The moonlight ride to Saugatuck on the steamer Music, Thursday evening, was a pleasant affair—a sort of cooling process, as it were. Nearly 300 were on board.

The sudden appearance of a half dozen cases of typhoid fever in this city has raised the inquiry as to what may have been the cause of the infection, especially since the cases are limited to three families.

A telegram was received here from Detroit, Thursday, inquiring after some identification of the body that was found on the beach near Port Sheldon. It was thought the party might have been one of the crew of the schooner Lew Ellsworth.

The park board has placed fifteen settees in Centennial Park. They cost $48.25. If some of the larger boys and girls can only be taught now to leave them in their places and not jostle them about as if they were toys, they may last several seasons.

The Republicans of Olive, at their caucus Saturday evening, elected the following delegates to the county convention: J. Owens, Wm. Jacques, J. W. Norrington, Frank Wallace, Henry Siersma, Wm. Roberts, Adam Westmaas. Also three alternates: Henry Ten Have, J. Soerheyde, J. Vinke-mulder.

Rev. A. De Witt Mason, who was booked for Hope church Sunday, will not be here. The pulpit will be supplied in the forenoon by Rev. Dr. Graham Taylor, Professor of Christian Sociology at the Cong. Theological Seminary in Chicago, and at present resorting at Macatawa Park. No services in the evening.

The steamer Charles McVea steamed out of Chicago Tuesday night with a party of forty excursionists, bound for Quebec. The McVea will stop at Milwaukee, Detroit, and other lake ports, and will give the passengers a short sojourn at the pleasure resorts on the Thousand Islands. A day or two will be spent in Canada, when the steamer will start on its return. The entire trip will take three weeks.

Allegan Democrat: Holland has made a gain of over 2,000 in four years, and is now the largest city in Ottawa county. All this because the citizens of that berg are united in every project that looks toward benefiting the city. They do not let any business enterprise that will increase the population get away.

Grand Haven Tribune: Holland has one of the most successfully managed furniture factories in the state. It is the wonder of this part of Michigan in the manufacturing line.

It is Squire George now, and what a revolution it has wrought since the Fourth, not physically, but intellectually, orthographically and documentarily. Therefore, when he was simply George, if he were to give you an orange he would merely say, "Here, take this orange," but now, since he has entered upon the duties of his office as justice, he wouldn't entrust himself to such a presentation unless it was reduced to writing in some such form as this: "I hereby give, grant and convey to you all and singular my interest, right, title, claim and advantage of and in the said orange, together with all its rind, pulp and pits, and all right and advantage therein, with full power to bite, cut, suck and otherwise eat the same, as effectually as I, the said George E. am entitled to sue, cut or otherwise eat the said orange; or to give the same away, either with or without its rind, skin, juice, pulp or pits, anything hereinbefore, or in any instrument of what nature and kind soever to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding."

Up to the present drought produce and crops of all kinds made a luxurious growth, but just now everything is suffering. Unless we get rain soon corn will be a total failure.—LATER. The above was written Thursday, and on Friday morning we all rejoiced in a capricious shower.

The most serious harvesting accident of the season occurred at Beaverdam, Thursday afternoon. Jacob Swartwolt, while mowing hay, fell from the machine, two mower guards ran into his head, two fingers were cut off and one of his legs was broken. He lived till midnight; was a single man, aged 40 years. His father resides in Grand Rapids.

A person would naturally surmise by reading the various notes of warning published in different papers for the benefit of farmers against swindlers that the former were a class of "suckers." As a matter of fact not one farmer in a hundred will bite at these fake games, and he who does bite is the one who thinks has no use for a paper and would not profit in the least by the warning.—Ex.

Not for many years has there been such a wheat crop harvested in this part of Michigan as this year. Everything was favorable to its growth from the time it was seeded to the day it was cut and placed in the barn or stack. Scarcely a drop of rain has fallen since the first wheat was cut, so that it has been gathered in prime condition. The yield also is unusually large in the grain and the straw is exceptionally long.

At Three Oaks there is a patch of 720 acres that is planted with cabbages on soil that a few years ago was scarcely worth paying taxes on. The land is now worth about $100 an acre. There are hundreds of acres of what is now called "swamp," in and about Holland, that are awaiting the arrival of the right persons, to be likewise converted into profitable gardens, and a practical taking hold of this and like projects would do some fellows more good than the agitation of theories that are way beyond the reach of their comprehension.

"I do the heaviest advertising in dull times. Then is when people look most keenly for bargains, are anxious to know how much things cost, and where they can save money. I advertise particular things, give prices, and take as much pains with my announcements as I do with my stock. Advertising is like keeping an hotel. One big dinner will not make nor keep up the reputation of the house—steady good cooking does it. I never permit interests in my announcements to lag, and never miss an issue in my chosen publications. Advertising has made my store one of the largest in the country."—John Wanamaker.

Superintendent of public instruction Pattengill is out with his annual report. He advises that the stars and stripes be floated from all Michigan school buildings. More normal schools should be established. The report says there are in the state 585 graded school districts and 6,589 ungraded. The former have 381,064 scholars and the latter 296,612. It is estimated that 41,716 scholars attend private schools. There are 11,619 teachers employed in public schools, receiving salaries aggregating $3,759,685.36 annually. Male teachers receive an average of $48.79 per month and female teachers $34.36. Male teachers receive a total of $653,443 and female teachers $2,800,242.

At no time since the loss of the steamer Alpena, in the fall of 1880, has the growth of the passenger steamboat fleet on lines from West Michigan ports to Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit and other central points been so marked and rapid as during the last three years. J. Nies of this city received a letter this week from his son John D., a student at the Agricultural College, expressing his surprise how his name got mixed up among the applicants at the recent competitive examination at Grand Rapids for a cadetship at West Point. The base ball game between the Grand Haven Stars and the O. C. T. club of Holland, played in this city Wednesday afternoon, stood 12 to 16, in favor of the latter. The game was rather interesting until the boys got quarrelling, at the seventh inning, when it broke up in a row. There was a fair crowd of spectators, many of them from Grand Haven. As one of the Holland Juniors described it: "The Grand Haven Stars are a stiff nine, but not quite stiff enough for the Holland."

