TO MY DOG "BLANCO."

BY J. G. HOLLAND.

My dear, dumb friend, low lying there,
A willing vassal at my feet,
Glad partner of my home and fare,
My shadow in the street.

I look into your great brown eyes,
Where love and loyal homage shine,
And wonder where the difference lies Between your soul and mine!

For all the good that I have found Within myself or human kind,
Hath royally informed and crowned
Your gentle heart and mind.

I scan the whole broad earth around
For that one heart which, real and true,
Bears friendship without end or bound,
And find the prize in you.

I trust you as I trust the stars;
Nor cruel loss, nor scoff of pride,
Nor beggary, nor dungeon-bars,
Can move you from my side!

As patient under injury
As any Christian saint of old,
As gentle as a lamb with me,
But with your brothers bold;

More playful than a frolic boy,
More watchful than a sentinel,
By day and night your constant joy
To guard and please me well.

I clasp your head upon my breast—
The while you whine and lick my hand—
And thus our friendship is confessed,
And thus we understand!

Ah, Blanco! did I worship God
As truly as you worship me,
Or follow where my Master trod
With your humility.

Did I sit fondly at His feet,
As you, dear Blanco, sit at mine,
And watch Him with a love as sweet,
My life would grow divine!

—Midsummer Scribner.

Purchasable Pleasure.

It is often said, when a rich man dies, that all the money in the world cannot purchase the prolongation of life. It is often said, too, when a rich man's health breaks down, that money will not purchase health. As general propositions, however, both these statements are unsound. When expended at the right time and in the right way, money will purchase health and the prolongation of life.
Money will not purchase peaches out of season, but money will purchase peaches when they are in the market. Money will not purchase health out of season, but health is to be had for money, under the proper conditions. When a machine is actually worn-out, it is beyond the reach of repairs. Nothing will do but complete renewal. So, when a man is worn-out, money will not renew him, but there are always times in his life when, by the proper expenditure of money and of time, which is its equivalent, he can buy health and the prolongation of life.

There are thousands of men in New York City, and in every great city, who are perfectly aware that they are bankrupting themselves in health—that they are selling their health for money. The time will surely come, at last, when they will be willing to pay all this money back for the health they have parted with, but it will be too late. The object of this article is to induce these men, if possible, to buy health while it is in the market, and not to sell it under any consideration.

Col. Thomas Scott carried his burden so long that the four millions he had won had no power to bring back the health he had parted with; but there were undoubtedly times in his life when, by the proper expenditure of money and of time, he could have bought health enough to last him a brace of decades longer, and to enable him to double the number of his heirs. A man crowds his powers through a series of years of excessive labor, and,
some day, he drops with paralysis, and from that day forward he becomes a powerless child, to be led kindly and carefully to the grave. The increase of this disease is undoubtedly the result of the increase of unwisely conducted labor. Money can do nothing for it when it befalls a man,
but it can do everything to prevent it.
"Nervous prostration" has become a too familiar phrase in these latter years.
Money cannot restore a shattered nervous system, but, properly expended, at the proper time, it will prevent it, which is a great deal better.

There are two plans of life, by either of which money will buy health and prolong a comfortable existence. The first is, the setting aside of a part of every day for recreation. So far as this can be done, it ought to be done, but there seem to be some peculiarities in our American life that forbid it. Competition in business is cruelly sharp, and most men feel obliged to devote themselves to it, when they are in it at all, from morning until night. The sleeping hours are the only ones which give them release from active care. Now business, followed in this way, from year's end to year's end, is just as certain to ruin health and shorten life as the recurrence of seed-time and harvest is sure. The alternative of daily recreation is a yearly period of rest. There are always slack seasons in business, and these every business man should avail himself of, for rest and recreation. It is in these seasons that there is health in the market, to be bought for money. Two weeks of leisure are not enough for a man who works like a dog all the rest of the year. Two months are never too much, and there is not a slave of Wall street who would not only win health and save life by taking these two months of leisure every year, and enjoying them, but he would in the end, make money by it. Suppose, however, he loses money by it; he wins that for which he will sometime be willing to give money, when money will not buy it.

When a man gives health for money, he makes the poorest investment of his life.
When he gives money for health, he makes from every worldly point of view, the best.

There is a hallucination, cherished by a great multitude, that they must be constantly in their own business, or it cannot possibly go on prosperously. Some of these men are so unfortunately organized that they cannot believe that anybody living can do their work as well as they can do it. It takes an enormous self-conceit to come to such a conclusion as this, and there is a great misfortune in it. Of course these men are never able to leave their work for a moment in other hands, and so they become the bond slaves of their own mistake. Now there is nothing in which a great business man shows his greatness so signally as in his ability to find men to do his work—to find competent instruments to execute his purposes.
The greatest business man is always a man of comparative leisure. His own work is deliberately done. It is, as a rule, the small man who never gets a moment, and who can never find a pair of hands as good as his own. If a man cannot leave his business, or thinks he cannot, he shows that he lacks the highest grade of business capacity.

The leisure of Newport and Long Branch and Saratoga, with its social excitement and attractions, is not that certainly which buys health in the cheapest market. Stillness, rest, freedom of action and of dress in the open air, distance from the marts of trade—these pay best;
and, when these are properly and regularly enjoyed, the money that they cost buys health and prolongation of life. Health and a reasonably long life can, as a rule, be bought by time and money, if men will take them in their season. Money avails nothing to a worn-out man, but to a man slowly wearing out it avails everything, when properly used. Time and money will buy health. Let every business man mark our words, and avail himself of the merchandise when it is in the market.—

HOLLAND CITY, MICHIGAN.

WEEKLY NEWS REVIEW.

THE EAST.

TWO BUILDINGS of the Pequot cotton-mills at Philadelphia, owned by William Wood & Son, and valued at $100,000, have been burned.

THE New York Senate have finally passed the bill abolishing tolls on the canals in that State. A yacht containing six young men was capsized at Boston, and all were drowned.

A FIRE at Malden, Mass., originating in the storage-house of the Boston Rubber Shoe Company's works, caused a loss of $70,000, which is partly insured. In the adjacent structure was $250,000 worth of goods, which escaped. A fire at Wilmington, Del., in the iron-steamship yards of the Pusey & Jones Company, damaged the concern to the amount of $200,000, and threw out of employment a large number of men.

THE WEST.

THE wholesale drug establishment of James E. Davis & Co., Detroit, has been destroyed by fire. The total loss was about $55,000, and the insurance $40,000. Thomas McQueen, a fireman, was crushed to death by the roof falling in. John W. Carter sustained very serious internal injuries, and two other firemen had their limbs broken. Sitting Bull, the famous Sioux chief, with a following of 200 people, arrived at Fort Buford and surrendered on the 20th of July. Credit is to be given the scout Louis Legare for his efforts to induce Bull to come to terms. Three men were killed and two more fatally injured by the explosion of the boiler of a portable saw-mill at Watertown, near Marietta, Ohio.

THIS year's Illinois State Fair will be held at Peoria from Sept. 26 to Oct. 2; that of Iowa at Des Moines from Sept. 26 to 30; that of Wisconsin at Fond du Lac Sept. 26 to 30; that of Michigan at Jackson from Sept. 12 to 17; that of Indiana at Indianapolis from Sept. 26 to 30; that of Minnesota at Rochester from the 5th to the 10th of September. Another fiendish but unsuccessful attempt to wreck a passenger train was made on the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, near Lawrence, Kan. Luckily, however, the train was detained at Topeka, and a freight, running out of time, went into the trap, wrecking seven cars and injuring the brakeman and engineer. Northern Minnesota and the Red river region of Dakota report flattering prospects for a fine wheat harvest. The Wabash and Missouri Pacific railroads have secured a lease of the St. Louis bridge for ninety-nine years, to take effect Aug. 1.

CHARLES EDWARD and Albert Talbot were hanged at Maryville, Mo., July 22, for having, on the night of Sept. 18, 1880, shot and mortally wounded their father, Dr. Perry H. Talbot, of Nodaway county, Mo. Albert protested that he was entirely innocent of the crime for which he was hanged, and charged that one Wyatt, a hired man employed by Dr. Talbot, and who was the approver in the case, was the murderer. The boys' mother, and a Miss Lewis, the fiancée of Albert, accompanied the doomed men to the scaffold, and there was quite an exciting scene. There is wild excitement at Cheyenne over the discovery of copper and silver near Fort Laramie. Ore from the grass roots pays, the city of Hartville has been laid out, and tenderfeet are offered $3 per day as miners. An Illinois farmer has revenge himself upon the Indianapolis and St. Louis road by commencing 9,000 suits for failure to keep axes and saws in its cars. The aggregate claim is $1,800,000. The statue erected in honor of Gen. J. B. McPherson at Clyde, Ohio, was unveiled in the presence of a vast concourse of people. The ceremony of unveiling was performed by Gen. Sherman. Gen. Strong, of Chicago, delivered the principal speech of the occasion. Gen. Force, ex-President Hayes and Gov. Foster spoke also.

SITTING BULL says that his people have been bad, but, since they have had to surrender their guns and ponies, they are all good. He wanted his son educated as a white man. The principal towns of New Mexico are raising funds for Sheriff Patsey Garrett for service to the Territory in killing Billy the Kid.

