Visitors Invited To View Project

Holland residents will be welcomed at an open house Wednesday and Thursday at the new filtration plant near Tunnel Park which is pumping Lake Michigan water into Holland homes since early this year.

Invitations are being sent by the Board of Public Works to prominent citizens of Holland and adjoining areas to visit the new $3,000,000 water system. Everybody will be welcome, according to BPW Supt. Guy E. Bell, and refreshments will be served from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday. The public will also be welcome on Friday and Saturday, at the same hours, but there will be no refreshments.

Bell said there will be plenty of room to park cars along the west side of the road leading to the lowlift station and in the driveway of the station itself, across the road from the filtration plant. Should the need arise, the BPW will assign a man to help guide the traffic.

The public will enter the filtration plant building and will be guided by arrows pointing to each department. There will be persons in the various departments to answer visitors' questions. This is not a "guided tour." Bell pointed out, because such tours are usually "rushed." In this case, it would be for the individual to decide how much time he wishes to spend. Refreshments will be served at the exit of the plant building.

From the filtration plant, the public will go across the road to the lowlift section where questions also will be answered. The station receives water by gravity from the lake. The tour will end there.

No formal opening ceremonies are being planned, Bell noted, because the plant has already been in operation for several months. Work on the plant was started in December 1954, was completed last December, and went into operation last April.

The new water system will provide Holland with all the water it needs till at least 1975, Bell asserted. With some additions, he continued, the water needs of the city could be met till the end of the century.

The shift from well to lake water has brought Holland in line with the adjoining areas. Muskegon and Benton Harbor already get their water from the lakes while Grand Rapids, Grand Haven and South Haven meet part of their water needs from the lakes.

Mrs. Helmink and Douglas were treated for minor head lacerations and released; Cecil was to return Monday for x-rays of his left arm. Ottawa County deputies said that Bennett was heading north on 160th Ave. and Helmink was eastbound on Lakewood Blvd.

Deputies said that Bennett apparently failed to stop for the stop sign at the intersection and drove out onto Lakewood Blvd. where his convertible was struck broadside by Helmink's car.

The impact knocked Bennett from his car. He landed nearly 20 feet away partially under a parked car.

Mrs. Bennett stayed in the car as it continued on for several dozen feet before slamming into another parked car and a tree on the northeast side of the intersection.

The cars belonged to members of the Harderwyk Christian Reformed Church who were attending services. Two doctors left the services and administered first aid until ambulances arrived.

The large crowd of curious who gathered quickly sought shelter when a thunderstorm started as the injured were being removed.

Both Bennett's and Helmink's 1957 model cars were extensively damaged.

Mrs. Bennett is the former Mary Wickam. Funeral services for Carlton W. Bennett, 57 of 27 Wall St., Zeeland, were held Wednesday at 1 p.m. at Yntema Funeral Home with the Rev. W. J. Hilmert former pastor of Second Reformed Church, Zeeland, officiating. Burial was in Hart Cemetery.

Ottawa Included In Airport Plan

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — No decisions were reached here Wednesday at a meeting of 30 business and civic leaders from three western Michigan counties, including Ottawa, concerning the feasibility of a tri-county airport.

Delegates were also present from Kent and Muskegon counties. William H. Vande Water, executive secretary of the Holland Chamber of Commerce and Robert Abbe, purchasing agent in charge of air transportation at General Electric Co., attended from Holland.

Claude Ver Duin, Grand Haven Chamber of Commerce secretary, named a four-member group of Chamber secretaries to hold another meeting in the near future for further consideration of the proposal.

Alex T. McFayden of Grand Rapids and John T. Hay of Muskegon were named to the committee. The next general meeting of the entire group will be held Nov. 15.

Ver Duin emphasized that the first meeting was of an exploratory nature. It was felt by the group that each area community would have to retain its own airport for light plane traffic.

Henry J. De Vette, chairman of the Muskegon County Board of Airport Trustees, reported that 15,000 or more acres of land was needed to construct an airport to meet the needs. He pointed out the difficulty of finding such an area.

De Vette said the Muskegon County Board of Supervisors are meeting July 30 to possibly decide on a date for a special election for voter action on expanding Muskegon's air facility.

