Allegan Plans Full Program For Annual Fair

$25,500 in Premiums
Offered for Exhibits;
Other Features Listed

Allegan (Special)—Distribution of 3,000 copies of the 224-page fact-filled premium book heralds Allegan county's annual fair Sept. 11-16.

Along with $25,500 in premiums for exhibits, the book lists a full week of entertainment including some new features.

The week will start with the Jole Chitwood auto thrill show, with two events before the grandstand in the evening.

Tuesday, Children's day, will have some new contests for the thousands of youngsters who attend annually. A dog show will offer prizes for the canine with the longest ears, longest tail, and other features. A rural school relay, open to every country school in the county, will be run on the half-mile track, with eight members on a team. Officials plan to start clocking running races this year, in order to set up prizes for record-breaking sprints.

In addition, there will be pony and foot races, with all entrants getting a free ticket for a mid-way ride.

Tuesday night also will open the five-day run of Sam Howard's Aqua-Thrill show, coming here from the Canadian National exhibition, for its only Michigan showing. Interspersed with the water show will be imported circus acts. Double performances of this attraction are set from Thursday through Saturday evenings.

The horse-racing program starts Wednesday, with three events daily through Saturday for a total of $12,000 in purses. Team-pulling contests go on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. Running races will highlight each day's speed program; 4-H and FFA calf scrambles are on Friday and Saturday.

On the exhibit side of the fair, one department was totally dropped, due to crowded conditions, officials announced. Flower exhibitors were promised that while they would not get space this year, it was hoped the division could be resumed next year.

Livestock premium lists have been adjusted to more nearly suit the entries brought each year. The committee eliminated some classes that had not received one entrant in several fairs.

The agricultural society which sponsors the fair, is headed by E. W. DeLano, as president; T. R. Ward and Pearl Cochran, vice-presidents; J. H. Snow, secretary; George Horan, treasurer, and W. L. McClelland, speed secretary.

The finance committee includes Verna J. Reynolds, Weldon Rumery and Charles Barton; the directors are A. D. Morley, E. T. Bargwell, John Ake, Ernest Dalmair, Keith Moored, Horan, Clair McOmber, H. D. Tripp, Cochran and Ward. A farmers' advisory committee consists of Walter Wightman, Thomas Kelsey and J. H. Albers.

Sam Lost Arm 60 Years Ago

It was just 60 years ago Monday that Sam Miller lost his arm. It was 6:30 in the morning when Miller tripped over a pile of cinders during switching operations in the yard and stumbled onto the tracks. His arm was amputated in an upstairs room of the St. Charles hotel, located on Eighth St. near Lincoln Ave. Four physicians assisted—Dr. Yates, Dr. Mabos, Dr. Scouten and Dr. Kremer.

Back in those days, the railroad was not responsible for accidents on the road, and after paying the doctors' bills . . . that was all.

After that, Miller conducted a shorthand school, served as a telegraph operator at Waverly, operated a restaurant at Waverly until it was destroyed by fire (no insurance), and then opened Miller's restaurant at the depot which was moved out in 1925 when the new depot was built.

"I was a victim of the automobile age," Miller recalls. "After the car came into being, people didn't use the trains much any more, and the restaurant wasn't located where cars traveled."

Fennville Denies Cherry Rationing For Record Crop

Processors Making Every Effort to Can
All Fruits Offered

Allegan (Special)—With Southwestern Michigan fruit growers at the peak of harvesting their share of the state's biggest cherry crop in history, assurance came from processors today that they were making every effort to can all the fruit offered.

Reported "rationing" of grower's market offerings were denied by Marc Hutchinson, head of Michigan Fruit Cannery, Inc., at Fennville.

"With the help of growers in harvesting to avoid an overload on one particular day, we believe we can handle all of the crop," Hutchinson said.

Southwestern Michigan's annual cherry crop which probably averages 24 million pounds, will run to 30 million pounds, or 15,000 tons this year, Hutchinson estimated. The state is expected to market 75,000 tons.

Some of the output is expected to be directed into governmental channels, with canners now studying bids. The Commodity Credit corporation is offering to buy a half-million cases of cherries from processors and will pay seven cents a pound; and the veterans administration is asking for bids on 100,000 cases.

Cherry growers have watched last year's nine cent a pound price drop to six, so far this year. But with orchards producing from five to 15 tons an acre, some of the better farms are getting as much as $1,800 an acre from the fruit.

Grand Haven (Special)—Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith is expected to rule soon on a motion to set aside a temporary injunction restraining Jamestown township from improving any township roads other than a two-mile stretch on Adams St. (16th St.) in the vicinity of Gitchel.

A motion to set aside the temporary injunction was heard early this week. Briefs are to be filed within a week, after which the court will render a decision.

Suit was started June 28 by Cornelius Patmos, Glenn Gitchel and Sylvester Schaeffer, members of Jamestown township board.

The declaration sets forth that $12,000 was available for building roads wherever voters decided it should be spent.

family quarrel over the operation of Blue Lantern tavern at Douglas which Powers sold to Strampel and his wife in January, 1949. Sheriff Johnson said Powers had been ordered by the state liquor commission to sell or close the tavern because of complaints about its operation.

Former Douglas Tavern Keeper Held for Murder

Allegan (Special)—Melbourne Powers, 59, former Douglas tavern keeper, demanded examination Monday before Municipal Judge Ervin Andrews on murder charges, and was remanded to county jail here without bond pending hearings.

Powers was accused of murder in a warrant in the rifle slaying of his son-in-law, Albert Strampel, 28-year-old Douglas tavern keeper and World War II veteran who lost a leg at Okinawa.

Strampel died Sunday at 3:50 a.m. in Douglas Community hospital where he was taken following the shooting Friday night. The shooting climaxed a 10-day family fight over operation of the Blue Lantern Tavern which Powers sold to Strampel and his wife in January, 1949. The 22 rifle bullet went through Strampel's stomach, through his liver and lodged in his back. Physicians were unable to remove it.