THE Bethesda spring at Waukesha, Wis., has been sold to Winfield Smith, of Milwaukee, who represents Wisconsin and New York capitalists, who will organize a joint-stock company. The consideration was $125,000. T. H. Tibbles, of Omaha, who has become prominent for his labors on behalf of the Ponca Indians, has wedded Bright Eyes, the daughter of Chief La Fleshe.

THE summer dramatic season at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, opens this week, with the grand spectacular drama which has created such a sensation in London and New York, "The World." It is the first scientific attempt at literally molding together romance and mechanism. The drama is not subordinated to the spectacle, nor the spectacle to the drama. Each is consistently maintained; but the surprises are most frequent and most lasting in the spectacle. The mechanical devices employed are, many of them, novel, and the realism of the spectacle is astounding in several of the episodes. It is quite needless to add that "The World" will be presented at McVicker's with absolute fidelity to the original designs; the mounting has involved weeks of labor, and exhausted the craft of the scene painters and mechanics.

THE SOUTH.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR BRAYTON left Greenville, S. C., with four men, to destroy the illicit still of John McDow, near Central, in Pickens county. A desperate fight took place, in which Brayton was killed. McDow and a negro companion, heavily armed, threaten the life of any revenue officer who approaches them. Commissioner Baum has instructed the deputy collectors in South Carolina to organize and arm a posse and arrest the murderers.

TOBE BELL, who killed Dr. W. T. Williams, a prominent planter, was hanged at Yazoo City, Miss., a monument to the Confederate dead was unveiled at Culpepper, Va. Some 8,000 persons were present.

A MOB in Perry county, Ark., recently warned Judge Harris and Editor Matthews to leave at once, but a truce was effected. A few nights ago Matthews was killed by an assassin, and notice was again served on Judge Harris.

FLAMES originating in Adler's junk store, in Peters street, New Orleans, caused damage to the amount of $100,000. There was a disastrous wreck on the Texas and Pacific road, at the edge of the sand hills. The tool-car jumped the track with about sixty men on board. Three were killed and ten wounded. The burning of Wright's cotton warehouse, at Thomasville, Ga., involved a loss of $100,000.

POLITICAL.

THE New York Legislature indulged in two ballots for Senator on the 20th, Lapham receiving 73 votes, with 76 necessary to a choice.

The Prohibitionists of Ohio held a convention at Loveland, near Cincinnati, and placed in the field a full ticket for State offices, headed by A. R. Ludlow, of Springfield, for Governor.

THE ballot for Senator at Albany on the 21st was without result. The number necessary to a choice was 71, and Lapham had 65 votes, Potter 45, and Conkling 23.

The deadlock at Albany was broken July 22, and the Legislature adjourned the following day. The administration men made some concessions by entering into a conference or caucus in which Lapham was nominated by a unanimous vote. He was afterward elected to succeed Roscoe Conkling in the United States Senate by the full Republican vote, the Democrats voting for ex-Congressman Potter. When Mr. Conkling received the dispatch advising him of the election of Lapham, he immediately sent the following telegram:

New York, July 22.
To the Hon. James Armstrong, Member of the Assembly, Albany:
The heroic constancy of the Spartan band which so long has stood for principle and truth has my deepest gratitude and admiration. Borne down by forbidden and abhorrent forces, and agencies which never before had sway in the Republican party, the memory of their courage and manhood will long live in the brightest honor. The near future will vindicate their wisdom, and crown them with approval. Please ask them all for me to receive my grateful acknowledgments.
ROSCOE CONKLING.

WASHINGTON.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that prison fare and discipline have taken much of the starch out of Guiteau, and have even had a cooling effect upon his inordinate vanity. When first confined he made frequent complaints of his treatment. He regarded himself as an important personage, a prisoner of state, and demanded better care than was bestowed upon his fellow-prisoners, whom he denominated common felons. He protested against being put on a level with the other prisoners, said he was a gentleman, accustomed to having the best of fare, and, in fact, to luxury, and insisted that he should be so treated. He has not ceased to complain and to want better treatment; but his manner is changed. He is more subdued, and apparently begins to realize that others do not regard his crime in the light that he does.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD, referring to the election of Mr. Lapham, said: "Well, I am glad it is over. I am sorry for Conkling. I should like to give him a foreign mission."

GENERAL.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that members of the National Board of Health are manifesting some concern at the reports of the appearance of yellow-fever in one of the Southern cities. The fever is very bad at Havana.

SOME figures from the census in regard to the registered bondholders show that the District of Columbia contains more of this class in proportion to its population than any of the States. Massachusetts stands second on the list, and New York has a large representation. The Western and Southern States make a poor showing. Postmaster General James has issued a circular informing Postmasters that from this time onward they will be required to forward to the Auditor of the Treasury Department, immediately after the close of every quarter, a detailed account of the business transacted in their respective offices, under penalty of removal from office. The total value of exports of domestic breadstuffs from the United States during the twelve months ended June 30, 1881, was $265,561,328; twelve months ended June 30, 1880, $282,132,618.

FROM advance sheets of "Poor's Manual for 1881," covering statistics of the railroads of the United States for 1880, it is learned that the total number of miles of railroad in the United States at the close of the year was 93,071, indicating new construction during the year of 7,174 miles. Of this only a little over 84,225 miles were operated. The capital account of these roads was as follows: Capital stock, $2,553,733,176; funded debt, $2,392,017,820; other debt, $162,489,909; total, $5,108,241,906. The cost of railroad and equipment aggregated $4,653,609,297. Upon bonds $107,866,328 interest was paid, and on stock $77,115,411. The gross earnings reported for the year aggregated $615,401,931, against $529,012,999 in 1879. The net earnings were $255,193,436, against $219,916,724 in 1879. Earnings were divided between freight and passenger in the following proportions: Freight, $467,748,928; passenger, $147,653,003. For the previous year they were divided as follows: Freight, $386,676,108; passenger, $142,336,191. Of the total mileage 33,699 miles were laid with steel rails. Statistics of equipment show that 7,949 locomotives, 12,789 passenger cars, 539,355 freight cars and 4,786 miscellaneous cars were employed.

NATHAN CLIFFORD, one of the Justices of the United States Supreme Court, died at his home in Cornish Me., on the 25th of July. The deceased was born in Rumney, N. H., Aug. 18, 1809, and removed to Maine at the age of 24. He was elected to Congress in 1839; re-elected in 1840. He was Attorney General in the Cabinet of President Polk from Oct. 17, 1846, to June, 1848, following which he was for some time Minister to Mexico. In 1853 President Buchanan appointed him an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, and as such he officiated until a few months ago, when he was completely incapacitated by disease. He was a member of the Electoral Commission that seated President Hayes. The City Engineer of Montreal has found a woman who for sixteen months has been engineer in a boot-heel factory, has a perfect knowledge of her business, and never met with an accident. A farmer named Wilson, living on the line of the Kingston and Pembroke railway, in Canada, while passing through the woods was torn to pieces by a bear and nearly devoured before his fate was learned.

FOREIGN.

IT is reported that England has informed France that Tripoli being Turkish territory, any attempt on the part of France to interfere in its internal arrangements would open up the whole question of the European guarantee to the Turkish empire; that on France being so informed she hesitated, and finally concluded not to interfere. There is a promise of abundance for the Irish. The potato crop is reported to be in excellent condition, and the prospects are that the yield will be large and the quality of the tubers good. Egypt is going to abolish slavery by allowing the owners to retain the slaves owned by them at present, but allowing no more persons to be enslaved in the future.

RELATIONS between France and Turkey are said to be entirely amicable. The Porte has satisfactorily explained the reason for sending troops to Tripoli, and declared that he had not stirred up any ill feeling in Tunis or Algiers. At the Widnes (England) athletic sports, Myers, the American athlete, won the quarter-mile and the half-mile races with "ridiculous ease." Myers' racing powers were regarded as "marvelous" by the assembled Britons. It appears that Don Carlos was expelled from France at the request of the Spanish Government, which has long felt hurt at his toleration in Paris. A Havana dispatch says small-pox is raging in Santo Domingo to a fearful extent. Parties are daily organized to help bury victims. French crops are suffering from excessive heat and drought.

THE Nihilists at their recent congress, held in St. Petersburg, resolved to give the Czar one more warning, and that if he did not heed it and begin the work of reform he and his pig-headed advisers should perish. A Havana dispatch states that two employees of the Spanish Bank of Cuba, at Matanzas, assisted by two accomplices, chartered the steamer Alicante, and left port with $200,000 specie, which they embezzled from the bank.

THE death is announced of Daniel McCarthy, D. D., Roman Catholic Bishop of Kerry, Ireland. He was one of the best theologians of the Roman Catholic Church, and published several works on scriptural subjects.

SIR MICHAEL HICKS BEACH moved a vote of censure on the Government's Transvaal policy in the British House of Commons. Mr. Rathbone, Radical, moved an amendment approving the action taken by the Government. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 314 to 205. The Tunisians have begun to quarrel among themselves, and some of the tribes have asked for French assistance. France will not have much trouble in quelling the troubles in Tunis now. They are acting vigorously, however. Gabes was bombarded by fifteen French vessels. Baron Von Geyso, a promising young officer in Berlin, was killed in a duel with a brother officer. At the University of Gottingen two students fought a duel with pistols, one being mortally wounded. At Gibraltar, in a duel between two Spanish officers, one was killed and the other seriously wounded.

THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, July 21.
President Garfield passed a very comfortable day yesterday. He took a little solid food in the morning in addition to the usual quantity of liquid food, and gained considerably in strength. He continued to gain during the evening, and the afternoon fever has subsided. A piece of cotton cloth about a quarter of an inch square, with woolen fibers adhering, came away spontaneously with the pus from the deeper part of the wound. Dr. Leyburn said the discharge of this piece of cloth indicated that the wound was drained to the bottom; the wound, he said, continued to heal nicely inside, and that, at the present progress, the patient would be out of danger in a few days. The President has taken to reading the daily journals, and listens to the telegrams and letters of sympathy which have accumulated since the shooting, in which he takes the deepest interest. He is well enough to laugh heartily at the cuts in the pictorial weeklies.

WASHINGTON, July 23.
The President continues to progress favorably. He is gradually gaining strength, and the physicians are now all but confident of his recovery. The wound continues to discharge healthy pus. Yesterday a fragment of bone came with the pus, which indicates that the depths of the wound are being drained. Still the President is very weak. The physicians say that the food which he receives is now sufficient to add a little to his strength, and to supply the waste which is constantly going on through the wound, but it is found that he is not yet capable of resisting any unusual excitement, and, for this reason, the surgeons in charge insist upon as perfect quiet as can be secured. Hon. George B. Loring, Commissioner of Agriculture, had an interview with the President, in which the latter recalled his promise to visit the Wisconsin State Fair, and declared that he had not yet given up the trip.

WASHINGTON, July 25.
President Garfield had an alarming relapse on Saturday. The wound, which had for several days discharged a considerable quantity of healthy pus, became obstructed near the inner end of the drainage tube, while the process of suppuration in the deeper parts of the wound continued. A "pus cavity," partial or complete, was thus formed, and the discharge from the mouth of the wound ceased. The patient was then taken with a chill, which was followed by a high fever, the pulse rising to 130 and the temperature to 104. His condition caused great alarm, as it was feared that blood-poisoning had set in, or that an abscess had begun to form. An examination of the pus discharged, however, showed that all the indications of blood-poisoning were absent. Further examination showed that there was little to fear from the formation of an abscess, and that the chill and subsequent fever were caused by the "pus cavity" alone. Drs. Agnew and Hamilton were hastily summoned to Washington. An examination of the wound by these eminent masters of surgery showed beyond doubt that a "pus cavity" had formed in the track of the ball and beyond the point where it glanced from the rib, and that the cavity could only be reached by an incision three inches below the mouth of the wound. The incision was made by Dr. Agnew, and the cavity was reached at a little more than an inch below the surface. A tube was inserted into this incision, and the pus commenced to flow freely, and the discharge was entirely satisfactory to the physicians. Since the operation the President's condition has continued to improve. This morning he is resting easily, and the physicians say that, notwithstanding the complications, the chances are in favor of his recovery.

Dr. Agnew had the cooling apparatus taken out of the President's room. He said it kept the President's temperature uneven. Prof. Bell's electrical indicator for locating a bullet in the human body was experimented with before Dr. Agnew. The result showed that the invention could be relied on when the ball was only two inches below the surface.

WASHINGTON, July 26.
The President has passed a quiet and comfortable day and night, and the surgeons take a very hopeful view of the situation. The President partook of milk, beef juice, and a little toast in sufficient quantities to maintain his strength. There was a fairly copious discharge of healthy pus during the day. A slight pressure on the front wall of the abdomen increases the discharge. Dr. Bliss says there is little reason to fear the formation of a new pus cavity, because the discharge is free and uninterrupted. There has not been at any time any symptom of blood-poisoning in the President's case, and there is no reason to apprehend it now. The doctors concluded by saying that the President was doing better than he was last Friday. Dr. Agnew said that the President's chances of recovery are good, but he is not out of danger. He thought that he may yet be able to locate the bullet, which he wishes removed. He said there may be another chill resulting from the condition the President has passed through, but no more serious complications are looked for in the case. There are evidences of the old wound's healing.

Ex-Senator Conkling, in company with Senator Jones, of Nevada, called at the White House yesterday, and had an interview with Dr. Bliss. Mr. Conkling said that the unfavorable turn in the President's case was a source of anxiety to him; and, on being informed by Dr. Bliss that the symptoms were of an encouraging character, he expressed himself as greatly pleased. He requested Dr. Bliss to convey to Mrs. Garfield the expression of his sincere sympathy.

Guiteau seems to be rather pleased than otherwise at his present quarters. He is afraid that if he should get outside the prison walls he would be meted out speedy justice. The other day when asked to go down into the Warden's office he very reluctantly consented, fearing that it was a ruse to get him into the people's hands. The cowardly scoundrel yet expresses a wish that the President may die.

WASHINGTON, July 27.
Some splinters of the bone were removed from the President's wound yesterday by Dr. Agnew, and after the operation the patient felt much better and the pus began to flow more freely. The temperature and respiration fell to their normal condition and the pulse fell to 96. Surgeons say there is nothing critical or dangerous in the President's condition. He was, they said, better last night than he has been for five days, and everything looks favorable. He took nourishment, consisting of beef extract, milk and lime water and toast at various intervals yesterday. There were only slight febrile symptoms last evening, and the temperature rose to only 100.7, as compared with 100.8 the previous day, and almost immediately receded to a more satisfactory figure. This morning the patient is resting comfortably.

The surgeons took out the semi-circular drainage-tube yesterday and inserted a straight one into the new incision. They intend to allow the mouth of the wound to heal up and to drain the wound through the incision made Sunday.

The President's medical attendants have decided not to be interviewed any more about the phases of his case, as they claim they have been misconstrued by reporters. Hereafter the official bulletins will be the only source of information touching the patient's condition.

Mrs. Garfield's weakened condition and nervousness causes considerable uneasiness. Dr. Boynton and Mrs. Edison are looking after the good lady's welfare, but are convinced that her husband's recovery and a change of air and scene must precede any great improvement in her condition.

THE NATIONAL DEBT.

Various Issues of Bonds, and Their Distribution by States.

Of the total national debt at the dates nearest the close of the census year, June 30, 1880, $1,173,749,250 were registered. To make this total the various issues of the bonds are taken at the following dates:

Registered 4 per cent. consols of 1907, on which the quarterly dividend of interest was paid July 1, 1880.....	$528,100,590
Registered 4 1/2 per cent. funded loan of 1891, on which the quarterly dividend was paid June 1, 1880.....	170,280,800
Registered 5 per cent. loan of '81, on which the quarterly dividend of interest was paid Aug. 1, 1880.....	294,440,800
Registered 6 per cent. loans of '80 and '81, on which the semi-annual dividend of interest was paid July 1, 1880.....	180,926,700

Total.....$1,173,749,250
Mr. Holbrook P. Porter, who has had charge of this branch of the census work, found that the registered bonds were distributed through the country as follows:

Private individuals and corporations.....	$644,990,400
Foreign holders.....	27,894,500
National banks (to secure circulation.....	319,937,350

Total.....$992,822,250
The 6 per cent. bonds were only payable in ten cities of the country, and in consequence, it was impossible to distribute them in States and large cities, as was done in the case of 4 1/2 and 5 per cent. bonds. From this total of $1,173,749,250, there must be deducted the aggregate of the 6 per cent. registered bonds at that time, which was $180,926,700. After deducting this amount there remained of the other three species of registered bonds $992,822,550.

It will be extremely interesting to note the distribution of the $644,990,400 of bonds which were owned by private individuals and corporations. These owners number 73,114, and are distributed in the various States as follows:

State.	Number.	Percentage of Bondholders.	Percentage of Population.

It is an interesting fact that Massachusetts, with only 3 1/2 per cent. of the total population of the country, has over 23 per cent. of the total number of bondholders, while New York, with over 10 per cent. of the total population, has 20 per cent. of the bondholders. Ohio has over 6 per cent. of the total population and over 5 1/2 per cent. of the bondholders. Illinois and New Hampshire each have over 4 per cent. of the bondholders, while the former has over 6 per cent. of the population of the country and the latter only 6-10 of 1 per cent. Oregon has the least number of holders, 14, and Massachusetts the highest, 16,855. Of the number of holders (73,114), 42,262 are males, 29,325 are females, and 1,527 are corporations, and of the amount held the males own $327,185,500, the females $90,833,350, and the corporations $27,451,550. The average per capita for the male holders is $7,741.84; for the female holders, $3,081.10; for the corporations, $148,953.20; and for both sexes and the corporations, $3,821.70. Of the $644,990,400, no less than $410,279,400 is held in amounts of over $50,000; $58,730,630 in amounts varying from $25,000 to $50,000; $59,143,850 in amounts exceeding $10,000 and reaching to $25,000; $41,079,900 in amounts exceeding $5,000 and reaching to $10,000; $33,070,950 in amounts exceeding $2,500 and reaching to $5,000; $24,082,550 in amounts of over $1,000 and including $2,500; $13,097,200 in amounts of over $500 and including $1,000; and $755,900 in amounts of less than $500.

