Rebuild Breakwaters, Piers, Channel Wall Near State Park

"Rehabilitation" is the word for what they're doing to the breakwaters at the channel entrance near Holland State Park, according to Supervisory Civil Engineer Owen Opine.

The Chicago District of the Army Corps of Engineers, on loan from Detroit district, is working on three projects here. They began May 20, and are scheduled to complete their work by June 15, 1964. Total cost of the projects is $415,000.

Of top priority is rebuilding the last 100 feet on each breakwater, Opine said. To fulfill the project, the Corps will drive 38-foot steel piles into the lake bottom six feet away from either side of each breakwater. The distance between the steel piles and the existing substructure will then be filled with gravel and the entire structure will be capped with 2½ feet of concrete.

Opine emphasized that they are not narrowing the channel, although the breakwater will be closer to the channel when the project is completed. On the end of each breakwater, a semi-circular structure of concrete will extend some 21 feet into the lake. This type of breakwater will weather better than the existing square-ended piers, Opine explained.

The existing breakwaters comprise a series of timber cribs, each 25 feet long, filled with stones and capped with concrete. They were constructed entirely of timber in 1906-07, and the concrete was added in 1932-33. There has been no maintenance on the piers since then, Opine said.

If there is a failure in the timbers, the stones fall out of the cribs, weakening the support of the concrete. Opine explained that timber failure in this case was caused by a wearing effect of the stones making holes in the timber and not by a rotting of the wood. If nothing were done about the substructure, the concrete would crack, and the breakwater would eventually fall into the lake, creating a navigational hazard.

The second project is to build a new system of "connector piers" between the breakwaters and the land. Large stones, quarried in Indiana, will be covered with an eight foot wide concrete walkway. Handrails will also be constructed.

The third project is to rebuild 166 feet of the channel wall or revetment, Opine continued. The construction of the revetment is very similar to that of the breakwater in that steel piles are driven into the water six feet out from the existing structure. These will then be connected by 2½ inch steel tie rods to an anchor wall of shorter (17 ft.) steel piles. (The purpose of the anchor wall is to keep the structure from falling into the channel). Gravel will be poured between the revetment and the existing wall and again the whole structure will be capped with concrete.

Opine noted that the channel walls were constructed in 1868 and capped with concrete blocks in 1929. A section of the revetment was rebuilt four years ago, and the present project is a continuation.

Opine mentioned speeding yachts and small craft in the channel as one of the biggest problems encountered in working on the breakwater. Water from a cruiser's wake could easily sweep a worker off the rafts used in working at the end of the pier, he said.

"We always blow a jam whistle, four or five short blasts, which means 'slow down' or 'stop,'" Opine said. "Many people seem to think we're saluting them and wave back," he commented.

Large Call Slated

GRAND HAVEN — The Ottawa County draft board has received a pre-induction examination call for 49 in September. This is the largest number in five years, according to the board.

A Cuban family of nine arrived in Holland last Friday under the sponsorship of the Montello Park Christian Reformed Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Fernandez and their seven children are living at 578 West 18th St. The family left Cuba July 23, 1962 and lived in Miami for nearly a year. They were members of Christian Reformed Churches in Cuba and in Miami.

In Cuba, they lived in Pinar del Rio, in the rich Vuelta Abajo tobacco growing area, where they owned a 495 acre farm. Fernandez was a plant clerk for Esso Standard Oil Cuba Division at the Pinar del Rio depot from 1949-1960. Mrs. Fernandez taught school for 16 years, and speaks some English as a result of teaching simple phrases to her classes. Neither has a job in Holland yet.

Mrs. Fernandez described her country as a "beautiful, dear land," but added vehemently that she would "never go back while the communists were there."

The eldest son, Juan, 16, said Holland was a beautiful town. "The streets are cleaner than Miami. Everybody is nice."

In September, all of the children will attend the Holland Christian Schools. They all know some English, but would like to practice by talking and visiting with Holland people.

September Vote Seen By Officials

State Director Plans Confab With Holland Before Setting Date

LANSING — Officials of the State Elections Director's office said Tuesday that petitions calling for a special election on the annexation of a part of the Federal district to the city of Holland have been approved and an election date will be set soon.

James Chapman, of the staff of elections Director Robert Montgomery, said that the election would probably be set for a date late in September.

He said he would confer with Holland city Clerk Donald Schipper and other officials about the setting of the date.

The area involved in the annexation proposal is bounded roughly by East Eighth St., Fairbanks Ave., 16th St. and 120th Ave. It extends a short distance north of East Eighth St., to include the Federal school and some other property. The area covers approximately one-third of a square mile.

The petitions seeking the annexation vote were filed in June with the Elections Director's office, which then conducted an investigation into their validity.