Dennis O'Brien and wife, who reside on the Grand Haven road, were at the Standard mills Tuesday, with their team. In leaving the premises, for some reason or other, he took the Fifth street driveway across the railroad track. The jostle over the track scared his team, and it became unmanageable. The horses got the better of him and started up on River, turning the corner on Eighth street, and were stopped near the railroad, with little or no damage received. Opposite the store of D. Bertsch however they dashed into a buggy of G. Johnson, Ventura, breaking one hind wheel and the shafts. As the team left the mill yard Mr. O'Brien and wife were both thrown out, and badly shaken up, the former receiving several bruises. Mrs. O'Brien went home in the evening, but the old man was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Doyle on Pine street.

Ebenezer E. Kleinknecht succumbed to the fierce attack of typhoid Wednesday evening. His death is a heavy bereavement, not only to the family but to a large circle of friends. Eddie was an exemplary amiable young man; he had just reached the age of majority, was a student of Hope College, and quietly but devotedly identified with all christian work in this city. As he felt the fatal hour draw nigh he requested the presence of his youthful associates and left them the advice and admonishment of a dying christian friend. He leaves a widowed mother, three brothers and two sisters. The funeral is to be held this (Friday) afternoon from Hope church, where he was a member. At his request the services are to be conducted by Theol. student C. M. Steffens and Rev. J. Van Houte, with the following as pall bearers: Frank De Vries, Chris Nibbelink, Bert Pessink, Fred Koning, Cornelius Van Duren, Ed. Van der Veen, J. Laeple and Gerrit Klassen.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of newspapers, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.
If subscribers refuse or neglect to take their newspapers from the office to which they are sent, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.
If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the newspapers are sent to the former place of residence, they are then responsible.

"THE GENERATIONS."

Rev. Dr. Talmage Delivers His Silver Jubilee Sermon.

He Reviews the Quarter Century of His Pastorate and Incidentally Calls Attention to the Manner of His Preaching to the World.

The following twenty-fifth anniversary sermon was delivered by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage in commemoration of the conclusion of a quarter century in the pastorate of the Brooklyn tabernacle. The subject: "The Generations," was based on the text:
One generation passeth away and another generation cometh.—Ecclesiastes I, 4.

According to the longevity of the people in their particular century has a generation been called one hundred years, or fifty years, or thirty years. By common consent in our nineteenth century, a generation is fixed at twenty-five years.

The largest procession that ever moved in the procession of years, and the greatest army that ever marched is the army of generations. In each generation there are about nine full regiments of days. These nine thousand one hundred and twenty-five days in each generation march with wonderful precision. They never break ranks. They never ground arms. They never pitch tents. They never halt. They are never off on furlough. They came out of the eternity and they move on toward the eternity of the future. They cross rivers without any bridge or boats. The six hundred immortals of the Crimea dashing into them cause no confusion. They move as rapidly at midnight as at midnoon. Their haversacks are full of good bread and bitter aloes, clusters of rich vintage and bottles of agonizing tears. With a regular tread that no order of "double quick" can hasten, or obstacle can slacken, their tramp is on, and on, and on, while mountains crumble and pyramids die. "One generation passeth, and another generation cometh."

This is my twenty-fifth anniversary sermon—1869 to 1894. It is twenty-five years since I assumed the Tabernacle pastorate. A whole generation has passed. Three generations we have known. That which preceded our own, that which is now at the front and the one coming on. We are at the heels of our predecessors, and our successors are at our heels. What a generation it was that preceded us! We who are now in the front regiment are the only ones competent to tell the new generation now coming into sight who our predecessors were. Biography can not tell it. Autobiography can not tell it. Biographies are generally written by special friends of the departed, perhaps by wife or son or daughter, and they only tell the good things. The biographers of one of the first presidents of the United States made no record of the president's account books, now in the archives at the capitol, which I have seen, telling how much he lost or gained daily at the gaming table.

Yea, that generation which passed off within the last twenty-five years had their bereavements, their temptations, their struggles, their disappointments, their successes, their failures, their gladnesses and their griefs, like these two generations now in sight, that in advance and that following. But the twenty-five years between 1869 and 1894—how much they saw! How much they discovered! How much they felt! Within that time have been performed the miracles of the telephone and the phonograph. From the observatories other worlds have been seen to have in sight. Six presidents of the United States have been inaugurated. Transatlantic voyage abbreviated from ten days to five and a half. Chicago and New York, once three days apart, now only twenty-four hours by the vestibule limited. Two additional railroads have been built to the Pacific. France has passed from monarchy to republicanism. Many of the cities have nearly doubled their populations. During that generation the chief surviving heroes of the civil war have gone into the encampment of the grave. The chief physicians, attorneys, orators, merchants, have passed off the earth, or are in retirement waiting for transition. Other men in editorial chairs, in pulpits, in governor's mansions, in legislative, senatorial and congressional halls. There are not ten men or women on the earth now prominent who were prominent twenty-five years ago. The crew of the old ship of a world is all changed. Others at the helm, others on the "lookout," others climbing the ratlines. Time is a doctor who with potent anodyne has put an entire generation into sound sleep. Time like another Cromwell, has roughly prorogued parliament, and with iconoclasm driven nearly all the rulers except one queen from the high places. So far as I observed that generation, for the most part, they did their best. Ghostly exceptions, but so far as I knew them, they did quite well. They were born at the right time, and they died at the right time. They left the world better than they found it. We are indebted to them for the fact that they prepared the way for our coming. Eighteen hundred and ninety-four reverently and gratefully salutes 1869. "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh."

But this sermon is not a dirge; it is an anthem. While this world is appropriate as a temporary stay, as an eternal residence it would be a dead failure. It would be a dreadful sentence if our race were doomed to remain here a thousand winters and a thousand summers. God keeps us here just long enough to give us an appetite for Heaven. Had we been born in celestial realms we would not have been able to appreciate the bliss it needs a good many rough blasts in this world to qualify us to properly estimate the superbly-temperate of that good land where it is never too cold or too hot, too cloudy or too glaring. Heaven will be more to us than to those supernal beings who were never tempted, or sick, or bereaved, or tried, or disappointed. So you may well take my text out of the minor key and set it to some tune in the major key. "One generation passeth away and another generation cometh."