The general conclusions, Mr. Porter says, are that, while over 35 per cent. of the holders reside in the New England States, not more than 11 per cent. of the aggregate of bonds are owned in New England. On the other hand, over 42 per cent. of the holders have their residence in the Middle States, and upward of 40 per cent. of the aggregate amount of bonds are held in that section; over 3 1/2 per cent. of the holders reside in the Southern States, and about 2 per cent. of the bonds are owned there. In the Western States are 15 per cent. of the holders and nearly 8 1/2 per cent. of the bonds. The banks and other corporations, representing in number only 2 per cent., own about 35 per cent. of the bonds.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

An attache of the Chinese embassy was interviewed at Cheyenne on the withdrawal of the students from the American schools. He stated that his Government would hereafter send its young men to England, France or Germany beyond the reach of the progressive ideas taught in the United States.

A FIERCE hurricane swept over the country in the vicinity of Troy, N. Y. Barns and other buildings were demolished, trees uprooted and the crops were greatly damaged. Several buildings were destroyed by lightning, and a number of horses and cows were burned to death.

At Yazoo, Miss., a negro named Isaac Fisher outraged a young lady and threw her in a cistern to drown her, but the water being too shallow, he laid down the chain and held her head under the water until she drowned. He then tried to climb the chain, but found himself caged, and was soon detected. The demon was summarily lynched. The pork-packing establishment of Cassard Brothers & Co., Baltimore, and the tin-can factory of George L. Krebs were destroyed by fire, the loss aggregating $100,000.

THE Southwestern railroad managers and the Governor of Missouri met in conference at St. Louis for the purpose of deliberating upon means to bring the Rock Island train-robbers to justice. In stating the object of the meeting, Gov. Crittenden referred to the disgrace brought on the State by the escape of the outlaws, and the fact that they were still at large. He also, it is said, called for the co-operation of the railroads in the efforts of the State to effect their capture, giving it as his idea that nothing would go so far toward bringing about this end as the offering of a large reward. The Missouri Pacific offered to contribute $5,000, the Iron Mountain $5,000, and five other roads coming forward immediately with $5,000 apiece. The lowest amount given was $2,500. The contract was drawn and signed, the subscription amounting to $50,000, $20,000 of which is for the apprehension of the James boys, the remainder in equal portions for the rest of the gang. A ten-mile horse race between Miss M. Pinneo, of Greeley, Col., and Miss Curtis, of Topeka, Kan., came off at Leadville. Miss Pinneo won the race in twenty-six minutes. Her competitor dismounted and fainted on the eighth mile.

THE Bey of Tunis has fallen into disgrace and disrepute with his people for his too-ready acquiescence in French rule. His soldiers have deserted him en masse, and he now finds it difficult to procure enough men to guard his palace. Russian telegrams report the revival of persecutions of the Jews in the province of Pultava, when, in consequence, seventeen villages had been deserted. The Siberian plague, which attacks man and beast alike, is ravaging the cattle in Livonia. The French captured Gabes, on the African coast, and the French troops now occupy the town. Little resistance was encountered, and only seven Frenchmen were wounded in the assault. Two hundred Frenchmen compose the garrison of the captured city.

Preaching from Notes.

A certain minister of Scotland had a custom of writing the heads of his discourse on small slips of paper, which he placed on the Bible before him, to be used in succession. One day when he was explaining the second head, he got so excited in his discourse that he caused the ensuing slip to fall over the edge of the pulpit, though unperceived by himself. On reaching the end of his second head, he looked for the third slip; but, alas! it was not to be found. "Thirdly," he cried, looking around him with great anxiety. After a little pause, "Thirdly," again he exclaimed; but still no thirdly appeared. "Thirdly, I say, my brethren," pursued the bewildered clergyman; but not another word could he utter. At this point, while the congregation were partly sympathizing in his distress, and partly rejoicing in such a decisive instance of the impropriety of using notes in preaching—which has always been an unpopular thing in the Scotch clergy—an old woman rose up and thus addressed the preacher: "If I'm no mista'en, I saw thirdly flee out at the east window a quarter of an hour syne."

The man has his right to smoke, and the umbrella man has his right to punch, and the New York laws refuse to step in and say that either was wrong. The smoker, who sued, had to pay costs.

PATRICK HENRY was twice married and left fifteen children, and there are now living probably more than 100 of his descendants. William Wirt Henry, a member of the Richmond bar and Representative of that district in the State Senate, is his grandson. Senator Roane, of Virginia, was his grandson, and Gen. Joseph E. Johnston is his great-grand-nephew, as was also William C. Preston, the distinguished Senator in Congress from South Carolina.

In the year ending June 1 twenty-eight deaf men were killed on the railroad tracks of the United States. In the same year two were shot for burglars while prowling around houses, and fourteen were run over by vehicles in the public streets. It is asserted on eminent medical authority that, while sadness usually accompanies blindness, obstinacy goes with deafness. When a deaf man will plod along on the railroad track, head down and eyes on the rails, he does more than most men with two good ears would attempt.

SUICIDE in Berlin is showing signs of increase, and investigations into the causes of it are on foot. On a single recent Saturday there were four cases and statistics for the three years between 1875 and 1878 place the city far ahead of London in the number of suicides, and at only a short distance behind Vienna. There were eighty-five such deaths to each 1,000,000 inhabitants in London during those years, and 285 in Vienna. For Berlin the proportion was 280 per 1,000,000. Leipzig shows the most alarming rate, it being greater even than the rate of Paris, at 450 per 1,000,000 inhabitants against 400 for Paris.

THE Hon. William Walter Phelps, Minister to Austria, lately had his first audience with the Emperor. Preceded by his jaeger, in cream-colored livery and headgear of white plumes, Mr. Phelps was escorted through many corridors and salons of the palace, the way lined with bowing lackeys. At last, in a lofty salon, destitute of furniture, he was presented to Francis Joseph, who was dressed in full uniform. Emperor and Minister exchanged courtly salutations, and then held a conversation in French—a conversation cordial and complimentary. Bows the most profound concluded the audience, and the Minister retired, as he had come, through the lanes of saluting attendants.

KING KALAKAUA, report says, is roaming up and down the earth looking for some guileless Prince or Princess upon whom he may unload the Sandwich islands. The population of the kingdom is now estimated at only 56,000, of which one-tenth is foreign. Capt. Cook in 1779 thought the Sandwich islands had a population of 400,000, but this was a mere guess. In 1823 the number of inhabitants was estimated at 142,000, and in 1853 at 73,138. Ten years ago it was 56,899, and is even less now. The revenue of the kingdom is only about $500,000, of which one-half is consumed in the payment of salaries. The debt is $300,000, and there is a pretty constant deficit. On the whole, it isn't surprising that King "Kaliko" should be anxious to sell out.

THE tendency of the conservative Englishman to rush into objections to a new idea is as marked as the alleged disposition of nature to abhor a vacuum. Although the population of Great Britain is liable to be decimated in the railroad trains, they will not adopt simple expedients to prevent the commission of crime in them. And the first objection raised to the new tunnel between England and France under the channel is that in three hours a cavalry force might be sent through to hold the approaches at the English end; in eight hours 25,000 men might be sent through to hold it against any number. To this it is replied that a can of nitro-glycerine or dynamite would make the tunnel impassible. Beside, it will be neutral by common consent.

A MAN and his wife, of the name of Zysset, have been sentenced in Switzerland to penal servitude for life for having murdered all their children, numbering either five or seven. They admit having put five to death, and there is reason to believe that they killed two others whose births they concealed. Their motive for committing crimes so terribly unnatural and revolting was simply to save themselves the trouble and expense of bringing their children up, for, though in humble circumstances, the Zyssets seem to have been far from poor, a considerable sum of money having been found in the house when they were arrested. The plan they adopted to get rid of the children was to deprive them of food, and when the process of starvation did not appear quick enough, or the little ones cried too much, it was accelerated by strangling or knocking them on the head. When the jury gave in their verdict they expressed regret that, under the present law of Berne, the Zyssets could not be sentenced to some severer punishment than perpetual imprisonment.

PROF. DRAPER, who made a close study of the comet, said to a New York reporter: "The comet has been, on the whole, an excellent subject for observation, and the results I have obtained are far beyond my expectations. There seems to be no reason why we should not at any time fall in with a comet far larger than any that has ever appeared. It is well known that the inter-stellar spaces are thronged with isolated bodies of all sizes, from that of a shooting-star, which is dissipated by a short flight through the air, to that of the largest comet; how much larger some of these spheres may be it is vain to conjecture. Now, the sun is moving through space at the rate of from twenty to forty miles a second, and may at any time fall in with a body of inconceivable size, which, being drawn toward it and rendered luminous by its heat, would be turned from a dark, invisible mass into a radiant comet. Indeed, it is pretty certain that in the course of time our sun will run foul of some other system of stars, which will bring the solar system to an end. It is not impossible that our system, should it fall in with a sun of sufficient size, might itself be turned into a comet, and so come to an end. The possibilities that lie buried in the universe of stars and nebulae are limited only by each man's imagination. There may be systems as complex as our own, or much more so, which have lost their light by the lapse of time, and are now invisible; and such an obstacle in our path would not be discovered until we were close upon it. But these are idle speculations, and have no end."

Meretricious Alms-Giving.

"If," says an English critic, "any cause or society wants funds, the machinery employed for collecting them should be sincere and simple. If money does not then come in, the inference is that the money is not wanted. Meretricious alms-giving is one of the scandals of the day."