Attorney James Townsend filed the petitions on behalf of Mrs. Ella Zone, co-chairman of the Federal district committee promoting the political annexation to Holland.

Townsend said there were 410 signatures from residents of the district, city, and Holland Township on the petitions. He estimated the population in the proposed area of annexation as between 400 and 500.

The election will be held in three areas. In addition to the area proposed for annexation and Holland city precincts, the remainder of Holland Township outside the annexation area will vote on the issue.

The vote of the township and Holland city will be counted together, and the vote of the annexation area counted separately. Majorities are needed in both the combined city-township vote and the Federal district vote for annexation to be effected.

At the same time as the annexation vote, Holland city voters will register their preference on the proposed construction of a $125,000 outdoor swimming pool for Prospect Park in the southeast section of the city.

City Council at a June meeting approved a resolution calling for the "straw vote" on the swimming pool at the time of the next special election in Holland. The results of the swimming pool polling will not be binding on the city.

The James A. Hamilton Associates, which conducted previous space utilization studies on other occasions for Holland Hospital, has been studying total needs of the hospital and last spring released a preliminary report on an estimated $2,000,000 expansion program, which led to the application of the federal loan.

The next step will be to retain an architectural firm to work with Hamilton Associates in drawing up plans which generally call for expanding beds to 170 (now 138)

Auto Injuries For July Down

July has been a comparatively safe month on Holland streets. With children out of school and enjoying their vacation in the summer sun, this safety record is both surprising and gratifying, police said.

Even more so, when one is reminded that Holland had more traffic accidents for the first six months of 1963 than for the same period last year.

Police department records show that only seven persons have been injured in traffic accidents during the first three weeks of this month, as compared to 28 for July 1962.

Only one of the persons injured this month has been a pedestrian—a one-year-old girl who was struck by a car July 14 which was backing out of a driveway. All other injured persons were either drivers or passengers in motor vehicles.

A total of 621 accidents, not involving injury, were reported for the first six months of this year—an increase of 52 over the same period for last year. Of the persons injured in these accidents, eight were pedestrians and five were bicyclists.

Totals for June 1963 showed 16 persons injured in automobile accidents; of this figure two were pedestrians, and two were bicyclists.

Holland had had only one fatal accident this year.

Saugatuck MSU Report Under Study

School Survey Aims Toward Best Possible Educational Program

SAUGATUCK — A Citizens Advisory Committee headed by Milt Stahl is currently studying a school survey entitled "New Horizons for the Douglas-Saugatuck Schools" drawn up by consultants from the Michigan State University College of Education. Next meeting of the advisory committee is Thursday night.

Since the Douglas school district annexed to Saugatuck district May 13, the enlarged district now is looking to future needs in an effort to provide the best educational program possible for the district's 541 school children.

The Saugatuck-Douglas area presents a somewhat unique picture in the history of school enrollments. Although the community has a great influx of summer residents, the permanent resident population remains quite stable. Future growth possibilities seem quite limited, although even very small changes in the community can cause decided enrollment revisions.

Location of new industry could result in increased employment opportunities that could cause subsequent pupil population growths. The development of the limited access highway could cause the area to become a bedroom community for Holland, Grand Rapids or Benton Harbor. If increased numbers of workers should build homes in the Saugatuck-Douglas community, school enrollments would probably increase substantially.

The prevailing attitude at present seems to emphasize the resort nature of the community. This seems to preclude industrial development and thus limit any large growth in population. Because of all these factors, the MSU report recommends that pupil projections be studied annually.

On expenditure per pupil, Saugatuck rates in the upper 25 per cent of Michigan school districts; on pupils enrolled, Saugatuck ranks in the lowest 25 per cent; on millage levied, Saugatuck ranks among the upper middle 25 per cent, and on wealth of a school district, upper 25 per cent.

But when all these cost factors are averaged together, Saugatuck shows up a little better than an average district for all four cost factors. One particular factor makes the average go down and that is the number enrolled, 541, whereas the average number in a school district is about 2,000.

It was the judgment of the MSU team that the over-all quality of education is about average or a little less, reflecting mainly the limitations of a small district and certain inadequate facilities. Another reason may be that no teacher presently holds an advanced degree, and that seven of the 22 teachers employed have no college degree, although there are no non-degree teachers in the high school. It must be said that all degree teachers presently are taking advanced work and some are enrolled in university programs leading to a master's degree. Several non-degree teachers presently are completing undergraduate degrees.

