Twins Entwine: An Identical Love Story

UNDERSTANDABLE CONFUSION — Friends and relatives may be confused at times trying to identify these sets of identical twins who married each other. Celia and John Cathey (on left) were married Aug. 14, 1976 while Sybil and Ron Cathey became husband and wife on Dec. 18, 1976. The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Sanford of 2415 Lakewood Blvd. (Sentinel photo by Dave Sundin)

By Maurice Evans

Identical twins marrying identical twins—what are the odds on that happening?

Describing identical twins may be next to impossible but separate individuals with inseparable traits might be as good as any definition.

Case in point, Celia and Sybil, 21-year-old identical twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Sanford of 2415 Lakewood Blvd., are indeed distinguishable individuals but with similar likes.

The twins look alike, talk alike and—have husbands who are alike—in fact the husbands are identical twins.

To be specific, Celia was married to John Cathey, 22, of High Point, N.C. on Aug. 14, 1976 while Sybil married John's twin Ron on Dec. 18, 1976. The foursome met each other at a Bible class study while Celia and Sybil parents were living in High Point. The look alike foursome are currently in the Holland area visiting the girl's parents while on a week's vacation.

"It was Aug. 27, 1972 when we all met," said John in his friendly southern accent. "There was never any doubt who was going to go out with who."

Before meeting, John and Ron said they had heard about the girls living in High Point and said it would be nice to meet them. The girls had also heard about the boys and felt the same way, but the meeting of the twins took place with no set up involved which friends had tried to arrange previously.

Confusion when talking to the foursome can be understandable but they have made it easier to distinguish each other when Celia cut her hair shorter, Ron grew a mustache and for at least this summer, John has lighter colored hair due to being in the sun. But even those differences may not be enough at times.

The girls laughed when they explained their mother-in-law still has a hard time telling them apart. "We're accustomed to being called the girls or hey you," said Sybil.

The twins also said they are thought of as one person at times instead of separate individuals. "Sometimes people ask me where John is if I'm by myself," said Ron. "It's like we can't be separated."

John said there were moments in their lives when they didn't want to be associated as twins while the girls were never bothered by the thought. All four agreed the advantages of having one so close is an asset in life.

Both twins said it's like having a built in playmate, the other person is so much alike that they can understand experiences the other goes through.

The girls' mother, Jeanne Sanford said, "It takes a twin to know a twin." She noted in the past the girls have done similar things like shopping separately and bringing the same thing home, getting dressed into identical clothes without each other knowing and cooking the same meals on the same day.

The girls said they had gone shopping separately and came home with the bill being within a few pennies of each other. "It was only a penny difference one time," said Ron.

The twins also said they are known as mirror twins, meaning they are a reflection of one another when looking in a mirror. Examples include John and Celia being right handed and parting their hair on one side while Ron and Sybil are left handed and parting their hair on the opposite side. John admits he has more of a temper than Ron while Sybil is more domineering than Celia.

How come there was no double wedding?

"People expected it," said Sybil. "But Ron and I were not ready to get married and we didn't want to have a double wedding. A lot of people asked us when it was going to be our turn at John and Celia's wedding."

Since birth when John was born nine minutes ahead of Ron on Oct. 15, 1954 and Sybil became two minutes older than Celia on July 30, 1956 they have enjoyed their pastimes. The boys like playing the guitar, photography, tennis and water sports while the girls enjoy—what else, playing the guitar, water sports, tennis and horses.

Mrs. Sanford, proud of her daughters and sons-in-law, noted her girls are good at writing, saying both wrote mystery books when they were young while John and Ron are skilled at drawing such things as water and animal scenes.

Celia and Sybil are the fifth set of twins on Sanford side of the family while John and Ron are the first in theirs. "Our future children do not have as good of a chance to have twins as their children might," said John. "But Celia's and my children and Ron and Sybil's, when born, will be more like brothers and sisters than cousins because of the gene make up we have."

Presently Ron is working in a Sears store and is thinking of going into wildlife conservation while Sybil is an accounts receivable clerk. John is in college at the University of North Carolina-Charlotte majoring in biology while Celia is working as an inventory file clerk.

When both couples were married, they lived seven miles apart in High Point, according to Celia. "But now we live three doors apart," she said.

PRICE 15 CENTS

Allegan Okays Township Police

By Steve Spalding

ALLEGAN — Hiring of nine additional Allegan county sheriff's patrolmen to patrol township areas was tentatively approved by the Allegan County Commission Tuesday.

The deputies will be used to patrol 19 of the county's 24 townships. Money for the project will be paid for with CETA funds. Undersheriff Robert Hill said he feels the townships who haven't joined the program will do so shortly.

The $114,000 project was part of $281,000 in ten CETA funded projects given first approval by the commission.

The funds for a planned property description project for the county had to be cut by more than half because of the township patrol approval.

However, the commissioners turned down by a 2-10 vote the hiring of three sheriff's personnel for a planned traffic safety bureau after approving 7-5 the township patrol.

The sheriff's department originally had asked for six patrolmen but asked for an additional three patrolmen because the township supervisors indicated to the department they wanted a 24 hour patrol rather than the planned 16 hour patrol.

Two patrol cars will have to be bought with the funds for the additional men. A clerk typist also will be hired for the township patrol.

The townships serviced by the patrol will pay $750 for the one-year program which covers operation and maintenance of the cars, according to Allegan County Undersheriff Robert Hill.

The new deputies will be paid $4.25 an hour and the clerk typist will receive $3.14 an hour.

Some commissioners questioned whether townships without the patrol will receive the benefit of the township patrol without paying for the service, but Hill said those areas would not receive regular patrols. However, the sheriff's department will continue to handle emergency calls in those areas, he said.

An earlier amendment by Commissioner Anthony Wykstra of Martin to cut the proposed patrol back to six deputies was turned down by a 3-9 vote.

