Red Cross Needs Separate Drive, Chairman Insists

Federated Fund Drive Perils Local Service, Might End Blood Bank

The Rev. William C. Warner, Ottawa County Red Cross chairman, has enumerated reasons why the chapter believes it is not practical for Red Cross to affiliate with the Michigan United Health and Welfare Fund.

He pointed out that it has been a well known, long established policy for the Red Cross to solicit funds in separate campaigns.

"The public should remember that the American Red Cross is a vast charity, chartered by Congress, organized in county units, operating on a national scale under the supervision of a democratically elected board of governors," Rev. Warner said.

"The policy set forth by the board is not based on theory but on tested experience which shows that dismal results usually accompany Red Cross participation in federated or community fund drives," he added.

He said the Red Cross will respect the wishes of the new welfare fund committee if such a federated fund becomes effective, but he said such action might result in closing county Red Cross offices in Holland and Grand Haven, as well as abandoning the new blood bank program.

He emphasized that the county chapter abides by rules of the board of governors and unless there is a change in national policy there can be no deviation of the established policy for a separate campaign.

"I hope all persons concerned will give this issue due consideration and be ready to assume such responsibility as may devolve. What they do may be costly—terribly so—for many servicemen and veterans, their families and other citizens to whom disaster may come!" he concluded.

State Park Has Busy Week-End

Holland state park experienced an exceptionally busy week-end with more than 100,000 visitors descending during the four-day span to seek relief from the hot humid atmosphere of the cities.

Park Manager Clare Broad estimated attendance Friday at 25,000; Saturday, 32,000; Sunday, 35,000, and Monday, 18,000. The car count registered 1,734 cars on Friday, 3,550 on Saturday, 3,879 on Sunday.

On a conservative basis of 31 passengers per car, Broad boosted the total by giving proper consideration to buses, ferries, persons traveling on foot and truckloads of picnickers.

Hundreds of tents dot the camping area in the ovals and the 85 spaces for trailers have been taxed to the point where often campers must wait three days before receiving an assignment. Manager Broad pointed to new supplementary rules which require trailer holders to wait for assigned site. These trailers are given numbers as they line up and are notified when sites are available. Some trailers which parked without permission have been removed to the waiting list.

Only four cuts from glass were reported during the long week-end, further attesting to care shown by persons visiting the public park in refraining from taking bottles to the beach. Only one or two cuts occurred on the beach.

Overisel Man Dies After Heart Attack

John Vrieling, 79, of Overisel, died unexpectedly at 9:30 p.m. Monday at his home on route 3, after a heart attack. He had been in failing health for the last two months.

He was a bachelor. He leaves one brother, George, of Overisel; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Vrieling of Overisel, Mrs. Dena Voorhies of Mrs. Anna Boers, both of Holland.

Herbert Bultuis, technologist at Holland hospital, places a glass slide smeared with an oily substance to catch pollen in a tiny trap outside an attic window at the hospital. Pollen readings will be made every day until a killing frost. To get this picture, The Sentinel photographer climbed out onto a narrow ledge on the hospital roof.

Ragweed Pollen Count Now Taken in Holland

A new service for hay fever sufferers in Holland was launched today by the Ottawa County Health department, which has arranged with Herbert Bultuis, technician at Holland hospital, to make daily counts of ragweed pollen.

Holland is one of 12 new stations set up this year by the Michigan Department of Health, which has been conducting a ragweed pollen survey for seven years. Such surveys are now carried on in 53 cities of the state.

To make the count, Bultuis places in a pollen trap a glass slide coated with an oily substance to which the pollen adheres. After a 24-hour period, this slide is placed under a microscope, and the count is recorded as grains per cubic yard of air. Only the ragweed pollen is counted since it is estimated 95 per cent of all hay fever in Michigan is caused by this pollen.

The ragweed pollen is recognized by its triangular pattern which measures 20 microns (a micron is a millionth of a meter). It is yellowish in color.

The pollen count was zero today. It will be reported daily in weather data in the Sentinel and will continue until a killing frost, probably in three months.

The pollen count for the season last year in Grand Haven totaled 15,507, compared with 4,132 in 1944. The count in Grand Rapids was 20,198 in 1947, 13,461 in 1946, 11,359 in 1945 and 39,913 in 1944. Ottawa county is in that area of the bottom half of lower Michigan which records 10,000 and over per season. Five areas of the state were practically free of pollen in 1947, registering counts of 1,000 or less. These are St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie, Cheboygan, Charlevoix and Rogers City. Eight others with counts of less than 1,500 were Houghton, Mackinac Island, Petoskey, Alpena, Isle Royal, Manistique, Traverse City and Munising.

Only Five File Petitions So Far

Grand Haven, July 15 (Special)—Only five persons have filed petitions for county offices and a sixth has filed a $100 bond in lieu of nominating petitions for the primary election Sept. 15, a check of returned petitions revealed today.

Wendell A. Miles, of 14 East 26th St., Holland has filed the $100 bond in lieu of petitions as a candidate for prosecuting attorney on the Republican ticket. Filing of a bond comes under act 340, Public Acts of 1947.

Those filing petitions are Henry Geerlings, Holland, House of Representatives on state legislature; Gerald Pellegrom, Ferrysburg, sheriff; William Wilds, county clerk; Robert J. Kammeraad, Grand Haven, register of deeds; Fred Van Wieren, route 4, Holland, drain commissioner. All are on the Republican ticket.

Geerlings, Wilds, Kammeraad and Van Wieren are seeking reelection.

Republicans need 150 to 600 signatures and Democrats need 46 to 184 signatures to assure having their names on the ballot. The last day for filing is Tuesday, July 20, at 4 p.m.

