Identity of Lake Victim Is Sought

Body of Young Man Found Floating Near Shore
at Eagle Crest

Clothing Discovered Mile
South on Beach; Wide
Check Is Made

The body of an unidentified young man was found drifting in Lake Michigan at Eagle Crest about 6:15 a.m. today by a Holland resident as he was walking along the beach.

Up until 1 p.m. today, the body had not been identified although Deputy Sheriff William Van Etta was making an extensive search of the resort areas to learn whether any person was missing or to seek somebody who could identify the body.

Frank De Cook, 20 West 17th St., who is staying at a cottage at Eagle Crest, discovered the body. After pulling it out of the water, he went to the cottage of R. J. Boyce of Grand Rapids at Eagle Crest and called Holland police.

They in turn notified Deputy Van Etta who went there in company with Police Officers Rance Overbeek and Isaac De Kraker. Dr. William Winter also was called.

In the absence of Dr. John K. Winter, county coroner, Justice of Peace John Galien was called and he returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Condition of the body indicated that it had been in the water for more than 24 hours. It was badly "skinned", indicating that the rough sea of Wednesday had shifted it over the sand considerably. The only clothing on the body was a pair of bathing trunks. His other clothing was found under a tree, high up on the lake beach just south of the girl scout camp which is a mile south of where the body was located.

The youth was described as being between 20 and 25 years old, five feet, 10 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has dark brown hair, hazel eyes and the little finger has been amputated for some time from the right hand.

Deputy Van Etta called the Holland State park where Supt. Carl Van Weelden said no person was missing from the park. He was to search the park on the belief that the young man might have come to the park alone and left his tent and car.

The officer also called Grand Rapids police, requesting them to check up on reports of missing persons. Later a call was made to Paw Paw with a request that state police make a radio broadcast of the victim's description.

The company's net profit, after all charges, for the six months ending June 30, amounted to $132,943.86 as compared with $120,365 for the same period last year or an increase of $12,578.86. START WORK ON HOLLAND PLANT OF CHRIS-CRAFT

Preliminary Task Under Way at Location on North Side

President of Firm, Clad in Overalls, Says He Is 'Helper'

Preliminary work towards the construction of a new plant for the Chris-Craft Corp. world's largest builders of motorboats, got under way on Wednesday at the new 22-acre plant site on the short cut road to Ottawa beach, opposite the plant of the Holland Aniline Dye Co.

E. P. Stephan, secretary-manager of the Holland Chamber of Commerce, visited the site and received authority to announce that the work has started on the plant.

The Chris-Craft Corp., whose main plant is now located at Algonac, announced last June 16 that the company was completing arrangements to build a new factory here.

A crew of workers under supervision of a A. W. McKernan began constructing the office building and carrying out preliminary work. Dressed in overalls, J. W. Smith, Sr., president of the company, identified himself at the site to Mr. Stephan as a "helper."

Mr. Smith informed Mr. Stephan that on Aug. 16 Mr. McKernan will be replaced by Harry H. Coll, Jr., who will serve as general supervisor in the construction of the plant. Mr. Coll has rented a home on the Park road where he will reside during his stay in Holland.

A crew of employees of the Consumers Power Co. also was at work, erecting poles to carry wires which will supply the electrical power for the plant.

Carl Bowen, county surveyor, was at work there making the survey for the new factory. Indications are, Mr. Stephan said, that the plant will be constructed as quickly as possible.

It was reported that Pere Marquette officials have visited the site on previous occasions to make a survey for the railroad spur that will be constructed to the plant.

GOES ANGLING FOR FISH; REWARD IS DUCK FOR DINNER

Imagine the surprise of Ivan Huyser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Huyser, East 24th St. He recently went fishing for fish and came home with a duck.

The story was told today by his father who is clerk in Holland post office. Ivan went fishing in a stream near his home. A sudden rain sent him home after he withdrew the line from the water and left it lying, together with the pole, on the bank.

In his absence, a duck, belonging to the family flock went in search of food and came across the worm, on the fish hook. When the youth returned to get his fishing pole he met the duck on its way home, dragging the fish pole and the line behind it. The hook had become caught in the duck's bill.

Mr. Huyser said the family enjoyed a "duck dinner" as it was necessary to kill the duck.