A later proposal to establish a traffic safety bureau to keep records and run a traffic safety program for county schools was turned down.

Commissioner Kirke White of Hamilton told the sheriff's department "your well has run dry" with the passage of the township patrol.

The traffic safety bureau would have cost an additional $32,000.

Hill said the bureau, besides keeping records and running the safety program, would have made the department eligible for federal funds.

Nine additional projects were approved in the same package with the township patrol, including $103,255 for an updated, property description survey.

Money for the project under the County Equalization Department had to be cut from the original proposal of $217,750 because of the passage of the township patrol.

The survey of property in the area will give a more accurate description of property for townships, according to County Equalization Director Walter Mesik.

He said one-third of the project won't be completed because of the cut. "It will be a problem selecting what units of government to work with," he said.

The projects need the approval of the Grand Rapids Area Management Committee (GRAMC) advisory board. After the advisory board's approval, the projects return to the Allegan County Commission and then are considered by the GRAMC executive board.

Other projects given tentative approval by the board are $39,227 for four Allegan school projects, including $11,992 for refinishing furniture, $7,845 for updating records, $16,009 for roof repair, and $3,451 for an ice skating rink.

In addition, the board approved four other projects: $15,324 for refinishing furniture for Hamilton schools, $6,500 for a Casco township beautification project, $5,000 for a Chesire township beautification project and $2,400 for a child day camp for Saugatuck township. ### Sauers Slaying Suspect Charged

By Steve Spalding

MANHATTAN, Kan. — The accused killer of Spec. 4 James Sauers, 19, of Holland, is being held in Riley county jail pending a preliminary hearing Aug. 19 on first degree murder charges.

Sgt. Earl A. Roberts, 37, is charged with the shooting death of Sauers Monday evening in a trailer court near Fort Riley where the former Holland resident was stationed.

Roberts was captured at 7:55 a.m. Tuesday in a wooded area close to the trailer court. A shotgun believed to be the murder weapon was found in the wooded area Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Sauers was in the trailer with Roberts' wife, Donna Lynn Roberts, and another unidentified man and woman when Roberts allegedly tried to force his way into the trailer, according to a Riley county sheriff's detective.

The victim was trying to stop Roberts from entering the trailer when Roberts allegedly shot through the door, hitting Sauers in the chest and arm, according to the detective.

He was only struck with one blast, not two as earlier police reports indicated.

Police say Sauers retreated to a bed and fell down from the wounds. The other three occupants of the trailer were not shot and were able to flee from Roberts.

Roberts entered the trailer and allegedly shot again at Sauers and then left the building and escaped to the wooded area about one-half mile from the trailer court, according to the police spokesman.

Police from four agencies surrounded the wooded area, but did not go after the suspect until daylight. He did not offer any resistance to the arresting officers when captured, the detective said.

Sauers died in the Fort Riley base hospital at 1 a.m. Tuesday from the shotgun blast.

James Alan Sauers

The suspect had recently been served divorce papers shortly after his arrival in Kansas in late July from his base in Germany.

"At this point, the motivation is questionable. We don't know if the shooting was caused by Sauers, or if Sauers happened to be in the way," the police spokesman said.

Sauers was born in Ludington and came to Holland as a child. He attended local schools including Holland High School. He entered the U.S. Army in June, 1975.

Surviving are his mother, Betty Pamame; two brothers, Lester Sauers, Jr. and Martin Pamame; two sisters, Lisa Sauers and Michelle Pamame; his grandmother, Mrs. Rachel Pamame, all of Holland and several uncles, aunts and cousins.

Holland Serviceman Slain

By Steve Spalding

MANHATTAN, KAN. — A Holland serviceman was killed by two blasts from a shotgun in a house trailer late Monday evening near the Fort Riley base where he is stationed.

Spec. 4 James Alan Sauers, 19, son of Betty Pamame, 131 West 17th St., died at 1 a.m. Tuesday at the hospital at Fort Riley from bullet wounds to the chest and arm. The incident occurred around 10 p.m. Monday evening when Sauers and another unidentified soldier were in a trailer occupied by Donna Lynn Roberts, according to a Fort Riley spokesman.

Mrs. Roberts' husband, Sgt. Earl A. Roberts, 37, has been arrested and charged with the slaying of Sauers.

According to a Riley county sheriff's department report, Roberts apparently tried to force his way into a trailer at the Red Bud trailer court. After getting resistance from inside, Roberts allegedly fired twice through the door and one of the blasts struck Sauers in the arm.

Sauers ran to another part of the trailer and Roberts, after gaining entry to the trailer, apparently shot the victim in the chest. Another person in the trailer called police and Sauers was taken to the Manhattan Community Hospital and later taken to the Fort Riley base hospital where he died.

No one else in the trailer was injured in the incident.

Roberts was on leave from Germany where he manages a non-commissioned officers club.

Sauers was assigned to the 74th ordnance detachment at Fort Riley.

The body is scheduled to be brought to the Dykstra Funeral Home soon and funeral arrangements will be announced.

Concern Pays Off

"The White House, Washington, July 27, 1977

"Dear Mr. Martin: Because of your special contribution to the passage of the strip mine bill, The President has asked me to invite you to attend the signing ceremony for H.R. 2..."

It's a letter not just everyone receives, but long-time Holland resident Fred Martin "Just a plain old Hillbilly with a beard and whiskers," did. At the urging of his friends, Martin attended the Washington affair, held Aug. 3, 9 a.m. at the Rose Garden of the White House.

There were approximately 250 people at the ceremony, "almost all of them I talked to environmentalists," Martin said.

President Carter headed the signing, which was shortened by rain, causing Carter to quip "We'd better get this over with before everything washes away," in reference to the effects of erosion on strip-mined land.

Martin said he was within about eight feet of Carter.