Federated Drive Wins Approval At Grand Haven

Lowry Hits Red Cross Policy of Independent Solicitation of Funds

Thirty-eight Grand Haven area citizens, representing civic clubs and other organizations, voted to support the objectives of the United Health and Welfare fund raising campaign in Ottawa county at an "old-fashioned" town meeting in Grand Haven city hall Tuesday night.

O. W. Lowry, chairman of the Ottawa county sponsoring committee, started the session by briefly outlining the aims and objects of this new federated fund raising agency.

Donald Wardell, of Lansing, field representative of the organization, told of the progress already made by the state organization and said that Ottawa county is ahead of the state.

"Purpose of the organization is not only to reduce the number of fund raising campaigns for health and welfare agencies but also to screen the agencies so that they receive funds according to their needs and not pile up money on the strength of advertising and ballyhoo which an agency can muster," Wardell said.

"We are principally interested in health and welfare, not one particular disease or cause. At present, one of the largest agencies for health receives more than $11,000 per year in the United States whereas the greatest killer, namely heart disease, receives only $3 per year."

Lowry attacked excerpts from the Rev. William C. Warner's statement in last Saturday's Sentinel relating to the Red Cross policy on federated drives. The statement, made in that article, that "dismal results" usually followed Red Cross participation in federated drives was contested.

Lowry pointed out that the first time the Ottawa county Red Cross was included in the Grand Haven and Holland Community Chests, more money was raised for this cause than ever before.

"The Red Cross policy like the policy of every other organization in a democracy must eventually be established by the will of the people who support and contribute to it," Lowry said.

A vote taken of those present revealed the meeting was in favor of including the Red Cross in any federated drive for funds by a margin of 48-1. The one dissenting vote was by the Rev. H. V. Hallock of Grand Haven, who represented Rev. Warner. He said the federated collection is against the national policy of the Red Cross.

A motion to include the United Health and Welfare in the fall Community Chest campaign was argued and tabled for a later meeting with the Community Chest board.

Holland representatives at the meeting besides Lowry were Carl Andreassen, Henry S. Maentz, Joseph Moran, Everett De Wert and Steven Wiersma.

The meeting followed a dinner meeting of the Ottawa county executive staff of the organization which includes Lowry as chairman, Maentz, Andreassen, Moran and Dr. William Weststrate, all of Holland; Corrie Karsten of Zeeland; Paul Johnson, Julian Hutton, Mrs. L. C. Roloff and E. V. Erickson, all of Grand Haven.

Zeeland Votes School Tax Hike, Approves Site

Zeeland, July 15 (Special)—Zeeland voters approved purchase of property for a new grade school, voted to increase taxes 2 1/4 mills for five years for a building program, and elected two trustees at an annual election Monday night, which attracted more than 250 constituents.

Trustee Ralph De Haan was re-elected for a three-year term and Clarence J. (Kelly) Yntema was named to succeed Dave Van Ommen, who did not seek re-election. Other candidates receiving votes were Gerrit Heuvelhorst, Jasper Bos and Edward De Pree.

Property for the new elementary school is a nine-acre plot on Elm St. valued at $10,000, plus an additional sum for a house on the property. The present grade school on Main St. has been partially razed after a section was condemned as unsafe by the state fire marshal. No plans have been drawn up so far for a new school.

Zeeland is allowed 9.75 mills for operating schools, whereas only 7 mills are needed. The remainder which will be added to the 2 1/4 mills allowed in Monday's election, totaling 5 mills, will be put into a special fund for building.

Several voters had left by the time the millage vote came up, but there was only a sprinkling of dissenters. Of the 196 votes cast, only 17 opposed the issue.

The board met afterwards for organizing and naming De Haan president; Henry Geerlings, secretary, and Dr. Henry Kuit, treasurer. Yntema and Corey Post are the other two trustees.

White Pine Weevil Damaging Trees In Ottawa County

County Agent Urges Growers to Watch for Withered, Brown Tips

Because 13 million trees have been planted in Ottawa county since the West Ottawa Soil Conservation district was organized in 1938, just 10 years ago, the directors of the district are greatly concerned over the matter of insects and diseases infesting these pine trees.

The district directors, along with L. R. Arnold, county agent, urge all tree growers in Ottawa county to be on the lookout for the white pine weevil which is working in some plantings at this time. The weevil attacks Norway spruce, jack pine, pitch pine, and Scotch pine, but it prefers white pine.

The weevil damage is very plainly visible at the terminal growth and occurs during June, July, and early August. Damage consists of dying off of the new growth down to the first or second whorl. If the new terminal growth at the top of the tree is withered, turns brown, and droops over, it is quite certain that the weevil is at work. Now is the time to watch for the withered, brown, dying pine.

Olin Clay, farm planner for the district, says it would be well worth a few hours of a tree grower's time to walk through his plantings and inspect them for weevil damage. Control of the weevil, according to Clay, is to cut out the infested terminals as soon as they are seen, or before Aug. 15, and burn them to destroy eggs and larvae. If all tree growers would follow this simple practice, the weevil could be controlled. If it is allowed to continue unchecked, serious injury to pine trees will result.

Five Arrested In Wild Fracas

Grand Haven, July 15 (Special)—A 23-year-old man, demanded examination when arraigned on a felonious assault charge and four teen-age companions paid fines on simple assault charges in Justice George Hoffer's court Monday as the result of a wild fracas early Saturday morning involving occupants of two cars.

Francis Van Hees, 23, of Grand Haven, remained in jail, unable to provide $2,000 bond after he demanded examination in connection with a fight in which one man was badly battered requiring 14 stitches for facial wounds and another received a black eye. Examination was set for July 21 at 2 p.m.