TAPPAN WARNS OF GARBAGE DISPOSAL

Dr. William M. Tappan, city health officer, has warned that the discarding of garbage on the surface of the ground on the rear of lots and in alleys is "absolutely" prohibited and that violators face court prosecution.

Dr. Tappan pointed out that recent inspections by the city inspector about the city reveals numerous persons have been careless in disposal of their garbage. He said he desired to remind Holland citizens that there are two ways by which garbage may be disposed.

One is to bury it deep in the ground and the second is to obtain a heavy can with a lid and have it collected by the city garbage collector. Dr. Tappan is suggesting that garbage cans should be emptied at least once a week during the summer.

Dies Suddenly of Heart Attack While Seated on His Porch

Rites Saturday for Civic and Business Leader and Lake Man

Stricken by a heart attack while seated on the front porch of his home, Austin Harrington, 76, better known as "Captain Harrington" and a prominent Holland business man, died suddenly about 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Harrington was seated near him, reading the evening newspaper to Captain Harrington at the time he was stricken. She immediately rushed to a telephone to summon a doctor upon discovering her husband's condition but Mr. Harrington was dead when the doctor arrived.

Although able to visit his place of business Wednesday, Mr. Harrington had complained to his family that he was not feeling well. For a number of years, he had been suffering of pernicious anemia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrington made their home at 231 Washington Blvd. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Oct. 19, 1937.

Well known in Holland as a veteran coal merchant and because of his activities in developing Holland harbor, Mr. Harrington's death proved a shock.

Besides operating his coal business on West Eighth St., Mr. Harrington operated a dock adjoining his coal yard where boats unloaded the local consignments of coal, scrap iron, potash and other freight.

He was born on a farm in Overijssel, Aug. 11, 1863, to Mr. and Mrs. George S. Harrington. When only four years old, his parents moved to a farm which was located near the present intersection of Lincoln Ave. and State St.

Mr. Harrington attended school at Graafschap and finished Hope college preparatory school. He was graduated from the Swinberg Business college in Grand Rapids.

For two years, he taught school at the West Olive and Fillmore schools before his marriage Oct. 19, 1887, in Allegan to Miss Lucia Garvelink. Shortly after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Harrington moved to Chicago, Ill., where he was engaged in the commission business for four years.

They later moved to Holland where Mr. Harrington entered the coal business more than 50 years ago, his place of business being located on River Ave. where the Cook Coal and Feed Co. is now located.

Later Mr. Harrington sold this business and located his place of business at the foot of West Eighth St. As the business expanded, Mr. Harrington established a branch on US-31 at the north edge of Holland about 20 years ago. He also was a marine contractor.

He was a licensed captain on the Great Lakes and for a number of years he operated the ferry boats at Macatawa park, Ottawa beach and Holland.

At one time, he served as clerk at the Macatawa Park hotel. Mr. Harrington became a lake captain about the same time he entered the retail and wholesale coal business. Years ago, Mr. Harrington and his son, Harry, sailed a sloop rig, Pinta, from Miami, Fla., to Holland, the trip taking them across the Gulf of Mexico, up the Mississippi river, through the Illinois river canal to Chicago and across Lake Michigan, many weeks being required to make the trip.

Mr. Harrington maintained a collection of old pictures of Holland and the lake boats of years ago which piled the waters into Holland harbor which he prized highly.

Works Board Has Option for Downtown Quarters

May Obtain Former Bank Building in Move to Aid Library

The board of public works, in a communication submitted to common council Wednesday night, revealed that it has obtained a year's option for the purchase of the former Holland City State bank building at Eighth St. and River Ave. with the idea of making it the future headquarters for the works board.

The option price is $30,000. The board said it should have a year's time in which to make definite plans for moving its office, the communication stated.

The works board and the council's civic improvements committee met Monday night to discuss the recent proposal that the board vacate its city hall offices which would be taken over by the city library. At a previous council meeting, the aldermen approved the committee's recommendation to grant the works board a stay of at least one year in its present headquarters.

"If the board's requirements can be met at this location and at the same time make it unnecessary for the city to face the possibility or necessity of another bond issue to meet the requirements of our library, the cost of accomplishing both purposes would be very small, the letter pointed out."

Without comment, council voted to file the board's communication. It was said today, that the board of public works has taken no definite action toward securing new offices, other than obtaining the option to purchase the former bank building.