Fred Martin's role in getting the bill passed was to write to Rep. Morris Udall (D-Ariz.), describing in detail his dealings with the state of Kentucky and a strip-mining company that failed to return to its original condition land

Martin owned after he allowed it to be mined.

He was glad he went to the ceremony, but Martin is not resting on his laurels. The land in Kentucky he owns still has not been repaired,

Help For Troubled Today's, Brighter Tomorrows

By Doug Irons
"Hoy means something like we have to get started today, do something now, help each other today. It is relevant to our services and our philosophy."

So Armando Tena, director of Hoy, Inc., described the acronym for his Help Our Youth program, dedicated to the education, treatment and prevention of alcohol abuse, alcoholism and substance abuse in Holland, Allegan and Ottawa counties for all ages.

The Spanish word "hoy"

can be translated "today."

Two separate Hoy programs operate in this area. The Holland office at 21 W. 16th St. coordinates the Ottawa county effort and is known as "Hoy-Centro Latino De Servicios Humanos," while the Fennville-based Allegan program, 131 Main St. is called "Programa El Sol."

Hoy, Inc.'s program first seeks to prevent substance abuse by showing individuals the physiological, psychological and social effects of alcohol or drug misuse.

They also give presentations to the community: in schools, to industries and before youth groups.

Hoy's activities are not confined to high school and beyond, usually thought of as the major problem group for alcohol or drug misuse, but have given their preventive talks to junior high or elementary school youth also.

"We've expanded our services to cover every age group," Tena said. "By getting involved at any early age, we can make sure this abuse is not a problem in later life. We're hoping to help educate parents of toddlers through contact with the Day Care Program."

Part of that expanded service is an increase in staff size.

From a one-man operation in 1973, Hoy has grown to employ five staff people, including Tena, and two secretaries. All are bilingual and bicultural, which they feel helps them in their work with the Spanish community.

Unique in Holland to Hoy's program is its emphasis on dealing with the Spanish-speaking Chicano and Latino population.

"If referred to other places, one of two things will happen," Tena said. "First, the counselor might not speak Spanish, and the counselee won't speak English, in which case no counseling can take place."

"Second, the Anglo counselor and the Chicano counselee can't bridge the cultural difference between them, in which case the counseling is not effective.

"We try to zero in on the cultural conflict of the Spanish individual coming into an all-Anglo culture."

"For example, in the Spanish culture, the man is the head of the house; the jefe, or chief. Here, the woman often has to work in order to support the family."

"It can create anxiety and frustration in a man used to being and conditioned to thinking of himself as the sole supporter of a household."

Hoy's Spanish counseling staff is well-qualified to help people deal with the anxieties and frustrations that lead to substance abuse.

Tena is a graduate of Wayne State University, with a B.A. in psychology, and will soon receive his Masters in Clinical Psychology from Western Michigan University.

Senior Counselor Gloria Garcia is a graduate of Michigan State University and a newcomer to Holland. She lends a woman's perspective to the work of the program.

Jose Morales, the caseworker and youth worker of the Holland office, has experience with court procedures and will act as advocate for Hoy clients. He is a former Holland police officer and a graduate of West State Police Academy.

Supervisor of the Fennville office of Hoy, "Programa El Sol", Salvador Sandoval is a student at Grand Valley State College who has been with the Hoy program since 1974 and has had much experience and training in the area of alcoholism and substance abuse.

He also serves as counselor

HOY'S FRIENDS — The staff of Hoy, Inc. is qualified, available and willing to help the Chicano or Latino with personal conflicts, especially alcohol or drug abuse problems. From left to right are Jesus Martinez Jr., counselor and caseworker; Gloria Garcia, Senior Counselor; Armando Tena, Director; Salvador Sandoval, Facility Supervisor and Jose Morales, counselor and youth worker.

General Pins Medal on Col. Naber

Naber Gets DSM On Retirement

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md.—Lt. Col. Gerald J. Naber, former resident of Holland, Mich., has been presented with the Air Force Distinguished Service Medal on the occasion of his retirement from the Air Force after more than 25 years of service to the Armed Forces and the nation. He is a son of Mrs. Gertie Naber, 165 East 18th St. and the late Arend Naber.

Naber's military career began when he was accepted at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1948. His active military career began upon graduation from West Point in 1952 with assignment to the U. S. Air Force.

His early career was as a jet fighter pilot with tours of duty in several states including his home state of Michigan and an overseas tour in England. Later he was assigned to staff positions at the Air Force Academy, the Armed Forces Staff School, several positions at the Pentagon and two periods of duty at Andrews Air Force Base.

At the time of his retirement, Col. Naber was assigned as director, command and control, directorate of Flight Management and Operational Plans. He also was deputy chief of staff, test and evaluation, Headquarters Systems Command and was stationed at Andrews AFB.

Naber, his wife and children are living in Springfield, Va., where he will be employed as a consultant with Computer Sciences Corporation, systems division.

Col. Naber is a graduate of Holland Christian High School. He has three brothers, 1st Sgt. Ray Naber and Supply Sgt. Roger Naber with the National Guard, Holland unit, and John, principal of Seymour Junior High School in Grand Rapids. During his high school days, Col. Naber often worked with Nelson Bosman in public address operations.

Vannette - Masselink

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen John Vannette (Rick Nelson photo)

Sandra Kay Masselink and Stephen John Vannette exchanged marriage vows last Saturday, Aug. 6, in early afternoon ceremonies in First Christian Reformed Church of Zeeland. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John Masselink, 243 101st St., Zeeland. The groom is the son of Paul Vannette, 480 Central Ave., and the late Mrs. Vannette.

The Rev. Marvin Doornbos read the rites, with Doug Vanden Berg as organist and Sally Heerspink, soloist.

