monday decided to cut off six feet on the south end and enclose it again with a temporary brick wall. Mr. Pruim of Spring Lake was entrusted with the work.

The Ottawa County Building and Loan Association.

The Fifth annual meeting of the above association was held in Lyceum Hall, Tuesday evening and was called to order by the president, Geo. Ballard. The attendance was not as large as some other years. However, the absentees were well represented by proxies. After the reading of the annual report by Secretary Stevenson the poles were opened for the election of four directors, vice C. Ver Schure, M. Fortier, D. L. Boyd and Dr. H. Kreners, whose terms of office expired. The latter declined a re-election, and there was quite a contest, amicably, for the succession. It laid between the postmaster and his assistant, and the result was that owing to the cumulative system of voting prescribed by law, both got in, at the expense of Mr. Fortier, whom it was not intended that should be left. The whole number of votes cast was 1,603, as follows: C. Ver Schure, 1,592; G. J. Van Buren, 1,582; D. L. Boyd, 1,233; C. De Keyser, 1,088; M. Fortier, 923, with the balance scattering.

President Ballard in his opening remarks congratulated the stockholders upon the prosperous condition of the association. He claimed in his last annual report among the Building and Loan Associations of this State, as having the highest of the "Savings" plan. The reasons to be recalled are that the First Savings of stock will mature within a few years—three years from now, at which time every stockholder will realize one hundred dollars on an investment of fifty-two dollars, paid in in monthly installments. Such facts speak for themselves and need no other foundation.

The existence of this institution has amply demonstrated that a Building and Loan Association is an indispensable auxiliary to a growing place in enabling its inhabitants to procure a home, and also that a healthy, progressive town makes these institutions most desirable for investment. The relations are reciprocal.

In Memoriam.

Jeremiah W. Thomson died at his home on Gold street, Grand Rapids, Wednesday of last week, of phthisis pulmonalis. He was best known to many of our citizens as a brother of Mrs. W. H. Deming of this city, and a member of Co. I, 25th Mich. Inf., in which he enlisted with his brother Robert, who with another brother, Andrew, also a soldier of the late war lie buried in Pilgrim Home cemetery.

Jerry, as he was familiarly known, was one of a family of 12 children only one of whom, Mrs. Eliza J. Deming, survives. The mother is still living, and at the age of 82 years, enjoys fairly good health. Jerry was born in New Brunswick, May 10, 1843. In 1857 the family moved to Grand Rapids and in 1861 several of them resided in the then village of Holland. Upon his return from the war, Jerry settled in Grand Rapids, and was married in 1872 to Miss Ella Broadwell Morse of Detroit, who with two children, a son and a daughter, survive their husband and father. For 17 years he was engineer in the Grand Rapids Stove company, and the two years previous to his confinement at home he was with the Grand Rapids Folding Chair and Table Co. He was industrious and faithful, highly esteemed for his integrity of character and devotion to what he believed to be right. By his kind and generous spirit and readiness to assist he easily won the confidence and respect of every one who knew him.

The funeral occurred Sunday afternoon, from the Mission Wood Presbyterian church. Grand Rapids and were largely attended. From this city there were present Mrs. W. H. Deming, her son George and wife, and E. Van Ralston, M. De Boer, J. Kreners and G. Van Schelven, late of Co. I, 25th Mich. Inf.

RALLY TO THE G. A. R.

Fifty Veterans will see the World's Fair as the "New York Press" Guests.

There will be Special Pullman Palace Cars Full of Them En-Route to Chicago Early in October.

The New York Press proposes to send to the World's Fair as its guests fifty Union veterans, members of regular Grand Army posts, who are to be selected by the readers of THE SUNDAY PRESS. This proposition is made as an evidence of the esteem and gratitude in which THE PRESS holds the men who imperiled their own lives to save the nation.

Each of the chosen veterans will be the guest of THE PRESS from the moment the train leaves New York until its return, and the journey will be timed to include a full week's sojourn in Chicago, with all expenses paid, including daily entrance to the grounds of the Exposition.

All G. A. R. veterans in good standing are eligible. They may come from any town, city, State or Territory over which the Stars and Stripes proclaims its government.

The selection of the fifty favorites will be made on the ground of popularity, their popularity to be voted by ballots printed in every issue of THE SUNDAY PRESS.

THURSDAY 3.

Christian Endeavor Day.

10-00 A. M.—Opening Exercises.
10-30—"Relation of the Christian Endeavor Society to the Church."—H. H. Spooner, Chicago.
11-00—"Relation of the Church to the Christian Endeavor Society."—Rev. Q. L. Dowd, Winnetka, Ill.
8 P. M.—"World Wide Endeavor."—S. L. Mershon, Chicago.

FRIDAY 4.

8 P. M.—"Columbian Stereopticon Entertainment."—Prof. M. L. Williston, Elmhurst, Ill.

Prof. Williston gave a series of Columbian Stereopticon entertainments at Chatauqua last year, which received high praise. Macatawa Park is fortunate in securing him for the Assembly this season. His first lecture next Tuesday evening will give an excellent idea of the Hawaiian and Sandwich Islands. He has about a hundred fine views of the Islands.

Rev. Dr. Corwin of Chicago takes charge of the normal work of the Assembly. This goes under the name of "The Free Parliament." There are three general subjects for discussion during the Assembly: "The Sunday School," "The structure of the Bible," and "Inspiration." Dr. Corwin has been a prominent normal class leader in the western Assemblies of Iowa and Colorado. He is strongly indorsed by such men as Rev. Dr. Vincent, of Chatauqua fame.

