In Slaying of Brother at Marne

Hein Faces Mental Tests

GRAND HAVEN — Frederick Hein, 35, of Marne, was ordered to undergo psychiatric tests to determine whether he was competent to stand trial in the slaying of his older brother.

Hein appeared in Ottawa Circuit Court Monday for arraignment with his attorney, John Witters of Grand Rapids. He was returned to jail following the hearing.

Frederick was charged with murder in the fatal shooting of his brother, Fay, 58. The body of Fay was pulled from the fire-ravaged home the brothers shared July 10.

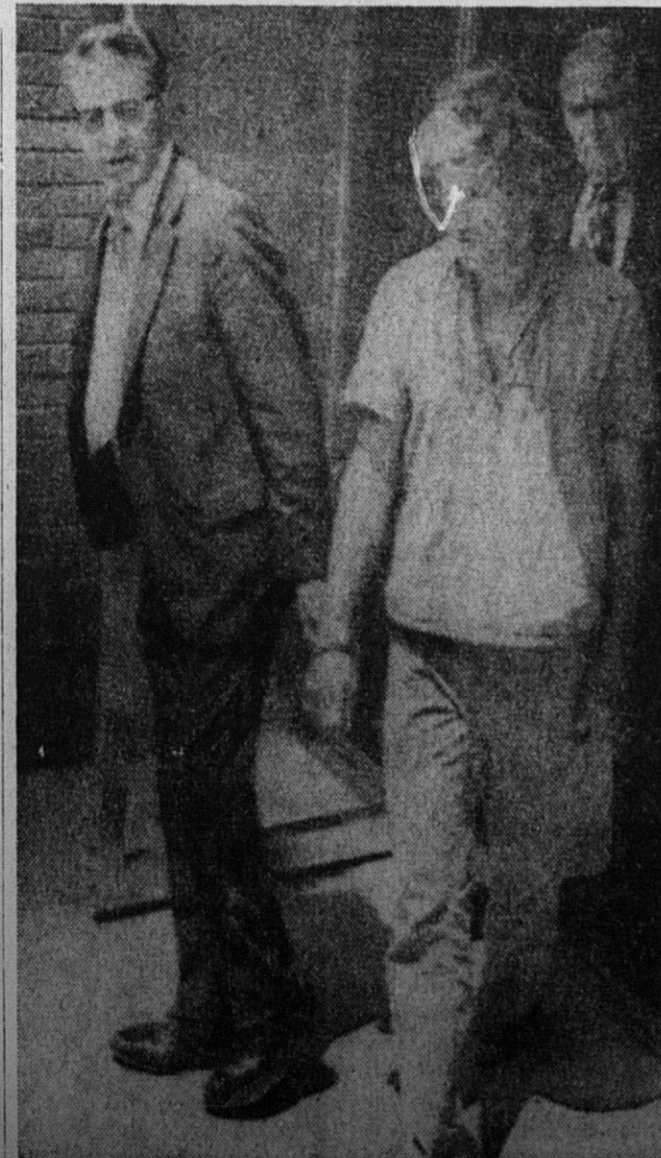

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Ottawa County deputies said Frederick told them he was in a barn when he spotted flames and smoke coming from the farmhouse. Frederick said he returned to the house and pulled Fay's body from a main floor room.

Authorities believe Fay died in the fire but a routine autopsy revealed Fay had been shot once in the head and later investigation led to Frederick.

Hein stood mute Monday before Circuit Judge James Townsend and a plea of innocent was entered on his behalf.

He was ordered to take psychiatric tests at the state Forensic Center for Psychiatry near Ypsilanti.

Fugitives From California

Manhunt Ends In Recapture

SAUGATUCK — A fugitive wanted in California was taken into custody as he slept in a wooded area near the Blue Star Highway and I-196 expressway north of here at 7:47 p.m. Thursday ending a manhunt that began in the morning and involved 30 officers, a State Police helicopter and tracking dogs.

Allegan County deputies said Steve A. Fountain, 20, of San Jose, Calif., was flushed from his hiding place by a member of a sheriff's horse posse and surrendered without incident. He was not armed.

Fountain's wife, Robin, 18, was arrested by police earlier in the day at the Blue Star Sunoco station near the interchange and a loaded .380 caliber ten-shot semi automatic handgun was recovered from the car believed used in a California robbery.

Fountain was named in two warrants from California, one charging armed robbery and the other unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

A manhunt for the couple was launched at 11 a.m. Thursday when Douglas police received a tip that the subjects were at the service station.

Officers arriving at the scene took Robin into custody but Fountain fled on foot.

State Police from Grand Haven, along with its helicopter, troopers from Wayland and South Haven, police from Holland, Fennville, Douglas, Saugatuck and Allegan County Deputies and a tracking dog from Otsego joined the search.

By 4 p.m. members of the horse posse were brought into the search and Fountain was located later.

Officers said Fountain apparently had been without sleep 48 hours but managed to elude the manhunt by moving among the tall grass and the wooded area.

His wife reportedly has relatives in Michigan.