"Did you find Mr. Spriggins, Patrick?" "I did, surr." "What did he say?" "Niver a word, surr." "Not a word?" "Not a word, surr." "Why not, Patrick?" "Because he was out, surr." "Out! I thought you said you found him." "I did, surr; I found him out."

THE ex-Khedive of Egypt is mentioned as intending to become a resident of Rome, having tired of Naples.

A BLUFF GAME.

Turning the Cheek of a Life-Insurance Agent.
(From the Chicago Inter Ocean.)

He was an old man, and said he'd seen better times. I hoped he had, but, as I was unusually busy and didn't want any life insurance, if he would excuse me—

"Oh, yes," said he; "all right, young man, I'll drop in again."

The next day he did "drop in," and, sitting down on my desk, began: "Nothing in this world, my young friend, will pay so big a per cent. on the little money invested as a policy in the Mutual Benefit Association, the most, and, in fact, the only, solid company on earth; capital over $7,000,000, and so prompt—why, I insured a man last week for $10,000, and the same day he was run over by a street-car, so, when I sent in the policy and premium, I just said, by way of a P. S., 'Run over by a horse-car not an hour after insured; send on check, as he can't live; both legs cut off.' The very next day I got a check for $10,560. Dividend, my friend, was more than the premium, and don't you call this prompt? That man's widow got this check before he had been dead fifteen minutes."

"But," said I, "I have no wife and don't want any life insurance, I tell you."

"The investment, my young friend—the investment. Look at the dividend. This man got $560 in one hour, you might say; and then you will have a wife some day. Now, you do want a policy in this company. I know you do. I'm an old man; have had large and varied experience, and I know you are just aching for one of these policies, only you are so extremely modest. Now, I'll just make out your application; it only costs you—let me see. How old are you?"

"Twenty-six, but—"

"Twenty-six—hum. Father living?"

"No."

"How old was he when he died?"

"Twenty-seven years old."

"Twenty-seven, hey? What did he die of? Accident, I presume."

"No, sir; consumption."

"Consumption? You don't look consumptive."

"But I am consumptive, and—"

"Mother's living, I doubt not?"

"No sir; she died at 28."

"What was the cause of her death?"

"Insanity, sir; hereditary insanity; family's full of it. All my brothers, thirteen of us in all, sir, died between 24 and 28 of the same disease. Dangerous, too, some of them; my oldest brother was taken about this time one day, and he killed his partner, book-keeper, three clerks and fourteen customers before they could secure him, and—"

"You don't tell me. This is wonderful. You look like a strong, healthy man, likely to live fifty years. Was you ever sick?"

"Oh, yes; I've had inflammatory rheumatism, pneumonia, dysentery, small-pox, mumps, liver complaint, fits, corns and—"

"Good heavens! And you want me to insure your life. Well, my company is a good company, willing to take an ordinary business risk, but I must say I never knew them to insure a corpse. I'd like to accommodate you, young man; you seem anxious about it, and I feel interested in your family, but our surgeon wouldn't pass such an application. Good-day."

Rich Find in a Trunk.

A young fellow who was one of the "reserve" was ordered to Rouen last year to serve the usual fourteen days. He had no trunk. His funds were low. He asked a maiden aunt to lend him a trunk. She had nothing but an old-fashioned portmanteau, which was so queer he refused to take it. He could, however, find no other, and, ashamed as he was to be seen in such company, there was no help for it, shoulder it he was obliged to do. Offered employment in Rouen, he made it his home. The trunk lay hidden and forgotten in a dark closet, until one day while rummaging he came upon it. He determined to send it back to his aunt. As he emptied it he found it had a double bottom; he opened this double bottom; he found in it $16,000. He carried them to the bank and found the money good. He capered for joy, not only with his legs but with his tongue; so news of the discovery reached his aunt's ears, and she said the money belonged to her, and she found the junk dealer who had sold her the trunk; he willingly became her witness to this fact, but added: "Zat drunk ees my rights and zat monish ees mine." So they have all gone to law.—Paris Correspondence New Orleans Picayune.

Circumstantial Evidence.

A lawyer in Central New York gives the following account of one of his first cases:

"My client sued a neighbor for the alleged killing of a favorite dog. The proof consisted in the mysterious disappearance of the animal, and the possession of a dog's skin by the defendant, which, after considerable argument, was brought into court in evidence. It was marked in a singular manner, and was positively identified, with many tears, by the plaintiff's wife and daughter as the undoubted integument of the deceased Bose. In summing up to the jury, I was in the midst of a highly-colored picture of the virtues of the deceased, and of the love of the children for their four-footed friend, when I was interrupted by a slight disturbance in the crowd near the door of the little school house which served as a court house. Looking around I saw my client's youngest son, a tow-headed urchin day, and he is content, while most men must chew, smoke and nibble between meals and have a lunch at bedtime. To 'act like a hog' would be to mind one's business, go to bed early, and be satisfied with the situation. The hog is not a liar, hypocrite or dead-beat. He acts on the square, is always as represented, and in disposition he has few equals in the human race. He has been misunderstood and abused, and it is time that his friends rallied to give him fair play."

MICHIGAN NEWS.

GALESBURG has only one saloon, and the people could easily get along without that.

A BOY named C. E. Hurd was drowned in Saginaw river, at East Saginaw, while bathing.

THE Bay City Call calls for the construction of free bridges between Bay City and West Bay City.

JOHN ROBINSON was accidentally drowned, at East Saginaw, while sorting logs in Au Sable river.

A LOSS of $25,000 was incurred at Charlotte, Eaton county, by the burning of the grist-mill owned by David G. Clure.

THE Gazette reports that the army worm is making sad havoc with the oats south, southwest and west of Kalamazoo.

A NEW school-house, to cost not less than $10,000 nor more than $12,000, is ordered by the village of Portland, Ionia county.

MISS JENNIE BAIRD, of Ionia, committed suicide by taking poison. The cause, according to the Ionia Sentinel, was "the old, old story."

A CRAZY woman is wandering around Kalamazoo. She appears to be dangerous, is frightfully ragged and dirty, and has been wandering around several weeks.

A LARGE warehouse at Kalamazoo, belonging to Wm. G. Dewing & Sons, filled with sash, doors, blinds, paints and oils, was burned, involving a loss of about $8,000.

A FIRE at Vestaburg, Montcalm county, burned 7,000,000 shingles, 250,000 feet of lumber and the station buildings of the Chicago, Saginaw and Canada railroad.

PORT HURON Times: J. S. Cowgill, of Lawton, bought a quantity of eggs of an honest granger and set them in the sun. A few hours after his eggs had been transmogrified into a basketful of live chickens.

GEORGE WILKES, for twenty-six years an employee of the Marquette, Houghton and Ontonagon Railroad Company association, foreman and road-master, was run over and instantly killed by a coal train at Marquette.

SEVEN blooded horses and colts owned by residents of East Saginaw were run over by a train on the Saginaw and Bay City division of the Michigan Central and injured so as to necessitate killing them. The stock was valued at $2,000.

THE little town of Wallace, Menominee county, has been almost entirely obliterated by fire. Over 150 people were rendered homeless. The loss is estimated at $100,000, less than $6,000 of which was covered by insurance.

MRS. FRED WINTERS, of Pottersville, Eaton county, was cleaning house and left a tub of boiling water on the floor while she went for an armful of wood. Returning she found her 3-year-old boy in the tub, scalded so that he lived but a few hours.

ISHPEMING Agitator: Three cases of women giving birth to triplets in this county were recorded last week. One in this city, one at Negaunee and one at Humboldt. At this rate the census enumerator will be kept busy on his next trip.

ABOUT twenty years ago little Jimmy McGinnis lived with his brother-in-law, Henry Gordon, of the Board of Works, Detroit, and ran away with James A. Bailey, a famous circus man, who adopted him. He took Bailey's name, and at his death succeeded to his business. Recently he sought out his relatives in Detroit, appeared at the show with them, and entertained them royally in the evening.

A YOUNG man drove into Utica, Macomb county, accompanied by a young miss about 15 years old; destination, Barnum's. They were quickly followed by the father of the girl, who took her into his possession and invited the young man to settle for kidnapping his daughter. The prompt payment of $15 settled the matter, and the young man was permitted to go on and see the circus alone.

A FIRE at East Saginaw, originating from a cigar stub dropped by some passing person, destroyed $160,000 worth of property before the flames could be subdued. The property burned included Wylie Brothers' saw-mill; the saw-mill of Pearson & Son; a salt block, also owned by Pearson & Son; 4,500,000 feet of lumber, belonging to different parties, and a number of tenement houses. The total loss is estimated at $160,000, upon which there was an insurance of about $75,000.

THE St. Louis (Gratiot county) Leader, in an article on the fast growth and future prospects of that town, sums up as follows: "Indeed we may say that St. Louis' growth and prosperity are almost marvelous, and that, while we have had occasion during the past few months to travel quite extensively throughout Michigan and New York, we have seen or heard of no town with a population anywhere from 100 to 5,000 that is making so rapid, substantial growth, or that has so bright prospects for the future as has St. Louis."