Powers' examination was set for Aug. 1 when municipal court will decide if there is sufficient evidence to take the case to trial. Prosecutor Chester Ray said the charge was based on evidence obtained by state police that Strampel was seated when he was shot.

Powers, who readily admitted the shooting, said he shot Strampel in self defense after the 235-pound veteran started for him.

Ray said if the lower court binds Powers to circuit court, the murder trial would be heard after the next term opens in September.

The shooting climaxed a family feud during which Strampel and his wife, the former Betty Jane Powers, became estranged.

Maintaining he fired in self defense, Powers said, "He had choked me twice and had threatened my life many times. He had drunk six bottles of champagne in the afternoon. Liquor turned him from a man into a maniac."

Powers said the feud grew hotter after Strampel returned from a six-day Chicago trip several days ago. "He offered to get out of the business if his wife would give him the $2,000 he had invested in the tavern, but Friday he changed his mind and cleared out the tavern till of 140 and threatened to continue helping himself," Powers said.

"I called O. L. Ensfield, my banker, to tell him what was going on. I also borrowed a gun from a neighbor. When Ensfield arrived, Strampel started for me and I grabbed the gun. I was surprised when the gun went off. I only meant to scare him," Powers related.

Witnesses to the shooting were listed as Mrs. Powers; a brother, Roy Powers; Ensfield and his son, Orrin, Jr., and Mrs. Strampel.

Assisting in the investigation were Sheriff Louis A. Johnson, State Police Detective Victor Beck, Troopers William Eichler and William Ogden, and Douglas policeman Red Dalke.

Surviving are the wife; two sons, Michael Carl and William Durkee; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Strampel, route 1, East Saugatuck; a brother, Arthur of Chicago; three sisters, Mrs. Lorraine Muller of Bangor, Mrs. Beatrice Holquist and Mrs. Ruth St. Perri of Chicago.

Allegan (Special)—When the murder charge against Melbourne Powers gets its first test next Tuesday, two points of evidence will be used to challenge the Douglas man's contention of self defense when he shot his son-in-law last Friday night.

Prosecutor Chester Ray said Powers, in borrowing the old 22 rifle from a neighbor, explained he wanted to shoot his dog which had been crippled by a car.

Win Wild Tussle On Five-Run 9th Inning Outburst

Walks Key to Win As Czerkies, Van Dorpe
Furnish Telling Blows

A never-say-die band of Holland Flying Dutchmen showed their championship mettle Monday night by staging a stirring five-run ninth inning last-ditch rally to come from behind and whip a classy Chicago American Giants nine 15-14 in a free-wheeling contest at Riverview park.

The game drew one of the best crowds of the season even though the evening got a bit chilly, and the hardy patrons saw a game which will linger long in their memories. It was by far the finest and most thrilling game of the season for the locals.

The wild-scoring affair had everything.

The patrons, who sat for over three hours saw eight pitchers parade to the mound, five for the invaders and three for the local Dutchmen. Frank Wlodarczyk, who tossed the final inning for the Dutchmen, received credit for his first win of the season.

The victory ups the Dutchmen record to above the .500 mark, giving them nine wins and eight losses for season's play.

With little Lou Humbert on the slab for the locals the hard-hitting Giants opened the scoring with a pair of tallies in the first. Butch McCord accounted for both runs when he parked a Humbert gopher ball on a line over the left centerfield fence some 375 feet from home plate.

The Dutchman got one back in their first on a walk to Ron Fortney and hits by Lou Borgman and Gene Schrotenboer.

A tie ensued when Whitey Witteveen singled to open the second went to second on Jack Van Dorpe's sacrifice and scored on Fortney's hit.

The Giants took a 5-2 lead in their third on Lou Brenham's homer with two mates aboard. John Washington, the Giants opening hurler, gave way to Lou Cherban in the third and the Dutchmen pounced on him for a pair of tallies to make it 5-4.

Walks to Borgman and Wlodarczyk and a mighty triple by Schrotenboer accounted for the brace of runs.

But the Giants drove Humbert to cover and brought young Jim Hagadone to the hill in the fourth with four runs, making it 9-4.

Not to be outdone, the locals drove Cherban out in the fourth and brought Sam Douglas to the mound to retire the side. Cherban brought about his own demise when he gave up a hit to Borgman and walked Wlodarczyk and Schrotenboer to load the bases. It was at this point that George Czerkies, blasted the most important hit of the evening, a mountainous drive which carried to the top of the grandstand in left for a grand slam home run.

The drive left the Dutchmen with a one run deficit 9-5. Hagadone was the victim of Wlodarczyk's two-base throwing error which netted the Chicago team a tally in the seventh.

But the locals came back with the aid of a timely error to tie the count at 10-10 in their seventh. Witteveen's routine short fly in right eluded the outstretched hands of McCord, and two Dutchmen runners scampered across to tie the score.

The hard-hitting Giants broke loose for three tallies in the eighth and one in the ninth and it looked like it was all over but the shouting.

But this was reckoning without the determination of the Dutchmen. With some of the fans trickling out of the park, Borgman opened the ninth with a walk. Wlodarczyk grounded out, but Schrotenboer worked George Owens, the Giants fourth chucker, for another pass.

Czerkies also was passed loading the bases. Witteveen kept the rally alive with a single to center, which scored Borgman.

Van Dorpe then bashed a double which skidded into the right-field corner scoring all three runners and tying the score at 14-14.

Harold Van Wieren and Fortney both walked to load the sacks again. At this point the Dutchmen strategy called for the squeeze which Ron Appledorn delivered in fine fashion, with Van Dorpe storming across the plate to complete the most exciting game of the season.