Zeeland Man on Highway Commission

Meyers Named To Commission

LANSING — Gov. William G. Milliken Friday appointed attorney Hannes Meyers Jr. of Zeeland to the State Highway Commission and said he will serve as an "effective advocate" for a balanced transportation program in Michigan.

The announcement from the governor's office said Meyers has a long-time interest in public transportation and aviation. But it only listed his credentials as an aviator.

Meyers, 42, is a partner in a Holland law firm, president-elect of the Ottawa County Bar Association and city attorney for Zeeland and Hudsonville.

He replaces former Commission Chairman E.V. Erickson of Grand Haven, who declined to seek reappointment, and will serve for a term expiring June 30, 1979 if confirmed by the Senate.

Erickson was replaced as chairman by commission member Peter Fletcher of Ypsilanti, an influential state Republican Party coordinator.

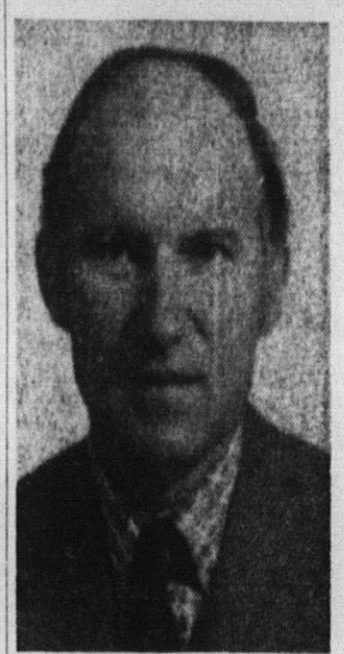

Milliken said Meyers "will be an effective advocate for what I consider to be one of Michigan's highest priorities—the development of a balanced transportation program that puts great emphasis on public transportation for all of Michigan."

The announcement from the governor's office also included a statement by Meyers, which said:

"I share the governor's views on the urgency of accelerating the development of public transportation, and I support his proposals to change the name of the commission to Transportation Commission, to expand its membership in order to reflect its broadened responsibilities and to win adoption of vocate for public transportation. I believe, however, that because its responsibilities are so broad, there is no room on the commission for narrow views. As an advocate of public transportation bonding program.

"If confirmed by the Senate," Meyers said, "I intend on the commission to be a forceful ad-transportation, I intend to work within the framework of the need for a balanced transportation program."

Milliken is seeking enactment of a constitutional amendment in 1976 to expand the Highway Commission from four to eight members and to change its name to Transportation Commission. What used to be the State Highway Department was renamed the State Department of Highways and Transportation in 1972 and its responsibilities were broadened to encompass all modes of transportation.

The Highway Commission is the policy-making arm of the department.

Like Fletcher, Meyers is active in Republican Party affairs. The commission is evenly split between Republicans and Democrats as required by the Constitution.

Meyers, a member of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association and a member of numerous community organizations, was appointed chairman of the State Officers Compensation Commission by Milliken in February. He will now have to resign that position.

There is no salary for either post.

Sen. Byker Slaps Plan

HUDSONVILLE — State Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, denounced Saturday attempts to unionize members of the armed forces as "pure lunacy" and urged citizens to stop the move by writing their congressmen and national officials.

Byker said he opposed efforts by the American Federation of Government Employees to organize sailors, soldiers and airmen. He said the union plans to amend its constitution and began organizing men and women in the armed forces early next year.

"I believe this is pure lunacy, a gross distortion of the First Amendment and an outright invitation to any potential enemy," Byker said. "It can be stopped in its tracks if enough people protest — and the place to start is in Congress."

ZEELAND — The Zeeland Community Hospital has launched a $380,000 expansion project designed to improve the laboratory and X-ray departments and the dietary department.

Included in the expansion is a $80,000 X-ray machine to double the capacity of the department and improve ventilation and air flow for the dietary area to meet state codes.

Peter Staal, chairman of the hospital's building and grounds committee, said the project had been in the planning stages for two years and ties in with the long range plan of the facility.

Construction is to begin within a week and completion is scheduled for mid-January. General contractor is Lamar Construction Co.

PILOT NOT HURT — William Hatfield, 33, of Nunica, escaped injuries Monday when the single-engine Grumman bi-wing plane he was flying caught high tension lines near 48th Ave., and New Holland St. and crashed while crop dusting in the area. Ottawa County deputies said the plane came down in a field a mile west of Hudsonville at 12:56 p.m. Monday. The plane was a 1975 model and virtually demolished. An unidentified fireman at left holds part of the electric cable the plane struck and pulled about a quarter of a mile. (Sentinel photo)

Approximately 60 students, Terry and the college's aviation instructor did everything but give it new wings and fuselage.

Sgt. Debra Green Is Women's Army Recruiter in Area

"This is an exciting time for women in the Army," stated Sgt. Debra Green, the Holland area's Women's Army Corps representative who recently visited the Holland Army recruiting station.

Sgt. Green, a native of Grand Rapids, graduated from Union High School in 1970 and curried in the Army in April 1970 and took basic training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., where most new WAC's still take their initial Army training.

She followed basic training with Army schooling as a personal records specialist and served at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D. C. before arriving home and her current assignment in November, 1973.