Bridal attendants included Jane Masselink, maid of honor; Diane Vannette, Nancy Vannette and Linda Nederfelt, bridesmaids, and Mrs. Wes Masselink, personal attendant. Rick Schamper was the groom's best man, with Tom Vannette, Garth Kaashoek and Doug Masselink as groomsmen.

Assisting at the reception in the church were Carol Naugle, Nancy Balkema, Ruth Nykamp, Jim MacKechnie, Marty Hardenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Baron.

Accidents

A car driven north on College Ave. by Peter Gordon Klein, 16, 205 Greenwood, collided with a vehicle driven west on Seventh St. by Mark Alan Wiersma, 25, A-4735 64th St., at 4:10 p.m. Tuesday.

DeVries - Antoon

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jay DeVries

In morning ceremonies on Aug. 6 in the chapel of Western Theological Seminary, Margaret J. Antoon of Hamilton became the bride of Douglas Jay DeVries of Grand Rapids.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Antoon of Hamilton and the groom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Jay DeVries of Byron Center.

Officiating at the 11:30 a.m. rites were the groom's father and the bride's brother-in-law, Peter 'tHoen. John Verheul was organist and Mrs. Kay Deemter was soloist.

Honor attendant for the bride was her sister, Mrs. Ann 'tHoen. Another sister, Melissa Antoon, and Janet Schipper and Mrs. Peg Wieringa were bridesmaids.

Michael De Vries was his brother's best man. Attending as groomsmen were David De Vries, brother of the groom, Raleigh Apol and Dan Wieringa.

For the reception, held in the Blue Room of Warm Friend Motor Inn, Mr. and Mrs. David De Vries were master and mistress of ceremonies. Also assisting were Melissa Antoon, Daniel De Vries and Ester Vander Wal.

The newlyweds planned a honeymoon vacation at a Lake Michigan cottage before making their home in Grand Rapids, where the groom is employed by Kraft Decorators. He is a 1976 graduate and the bride a 1977 graduate of Calvin College.

Local Income Ranked Below State Average

By Doug Irons
Holland was one of 14 Ottawa and Allegan communities that ranked below the state average in per capita income, according to figures released by the Bureau of the Census in Washington.

Holland had a $4,320 average, 212th in the state and $431 below the state norm of $4,751. A total of 531 communities were included in the survey.

Only Ottawa County's Spring Lake, number 35, with an average income of $6,140 and Ferrysburg, number 101 ($4,894), were above the Michigan norm.

Incorporated villages averaged slightly less than the state average figure, with per capita incomes of $4,351.

Newcomers Aiding YMCA In Fund-Raiser

Jan Ritz, president of Holland Newcomers, has announced that at least 26 members of the club are acting as "go-getters" for the YMCA coming White Elephant sale.

Newcomers, providing "people power" for the Y, will be calling on more than 500 store owners and industries to obtain white elephant articles for the event, scheduled Aug. 19 and 20 at the Christian school building, corner of State and Michigan. Proceeds will support local Y programs.

Also Jan Ritz, Chris Broersma, Flo Kessler, Shirley Whitney, Claire Bush, Karen Stewart, Gloria Warner, Ginie White, Brenda Ohmanech, Ginger Justice, Elaine Quinlan and Mary Jo

Three Hurt In Mishap

Three persons were injured and taken to Holland Hospital after a two car collision this morning on 48th St. near the Ex-Cell-O building.

Brian Timothy Shaw, 18, 1354 Edgewood, was admitted for multiple injuries and a passenger in his car, Peter Colella, 52, 354 River Ave., was transferred to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids for internal injuries. The driver of the other car, Arthur Harold Brink, 63, R4 128th Ave., Fennville, was treated and released.

According to Holland police, Brink was starting a left turn in his vehicle from southbound 48th St. into the Ex-Cell-O driveway and collided with the car driven by Shaw northbound on 48th St. at 6:37 a.m.

Oppose Marijuana

President Carter is proposing fines instead of criminal penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

He has tossed his plan to Congress with the statement "this decriminalization is not legalization."

It is not legalization but it certainly is another move toward it. The President noted 45 million Americans have tried marijuana and 11 million are regular users.

Charles L. Lindstrom, Holland Chief of Police, is vehement on the subject. "We strongly oppose attempts at further decriminalization of marijuana. Public Act 196 of 1971 already reduced the use and possession of marijuana from a felony to a simple misdemeanor. It would seem that further decriminalization is but a step along the way to ultimate legalization of marijuana."

The federal penalty for first offenders now is one year in prison and a $5,000 fine. Explaining his plan, Carter said "it means only that the federal penalty for possession would be reduced and a person would receive a fine rather than a criminal penalty."

To this Lindstrom responds, "It would appear to be illogical to in effect legalize small amounts of marijuana and maintain stiff criminal penalties for larger amounts. Already dealers are careful to avoid possessing or distributing larger amounts in single transactions, opting instead for more frequent small transactions. This again is the way local dealers reduce their chances at apprehension and severe penalties."

"Further decriminalization will further encourage the use of marijuana, as already its use is at epidemic proportions. Certainly if President Carter and officials in high offices, such as the President's advisor on drug abuse advocates reduction of penalties or worse, this indicates it can't be so bad."

Then Lindstrom questions "with decriminalization of small amounts of the substance, who is to enforce the civil penalty? Police have been charged with enforcement of criminal laws. The attitude of most police is that they would just wash their hands of enforcement of civil penalties. This, after all, is just not what police are here for."

Lindstrom also notes another unanswered question on the potential health hazards controversy. "Any police officer can document the large number of 'pot heads' who have lost orientation of time, rationality and productivity through continued use of marijuana."

There is also the safety problem of identifying the pot smoking driver, who either through marijuana or marijuana and alcoholic beverages becomes a far worse menace than the already crucial problem of the drinking driver. Police do not have available to them the means of identifying for court purposes the "pot smoking" driver who drives under the influence of marijuana," Lindstrom said.