Rev. Samuel Freuder, the ex-rabbi, whose talks were enjoyed so much by the people of Holland last year, will give a new lecture on "The Hebrews of To-day," Saturday forenoon, at 11:30. A story was told on the Rabbi last year. A notice inviting people to come and see "the Rabbi in his costume" was flashed to a "t" by some mischievous boys, and read: Come and see the "Rabbit" in his costume.

The lectures to be given next Wednesday evening and Thursday morning by the Rev. H. T. Sell of Chicago, on "The Catacombs at Rome," are worthy of especial mention. They have been given in such churches as the Union Park (Dr. Noble) of Chicago, with thorough satisfaction to the audiences. They are illustrated by large charts and illustrations on cloth, thus giving a good idea of this place for the Christian worship of eighteen hundred years ago.

No admission fees are charged except to the Stereopticon Entertainments. For these the charges are: Adults 25 cents, children 15 cents.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:
"Several of our old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892.
These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.
Sold by all druggists.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

HE FINDS MANY LESSONS IN THE PREVAILING PANIC.

There is Nothing Wrong in Desiring to Be Rich, But Like All Human Desires It Should Be Rigidly Subjected to God's Law—A Timely Subject.

At the Tabernacle.

Rev. Dr. Talmage has selected as his subject for last Sunday a topic of the greatest interest and timeliness—viz., "Comfort for Business Men," the text being Isaiah xl, 2, "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem."

What an awful six weeks in commercial circles! The crashing of banks from San Francisco to New York and from ocean to ocean. The complete uncertainty that has halted all styles of business for three months and the pressure of the money market for the last year have put all bargain makers at their wit's end. Some of the best men in the land have faltered; men whose hearts are enlisted in every good work and whose hands have blessed every great charity. The church of God can afford to extend to them her sympathies and plead before Heaven with all availing prayer. The schools such men have established, the churches they have built, the asylums and benevolent institutions they have fostered, will be their eulogy long after their banking institutions are forgotten. Such men can never fail. They have their treasures in banks that never break and will be millionaires forever.

The stringency of the money market, I am glad to say, begins to relax. May the wisdom of Almighty God come down upon our national Legislature at their convening next month in Washington and such results be reached as shall restore confidence and revive trade and multiply prosperities! Yet not only now in the time of financial disaster, but all through life, our active business people have struggled, and I think it will be appropriate and useful for me to talk about their trials and try to offer some curative prescription.

The Tempted Merchant.

In the first place, I have to remark that a great many of our business men feel ruinous trials and temptations coming to them from small and limited capital in business. It is everywhere understood that it takes now three or four times as much to do business well as once it did. Once a few hundred dollars were turned into goods—the merchant would be his own storekeeper, his own salesman, his own book-keeper. He would manage all the affairs himself, and everything would be net profit. Wonderful changes have come. Costly apparatus, extensive advertising, exorbitant store rents, heavy taxation, expensive agencies, are only parts of the demand made upon our commercial men. And when they have found themselves in such circumstances with small capital they have sometimes been tempted to run against the rocks of moral and financial destruction.

The temptation of limited capital has ruined men in two ways. Sometimes they have shrunk down under the temptation. They have yielded the battle before the first shot was fired. At the first hard gun they surrendered. Their knees knocked together at the fall of the auctioneer's hammer. They blanched at the financial peril. They did not understand that there is such a thing as heroism in merchandise, and that there are Waterloo's of the counter, and that a man can fight no braver battle with the sword than he can with the yardstick.

Their souls melted in them because sugars were up when they wanted to buy and down when they wanted to sell and unsalable goods were on the shelf and bad debts in their ledger. The gloom of their countenances overshadowed even their dry goods and groceries. Despondency, coming from limited capital, blasted them. Others have felt it in a different way. They have said: "Here I have been struggling along. I have been trying to be honest all these years. I find it is of no use. Now it is make or break."

The small craft that could have stood the stream is put out beyond the light-house on the great sea of speculation. Stocks are the dice with which he gambles. He bought for a few dollars vast tracts of Westernland. Some man at the East living on a fat homestead meets this gambler of fortune and is persuaded to trade off his estate here for lots in a Western city with large avenues and costly palaces and lake steamers smoking at the wharves and rail trains coming down with lightning speed from every direction. There it is all on paper! The city has never been built nor the railroads constructed, but everything points that way, and the thing will be done as sure as you live. And that is the process by which many have been tempted through limitation of capital into labyrinthine from which they could not be extricated.

I would not want to chain honest enterprise. I would not want to block up any of the avenues for honest accumulation that open up for young men. On the contrary, I would like to cheer them on and rejoice when they reach the goal, but when there are such multitudes of men going to ruin for this life and the life that is to come through wrong notions of what are lawful spheres of enterprise it is the duty of the ministers of religion and the friends of all young men to utter a plain, emphatic, unmistakable protest. These are the influences that drown men in destruction and perdition.

The Everlasting Thirst for Gain.

Again, a great many of our business men are tempted to over anxiety and care. You know that nearly all commercial businesses are overdone in this day. Smitten with the love of quick gain, our cities are crowded with men resolved to be rich at all hazards. They do not care how money comes. Our best merchants are thrown into competition with men of more means and less conscience, and if an opportunity of accumulation be neglected one hour some one else picks it up. From January to December the struggle goes on. Night gives no quiet to limbs tossing in restlessness nor to a brain that will not stop thinking. The dreams are harrowed by imaginary loss and flushed with imaginary gains. Even the Sabbath cannot dam back the tide of anxiety, for this wave of worldliness dashes clear over the churches and leaves its foam on Bibles and prayer books.