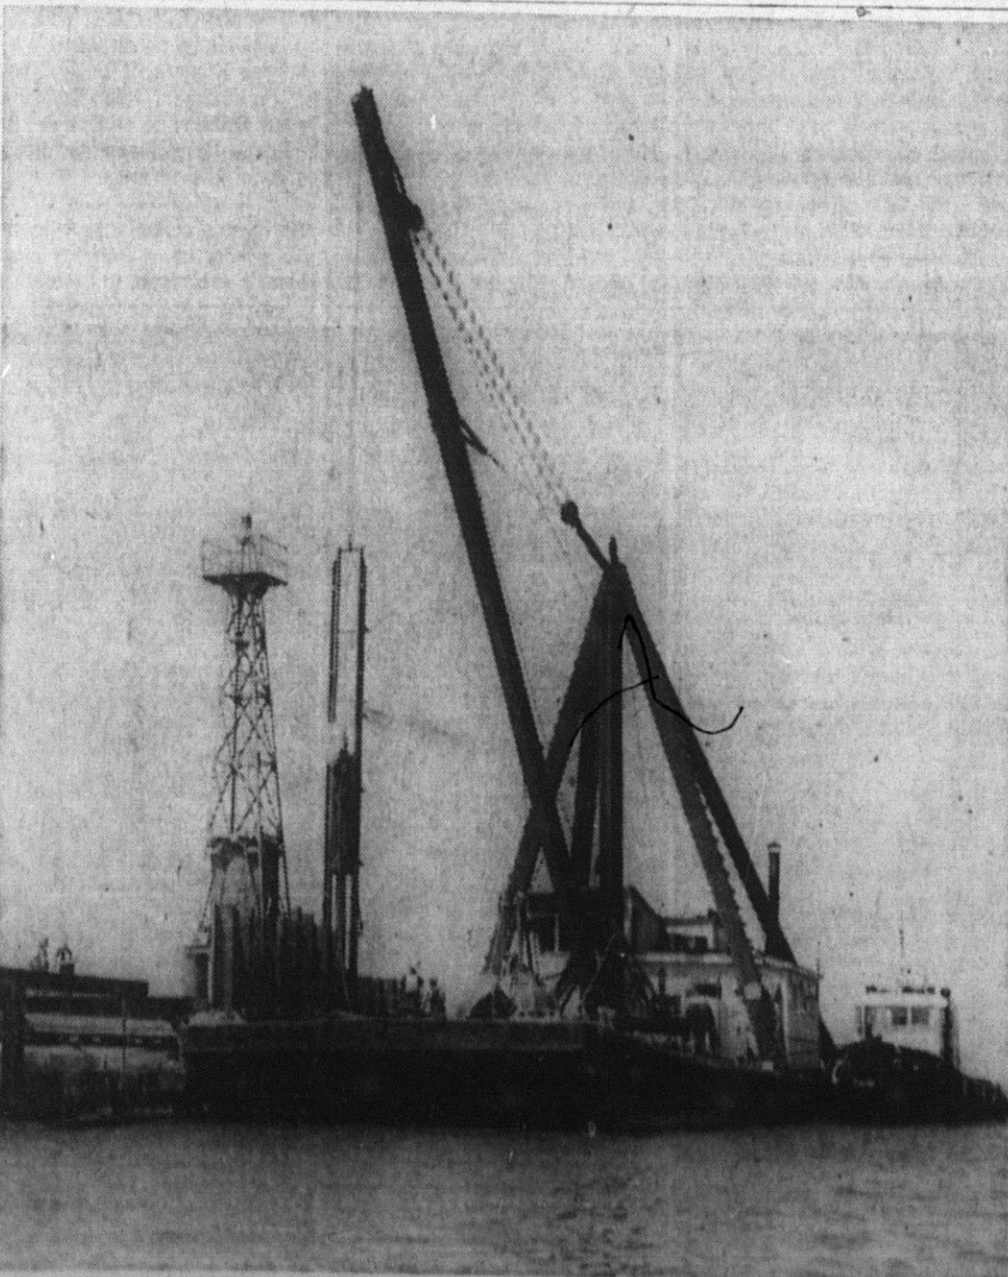

The report recommends converting the library into an instructional materials center and recommends continuation of the hot lunch program with an enlarged food preparation service. It also commended the testing program for the elementary school program now planned.

To facilitate the work of the building administrator (principal), it was recommended a secretary be employed to assist him. Also recommended was a foreign language laboratory section, plus an analysis to determine the need for extending instruction of foreign languages into the elementary school.

Because more than 50 per cent of the students do not go on to college, the MSU report suggests that the faculty re-examine the home economics program and the vocational education program to see what could be done to reflect the resort-business characteristic of Saugatuck and Douglas into the curriculum of the school and to prepare students to contribute to the economy of the area through a better training and understanding of the service economy of the area.