Van Hees' companions, Richard Cuth, 18, and James Roberts, 18, David Pellegrom, 17, and Robert Jones, all paid $15 fines and $5.55 costs each. Young Jones was home on leave from the Navy and will report back in a day or two.

Arrests were made by city police early Saturday morning following a fight between the local boys and Roy Spoonas, 20, and John Martinson, 20, both of Muskegon. After a chase of the two cars throughout the area, Van Hees allegedly hit Spoonas over the nose with a full beer bottle, causing severe facial lacerations.

Cuth, driver of the other car, and his companions were rounded up on Fulton St. but Van Hees escaped from the car. He was later found at the oval, where he had buried his cloth smeared with blood and beer.

Some Joke Eh? Holland Man Gets Last Laugh

The joke is ended today and E. A. Looman of 155 Central Ave. is $25 richer.

It started last May when The Chanters, Moolah Temple Shriners from St. Louis, Mo., boarded the North American at Chicago for a cruise, which included Decoration Day.

Roy Woodward, president of a St. Louis engineering company, bought a bottle of pickles in Chicago. After the boat was out of Chicago and on its way to the Straits, Woodward emptied the pickles and inserted a note in the bottle.

"Whoever finds this note and writes me will receive $25."

Woodward, as a joke, signed name of his friend Walter F. Heinicke on the piece of paper.

Five weeks later, Looman and his eight-year-old son found the bottle while walking along the Lake Michigan beach near Holland.

Looman wrote Heinicke. The check was brought to Holland and presented Looman Wednesday by Arthur H. Gidonsen, vice-president of the Tower Grob Bank and Trust Co. of St. Louis.

Gidonsen, a friend of both Woodward and Heinicke, happened to be coming to this area for his vacation. Heinicke gave him the check to present Looman.

Council Gets New Booklets On Holland City

Booklet Is Dedicated To Late Mayor Steffens; All Officers Are Listed

Attractive new booklets listing information for the City of Holland were distributed Wednesday night at the regular meeting of Common Council.

Members of Common Council, city officers, their telephone numbers and expiration of present terms are listed on succeeding pages along with standing committees and boards.

An innovation is a small map of Holland showing election precincts. Succeeding pages give election data, information on licenses and permits, and information on city and school taxes.

Booklets are available at the city clerk's office.

In other business, a plat of the Heidema Bros. subdivision on 28th St. bordered by Central and College Aves. was referred to the street committee with instructions to report back in two weeks. This property was formerly owned by the Smith estate, and involved opening College Ave. from 28th to 32nd Sts.

Council approved BPW plans, specifications and estimates for installing a sewer on Maple Ave. from 30th to 32nd Sts. and on 32nd St. from Maple to Michigan Aves. at a cost of $6,655.91, five-sixths of the costs to be put on special assessments and one-sixth on general sewer fund. A public hearing was set Aug. 4.

On motion of Ald. Harry Harrington, the city engineer was instructed to proceed with laying a sidewalk on the west side of River Ave. from Third St. to the bridge, provided property owners do not make other arrangements. This sidewalk was authorized Sept. 3, 1947, Harrington said.

Ald. Melvin Van Tatenhove protested signs being placed on residential property and in Kollen park and questioned enforcement of certain zoning regulations. This matter was tabled two weeks.

Ald. Bertal Slagh, chairman of council's special committee on youth council housing problems, reported progress and said further reports would be forthcoming soon.

Council approved the action of the Board of Appeals in denying a request of William Modders and Henry Vander Bie to re-zone the east side of Washington Ave. between 17th and 18th Sts. from Class B residential to Class C commercial. Clerk Clarence Greengard also read a letter from Modders in which he wrote he will proceed with completing the building according to specifications as soon as arrangements can be made with a contractor.

The clerk also reported that a net amount of $3,546 had been received from the sale of the Dornbos property and had been deposited in the general fund.

He presented a letter from the Michigan Municipal League giving a resume of its activities and requesting continued co-operation by the city. The invoice for membership amounted to $226.90.

A communication from the Michigan Public Service commission informed council that "no charge" toll service between Holland and Zeeland has been discontinued. In connection with extended area service proposed by the Bell Telephone Co., the city attorney and city clerk were authorized to represent Holland at a forthcoming hearing.

The clerk reported he had been informed that the resolution submitted to the Ottawa county Board of Supervisors to discontinue registration of electors on primary and election days has been passed.

The clerk also called attention to an article appearing in the Michigan Municipal Review particularly pertaining to the repeal of the sales tax diversion amendment and the repeal of the state sales tax on foods, both of which would materially decrease the income for the city from these sources.

Council also heard the second reading of ordinance 397 to provide for an associate municipal judge, how much time he would be expected to devote to the work, to determine the procedure to be followed in his election and preliminary appointment, and to provide for compensation.

Suicide Verdict Given for Death In Grand Haven

Note With Message For Husband Found In Modest Cottage

Grand Haven, July 15 (Special)—Investigating officials are convinced Mrs. Arwilda Thomas met her death by suicide, Prosecutor Howard W. Want has announced. His statement followed a complete investigation carried on by Police Chief Lawrence De Witt, Coroner Joseph B. Kammeraad and himself into the death of the 60-year-old woman whose body, shot in the chest, was found hanging Monday by her husband, William, 54, in their modest cottage across the river.

A suicide note of several pages, written in pencil on tablet paper, said in part: "This is the last. I've got the rope ready, so good-bye, Bill."

Investigating officers said Mrs. Thomas stood on a small bench 13 inches high, tied the rope to a stove leg, brought it up to a hook on the ceiling and put the noose around her neck.

Mrs. Thomas then is believed to have shot herself with a .38 caliber revolver which was later found lying on the bed nearby. The shot penetrated the body 63 inches from the floor, or 50 inches from the top of the small bench. The shot went through the body at an angle and the bullet was found in a partition 43 inches from the floor. Her toes were just touching the floor, the distance not great enough to break her neck.