Men who are living on salaries or by the culture of the soil cannot understand the wear and tear of body and mind to which our merchants are subjected when they do not know but that their livelihood and their business honor are dependent upon the uncertainties of the next hour. This excitement of the brain, this corroding care of the heart, this strain of effort that exhausts the spirit, sends a great many of our best men in midlife into the grave. They find that Wall street does not end at the East River. It ends at Greenwood! Their life dashed out against money safes. They go with their store on their backs. They trudge like camels, sweating from Aleppo to Damascus. They make their life a crucifixion. Standing behind desks and counters, banished from the fresh air, weighed down by carking cares, they are so many suicides.

Reliance on Divine Aid.

Oh, I wish I could to-day rub out some of these lines of care; that I could lift some of the burdens from the heart; that I could give relaxation to some of these worn muscles. It is time for you to begin to take it a little easier. Do your best and then trust God for the rest. Do not fret. God manages all the affairs of your life, and he manages them for the best. Consider the lilies—they always have robes. Behold the fowls of the air—they always have nests. Take a long breath. Bethink yourselves that God did not make you for a pack horse. Dig yourselves out from among the hogheads and the shelves, and in the light of the holy Sabbath day resolve that you will give to the winds your fears and your fretfulness and your distresses. You brought nothing into the world, and it is very certain you can carry nothing out. Having food and raiment, be therewith content.

The merchant came home from the store. There had been great disaster there. He opened the front door and said, in the midst of his family circle: "I am ruined. Everything is gone. I am all ruined." His wife said, "I am left," and the little child threw up its hands and said, "Papa, I am here." The aged grandmother, seated in the room, said, "Then you have all the promises of God beside, John." And he burst into tears and said: "God forgive me, that I have been so ungrateful. I find I have a great many things left. God forgive me."

Again I remark that many of our business men are tempted to neglect their home duties. How often it is that the store and the home seem to clash, but there ought not to be any collision. It is often the case that the father is the mere treasurer of the family, a sort of agent to see that they have dry goods and groceries. The work of family government he does not touch. Once or twice in a year he calls the children up on a Sabbath afternoon when he has a half hour he does not exactly know what to do with, and in that half hour he disciplines the children and chides them and corrects their faults and gives them a great deal of good advice and then wonders all the rest of the year that his children do not do better when they have the wonderful advantage of that semi-annual castigation.

The family table, which ought to be the place for pleasant discussion and cheerfulness, often becomes the place of perilous expedition. If there be any blessing asked at all, it is cut off at both ends, and with the hand on the carving knife. He counts on his fingers, making estimates in the interstices of the repast. The work done, the hat goes to the head, and he starts down the street, and before the family have risen from the table he has bound up another bundle of goods and says to the customer, "Anything more I can do for you to-day, sir?"

Duty to One's Family.

A man has more responsibilities than those which are discharged by putting competent instructors over his children and giving them a drawing master and music teacher. The physical culture of the child will not be attended to unless the father looks to it. He must sometimes lose his dignity. He must unlimber his joints. He must sometimes lead them out to their sports and games. The parent who cannot forget the severe duties of life sometimes to fly the kite and trundle the hoop and chase the ball and jump the rope with the children—ought never to have been tempted out of a crusty and unredeemable solitariness.

If you want to keep your children away from places of sin, you can only do it by making your home attractive. You may preach sermons and advocate reforms and denounce wickedness, and yet your children will be captivated by the glittering saloon of sin unless you can make your home a brighter place than any other place on earth to them. Oh, gather all charms into your house! If you can afford it, bring books and pictures and cheerful entertainments to the household. But, above all, teach those children, not by half an hour twice a year on the Sabbath day, but day after day, and every day teach them that religion is a great gladness that throws chains of gold about the neck, that it takes no spring from the foot, no blitheness from the heart, no sparkle from the eye, no ring from the laughter, but that "her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace."

I sympathize with the work being done in many of our cities by which beautiful rooms are set apart by our Young Men's Christian Association, and I pray God to prosper them in all things. But I tell you there is some thing back of that and before that. We need more happy, consecrated, cheerful Christian homes in America.

Limited Uses of Money.

Again, I remark that a great many of our business men are tempted to put the attainment of money above the value of the soul. It is a grand thing to have plenty of money. The more you get of it the better, if it come honestly and go usefully. For the lack of it sickness dies without medicine, and hunger finds its coffin in the empty bread tray, and nakedness shivers for lack of clothes and fire. When I hear a man in canting trade against money—a Christian man—as though it had no interest in it, I come almost to think that the heaven that would be appropriate for him would be an everlasting poorhouse!

While, my friends, we do admit there is such a thing as a lawful use of money—a profitable use of money—let us recognize also the fact that money cannot satisfy a man's soul; that it cannot glitter in the dark valley; that it cannot unlock the gate of Heaven. There are men in all occupations who seem to act as though they thought a pack of bonds and mortgages could be traded off for a title to Heaven and as though gold would be a lawful tender in that place where it is so common that they make pavements out of it. Salvation by Christ is the only salvation. Treasures in Heaven are the only incorruptible treasures.

Have you ever ciphered out in the rule of loss and gain the sum, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?" However fine your apparel the winds of death will flutter it like rags. Homespun and a threadbare coat have sometimes been the shadow of coming robes made white in the blood of the Lamb. The pearl of great price is worth more than any gem you can bring from the ocean, than Australian or Brazilian mines strung in one carcanet. Seek after God; find His righteousness, and all shall be well here; all shall be well hereafter.

Loss of Money Not Fatal.