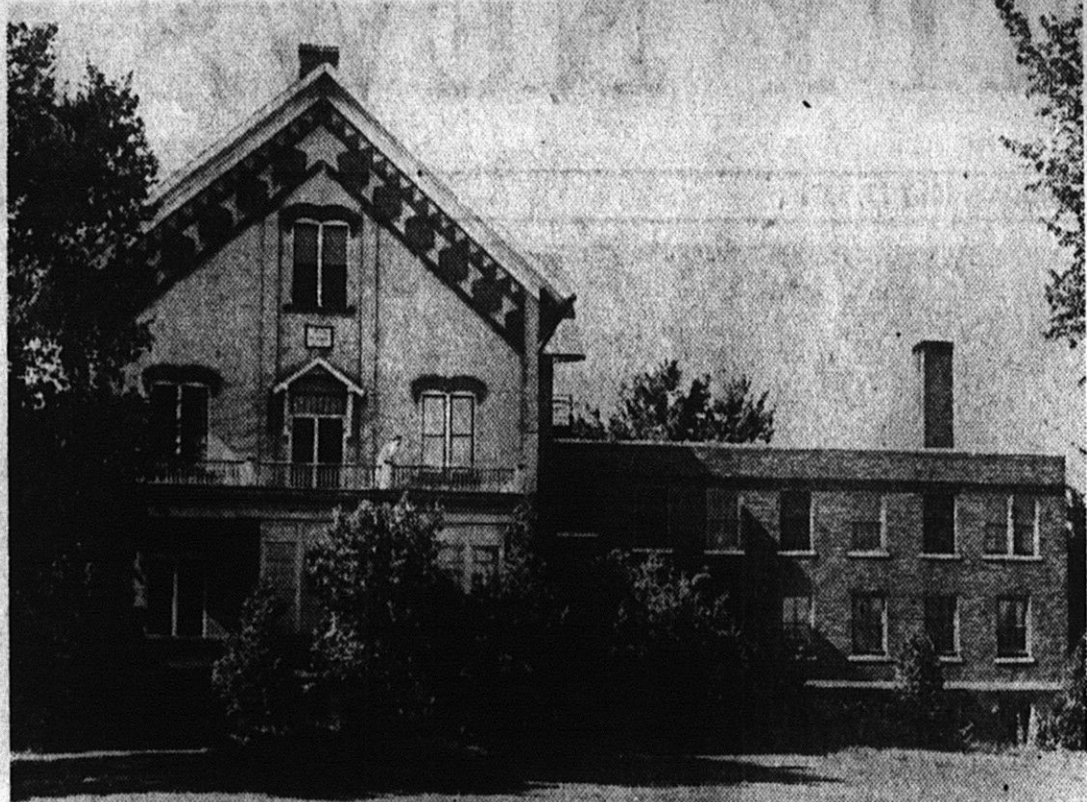

The Giants outbit the Dutchmen 16-12 but it was the 15 walks generously doled out by the Negro team which showed in the final analysis.

Art Pennington and Lou Brenham each had four hits for the Giants. Joe Schutt had three.

Borgman led the Dutchmen with three, while Schrotenboer and Witteveen each had two.

Police, Firemen Unite To Rescue Trapped Bird

A purple martin was alive today, following an errand of mercy which took the combined efforts of the police and fire departments.

It started at dusk Monday night when some youngsters excitedly informed Patrolman Marinus Smeenge that a bird was tangled in some string at the big martin house in Kollen park. They had tried unsuccessfully to climb the tall pole.

Smeenge took the problem to police headquarters. Then the fire department was consulted and the captain authorized the use of one of the 24-foot extension ladders.

Thus armed, the police and fire delegation went to the scene of the struggling bird, and Fireman Nels Plagenhoef climbed to the lofty perch and freed the feathered friend.

It was accomplished amid the cheers of crowds that had gathered. The poor bird was quite exhausted and Plagenhoef put it into the house to recuperate.

The old saying "Over the hill to the poor house" doesn't quite fit the Ottawa county infirmity near Eastmanville. Its 250 acre farm and well-kept buildings will reveal the reason why it is consistently rated among the highest of its type in Michigan. It isn't difficult to realize that the old stigma of the poor house is gone, as expressed by Louis Peck, superintendent of the home.

At present, 24 "old folks" are housed there under the supervision of Peck and Mrs. Mae Sawyer, matron. New life was added last winter when decorators spruced up its interiors. Its kitchens, halls, dining rooms, and bedrooms all received that added touch. The kitchen is especially appealing with its modern equipment.

Meals at the home have that extra home cooked flavor with their own baked goods and dairy products. A large deep freeze stores food and large ovens provide fresh bread.

Mechanized farming equipment is used widely in wheat, corn, hay, and oats crops. Heading the list of animals are 18 thoroughbred Holsteins. There also are 400 chickens, and many ducks and pigs.

The farm, which is under county supervision, has been operating at a profit by selling crops, hogs, and cattle. Peck remarked that the farm is not a burden to taxpayers.

Peck, who has been with the home for 41 years, plans to retire in October. He will live in Coopersville with his sister. He recalls that when he first came to the home there were 32 patients. The depression boosted the number to 82. With a new addition built in 1930, the home could house 75 persons. Peck said that there is a lower number today because more people are receiving old age assistance. A state law specifies that county infirmaries are not allowed to take paid patients. Children are taken only on temporary basis in emergency cases and are transferred to other institutions.

Sunday services are provided each week by churches in the county. Many church organizations and clubs provide reading material, radios, and other gifts. Patients receive medical attention twice a week.

The home is under the board of Social Welfare in Ottawa County with J. S. Van Valkenberg, Zeeland, director. Other members are Jacob Ponstein, Grand Haven and Charles Lautenback, Tallmadge township.

Supervisors are proud of the county farm. Once a year, the group finishes business early at one session and makes a trip to Eastmanville. They inspect the farms, walk through clean buildings, talk with the residents and sample some food when coffee time comes around.

Zuverink Hurls Tenth Success

George Zuverink twirled a neat six-hitter for his 10th win in the Pacific Coast league July 18. The 7-1 victory sent the San Diego Padres winging into third place in PCL standings.

George whiffed two Seals and walked only one. The only run scored off him was a homer by Les Fleming.

Meanwhile, an article by Grantland Rice, tabs George as one of the two top righthanders now toiling in the rough PCL. "The cream of the rookie righthanders are George Zuverink and Bob Drilling, Portland," the article stated.