She has continued her education with the Army picking up most of the tab and even giving her time off to attend civilian schools.

Young women interested in meeting with Sgt. Green to talk about Army opportunities should make an appointment by calling either Sgt. First Class Will Harmon or Sgt. Mike Collins at the Army Recruiting Station, 25 West Eighth St.

Born in Holland, he had lived in the area most of his life and had been a member of the local Bricklayer's Union for 49 years. He was a member and former consistory member of North Holland Reformed Church, had worked as a mason for several area contractors and was the former owner of the Holland Dahlia Gardens.

Surviving are his wife, Winnie; three sons, Vern J. of Grand Haven, Dwight A. of Lower Burrell, Pa. and Franklin D. of Holland; a daughter, Mrs. Raymond (Lavonne) Elhart of Centerville, Ohio; nine grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Myron (Ethel) Veldheer and Mrs. John (Lillian) Vinkemulder, both of Holland.

Currently serving her second enlistment, Sgt. Green entered rely services six Army recruiting stations from the area recruiting headquarters in Grand Rapids.

According to Sgt. Green, women are now on equal footing with men in the Army. Today, women receive the same pay and benefits and can work at almost any job in the Army outside of a few combat occupations.

Sgt. Green spent several months last winter as a field recruiter in Grand Rapids meeting her assigned objective.

Etta Fox Chapter Hears Mrs. Kools' Hospital History

By Ruth Keppel

The Etta Fox Chapter of Quilters met Monday at the home of Mrs. Willis Kools. In the absence of the president, the vice president Mrs. Mayo Hadden presided. Miss Emma Sand was the co-hostess.

Mrs. Willis Kools gave a most interesting program on the "History of Holland's Hospitals."

Mrs. Kools was most capable of giving this review as she served as a nurse in both the old hospital and the new hospital. Mrs. Kools' sister, the late Rena Boven was the capable and much loved Holland Hospital nurse for 37 years.

In 1916, due to the lack of hospital facilities, a group of Holland citizens got together to organize a Hospital. Up to 1916 there was a small private hospital on the north side of Lake Macatawa run by Marie Barndse.

On Sept. 7, 1916 a resolution was presented to the Holland City Council by Alderman Nicholas Kammeraad, later Mayor, for a special hospital committee appointed by A. H. Landwehr, president of the Chamber of Commerce. The members of this committee consisted of Ex-Mayor Nicodemus Bosch, chairman, Dr. Abraham Leenhouts, Henry Geerlings, Attorney George E. Kollen and Henry Winters. On Sept. 7, 1916 the first plan was to have a hospital back of the City Hall, $15,000 was to be raised.

The resolution provided that the Council would rent to the Hospital Association, the lot west of the City Hall for $1 per annum, and would furnish heat, light and janitor service for a 16-bed hospital. The resolution carried.

March 27, 1917 the committee members were again before the Council with $12,000 raised and a change of plans. A proposition was presented by William Kremer, speaking for the Kremer estate. Mr. Kremer offered the Kremer home on the corner of 12th St. and Central Ave., together with the large brick garage to the Committee for $15,000, pledging $5,000 of the amount as a donation from the Kremer family, since it had always been a hope of his father that Holland would have a hospital. The Kremer house was built in 1888. This building which was accepted by the committee, now houses the Netherlands Museum.

Miss Mable Miller, who was graduated from Butterworth Hospital (1918) and Miss Rena Boven who was graduated from Butterworth (1919) were asked to take charge of the Holland Hospital. They started work in 1919. Only registered nurses were employed.

On January 21, 1928 the hospital was moved to the new hospital on Michigan Ave. In those days one could get a private room in the Holland Hospital for $8 a day. The hospital was paid for by the profits of Holland's Board of Public Works. Through the efficiency of the Board's managers and the public spirited men who have served as the Board of Directors, the Holland Board of Public Works had done much for our city, Mrs. Kools said.

Through her vast experience in Holland's Hospitals Mrs. Kools related many stories.

Cyriel Harper, 21, of 238 West 24th St., suffered minor injuries when the car in which she was riding was struck from behind while slowing along northbound Michigan Ave., for a left turn at 26th St. The car was driven by Douglas E. Harper, 20. The other vehicle, a truck, was operated by Dick Baumann, 26, of 5833 128th Ave. The accident occurred Thursday at 6:40 p.m.

THOSE TUMBLIN' TUMBLEWEEDS

We have received a release from the National Geographic that has this to say in part: "People may sing about tumbleweeds or swear at them, burn them or decorate them, but no one living on the western plains can ignore them. The mobile monstrosities thrive where other plants die, grow to impressive size, proliferate at an astonishing rate, and driven by a good breeze can cover tremendous distances at a fast clip.

"The galloping growths may delight many children as playthings, but they have been plaguing ranchers, farmers, and even town dwellers in the American West for nearly a century. The brush-balls that gambol so freely across the countryside are known variously as saltwort, Russian thistle, prickly grasswort, wind-witch and tumbling thistle.