But I must have a word with those who during the present commercial calamities have lost heavily or perhaps lost all their estate. If a man lose his property at 30 or 40 years of age, it is only a sharp discipline generally, by which later he comes to larger success. It is all folly for a man to sit down in midlife discouraged. The marshals of Napoleon came to their commander and said, "We have lost the battle, and we are being cut to pieces." Napoleon took his watch from his pocket and said: "It is only 2 o'clock in the afternoon. You have lost that battle, but we have time enough to win another. Charge upon the foe!"

Though the meridian of life has passed with you, and you have been routed in many a conflict, give not up in discouragement. There are victories yet for you to gain. But sometimes monetary disaster comes to a man when there is something in his age or something in his health or something in his surroundings which make him know well that he will never get up again.

In 1857 it was estimated that for many years previous to that time annually there had been 30,000 failures in the United States. Many of those persons never recovered from the misfortune. But let me give a word of comfort in passing. The Sheriff may sell you out of many things, but there are some things of which he cannot sell you out. He cannot sell out your health. He cannot sell out your family. He cannot sell out your Bible. He cannot sell out your Heaven! You have more than you have lost.

Sons and daughters of God, children of an eternal and all loving Father, mourn not when your property goes. The world is yours, and life is yours, and death is yours, and immortality is yours, and thrones of imperial grandeur are yours, and rivers of gladness are yours, and shining mansions are yours, and God is yours. The eternal God has sworn it, and every time you doubt it you charge the King of Heaven and earth with perjury. Instead of complaining how hard you have it, go home, take up your Bible full of promises, get down on your knees before God and thank him for what you have, instead of spending so much time in complaining about what you have not.

The Ark of Safety.

Some of you remember the shipwreck of the Central America. This noble steamer had, I think, about 500 passengers abroad. Suddenly the storm came, and the surges trampled the deck and swung into the hatches, and there went up a hundred voiced death shriek. The foam on the jaw of the wave. The pitching of the steamer as though it were leaping a mountain. The dismal flare of the signal rockets. The long cough of the steam pipes. The hiss of the extinguished furnaces. The walking of God on the wave! The steamer went not down without a struggle.

As the passengers stationed themselves in rows to bail out the vessel, hark to the thump of the buckets, as men unused to toil, with blistered hands and strained muscles, tug for their lives. There is a sail seen against the sky. The flash of the distress gun sounded. Its voice is heard not, for it is choked in the louder booming of the sea. A few passengers escaped, but the steamer gave one great lurch and was gone! So there are some men who sail on prosperously in life. All's well. All's well. But at last some financial disaster comes—a euroclydon. Down they go! the bottom of the commercial sea strewn with shattered hulks.

But because your property goes, do not let your soul go. Though all else perish, save that. For I have to tell you of a more stupendous shipwreck than that which I have just mentioned. God launched this world 6,000 years ago. It has been going on under freight of mountains and immortals, but one day it will stagger at the cry of fire. The timbers of rock will burn, the mountains flame like masts and the clouds like sails in the judgment hurricane. Then God shall take the passengers off the deck, and from the berths those who have long been asleep in Jesus, and he will set them far beyond the reach of storm and peril.

But how many shall go down, that will never be known until it shall be announced one day in Heaven, the shipwreck of a world! Oh, my dear hearers, whatever you lose, though your houses go, though your lands go, though all your earthly possessions perish, may God Almighty, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, save all your souls.

Beer.

Germany and England are the two chief beer brewing countries, but the latter is below the former, England brewing 996,985,000 gallons. In consumption of quart per head, however, Belgium is ahead of both Germany and England, consuming 163.25 to Germany's 134.40 and England's 125.10. The inference follows that the beer of Belgium is "drunk on the premises," and not exported like the English and German. The production of beer in America is 376,775,000 gallons, and the average consumption per head is 20.15 quarts, a little lower than that of France, which is 25.45. Russia has the smallest consumption of beer of any great country, 4.25 quarts per head being the estimate. As, according to Dr. Johnson, "those who drink beer think beer," these statistics may afford food for reflection to the subjects of Gambrinus.

NOVEL ARMY RAFT.

MADE OF INFLATED OX HIDES AND VERY BUOYANT.

The Useful Invention of a Russian Army Officer—The Hides of the Beesves Slaughtered to Support an Army on the March Utilized as Boats to Cross Streams.

A Russian engineering journal publishes some details describing a novel method of crossing rivers upon rafts supported by inflated ox hides. Some interesting experiments were recently made by the Russian military authorities which showed that the system will be of great service to an army in the field.

Leather bags made from ox hides are each susceptible of supporting a weight equal to two or more men upon the surface of the water. Doves of cattle that accompany an army to be slaughtered for food furnish a ready supply of hides necessary in the construction of floating rafts. Although the subject may be somewhat technical, it seems interesting to know how it is possible to make these air sacks in the field. When the ox is killed the head is cut off close up and a slit made in the skin of the chest. Then the skin is cut above the knees and the legs unjointed at the knees. The skinning commences at the neck and by means of incisions at the proper places and taking out the internal organs during the process the hide is generally drawn off intact. To close the openings of the hide, small slits like button-holes are made through both thicknesses near the edge. Then the hide is turned, the hair inside. Wooden pegs are put through the slits and the openings wound with several turns of leaf tendons, which are held in place by the pegs. The skin is again turned, the hair outside. Before closing the last opening a hollow bamboo peg is introduced in the leg and the hide inflated with a bellows or the mouth.