The report also included a 14-point recommendation on improvements in plant and curriculum, ranging from developing the athletic field as a school-community project for year-round utilization to providing storage room and work rooms for teachers.

The five-member team spent three days in the area studying the school program and obtained a good share of its information from Supt. Kenneth De Pree. Serving on the MSU team were W. James Giddis, study coordinator, and Consultants Kenneth M. Glass, Floyd G. Parker, Herbert C. Rudman and Herbert H. Sheathelm.

AT THE BREAKWATER — Members of the Army Corps of Engineers, Chicago District, on Derrick No. 7 are at work rebuilding the breakwater at the channel entrance near Holland State Park. The Corps is also reconstructing part of the channel wall and building a set of connector piers between the breakwaters and the land which will make it possible for people to walk out to the breakwaters. In the above picture, a pile driver using 8,750 foot-pounds of energy drives a 38 foot steel pile weighing half a ton into the lake bottom. (Sentinel photo)

RECONSTRUCTION — Workmen from the Army Corps of Engineers are driving 38 foot steel piles into the lake bottom as one step in rebuilding the outer 100 feet of the breakwaters at the channel entrance near Holland State Park. The Corps is also constructing connector piers between the breakwaters and the land. These walkways complete with handrails will enable people to walk from the sand to the end of the breakwaters. The Corps is also rebuilding a section of the channel wall. The three projects are scheduled for completion by June 15, 1964 at a total cost of $415,000. In the above picture, piles are being driven six feet out from either side of the existing breakwaters. Steel rods (foreground) connect the steel piles to function as a brace. Gravel will be poured between the steel piles and the old breakwaters and the entire structure will be capped with concrete.

MERRY MOWING MACHINE — There's a big Holland High School athletic practice field at 22nd St. and Maple Ave., and these three Holland High School custodians had to mow it today. The problem was how to get maximum efficiency out of two hand-pushed rotary lawn mowers, the only equipment available under the public schools' present austerity program. The answer, they decided, was to put the school's war surplus jeep to work as a "horse." And so they did, riding around and around the practice field, pushing one mower in front and pulling the other behind. "It may look strange," they admitted, "but it sure beats walking behind those mowers." In action (left to right) are Sid Woudstra, Harve Bruschart and Bruce Ming.

Strike Hinders Construction

ALLEDALE — Labor trouble still plagues construction at Grand Valley State College but school officials insist classes will start on schedule Sept. 30.

The first two buildings of Michigan's newest state college are under construction by Owen-Ames-Kimball Co. of Grand Rapids.

The firm has asked the State Administrative Board to extend completion deadlines from Aug. 5 to Sept. 13. Otherwise the firm will have to pay financial penalties of several hundred dollars a day.

The projects were hampered first by the severe winter, then a month-long area carpenters strike. A walkout July 1 by pipe coverers and insulators now "is beginning to hamper us," said company president Grant Smith.

However, GVSC Vice President Philip W. Buchen said Thursday the contractor has assured him the first building, Lake Michigan Hall, will be ready in time for classes if the latest strike is settled soon.

Lake Superior Hall is scheduled for occupancy by the Thanksgiving holiday. It will house students, faculty and administrative offices.

Bosman Will Head Drive To Raise $250,000 Fund

Clarence Jalving, president of the Holland Economic Development Corp., today announced the appointment of Mayor Nelson Bosman as general chairman of a campaign to raise $250,000 from area citizens to help bring new business and industry into the Holland area and to aid in the expansion of present industry.

The executive committee consisting of Jay H. Petter, George Heeringa and Jalving, appointed the mayor because of his great interest in this most needed project.

Petter has been asked to assume the post of chairman of the finance committee. He is a former president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Roger MacLeod, former president of Holland Jaycees and a state director of this organization will serve as publicity chairman. Dr. James B. Ray, industrial development funding expert for the National Fund Raising Services in Chicago, will direct the campaign. The program is conservatively estimated to bring an additional 700,000 square feet of industrial buildings which will bring employment to an estimated 4,500 more persons by 1970 which would result in $15,000,000 annual personal income for the retail trade of the area.

The money will be used along with assets derived from the sale of bonds floated by the corporation to aid in:

1. Expansion of local industry.
2. Relocation of industries in the local area.
3. New industrial and business ventures.

4. Pay for and develop the newly acquired industrial tract on US-31 bypass in the southwestern part of the city.

Since this is an area project with many benefiting, other communities are being asked to participate with Holland. Leaders in Zeeland area already have responded and are now organizing to extend the campaign in that area, according to corporation officials.

Cyclists Make 115-Mile Trip To Holland

"Sure, we're all right. We're fine. A little sore, maybe..."