Polio Picture Seems Brighter So Far This Year

Figures of Past Weeks Record Fewer Cases Than Period in 1949

There have been more polio cases in Michigan so far this year than in the corresponding period last year, but polio incidence seems to be on the wane at present, polio officials of Ottawa county were told here Thursday night.

The event was the annual meeting of the Ottawa county chapter

COUNTY GETS POLIO AID

Verne C. Dagen, chairman of the Ottawa polio chapter, today announced receipt for $16,725 from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to help pay for medical care of local polio patients. Up to July 8, the National Foundation has advanced $3,581,855 this year to chapters whose funds have been depleted by both new and carry-over cases. At present Ottawa county is caring for 70 polio patients.

of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis in the GAR room of City Hall.

Ernest Bates of Grand Rapids, state representative for the National Foundation, said cases so far this year in Michigan totaled 129, compared with 93 for the same period last year. He added, however, that statistics the past three weeks are heartening in that the rate is correspondingly less than the same period last year.

"Of course, we have no way of predicting whether we can expect another epidemic like last year, but the reduced number the last few weeks make the picture appear brighter," Bates said.

Verne C. Dagen, county chairman, presided at the business meeting at which present officers were re-elected. They are Dagen, chairman; Charles K. Bugielski, treasurer; and Mrs. Mary Brazda, secretary. All are from Grand Haven.

At a meeting of the board later, Charles D. Veldhuis of Hudsonville was named vice-chairman, and Gabe Kulte and William DuMont of Holland were named to the county board of directors.

So far this year, Ottawa county has had three polio cases and four suspected cases, compared with eight cases for the same period last year. The county chapter currently is caring for 70 active cases in the county, some of which are cases of long standing.

Chairman Dagen reported that since 1945, the county has collected $66,461.04 in polio funds, half of which is turned over to the National Foundation. But in that time, the National Foundation has turned over to Ottawa county in special grants $62,655.

Dr. Ralph Ten Have, director of the Ottawa county health department, said the public is often confused about polio and his department is particularly careful in its statements on the subject. He praised the county chapter for its work and said it was the wisest way possible to handle such a situation.

Bugielski recently returned from Warm Springs, Ga., where he accompanied a Grand Haven polio patient, Mrs. Joan McCarthy, and her husband, Mrs. McCarthy was stricken Jan. 9, the first polio patient in 1950. She had paralysis from the hips down and in the arm. Bugielski described the Warm Springs campus, how the place operates and how the late President Roosevelt was instrumental in developing it.

Mrs. Bernard Brunning of Grand Haven, mother of three children stricken by polio last year, related her experiences at Kabat-Kaiser foundation in Santa Monica, Calif., where she spent nine weeks with her daughter, Bernice. They returned home last week and Bernice is much improved. Mrs. Brunning described the Kabat-Kaiser resistance exercises which doctors believe is the secret of the foundation's success.

Zuverink Handed Another Licking

After saving a July 13 decision for teammate Al Olson, George Zuverink was KO'd in the fourth inning of the next day's game by the Seattle Rainiers. His record for the San Diego Padres is now nine wins and 11 losses.

Zuverink saved Olson's 9-8 victory by coming in with a man on second in the ninth, walking the first man to face him and forcing former Tiger George Vico to hit into a double play.

But Vico had his revenge the next day against George and his successors by lacing out three hits, good for five runs.

Zuverink was around for four full innings. He gave up seven hits, eight runs and walked four men in dropping a 13-6 decision.

The Padres were faced with the possibility of dropping into the Pacific Coast's second division as they continued to play inconsistent baseball, after leading the circuit through the first month of action.

Behind 5-4 in the seventh, Kelly Roelofs led off with a single. Jack Sheridan singled and Sherwin Lousma walked leading the bases. Local Firm Unveils New De-odorant Body, Breath

A revolutionary new breath and body deodorant—taken internally like a vitamin tablet—was introduced here by De Free Co.

The new product, Nullo, was presented at an informal press conference in Chicago attended by De Free executives, representatives of the pharmaceutical industry and pressmen.

Nullo, which contains a concentrated derivative of chlorophyll, now is available at drug stores without prescription.

According to Willis A. Diekmann, De Free president, the new product is produced in tablet form from the "green medicine" of nature which scientists have been studying for more than 30 years. The discovery of processed chlorophyll for use as an internal deodorant was made by Dr. F. Howard Westcott of New York.

Westcott's original studies were aimed at determining the effect of chlorophyll fractions as an adjunct in the treatment of secondary anemias. Experiments were conducted on white mice and guinea pigs for one year.

After conclusively proving the non-toxicity of chlorophyll when taken internally, studies were started on humans. It was discovered that certain food odors, usually detected in urine, were decreased when patients were taking the specially prepared chlorophylline. This led to experiments on perspiration and breath odors.

Tests revealed that offensive chemical odors, characteristic of the skunk, were neutralized when treated with the deodorizer.

Doctors and nurses were used for the initial clinical tests to determine effects on body odors. Later students of various races were tested and perspiring members of a university basketball team.

A single Nullo tablet is said to take effect within two hours and usually is effective for 12 to 18 hours against common types of body odors. Included are underarm perspiration, odors associated with menstruation and those that result from faulty metabolism. It is reported that perspiration is deodorized without interfering with its normal flow.

When chewed or dissolved on the tongue as a breath deodorant, Nullo is reported to take effect in about five minutes. It will overcome odors due to food particles, alcoholic beverages and tobacco, according to company officials.

It also was disclosed at the meeting that preliminary reports on investigations now underway with hospitalized patients indicate that the product taken internally may be effective in controlling offensive body odors commonly associated with advanced disease.

Speaking of numbers, Denny Ende came across a coincidence when he was ticketing a car for overtime parking. The car's license read 76-76, and the meter was—you guessed it, No. 76!

The Netherlands Information Bureau says American tourists who visit the Netherlands with their cars have difficulties with existing Dutch traffic laws. According to this law, all automobiles must have direction signals in the form of indicators on both sides of the car. Not all American cars have such signals, and until a new law now in preparation is adopted, motorists will have their difficulties.