The chief feared any further encouragement or development of additional social problems. "We have crucial alcohol and substance abuse problems and society is not equipped, financed or prepared to cope with such problems. Legalization and/or decriminalization of small amounts of marijuana is a giant step toward such an additional social problem."

Lindstrom reported the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police strongly oppose Carter's move. "They recognize that society can't have it both ways," Lindstrom concluded.

Congress is home for its annual summer recess. Constituents should tell them how the professionals feel and the president's plan should be defeated.

Concert Association Holding Mini-Campaign

The Holland Concert Association is holding a mini-campaign for its 1977-78 season which opens Friday, Sept. 16, with a concert by Will Parker, baritone, in Dimment Memorial Chapel on Hope College campus.

HUD Grant For Holland

Holland is one of three Western Michigan areas which has been earmarked for a grant for Lower Rental Assistance from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to an announcement from U. S. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt's office in Washington.

Wildwood Park Manor, a proposed housing development for an area between 18th and 19th Sts. between Homestead and Diekema Aves., is designed for housing units for 75 elderly citizens. Lansing developers plan a two-story development. HUD will subsidize the project with $218,316 each year for 20 years for a total amount of $4,366,320.

The area overall is some eight acres with the first phase of the housing project to cover approximately 3½ acres. The HUD grant was listed for Ottawa-Kent area. The local application was one of ten HUD considered.

Similar grants have been approved for two Muskegon applications, Barclay Senior Village in Muskegon and Parkwood in Muskegon Heights. The Barkley development lists 70 elderly housing units, and the Parkwood 100 unit, 69 for elderly and 31 for family.

Young Audience Rates 'The Magic Veil' A Hit

By Ann Oswald

The critics raved about the opening of "The Magic Veil" Tuesday night at the he Studio Theatre in Hope College's DeWitt Cultural Center.

Six-year-old Marcie Dryfhout said that she would tell her friends about it.

"It was good, it was funny," agreed her brother, nine-year-old theatre goer Eddie.

"Yeah, it really was fun," laughed wide-eyed David Vandermere.

One hundred and eleven kids and their parents greeted the Children's Performance Troupe in the first night of "The Magic Veil."

The story tells of a girl named Roxanne who escapes from her nasty older sister into an imaginary world that she enters through a magic veil.

Roxie helps two friends, Quince and Fig, as Fig gets captured by an evil sorcerer and a pair of servants named Ping and Pong. The travel through the magic land is a journey of self-discovery for Roxie as she learns about herself and sees that she is growing old for make-believe.

Throughout the hubbub, the servants Ping and Pong delight the audience with their well-timed, well-executed antics. Quince's personification of a banana and a piece of bacon are especially well done and humorous.

The stage for the children's story is the total area of the Studio Theatre. The multi-level wooden platform fills the whole theatre and brings the students up close to the action.

Max Busch wrote and directed the show, the second Children's Performance Troupe's production of the summer. Three apprentices from the Hope College Summer Repertory Company's Apprentice Program join the Troupe in "The Magic Veil."

Both "Magic Veil" and the Troupe's first show, "Ring the Ancient Bell" will continue through August. "Magic Veil," entertaining a younger audience from age three and up, will be presented Tuesday evenings at 7 p.m. and Saturday mornings at 10:30. "Ring the Ancient Bell," for an age group beginning at five years, will be played Saturday afternoons at 1 p.m.

Hekman - Hardy

Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Hekman

(Essenberg studio)

Harderwyk Christian Reformed Church was the setting for the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Philip De Jonge, with Carol De Jonge as organist and Sharlene Boerman as soloist.

Members of the wedding party included Brenda Husky as the bride's honor attendant; Debbie Hardy, Mary Hekman and Shirley Fleischmann, bridesmaids; Robert Bouman, best man; Kenneth McLeod, Von Hardy and Frederick Hekman, groomsmen, and Victor Hardy and Randall Luth, ushers.

A reception was held at Point West.

Japanese Guests In Local Homes

Prof. Kenji Ohtomo

Seven Japanese educators and students spent a long weekend here with host families as part of their United Nations Educational and Home Stay tour. They came to Holland as a result of the Hope College exchange program several years ago, when one of the Japanese students returned to his country and established a program of regular visits by educators and businessmen to the U.S. This is his fifth such program.

Japanese coordinator with the group this year was Prof. Kenji Ohtomo of Kanagawa University. Also in the group were his wife, Akira Hakamatsuka, a junior high teacher; Shingo Hamada, university student; Yuki Mizutani, business school student; Keiko Amitani and Reiko Amitani, clerks.

Host families were Philip and Donna Hill, Jon and Delores Bechtel, Janice Bosch and Ronald Vander Schaaf. Peg Van Grouw was in charge of arrangements.

By Doug Irons
"It's a way of living up to your fullest potential," Jack Bannink said.

"At this point in my life, I'm doing it because I want to do it," George Kraft said. "I don't play for the 'strokes' I get from other people, but for personal satisfaction."

"It's doing what you want to do," William Carr noted. "Getting out is great."

"It" is running, or jogging, a sport that has seen tremendous growth in just the past few years.

Whether one calls the activity running or jogging is a matter of debate. Some say it all depends on your perspective.

Running is my speed or faster; jogging is your speed or slower, unless you are faster, in which case points are awarded for narrative style, according to one wit in Time magazine, June 6, 1977 issue.

Most serious attempts to define the two terms have been just about as arbitrary, and not nearly so pointed.

An indication of the development of the sport in the Holland area can be seen in the numbers participating in the growing number of races in the area.

The annual Grand Haven road race held this weekend drew a crowd of 189 participants. Just a few years ago, the average field was 30 or 40.