WHILE James Patterson, a farmer of Oakland county, was reaping wheat, his team ran into a yellow-jackets' nest, were stung, and becoming frantic ran away, throwing Mr. Patterson from off his seat on the knives of the machine and dragging him some twenty rods, lacerating his right leg in a fearful manner. The thigh was literally cut to pieces, and the ankle badly torn, so that it was unjointed, the bone protruding from its socket. Mr. Patterson lies in a very critical condition and little hopes are entertained of his recovery.

THE Detroit Evening News is going for the enumerators of births and deaths in that city, and unearths some startling secrets of the inefficiency, laziness and inaccuracy of these officials. One reported a birth in the family of Deputy County Treasurer Stagg as a girl instead of a boy, gave the mother's name wrong, the birth-place of both parents as unknown, and Mr. Stagg's occupation as a teamster. Spelling is of no account among these officers. Among the causes of death cited by one are the following: "Information on lungs," "crupe," "diabiori," "rhumatism," "paralyses," "Brits disease," "hoping cough," "spinal decies," "information of bowls," "punomia," "diaherry," "nemonia," "hucking cough," "aresples," "spaniel decies." The same intelligent enumerator certifies that Abel Canule, 62 years of age, died of "colara fenton," which is supposed to mean cholera infantum. Another speaks of "whopping cough," and another "hooking cough," another "hermage of lungs," and so on.

SCRAPS OF SCIENCE.

HERR TROMHOLT thinks he can trace a connection between the frequency of displays of aurora and the phases of the moon.

DR. RICOUX maintains that while Spaniards, Italians and French can be acclimatized in Algeria, people from the North of Europe cannot. This result, if well established, may have a very important bearing upon the colonization of Africa in the near future.

MR. WIGNER, in the Analyst states that American corned-beef is twice as valuable, as an article of diet, as fresh boneless beef, and that the cooked ox-tongues contain less salt and more nutritive matter than the dried tongues usually sold in European markets.

M. GREHAUT proved in recent experiments that the quantity of carbonic acid exhaled by any one individual of an animal species varies but little. Irritations and inflammations of the respiratory mucous membrane decrease the exhalation of carbonic acid, which then tends to accumulate in the blood.

MR. W. H. PREECE, the English electrician, has determined with much accuracy the area protected by a properly adjusted lightning-rod. His conclusion is that the protection extends to a conic space whose height is the length of the rod, the base being a circle having its radius equal to the height of the rod—an opinion which has been held by scientific men for a long time.

CONSIDERABLE changes in the water-level of several lakes in California and Oregon are reported. It is stated that Goose Lake, thirty miles long, was nearly dry in 1853 and 1854, but contained ten feet of water in 1870, and its depth has since been increasing. Clear Lake is also ten feet deeper than in 1854, while Tulie Lake, in the same region, is now ten or fifteen feet higher than then.

Though the invention of the barometer is due to the mathematician Torricelli, yet in England Sir Christopher Wren was the first to suggest that the varying weight of the atmosphere was the true cause of the variation in the height of the mercury. This was a theory opposed to that of the disciples of Descartes, who ascribed the variation to the influence of the moon.

NEARLY every year there falls in some part of the world a greater or less quantity of fine yellow powder, which fall is popularly believed to be a shower of sulphur. Investigation, however, shows the powder to be the fine pollen of a species of pine tree. The pollen grains float easily in the air, and are often carried by gales a thousand miles. When they fall on snow the effect is often startling.

FOR preserving the natural colors of dried flowers and plants, this process has been recommended by German scientists: Dissolve one part of salicylic acid in 600 parts of alcohol, heat the solution to boiling in a shallow dish, and draw the plant through it slowly; shake off any excess of liquid, dry between blotting paper, and press in the usual manner. Natural colors are said to be thus preserved in greater perfection than by other processes.

IT is believed that porosity is a property of all bodies. An experiment performed some years ago, to ascertain whether water could be compressed, resulted in proving that gold is porous—the water enclosed in a hollow sphere of gold and forced by the violent pressure applied passed through the sphere and appeared on the outside. The pores through which the liquid was driven could not have been more than the two-millionth of an inch in diameter.

A CERTAIN Count Hugo von Engenberg, of Fratzberg in the Tyrol, is making use of microphones—sunk in the ground on a declivity of a hill, and connected separately with a single telephone and small battery—to discover a source of water for his castle. He intends to conduct the experiment by night, when disturbing sounds and vibrations of the ground are less frequent than by day. If a stream of water flows near the apparatus it will pass the sound to the telephone, and thus reveal the spring.

Members of Parliament.

Members of Parliament receive no salary. The cost of an election to Parliament is always considerable, and at times immense sums of money are spent in close elections. Persons become candidates for the honor of it. It has happened in the cases of some of the greatest statesmen of Great Britain that they were brought out by prominent men, and their election expenses paid by their patrons.

HOLLAND CITY NEWS.

SAURDAY, JULY 30, 1881.

THE NEW SENATOR OF NEW YORK.

Roscoe Conkling's successor as Senator from the State of New York is Elbridge G. Lapham, now to be known as Senator Lapham, the colleague of Senator Miller.

Neither Mr. Lapham nor Mr. Miller is a great man—so far as they have given us opportunity to judge of their size. Neither of them is a statesman—so far as we can judge by their career in politics. Neither of them is an orator—so far as can be judged by anything that is known of their speeches, if either of them ever made a speech. Neither of them possesses any observable powers of mind—so far as their powers have been observed. Neither of them has been a leader of the Republican party—so far as its leadership is anywhere on record. Neither of them has identified himself with any public policy, though one of them, if not both of them, could tell an interesting story of the profitableness of private policy in political life.

We cannot give the people any satisfactory reason why Mr. Lapham was elected a Senator of the United States, or why Mr. Miller was elected.

Mr. Lapham, however will be watched with interest in the Senate, and his conduct will be watched when he takes his seat, and performs his duties, as the successor of Senator Conkling.

One result of the election is that Mr. Robertson of the State Senate and the Custom House, who has retained his seat in the Legislature so as manage the Half Breed operations, can now enter upon the duties of his office as Collector of the Port of New York.

Mr. Lapham is of Canandaigua, but we must give his biography accurately by saying that he was born at Farmington, in New York. His birth took place in the year 1814, and on the 18th of October, so that he is now sixty-seven years of age. He was brought up on a farm, became a lawyer, and has been a member of Congress for three successive terms, though we should not have known the last mentioned fact if we had not found it in the Congressional Directory.

It has been through a hard and tedious struggle that the Half Breeds have defeated Mr. Conkling and elected their nominee. It was on the fifty-sixth joint ballot. The first ballot was taken on the 1st of June, and the date of Mr. Conkling's resignation of the Senatorship was the 16th of May. The election of Mr. Lapham was brought about, after all, by a caucus, in which Mr. Conkling's adherents took part, and which secured their votes.

Elbridge G. Lapham and Warner Miller—these are the names of the two men who now represent the State of New York in the Senate of the United States.

This Oil is extracted from a peculiar species of small WHITE SHARK, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as Carchodon Rossetti. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1 per bottle.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Among the many readers of the Review in one part and another of the country, it is probable that numbers are afflicted with deafness, and to such it may be said: "Write at once to Haylock & Co., 7 Day Street, New York, enclosing $1, and you will receive by return mail a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—Editor Mercantile Review. 21-2m.

A Lecture to Young Men

ON THE LOSS OF

MANHOOD

A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment, and Radical Cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhea, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Inequality, &c.—by ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D. author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without dangerous surgical operations, bionics, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

THE graving of Fish street commenced on Monday morning and is progressing first-rate. We have heard the quality of the gravel criticised, as being a little too fine; however, others think it all right.

BRAZIL begins to see with some alarm a possible rival in Mexico in the coffee trade. The Minister of Agriculture, who appears to be a sort of Le Duc, is endeavoring to avert the evil day by a liberal policy of premiums.

MESSRS. Geo. P. Whitelaw, David R. Powell and Wm. H. Gregg, of St. Louis, say that fishing in Black Lake "caps them all." On Wednesday afternoon they got 75 pounds of black bass in a couple of hours. It was a beautiful string.

THE dispatches announce the death of ex-Gov. John J. Bagley, at San Francisco on Wednesday afternoon. He had been ailing for some time, and for a week or so his death has not been unexpected. His remains will be brought to Detroit for burial.

EXCEPT one little hitch in the proceedings, the township authorities are ready to begin work on the new North Holland road, so-called. As soon as they are ready the job of building the bridge can be let, sufficient money being subscribed for that purpose. Very good, gentlemen! Push on to completion.

REV. J. Rice Taylor will preach in Grace (Episcopal) church, both morning and evening. He will be remembered as the oldest rector and through whose instrumentality the church was built. Rev. Taylor will be tendered a reception by Mrs. H. C. Matrau, at her residence, on Saturday (to-day) evening, to which all the friends are cordially invited.

THE members of the Holland Soldiers' Union are hereby requested to meet at the office of THE HOLLAND CITY NEWS, on Thursday evening, August 4th, at 7:30 o'clock, to take measures to join the soldiers re-union to be held at Saugatuck on August 16 and 17.

LATER.—Since the above was in type we have received official notification of the invitation to the Holland Soldier's Union to attend the Reunion of the Soldiers of Allegan County.