During the passage of the last generation some peculiar events have unfolded. One day while resting at Sharon Springs, N. Y., I think it was in 1870, the year after my settlement in Brooklyn, and while walking in the park of that place, I found myself asking the question: "I wonder if there is any special mission for me to execute in this world? If there is, may God show it to me!" There soon came upon me a great desire to preach the Gospel through the secular printing press. I realized that the vast majority of people, even in Christian lands, never enter a church, and that it would be an opportunity of usefulness infinite if that door of publication were opened. And so I recorded that prayer in a blank book, and offered the prayer day in and day out until the answer came, though in a way different from that which I had expected, for it came through the misrepresentation and persecution of enemies, and I have to record it for the encouragement of all ministers of the Gospel who are misrepresented, that if the misrepresentation be virulent enough, and bitter enough, and continuous enough, there is nothing that so widens one's field of usefulness as hostile attack, if you are really doing the Lord's work. The bigger the lie told about me, the bigger the demand to see and hear what I really was doing. From one stage of sermonie publication to another the work has gone on, until week by week, and for about twenty-three years, I have had the world for my audience, as no man ever had, and to-day more so than at any other time. The syndicates inform me that my sermons go now to twenty-five million people in all lands. I mention this not in vain boast, but as a testimony to the fact that God answers prayer. Would God I had better occupied the field and been more consecrated to the world! May God forgive me for lack of service in the past, and double, and quadruple, and quintuple my work in future.

In this my quarter-century sermon, I record the fact that side by side with the procession of blessings has gone a procession of disasters. I am teaching to-day in the fourth church building since I began in this city. My first sermon was in the old church on Schermerhorn street, to an audience chiefly of empty seats, for the church was almost extinguished. That church filled and overflowing, we built a larger church, which after two or three years disappeared in flame. Then we built another church, which also in line of fiery succession, disappeared in the same way. Then we put up this building, and may it stand for many years, a fortress of righteousness, and a light house for the storm-tossed, its gates crowded with vast assemblages long after we have ceased to frequent them!

We have raised in this church over one million and thirty thousand dollars for church charitable purposes during the present pastorate, while we have given, free of all expense, the Gospel to hundreds of thousands of strangers, year by year. I record with gratitude to God that during this generation of twenty-five years I remember but two Sabbaths that I have missed service through anything like physical indisposition. Almost a fanatic on the subject of physical exercise, I have made the parks with which our city is blessed, the means of good physical condition. A daily walk and run in the open air have kept me ready for work and in good humor with all the world. I say to all young ministers of the Gospel, it is easier to keep good health than to regain it when lost. The reason so many good men think the world is going to ruin is because their own physical condition is on the down grade. No man ought to preach who has a diseased liver, or an enlarged spleen. There are two things ahead of us that ought to keep us cheerful in our work—Heaven and the millennium.

And now, having come up to the twenty-fifth milestone in my pastorate, I wonder how many more miles I am to travel. Your company has been exceedingly pleasant, O my dear people, and I would like to march by your side until the generation with whom we are now moving abreast, and step to step, shall have stacked arms after the last battle. But the Lord knows best, and we ought to be willing to stay or go.

Most of you are aware that I propose at this time, between the close of my twenty-fifth year of pastorate and before the beginning of my twenty-sixth year, to be absent for a few months, in order to take a journey around the world. I expect to sail from San Francisco in the steamer Alameda, May 31. My place here on Sabbaths will be fully occupied, while on Mondays, and every Monday, I will continue to speak through the printing press in this and other lands as heretofore. Why do I go? To make pastoral visitation among people whom I have never seen, but to whom I have permitted a long while to administer. I want to see them in their own cities, towns and neighborhoods. I want to know what are their prosperities, what their adversities and what their opportunities, and so enlarge my work, and get more adaptedness. Why do I go? For educational purposes. I want to freshen my mind and heart by new scenes, new faces, new manners and customs. I want better to understand what are the wrongs to be righted and the waste places to be reclaimed. I will put all I learn into sermons to be preached to you when I return. I want to see the Sandwich Islands not so much in the light of modern politics as in the light of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, which has transformed them; and Samoa, and those vast realms of New Zealand, and Australia, and Ceylon, and India. I want to see what Christianity has accomplished. I want to see how the missionaries have been lied about as living in luxury and idleness. I want to know whether the heathen religions are really as tolerable and as commendable as they were represented by their adherents in the parliament of religions at Chicago. I want to see whether Mohammedanism or Buddhism would be good things for transplantation in America, as it has again and again been argued. I want to hear the Brahmins pray. I want to test whether the Pacific ocean treats its guests any better than does the Atlantic. I want to see the wondrous architecture of India, and the Delhi and Cawnpore where Christ was crucified in the massacre of His modern disciples, and the disabled Juggernaut unweeled by Christianity; and to see if Taj which the Emperor Shah Jehan built in honor of his empress, really means any more than the plain slab we put above our dear departed. I want to see the fields where Havelock and Sir Colin Campbell won the day against the Sepoys. I want to see the world from all sides; how much of it is in darkness, how much of it is in light; what the Bible means by the "ends of the earth," and get myself ready to appreciate the extent of the present to be made to Christ as spoken of in the Psalms: "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." And so I shall be ready to celebrate in Heaven the victories of Christ in more rapturous song than I could have rendered had I never seen the heathen abominations before they were conquered. And so I hope to come back refreshed, re-enforced and better equipped, and to do in ten years more effectual work than I have done in the last twenty-five.

And now in this twenty-fifth anniversary sermon I propose to do two things: first, to put a garland on the grave of the generation that has just passed off, and then to put a palm branch in the hand of the generation just now coming on the field of action. For my text is true: "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh." Oh, how many we revered, and honored, and loved in the last generation that quit the earth. Tears fell at the time of their going, and dirges were sounded, and signals of mourning were put on; but neither tears, nor dirge, nor somber veil told the half we felt. Their going left a vacancy in our souls that has never been filled up. We never get used to their absence. There are times when the sight of something with which they were associated—a picture, or a book, or a garment, or a staff—breaks us down with emotion, but we bear it simply because we have to bear it. Oh, how snowy white their hair got, and how the wrinkles multiplied, and the sight grew more dim, and the hearing less alert; and the step more frail, and one day they were gone out of the chair by the fireside, and from the plate at the meal, and from the end of the church pew, where they worshipped with us. Oh, my soul, how we miss them! But let us console each other with the thought that we shall meet them again in the land of salutation and reunion.