Williams told officers he gave the rope a jerk which released the knot. He removed the rope from his wife's neck and laid the body on the bed.

Coroner Kammeraad earlier gave a verdict of apparent suicide and ordered an autopsy. The couple had been married 33 years and had come here four years ago from Kalamazoo. Surviving are two stepsons, Lyle and Clyde of Kalamazoo, two sisters and five brothers.

No Local Players Signed Here Upon Completion of Yankee Camp

"They're either too young or too old," said George Selkirk and Ray Meyers, Yankee scouts after looking over 45 local and area baseball hopefuls in a three day training camp concluded here Friday.

"Some of the boys definitely show promise," said the scouts, "but when we got to looking at their application cards we find that they are either in high school or are well in their 20's." Selkirk pointed out that they were interested in young stars only, and added that a boy over 19 or 20 really has to "have what it takes," to make the grade.

Consequently the Yankees didn't sign any of the boys to contracts or send anyone to Plattsburg, N. Y. for further training. The scouts were quick to add, however that they were impressed with several of the younger stars, and may be back to see them again upon completion of their high school work.

About 45 lads turned out for the three day tryouts. Only 25 appeared on the first day, but additional youths turned out at the following two sessions. Several of the lads drove in from Grand Rapids to take part in the tryouts.

The scouts pointed out that they had a "good look" at the boys because of the size of the turnout. Following two days of trials, the scouts offered instruction on Friday to any youngsters desiring it.

Commenting on the park, Selkirk said, "Riverview Park is an excellent site, and is well laid out, but is definitely in need of more water." He also pointed out that the home plate slab should be sunk deeper into the ground, since it is now raised an inch or two above the turf. He said serious injury could result from a slide into home.

Upon completion of the camp, Selkirk left immediately for Plattsburg, on his new assignment, while Meyers returned to Detroit, where he makes his home.

East Chicago Nine Humbles Local Dutchmen

Misplays, Clutch Hits Give Winners Big Lead; Victor Takes Command

A combination of local errors and some timely hitting on the part of the East Chicago Colored Giants gave the invaders an easy 10-4 victory over the Holland Flying Dutchmen at Riverview Park Thursday night. It was the Dutch's sixth loss against 10 wins this season. In a two game series with the Giants, the locals now hold an even split, having defeated the colored team a week ago.

Bright spot in the Dutchmen cause was the splendid relief performance turned in by Ernie Victor, who allowed but three hits in the 6 1/3 innings he worked. He replaced Starter Lefty Van Wieren after the invaders had netted eight runs in the first two innings, on six hits and some sloppy fielding by the Dutchmen.

The locals treated the ball as a "hot potato" in the first two innings with singles being stretched into doubles, and attempted steals resulting in bad throws.

However, after the shaky start, the locals settled down to play some good baseball, outscoring the winners 4-2 in the final seven innings.

Trailing 8-0, the Hollanders annexed their first two tallies in the sixth inning. After Don Mulder flied out to open the inning, Loren Wenzel took first on a walk. Ken Rotman struck out, but Harry De Neff garnered an infield hit. Lou Borgman was safe on an error to load the bases. Then Tony Wenzel came through with a line drive single to center, scoring two runs. Frank Wlodarczyk ended the rally by striking out.

East Chicago stretched the margin to 10-2 with single runs in the seventh and eighth innings. Three hits resulted in two runs for the Dutchmen in the last half of the ninth. Doubles by Pinch Hitter Harold Van Wieren and Don Mulder, and a single by Frank Wlodarczyk brought in the two tallies. The game

Harve Vanderveen hurled good ball for the winners, allowing seven scattered hits and striking out 10 Merchants. Maatman pitched for the losers and allowed but four hits. However he issued 12 base on balls which kept him working uphill.

The Tallors netted four runs in the initial inning on one hit and four walks. Ben Jansen scored two runs with his timely single. Two walks, a hit batsmen and an error produced the fifth tally in the third inning. The Merchants rallied briefly in their fourth on two hits and two errors to make the count 5-2.

Dykemas "iced" the tilt in the sixth with three runs on two hits, a walk and a sacrifice. Jansen again drove in two runs with a long triple. A home run by Jason Roels with Maatman on base gave the losers two more runs in the sixth inning.

Two walks and a circuit clout by Leftfielder Westerhof produced the three final tallies for the Clothiers in the seventh inning.

SHORTER SPEECHES

The manager of the Democratic national convention, William Neagle Roach, has come up with the announcement that he has taken steps for the comfort of the delegates in the Philadelphia convention hall by installing more fans and placing greater limitation on the length of speeches. The former is easy enough; the promise of the latter will be taken with a grain of salt. Making long speeches is a disease from which both Democrats and Republicans, to say nothing of Wallacites and Socialists, are chronically suffering.

The Republicans had put a limitation on the length of the nominating speeches, although not all speakers observed it; there are some persons who just can't sign off, and party chairmen are sometimes afraid to enforce even a rule that has been agreed on. The trouble with the Republicans was that, although a limitation had been placed on the number of nominating speeches, that number was out of all proportion to their intrinsic value. When there are seven or eight candidates, five speeches per candidate, on nominating him and four seconding the nomination, represent a type of oratorical punishment that can properly be described as "cruel and unusual."

One common characteristic of convention speeches is that not by any chance does any one of them ever say anything. Those speeches are not for the purpose of communicating thought; they are for the purpose of saving the ego of the speaker. And each speaker thinks he is such a devil of an important personage that he needs almost unlimited time to set it forth. By purporting to describe the candidate being placed in nomination he is really describing himself and his importance to the universe.