The raft timbers are 11 1/2 to 12 feet in length and 2 to 3 inches in diameter. The inflated hides, four to eight in number, are tied to the corners of the raft. Figure 3 represents such a raft transporting Russian troops. Oak locks are made to support the oars. The raft is floored for transportation of infantry and artillery. An air sack made of ox hide weighs about twenty-five pounds, and can carry a weight equal to the animal that it was taken from. A raft supported by four hides will carry ten men and rise six inches above the water. With six hides it will carry twenty men and project three to four inches above the water. Four of these men can be used as rowers. The hides can be used as soon as made into air sacks, but to preserve them any length of time they should be well salted and dried for three or four days in a ventilated shed and the fresh side coated with a mixture of tallow and tar.

These inflated hides are so buoyant that a large number of soldiers and pieces of artillery can be transported across rivers and other bodies of water, and at much less labor and expense than is involved in carrying a heavy pontoon bridge.

Fennies for the Heathen.

Madge, aged 7, had a list of questions and answers given her by her Sunday-school teachers to learn, the first of which was, "What is a missionary?" and the answer, "One sent to teach the heathen." The list was duly learned, and she went to Sunday school full of importance that she had her lesson perfect. On her return she was asked if she had remembered the answers, and she replied: "Yes, mamma, I only missed the first, and in that I only made the mistake of a penny. I said, 'Two cents to teach the heathen,' instead of 1 cent."—Hartford Post.

SLAVERY DAYS IN NEW YORK.

The Captain of a Successful Trader in Live Freight Was Four Times Mayor.

On the turn from the seventeenth to the eighteenth century slave-dealing was an important and well-thought-of industry, or, in the more elegant phrase of one of the gravest of New York historians, "a species of maritime adventures then engaged in by some of our most respectable merchants." The Dutch are credited with having brought the first cargo of slaves to the northern part of America—from the r possession on the Guinea coast to the Virginia plantations—and, according to Harper's, a regular part of the business of the Dutch West India company was providing African slaves for use in the American colonies. The profits of the business, even allowing for the bad luck of a high death rate, was so alluringly great that it was not one to be slighted by the continually go-ahead merchants of New York, and the fact must be remembered that as a business slave-dealing was quite as legitimate then as is the emigrant traffic of the present day. Young John Cruger has left on record a most edifying account of a voyage which he made out of New York in the years 1698-1700. In the ship Prophet Daniel, to Madagascar for the purchase of live freight, and the sentiment of the community in the premises is exhibited by the fact that the slave-dealing Mr. Cruger was elected an Alderman from the Dock Ward continuously from the year 1712 until the year 1773, and that subsequently he served four consecutive terms as Mayor. In addition to the negro slaves there were many Indian slaves held in the colony.

For convenience in hiring, the law was passed November 30, 1711, that "all negro and Indian slaves that are let out to hire with n the city do take up their standing in order to be hired at the market house at the Wall street slip." Probably the alarm bred of the so-called negro plot of 1741 was most effective in check-

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS MEET.

Nearly Every Country on the Globe Represented at Montreal.

The twelfth international convention of the most magnificent religious society ever brought into existence—the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, was held in Montreal. Over fifteen thousand delegates were present, and every State and territory of the Union, all the provinces of Canada, England, nearly every country of Europe, as well as India, China, Japan and Africa and Australia, are represented. A society purely local to the place of its organization, Portland, Me., until the fall of 1881, it now has twenty-two thousand societies and a membership closely approaching a million and a half. It knows no denomination for clergymen, representing no less than twenty-five evangelical sects will speak from its platform during this meeting. Among those were some of the most noted religious workers of the present day. Rev. Dr. Clark, the originator of the Endeavor, arrived on the opening day from his trip around the world, and was enthusiastically received by the thousands in attendance.

Owing to the immense number of delegates and the utter impossibility of securing an auditorium large enough for their accommodation two programs were carried out in as many meetings, one in the Government drill hall and the other in a large tent on the parade grounds directly opposite. The sessions proper were preceded by a meeting of the Executive Committee at the Windsor Hotel, and five preparatory meetings in as many of the largest churches were held in the evening. The formal welcome proceedings took place in the drill hall and were attended by fully 15,000 people, the great hall being packed to its utmost capacity.

A number of the French Canadians took exception to speeches and remarks made by two of the delegates concerning Catholicism, and, although the convention disclaimed responsibility and immediately withdrew its sympathy from the delegate who had given utterance to the objectionable remarks, the indignation was so great among those who felt themselves aggrieved that a riot was almost precipitated. There was no direct collision, although the police were called upon and had a hard time dispersing the riotous crowd. They charged a number of times and had to use their batons freely, with disastrous results to many of the rioters. In the melee a colored delegate to the convention from one of the Southern States, name unknown, was seriously hurt. A number of arrests were made. The convention next year will be held in Cleveland.

NORTHMEN IN CHICAGO.

Long Looked For Arrival of the Viking Ship—Now at the Fair.

Trailing behind a gunboat, the brave Norse sailors in their sturdy viking ship reached Chicago Wednesday afternoon. Their long voyage over perilous seas and through beating storms is at an end, and the great populace of Norway has executed its pet desire in relation to the Columbian Exposition. The viking ship, which preceded the Columbus caravels originally over the Atlantic, has followed them through the canals and down the lake and is now safely anchored near the more modern examples of medieval naval architecture at the World's Fair. The boat arrived off Van Buren street about 3 o'clock, and here Mayor Harrison gave Capt. Anderson and his gallant crew the freedom and hospitality of the city. In half an hour the journey to the Fair was resumed, and at 4 o'clock the great muscles of the sailors plied on long oars drove the boat to the pier. The Director General welcomed the crew and gave the men a luncheon on his launch. This was followed by a reception in the Administration Building. A reception to the officers and crew of the Viking was given at Central Music Hall Friday evening. Norwegian singing societies with a membership of about 300 took part and prominent speakers were heard. The proceeds go toward paying the expenses of the crew while in Chicago and the surplus will be sent to aid the home for old sailors in Norway.