E. V. Erickson, Grand Haven industrialist, complained about the service of Capital Airlines. "Capital Airlines appears to be carrying out a deliberate campaign to lose its franchise in Western Michigan," Erickson said. "It would lose less money in its overall operations if it were to halt service in this area and it appears it is deliberately attempting to discourage passengers here," Erickson added.

Delegates suggested inauguration of a state feeder airline into Grand Rapids which would channel northern Michigan airline patrons to connections for major air terminals.

The survey of Kent County Airport needs prepared by Leigh, Fisher and Associates of South Bend, Ind., was discussed by delegates.

The Fisher report did not recommend establishment of an airport more than 20 miles from a city—as would be the case if the tri-county project became a reality.

A helicopter firm's report indicated a ferry service between the cities and the airport would not be feasible until commercial helicopters are built to carry 40 passengers.

Keeler Brass to Build New Plant in Zeeland

ZEELAND (Special) — Ground will be broken next week on North Centennial St. for construction of a new factory by Keeler Brass Co. of Grand Rapids. The company already operates a small plant in Zeeland.

Plans call for a 60 by 40 foot structure to be built just north of the Legion Field softball park. The contract has been awarded to the Gust Construction Co. of Cedar Springs which expects to begin operations immediately.

The new building will replace the company's present small plant and is expected to be finished before Nov. 1. The firm has announced that it expects to improve its facilities for making furniture hardware, which indicates that operations at the new plant will center around the local brass foundry.

Keeler Brass Co. is a subsidiary of the Zeeland Brass Foundry, which was founded in 1872.

Two Elementary School Buildings To Be Constructed

Proposed Sites Located North, South of City; Cost Set at $330,000

Holland Christian school took a big step forward in its expansion program Monday night, as the school society authorized the board of trustees to proceed with the procurement of detailed plans and specifications for two new grade schools. A large turnout of society members in the high school gym, approved the board's three point program by a wide majority.

Estimate on the proposed cost of the overall program is $330,000, Benjamin Altena, chairman of the planning committee reported. The figure quoted by Altena included the purchase of two sizeable pieces of property, amounting to $29,437. In addition to the construction of the grade schools, the society also okayed the procurement of plans for the renovation of the present high school laboratories as well as providing for two additional ones. The estimate on this phase of the program amounted to $35,000.

Both of the new ward schools would be constructed outside of the Holland city limits. The proposed site of the school in the south would be on property to be purchased just east of Pine Ave. between 38th and 39th streets. The plot of land includes 502 feet bordering Pine Ave. and extending east 660 feet. This area is approximately 6 1/2 acres, Altena said.

The second part of the construction program would be the construction of another ward school on property to be purchased on Butternut Drive between James street and Rifle Range road. The five acres for the proposed site extends west of Butternut Drive.

Altena said that both schools would be similar in design with six classrooms, a kindergarten room and an all-purpose room. Excluding equipment, the estimated cost for each school would be $132,000.

Rapidly increasing enrollment in all departments of the school system necessitated the big expansion program, school officials reported. All units, grade, junior high and senior high will be affected by the expansion move.

Supt. Bert P. Bos explained that the addition of the two new ward schools would make it possible for the junior high (grades seven and eight) to move into the Central Ave. and South Side schools, making a kindergarten through eight set-up in these two grade schools. A sizeable number of pupils in grades kindergarten through six would be leaving those two schools for the new proposed schools, making room for the junior high.

Meanwhile the transfer of the junior high from the old high school building would allow the high school students to use both the new and old high school buildings bordering 20th street.

Last September, the school society had authorized the board of trustees to secure detailed plans and specifications for required high school facilities. However, the board recommended Monday night that the erection of the ward schools should take precedence over the proposed high school addition.

School officials expressed the hope that once the plans are presented to the society in the near future that the entire construction program can be completed for possible use in September of 1958. Besides authorizing the purchase of property and the procurement of plans, the society authorized the board to arrange for the financing of the projects.

The proposed new schools would be the fourth and fifth new buildings constructed by the local Christian schools within the last 10 years, Bos reported.

John Veltkamp, president of the board, presided at the special meeting.

A new motorized wheel chair with controls on the left which operate at the slightest touch of a polio weakened hand has given Mrs. Harry Larson a new lease on life, and she's as thrilled as a child with a new toy.

Her great enthusiasm stems from the fact that the new equipment will help to make her more independent than she has been at any time since she was stricken with polio back in 1949. It means she will be able to move freely about her home and even outside.