Not surprising after 115 miles on a bicycle. That's the distance from Nappanee, Ind., to Holland. Three Nappanee teenagers pedaled it Thursday and Friday.

Wayne Berger, 17, Jim Snider, 15, and Wayne's cousin, Don Berger, 14, arrived Friday at 11 a.m. at the home of Wayne's uncle, Easton W. Williams of 132 East 30th St.

Wayne's father, Richard Berger, was here too, ready to drive them back to Nappanee, bicycles, sleeping bags and all.

The trio started out from Nappanee at 11 a.m. Thursday, and pedaled all the way to Paw Paw, Mich., via Indiana highway 15, M-19 and M-40.

At Paw Paw, they said, the police permitted them to lay out their sleeping bags outside the police station, to get some sleep before resuming the trip this morning.

It didn't quite work out that way. It rained during the night, they said, and they had to take refuge in an all-night laundromat.

But Friday morning they were back on the road about 6 a.m., they said, and pulled into Holland at 11 a.m.

They said they ate only twice while on the road, taking supper Thursday and breakfast early morning in Paw Paw.

After allowing for the time they took to eat and sleep at Paw Paw, they said they maintained an over-the-road average speed of slightly more than ten miles per hour.

How do they feel?

"Well, we're glad we don't have to ride bicycles all the way back. It's a long pull, and we're beginning to feel it just a bit. We only walked up one hill on the whole trip."

"Right now, we want a swim."

Ottawa County 4-H News

By Willis S. Boss

County Extension Agent, 4-H

The Holland Fair will have entries coming in for 4-H on Monday, July 29, from 1 to 8 p.m. Note the time. Entries in livestock should be registered with the leader contacting Willis S. Boss or Mr. Bosworth. All other exhibits should be brought into the Community Building and Mrs. Grace Vander Kolk should be contacted. Entry procedure will be done the same as last year and if some of you are not familiar with it, this can be explained to you upon your arrival.

Special notice to horse project leaders — horses will be judged on Wednesday, July 31, and entries will be made on Wednesday noon. Judging will proceed in the afternoon with horses released following the last class of judging. Holland members will be the only ones allowed to keep horses on the fair grounds during the week of the Holland Fair. There will be no dairy cavalcade but there will be a parade of the dairy winners on Wednesday evening just before the horse races.

Delegates to go on the Washington, D.C. trip will meet at the Allendale Public School on Thursday, July 25, at 8 p.m. The purpose of this meeting will be to acquaint the delegates with the trip procedure. The Ottawa County 4-H members who will represent Ottawa County on this trip are Paulette McNitt, Jane Kamps, Bonnie Lou Andre, Sally McNitt, Lona Grossenbacher, Laura Cheyne, Gerald Hewitt, William Rose, and Don Smalligan.

I would also call to your attention the club or local group exhibits, section 70 of each fair book. This is an exhibit to be put in the form of a booth with a very limited amount of space and should tell the story of the group or phase of project work. Any and all clubs are invited to take part in making up a booth of this nature.

Rather than sending any spring achievement day winners to State Show, the council is making a display in the form of a booth for all the fairs which will start at Holland and end at Marne. Members who have been chosen winners in the different projects are as follows: Conservation — Pat

MICHIGAN AND CHERRIES

July is the month of cherries, and cherries are almost synonymous with Michigan. It has been said that "Michigan raises half of the cherries of the world and that half of Michigans' crop is grown in the region of which Traverse City, on Grand Traverse Bay, is the center." It was in this region that the first cherry orchard was planted by B. J. Morgan early in the century. He picked his first crop in 1903 and surprised his neighbors by selling it at a very satisfactory price.

From this small beginning the industry has developed to its present proportions, and in 1928 the business men of Traverse City, recognizing the economic importance of the cherry industry, arranged the National Cherry Festival. The significance of the festival was defined by Arthur H. Vandenberg, late Senator from Michigan at the festival in 1931:

"The National Cherry Festival in Northwestern Michigan is one of the important events of our national life. The country as a whole will come to acknowledge this fact as time goes on. In the Japanese empire the cherry festival has long possessed the imaginations of the people and has become one of their great and useful symbolisms. It is a very beautiful and thrilling thing to observe the universal enthusiasm with which the Japanese empire greets its cherry blossoms. But they are blossoms without fruit. Here in our own country we have not only the beauty and idealism and inspiration which flower with a fully equivalent display of blossoms: we also have the utility which comes with a great contribution to the wholesome and delectable food supply of the American people. In other words, we have even more to celebrate and more to praise and more to be thankful for than our great neighbors across the Pacific who enjoy a worldwide fame upon this score."

Sometimes it is a good thing to recall our own accomplishments and to count our blessings.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, July 28

"Where is Your Brother?"