And now I twist a garland for that departed generation. It need not be costly, perhaps just a handful of clover blossoms from the field through which they used to walk, or as many violets as you could hold between the thumb and the forefinger, plucked out of the garden where they used to walk in the cool of the day. Put these old-fashioned flowers down over the heart that never again will ache, and the arm that has forever ceased to toil. Peace, father! Peace, mother! Everlasting peace! All that for the generation gone.

But what shall we do with the palm branch? That we will put in the hand of the generation coming on. Yours is to be the generation for victories. The last and the present generation have been perfecting the steam-power, and the electric light, and the electric forces. To these will be added transportation. It will be your mission to use all these forces. Everything is ready now for you to march right up and take this world for God and Heaven. Get your heart right by repentance and the pardoning grace of the Lord Jesus, and your mind right by elevating books and pictures, and your body right by gymnasium and field exercises and plenty of ozone, and by looking as often as you can upon the face of mountain and of sea. Then start! In God's name, start! And here is the palm branch. From conquest to conquest, move right on and right up. You will soon have the whole field for yourself. Before another twenty-five years have gone we will be out of the pulpits, and the offices, and the factories, and the benevolent institutions, and you will be at the front. Forward into the battle! If God be for you, who can be against you? "He that spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?"

And as for us who are now at the front, having put the garland on the grave of the last generation, and having put the palm branch in the hand of the coming generation, we will cheer each other in the remaining ones and go into the shining gate somewhere about the same time, and greeted by the generation that has preceded us we will have to wait only a little while to greet the generation that will come after us. And will not that be glorious? Three generations in Heaven together: The grandfather, the son and the grandson, the grandmother, the daughter and the granddaughter. And so with wider range and keener faculty we shall realize the full significance of the text: "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh."

ATTENTION FARMERS!

There is no use running to Zeeland to buy your Farm Implements, or anything else that you can buy just as cheap, and some a good deal better at the stand of J. FLEEMAN, River St. My own make Lumber Wagons, with double Truss Braces, to which I will challenge any man's make, as for light running and finish is concerned. Rock Island Rake and Hay Loader. No more use for Hay Rakes now. This Loader takes the Hay, just as the Mower leaves it, rakes it up and loads it on the wagon. No matter how hard the wind blows, the hay must go on the wagon.

TALK DON'T GO.

I will here challenge any and all makes of Hay Loaders on a field trial of five acres. Will take the same number of horses and men, and then see which will do its work the quickest and best. The machine which comes out ahead to receive $100, besides the competing machine. This amount I will deposit in the Holland City State Bank, providing my competitor does the same. The Fish Plates Removed by Unknown Persons and the Train Ditched—A Fireman Killed and Several Persons Hurt.

DERAILED.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 17.—Train No. 6 on the Grand Trunk railroad was wrecked here at 3 a. m. Monday. The fireman was killed outright, and several of the train crew and passengers injured. The wreck was caused by the removal of the fish-plates from the rails on the grade west of the city. The train was running about 25 miles an hour, and when it struck the misplaced rail the engine, tender and baggage car were ditched, and the day coach and one Pullman turned across the track.

Fireman Crow was thrown 50 feet from the engine and his neck broken. The injured are: Brakeman Mitchell, head cut and arm injured; Conductor Bishop, cut and bruised; W. Towse, pilot, face cut and injured internally; Baggage man A. L. Adams, head cut; Express Messenger Pittie, cut about head; Mrs. M. E. OPENED A MINE.

Men Go to Work at Ironwood Under Military Protection.

IRONWOOD, July 17.—The steam shovel at Norrie mine started up under military protection Monday morning. Few men offered their services for work underground. The union has received no direct offer from the companies and the strike will be prolonged. The men offer to go back to work at former wages, providing the eight-hour system is put into effect, and agree that as much ore will be taken out as formerly in ten hours. This would result in a larger number of men being at work, a larger output, and greater profit to companies.

FOREST FIRES.

They Cause Great Destruction in Isabella County.

BIG RAPIDS, July 16.—Probably a hundred men, women and children, inhabitants of a ten-mile section of the southern part of Isabella county, are homeless on account of forest fires. Although now only smoldering the fires are causing much suffering and privation. A lumber camp of the Gale Lumber company was destroyed with many acres of green timber. Three small sawmills, many houses, crops, bridges, fences, etc., have been burned, but there has been no loss of life. The people are praying for rain.

Fire at Muskegon.

MUSKEGON, July 13.—Fire started at the north end of Tillotson's dock, where 19,000,000 feet of lumber was piled. A fierce wind was blowing and only effective work by the fire department saved the lower portion of the lake front. In all 150,000 feet of lumber was burned, 100,000 feet being owned by Monroe & Brinnan, and 50,000 feet by Mat Wilson, all insured.

Salvation Camp a Great Success.

FLINT, July 16.—The annual camp-meeting of the northwestern division of the Salvation Army, which just came to a close at Peer's Grove, was a success in every respect. Some days there were from 8,000 to 10,000 persons in the park. There were about 500 soldiers in attendance, and 150 conversions are the results of their labor. Brigadier Fielding, of Detroit, was in command.

Our Water Supply.

The increase of population and of the number of water-takers, especially in this season of drought, has forced the deficiency in our water supply upon the attention of our board of public works, until finally active steps have been taken towards securing the desired relief.

Of course, in the very nature of things, these efforts will be somewhat along the line of experiment, namely, whether more water can be had within reach of the works, where at present located. In is generally conceded that ultimately, and sooner than we are aware of, the city will have to go to Lake Michigan for its permanent supply. The expense involved in such an undertaking is estimated in round numbers at $100,000. While this would be in excess of our present ability to bear, such inability may after all not continue so very much longer. Our present growth and increase, with another annexation east and north of the territory which is already practically a part of the city, will ere many summers place us face to face with the problem, and render it feasible—because it is inevitable and unavoidable. We need water, pure water, and plenty of it.