SPEAKING about the new butter tub company, we have heard it remarked that the plan was to build it away from the water. This we should consider a short-sighted and foolish move. If any transportation by horses or wagons must be done, it will be cheaper to move the manufactured article than the raw material, i. e. holls. But our plan would be, by all means get close to the rail and water both. That and that only is the place for an institution of that kind. There is lots of room, and land, and cheap too!

On the 16th instant an agreement was entered into at Muskegon between the Chicago & West Michigan, the Grand Haven, the Grand Rapids, Newaygo & Lake Shore and the Indiana & Michigan railroads, consolidating those companies into one corporation to be known as the Chicago & West Michigan railway company. The new company will at once construct a line some thirty miles in length, from New Buffalo to Juanita, Ind., there making connection with the Baltimore & Ohio road. It is also intended to extend the line northward from White Cloud, and to make other and important changes, strengthening the road and affording additional facilities for travel and transportation. Meetings of the stockholders of the several companies interested were to be held at Muskegon on the 28th of September to ratify the action of the directors.

THE price of new wheat is $1.01 to $1.02.

THE prophetic Vennor is 40. His father was a hardware merchant, with a house in Liverpool and another in Montreal. The prophet was educated at the McGill University of Montreal.

QUITE a large number of excursionists are camped at our harbor, among whom we find the Mohawk Club of Grand Rapids; also parties from Allegan and other neighboring towns.

THE tide of emigration is making its way westward at the estimated rate of two thousand laborers per day. The mind is almost dazed in endeavoring to foreshadow the mighty results that will follow this growth during the next decade.

MR. Ryan, formerly editor of the Allegan Herald, W. W. Vosburg and C. Coleman, and their families, are camped near the harbor and are having splendid luck at fishing. On Monday evening they caught 63 black bass in one hour and twenty minutes, and on Wednesday evening they caught four muskallonges, one of which weighed 18, one 13½, one 10 and one 6 pounds, which they packed and shipped to their friends at home.

THOSE who have heard Mrs. Ann Eliza Young lecture, state that she is an earnest intelligent and refined speaker. Being born of mormon parentage it was her misfortune to be thrown into the bondage of mormonism, and since her escape it has been her sole work to expose to the world the cruel system that was imposed upon her. She enlists the sympathy of her hearers by her modest unassuming manner. Speaking as a refined lady would address an intelligent audience.

JOHN Sheppard, an infidel of Orion, Neb., built a platform alongside a Methodist camp meeting ground, and made daily speeches against the doctrines preached by the Methodist ministers. He was a great annoyance to the Christians, and they tried hard to convert him, but all in vain. One day an impulsive clergyman prayed that, if Sheppard could be silenced in no other way, he might be removed by death. That evening the infidel died very suddenly, and it would be difficult to convince the people thereabout that he was not killed in direct answer to that prayer.

THE great Brooklyn bridge is rapidly approaching completion. The chief delay is caused by the tardiness of manufacturers in supplying the steel suspenders, yet the contractors believe that by October a promenade across the river will be opened to the public. The event will be welcomed by hundreds of thousands of people.

THE subject of Mrs. Ann Eliza Young's lecture at Lyceum Hall, on Tuesday Eve., August 9th, will be "Utah's curse and the Nation's shame." Her lecture is an earnest appeal to the intelligent voters and law makers to assist in stamping out this blot upon our nation. She says, until mormonism is destroyed she will have a mission to perform.

THE Panama Canal Company is preparing to do extensive building for its employes on the Isthmus. The contract for the lumber has been obtained by Hanson & Co., the Tacoma mills, Tacoma, Washington Territory, who will make shipments by every sailing vessel leaving Puget Sound and San Francisco for the Isthmus. The first shipment left San Francisco about July 1.

It is announced that the postmaster general is about to adopt a plan for transmitting small sums through the mails, which, if found practicable, will prove a great improvement upon the somewhat cumbersome and expensive postal order system. It is an improvement on the new English system and consists of a postal order on which there are three columns of figures—dollars, tens and units. There are two denominations, one with a maximum of $2.50 the other of $5. The postmasters who issue them will designate the amount they call for by punching out the figures required. They are to be sent like fractional currency, the government not being responsible for them any more than for any other money sent by mail. A record of the amount and date of issue is kept upon a "stub" by the postmaster issuing them, but not of the name of the person buying them. In order to prevent their use as currency, they will cease to be redeemable three months after issue. Their cost will be from two to five cents, according to amount.

MCCOY, the man who shot Porter Hackley, in Muskegon, was captured at Ferrysburg on Wednesday night by Sheriff Vaupeil and Marshal Woltman, of this city. It is reported that Hackley is doing well, and that there are prospects of recovery.

AKLEY's new house has received a beautiful slate roof. When finished it will be the finest dwelling house in the county and an ornament to the city; being situated on a hill it can be seen a great distance on Lake Michigan and forms a conspicuous landmark.

THE U. S. Revenue steamer, Andrew Johnson, Capt. Davis, arrived here on Tuesday morning. She was rebuilt last summer at Manitowoc and is as good as new. A large number of people visited her, especially strangers, who had never seen anything in the shape of a war vessel before.

BERNARDUS, a young son of Johannes D. Vos, of this city, was drowned in Grand River on Saturday forenoon last. Young Benny had been boatriiding with an older brother and another boy when he became frightened by a passing tug, and got out onto a raft of logs. The other two boys kept on with the boat, and after a few minutes, when looking around, Benny had disappeared, and his hat was floating on the water. The boys at once called for help, but it took over an hour before the body was recovered. His remains were buried on Monday last, and the large concourse of people attending the funeral showed the sympathy of the people with the bereaved parents.

A Sad Story of a Wrecked Life.

The most thrilling and sadly suggestive temperance lecture is the sight of a once noble, talented man, left in ruins by intoxicating drink. A Washington paper tells of a ragged beggar, well known in the streets of that city, who once held an important command in the army, having been promoted for personal bravery, from a cavalry lieutenant to nearly the highest rank in military service. One night, not long ago, when he had been too successful in begging liquor to sate his craving, and while lying helplessly drunk in the rear part of a third street saloon, some men thought to play a joke on him by stealing his shirt, and proceeded to strip him.

Underneath his shirt, and suspended by a string from his neck, was a small canvas bag, which the men opened and found it contained his commission as Brevet Major General, two congratulatory letters—one from Gen. Grant and one from President Lincoln—a photograph of a little girl, and a curl of hair—a "chestnut shadow" that doubtless one day crept over the brow of some loved one.

When these things were discovered, even the half-drunk men who found them felt a respect for the man's former greatness, and pity for his fallen condition, and quietly returned the bag and its contents to where they found them, and replaced the sleeper's clothes upon him.

When a reporter tried to interview the man, and endeavored to learn something of his life in the past few years, he declined to communicate anything.

He cried like a child when told how his right name and former position were ascertained, and, with tears trickling down his cheeks, said:

"For God's sake, sir, don't publish my degradation, or my name, at least, if you are determined to say something about it. It is enough that I know myself how low I have become. Will you promise that much? It will do no good, but will do my friends a great deal of harm, as, unfortunately, they think I died in South America, where I went at the close of the war."

Intemperance and the gaming-table, he said, had wrought his ruin.

The latest man who has been made happy through the use of this valuable liniment is Mr. James A. Conlan, Librarian of the Union Catholic Library of this city. The following is Mr. Conlan's endorsement:

UNION CATHOLIC LIBRARY ASSOCIATION,
204 DEARBORN STREET,
CHICAGO, Sept. 16, 1890.

I wish to add my testimony as to the merits of St. Jacobs Oil as a cure for rheumatism. One bottle has cured me of this troublesome disease, which gave me a great deal of bother for a long time; but, thanks to the remedy, I am cured. This statement is unsolicited by any one in its interest.

JAMES A. CONLAN, Librarian.

Perils of Ridicule.

I know of no principle which it is of more importance to fix in the minds of young people than that of the most determined resistance to the encroachment of ridicule. Give up to the world, and to the ridicule with which the world enforces its dominion, every trifling question of manner and appearance; it is to toss courage and firmness to the winds, to combat with the mass upon such subjects as these. But learn from the earliest days to insure your principles against the perils of ridicule; you can no more exercise your reason, if you live in the constant dread of laughter, than you can enjoy your life, if you are in the constant dread of death. If you think it right to differ from the times, and to make a stand for any valuable point of morals, do it, however rustic, however antique, however pedantic it may appear, do it, not for insolence, but seriously and grandly—as a man who wore a soul of his own in his bosom, and did not wait until it was breathed into him by the breath of fashion.

Let men call you mean, you know you are just; hypocritical, if you are honestly religious; pusillanimous, if you feel that you are firm; resistance upon converts unprincipled wit into sincere respect; and no aftertime can tear from you these feelings which every man carries with him who has made a noble and successful exertion in a virtuous cause.

—Sidney Smith.

The "Devil" in American Geography.

The number of lakes, slides, ovens, gates, bridges, towers, bluffs, falls, kitchens, creeks, etc., that have had the word "devil" attached to them is simply immense. From the forests of Maine to the adobe villages on the Mexican border and the Dalles of the Columbia, there is hardly a locality that has not remembered his Satanic majesty. The best known Devil's Gate, on the line of the Union Pacific Railroad, is that a few stations east of Ogden, and in Utah. It is a wild, picturesque spot, and one worth a visit of the tourist. There are a good many Devil's Gates, and no doubt, in the christening of the Sweetwater, the miners found it convenient to give the ubiquitous party a way out of that country.