Genesis 4:1-10

By C. P. Dame

The question which heads our lesson is as timely now as it was when God asked it centuries ago. In a nation where racial conflicts and tensions around this question is deserving of consideration.

1. Sin expresses itself in words and deeds. Adam and Eve were the first people to enjoy parenthood. As they beheld their first child they marvelled and realized that they too were creators.

Eve was highly pleased with the birth of a son whom she called Cain which means, "I have gotten a man from the Lord." This is the last statement we have from Eve. Perhaps Eve thought that God had fulfilled the promise He had made that the seed of the woman would bruise the head of Satan.

The second child received the name Abel which means "nothingness" "breath" or "vanity." We wonder why the child was given such a name.

The two brothers grew up together. Although they had the same heredity they were very different. Cain became a farmer and Abel a shepherd—both occupations are man's oldest. Both brothers worshipped and brought an offering to the Lord. Worship is old. Cain brought the first fruit of the ground while Abel presented the firstlings of the flock. Both offered the best.

"And the Lord had respect unto Abel and to his offering; but unto Cain and to his offering He had not respect." Why not? It was not due to the difference in the offerings.

In Hebrews 11:4 we read why. "By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous."

This made Cain angry. He revealed his sinful nature which he had inherited from his sinful parents. God warned Cain but he did not heed. His hate expressed itself in jealousy and he slew his brother.

II. God sees man's sins. "And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother?" By virtue of creation all men are brothers regardless of race or color. We are all descendants of one human pair. All men ought to be conscious of brotherhood based on creation and recognize the responsibilities involved. Christians must ever remember the spiritual brotherhood based upon redemption.

Cain's answer to God, "I know not; Am I my brother's keeper?" showed a cold indifference. He lied to God. One sin is usually followed by another. His answer showed that he had no sense of responsibility to his brother nor to God. Sin makes people self-centered. The more sin abounds the less brotherliness there is.

III. God punishes sin. Cain's parents sinned and were punished. This Cain knew very well. God told Cain that He knew what he had done. "And now art thou cursed from the earth" and besides he was told that he would be a fugitive and a vagabond on the earth—he would have no security.

When Cain heard of his punishment he said, "My punishment is greater than I can bear." In mercy God put a mark on Cain. What that was we do not know. Cain learned that by wronging his brother he wronged God.

Remember that God is holy and just and hates sin and punishes it. There is pardon for the penitent, for the blood of Abel "speaks better things than that of Abel."

Federal District Votes 1.31 Mills

Federal school district at a special school meeting Monday approved an additional 1.31 mills for operations by a vote of 55 to 42. At an earlier meeting this month the district had approved a 1 mill increase for repairs to the school.

Total millage to be raised for school operations this year amounts to 11.2 mills, an over-all decrease of 1.1 mills from last year. This amounts to $26.32 per $1,000 assessed valuation, a decrease of $2.60 per $1,000. The district has no debt.

Children in Final Week Of Summer Ceramics

About 475 students, ages 7 to 16, are in their final week of a seven-week summer program of ceramic classes at Longfellow and Van Raalte schools. The classes, which were held three times daily to meet the number of students, were designed to give the students an opportunity to work creatively with modeling clay and in decorating of precast greenware.

As a final part of their program, the students have been displaying some of their works in a store window on River Ave. and Eighth St. the last week.

The display should be exhibited through this Wednesday, according to Carole Elferdink, director of the ceramics program. Miss Elferdink, a Hope student has been with the ceramics program for six years. She is assisted by three other girls.

The number of students has increased this year by about 40 students, she said, thus requiring three classes a day. The students meet every other day to sand and paint the greenware or work creatively with modeling clay.

The student pays only for the materials he uses. The greenware, supplied to the school children by Mrs. Andries Steketee, includes everything from small figurines to vases, dishes and ashtrays.

The ceramics process usually includes sanding the greenware, sponging it, and then firing it in a kiln. After the first firing, the greenware is called bisque and is then glazed and fired again. In small projects, when more than one color is used, the greenwares are underglazed (painted) before the first firing.

2 School Board Members Propose Budget Changes

Two new members of the Board of Education, James O. Lamb and Arthur H. Seddon, advanced separate programs for what they termed savings in the new school budget at a meeting of the Board of Education at 4 p.m. Monday in the high school library.

Although considerable discussion followed, no definite action was taken and all ideas were referred to the finance committee headed by Treasurer Albert Schaafsma for further study.

The $1.7 million budget was adopted by the board July 8 with the two new members dissenting.