Bannink, an observer of the Holland scene for the past ten years, affirmed that this increase in running has taken place here, noting that interest in all kinds of physical exercise activity has also expanded greatly.

Bannink noted the development of tennis, racketball, cross-country skiing and softball recently. He said, "the whole recreation scene in Holland is growing."

"More and more people are becoming conscious of the fact that they'll have to work at it to be physically and emotionally fit."

"They're looking at jogging as something THEY can do. They're finding out that they feel good once they give it a good try, and miss it if they don't do it for a few days."

Joggers at the Holland Community Pool seemed to bear out Bannink's thoughts.

Seven-year man Bob Kapenga said his doctor set him out on the fitness path. "During a check-up, he asked me what I'm doing for exercise. When I said nothing, he told me to go on down there. He said sitting behind a desk all day may not be good."

"You'd think after a workout you'd go back and want to fall asleep at your desk," David Ter Haar, a full-time participant for a year and a half said. "But you don't. Because you've exercised and showered, you're loose, you feel great and the rest of the day is nice."

Weight control is an advantage mentioned by both Kraft and Webb Van Dokkumberg, another nine-year man in the pool program.

Kraft reports a loss of 40 pounds, down to 180 from 220, in the two years he has been hitting the roads. He's shooting to get down to 170.

"It takes about 35 miles to have a one-pound permanent weight loss," he said. "That puts a lot of people off."

"But in the course of a year, you can lose a tremendous amount. It all depends on whether you want to lose it all in a hurry or want a permanent change."

"Also, if I wanted to, I could eat just about anything that I used to, without gaining weight; it gives you that freedom. For instance, I love ice cream. So I can have a dish or two when it want."

"I don't eat more because I'm conscious of what and how much I should eat now."

Van Dokkumberg and Harv Vandenbosch, a seven-year

From Recreation To Way of Life

Noon-Timer, have also found a comradeship aspect to running at the Pool.

"There's all types of people in the program: stock room clerks, businessmen, professional people, doctors, lawyers, professors," Van Dokkumberg said.

"Nobody has any reverence for anyone else in the program; we fool around, kid each other. Everyone is in the same boat. It's a real release."

"There's a comradeship in it, a bunch of guys all doing the same thing, all putting up with the same things," Vandenbosch noted.

Various reasons for the increases in running have been advanced. They range from closet joggers simply coming to light to a kind of ritual purification rite by the generation that didn't trust anyone over 30, which now finds itself turning 40.

Bannink feels there are a number of causes involved in the popularity explosion of running, including exposure by the mass media, jogging books, such as Dr. Kenneth Cooper's "Aerobics" and the snowballing effect of seeing other people running.

He said also, "people may be beginning to see some of the bad results of all our time- and labor-saving devices."

"All our technological advances may be keeping us away from doing the things we need to do to keep healthy. You've got to eat right and exercise."

"You don't have to run all that I do; (Bannink does seven to nine miles per day, about six days per week) I also run to do well in competition, and that might not be right for you."

"A couple of miles a day would be enough, especially if you get other kinds of exercise on the job or in your recreation."

Why pick running over some other sport, maybe one that seems to offer more tangible satisfactions or excitement?

Kraft says one of the advantages of running over other sports is "all you need is your shoes and you can go out."

Running for Bannink is also one recreational option among many, but it is a special one, too. "Running is so basic to everything else. It's the 'easy' way to get physical fitness. You can do it any time, anywhere, with no equipment at all."

"Besides, you can step out the front door and you're doing

Japanese Glee Club Performs

By Ann Hungerford

The crowd that the Meijigakuin Higashimurayama High School glee club drew to Wichers Auditorium Thursday were performers themselves.

And is often the case performers are the best audience.

Sprinkled throughout the mid-afternoon audience were members of the adult community but it was the youth attending a Hope College summer music camp that signaled its approval for each number with thunderous applause.

The response was so overwhelming that it prompted one Japanese choral member to answer (through interpreter) that Michigan (Hope College) was the favorite spot of the tour which began July 18.

"Why?" he was asked. "The audience," the blue blazer youth replied.

Wardrobes in red ties, blue jackets and shirts and white pants, the formally attired 13 along with their tuxedoed director, Katsumi Kodama, were in sharp contrast to the shorts-attired audience.

The American youngsters appeared enchanted with the Japanese accent evident in the American selections such as "Michael Rowed the Boat Ashore," and "Green Grass of Home."

Hand choreography charmingly added a new dimension to several numbers, particularly one entitled "UPD" and initially "I Love to Go A-Wandering."

A tumultuous standing ovation encouraged the boys back to the stage for an encore of the latter number. For the encore the band encouraged youngsters in audience to join in the chorus line dance routine which was warmly received by both participants and audience.

For the special performance selections from both of the prepared programs were chosen including two piano solos, one by Hiroyuko Takei, "Fantasie Impromptu OP 66 (Chopin) that drew a massive roar from the young musicians in the audience.

Kodama, a vocalist of sheer perfection and delight, also aroused the audience though it seemed that an adult audience would have relished his artistry more thoroughly.

The entire program seemed a prelude to the choir's final number, the "Flogs Chorus," a mime number about our different kinds of frogs at the Foot of Mt. Tsukuba. Kodama's mugging as a front brought a delighted roar from the audience obviously enchanted at a director so willingly able to join in the fun.

Already the glee club has performed in California, Colorado, Iowa and Minnesota. From Michigan the boys will live in various homes for a taste of American life before returning to Tokyo.

Guthrie Appealing, Talented Musician

By Ann Hungerford

Arlo Guthrie deserved a better audience.

While response to his after-race concert in Grand Valley State Colleges fieldhouse was polite, it was far from the ovation the fine performer should have received.