Until then the present works and the locality in which they are located must be made to supply our needs as best it can. With this in view the board of public works have decided to put three drive wells at different points north of the works, to catch the water that flows from many springs located along the bottom lands. Experience has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the board that to go deeper, say 400 or 450 feet, through the underlying strata of shale, hard pan and clay, does not meet with the desired results. Besides, at a recent test of our present wells it was evident that the flow from below is not more than it is above, nearer the surface. Neither will the supply to be obtained from these drive wells, at the points and at the distances designated, be at the expense of existing wells.

These wells will be of the ordinary drive well kind, only larger, with a point of 6 in. diameter. The idea is in case one point gives satisfactory results, to group it by adding others, or in case there is no water, pull it up and try another spot. The estimated cost of each well is about $200. Superintendent Kramer has been directed by the board to commence at once, and we are authorized to state that there will be no delay in prosecuting the work until the desired result is reached, provided there is water there. With our present population and demands we need a flow equal to 800 gallons a minute, while our present supply averages only about 175 gal.

City Teachers' Examination.

The Board of Education of the City of Holland will hold a teachers' examination at the High School building, Monday and Tuesday, July 30 and 31, beginning at 8:30 A. M.

COMMITTEE ON TEACHERS. HOLLAND, Mich., July 16, '94.

The Re-union of the 25th Reg't Mich. Infy.

The survivors of this regiment will hold a re-union in this city on August 14 and 15 next.

A re-union of this regiment, in this city, has special features to commend it. The 25th, more than any other Michigan regiment, stands in a peculiar local relation to this community, by reason of the fact that one of its companies—the Dutch Company, as it was always called—had been largely enlisted in Holland and its immediate vicinity, and as such had an identity in the regiment. Not but that a still larger number of the sons of the Holland colonists had enlisted in other regiments; not but that their individual and regimental records are just as brilliant, and their services as fully appreciated and recognized; still it remains a fact that the grouping into one organization of so many of our volunteers under President Lincoln's two successive calls of 300,000 each during the summer of '62, has given to Company I of this regiment a local identity, representative of the "Holland Colony" and of the love of country of its people, more so than the scattered enlistments in a score of other regiments.

In addition to this it should also be noted that at the close of the war, all or nearly all of the Company I boys returned to their old home and have continued to reside here, so that the local features of the war and much of the personal reminiscences predominate largely along the line of exploits of that regiment, as such.

This local atmosphere, thus partial to the "Twenty-Fifth," accounts also largely for the readiness and cheer with which the invitation to "re-une" has been accepted by the members of the regiment, so far as heard from.

The resident members of the regiment have taken it upon themselves to entertain their comrades during their stay in Holland and placed the matter in the hands of the following committee: D. B. K. Van Raalte, G. Van Schelven, P. De Feyter, J. Kramer, J. Grootenhuis.

Special invitations have been sent out to Mrs. Julia Moore Loveridge, of Coldwater, Mich., daughter and only surviving child of Col. O. H. Moore; Mrs. B. F. Orcutt, of Kalamazoo, surviving widow of the Lieut. Col. of the regiment; and Gen. Basil Duke, of Louisville, Ky., Chief of Staff of Gen. John H. Morgan, during the famous Morgan raid in July, 1863.

Every regiment in its history has a high water mark, some particular event or engagement around which clusters the pride and glory of its members. This, with the 25th Mich. Infy., is the fight with Gen. Morgan, on July 4, 1863, at Tebb's Bend, Ky., when with a handful of two hundred men they defeated Gen. Morgan's force of 3,000. It is in recognition of this historic event that an invitation has been sent out to Gen. Duke, as one of the representative survivors of the Confederate command. In one of the issues of the News between now and the date of the re-union we will produce an historical sketch of this engagement as a sort of introduction to our citizens of the men whom it will be their privilege to then meet.

A "Cool" Affair.

It will not be a matter of news to our readers to say that the past week has been a baking hot one. Day after day of stifling hot air, with scarcely a breath of wind, and the nights not much better.

The people of Holland are fortunate, however, in having a "refrigerator" close at hand. The cool waters of Old Michigan and the shady groves at Macatawa have made the weather there delightful all the week. The bathing has also been excellent. Hundreds of our people have enjoyed the pleasant ride down the lake on the steamer Music every day.

But the climax was reached in the moonlight excursion on the Music Tuesday evening. Nearly 300 of our citizens patronized this trip and all were enthusiastic in their praise of the ride, the steamer, the band music, the lecture by Prof. Taylor, Mrs. Ryder's ice cream, the beautiful moonlight and the cool, bracing air of Lake Michigan.

The owners of the steamer Music desire to please the public and as everybody wants more of these evening excursions another will be given on Tuesday evening next. The steamer will have the band on board; Prof. Taylor will give another lecture at the Park; Mrs. Ryder will have some ice cream; and the weather will be cool and pleasant, and everybody will have a good time.

Excursions will also be given, in a few days, on the Music, to Grand Haven, South Haven, Muskegon and other neighboring towns.

Three Important Decisions.

Among the decisions recently handed down by the supreme court of this state the following are of more than passing interest:

In the case of The People vs. Geo. Brooks the general fish law of the state was sustained. Brooks owned land adjoining that portion of Lake St. Clair in which fishing with nets is prohibited, and was engaged in the business of fishing opposite his premises with nets. He was convicted of a violation of the law.

It was contended by Brooks' attorneys that the act is in violation of the provision of section 32 of article 6 of the constitution, which provides that no person shall be deprived of property without due process of law. It was argued that the lands of Brooks abutting on the lake and the nets and paraphernalia used in fishing are made less valuable by depriving the owner of the right in fish, and that this has resulted in depriving Brooks of property. This claim was disposed of by citing the recent case of Lawson vs. Steele, in which the Federal Supreme Court held constitutional a statute of the state of New York, which authorized the destruction of nets by officers of the law and prohibiting action for damage on account of their seizure and destruction. There is no property right to fish, by virtue of ownership of land adjoining.

Another contention was that the statute is invalid because it confers upon the state fish commissioners legislative powers, in that it authorizes such commissioners to give permits to any person to catch or take fish from the waters at such time and in such manner as the commissioner may direct for the purpose of propagation. This, the court says, does not confer upon the commissioner legislative power, and it is entirely competent for the legislature to thus prescribe.

The conviction of Brooks was therefore confirmed, the constitutionality of the law being sustained in every particular.