If the Democratic convention manager can really provide shorter speeches, and especially fewer of them, he will deserve a statue in bronze that will carry his fame to our children's children. But don't count on it. His intentions are doubtless good, as were the intentions of the Republican convention managers, but putting a muffer on public speakers is one of the most difficult operations anyone can attempt. We may as well be reconciled to suffering and putting up with the chronic political disease of speakeritis.

Naomi and Ruth—The Book of Ruth

By Henry Goertlings

We are to study the story of two women who in the providence of God were brought together in a unique manner. As we think of distance today they did not live far apart when Naomi and her family resided in Bethlehem, and Ruth in her own land beyond the Dead Sea. But they were strangers indeed, and neither knew that the other had an existence. Their days were spent much as the days of other people, and they were happy in their own surroundings. But God moves in a mysterious way, and it is Naomi and Ruth did not know it before, they were present to be made to realize it. There were plans being made for them in which they did not consciously have a part. But how true that is of all of us! There is One working for us without whose plans life would have no meaning and no real joys.

We shall often make mistakes though we follow the course that best commends itself to us. Whether it was right or not for Naomi and her family to leave Bethlehem when famine struck it we cannot say. When we read carefully what she had to say upon her return after ten days in a strange land we are led to think she doubted the wisdom of their removal to Moab. But all of us understand how it is when a course we choose is attended with hardships and losses. We wish we had done the other thing. We only desire to say it is not impossible for the best of persons to make mistakes. But at the time and in the light we have to choose, and if we find out later that we were in error, we can at least profit in the future by the wrong step. But it sometimes is true that what is unwise is the very wisdom of God.

The desire on the part of people to improve their economic condition is commendable. The time was when it was possible to speak of closed doors. The contacts between nations were kept to a minimum. But it can hardly be said that that condition exists today. Naomi did not go to Moab from choice. She was driven thither by famine. But that very fact did not lessen the possibility of her mingling with strangers.

The Bible speaks of the necessity of our letting our light shine. Naomi did that very thing, though this little book does not say so specifically. But who can read Ruth's declaration of loyalty in the words, "thy people shall be my people and thy God my God" without being convinced that Naomi was true while in a foreign land to the faith she had been taught by her fathers? It is not going too far to say that unless we are religious at all times and in all places we are not religious at any time or in any place. To refuse to trim our faith and to compromise when in company with those with other views may always be regarded as the unfailing sign of the presence of convictions.

Naomi longed to get back among her relatives and friends, people of her own race. The daughters-in-law decided to go with her. But after traveling together for a time, Naomi began to think of the welfare of the other women. She decided it would be better for them to return to Moab and take up life among their own people than to go as strangers to Bethlehem. She argued with them, pointing out the advantages for them if they remained with their own people. Naomi seems to have supposed they would agree with her. But both of them were insistent on accompanying her. Her life had impressed them. Orphan finally changed her mind but Ruth was determined to go with Naomi. She expressed her own mind. She spoke with positiveness and her words constitute one of the beautiful statements in the Bible. It was the climax of her love for Naomi. It was an expression in words whose purpose Naomi could not withstand.

The two women journeyed together. The older one was going back home. She was to get back among her friends. She was to return to the familiar scenes of her earlier life. The younger one was venturing into a new land, to be among strange people, to accustom herself to new ways of living. The older one had a mingled feeling of sadness, for she had lost so much while she had been out of her own country. Back in Moab were three graves, in which she had laid her husband and her two sons. She would see much in Bethlehem that would recall memories of her former happiness. Naomi was older and her sad experiences had told on her appearance, so that her friends began to wonder whether she was indeed Naomi.

Naomi sustained a beautiful attitude toward Ruth when another husband loomed large on the matrimonial horizon. She was not jealous. She did not think that she was dishonoring the memory of her son. She, according to the custom of that faraway day, helped along the beautiful venture of Ruth. She loved her as a mother and served her as only such a motherly woman could. Her whole attitude toward Ruth was nobleness itself. She rejoiced at her advancement and made herself a happy partner to its accomplishment.

Local Man Weds Jackson Girl

Mrs. Maynard H. Van Lente (Ploverman Portrait)

Miss Ruth Eleanor Cooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cooley, Jackson, was united in marriage to Maynard H. Van Lente of Lansing, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Van Lente, 29 East 14th St., Saturday at 4 p.m. in Calvary Methodist church at Jackson. The Rev. John O. Hagans officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The sanctuary was decorated with baskets of white gladioli, candelabra, and palms. White satin bows holding candles entwined with huckleberry leaves marked the pews.

Mrs. Earl Hunt, organist, played traditional wedding music, and preceding the ceremony the church choir sang "The Bridal Chorus" from "Rose Maiden" by Cowen. Mrs. John Hagans sang "O Perfect Love" and "Because" and during the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white drop stitch organza gown with a fitted bodice. The fitted sleeves extended over the hands, and the hooped skirt was edged with a ruffle and ended in a long train. Her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. Her cascading bouquet was composed of white carnations and delphinium.

Mrs. Neil Trombley of Detroit, cousin of the bride was matron of honor. Her gown was of yellow taffeta fashioned with a V neckline, hooped skirt and bustle. She carried an arm bouquet of orchids.

Laverne Gets His Wish; Mail Will Be Delivered

Eight-year-old Laverne Buscher, Overisel rheumatic fever victim who appealed to President Truman several weeks ago to have his mail delivered to his door, was granted his wish.

Effective July 16, a rural mail carrier will drop the mail in a box in front of the Buscher home instead of at a crossroad half a mile away.

This news was received from Washington Monday by Postmaster Harry Kramer, who said he believed the direct appeal to the President carried some weight in approving the change.