Monday's meeting was the first so-called "second meeting of the month" which will be held the fourth Monday of each month mainly for curriculum and personnel purposes. Although some routine business was transacted, most of the session was devoted to a continuation of budget discussion, and President Harvey Butler said to it that all other items of business were processed before the budget discussion ensued. According to plan, the meeting adjourned promptly at 6 p.m.

Lamb felt that in drafting the 1963-64 budget, the finance committee had been unnecessarily pessimistic about certain revenues and felt that the board safely could figure on another $33,000. Seddon had estimated $26,200.

Lamb had earmarked the budget revenues he felt were unrealistic and Seddon had figured savings could be made by adding one man to the maintenance department instead of four, and cutting 10 per cent from new furnishings and equipment.

Lamb felt more funds could be available from vacation education, driver education, delinquent taxes, West Ottawa co-op, income on investments, Hope College, athletic program and tuition.

Financial secretary Thelma Dalman explained reasoning behind the revenue figures and treasurer Schaafsma defended the figures, stating that some figures were left blank because the committee felt sound financing is possible only when the board is "sure" of such revenue.

Schaafsma conceded one point on possible revenues for teacher training. This program had been dropped last year in the austerity program and then was reinstated following a financial arrangement with Hope College. With a change in administration at the college, conferences awaited the arrival of the new college president.

Lamb felt the teacher training program should be dropped because of the expense involved, although ordinarily he would favor such a program but not at the expense of general education. William Gargano differed sharply, stating that the on-the-job training of college students in public school classrooms is an invaluable aid in selecting the best of available new teachers.

In proposing changes for the coming year, Lamb proposed spending 70 per cent of the $33,000 "savings" by hiring two elementary teachers, providing principals or teaching principals in both Washington and Lincoln schools, providing an assistant principal or teaching principal in west junior high, and providing extra clerical assistance in the business office.

Without giving a full outline, Seddon proposed hiring four more elementary teachers. He was of the opinion that the board should not adhere too closely to a "balanced budget" at the cost of good education.

Schaafsma said he could not accept figures advanced by the two board members without carefully studying all figures. He said the board has no choice but to practice caution in estimating revenues and resented dramatic statements such as "11 per cent reductions or increases" without a thorough study.

He said he felt the same way about a statement made at the July 8 meeting that the high school program was advanced at the cost of elementary education—a statement he felt was unfair and unproved. He concluded, "We have carefully studied every entry in the budget. I don't think we have the money for these proposed changes."

In other business, the board approved the superintendent's recommendation to hire Mrs. Ida Faas to teach English in Junior High. Mrs. Faas, a graduate of Western Michigan University, has taught one year at Vicksburg and has been a substitute teacher in Kalamazoo and Holland.

Supt. Walter W. Scott reported on a tour of school buildings taken by the two new members of the board, Buildings and Grounds Supt. Ed Prins and himself. Work is progressing on the new school at Holland Heights and Prins is arranging for his staff to assist in cleanup and moving in furniture in advance of the opening of school.

The board approved transfer of Tom Carey from junior high counselor to senior high school, and the appointment of William Noyd as junior high counselor. Carey sought the transfer since he is serving as assistant varsity football coach. The board also approved establishing the position of a college admissions secretary for one year to work out of the high school principal's office. This service will provide extra time for the counselor to devote to boys and girls.

A letter from Joseph Moran, school athletic director and city recreation director, questioning the division of remuneration and time was referred to the personnel committee for study and report back.

The board authorized the administration to make application for funds through the National Defense Education Act for aid to science, mathematics and languages. If approved, the federal government would pay 43 per cent of the program. The proposed program lists $10,911 for the coming year.

All members were present with the exception of Harry Frissel who is studying in Washington, D.C. President Butler gave the invocation.

Only 28 per cent of the human race are Christians, and of these half are Catholics.

Questionnaire Will Be Mailed To Residents

Approximately 3,500 residents of Holland will be receiving questionnaires early next week as part of a survey being conducted by the Holland Jaycees to determine public attitudes towards several proposed community developments.

The Jaycees hope to use the results of the survey as a guide in helping them to determine how they may more effectively serve the community.

The comprehensive questionnaire will sample opinions on projects which include a city owned and operated swimming pool, a municipal golf course, city garbage collection, free municipal parking lots in the central business district, and improved airport facilities.

An attempt will also be made to determine how residents feel about services currently provided by the city, including park and recreational facilities, library and public school systems, and water and sewage service. Also included is a question sampling opinions towards newspaper and radio service.

The idea for a survey of this sort originated with the Jaycees nearly a year ago, and the project was assigned to the planning committee, under the leadership of Terry Hofmeyer, planning director.

The results of the survey will be compiled by this year's planning committee headed by Charles Bradford. General Electric has volunteered the use of their equipment in helping to tabulate the results.