"The seeds of the Russian thistle apparently were brought to South Dakota in 1873 or 1886, mixed with a shipment of flaxseed from Europe. By 1895 the troublesome weed had spread throughout the plains, rolling across the American West and part of Canada. The dry, prickly bush contains up to 60 feet of thin, tough branches intertwined into a ball that can measure anywhere from two to 10 feet in diameter.

"An extensive root system enables the weed to flourish in areas with minimal rain. But by autumn the plant is dead. Then the wind twists it off its stem and it embarks on its aimless journey. One tumbleweed can scatter some 20,000 hardy seeds along its trail, assuring a generous crop of weeds next year.

"Rolling as easily across water and land, the weeds continue tumbling until they encounter an obstruction. As more tumbleweeds pile up, they may push down the obstacle or climb over it. Tumbleweeds have toppled fences and buried a ranch house to its eaves. They have caused crashes when motorists were startled to find a platoon of the big bushes bearing down on their cars.

"A farmer once had his entire crop of ripe cotton picked clean in an afternoon by an invading army of tumbleweeds that raced through his fields and disappeared across the horizon.

"But some people have put the nuisance plant to work. In the early 1950's, the Texas Pacific Railroad was spending $5,000 a mile to shovel drifting sand that kept burying the tracks between Big Spring and El Paso in Texas. Then the railroad erected a two-strand fence of barbed wire beside the roadway. Tumbleweeds piled up against the barrier and effectively filtered out nearly all the sand.

"Some creative people dye tumbleweeds and put colored lights and ornaments on them to brighten living rooms at Christmas. And one firm cooks the plants to make them pliable, then shapes them into floral decorations. Tests at the University of New Mexico several years ago showed tumbleweeds to be rich in protein. Some farmers now grind up the pesky weeds, add molasses, and feed the mixture to their cattle.

"But researchers at the University of California are studying moths from Pakistan and Turkey that may be imported to eat holes in this country's growing wall of tumbleweed."

We hope the researchers find the answer to the problem.

A car operated by Judith Ann Wolters, 21, of 2054 Scotch Dr., backing south along Lincoln Ave. 35 feet north of 20th St. at 12:45 a.m. today went off the road way and rolled into a ditch. She was not reported injured.

The Holy Spirit in Christian Growth
John 16:12-15; Romans 8:26-27;
Galatians 5:16-17, 22-25
By C. P. Dame

Within the last few years much interest has been shown in the work and person of the Holy Spirit. This lesson on Christian growth is timely. Without the work of the Holy Spirit, Christians do not grow spiritually. This lesson fixes our minds upon the truth that the Holy Spirit glorifies Christ and teaches believers.

I. The Holy Spirit glorifies Christ. Three passages comprise the lesson text. One was written by John, the other two by Paul. All tell about the Holy Spirit. On Thursday night before His crucifixion Jesus talked much to the apostles who felt Jesus was about to leave them and they would be leaderless. Jesus told them about the coming and ministry of the Holy Spirit—the third Person of the Trinity. He would reprove the world but guide the disciples and open their eyes to the glorious things they had heard but never fully understood. In a world full of lies the Spirit of Truth would reveal to them all about the truth concerning Jesus Christ. At that stage in their spiritual life Jesus could not tell them more. The Holy Spirit would take the truths of Jesus, make them clear, and enable them to record it. The mission of the Holy Spirit is to glorify the Son. When the Holy Spirit would possess them they would do likewise.

II. The Holy Spirit teaches. In Romans 8, one of the greatest chapters in the Bible, Paul records that the Holy Spirit teaches believers what and how to pray. One day the apostles had asked Jesus to teach them how to pray. In the days to come the Holy Spirit would lead them and tell them how to pray according to God's will. Prayers are at times unanswered for they are prompted by self-will. The Spirit uses our sighs which express our desires—words can not do that.

III. The Holy Spirit is in conflict. Paul describes the works of the flesh, that is the works of the natural man. Verses 19, 20 and 21 cite the sins which are reported daily. The Spirit produces fruit. In verses 22 and 23 they are recorded. The Spirit's fruit is manifested in the lives of Christian people. Believers are commanded to walk by the Spirit and thus show that they have been crucified with Christ and hence dead to sin but alive to Jesus Christ. Love makes the law unnecessary. The church and the world need believers with life in abundance.

As part of the total program, volunteer orientation and training sessions will be conducted by Mrs. van Rossem, who will also work closely with Mrs. Judson Bradford, president of the Hospital Auxiliary Board, in developing new avenues of volunteer service.

One of the newest volunteer services is Errand and Escort, which was started in April. Volunteers donate a half a day per week and are on call for assisting any of the hospital departments. Assistance includes service for the laboratory, delivering patients to and from the X-ray department, and assisting with patient admissions and discharges.

"Errand and Escort is doing a terrific job," Mrs. van Rossem said. "We need more people to help on Saturday mornings and Sunday afternoons."

Mrs. van Rossem will hold an Errand and Escort refresher session Thursday, July 24, in the Heritage Room of the hospital.

"Anyone interested in joining the Errand and Escort service is most welcome to attend. This service does require training in equipment handling and hospital decorum, as well as a familiarity with the physical layout of the Hospital."