"I Don't Want That Stuff"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter it was administered to her with such good results that she continued its use until cured, and was so enthusiastic in its praise that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters. —Standard.

National Beverages.

France is gradually changing its national beverage from wine to beer. In Paris alone the consumption has increased 293,000 hectolitres in sixteen years. What the effect of the change will be is a nice question in ethnology which the savants will probably study well. The world is divided as much by its drinks as by its races or its geographical boundaries. The beer country is almost entirely German, coming to a focus at Munich, where the best brew and the best examples of purely Gothic civilization are to be found. England's ale is practically beer with a little change in the fluid as there is in the English tongue. All the Teutons drink brewed liquors; all the Latins wines all the Celts whisky, all the Slavs vodka. In the far East, coffee in Arabia and tea in China take the places of the alcoholic beverages. In fact, it is easier to distinguish a man by his tipple than by his tongue. Every change in race foods has been followed by a change in race character, and France will be no exception to the rule. If beer continues to displace wine we may look forward to the growth of a steadygoing, conservative element in Gallic life which will ballast and direct its enthusiasms—which will add to it that staying, stable power, which is the one thing France needs to lead the world.

"Women Never Think."

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best, and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false. —Penny.

Absorbed.

Castle-building is generally a harmless way of wasting time, bringing no other perils than a loss of will-power and the consequent enervation of character. Prof. Wilson, the famous "Kit North" of Scotland, dearly loved a long reverie before bed-time. One night the habit almost proved fatal to life. While editing Blackwood's Magazine he often worked till the small hours of the morning, and then, for fear of disturbing his wife, threw himself on a lounge in his study, and slept till breakfast.

A friend had persuaded him to introduce gas, just then coming into use in Edinburgh, and the professor found it a wonderful illuminator during his long night toils. But one night, after finishing his writing, he seated himself before the fire-place for a long reverie. Castle after castle was built, dream plans followed each other in quick succession, till suddenly he discovered that the fire was low, and he was shivering.

Half rousing himself, but still lost in his dreams, he blew out the gas, and threw himself on his lounge. In an hour he woke, nearly suffocated, and found the study filled with a pungent odor, and an atmosphere hard to breathe. He threw up the windows, turned off the gas and rushed out of doors. The next morning the gas-pipes were torn up—they were dangerous conveniences for one of his habits.

Writing for the Public.

There is no work done in the world which expends vitality so fast as writing for the public. It is a work which is never done. It accompanies a man upon his walks, goes with him to the theater, gets into bed with him, and possesses him in his dreams. If he stoops to kiss the baby, before he has reached the requisite angle a point occurs to him, and he hangs in mid-air, with vacant face and mind distraught. "What's the matter?" says Mrs. Emerson, in the middle of the night, hearing her husband groping about the room. "Nothing, my dear, only an idea!" —James Parton, in North American Review.

A Ghost Car.

Says a San Francisco paper: "The Express Company frequently carries corpses over the Central Pacific Railroad, and until recently the messengers paid no more attention to a 'bone box' than to a sack of potatoes. But it is different now. One of the express cars, which was noted as having been the conveyance of more occupied coffins than any other on the line, a short time since was the scene of most unaccountable movements. The employees credit the mysterious effects to supernatural causes, and the messengers unite in saying that they would rather be discharged than run another trip in what they call 'the haunted car.'"

Old Story Retold.

"Long John" Wentworth, ex-Mayor of Chicago, is entirely bald, except a little tuft of hair behind the ears, and on one occasion, when riding in the cars, he frequently took off his hat and scratched the back of his ears, when a waggish backwoodsman shouted: "Stranger, drive 'em up into the clearing and you can catch 'em all in five minutes."

Kissing Fair.

If any had supposed it would turn out the way it did, the scheme would not have been adopted, but the object was a charitable one, and the committee on invitation were very careful to avoid the presence of any disagreeable or unpopular person. The following price-list was finally adopted. For one go-as-you-please squeeze of one minute, and one kiss, terms cash, in advance:

Girls under 16 $.25
Girls from 16 to 2050
Ladies from 20 to 2575
Married ladies under 30 1.00
Married ladies from 30 to 4050
Widows under 3075
Maiden ladies from 30 to 4050
Maiden ladies over 40 Two for a nickel

The gentlemen were all gathered in the dining-room and the ladies in the parlor. In the library was a committee of two—a lady and a gentleman (the latter being time-keeper)—and they called in the gentlemen one by one. Each was shown a schedule of prices and a list of the ladies present, and, when one selected the lady he wanted to kiss, she was called in and the transaction occurred in the presence of the committee. In cases where the squeeze was prolonged beyond the schedule time, or an additional smack taken, a fine of double price was charged for every minute in excess, and in several cases the fines were heavy, but were paid without a murmur. The whole affair was confidential, and none but the committee were to know who kissed who. —Rome (Ga.) Courier.

Life.

The following stanza was written by Mrs. Barbauld in extreme old age. When it was repeated to Wordsworth, he said: "I am not in the habit of grudging people their things, but I wish I had written those lines."

Life! we've been so long together,
Through pleasant and through cloudy weather.
Thy hand to part when friends are dear,
Perhaps 'twill cost a sigh, a tear;
Then steal away, give no warning,
Choose thine own time;
Say not good-night, but in some brighter clime
Bid me good-morning.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, and, to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased lungs will take Dr. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has cured more than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

Farmers' Column.

The Worm which is Bothering the Farmers.

Michigan Agricultural College, LANSING, July 13, 1891.

To the Editor of the Post and Tribune.

The enclosed letter from the Rev. E. R. Willard, of White Pigeon, has reference to the army worm, Leucania Unipuncta. This pest only comes occasionally, and then works great havoc, especially in the oat fields. It usually comes after a severe drought the previous year. If St. Joseph county was like the most of Michigan in 1890, the scene of frequent and copious rains, this invasion is very interesting.

In 1875 there was serious destruction by this pest, in the southern part of the state and in Kalamazoo county. Last year in New Jersey, Delaware and in parts of New York, the army worm did very serious damage.

This insect is to be found in our state every year. In sugaring for insects we take the moth here at Lansing every year, and at no time from May to September do we fail to secure it. But usually it abounds in such limited numbers that no serious harm is done. In this case it eats the grass, its favorite food, but takes so little that the farmer feels no loss—in fact is entirely unconscious of the presence of the enemy. Occasionally, however, owing perhaps to favorable climatic conditions, or more probably to the comparatively small number of its parasitic enemies, it appears in devastating numbers. In such cases the meadows are stripped of their green, and the hordes of marauders go forth to the oat fields, where they climb the stalks and cut off the heads of the grain. In their journeys for new fields to devastate they are not partial to direction. If they go east, as stated by the Rev. Mr. Willard, then it is only because they previously occupied a meadow at the west of the field. In 1861 I saw one of these armies enter an oat field in Shiawassee county from the east.

Owing to the numerous parasites—one of the larvae received from Mr. Willard had four eggs of a parasite on it—these enemies never appear in numbers to do serious harm two years in succession. Neither do they attack usually any crop but grass and oats.

Owing to the immense numbers—I have known them to cross a road in such crowds that a single footstep would crush a score of them—we can only hope to fight them as they march to or across a field. The best way is to keep them from entering a field. To do this a deep furrow may be turned from the field. When this is full of the struggling worms cover with straw and burn. This is no little work; but if it saves a whole field of grain, as it often has, it will pay.

Last year, in New Jersey, they made a close board fence one or two feet high next the field to be protected; and as the worms attempted to crawl over smeared them with kerosene oil, and thus killed the caterpillars and saved the grain.

As the insects only live as larvae a few days after they attract attention, and as they will destroy a large field of grain in a single night, no time should be lost.—A. J. Cook, in Detroit Post and Tribune.

Protection Against the Army Worm.

In the letter I wrote you yesterday I said the worms would not probably eat the corn. They sometimes strip every green leaf from the corn if very numerous. They may do so now. I would suggest that the farmers in addition to the other methods try London purple or Paris green. Mix tablespoonful of the poison to two gallons of water, and sprinkle on border of fields toward which the worms are approaching. Sprinkle a strip two or three rods wide. I think this would poison the insects and save the balance of the crop. Farmers, try it.

The pest usually comes about the time the wheat is in the milk. This fact together with the fact that the first worms which I received were nearly full grown led me to say in my note to the Post and Tribune yesterday that probably the corn would not be destroyed. Further specimens received are quite small. Information, too, shows the invasion to be very formidable. This being the case it is very likely that corn will be destroyed. The insects prefer grass but hesitate not to devour any of the cereals. They usually remain two or three weeks after they first attract attention, before they go into the earth to pupate. This fact, together with the size of those received yesterday leads me to fear that the pests may do much mischief during the next week in St. Joseph county. I hope those farmers who are suffering from attacks may try the three remedies proposed, that we may have actual experience to show which is the best. By skillful use of the ditch or London purple I should have great hopes of success.—A. J. Cook, in Detroit Post and Tribune.

—O—

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms, which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals, form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinine, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, Ayer's Ague Cure, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.