HOLLAND LOSES AFTER VISITORS COP FIRST LEAD

Bears Score Seven Runs in First Inning on Hits and Errors

Dutchmen Fill Bags Twice in Tilt but Fail to Erase Margin

A combination of four hits and four errors with the Cleveland Bears at bat in the first inning was enough to put Pitcher Bob Vanden Berg and his Dutch cohorts in a hole from which they never climbed Tuesday night as the Cleveland colored team tasted victory at Riverview park, 10-8.

Although the Dutchmen were out and back in their hole twice during the evening, the "umph" needed to pull ahead was lacking both times.

Twice, with the initial seven run lead pared to a digestible margin, the local boys had the bags filled, and the winning runs in hand. Both times, however, the needed hits were lacking.

North Shore scored a 10-7 victory over Jamestown in Lake Shore league play Monday, gaining a margin in the first two and fourth innings.

Bos hurled an errorless tilt for a 10-0 shutout over the Pullman club of the Alleghen league.

Three runs in the fifth inning gave the Lincoln park team of the city B league a lead safe enough for victory Monday night over the East End Stars. The Park team won, 7-4.

The Dykema Tailors scored a 7-5 victory over the Hulst Market softball team Friday night before a crowd at Legion field in Zeeland.

His constant appeals brought about the extension of the present breakwaters into Lake Michigan and the construction of the concrete piers, replacing the wooden piers. Afterwards, he made urgent appeals to the federal government to dredge out the inland channel in order that the larger freight boats could reach the east end of Lake Macatawa.

Farewell to Missionaries

Second Reformed church was the scene last Thursday night of a farewell reception for Dr. and Mrs. H. P. De Pree who are leaving for China in August and Dr. and Mrs. William Moordyk, who are leaving for Arabia in September. Both the De Pree and the Moordyks are closely connected with the missionary activity of Second Reformed church and have been supported in their work by local organizations. They also formerly resided in Zeeland and have several relatives residing here.

The reception was in charge of Isaac Van Dyke, chairman of the missionary committee, and after brief words of welcome by him a song service was directed by P. T. Moordyk. Geneva Jansen was accompanist.

Dr. William Van Kersen, field secretary of the Reformed church foreign mission board, conducted devotions. The Rev. R. J. Vanden Berg, pastor, spoke briefly and presented the missionaries with a gift of money.

Dr. H. P. De Pree briefly told about recent changes in China and the moving of the Theological seminary inland so that it will be necessary to work under primitive conditions. He expressed courage, however, in the work, because the church is moving forward in spite of the turmoil of war.

Mrs. Moordyk expressed pleasure at returning to the field in spite of a great shortage of helpers. Greater tasks she said, are confronting missionaries than ever before and she urged the need of backing and cooperation on the part of the church at home.

Tobacco Use Explained at Rotary Club Meeting

McCrea Addresses Group Today; Plan Sessions at Yacht Club

Tobacco in its five forms was the subject which Carleton Sawyer, tobacco firm representative of New York, discussed at Thursday's meeting of the Holland Rotary club in the Warm Fried tavern last week.

Mr. Sawyer, a cigarette research man, explained preparation of tobacco for its five usable forms of snuff, chewing tobacco, smoking tobacco, cigars and cigarettes.

He was introduced by Randall Bosch, member of the program committee.

Archie E. McCrea, editor of the Muskegon Chronicle, was to speak to the club at its meeting in the tavern this Thursday.

A move by club members to meet at the Macatawa Bay Yacht club during the summer has been accepted by the board of directors, but the meeting there will be postponed until next week.

Mr. Sawyer said tobacco is an outstanding factor in the habits of humans and in revenue of the government.

He said 10 per cent of government revenue is taken from tobacco. "It's remarkable, when we consider that we use tobacco by chance," he said, describing the early use of tobacco in the world after a friar, accompanying Columbus on his second trip to this hemisphere, carried the product back to Europe. The tobacco habit was introduced in Spain, and is spread from there to France to England.

The time of picking is important, he explained. When the tobacco leaves are picked, they are hung to dry. Air-cured tobacco dries in 40 days, and fire-cured tobacco dries in 10 days. Fire-cured tobacco is artificially-dried tobacco.