The Sentinel aims to please, but sometimes it gets a bit weary hearing a series of the same juvenile voices pipe over the line every noon asking for the water temperature. Perhaps mother will suggest to the young fry that such information is available on the Sentinel newscast every noon at 12:05.

Bill Wichers told a cute story last week when the history students of Central Michigan college stopped in Holland for a visit and coffee kletz.

It was about a pig and a chicken discussing the difference between contribution and sacrifice. They passed a restaurant with a sign, "Ham and eggs, 35 cents."

The pig said, "See that sign. For you it's contribution but for me it's sacrifice!"

(What we're interested in is where is that restaurant. Ham and eggs at 35 cents is above the realms of contribution and sacrifice. That's a bargain!)

Bill Schierbeek, janitor at the city hall, had a sad experience some days ago. He had caught 20 to 30 perch and tied his stringer around his bait pail.

But when the bait water became warm, he attempted to pour it off and in so doing the stringer slipped and down to the bottom of the lake went the fish.

Undaunted, Bill continued fishing and managed to catch his limit of 50 in the next 1½ hours.

BUT THAT'S DIFFERENT

Suppose that a decade ago Hitler sympathizers had taken steps to organize an American Nazi party in the United States. Suppose the members of that party had said in all seriousness: "This is a free country; it is none of anybody's business to what party an American citizen belongs."
What would William Z. Foster and all the other American Reds have answered? Would they have agreed, "Yes this is a free country, and a man's politics are his own business. While we do not agree with those Nazi sympathizers, we agree that they have a right to form any party they desire."

For the answer we need not depend on supposition. Such a relatively mild imitation of Nazi politics as shown by the notorious German-American Bund called down upon that organization the most colorful invective of the American Reds. All such movements must be sternly repressed by force and law.

But how does an American Communist party differ from that supposititious American Nazi party?
The former would have placed loyalty to a German overlord above loyalty to the American people. The other openly and unashamedly places loyalty to a Russian overlord above loyalty to the American people.

But let anyone suggest that the Communist party in America should be placed under a ban, and instantly all the Communists and their sympathizers set up the yell that the constitution of the United States is being violated.
It's all so different now that the Reds are on the receiving end of the argument.

Yet the threat of world Communism to American freedom is infinitely more serious than Hitler's threat to this country ever was. This was so, long before the Communists' sneak attack on South Korea, but it is much more so now. For in every real sense we are not at war with a faction of the Korean people; we are in a shooting war with the Kremlin, the master manipulator who pulls the Korean strings.

In spite of all that, we are supposed to be committed by the American ideal of freedom to let Stalin's American stooges operate in this country on an organized basis. Local communities in various sections of the country are outlawing the Communist party.
America as a whole will be forced to follow their example before many more American boys have given up their lives in their country's battle against Communism.
It is illogical for America to compel boys to die in this cause while continuing to recognize the power that kills them as completely legal in America.

David, a King Who Honored God
II Samuel 7:1-6, 17-22

By Henry Geerlings

Saul was deposed from the throne of Israel by Jehovah. His disobedience had disqualified him for being retained a king. No son of his was to succeed him. However, Saul was to occupy the position for which he was anointed as long as he lived. In the meantime another king was to be chosen from another tribe and family.

Samuel was mourning over Saul's failure, when Jehovah called him to account, and instructed him to go to Bethlehem to anoint a son of Jesse to be the next king for Israel. Samuel was afraid that it would go hard with him if Saul heard what he was doing. Jehovah made a plan for Samuel's protection which would not interfere with his real mission. He was to go prepared to offer a sacrifice. No suspicion would be raised concerning this act, for Samuel was supposed to travel about and lead the people in their services.

There can be no doubt of the real greatness of David. The Jews have always regarded him as the foremost leader of their race. He was their ideal of a king. They were pleased to recite the story of his life, to sing the psalms he had written, to perpetuate the choirs he had organized, to honor him for what he had done in the way of extending the boundaries of the nation, and to think of his reign as the glory of the nation.

He was spoken of in the time of Jesus as our father David and Jesus is spoken of as the seed of David, and as the son of David, while our salvation is referred to as springing from the house of David. These phrases in the New Testament are significant of the unique place David has held in the thoughts of Jews and Christians alike. It would seem that to the thinking of the Christians he was surpassed only by Jesus until the arrival of the apostle Paul.

David was great hearted in that he was willing to await the unfolding of God's plan. There were times when he could have forced the hand of the Almighty.
Had he desired to do so he could have hastened his rise to the throne by years. He did not, so much as wish the early death of Saul. He placed the unfolding of all the plans for Israel in the hand of God. He would have worn out his life in hiding rather than force his rule over his enemies.
He knew he was to be king, and that made his self restraint all the more to be admired. He had learned how to wait patiently for God.

David was great hearted because he was far ahead of the times in which he lived. He was more magnanimous in spirit than Abishai. He was his friend and companion, probably about the average man of his time. He wanted to pin Saul to the ground and put an end to his insane jealousy.
He argued that David was not expected to tolerate him any longer.
David could justify this course by saying that he acted like a madman. Fire must be fought with fire. He is not fit to occupy the throne. David would not listen to these arguments. Such men blaze the way for new advances. He was a leader.

David was great hearted because he was able to return good for evil. At least it can be said that he did not return evil for evil. Though it lay in his power to deal the blow that would bring his enemy down, he not alone repelled the idea, but he also spoke in the kindest terms of the man who sought his life. It is easy to believe that had the opportunity come he would have acted toward king Saul as a dutiful servant.
His spirit was altogether conciliatory.

David was great hearted because he could think and speak well of his rulers. Elaborate comment on this matter is hardly necessary. We are living in a time when this grace is needed if ever it was. Our democracy is wonderful and we are proud of it, but if there is any form of government that leads itself more to shallow and unprofitable criticism of its rulers I do not know what it is.

The desire to make every man a king often results in the very opposite. We are not able to control ourselves unless we can control our tongues. We forget that we can differ from one another and yet be respectful. The morale of a nation cannot be preserved unless we are considerate of one another.