The court has also declared that under existing law a city is liable for every injury that happens to an individual by reason of a defective sidewalk; but it can again recover such damages as it may be compelled to pay under certain conditions. These are that the defect shall have been brought in some way to the notice of the common council; that the council shall have adopted a resolution ordering a repair of the sidewalk or the construction of a new one; that notice of the resolution shall have been served on the owner; that the latter shall have neglected for ten days after such notice to repair the sidewalk or construct a new one, as ordered by the resolution; and that the injured party shall have brought suit against the city and recovered a judgement.

Another decision is important as bearing on the enforcement of Sunday ordinances in cities: C. S. Burroughs, of the Grand Opera House, Grand Rapids, three years ago proposed to give Sunday entertainments and advertised "Little Goldie" as an attraction. The police determined to suppress the Sunday night theatre and when the entertainment opened raided the house, arrested Burroughs and some of the performers. Burroughs was tried, acquitted and then began suit for false imprisonment in the Circuit Court. This case was tried before Judge Adsit and in charging the jury he held that the city ordinance under which the police made the arrest without warrant or process was invalid. The jury gave Mr. Burroughs a judgement for $100. The case was appealed and the decision of the Supreme Court sustains the police in making the arrest on view, and is of importance to the police departments in the state. The court held the power to authorize arrest on view for offences not amounting to breaches of the peace is ample in Michigan. The verdict of guilty is reversed and a new trial ordered because the court below erred in instructing the jury that the common council had not the power to authorize an arrest for an offence not amounting to breach of peace without warrant if committed in view of the officer.

Under the constitution of the state as it now stands, any person who has lived in this country two and a half years and has declared his intention to become a citizen six months prior to any election is entitled to vote. The last legislature passed a joint resolution to amend this section, which is Sec. 1, Art. 7. The proposed amendment will be voted on next November. It was no doubt intended to amend by making it necessary for foreigners to have declared their intention two years and six months, instead of six months prior to election. But the language used is two years and six months prior "to the date named." This date is Nov. 8, 1894.

It will thus be seen that, should the amendment be ratified, no one who had not declared his intention two years and six months prior to Nov. 8, 1894, could ever become a voter in Michigan. This would bar all foreigners who have come into the state during the past two years, unless they have declared their intentions in some other state, and all who ever hereafter come. Further than this persons who are under the present constitution entitled to vote at next fall's election, would not, if the amendment is adopted, be entitled to vote thereafter. Who it is that is responsible for this error is not stated, but as it now stands the amendment is doomed to defeat.

Hope College Summer Normal

The attendance at the Summer Normal held in this city is constantly increasing, and up to date has reached the number of 115. Those in charge state that for faithful work and close application to study the present corps of students cannot be excelled. The uniform testimony of them all too, is that Holland is THE place for study during the heated season, the atmosphere being so much cooler than in any inland town, and the classic groves on the college campus offering such congenial environments.

The number of those that are preparing for first and second certificates this year is large.

Arrangements have been made with the Resort Steamboat Company by which the Normal school students are given reduced fares whenever they desire to visit the resorts, thereby enabling them to combine pleasure with study.

A MARINE WONDER.

The Great Coral Barrier Reef Off Australia and Some of Its Features.

One of the marine wonders of the world is the great barrier reef of Australia. This stupendous rampart of coral, stretching in an almost unbroken line for twelve hundred and fifty miles along the northeastern coast of Australia, presents features of interest which are not to be equaled in any other quarter of the globe. Nowhere is the action of the little marine insect, which builds up with untiring industry those mighty mountains with which the tropical seas are studded, more impressive; nowhere are the wonderful constructive forces of nature more apparent. By a simple process of accretion there has been reared in the course of countless centuries an adamant wall against which the billows of the Pacific, sweeping along in an uninterrupted course of several thousand miles, dash themselves in ineffectual fury.

Inclosed within the range of its protecting arms is a calm island sea, eighty thousand square miles in extent, dotted with a multitude of coral islets and presenting at every turn objects of interest alike to the unlearned traveler and the man of science. Here may be witnessed the singular process by which the wavy, gelatinous, living mass hardens into stone, then serves as a collecting ground for the flotsam and jetsam of the ocean, and ultimately develops into an island covered with a luxuriant mass of tropical growth. Here, again, may be seen in the serene depths of placid pools extraordinary forms of marine life, aglow with the most brilliant colors and producing in their infinite variety a bewildering sense of the vastness of the life of the ocean.

A PUZZLING ADDRESS.

The Remarkable Feat of Bright Spanish Postal Clerks.

Ex-Senator Palmer, of Michigan, who, according to the Washington Star, was minister to Spain for a time, says they have bright postal clerks in the land of the dons as well as in this country. In proof of the assertion he tells of a curiously addressed letter which passed through the post office at Madrid while he was in that capital. According to the ex-senator and ex-minister, the address was a perfect rebus. At the left-hand side was the figure of a lady. This made it clear to which sex the one to whom the letter was addressed belonged. Over the lady's head was a rising sun, which was interpreted as indicating that her name was Aurora.

For her surname there was a hill, with a castle at its foot, or in Spanish "Montes y Castillo." For the town there was the plan of a city drawn, in which the Alhambra appeared. Of course that meant Granada, especially as a pomegranate was drawn beside the plan of the city. The address was completed by a number in one of the streets of the plan. The postal authorities took three days to study this curiosity, said ex-Senator Palmer, and then delivered it in triumph to "Senorita Aurora Montes y Castillo, Azacayas No. 20, Granada." So proud were the postal authorities of this feat that they had the envelope photographed and printed in the Madrid papers as proof of the acumen of the department. "All the foreigners in Madrid were very much amused by the affair," said Mr. Palmer.

"COLORS IN COAL TAR.

Startling Results Obtained from Working the Formerly Useless Substance.

The secret of the production of color is not yet revealed. The unrivaled hues of the tulip and the rose are formed from the black soil. But how? None can say. Yet one is no less startled by the endless variety of color now produced from coal tar. From that apparently useless substance perfumes, medicines and sweeteners have been formed which have startled men. But color appeals to the eye.