The chair goes forward, backward or turns either way at the slightest touch on a large button. Most such chairs are designed with controls on the right, but Mrs. Larson has just a little more strength in her left hand which finds its way unerringly to the button with the aid of a sling newly designed by her husband.

It will be eight years ago in September that Mrs. Larson, the former Vera Vanderbeek, was stricken with polio in Holland, and hers was a case of complete paralysis and the day she was taken to Butterworth Hospital she was placed in an iron lung. The following November she was removed to Holland Hospital in order to be near her family.

After a year and a half in the hospital, she went to live with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. John Vanderbeek, in the parsonage of Ebenezer Reformed Church, and was reunited with her two young sons, Tom and Dick, and her husband.

By that time she was able to be out of the iron lung a good share of the day, and she and her husband went to Grand Rapids four days a week for physical therapy treatments.

"We enjoyed living in Ebenezer," Mrs. Larson recalls. "The polio foundation furnished my respirator and the Fellowship Sunday School class of the church gave me a wheel chair. Harry and I had built a rocking bed, and I had all the necessary equipment at home to help me."

In November, 1952, Rev. Vanderbeek retired from the ministry and the entire family group moved to Grand Rapids to be closer to St. Mary's Hospital where Vera received therapy. Rev. Vanderbeek died a few years ago.

Slow improvement and lots of hard work on therapy paid off in stronger arms, and Vera managed to paint pictures, make pot holders and operate an electric typewriter. Her husband designed attachments for her chair and special slings to aid her arms. He also services her iron lung as well as all other iron lungs in Western Michigan free of charge for the polio foundation. He and his brother operate a tool shop and Harry has often designed special parts to keep iron lungs operating in emergencies.

"I try to live as normal a life as possible," Mrs. Larson said. "We've made friends with other polio patients and visit them frequently. The boys love picnics and we often go to John Ball Park. The new power chair will be a great help here. Now I'll be able to go up hill without any help. And for the first time I'll be able to travel through the house without help and we can go to church more easily too. The chair even has a horn so people will hear me coming."

The new chair has two gears, fast and slow. It operates on two six-volt batteries which can be recharged easily overnight. The chair was purchased at cost through the Hansen Drug Co. of Holland.

Missing Pilot Is Apprehended In Appleton, Wis.

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Donald R. Miller, 38, of 117 Savidge St., Spring Lake, missing since April 23 when he flew a plane out of the local airport, was picked up after 11 p.m. Thursday in Appleton, Wis., and will be returned here to face charges of deserting his wife and family.

Prosecutor James W. Bussard was informed Friday that Miller waived extradition, and arrangements are being made for a sheriff's deputy and a state police officer to go to Wisconsin to return him.

Miller, father of six small children, left Grand Haven by plane April 23 without leaving any message where he was going. There was some speculation at first that he may have crashed but on May 10 Prosecutor Bussard authorized a warrant charging him with deserting his family.

The original owner of the plane who still retains some interest in it had received information some days ago that the plane was seen in Green Bay, Wis. The man and Miller's wife, June, 36, went to Green Bay but found no trace of the plane. In searching around the area, the plane was later located in Appleton.

AMERICAN BRAND OF IMPERIALISM

A writer in a national magazine John Fischer who has just returned from a vacation visit to Puerto Rico, gives a vivid description of how the "American imperialism" that Khrushchev is always yammering about is working that island. According to Fischer, Puerto Rico, which is far more truly an American "possession" than the satellite countries, are Russian "possessions," enjoys a degree of prosperity that is making it the wonder of the world, and along with it the people of the island enjoy a personal freedom that is no less complete than the liberty enjoyed by the American people in general.

It is true that a few years ago a small group of Puerto Rican fanatics shot up the United States Congress and tried to assassinate President Truman — all in an endeavor to call dramatic attention to "American imperialism." But the current president of Puerto Rico is authority for the assertion that that group and their present followers do not represent more than an infinitesimally small portion of the Puerto Rican population. The people of the island are no more to be judged by that group than the American people are to be judged by an Al Capone gang.

Although the United States acquired Puerto Rico as a result of the Spanish-American war and could have exploited the island if we had followed the Russian pattern, we have not done so. Instead, we have brought education to an illiterate people, and our investment in their development and position in the economic picture of the world.