Over 900 persons of all ages are participating in hospital volunteer work. Many are members of the several hospital guilds whose purposes are as varied as their membership.

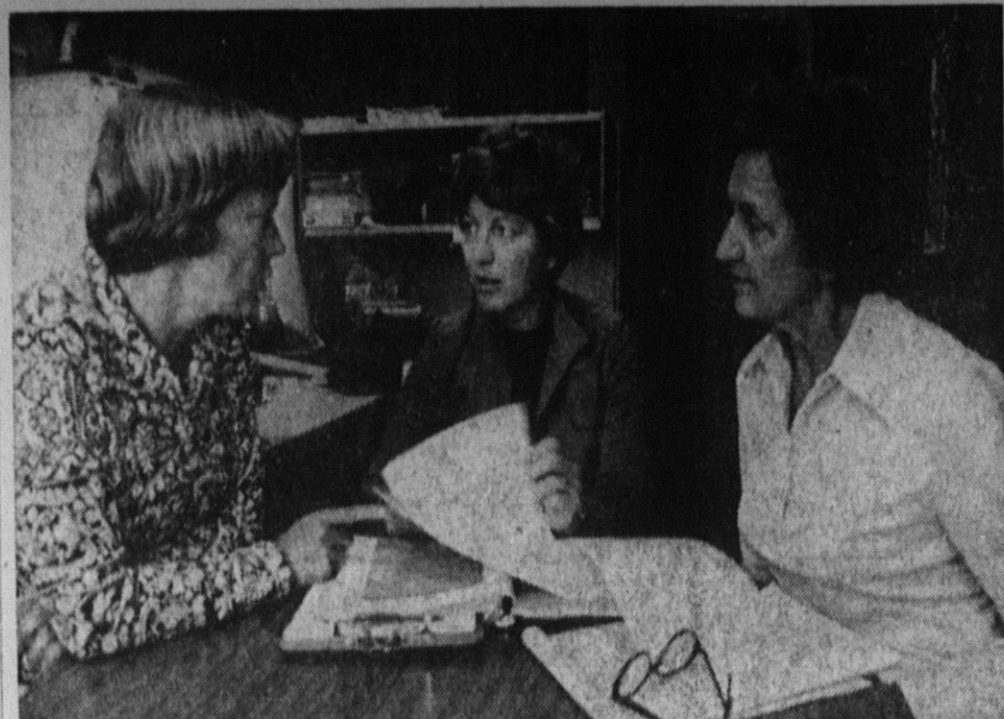

Some guilds, such as the William C. Warner Guild, work directly with the patients. This guild is involved in patient feeding.

"During the school year, Hope College students and Horizon girls also assist the nursing staff with patient feeding. This service has helped the staff tremendously and we're hoping to recruit more volunteers into this area," Mrs. van Rossem said.

Other guilds deliver mail and flowers to patients and help with visitor cards or staff the Hospitality Shop.

The Hospitality Shop is totally self supporting. Proceeds from the shop are turned over to the Auxiliary and are used to purchase hospital equipment and furnishings and, even underwrite the Nursing Loan Fund.

Often the guilds have earmarked their donations for a specific purchase. The Rena

Local Hospital Has New Director of Volunteers

Mrs. Arnold van Rossem, prominent in area civic affairs, has been named Director of Volunteer Services at Holland Hospital.

"The hospital places a high value on the people who volunteer their services here, and we want them to feel their time and efforts are being used to the best effect," said Frederick S. Burd, Hospital Director. "It will be Mrs. van Rossem's responsibility to guide and assist our volunteers in achieving these goals. Prospective volunteers will receive personal interviews to make sure that particular skills and talents are recognized and used wherever possible."

Dutch Novelist, Wife Here on Research Tour

Max Dendermonde, a well known Dutch novelist and feature writer, and his wife Annelies, a professional photographer, were in Holland over the weekend on a research project which included photographs of local Dutch heritage.

With Willard C. Wichers of the Netherlands Consulate as host, the couple visited Dr. A. C. Van Raalte's grave, Windmill Island, the Pillar Church, Netherlands Museum, various historical markers, Graafschap, Old Wing Mission, Overisel, Drenthe, Bentheim, Vriesland, Zeeland, Boreculo and Groningen, besides studying Dutch architecture and familiar Dutch names on signs.

Dendermonde, who writes scripts for Dutch programs as well as full length features, is currently on assignment for a series in the Dutch women's magazine, Margriet. He and his photographer wife work as a team. They have traveled all over the world, including 48 of America's 50 states.

From Holland they left for Columbia, Md., a new city near Washington, D.C., a city similar to Reston, Va., also planned as a model city. They also hope to do a story on artist Norman Rockwell, now in his 80s and recovering from a stroke in his home in the New England area. Rockwell is the prolific artist who did hundreds of covers for the old Saturday Evening Post.

While in Holland, Dendermonde used Sue Wildschut as model for a story of a young woman born in the Netherlands and now living in the United States. Sue was born in Friesland and came here with her parents. She works at Ottawa Savings and Loan, and her father works at Chris Craft. Sue was photographed at work and in Dutch costume. Her father also was photographed at work.