The youngster wrote Truman he was receiving a lot of mail since news of his illness was broadcast, and he didn't like to wait until late afternoon for his mail. His condition would not allow him to walk to the mail box, hence he had to wait until his father returned home from work at night.

The Buscher family and one other family live on this road which is about 12 miles from Holland on rural route 3. A request for home delivery a few years ago was denied by Washington authorities because the carrier would have to retrace his route.

Mrs. R. A. Boersma of route 4, noticed the "weeping child" walking north on the Lake Michigan beach in front of the second house north of Camp Geneva and more than five miles from Tunnel park.

Mrs. Boersma said she suspected something was wrong and began questioning the boy. She found that he had gone through a "big hole" to get to the lake and connected this fact with Tunnel park.

She took the boy to the park and found the parents, Coast Guard and Sheriff's officers combing the woods and surrounding areas for the child.

Resort Season In Full Swing At Waukazoo

Cottagers Converge From All Parts of Country for Summer

The resort season at Waukazoo is in full swing with guests and cottagers converging from all parts of the country. Focal point of interest is Waukazoo Inn, scene of most of the activities.

Challenged to name the "21 things to do at Waukazoo" often advertised in trade papers, Manager S. E. Paulus came up with: Tennis, golf, badminton, tether tennis, table tennis, bicycling, boating, water skiing, horseshoes, croquet, hiking, riding, fishing, softball, swimming, bridge, movies, stunt parties dancing and a lot more.

As for cottagers, the colony this summer includes...

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Costello of Oak Park, Ill., in Nippon cottage. The Costellos and their two daughters, Patricia and Mary, have been at Waukazoo for three seasons now. Pat had a little difficulty with her horse "Bill" the other day but aside from being a little stiff she is back on the beam. The Oscar Orman family from Kirkwood, Mo., are in East Wind cottage. They were the first arrivals of the season and by this time are as much at home as if they had been coming to Waukazoo for many years.

The Jack Nelsons of St. Louis are in Quillmette cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. King, Jr., their daughter, Shirley, and sons, Harry and Bob, are again in Blue Heron cottage. The Kings are from Kings Mills, Ohio. Harry and Bobby are the bicycling champions of the kid set at Waukazoo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Walter and their daughter, Gloria, are in White Pine cottage for their third season. Mr. Walter is a United States Steel man and lives in Chicago. The Walters were in Mexico this winter but they say they'd rather be looking at Lake Macatawa from White Pine than at Popo or the cliffs of Acapulco.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold A. Johnston of Ft. Thomas, Ky., are in Laughing Squirrel. Mr. Johnston is with a life insurance company in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Joseph Trever is back in Playhouse cottage. This is her 44th season at Waukazoo. Over the Fourth a daughter, Mrs. Howard Besuden, Mr. Besuden and son, Bill, visited at Playhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Zimmerman of Detroit stopped by to visit old friends at Waukazoo. The Zimmermans are on their way North for the summer.

Col. Bland B. Button and Mrs. Button, two of Waukazoo's longest term guests, are enjoying their tenth summer at the Inn. The Colonel says that next to the Blue Grass country Waukazoo is the best.

Sunday night guests at the Inn enjoyed a picnic supper...hot dogs, salad and the trimmings on the lawn in front of the hotel. Manager Syl Paulus was the chef...and so far as hot dog cooking was concerned he did all right. He doesn't intend to take over the kitchen job however.

Miss Erma De Goed Wed In Grand Rapids Chapel

The Calvin Seminary chapel in Grand Rapids was the scene of an impressive wedding Wednesday evening when Erma Jeanne De Goed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry De Goed of 41 East 18th St., became the bride of Albert Koning, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Koning of Grand Rapids. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. R. J. Danhof.

The couple exchanged their vows before an altar banked with ferns, baskets of white gladioli, larkspur and snapdragons and candelabras. The candles were lighted by Robert Herrema who was dressed in a white Eton suit with black bow tie.

Traditional wedding music was played by Harvey Herrema. He also accompanied Peter De Jong who sang "Because" and "What God Hath Promised" preceding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

The bride's ivory satin gown of colonial style, was fashioned with a nylon-net yoke edged with a wide berth of Chantilly lace giving an off-the-shoulder effect and with long tapering sleeves. The dress also featured a pointed basque bodice and full hooped skirt extending into a long train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a tiara of orange blossoms and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid. A single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, completed her ensemble.

Miss Marjorie Borgman, maid of honor, chose a gown of light blue satin with a net yoke and an off-the-shoulder berthina similar to that of the bride. Bridesmaids, Mrs. John Klaver, sister of the bride, and Miss Joyce Koning, sister of the groom, wore pink satin in gowns styled like that of the maid of honor. All three attendants carried colonial bouquets of roses and snapdragons with wreaths of flowers in their hair and wore matching mitts.

The bride was preceded down the aisle by flower girls, Mary Beth Koning and Jacquelyn Ronda, wearing white dotted swiss dresses trimmed with blue and pink satin bows, featuring bustle backs and ruffled skirts. The rings were carried by Robert Philip Klaver who wore a white Eaton suit.

Seymour Koning served his brother as best man and Henry Spaanstra and Albert Scholtens acted as the groomsmen.

Muskegon Edges Local VFW Club

A four run first inning by the Kirby-Vacuum softballers proved enough to beat the Holland VFW club in a non-league affair at the Pine Ave diamond Friday night. The final count was Muskegon 5, VFW 2.

Three successive singles plus an error and a fielder's choice gave the invaders their four tallies, a double and a single. A one-handed catch in deep left field by Left-fielder Prins saved another score from crossing the plate.

The locals finally got to S. Portenga hurler, in the sixth inning for two tallies. H. Schipper opened with a walk. He then came around to score on Schippy's double. Schippy later scored when the second baseman muffed Prins grounder.