This is so much so that delegations are visiting Puerto Rico from many countries in Asia and Africa, trying to find out how Puerto Rico has achieved its present enviable position, in the hope of doing likewise in other countries. But one trouble is that Puerto Rico is within the American tariff wall and hence its products can be marketed on the American mainland duty free, but the people are outside the internal revenue wall, so that they enjoy a position that is better than that of the American people in general.

And that is the much maligned "American imperialism." There is no point in wasting argument on men like Khrushchev. All that is necessary to meet his jibes is point to Puerto Rico as an object lesson. Russians will not even have the right to talk until they can do as well with their own brand of imperialism.

A visit to Puerto Rico has been made by many of our local people. We would suggest that anyone interested would find a visit profitable.

Gideon, the Gibeonite
Judges 6:35-32
by C. P. Dime

(Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. and used by permission.)

The name, Gideon, has become known in many motels and hotels in our land because an organization of Christian businessmen called Gideons has placed Bibles in these hostleries. This lesson tells us about the man.

I. God calls workers and leaders. The Book of Judges tells about the times when every man did what was right in his own eyes. The period is sometimes called "Israel's Iron Age." During that period Israel sinned, was punished, called upon God, repented and got help from God over and over again. In the days of Gideon, the Midianites suppressed Israel. They lived to the east of Israel. At harvest time they came into Israel and took everything which they could get.

When Israel was impoverished because of these raids the nation called upon God for help. God called Gideon, a young farmer, to deliver Israel. Gideon was threshing grain in a secret place when God called him. The angel of God called Gideon a "mighty man of valor." Gideon did not think he was a fit man to deliver the nation since his family had no standing and he came from the tribe of Manasseh. God promised to be with Gideon and gave him signs which were meant to prove this.

II. Reforms call for actions at home. God told Gideon to throw down the altar of Baal and build an altar to the true God. With the aid of ten of his father's servants Gideon, during the night, threw down Baal's altar. Gideon's parents were idolaters. This deed showed real courage on Gideon's part. He attacked the religious convictions of his family and community which was not a light matter.

Observe that Gideon did two things — he tore down one altar and built another. The community did not like Gideon's action and complained to his father who defended him by saying that Baal should take care of his own affairs. The father really was proud of what his son had done. God wanted to teach Gideon and his family that idolatry was to blame for the sad plight of Israel. Gideon thought that God had forsaken the nation but it was the nation that had forsaken God.

During the whole period of the Judges and afterwards too Israel was tempted to be idolatrous. Today we know more about the true nature of Baal worship than ever before. One writer calls it "a glorified sexual orgy." Israel's God was holy. No wonder the prophets of Israel strongly denounced Baal worship and all that was associated with it.

Religion ought to teach clean living. Baal worship fostered immorality and all manner of moral uncleanness. Do not think that our nation is free from idolatry. There are many worshippers of idols in our land. What Baal and the Midianites did to Israel, some modern idols and idolaters do to our nation.

III. Strategy is in place in moral and spiritual warfare too. Gideon got an army but it was too large to suit God for he knew that if the nation would be delivered from the oppressors by a big army they would give praise to the army. Gideon's army was screened — he had only three hundred left. With those three hundred alert men, every man at his post and on his feet, with trumpets, jars and torches, Gideon threw the Midianites into a panic and confusion and won a great victory which resulted in forty years of peace.

HOPE SURVEY—Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, president of Hope College, and Larry Siedentop, the president's research assistant for summer, discuss one of the 1,200 replies received in answer to a questionnaire Hope College sent to 4,000 alumni all over the world. The questionnaire was part of a survey program Hope College recently started to evaluate its work with a view to improving its quality. (Sentinel photo)

Hope College Starts New Survey Aimed at Improving Education

Hope College has started a self-evaluating program that seeks to improve the quality of its education and at the same time aims to keep the College informed of the activities and accomplishments of its alumni. President Irwin J. Lubbers said today.

Questionnaires were sent last February to more than 4,000 Hope alumni in the United States and abroad, asking them about their post-graduate studies, their careers, and their particular accomplishments. Each was requested to evaluate the Hope College of his day and to offer suggestions for its improvement. About 1,200 replies have been received thus far.