Dendermonde expects to return to Holland in September, doing further research on a series of the moods of America on the eve of its 200th birthday. This series is scheduled to run in 14 Dutch newspapers.

'Arsenic and Old Lace' Is Ideal Red Barn Fare

By Helen Wright

"Arsenic and Old Lace," that favorite of amateur and students for its wealth of good roles that almost play themselves and its story that has wide audience appeal is an ideal summer theatre vehicle.

Put together with a handsome set, by Director-designer Ted Kistler, paced briskly, but not incoherently, and acted by a set of professional performers, it provides a fine summer evening's entertainment at the Red Barn.

Following on the heels of the intensity of "Superstar," it provides a change of pace for the competent actors that they seem to relish.

Keystones of the farce, for it is a farce in the best theatrical sense of fast-paced nonsense, witty dialogue and broadly-drawn, amusing characters, are the roles of Abby and Martha Brewster, the always ladylike pair of poisoners. Both Bea Beaupre, as Abby and Deborah Nelson as Martha move within an aura of gentility and eccentricity that conveys the off-balance sisters without minimizing their essential sweetness that drives their young nephew to the extremes he follows to protect them.

Outstanding in a role that in less sure hands can be just a lay-figure is David C. King, as Mortimer Brewster, drama critic and the only sane member of the Brewster clan. He veers believably from ardent pursuer of the delectable Elaine to staunch and exasperated supporter of his two dotty aunts and implacable, but slightly ineffectual foe of his evil brother. Simon Frederick as the brother convinced he is Teddy Roosevelt fills the role physically as well as mentally, contributing to the hilarity without slowing the play's pace. Don Bonevich as the evil brother is delightfully homicidal, but bears a stronger resemblance to Bela Lugosi than to Boris Karloff, which puts one off a bit.

He was the tenth traffic fatality in Ottawa County this year.

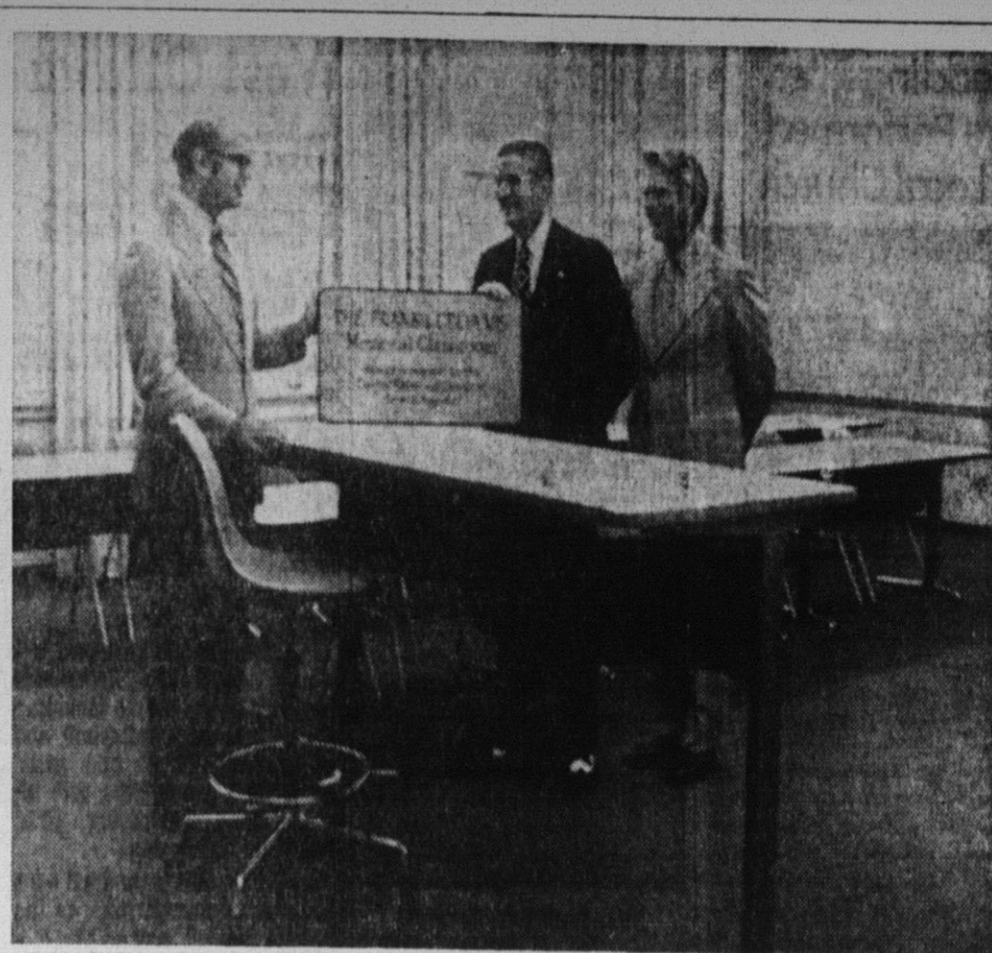

Ottawa County deputies said Baker apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car and he sustained a broken neck and head injuries. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

HUDSONVILLE — Robert M. Baker, 34, of Grand Rapids, was killed at 3:40 a.m. Friday when the car he was driving east along the Ford Freeway went off the road and struck a guard rail at 22nd Ave. and rolled over.