David showed himself to be great hearted in the grief he felt for the departed. If he had any unfriendly thoughts toward his enemies while they lived they were blotted out with their death.
Death does not end all, but it ought to leave with us only thoughts of kindness. If David had been vengeful toward his foes while they lived we would be tempted to believe that his outburst of grief at their departing was not wholly sincere.

In the darkest hour he would only remember the good of the men who sought his life, and so for the rest it would be forgotten. He remembered that he was to become king and could not help thinking of the enemies he would make, and from whom he would want forgiving thoughts.
Too much cannot be made of this point. Some people never forgive, not even in death.

Desert snakes and toads never drink water. They absorb dew through their skins.

Among Michigan legislators and state officials who inspected some property at Pequaming in the Upper Peninsula a few days ago were, left to right, Sen. Elmer Porter of Blissfield, chairman of the senate finance committee, Rep. Joseph Warner, Ypsilanti, chairman of house ways and means committee; State Corrections Commissioner Ernest C. Brooks of Holland, and Victor Knox, speaker of the house. The trip was made following considerable discussion at Lansing concerning adviseability of purchasing the 880-acre tract as a rehabilitation center for young criminal offenders.

Clean-Up Week Is Over; Don't Dump at Curbs

Clean-up week is over, Holland residents were reminded today.

Clean-up week means city trucks pick up all refuse on the curbs, not ashes or tin cans, thank you. Although the week is scheduled in May, some people have been dumping lawn rakings and cuttings on the curbs ever since.

But, starting this week they'd better arrange something else, because city trucks just won't have time to make such stops, City Engineer Jacob Zuidema said.

'Rope' Thrills Summer Theater Audience

Saugatuck—The fourth performance of "Rope," a powerful emotional drama by Patrick Hamilton, was presented by the Saugatuck Summer Players Friday night in Saugatuck high school.

Saugatuck's production was all the more remarkable in that it was whipped up in four days, following a change in plays from casting difficulties for "Laburnum Grove."

Working with a small cast of six characters, Director James C. Webster, who is at Saugatuck for a third season, was successful in working up suspense to a fine degree in the weird drama dealing with the cold hard reasoning of a thrill murderer.

Turning in perhaps one of the finest performances of his as yet short acting career was Jon Kubichan of Grand Rapids, in the role of Wyndham Brandon, the cold, calculating, self-sufficient college student interested in the perfect crime. Phil Beilfuss was effective as Brandon's room-mate, the conscience stricken follower, Frank Bradley, the vicar in "See How They Run" presented as Saugatuck's first production this year, turned in a good performance as Rupert Cadell, the professor who solved the case. Bradley entered the cast one day before curtain time last week.

Weird lighting effects and eerie music aided in building up suspense in the two act drama.

Others in the cast were Richard Collins, John Corkill and Barbara Kent.

Saugatuck's next play, which opens Friday, July 28, will be "Jenny Kissed Me."

Ebels Hurls 1st No-Hitter

Lanky Jason Ebels tossed the first no-hitter in the class B softball league last week as his Main Auto team won 7-0 over Baker Furniture at the Fourth St. diamond.

Earlier, Barber Fords eked out a 7-6 victory over Holland Furnace.

Ebels struck out 14 and would have had a perfect game if he hadn't issued a walk in the fifth. His teammates pounded Bernie Ebels for six hits, two each by Ernie Prince and Ebels.

Ford had to come from behind to vanquish its stubborn foe. Harvey Vande Veen was the winner. Gil Bos and Ed Bos had a pair of safeties for the winners. F. Vanden Belt had three for the Furnace team.

Ben L. Van Lente Agent 23 Years

Ben L. Van Lente has represented State Farm Mutual Insurance companies for the past 23 years. Over that period of time he has seen State Farm Mutual grow to be one of the largest auto insurance companies in the United States.

In 1949, State Farm Mutual Auto Insurance Co. paid out more than 32 million dollars in losses alone. State farm always has stressed prompt and satisfied payment of losses to its many policy holders.

State Farm's 80/20 collision insurance is one of the finest insurance available for your automobile. It will pay 80 per cent of any collision damage to your car, regardless of how it happens or who is at fault. Under this unique policy the insured can only pay up to $50 as his portion and then the company pays in full. Mr. Van Lente says that the cost of this policy is reasonable and it would be well worth your while to inquire about it.

Van Lente also represents two reliable fire insurance companies that offer a substantial discount up to 20 per cent off the board rate. These are both old reliable companies and use the Michigan Adjustment bureau to handle any losses.

Life insurance is something you must buy when you don't need it, in order to have it when you do need it, Mr. Van Lente says. State Farm Life offers a wide variety of policies either for investment or for protection. The Mortgage Cancellation policy is a new low-cost policy that is designed to provide a mortgage-free home for the wife in event of her husband's death. Inquire today about this plan.

War Scare Brings Only Mild Flurry In Allegan Area, Merchants Report

Allegan (Special) — War scare buying apparently hits a small town more slowly than its sister cities, because a poll of local merchants here Wednesday revealed few serious shortages.

As in other places, auto tires, sheets and sugar have been hit hardest. But grocers still doubt the sugar buying, definitely above normal, is a case of hoarding or that Allegan housewives are particularly high-volume cannors.

Lard and soap are coming in and going out in normal balance while coffee sales have slowed because of high prices. If there is any run for a small item, it is for black pepper, one grocer said.

With pepper selling at $1.70 a pound, there still is high demand. Self-service grocers are plagued by one shortage which only indirectly affects their customers.

That is cellophane with which they pre-package many items. It is practically impossible to buy, they say.

Some anxious deer hunters are stocking up on rifle shells, a hardware dealer said, and there is a mild pull on pipe of all kind. Caught with a short inventory, he said he was out of stock and couldn't get more right away. Bicycles for youngsters not quite ready for them are being bought, another dealer said.

Department stores are discouraging large buying, apparently successfully. Sheets are missing in some cases and women are buying two pairs of nylons instead of one. Drug stores said they were experiencing no scare buying at all.