Hofmeyer asked that residents fill out the forms completely, they need not give their name, and return them to the Jaycees in the post-paid envelope as soon as possible.

London "bobbies" trace their nickname to Sir Robert Peel, who was responsible for the Metropolitan Police Act of 1829.

Ottawa County Farm News

By Richard Machiele

Extension Agent, Agriculture

Farmers looking for ideas on how to make money on a 200-acre, 40 cow dairy farm or ways to mechanically feed 250 steers and 400 swine should reserve Aug. 7. The two stops on the State Farm Management Tour in Barry county scheduled for that date may offer some suggestions.

Each year Michigan Cooperative Extension Service farm management specialists plan this summer event. The county extension staff and a local committee assist in staging the farm visits. This year visitors will start at 9:30 a.m. at the Robert Gaskill's purebred Holstein dairy farm at Dowling, south of Hastings. This low cost operation is typical of many small to medium-sized dairy farms in Michigan.

After a noon luncheon and a program at Charlton Park, visitors will move to the George C. Coats and Sons farm at Coats Grove. Here two Michigan State University graduates operate a 495-acre corn growing and livestock feeding program. Max and Kendall Coats have 73 per cent of their tillable land in corn. They feed it mechanically to 250 steers and 400 feeder pigs. The county extension director advises that farmers wanting more information on the event can contact the county extension office for details.

We have received word of the classification of Holstein herds and are happy to see that more of our herds were classified this past year. The Holstein-Friesian Association has informed us the following herds were classified: Robert Nelson Aukeman, Clarence Post, Marvin Post, Neil Post, all of Byron Center; Elmo Heft, Conklin; Gerrit J. Butts & Sons, Coopersville; Gerrit Meekhof, Grandville; A. J. Bajema and Frank Van Netten, Hudsonville.

Summer Pests Invade Homes

ALLEGAN — Home invading pests are likely to arrive at this time of year, according to Mary E. Bullis, County Extension Agent, Home Economics. These pests usually live outside the home, but seem to come in through doors, windows or loose siding.

Beetles, crickets, mites and spiders are common invaders. In July the strawberry root weevil often appears in bathtubs, cupboards, floors or ceilings. They are hard-shelled, blackish brown in color and about one-fourth inch long. As far as known this weevil causes no damage to clothes and food, but it does become a nuisance.

No insecticide is satisfactory once they are in a building, says Ray James, entomology specialist of M.S.U. A fly spray will give some control and vacuum cleaning will gather them up.

For outside control selected insecticides can be used, remembering that care must be taken and directions followed, says Miss Bullis.

Bulletins are available free at the Cooperative Extension Office on control of insects about the home and yard.

STOP FIRES BEFORE THEY START

by observing a few simple precautions

1. Make sure your heating system is in good operating condition. Check pipes for adequate clearance; chimneys for needed repairs.
2. Keep electrical servants in good repair. Appliances last longer and give better service when they're treated right. Over loading circuits is dangerous. Add electrical capacity to handle added appliances where necessary.
3. Good housekeeping, practiced inside and outside of the home, makes good "fire prevention" sense. Think twice about: stow-away or throw-away items, and don't give fires a place to start.
4. Play it safe! Develop fire safety habits around your home and provide adequate fire insurance coverage to take care of losses in the event you do have a fire.

BEACHCOMBER—The life guards at Holland State Park are, as part of their job, assigned to a burial detail. But, along this line, their only concern is dead fish, and mainly the shad, a salt-water native which has migrated up the St. Lawrence Seaway, but failed to adapt to his fresh water environment. Bruce Himevaugh, of Quincy, is pictured going through the ritual. (Sentinel photo)

Dead Fish Litter Lake Shoreline

The St. Lawrence Seaway has brought many visitors to our shores—some unexpected, and a few unwelcomed. Among the undesirable is the shad, a fish of the herring family, but differing from a regular herring in its larger girth.

The shad, or alewife—so called because of the distance around its middle, may be found washed up on the beaches all along Lake Michigan. The dead fish are particularly plentiful after storms.

Life Guards at Holland State Park have the daily chore of raking the beaches and burying the dead fish away from the swimming area. At times park officials say the fish have been carried away by the trailer load.

The shad is normally found in the Atlantic Ocean, close to the North American continent. During the Spring, they leave their salt-water environment and swim up the larger rivers, there to nest. Some apparently never quite settle down.

Authorities say that the shad fails to adapt completely to the fresh water and after some time dies in his new environment.

Usually about six inches long, the shad has a dark back and a silver underside. It is considered completely worthless as a game fish, and is considered a nuisance by commercial fishermen who have to fish the shad out of their nets.