HONORED BY GUARD — Second Lt. Keith Klingenberg (left) whose tour of duty with the Holland National Guard Unit ended June 24, was honored by the unit Monday for his meritorious service and received a plaque at the regular meeting from unit commander First Lt. Dwayne Nienhuis (right). Klingenberg enlisted in Co. B, 3rd, BN., 126th Infantry April 6, 1970 and was commissioned Second Lieutenant Jan. 24, 1972. In his letter of commendation to Klingenberg, Nienhuis said he gave assignments to Klingenberg "not because you were the most experienced or best qualified but because I knew that your only standard of performance is perfection." He added "your past performance has and will be a model for others to follow." (Sentinel photo)

Ridder, (right), former president of Western, and now senior pastor of the Central Reformed Church came with his vice-president of the consistory, Dave Hoogerhyde, (middle), to inspect the finished classroom with Dr. I. Summer Tour of Homes Delights 700 Visitors

By Lorraine Hohl

Six completely different and strikingly charming homes in the Saugatuck-Douglas communities passed the scrutiny and admiration of a large group, estimated at 700 visitors Monday. The event was the Douglas Garden Club Homes Tour.

At each home on the tour hostesses greeted the tour group and pointed out special features. At the entrance to each home clever welcoming arrangements were created by the Junior Garden Club members, with each one being judged along with the arrangements placed throughout the rooms in each home.

Many of the touring group started out by having a special Garden Club luncheon at one of the Saugatuck restaurants. Among the tourists were members from garden clubs in the area, including a large group from the Holland Garden Club.

With so many resorters here for the peak month of July, license plates were in evidence from surrounding states.

Punch and cookies were served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Morey, the gracious French provincial home on Lakeshore Dr., utilizing the patio at the rear for the refreshments. The spacious grounds formed the perfect setting for this delightful home.

Tours started at any one of the six homes. According to the clever tickets, which included sketches of each home by Kim Harrington and a map showing the route, the tour started at the home of Roger Brower and Wayne Weeks at 412 Francis St. Using their many antiques skillfully to create special interest in each room, the owners have completely renovated both the house and the yard. A clever use of a stained glass panel served as a room divider between living room and entry. Old paneling from the Chicago Union Pacific Hotel has been restored to its original beauty.

Next on the list was the Bird home at 290 Spear St., owned and restored by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Graves. It has been in the Bird family since 1891. Mrs. Graves is the former Elita Bird. She was dressed in appropriate garb as she greeted visitors. Each room has been lovingly renovated using some of the choice family heirlooms, including a child's cradle and rocker which is used by Graves grandchildren and great grandchildren. The table settings in the dining room are favorites.

It isn't everyone who can be a guest in a house behind and above a grist mill. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Peterson have taken stair rails and other significant portions from the old Brittain House, which formerly was located where the bank parking lot is now. The windows in the living area overlook the channel to Kalamazoo Lake. Other windows are equally viewful. The home at 844 Holland St., is much photographed and a painter's delight.

In surroundings like the chalet-type house now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fara at 649 Pleasant Ave. in Saugatuck, it is understandable that it was originally built as an artist's studio. The stairways into the house and down to the studio from the balcony were a bit difficult to negotiate, but the charm of the home was worth the effort. It has been made for year round living and the Faras who live in La Porte, Ind., use it as their vacation home. The landscape surrounding the house and going down the hill are all a painter could expect.

One of the newest homes on the tour which attracted much attention was the newly-completed home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Corlett Jr. at the corner of Main and South Sts. in Douglas. It is cantilevered over a ravine and has many of the barn board lumber used effectively inside. The balcony looks out over the ravine and down under is a perfect secluded spot for children and dogs. The bright sunny bedroom and the use of stained glass panels delighted the tourists.

Already mentioned is the sixth home of the tour, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Morey at 2801 Lakeshore Dr. in Douglas. One of the showplaces on the Lakeshore, the interior with its French provincial decor, is the perfect example of the use of the delicate furnishings for beauty with the comfort and lived-in feeling of many of the rooms like the breakfast room and the porch.

Co-chairmen, Mrs. John Marple and Mrs. James Seymour and their committees from the Douglas Garden Club, can take a bow for a truly memorable afternoon tour. Winners of the flower arrangements and the junior arrangers will be listed in a separate story.

Alternative Education Program Under Study

The concept of an Alternative Education program aimed at spotting potential dropouts and providing instruction on a more individualized basis was approved by the Board of Education at a regular meeting Monday night in the administrative building on Apple Ave.

Dr. Eugene Scholten, school psychologist and co-chairman of the Alternative Education Committee, outlined recommendations of the committee which had been at work for over nine months. He said for several years the dropout rate in Holland schools was about 5 per cent which was low compared with other districts, but the last few years the rate inched up to 6 per cent and possibly 7 per cent.