Only thirty-six years ago, says Longman's Magazine, Perkin "gathered up the fragments" in coal tar and produced the beautiful mauve dye. Now, from the greasy material which was considered useless is produced madder, which makes coal tar worth $100 a ton. This coloring matter alone now employs an industry of $2,000,000 per annum. One ton of good canal coal, when distilled in gas retorts, leaves twelve gallons of coal tar, from which are produced a pound of benzene, a pound of toluene, a pound and a half of phenol, six pounds of naphthalene, a small quantity of xylene and half a pound of anthracene for dyeing purposes.

According to Roscoe, there are sixteen distinct yellow colors, twelve orange, thirty red, fifteen blue, seven green and nine violet, besides a number of browns, and an infinite number of blendings of all shades. What a marvelous color-producer is coal tar.

STRANGE SIGHTS IN INDIA.

Peculiar Results of the Hindoo Belief Concerning Animals.

"Of all the strange places we visited none was more unique than Jeypore," said Mr. Burditt of the Stoddard party, according to the Washington Post. "This is a city in the north of India, which is under native government, its ruler being the maharajah of that district. Here the sacredness of animal life, so carefully observed by the Hindoos, gave us queer sights. Monkeys ran along walls like dogs. Doves in flocks of thousands filled the open squares, or blackened the heavens in their flight. Peacocks covered walls and buildings. Elephants and camels were always to be seen in the streets. The maharajah had in his stables three hundred horses, many of the finest Arabian blood. And in the mud of a sluggish pond in the rear of his palace enormous and vicious-looking crocodiles lazily rolled about. To get them to move sufficiently to be able to distinguish their black forms from the surrounding mud we threw out sticks in the shape of big pieces of rye bread tied to a string, many pounds they would gulp at one off."

Paste for Paper Hanging.
First heat water to boiling; then add flour, with constant stirring; to prevent the formation of lumps, the flour may be passed through a sieve so as to insure its more equable distribution. Agitation is continued until the heat has rendered the mass of the desired consistency, and after a few moments further boiling it is ready for use. In order to increase the strength, powdered resin in the proportion of one-sixth to one-fourth weight of the flour is added. To prevent its souring, oil of cloves or a few drops of carbolic acid are added.

Curtain Your Bedstead.
Some of the very newest bedsteads show the genuine old-time four posts and are so exceedingly handsome as to tempt one to return to the style and the methods of a century back. Curtains that entirely shut in the sleeper are open to many objections on the score of health. But carefully arranged draperies that are drawn back at each post might easily be managed so as to give air slightly to the bed, to shield the head and feet from draft and yet allow of sufficient circulation of air.

Water Works.

Scaled proposals will be received by the Board of Public Works of the city of Holland, Mich., until 7 o'clock P. M. August 6th, 1894, for furnishing all the pipe and other material required in putting in a two-inch cast iron water main in Thirteenth street, between River and Pine streets, in accordance with plans and specifications approved by the Common Council July 3, 1894.

Also for the work of laying all pipe, and all other work connected with this proposed extension of the system of water works.

Descriptive plans and specifications can be seen at the city clerk's office. By order of the Board of Public Works.

Volunteer Farming.

Capt. Gardner, U. S. A., chairman of the Detroit Agricultural Commission, who is charged with the raising of crops by the worthy poor on unoccupied real estate in the city limits, has made a preliminary report of the operations of the Commission:

There have been allotted altogether 945 parcels, varying in size from one-third to one-half an acre, and in many cases an entire acre. It was originally the intention of the committee to give to each head of a family one acre, but it was found that the applicants for land were so much more numerous than could be accommodated at this rate that it was necessary, in order to help a larger number, that the area given to each be reduced.

The ground was planted under the direction of the committee's foreman, the potatoes and beans being delivered on the grounds and issued each person to plant. To accomplish the desired results the committee purchased twenty plows, two harrows and one roller, which are on hand and can again be used for a similar purpose, or they can be sold and the proceeds turned over to the poor commission. The committee also purchased, besides those contributed, forty-eight hoes and eighteen spades, which were issued to such as were destitute.

The average expense to the committee of each plot of ground for plowing, harrowing and seed, etc., is $3.78.

The pieces of ground are, in nearly all cases, well taken care of. The occupants work on them at nearly all hours, but principally in the very early morning before working hours, and late in the evening.

The disbursements of the committee are as follows:

Teams and plow, plowing.....	$1,680 84
Potatoes, seed, etc.....	1,547 56
Implement.....	263 58
Stakes.....	30 00
Cartage, etc.....	19 45
Contingent expense.....	45 05
Total.....	$3,587 08

There were planted about 1,675 bushels of potatoes, 85 bushels of beans, 20,000 cabbage plants, 750 ounce packages of turnips, carrots, beets, peas, rutabagas, cabbage, etc.

The yield ought, at the lowest estimate, to amount to $20,000 worth of produce.

"I believe, however," added the captain, in an interview, "that the greatest gain will not be in dollars and cents. There are some people who, when they cast their bread upon the waters, expect large returns immediately. I believe that it is stated that it shall be found again in many days. It does not say 'in a few.'"

Life in the Lumberman's Camp.

The costume of a lumberman is a becoming one, and is never seen elsewhere than in a camp or its vicinity. Over their shoes and socks they wear long, heavy stockings, or "German socks," which reach to their knees, where they are held in place by elastic or buckles. Their trousers are cut off, or, as they would say, "swiped off," at the knee. Their shirts are of heavy flannel, and their jackets, or "makinaws," are of a great variety of colors in plaids, checks, polka dots, or even plain bright scarlet. Some of them wear ordinary head-covering; but the typical lumberman sports a gay toboggan cap.

Their conversation is well sprinkled with slang not known as a part of the English language elsewhere. Their baggage, which consists of a flour-sack filled with clothing, is called a "turkey," and eating their dinner is elegantly set forth as "shakin' their chuck." The foreman is called "the push," and the superintendent "the walkin' boss;" and "takin' the tote road for it" means that they have been discharged for some misdemeanor. I do not know that lumbermen are prone to a greater or lesser degree than other men; they certainly never use profane language in my presence.

They are not allowed to drink intoxicating liquors while in camp, and the first violation of this rule is followed by instant dismissal, which means a tramp of forty miles to the railroad, and is no light punishment. Card-playing is encouraged, but no gambling is allowed.