Rather than getting high on the quality music Guthrie was creating onstage, a large percentage of the audience seemed more interested in getting high on pot and alcoholic beverages. Only when Guthrie said goodnight following his two-hour concert did the audience roar its approval, demanding and getting a three-song encore. The ovation at that point was what Guthrie should have commanded all the time.

Perhaps a warm up group would have prepared the audience for the program but Guthrie chose to romp onto the stage with his five-piece backup band, Shenandoah, ten minutes prior to the 8:30 concert time, a situation almost unheard of among rock performers. There was no fanfare, not even an introduction, only a talented young musician ready to do what he came for.

Guthrie slung on his guitar, asked the band if they were ready, and proceeded. Unfortunately it wasn't until the band left the stage and Guthrie performed a humorous story on Moses and the "first song" that he seemed relaxed.

Throughout the evening Woody Guthrie's son fluctuated among guitar, harmonica, piano, and banjo, proving equally adept at each. Only a piece on a "humungous clam" drew Guthrie from his planned program into a little spontaneity with his audience, a moment long-awaited and appreciated.

Guthrie alone onstage performing some of his best songs is masterful. Surprisingly it seems that neither Guthrie complements his band, nor do they complement him, at least on many of the numbers. When Guthrie left the stage and Shenandoah performed its own numbers, the band too was superb.

Choosing to update his concert Guthrie never played his most solid hit, "Alice's Restaurant," an intentional oversight that seemed to mystify his fans. The action was admirable. Guthrie possesses by far enough talent that he need not rely on yesterday.

Departing from what he described humorously as "legitimate serious folk rock" Guthrie displayed his boyish charm while competing with the band in an attempt to play the harmonica. The grin was reminiscent of Guthrie's success in his sole movie, "Alice's Restaurant."

Neither did Guthrie choose to shadow his father, playing none of Woody's most famous songs.

Among the 2,500 who attended the concert too many failed to realize the turn on potential of really good music over and above the pot.

violations covered in a disorderly ordinance passed by the Holland Township Board which met in regular session Thursday night in the township office. The ordinance is similar to other municipalities' disorderly codes including one passed by the Park Township Board in July.

Other disturbances covered by the ordinance are unlawful congregation or melee, acts of physical violence and gunning or racing of engines of motor vehicles including motorcycles. The ordinance sets penalties for conviction up to a $100 fine or up to 90 days in jail or both in the discretion of the court.

Board member, Chester Raak asked who would be enforcing the ordinance in the township. Lloyd Van Doornik, board member, replied it would be the duties of the Ottawa County sheriff's department. The ordinance will go into effect 30 days after publication.

A rezoning request was passed by the board at the Thursday meeting which changes a portion of land east of U.S. 31, north of Quincy St. on 128th Ave. from agricultural to C-2 commercial.

Another rezoning request concerning property next to Leisure Estates being changed from R-2 residential to C-2 commercial was denied by the board. The board cited the Holland Township planning commission recommendation for rejection which includes the following: such rezoning would eliminate a natural break between a commercial zone and residential zone in the form of the Leisure Acres Trailer Park entrance; and if the property in question was rezoned, it could be sold for an undesirable use abutting a residential area.

In other action the board:

— Approved two drain cleaning projects including $8,000 for drains on 144th Avenue from Quincy St. south to Butternut Dr. and $5,000 for drains on 128th Ave. from Greenly St. south to Barnman drain. The projects were awarded to Ronald Meyer Construction.

— Recommended engineering plans for enclosing drains on a portion of Riley St. The board has requested a federal grant for the project amounting to $540,000 with 80 percent going to the township and the other 20 percent to be raised by the county and township with figures to be raised by the governmental units yet to be determined.

— Received for information that 35 building permits were issued in July for Holland Township amounting to $208,675.

— Gave final approval to a plat for Rose Park Subdivision No. 3 which contains six lots.

— Heard a brief presentation from Michigan Pizza Hut Inc. on the possibility of building a Pizza Hut in Holland Township on River Ave. just south of Northland Bowling Lanes. Company representatives present at the meeting asked the board if a beer and wine license would be approved by the board if all township ordinances were met. In a verbal vote which was unofficial, board members told the representatives the licenses could be obtained.

— Passed a recommendation to advertise for bids for replacement of the highway safety vehicle used by Holland and Park Townships.

— Discussed the Ottawa County Road Commission's study on the possible closing of the north end of Elm St. The board will be talking to Elm St. residents to find out their feelings on the proposed closing.

— Approved the acquisition of a snow blower for clearing snow around water hydrants in the winter.

— Approved drawing up specifications for possible remodeling of the old township office into a garage service building.

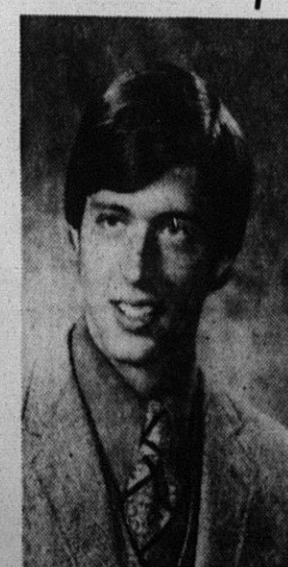

— Received a check from the federal government totaling $67,377 for partial payment for Step II of the Holland Township collection sewer project. The payment was for engineering and design costs of the project.

Theatre Graduate Awarded Fellowship

Soon to appear in "Roar of the Greasepaint, Smell of the Crowd" at Boarshead Theatre/The Ledges in Grand Ledge, will be John L. Beem, a 1973 graduate of West Ottawa High School. The show opens Aug. 17.

In June, Beem graduated magna cum laude, with a BA degree in theatre/education from Michigan State University, and was awarded a scholarship as Outstanding Senior in the department.

In the fall, he will enter the MFA program at Wayne State University on an acting fellowship with the Hilberry Classic Theatre offered during final national auditions for the University Resident Theatre Association.