Explaining that this is "a new approach" to the problem of evaluating a college or university, Dr. Lubbers said: "We believe that perhaps the most significant way of judging the quality of an institution is by observing the quality of its products." This is in contrast to traditional evaluations based on analysis of a college's faculty, physical plant, and financial resources.

The project originated last December when a Senior history student, Larry A. Siedentop, started a survey of the achievement of Hope graduates in social sciences and the humanities. Since then the scope of the study has been considerably broadened.

Siedentop, who graduated from Hope in June and will enter Harvard University this fall as a Woodrow Wilson fellow, has been appointed research assistant to Lubbers for the summer in order to handle the survey. Having transcribed the information from the returned questionnaires onto IBM cards, he is now analyzing the evaluative comments, sorting them on a decade-by-decade basis, and preparing a comprehensive report which will include excerpts and summations of the replies. Siedentop hopes to have his report completed by the end of the summer.

President Lubbers and Siedentop plan to attend a conference on higher education at Michigan State University in early August. They hope to inform other educators of the Hope study and to discuss with them the problems and possibilities involved.

Lubbers said he was most impressed with the potential long-term role of similar efforts at institutional evaluation and self-evaluation, pointing out that the data obtained would always be available as immediate reference material.

Questions asked of Hope College alumni pertain to present occupation, scholarly or professional activities in which they participate, advanced degrees they earned, membership in honorary societies, and their published writings.

He said the Republican program next year will be a positive approach to sound economy and cited figures on Michigan expenditures compared with other states, particularly on education and mental health. "These are two very important departments, but when Michigan spends $51 per capita each year on education whereas Ohio and Illinois are closer to $21 or $22, then we must study such things," he cited many statistics on government functions.

He pointed to Republican written programs on labor benefits and said Republicans should be proud of their accomplishments rather than apologize for not meeting what he termed radical demands of the governor. As for the new liquor and cigarette tax levied in schools, he said Michigan will pay out $725,000,000 for education next

He said that insurance work has a public relations value, especially in its stressing of safety campaigns for auto and pedestrian traffic.

The insurance companies were forced to constantly improve and change to keep abreast of the recent vast increase in population and motorists. He stated that an agent has to advise customers who do not understand insurance ramifications and obligations, noting that in some cases just because a company is large it is subject to extravagant claims. He also stated that because equipment and accessories on cars are becoming more elaborate and expensive, repair bills are increasing at an outrageous pace. Maynard Mohr, program chairman introduced the speaker and discussed intersection accidents and Michigan traffic laws.

Fashion Show at Castle Attracts Large Group

Fall was in the air at The Castle Tuesday afternoon when models, dressed in the latest fashions, displayed what women will be wearing in a few months. There were about 175 spectators.

Leading the parade of fashions were the college-age models, coeds and their male companions, wearing date dresses, appropriate costumes for football games and the sports clothes for those weeks of skiing. Casual wear for the dorm, including sleep wear and robes, were modeled much to the delight of the audience.

Mary Wilson of the University of Michigan and Patty Schuett of Grand Haven were narrators for this portion of the program. Bill Atkinson, who designs sports clothes under the name Glenn of Michigan, took over the narrating to explain the trends for fall including the fall colors of tobacco, turkey red, black and white and combinations of these.

"What you need for the kind of life you will be leading this fall" is the way he described his collection.

Quite prevalent were the bulky sweaters, the barrel sweaters of Icelandic wool, the two-piece ensembles that look like one, water proof materials, capes that can be used for casual wear as well as dress. Belts that come right with the skirts are considered part of the costume rather than an accessory.

Plaid are here to stay if the clothes modeled are any indication of what is to come. The good, little, black basic dress has the soft look this fall.

A sneak preview of holiday fashions was also shown including the trans-season dark cottons to wear in town and cocktail gowns.

Punch, cookies and sandwiches were served from a table on the terrace. Guests later went down to the Oldtimers Room to get a closer look at the dresses.

Holland Receives Three Safety Award Plaques

For the second year, Holland city received a special recognition sticker in the annual report of traffic safety activities as conducted by the National Safety Council. Sgt. Edward McGarvey of the Michigan State Police analyzed the report for a group of city leaders Tuesday afternoon in City Hall.