"Tobacco can't be used at that stage for they have neither taste nor odor. They are sold at auction, and piled in heaps—sometimes as much as 50 tons in a pile—to age."

"It's a guess as to what happens to the tobacco as it ages," Mr. Sawyer said. "Certain bacteria appear, and although it is impossible to tell from where, or what they eat, the bacteria seem to give off an excretion which works on the tobacco leaf."

He said that although tobacco is not completely aged in two or three years, most tobaccos used have progressed sufficiently in the process in that time for commercial use.

Mr. Sawyer said tobacco may be harmful to some people because of organic conditions within themselves. "A change of brand won't help them," he stated. "They've got to quit." Nicotine is present from one-half per cent to 3 per cent in tobacco, he said.

"Snuff is treated with aromatic oils, saccharin, and other preparations and packaged for the market. Tens of millions of packages are sold each year. One half million pounds were sold in one and two-ounce packages in greater New York last year," he pointed out.

Burley, he explained, is the foundation of all tobacco preparations except cigars. Cigars are the only form not treated with aromatic preparations.

Burley with poor cigar tobacco leaves, and scrap constitute plug tobacco for chewing, he said. The cigar consists of a wrapper, a binder and a filler, and pipe tobacco consists of burley, and blends of other leaves, including perique.

Netherlands Visitors Honored at Outing

Mr. and Mrs. Lukas Brunsting of Haarlem, The Netherlands, who have been visiting relatives in this vicinity, left on Tuesday for New York city to sail on the S. S. Statendam for their home. The date of their departure is in advance of their original plans due to war clouds, rumors and general mobilization of European forces.

Mr. Brunsting owns considerable real estate in The Netherlands. The couple has been making a general tour of several eastern and mid-western states including the World's fair at New York city and other places of importance.

The purpose of their travel in this country, in addition to seeing relatives and old-time friends on this side of the Atlantic ocean, was to really see the country of which they had heard and read about so much. Mr. Brunsting stated that the impressions of America in the minds of natives abroad is the gigantic scale on which all American life is based.

These impressions are true, he found—although many Netherlands think that there are vast areas where nothing and no one is to be found. In their travels through many states Mr. and Mrs. Brunsting found that every-thing was inhabited and practical use made of each part.

Their visit included all the leading cities from New York to Minnesota and Iowa, the stock yards, zoo, museum and planetarium of Chicago, many huge factories, immense hateries and all places where things are made on a large scale.

Mr. Brunsting compared art and science of both countries and stated that although the Museum of Amsterdam is richer in original masterpieces such as the works of Rembrandt and Jan Steen and other works, this country possessed rarities not found anywhere else.

Mr. Brunsting has visited many foreign countries in Europe and after his return promises to advise others to tour the United States. He also expects to come here again.

Their impressions of American youth were favorable, especially in the field of religious activity—a greater zeal and seriousness than that found among youth in The Netherlands. Some time ago Mr. Brunsting planned a trip to Palestine, since he had been engaged in Sunday school work for so many years and therefore desired to see for himself the land so much spoken of in Scriptures. But undesirable conditions and lack of safety due to frequent skirmishes between Arabs and Jews made him and Mrs. Brunsting change their plans. They visited the United States instead.

Mr. Brunsting remembers that at the age of 10 in 1889, while still living in Bellen in the province of Drenthe, approximately 80 persons migrated to the United States in search of prosperity, new homes and happiness. Most, if not all of those 80, belonged to the same church. Naturally, after their departure their absence was noticeable in the pews of the church, many being empty. These empty pews made a sad looking spectacle, and so much impressed the "Dominee" of the congregation that he expressed the wish that never such a wholesale departure would happen again. This was 50 years ago, last March. Of those 80 persons many settled in the vicinity of this city and Graafschap. Others went to Iowa or other parts of Michigan.

TO HONOR MEN IN GUARD FETE

Grand Haven, Aug. 3.—The memories of Lieut. Commander G. B. Lofberg and Capt. Charles Morton, of the old Life Saving Service, forerunner of the Coast Guard, will be honored in the third annual U. S. Coast Guard water fete here Aug. 3, 4 and 5.

Places will be fixed on the brick wall at Kelly Memorial park, where last year at the festival, plates were placed to the memory of Capt. William R. Loutit, first superintendent of the district, and Nathaniel Robbins, second superintendent.