Matt Numikoski was the losing pitcher although he only allowed three hits after the big first inning uprising. The locals garnered three safeties off the Muskegon flinger.

Van Liere Wins Pitcher's Duel

Good pitching continued to feature play in the Wooden Shoe league when Van Liere of the Color-Ad club finally besting Carl Reimink of the North Shore Cubs, 1-0 in a contest played at Riverview Park.

Both Reimink and Van Liere turned in superb pitching performances. Reimink permitted five safeties, while Van Liere allowed just two singles. Van Liere issued only one base on balls.

Local Control Will Check Moves Of Health Unit

Statewide Participation Cited as Damper Against Becoming Top Heavy

"The United Health and Welfare fund will not become a top heavy agency supporting a host of social workers in the years to come because the control lies with the individual counties and can be further checked at the state level," Donald Wardell, field representative of the organization told Grand Haven area citizens at a meeting Tuesday night.

Wardell explained the situation after a question was asked about the administrative costs of this federated plan compared to the "almost negligible" cost of running the Community Chest.

"As long as this is a federation of all counties, it will not go the way of all other agencies," Wardell said.

It was explained that on the state board of the United Health and Welfare fund, there are 60 counties represented. Of these, 30 are "well" organized and the remainder are in various stages of development.

A total of 88 per cent of the money contributed for health and welfare units is concentrated in the 60 counties that have already indicated they will join this federated movement to solicit funds.

There are 23 counties that are not represented on the state board. An open discussion on whether the Grand Haven group favored joining with the Community Chest for one campaign this year or whether the United Health and Welfare should conduct a separate campaign in Jan. and Feb. However, the Community Chest and United Health and Welfare drives would be combined in the fall of 1949 and remain as one large drive each year.

Any action on a motion to have either one or two campaigns this year was tabled until after a meeting can be held with the Community Chest board.

Lockjaw Dangers Increase During Summer Weather

Immunization Urged To Keep Children From Dread Malady

This is the time of year when lockjaw is prevalent, the Michigan department of health advised today.

The little cut, scrape, scratch or blister which goes almost unnoticed in vacation play or gardening can cause lockjaw just as surely as can automobile accidents or pitchfork wounds or gunpowder burns.

Children, especially those who are or will be in rural areas, all farm workers, and horse handlers as well as people in industry who are apt to receive puncture or scraping wounds should be immunized against lockjaw.

The germs which cause lockjaw, or tetanus as it is properly called, commonly live in the bowels of horses, and possibly other farm animals. They are found wherever manure is found, and they may be carried on dust for considerable distances. It does no harm to eat the germs. They cause disease only when they get into a wound which is then closed from air.

Fortunately not many people, even among horse handlers, get tetanus, but four out of every five who get it, die of the illness.

The Michigan Department of Health makes and distributes the toxoids which will immunize against lockjaw.

The Department recommends that a child be immunized against tetanus at 6 to 9 months of age, but the immunization can be given at any time. The child should be given booster shots at three years of age, at the time he enters school and at the time of injury. The child of school age or an adult should have a booster shot every five years and at the time of injury.

The Department of Health makes a tetanus anti-toxin which can prevent lockjaw if given at the time of a known injury, even though the injured person has not been immunized against the disease. Either the toxoid or the anti-toxin may be given by any physician.

The annual First Reformed church Sunday school sponsored picnic will be held at Lawrence St. City Park Friday. Supper will be at 6 p.m. followed by a program of sports at 7:30 p.m. in charge of the Kum Dull class.

State Launches Warfare Against Japanese Beetle

Ag Department Spots 7,000 Traps in Areas To Ambush Crop Pest

Lansing — Guerilla warfare against the Japanese beetle has started in Michigan.

The State Agriculture department announced today that 7,000 traps have been spotted in rural areas throughout southern Michigan to ambush the dread crop pest.

Once trapped, the beetles tip off farmers and inspectors on possible locations where other beetles have invaded and mop up operations with DDT and arsenate of lead quick, to prevent any threat of destruction.

Beetle traps work simply on the old come-on principle. Equipment includes a metal box with funnel attached and a bottle of gerinal oil set at the mouth.

C. A. Boyer, head of the Michigan Bureau of Plant Industry, says Japanese beetles will walk a quarter of mile for a taste of gerinal oil, a strong smelling chemical solution. Once in the bottle, a beetle loses his head completely. In short order, he slips through a couple of flanges into the funnel and the metal trap.

Boyer points out that Japanese beetles work as fifth columnists, and frequently move around as hitchhikers, bumping rides with unwary motorists. He urges drivers to check the insides of their cars when taking vacation trips, particularly if they're carrying plants or dirt with them.

Michigan's war against the beetle is mainly precautionary, Boyer explains. There has never been a Japanese beetle plague in the state, thanks to defensive measures, such as the traps.

Ohio, on the other hand, which acted tardily in stopping the inroads of the plant destroyers, now has nine quarantined areas where no crops can be grown. Once the beetles got a foothold, they caused thousands of acres of damage in the northern part of the state.

Report Covers Fall Fashions

"Don't wear a tent for a skirt" said Dora Miller, New York publicist, in commenting on the fall fashions shown at American Home Economics National convention at Minneapolis. Among those seeing this sneak preview of both Paris and American fashions, shown for the first time anywhere, was Mary E. Bullis, home extension agent.

New silhouettes trends were skirts with easy fullness, rounded shoulders slim sleeves and lowered hip line.

Extremely full skirts were shown only in the sheers of materials. Fullness in other skirts was often pushed to the back and held in place with pleats.