With the special recognition sticker went three safety plaques which were presented to Chief of Police Jacob Van Hoff. The awards were for:

1. No traffic deaths and noteworthy traffic safety activities.

2. Maintenance of accident records.

3. School traffic safety education.

The 19-page report gave an analysis of specific recommendations for strengthening the city's traffic management and accident prevention programs. The annual traffic inventory is done as a service to cities and states to enable governmental units to appraise their street and highway traffic management and accident prevention programs.

In some of the detailed information, Holland rated a little lower than last year but Sgt. McGarvey explained that several sections were based on new criteria this year, and in general Holland compared favorably in all sections with the other 479 cities participating in the annual inventory in the category of 10,000 to 25,000 population.

In addition to the three sections which earned special plaques, space and time devoted to safety by newspapers and radio in Holland received special mention.

Among recommendations for improvements in Holland, the report recommended that five officers and one clerk be added to the police force and that pedestrians be held accountable for dangerous acts just as motorists are by arrest and conviction of traffic law violations. The report recommended crosswalks at 56 intersections instead of 32 as currently marked in Holland.

Another recommendation calls for one or more permanent traffic safety scoreboards be erected and maintained to keep citizens constantly aware of the traffic accident toll.

Mrs. N. J. Danhof, year of which the liquor and cigarette tax will bring in $24,000,000. As for industry leaving Michigan because of high taxes, Van Peursem said the need for a good economic climate is not a partisan issue but there are tremendous danger signs showing up more and more all the time, and the loss of jobs in the state is reflected in more and more unemployment while firms are expanding elsewhere.

He said two major tax studies would be carried out next year, one by State Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings of Holland and the other by a member of the House of Representatives.

Also participating in the open discussion were Sen. Geerlings and George Van Koeveing of Zeeland, Ottawa county Republican chairman.

Returning from a honeymoon to northern Michigan Mr. and Mrs. Russell Vander Woude are established in a home on Huizenga St. in Zeeland. They were married July 5 in Sixteenth Street Christian Reformed Church by the Rev. J. Herbert Brink who performed the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m.

The bride is the former Jennie De Boer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben De Boer, 164 West 17th St. The groom is the son of John Vander Woude of route 2, Zeeland. Ferns and bouquets of white gladioli and snapdragons decorated the church. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

She wore a gown of rose point lace and tulle over satin. The gown featured a scoop neck, fitted lace bodice with short sleeves and lace mitts. The floor length skirt with a sweep train had lace panels down the front and back, with side panels of tiered tulle. The illusion veil fell from a matching lace and pearl trimmed hat. She carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Her honor attendant Mrs. Dorothy Roelise wore a floor length aqua net gown over taffeta and carried a pink carnation bouquet.

Miss Bette De Boer, gowned identically, served as bridesmaid. She also carried pink carnations. White lace baskets filled with pink snapdragons were carried by the flower girls, Karen and Marianne Vander Woude, who wore floor length net gowns of net over taffeta in pink and aqua, respectively.

First Nighters Thrill To Tunes of 'Roberta'

A full house greeted the opening of the Red Barn Theater's first musical Wednesday night and thrilled to the familiar tunes of Jerome Kern's famed "Roberta."

Petite Barbara Davenport returned from the Northland Playhouse in Detroit to take the leading role of Stephanie, while leading man Tom Rosqui appeared as John Kent, the American football hero who inherits Roberta's famous fashion salon in Paris.

Other professional favorites appearing were Dale Engle as the band leader who really could play trombone and mandolin, Bill Cain as his irrepressible manager, Margaret Sheehan as Aunt Minnie, William Vorenberg as the titled nobleman and Katherine Lurker as the petulant girl friend.

Two Holland girls, Anita Van Lente and Mariene Harteig, appeared in the chorus. Musical director was Larry Wolfe of Kalamazoo, formerly of Holland. It was the first play of the season that leading lady Dorothy Lee Tompkins did not appear in the cast, but she played even a bigger role in stage managing the production, no small accomplishment in the limited space available.

The usual rough spots on opening night of a musical were of the kind that easily straighten out in a second or third performance. The play will run through Monday.

For next week James Dyes' company will revive J. Hartley Manners' "Peg O' My Heart," one of the best beloved and most heart-warming comedies of the American theater. First produced in 1912 in New York City, it played more than 10,000 performances in the first 54 years all over the world, and nobody knows how many since. This play, particularly good for the children, will star Barbara Davenport as Peg and William Cain as her prince charming. Other featured players will be Margaret Sheehan, Katherine Lurker, Dale Engle and Allen Brody. Dates are July 31 through Aug. 5 with two performances on Saturday.