"Why did you not take advantage of leap year?"
"Because I am not able to earn enough to support a husband," was her unexpected and telling reply.

PLACES OF INTEREST TO THE CHICAGO VISITOR.

The Military Post at Fort Sheridan, the New Art Institute and the Life-Saving Station All Worthy a Visit from the Sight-Seeer.

The World's Fair City.

The World's Fair visitor who has exhausted groups of attractions such as the parks, the theaters, the principal buildings and the like, need not look for other points of interest, considered minor only as their scope is confined to some particular line of art, science, or popular utility. Among such is, notably, the Art Institute of Chicago, and many hours, even a whole day, may be pleasantly and profitably spent under the roof of this great institution, which, scarcely completed, has thrown its doors open to all who love the beautiful in its most eloquent forms. It has become a spot of wide favor with citizens and strangers alike, and its accessibility, being located on the lake front at the foot of Adams street, its rare architectural exterior, and its fine galleries combine to draw a throng and gratify the senses and enlighten the intelligence.

Chicago counts a greater number of resident artists than any other metropolis in the West, according to the directory of 1892, and there are in the city numbers of very fine pictures. The Art Institute is a recent acquisition to the fraternity. The structure is the only building on the lake front as far south as the park extends, and occupies the original site of the Industrial Exposition. It is massive in appearance, and divided, as to interior, so as to carry out perfection in convenience in behalf of the students and the public. The average attendance of pupils is about four hundred. Its object is to maintain a school and museum of art, and the building will be found to contain a large and carefully selected collection of casts, sculpture, pictures, drawings, marbles and a library of works on fine art. There is abundant material for study, good models and life-like objects in profusion, and a practical idea of the details of art in conception and execution may be gleaned from a stroll through the immense building, devoted to arts dear to the public heart. A pleasant visit begun at the Institute may be prolonged by a brief ride to the Vincennes Gallery of Fine Arts, a handsome struc-

The main gallery is claimed to be the finest west of New York. In a similar field, in a way, to both these institutions, is the Chicago Historical Society, temporarily occupying quarters at the corner of Dearborn avenue and Ontario street, precedent to the completion of its new magnificent home. Any person interested in local, State and national history may here observe relics connected with many notable events and persons of the past. The original collection of the society, including over 100,000 books, newspaper and manuscripts, was destroyed in the great fire of 1871, the original draft of the Lincoln emancipation proclamation being also lost, but the institution has partially recovered, and a vast aggregation of historic value is now on free exhibition, the paintings and Indian relics being particularly and worthy of close and extended study.

Fort Sheridan.
A most interesting point in the vicinity of Chicago is the new military post at Fort Sheridan, recently adopted and improved by the Government. To those who have only read of these homes of our regular soldiers, and are curious to see how they live, and to those as well who have visited other similar posts, Fort Sheridan will appeal strongly, for in beauty of situation, of grounds, and of buildings it has no equal in the United States, and no superior in the world. The extent and splendor of this post are augmented by the natural picturesqueness of the high bluffs lining the lake, which rise from the pebbly beach and break into ravines and gorges spanned by rustic bridges. The site was chosen because of the delightful and healthful location, and just past the grounds runs the celebrated Sheridan road, the great boulevard which, with its connecting highways, is the largest and broadest in the world, and which, when completed, will be eighteen miles in length, and dotted with palatial mansions and radiant gardens.

Fort Sheridan is located within less than an hour's ride from Chicago, on the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. It contains many buildings, many soldiers and a large landed area. It is well worth the time devoted to inspect the quarters and paraphernalia of the camp, the evolution of the soldiers being particularly interesting. The structures of the post are massive and of permanent stability. The barracks and water tower building is 1,005 feet in length, the armory mess hall 170 feet. There are five fine edifices, resembling private residences, and used as quarters for the field officers, captains, lieutenants, non-commissioned officers, and administration building. The cavalry drill hall and stables are, together, over 600 feet in length, and the chapel, guard-house, and pumping station, which is to have an imposing tower in connection, are models of architectural beauty and utility.

The Life-Saving Station.

The sight-seeer may so to Fort Sheridan or return may score a point in the way of pleasure and instruction by stopping off the train at Evanston, a suburb some ten miles north of Chicago. The model village of the section, Evanston is of itself worth being seen, with its palatial houses and magnificent university buildings, but it is also notable as being one of the principal life-saving stations along Lake Michigan. Those who wish to inspect the workings of the service nearer at home, however, may do so at the pier just beyond the Randolph street viaduct, where a similar life-saving crew is stationed. These men are drilled, sturdy set of fellows, whose mission is fraught with peril and heroism, and the appearance of their home and environment is suggestive of many a famous nautical episode in history. The station includes buildings with a tower, from which with his fieldglass the lookout constantly scans the surface of the lake for any craft in distress. The finest lifeboats and every accessory are ready at hand—the rockets, the life-lines, baskets, beacons and the like, and in the fiercest of storms, the crew sail forth to aid and rescue distressed mariners afloat.

A visit to this station of the service involves only a brief walk, taking in a splendid view of the lake and harbor. Strangers preferring to see the one at

If you want the Best Food, Royal Baking Powder is indispensable.

A Clever Catch.
A foreigner named Vogel, a celebrated flute player, advertised a concert for his benefit, and in order to attract those who "had no music in their souls, and were not moved by concord of sweet sounds," he announced that between the acts he would exhibit an extraordinary feat never before witnessed in Europe. He would hold in his left hand a glass of wine, and would allow six of the strongest men in the town to hold his arm, and, notwithstanding all their efforts to prevent him, he would drink the wine.