July Weather Simply Hot

A high of 97, a low of 45 and lots of rain which measured 3.96 inches marked the weather in Holland during July.

It was a month of extremes which included the minimum of 45 on July 27, just three days after the maximum of 97 on July 24, according to records of Weather Observer Glen Timmer.

There were seven days of temperatures in the 90s and two days when the mercury dipped into the 40s. Measurable precipitation fell on 11 days with traces of rain on five other days.

Greatest amount of precipitation in a 24-hour period was 1.13 inches July 18.

There were thunderstorms on four occasions, hail twice and fog twice. Only one tornado watch was listed.

With close to four inches of rain in a month, lawns and farmlands in this area of western Michigan have been particularly green.

Oscar Wilde's 'Earnest' Hailed by Capacity Crowd

By Cornelia Van Voorst

Oscar Wilde's last and most brilliant comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest," was hailed by a capacity crowd of enthusiastic first nighters Friday night in DeWitt Cultural Center, the final entry for the season at Hope Summer Repertory Theatre.

The selection was an excellent choice providing wit and humor in a laugh-packed period comedy which was a sparkling contrast to two musicals, "The Man of La Mancha" and "I Do! I Do!" and the powerful drama, "Death of a Salesman."

"Earnest" continues tonight and Monday and then rotates with the other three plays for the remainder of the season which closes Sept. 3.

With Krikor Satamian of New York City as guest director, Wilde's nonsensical comedy took on a high gloss of sophistication in a Victorian setting involving an unbroken stream of comment on all themes of life—themes such as death and birth, marriage and divorce, health and illness, love and hate, beauty and truth, politics and economics, authors and critics, and much more.

The cast seemed to enjoy the performance as much as the audience, particularly veterans A. C. Weary and Thomas Stechschulte.

Stechschulte had the time of his life as the overpowering, domineering Lady Bracknell, an aunt of one of the ingenues, cavorting around in elaborate Victorian costumes, yet with a certain dignity quite in keeping with other outstanding roles he has played.

Weary and J. Allen Suddeth who played the young male leads kept the wit and action moving at a fast pace, aided by Patricia Turney and Nancy Sigworth, the feminine leads, and David James as a parson and Deborah Lokerson as the governess, all ending up with the inevitable union of lovers—three pairs! Steve Bauer and Don Rice round out the farcical cast as servants.

The production was enhanced by exquisite Victorian costumes designed by Mary Schakel, an intricate Victorian set designed by Todd Lewis Engle, impressive antiques and some unusual music, the latter composed by Paul Johnson.

Friday's opening was something of a romp for a cast eager to perform and an audience more than willing to laugh. The play was highly entertaining and light, yet it had a depth that did not be denied. Perhaps the playwright's comment on the philosophy of the play said it best. Wilde said, "We should treat all the trivial things of life seriously, and all the serious things of life with a sincere and studied triviality." The first act is ingenious, the second beautiful, the third abominably clever.

Asleep on the Deep - -

By Ann Hungerford
Nearly everyone's dream, a year-long vacation, was and wasn't for the Garvin Mulders of Holland.

Embarking on a 12-month cruise last June from Holland's Bay Haven Marina, the Mulders piloted their 35-foot sloop through the Great Lakes, the New York barge canal (348 miles, 36 locks), the Hudson River and on into the Atlantic where they eventually encountered hurricane Bell off Newport.

After spending three weeks in Annapolis, the family headed to Florida and the Bahamas along the intercoastal water way to Florida.

"The whole trip was our dependence on God," Diane Mulder explained the family's bout with two storms including one off Cape Hatteras in which she and the children were rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter and removed from the sloop prior to its being towed by cutter to Morehead City in November.

During the roughest going the family prayed. "The calm that came from the prayer got us through it," Diane said.

But Mulder refused to dwell on the two major mishaps the family of four encountered declaring that seasoned sailors take each incident in stride and choose instead to discuss docking facilities, where to get water, etc.

With cabins fore and aft, "Lady Kate" was an adequate vessel to accommodate the family which carried spare supplies. Only food, drugs, clothing and toys for the children were transported. Food was shared with fellow boaters since no refrigeration unit was on board. The most important item purchased was water and rain water was saved whenever possible.

It wasn't until the family reached the Bahamas that the children, Chris, 7, and Katie, now 6, developed good friendships with children their own age.

Arriving in the Bahamas at 4 a.m. and dropping anchor in three fathoms (where it was clear enough to see each link of chain) proved the most exciting moment for the Mulders.

A total of six months was spent in the Bahamas with the children particularly enjoying the rides onto the beach. With Lady Kate anchored off a beautiful beach, the children were allowed to drift in the dinghy to the beach where they played in the sand.

Both of the Mulders enjoyed the skin diving and according to Diane it was a rare day that sea food was not caught and eaten. The children too increased their proficiency in swimming and diving.

Describing the islands as different than the United States, Diane stressed that few superfluous items are available for purchase, a situation the Mulders found exciting.

In getting back to nature and living with it, Diane cited the experience as a "crash course."

"But now that we're back here we find ourselves getting wrapped up in the nickel and dime stuff again," Mulder said. In April Mulder, president of Ottawa Door Light Co. sold out the business.

People envy them a 12-month vacation, the Mulders say, but according to Garvin the trip was work. The family did the maintenance, all the navigation and all the piloting. So, Mulder says, it wasn't all fun. Sometimes it was more work than fun.

Diane still reflects on how little the family actually needed to live comfortably and cites the 70 gallons of water that the family took three weeks to use.

Confinement caused a few disagreements with the couple but their dependence upon each other overwhelmed all obstacles.

The sloop was trucked back north from West Palm Beach in July.

Of all items appreciated on the trip probably the most appreciated was a hair dryer, the only source of heat during the freezing temperatures in Florida last winter.