But there are few new cars in the city and used cars are moving briskly. Prices on the latter have risen a little, but not in proportion to jumps in some cities. Tires are still to be had in some places.

Small appliances are still sitting on shelves they have occupied for months, ignored by a public apparently saturated with toasters, irons and the like. But in heavy appliances, sales were slowly increasing.

and plans to operate a heating service in conjunction with sheet metal work.

Dutchmen Ease Past Chix Nine.

Clyde O'Connor Hurls Six-Hitter

Zeeeland — The Holland Flying Dutchmen cast their magic spell which has netted them nine straight victories over the Zeeeland Chix, and the stubborn Chix fell in 10 innings, 3-2, in another thriller Tuesday at Chix field.

The Dutchmen were without the services of first baseman Gerry Witteveen who underwent an emergency appendectomy Tuesday afternoon. In his absence, Gene Schrottenboer, the Dutchman handman, held down the initial sack.

Clyde O'Connor for the Dutchmen, and Lefty Bill Ver Hey for the Chix, locked horns in a fine pitching battle with O'Connor's six-hitter finally prevailing. Both pitched smooth baseball with Ver Hey counting 17 strikeout victims and "Big Nick" whiffing 11 Zeeeland batsmen.

George Czerkies again came through with the big hit, a single to center which scored Lou Borgman from third with the game-winning tally in the 10th.

The Dutchmen hopped off to a one-run lead which was matched by the Chix in the first. With one out, Ron Appledorn drew a walk. Borgman beat out an infield trickler. With Frank Wlodarczyk up, Appledorn and Borgman pulled a successful double steal and when the Chix played for Borgman sliding safely into second, the winged-footed Appledorn hot-footed it all the way around to score.

The Chix tied the count when Kelly Roelofs beat out an infield hit, was sacrificed to second by Jack Sheridan and scored on Don Wynn's single to center.

In the fourth, the Dutchmen scored another run. Schrottenboer cracked a single to right, went to second on Czerkies' rifle shot to left, to third as Jack Van Dorpe's infield hit loaded the sacks, and scored as Ver Hey cut loose a wild pitch.

In the eighth, the Chix tied the count and only a perfect throw from Czerkies saved the possible winning run from crossing alone. Raterink walked. Gordon Vander Meulen and Bob Altema both struck out, but Ver Hey slapped a single to left, scoring Raterink. Roelofs singled with Ver Hey on second as a result of the throw in on Raterink, but the Chix pitcher was flagged at the plate by Czerkies' peg.

In the 10th, Borgman was safe on Howie De Young's error. Moving on the pitch, Borgman legged it all the way to third as Schrottenboer was being thrown out at first, and scored on Czerkies' hit to center.

Czerkies was the only Dutchman with more than one hit, counting two. Roelofs and Wynn each had two.

The game was well played before a fine crowd. The Dutchmen will assuredly miss Witteveen's fielding and his big bat. Wlodarczyk had to retire from the game in the eighth inning as a result of an injury suffered at work. He is expected to take his place in the lineup Thursday, however.

Third Church Is Scene of Wedding

In an early evening wedding Friday at Third Reformed church, Miss Mary Bell and John Essebagger, Jr., exchanged their marriage vows. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry Bast, uncle of the bride, with the Rev. Christian Walvoord assisting. The bridal party stood before a background of palms, ferns and candelabra with accents of pink and white gladioli.

The bride wore a gown of French organza embroidered with sprays of tiny orange blossoms. It was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar, bouffant skirt and long train. Tiny accordion pleated ruffles edged the collar and wrist-length sleeves. The veil of French illusion fell from a complete circle of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a formal bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis and white net. The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

Miss Melinda Bell of Bahrain attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a gown of white eyelet embroidered organza over pink tulle. The pink sash ended in a cascade of bows which hung to the floor. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet of pink rosebuds and meline net.

Other bridal attendants were Miss June Riedsma and Mrs. Marlin Bakker, bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of white velvet sole over pink tulle and carried heart-shaped bouquets of pale pink carnations and meline net.

Farm Safety Week Being Observed In Rural America

4-H's Get Special Salute for Their Own National Safety Plan

National Farm Safety Week is being observed throughout rural America, this week. Therefore now is the time to salute another nation-wide safety activity in progress 365 days a year.

It is the 4-H Farm and Home Safety program carried on by nearly half a million 4-H club members between the ages of 10 and 21. These youths—who conduct safety surveys of their home farms and neighboring farmsteads—have the best organized safety program in the rural field. They not only ferret out hazards, but follow through and correct thousands of unsafe conditions relating to farm machinery, livestock, homemaking, recreation, motoring, and scores of other things.

Since the project was launched on a national basis eight years ago, enrollment has increased five times. It means that in addition to the 4-Hers themselves, safety education has reached parents, residents of the local community, club leaders, and extension personnel.

The theme of the Farm Safety week is "Learn and Obey."

Each year, according to estimates made by the National Safety Council and the National Fire Protection association, farm people sustain approximately 17,500 fatalities from accidents. Some 1,500,000 persons are disabled on the farm every year. An estimated 35,000 buildings are destroyed by fire.

The annual loss represented by the above accidents, and first to totals about one billion dollars every year. Breaking the cost down, David Steinicke, Michigan State college farm safety specialist, finds that the total cost of farm accidents and fires would be equivalent to an annual tax of $35 assessed on every farm resident in the country.

The most startling thing about these figures is that most of the accidents could have been prevented. The National Farm Safety Week goal for 1930 is to bring the farm accident rate down 10 per cent.

The National Safety Council conceived the idea of National Farm Safety Week in 1944. The organization is sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture and practically all leading farm organizations throughout the nation.

Liability Guards Needed on Farms

Today everything may be running smoothly on your farm—to-morrow you could have a serious accident lawsuit on your hands. Warren Vincent, farm management specialist at Michigan State college, says this may not happen on any one farm in a lifetime, but it is possible. Farming is a very hazardous occupation.

Farmers, like other employees, can be held liable for accidental injury or death to employees, or injury to the public or public property, whenever negligence can be proved.