Skirt lengths were 12 to 13 inches from the floor for day time wear and 8 to 10 inches for afternoon and evening wear. Colors were soft. Among those featured were gray, green, blue and black. Two values of one color were often shown in the same outfit.

Many of the dresses in the collection were of wool jersey. One suit was made of velveteen and velveteen was often used as trimming.

Short jackets of self material accompanied many of the dresses. One outfit that would appeal to teen agers was a red flannel shirt, knee length red flannel trousers and a green plaid skirt.

"The dresses were very wearable," said Miss Bullis, and the styles will be more becoming to the average figure than those of last season.

Truck Crops Look Good in Michigan

Lansing—Despite excessive rain in some areas, weather conditions during the last half of June were favorable for truck crops, the Michigan co-operative crop reporting service said today.

The asparagus harvest is nearly completed, the service reported, and harvest of early cabbage crops is underway.

Cantaloup and cauliflower crops are looking good with celery harvesting underway in several areas. Although stands of cucumbers and pickles are generally good, the service reported some trouble with cucumber beetles.

Onions, generally later than normal at this time, are looking very good in all sections.

The strawberry harvest is nearly completed in southern Michigan and at its peak in the north. The service reported warmer weather and rains have improved tomato plantings.

Hartford—About 54 per cent of the needles and pins manufactured in the U.S. are produced by factories in Connecticut.

QUICK TEST TELLS IF GRAIN IS DRY

Farmers who want to avoid loss from grain heating in storage can make this simple test devised by Dr. S. T. Dexter, farm crops research scientist at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station.

A small waxed cardboard container such as an individual ice cream cup is used in the test. A sample of grain, representing the average condition of the field, is placed in the container. To this is added about a half teaspoon of ammonium chloride salt which can be obtained from the drugist. The container is then closed and shaken vigorously 50 times.

Results of the test are shown in the two photographs above. At the left, the salt comes out of the tube dry and in single grains as it was when first put in. This shows that the grain is dry enough to store under ordinary farm conditions. The salt in the picture on the right is damp and clumped together, showing that the grain is too damp for storage. A little practice makes the test easy and quick. Then samples can be taken and the test performed in the field at harvest time.

Horsemen Will Have Field Day

The annual field day for Michigan horsemen is to be held at the Upjohn Farms, Richland, the largest horse breeding establishment in the Midwest, on Wednesday, according to Harry Moxley, extension livestock specialist at Michigan State college.

The annual event is sponsored by the Michigan Horse Breeders' association, MSC and Kalamazoo county extension services, and the Upjohn Farms.

At present 250 mares, 150 colts and several stallions are quartered on the 1,500 acre farm near Kalamazoo. The establishment dates back to the production of estrogen by the Upjohn Co., chemists. Estrogen is a substance produced by pregnant mares and used for medical purposes.

The day's program, beginning at 10:30 a.m., is to be of an educational nature and 4-H club work is to be featured. Robert Johnson, Barry county 4-H saddle horse club member will give a demonstration on colt training and Mary Perrine, Jackson, will discuss "feeding and handling the colt". Both are winners of choice colts in the past, with their 4-H club colt work.

Demonstrations of riding, handling, and training will also be featured. A highlight of the day will be a game of broom polo by the Upjohn Cowboys. They will also present roping demonstrations.

Another feature of the day will be the parade of colts, mares, and stallions.

Moxley, master of ceremonies for the affair, urges 4-H saddle club members and adults interested in horses to attend the day-long affair. Lunch will be served.

Horses Need Good Care in Summer

Old Dobbin has seen his day as the main supply of "horsepower" on Michigan farms. Tractors have reduced horse numbers greatly.

However, R. S. Hudson, horse specialist at Michigan State college, points out that many farmers keep one or two horses for special jobs. They're important, he believes, and deserve good care.

Hot summer weather means extra caution in feeding horses. They should be fed regularly but should not be fed when tired or extremely hot. When a horse comes in from work, let him have some hay during a half-hour cooling off period before giving him any grain. Water, too, should be used sparingly—not more than a pailful at first after work, then more in a half-hour.

Horses need salt, keep a supply of salt where it is easily available to the animals.

Hudson advises that horses not being worked are better off in the freedom of the pasture than in a barn or running in a barnlot.

Of prime importance is the fit of the horse collar. The collars and hames must fit well and be kept clean to avoid sore shoulders.

To fit the collar properly, have it tight on the sides so only the finger tips can be admitted. It should be long enough to admit the hand at the bottom of the collar. A deer hair sweat pad can be used if the collar seems a little large.

Sore shoulders can be avoided by lifting the collar frequently when the horse is working and wiping the shoulders with the hand. Allow air to circulate by raising the collar slightly.

Preserve Peas For Winter Use

Whether you plan to can or freeze peas this year, it's a cinch that you are going to preserve some of the popular green vegetable for your winter meals soon.

Directions for successful processing for either canning or freezing peas are suggested by Roberta Hershey, extension foods specialist at Michigan State college.

If you plan to can some, after you have shelled and washed them, cover with boiling water and bring to a boil. If you use glass jars, pack the hot peas to one inch of the top and cover with boiling water, leaving one inch of space at the top of the jar. Add one-half teaspoon of salt to pints and one teaspoon to quarts. Adjust the jar lids and process in the pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure—240 degrees F. Process pint jars 40 minutes and quart jars 40 minutes. As soon as you remove jars from the canner, complete the seals if they are not the self-sealing type. If you use a pressure sauce pan, process the pint jars for 60 minutes.

For tin cans, pack the hot peas to one-fourth of the top. Fill to the top with boiling water. Add one-half teaspoon of salt to No. 2 cans and 1 teaspoon to No. 2 and one-half cans. Exhaust and seal cans. Process at 10 pounds pressure—240 degrees F. Process for 30 minutes for either size can.