Dancing is indulged in every Saturday night to a very late hour. We all contributed toward buying the violin, and I used to wish I, too, might dance when the noise of many scraping feet and a hoarse cry of "Ladies to the right and gents to the left!" stole into the night air and over to our cabin. There were some who always impersonated the fair sex, and these were known by a rather soiled kerchief which was worn tied about the arm. The "ladies" always smoked corn-cob or clay pipes while dancing, but as partners they were highly appreciated. To be sure the musician could play but one tune; but it served for waltz, polka or quadrille, and gave good satisfaction. The fiddler was to receive the violin as a mark of their appreciation when he should leave in the spring, and with this in view he played his very loudest, fearing perhaps they might change their minds.

Sunday in camp is a quiet day usually. The men wash their underwear and socks, and darn and mend their cloths. They used to vex my womanly soul by hanging out their flannels and leaving them exposed to the elements until the next Sunday morning when they would take them down and dry them hastily over the stove.

"Tom," I would say severely, "don't you know that your flannels will shrink and become as hard as a board if you leave them out so long during this damp weather?"

"Wal now! I did kalkerlate to take 'em down 'long erbout the middle of the week, but I clean forgot. I alers buys 'em erbout five sizes too big for me, anyhow."

Their mending and washing done, they take turns in the barber's chair, paying the tonsorial artist with tobacco; after which they either write letters at the long tables in the cook's camp, or go for a stroll with their guns over their shoulders. Some of them make the acquaintance of the half-breed maidens living not far away, and there went to make social calls. Those who went for game always brought home a goodly supply of rabbits and partridges, and never forgot to divide their spoils with us. They do not dance on Sunday evening; they read or spin yarns, and go to bed at an early hour.—From "In and About a Lumber Camp," Demorest's Magazine for August.

A Wonderful Invention.

The latest and most remarkable improvement in food products is the new Horsford's Baking Powder, which has attained such enormous sales in this vicinity during the past few months, and which promises to displace the old-fashioned kinds because of the greatly superior results obtained by its use. This powder excels in three important particulars, viz.: baking strength, healthfulness and purity. One-and-a-half teaspoonfuls will produce better results than two full teaspoonfuls of the best of other kinds. All other baking powders are composed of either alum or cream of tartar, both of which leave a physis in the bread, while this powder is strictly a pure phosphate powder, and is of itself a natural healthful article of food, beneficial to all. Every ingredient is strictly pure. It contains no alum, cream tartar or ammonia.

A Disputed Case.

Many persons dispute the question as to whether or not baldness caused either by disease or neglect can be cured. In deciding the question allow us to say that most cases can be cured, while others can not. Only a specialist of years experience can tell that. Prof. Birkholz, the well-known German specialist of the Masonic Temple, Chicago, where those who desire a good head of hair or beard consult him in private, and free of charge. After a thorough examination, which costs you nothing, we will tell you whether or not you may procure that trait of personal adornment so necessary to your existence, and if we find that the follicles are not dead we will treat you and guarantee the results or ask no pay. Call on or address Prof. Birkholz, 1011 Masonic Temple, Chicago.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes: "For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 125 pounds; I now can brag of 150 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

HIS LIFE AT STAKE.

Charles Macard on Trial for Murder at Grand Rapids.

Charged with Killing an Old Lady for Her Money—Henry Frame, an Accomplice, Making a Confession on the Witness Stand.

HIS STORY.

GRAND RAPIDS, July 15.—Charles Macard has been on trial here for several days on charge of murdering Mrs. McKendrick in this city on June 17 last. The case is one of the most interesting in the criminal annals of the state. Mrs. McKendrick was an old woman living with her husband, a mechanic, in a small house in the southern part of the city, and was known to habitually carry a large sum of money on her person. On the morning of January 17, a grocer's boy, delivering goods found her on the floor of her kitchen, gagged, bound hand and foot and dead. Her money was gone and the police had no clew.

Macard lived about a mile from the McKendrick house. He had killed an old man named O'Hara several years ago and was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to Jackson. The supreme court a year later granted him a new trial and this resulted in his acquittal. He was suspected of the murder of Mrs. McKendrick and fled from the city, being captured in San Francisco and brought back.

Soon after Macard's arrest Henry Frame was arrested at Freeport, Ill., as an accomplice. He weakened and confessed his part in the crime, claiming that Macard was the instigator of the plot. On Saturday Frame was placed on the witness stand. His story was a vivid recital of the crime and a searching cross-examination failed to break the force of his narrative in the slightest particular. Frame was employed on the Anchor line docks in Chicago last summer with Macard and they became intimate friends. Macard urged him to join an enterprise in Michigan for the robbery of a woman who had much money and he finally consented. They worked their way to this city, arriving in December, and for four weeks lived at Macard's house.

Early on the morning of January 17 they went to McKendrick's house, overpowered Mrs. McKendrick, who was alone, bound and gagged her and tied a tablecloth about her head. Frame held the woman down while Macard fastened the ropes, gag and cloth. After securing the money they went southward, threw the raincoats they wore into a swamp, divided the money and separated. Macard returned to this city while Frame walked to Ellendale, where he threw away his old shoes, and thence took the train for Lansing, and at noon started for Chicago. The rubber coats which they threw away were produced and identified, also the shoes which Frame discarded at Ellendale. The story of the crime was well told, and had a visible effect upon the jury. Macard sat beside his attorneys, apparently unmoved by the recital.

GRAND RAPIDS, July 17.—John T. Stevens, a Chicago stevedore, was the most important witness in the Macard murder trial Monday. He testified that last summer Macard had proposed to him to come to Michigan and rob a woman but he declined. Henry Frame was further examined, and the additional facts brought to light strengthened the original statement.

GRAND RAPIDS, July 18.—The prosecution in the Macard murder trial Tuesday introduced a dozen witnesses to corroborate and strengthen the story told by Henry Frame, showing that he and Macard were friends in Chicago last summer, and were together in this city just before the murder, and were seen together going south the morning the crime was committed.

PROF. NIEL,

government chemist, writes: I have carefully analyzed your "Royal Ruby Port Wine," bought by me in the open market, and certify that I found the same absolutely pure and well aged. This wine is especially recommended for its health-restoring and building up properties; it strengthens the weak and restores lost vitality; particularly adapted for convalescents, the aged, nursing mothers and those reduced and weakened by over-work and worry. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby." $1 per quart bottles, pints 60 cts. Sold by