He suggested that emphasis be put on 15 and 16-year-olds in junior high, and that a program for 25 to 30 potential dropouts be implemented within the coming year in quarters near the school but not inside the school, since the program is flexible and somewhat different from regular school disciplines. If the junior high program proves successful, he suggested a similar program on the high school level be implemented the following year.

Dr. Scholten said the local program is patterned somewhat after the Walbridge Academy of 250 students which has been in operation in Grand Rapids since 1966 under the Grand Rapids Board of Education. This program provides for completing high school requirements for graduation. He said programs of this type are becoming common and specialists and funding are available. The board expects further discussion on the alternative program at its Aug. 4 meeting. The board also tentatively approved a budget of $7,609,565 for the 1975 - 76 school year.

As outlined by Business Manager Lee Van Aelst, the budget at present does not have specific allocations for all personnel, but the capital improvement section is completed, and action is taken now so that orders may proceed for capital outlay. Action on the complete budget is slated for this fall when a public hearing will be scheduled.

Staff appointments were approved as follows: Lucia C. Bright, a 1975 graduate of Michigan State University, sixth grade at Lincoln School; Linda Schut, 1970 graduate of Northwestern College with three years experience, Lakeview kindergarten; Deborah Burke, 1975 graduate of Grand Valley State College, elementary art specialist; Kim Kraushaar, 1975 graduate of Albion College, vocal music in E. E. Fell Junior High School.

Supt. Donald L. Ihrman said all teaching posts have been filled for the school district with the exception of a half-time home ec teacher for the high school. He informed the board he is screening applications for two administrative positions, assistant superintendents for instruction and personnel, and would arrange interviews with the board for three applicants each.

Attention was called to a meeting of the Ottawa-Allegan Intermediate District Aug. 13 at 6:30 p.m. in Holiday Inn where two vocational administrators of the Kent County Skill Center will explain the skill center program.

The resignation of James Piers as school social worker for three years was accepted. Piers has accepted a position as assistant professor of sociology at Hope College.

The board took no action on an offer to purchase property near Federal School.

Concern for students living in Meadow Lanes and Forty West apartments was expressed. Last year a private program was arranged to provide transportation to Jefferson and other schools. The matter was referred to the superintendent to review transportation policies and report back.

A communication from Mrs. Gardner Wierenga thanked the board for expressions of sympathy to her husband who served in the military in the death of her superintendent for instruction for the past six years.

Board President Charles Bradford presided and gave the invocation. At the close of the

Moliere's 'The Miser' Full Of Laughs and Surprises

By Cornelia Van Voorst

A French comedy can be highly entertaining when done well, and Moliere's "The Miser" proved to be a happy choice for the second selection in the Hope Summer Repertory Theatre season, opening Friday night to an enthusiastic crowd.

Director Rex McGraw, head of a graduate professional directing program at Ohio University, chose a thrust stage for the lively comedy which centered about Peter U. Saputo in the title role. Saputo, who has had 20 years of experience as acting instructor at Indiana University, is at Hope this summer as guest actor-instructor, and besides acting is teaching an apprentices' class.

Saputo, in a real switch from his Persian peddler role in "Oklahoma!" last week, played the miser with a zest that would have pleased the French playwright in the 17th century. The play was exceptionally well paced, sometimes even frantic in its lively action, and there were probably even more laughs than in "Oklahoma!" which alternates with "The Miser" for the next two weeks until the opening of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" Aug. 1.

"The Miser," written in 1668, has many of the same comedy touches familiar in Shakespeare's works, full of mixups and, to some degree, mistaken identity. The Hope production was particularly well cast, demonstrating a fine talent and "a feel for Moliere" for rare enjoyment.

There were several bonuses in songs and byplay in introducing various scenes as well as some early songs and games as the first nighters were being seated. One garden scene featured a living statue in aged marble, providing a hilarious sequence that brought heavy applause.

Saputo as the miser received strong support from the romantic young leads played by A. C. Weary, Beverly Feldt, Cliff Radcliffe and Denise Sachs, all in gorgeous costumes of the lush 17th century France.

Shelley Crandell, the Laurey of "Oklahoma!" completely switched roles for a French adventure, aiding or hindering a farcical plot which had the miser courting the same young girl his son was in love with.

Other roles, most of them comical, were played by Brian Kent, William F. Hoffman, Daniel Feldt, Cheri Chenoweth, Cliff Yankovich, Bill Lawson, William Te Winkle, Michael Smit, Dixie Fair and Amy Mills.

Hoffman, who appeared as the miser's cook and coachman, a particularly active role, will be directing the third play, "Saint Joan." Hoffman is a graduate of McGraw's acting program.

Costume design was in charge of Mary Schakel, scenic design by Richard Smith and lighting by Gary Gene Smith.

The summer repertory program runs through Sept. 6 with nightly performances (except Sunday) at 8:30 p.m. in the air-conditioned De Witt Theatre.

Jupiter has 11 times the diameter, 318 times the mass, and 1,300 times the volume of earth, but only a fourth of its density, National Geographic says.