Here are two good means of protection suggested by Vincent. First he urges farmers to write the best insurance policy themselves—that of taking every safety precaution to avoid accidents on their farms. The next is to buy reliable farm liability insurance.

This type of insurance is not flatly recommended for all farms, he advises, but in many cases the farmer's risk is too great without protection.

Muck Farmers Plan Field Day

A full day's program planned for muck farmers has been set for Wednesday, Aug. 2 at the Michigan State college muck experimental farm located near Bath.

The muck experiment area has been expanded during the year with a total of 40 acres now in experimental plots. Visitors will have an opportunity to see such new projects as overhead irrigation, fertilizer placement on celery, the effect of nitrogen on onions, the use of sulfur and micronutrient elements in the production of blueberries, and rock phosphate experiments with sugar beets and onions.

Onion growers will be especially interested in demonstrations of bulk storage of onions, new chemicals for weed control, new materials for onion thrip and maggot control, and sprays for prolonging the storage life of onions.

Michigan State college staff members will be on hand to explain the result of tests to the visitors. They will describe the variety trials of onions, celery, corn, soybeans, potatoes, barley, and spring wheat.

Several pieces of new equipment will be on display through the day. A new 500-foot, 12-inch well has been completed and a portable pipe irrigation system installed. A new fertilizer placement attachment for a celery transplanter and the bulk storage onion bins complete with conveyor system will be available for inspection. Apple Maggot Appears Ray Hutson, entomologist, Michigan State college, reports appearance of apple maggot at Lansing. Apple growers of Ottawa county should be spraying for this insect. Instructions on different sprays to use are listed in the spray calendar available at the extension office, court house Grand Haven.

The soil in most places in New Orleans, La., is almost semi-fluid three feet below the surface.

Plant Late Summer Legumes Before Rains

If late summer legume seedlings are made before the fall rains start they have a better chance to succeed. These seedlings are best if made before Aug. 25, according to information from L.M. Turk, soil science head at Michigan State college.

He also recommends fertilizer on these seedlings. Legumes not fertilized become soil robbers rather than soil builders.

Fertilizer on the heavy soils where manure has been added can be straight super-phosphate, otherwise use an 0-20-10 or 0-14-7 at the rate of three to 500 pounds per acre. On the medium textured soils 0-20-20 or 0-12-12 and on the lighter soils an 0-10-20 will give the best results.

If in doubt call on the county agricultural agent and talk over your soil problems.

Grass Farming Pays Dividends

"It isn't so much what you make with 'grassland farming' it's what you save that counts."

That comment, made by a Michigan farmer at one of the Grass Day demonstration programs sponsored by the Michigan State college extension service, tells a story.

Livestock specialists at Michigan State college point out that much can be saved in labor when animals are allowed to harvest much of their own food from the field. Winter rations consisting of a great amount of forage are less expensive than grain and concentrates for most animals.

Dr. C. R. Megree, assistant dean of agriculture at MSC and an authority on grasses and legumes, interprets "grassland farming" as using more grass and legumes where needed—not grass everywhere. Of greatest importance, he says, is better grass and legumes—high protein crops that are of high feeding value to livestock and that add organic matter and nitrogen to the soil.

Throw the Card Away If Enumerator Called

"If a census enumerator called at your house, throw this card away."

That's the advice of City Clerk Clarence Greengood on the follow-up cards the city is sending out this week to check on persons missed in the 1950 census.

Purpose of the follow-up study is to protect the city's share of tax refunds from the state. This distribution is determined on a census basis. In addition, further amounts are lost by the county and schools if local residents are missed in the final accounting. Failure to be listed may cost the city $100 per head in the 10-year period.

But if you have given necessary information to your enumerator, throw the card away.

Miss Lois Heasley Wed in Wisconsin

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vasey, of Menomonee, Wis., was the setting for a wedding which united Miss Lois K. Heasley of Holland, and their nephew, Gail E. Beck, Madison, Wis.

The ceremony took place July 8 at 3:30 p.m. before the fireplace banked with white and blue delphinium and ferns. The Rev. Duane S. Morscheck, Hawley, Minn., step-brother of the groom, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. L. E. Heasley, Holland, and groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Beck, Owen, Wis.

The bride wore a bluish ivory slipper satin gown of princess style, with a long train and a short bolero of ivory lace with push-up sleeves. Her veil of French illusion with applied lace medallions fell from a Juliet cap of matching lace tucked with clusters of stephanotis. She carried a cascade arrangement of white tuberoses and stephanotis with orange leaves.

Mrs. Roger Heasley, Grand Rapids, sister-in-law of the bride, served as matron of honor. Her gown of ivory tulle was fitted and had an off-the-shoulder yoke of tulle, cap sleeves, and a brief train. Her accessories were pink. She carried a cascade arrangement of pink peonies and wore a hat of pink peonies with pink veiling and wide satin streamers.

Miss Alta L. Vasey, Menomonee, Wisconsin, sister of the groom, served as a bridesmaid and wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor. Her accessories were yellow, and her hat was of yellow gladioli and yellow veiling and ribbon. Her bouquet was a crescent arrangement of yellow gladioli.

The groom was assisted by Roger Heasley, brother of the bride, Grand Rapids, as best man, and Niel Morse, Rochester, Minn., as groomsmen.

Traditional wedding music was played by Miss Avis J. Harshman, Elk Mound, Wis., on the piano, and Miss Joan Harshman, Elk Mound, played selections on the cello. Solos were sung by Miss Jeanene Liddell, Grand Rapids, and Neil Morse.

A reception followed at the home with Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Vasey as master and mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Winston O. Vasey was in charge of the gifts.

For traveling Mrs. Beck wore a pink linen dress with navy and white accessories, and a corsage of deep red roses and stephanotis. After a trip to Minnesota the couple will live at 1932 East Millin St., Madison. Mr. Beck is an extension specialist in the department of horticulture at the University of Wisconsin. His wife is a registered nurse.

Farm experiment and research show that grass and legumes in a crop rotation will help produce better yields over a long period of years. Advantages are especially important in poorer years.