So novel and so surprising a display of strength, as it was naturally regarded, attracted a very crowded house, and expectation was on tiptoe, when our hero appeared on the stage, glass in hand, and politely invited any half-dozen of the audience to come forward and put his prowess to the test.

Several gentlemen, among whom was the Mayor of the place, immediately advanced to the stage, and, grasping the left arm of Vogel, apparently rendered the performance of his promised feat out of question. There was an awful pause for a moment, when our arm-bound hero, eying the gentlemen who had pinioned him, said in broken English:

"Gentlemen, are you all ready? Are you quite sure you have got fast hold?" The answer being given in the affirmative by a very confident nod from those to whom it was addressed, Vogel, to the infinite amusement of the spectators, and to the no small surprise of the group around him, advancing his right arm, which was free, very coolly took the wineglass from his left hand, and, bowing politely to the half-dozen gentlemen, said:

"Gentlemen, I have the honor to drink all your good health," at the same time quaffing off the wine, amidst a general roar of laughter and universal cries of "Bravo, bravo! Well done, Vogel!"

Burying Alive Is Rare.

So defective are many of the ordinary evidences of death that medical science has given the subject a great deal of attention.

It used to be supposed that people were often buried alive through accident, and the writers of romance have dwelt upon this species of horror with much unctio. During the war many soldiers were said to have been interred while living who were merely in a lethargy or stupor arising from loss of blood, exhaustion, cold, and fear. Bodies have often been found turned over in coffins, as if the occupants had turned over and tried to get out. In numerous other cases of a similar sort the tongue has been discovered protruding from the mouth, as if from suffocation, and there have been stains from bleeding on the burial clothing.

Now, such facts as these were amply sufficient in former days to convince the most skeptical that the persons concerned had been interred alive. But it is now known that such phenomena are exhibited by dead bodies under conditions wholly normal. The turning of a corpse in its coffin is brought about by the expansion of the gases of putrefaction. The projection of the tongue from the mouth is an effect of the same cause. Bleeding often occurs after death. In fact, such a hemorrhage is known to have taken place eight days after the demise of the individual. In this instance the bleeding was from wounds inflicted during life.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The Approaching Dinner Hour

Is fraught with no pleasant anticipations for the unhappy mortal plagued with dyspepsia. Appetite seldom, discomfort after and between meals, always is his portion. Heartburn and flatulence; subsequent to eating, a gnawing at the pit of the stomach before it, are only a few among the woes arising from this truly insidious complaint. Sick headache, nervousness, constipation and biliousness are its diabolical offspring. Each and all of them are annihilated by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which tones the gastric organs and regulates the liver and the bowels with certainty and promptitude. Chills and fever, kidney trouble, rheumatism and neuralgia are also remedied by this medicine of rare purity and comprehensive uses. Invalids of all kinds are greatly and swiftly benefited by it.

Glass Doors.

It has remained for a woman to invent and patent glass doors for ovens. The wonder is that the idea has not long ago been thought of by some woman who cooks. All cooking instructions lay the greatest stress on the care to be observed in opening an oven door to watch the progress of cakes or muffins.

At a recent meeting of the British Royal Society one of the members exhibited some curious photographs produced by placing coins or medals upon a sensitized plate. An electrical current was turned through the object and a developer applied to the film, when perfect images of the objects were obtained.

The Woman in the Case.

One warm day in the mountains of Tennessee I rode up to a house where there was a woman drawing a bucket of water with an old-fashioned well-sweep and asked if she would give me a drink. She was only too glad to be hospitable, and brought me out a gourdful. As I drank at it slowly and with evident relish, she watched me curiously.

"Purty good critter you air ridin'," she ventured.

"Thank you, yes; he belongs to a friend of mine."

"Purty nice looking yerself," she added, in quite the same tone she had used in speaking of the horse.

"Thanks," I responded, surprised into blushing, but she never noticed it.

"Air ye married?" she went on.

"No, I'm a bachelor."

"Reckon yer erbout ez well off that way; p'raps a leetle better. I'm married myself."

"Well, I think it would have been a great improvement over my present condition if I had married some good, sensible girl ten years ago and settled down. I'm sure I should have been a much happier man."

She thought for a minute before answering.

"Likely," she said at last; "but how'd the woman be feelin' by now?"

Of course I had an argument to offer, but when I went away, ten minutes later, I could plainly see she was thinking about the woman in the case—Free Press.

Weight of a Crowd.

In a paper by Prof. Kernot, read before the Victorian Institute, he compared the various estimates as to the weight per square foot of a crowd. One estimate, quoted as French practice by Stoney and Trautwine, gives of pounds per square foot as the weight of a crowd. Hatfield, in "Transverse Strains," gives 70 pounds; Mr. Page, engineer to Chelsea Bridge, 84 pounds; Mr. Nash, architect to Buckingham Palace, quoted by Tredgold, 120 pounds; Mr. W. M. Kernot, at Working Men's College, Melbourne, gives the weight at 126 pounds; Prof. W. C. Kernot, at Melbourne University, puts it at 143.1 pounds; and Mr. Bindon B. Stoney, in his work on "Stresses," as 147.4 pounds per square foot. The space occupied by soldiers, as taken by Hatfield in his estimate, is not the same as a crowd. Soldiers are arranged in lines at a distance apart to allow room for knapsacks and other accouterments; but a crowd is forced together into close contact, an average man in a crowd occupying a space of little, if any, more than one square foot. On the whole, Prof. Kernot inclines to favor Mr. Stoney's estimate of a little more than one man per square foot, and gives it as proved that a dense crowd of well-grown men weighs between 140 pounds and 150 pounds to the square foot.