Variance Sought To Erect Building On Parking Lot

Appeal Board Will Meet Aug. 1; Change Also Sought in Township Site

Another step was taken today in the longtime complicated case of selecting a site for a county branch building in the local area.

Dick Nieuwsma, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, and Henry Slaughter, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Board of Supervisors, have petitioned Holland's board of appeals through the city clerk's office for a variance to build the county building on the city hall parking lot on 11th St., more particularly described as lot 3, block 28.

Alvin Dyk, chairman of the board of appeals, has scheduled a hearing Thursday, Aug. 1, 1957, at 8 p.m. in council chambers in City Hall.

Nieuwsma has indicated that a special meeting of the Board of Supervisors has been tentatively scheduled for Aug. 9.

Slaughter indicated to City Manager Herb Holt Monday that the committee also are seeking a variance on property north of the river through the Holland township board of appeals. The county board has a 30-day option on this site. Slaughter said he hoped to have both sites ready and available to the county at the special meeting.

Councilman John Beltman, chairman of a special committee appointed some four weeks ago to study sites for the building, said that personally he was much in favor of the 11th St. parking site and he felt that the 54 vote of Council at the July 17 meeting did not accurately reflect true opinions on the site.

He referred to comments after the meeting that some Councilmen were not opposed to designating the 11th St. site but did not want to take matters out of the committee's hands. The special committee had been unable to agree on a recommendation.

The 11th St. site is the third site offered by Holland city for the branch facility. The first site was on West 12th St. some distance west of River Ave. The next site was the Little Netherlands site which was withdrawn after opposition by local businessmen and others.

Al Bosch Allows Single; Moose, VFW Deadlocked

Al Bosch fired a one-hitter as Suburban Motors blanked Mobilgas Dealers, 3-0 and the fired-up Moose played the league-leading VFW even 6-6 in 11 innings in City League softball Tuesday night at Van Tongeren Field.

Bosch fanned 17 Mobilgas Dealers, the season's high point in strikeouts. He faced 23 men.

Bill Fortney singled in the fourth inning for the only hit off Bosch and Elmer Ribbens walked in the sixth to be the other baserunner. Bosch whiffed the side in the first, second, fifth, sixth and seventh.

Jerry Kraai made Bosch's job a lot easier as he teed off on a John Van Iwaarden pitch in the fourth inning with two men on for a three-run homer. Bosch and Herb Rietman, who had each singled, were on base.

Van Iwaarden hurled a three-hitter and with the exception of the ill-fated fourth didn't give up another hit. He struck out six and walked two.

The Moose and the Vets matched each other through 11 innings, even to the extent of each scoring a single run in the 11th to end in a tie.

The game will be replayed Saturday at 7 p.m.

The Moose, winners of only four games all season, came from behind twice to knot the score.

Lum Veldman, playing left field for the Vets, singled to center in the first inning to score Vern Vande Water, who had been hit by a pitched ball, and Jay Hoffman, who had doubled.

Ed Stille, Moose's rightfielder, matched the effort with a single in the second to score Ralph Bouwman, who was safe on an error and Walt Hudzik, who was hit by a pitched ball.

Hoffman doubled in the third and scored on a wild pitch to put the VFW ahead, 3-2. Two more Vets runs crossed in the fourth as Hoffman connected for his third straight hit, a triple, which scored Rog Schutt, who had walked and Bill Franks, who singled.

In the bottom of the fifth the Moose knotted the score with three runs. Stu Baker, Gil Vanden Berg and Bill Zych singled and Ralph Bouwman doubled to account for the runs.

Bouwman singled in the top of the 11th, stole second, took second on Jas De Vries' single and scored on Stille's single to put the Moose ahead, 6-5.

But the Vets came back with Lee Veldman scoring. He was safe on a fielder's choice, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Al Glupker's single.

Schutt went all the way for the VFW and Joe Berens did the same for the Moose. The Moose collected 11 hits and the Vets, nine.

Baker, VandenBerg, Bouwman and Stille each had two hits for the Moose and Kaz Kalman, Zych and De Vries had one.

Hoffman hit safely four times for VFW while Franks had two hits and Lee and Lum Veldman and Glupker each had one hit.