Too Much for Him.

The tramp had struck the citizen for a small loan and the citizen was sizing him up as an experiment.

"I've got a job for you," he said, persuasively.

"What to do?"

"Nothing."

"Git pay for it?"

"Certainly."

"Is there much of it to do?"

"Twenty-four hours a day."

The tramp began to study up the proposition.

"Do I get a rest on Sunday?" he asked, after a moment's thought.

"It's seven days in the week," explained the citizen.

"Guess I don't want it," and his trampship moved off.

MAKES ITSELF FELT.

—the great, gripping, old-fashioned pill. Not only when you take it, but unpleasant, from first to last, and it only gives you a little temporary good.

The things to take its place are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One of these at a dose will regulate the whole system perfectly. They're tiny, sugar-coated granules, scarcely larger than mustard seeds. They act in Nature's own way. No reaction afterward. Their help lasts and they do permanent good. Constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick or bilious headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured.

They're the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or money is returned. Nothing can be "just as good."

"German Syrup"

I simply state that I am Druggist and Postmaster here and am therefore in a position to judge. I have tried many Cough Syrups but for ten years past have found nothing equal to Boschee's German Syrup. I have given it to my baby for Croup with the most satisfactory results. Every mother should have it. J. H. HOBBS, Druggist and Postmaster, Moffat, Texas. We present facts, living facts, of to-day Boschee's German Syrup gives strength to the body. Take no substitute.

Rev. K. VanGoorof Holland preached in one of the Holland churches here, Wednesday evening.

Geo. Hancock has 18 acres of land set in tomatoes this year. Most of the tomatoes will be canned by himself.

G. H. Tribune.—It seems now as if Grand Haven was doomed to pass another season without a street car line.

Ex-register of deeds, C. W. Ingraham, has taken charge of Highland Park Hotel.

There arrived in this city one day last week from Norris, a little town north of Detroit, four deaf mute children, aged probably from 10 to 13 years. They were German children and bound for their homes in Milwaukee. At the depot the little group of silent people were met by Rev. Brueggeman, who cared for them until the steamer left in the evening. In the party were two boys and two little girls. The boys have their names and addresses pinned on their coats. There is one thing peculiar about them which is not found in other deaf mutes. They are all students at an institution in Norris, where they are taught to emit sounds resembling words, quite plainly. When one talks the other children watch and by the position of the mouth they can tell what the other is saying. The sound which they emit when talking is a sort of a pathetic cry, and one who is not familiar with the children even, can understand some of the words they speak. They are all well appearing and seem happy. The institution where they are studying is on the plan of the German deaf mute schools. Finger language is taught only the very young, after which they are allowed to converse only with their mouths.

Port Sheldon.

Harvesting has been in earnest, and the buzz of the reaper is heard in every direction.

Sunday night at 10:30 o'clock we had as heavy a rain storm with hail, thunder and lightning, as has been felt here for several years. It lasted about one hour and a half, and did not do as much damage as we feared. Grain was lodged bad in places and some garden vegetation was washed out.

We expect a lively time this year at threshing, for there will be great opposition. There are five machines in this neighborhood, all soliciting work, and this has been going on for the past three months. We trust they will not get the work so low that some of them will have to lay up in ordinary.

John Olman, on the old Pigeon road has his house up and nearly finished outside. Anthony, his brother, has his frame up also, on the same road near the post-office.

Gear Any's returned home to Chicago by Saturday's boat, and his wife and child on Tuesday's boat.

Mrs. Wm. Any's and daughter returned home to-day from Pentwater, where she has been on a visit to her sister Mrs. Abe Peck.

Rev. J. Wilder will preach again at the school house at West Olive on Sunday the 30th, if all is well. Due notice will be given through the NEWS.

H. Goodin is out with his selfbinder, doing work for people in the vicinity of West Olive.

Our worthy postmaster has moved his office on his own lot, corner of Wood and Main streets, hence he does not turn his back on the station any longer, but faces it, and travellers on the rail will be able to see we have a post-office in our city.

To the Farmers!

Get your hats and look well this season to your own interests, in buying your Hay Loaders and other farming tools. I keep at present the Rock Island Rake and Hay Loader combined, which is far ahead of anything yet offered in this vicinity. It has already been tested, to the best satisfaction, by one of our largest farmers in Fillmore, Kansas Dykhuus. He prefers it far above the Keystone. Also something new in the Hay unloading line, with which you can unload your grain as well as your hay. The American Cultivator and Seeder and Bean Puller Combined. Will pull from 8 to 10 acres in one day. The American Disk Harrow and Pulverizer. Also the North Molester Spring Tooth Harrow, all steel. No loading up of dirt. The Five-Tooth Cultivator, all steel. Land Rollers, Plows, Hay Rakes, Double Shovel and Three Shovel Cultivators, Hay Forks and Hay Attachments. I also keep on hand a full line of Buggies, Road and Farm Wagons, and Carts. Particular attention is called to my new Patent Double Truss Brace, which I now put on all my wagons, and of which I am the sole proprietor for this city. This is the only true truss brace made. No extra charge. Upon short notice I fill every order in the Wagon and Blacksmith line. Carriage and Wagon Painting done in the most satisfactory manner. At Wholesale and Retail—a full line of Iron and Steel. I buy all kinds of Furs, and keep a full line of Bee Supplies. All the above goods I will sell at close margin, for Cash, or good Rentable paper. Give you for your past patronage I solicit your further trade during the ensuing season.