The custom will be observed each year in memory of all officers who at one time headed the old 10th district.

Lofberg, former Pacific coast sailor, was commander from 1913 to 1923.

Capt. George Gaffield, retired and Capt. J. Nelson, also retired, will draw the veils at the dedication. Both served under the honored commanders.

Lofberg, former Pacific coast sailor was commander from 1913 to 1923. He had served in the revenue cutter service during the war with Spain, and had been with the Old Chicago station. He came here in 1913 from Racine as superintendent, and was promoted to commander two years later.

He was assigned to command the 12th district with headquarters at San Francisco in 1923, and he died, retired, Oct. 24, 1937. His widow lives at Santa Cruz, and a son, Lieut. Gus Lofberg is an officer duty in the U. S. navy in Pacific waters.

Morton enlisted as a surfman in 1883 at St. Joseph, and three years later was transferred to Holland as officer in charge. He replaced Capt. Nathaniel Robbins, who died in 1898, and served until his death July 7, 1913.

He had been 31 years in the service, 15 of them in Grand Haven. He was stationed near Little Big Horn at the time of Custer's battle, but was not ordered to support.

His widow, Mrs. Louise Morton, lives here. Three daughters, Mrs. Mabel Vandenberg of Holland, Mrs. J. D. Vyn of Grand Rapids and Mrs. D. H. Bennett of Niles Center and three sons, Grove of Lansing, Dr. Dean A. Morton of Niles and Charles of Washington, I. C., are living.

Cottages and Tourist Homes Can Be Listed

E. P. Stephan, secretary-manager of the Holland Chamber of Commerce, has asked owners of cottages who wish to rent them for a week or two weeks and operators of tourists homes to register with the Chamber of Commerce.

He pointed out that the local office receives requests almost daily from reporters desiring to rent cottages for short periods but that the organization has no complete list of names to which these requests can be referred. Mr. Stephan said real estate agencies are interested only in renting cottages by the month or season.

No cost will be charged for listing cottages or tourists homes. Mr. Stephan stated.

SCHOONER WILL BE USED AT G.H. FETE

Grand Haven, Aug. 3.—A rescue in a breeches buoy from the old three-masted schooner, Oliver H. Perry, now used as a training ship for Sea Scouts, will be a spectacular event at the third annual U. S. Coast Guard water fete in Grand Haven, Aug. 3, 4 and 5.

A crew picked from the former 10th district will shoot a line to the ship anchored off Grand Haven State park beach, and will go through the actual work of establishing a high bawser line to which is attached a breeches buoy in which persons from the ship will be drawn over the breaking rollers to the yellow beach.

SHE'S A "DICTATOR"

The town of Disney, Oklahoma, has put over a new one—Oklahoma is still a young enough state so that people there can adapt themselves to new conditions. Instead of naming a "queen" for a local festival, the people of Disney have elected a dictator. The Sentinel printed her picture the other day; her name is Alice Stevens.

In addition to being so state that it is almost putrid, the "queen" idea is even behind the times in its analogy to world events. For in the machinery of modern government a queen is a very small potato indeed; almost the only significance she has is a traditional one, and even that is wearing thinner every day. It is the dictator who not only has the real power but also monopolizes the eyes and ears of the world. If an American festival committee wants to suggest supremacy, obviously "dictator" is the word to use not "queen."

Mussolini's Italy has a live queen but who among the earth's millions knows about her or pays her any regard? She is not even a figurehead anymore but has become almost anonymous in the short space of less than 20 years while the dictator has been monopolizing the world's attention.

Germany and Russia didn't happen to have any kings or queens when the dictators took over, but if they had, the story would have been the same. England has a queen but she does not rule, and the fact that she is most frequently brought out in her favor is that she is so "democratic"—meaning that she does not think herself above the common herd. Here and there a country still has a queen that actually suggests the thing that American festival committees are after when they name a "queen." Holland is a good example, where Wilhelmina is not only a queen but one who actually takes part in the conduct of the government. The Scandinavian countries also still have queens, but the number of real queens is steadily diminishing.

But it was at the very moment that the queen was rapidly becoming an anachronism in Europe that allegedly democratic America took up the notion and peppered the landscape with temporary "queens" of this, that and the other thing. Disney, Oklahoma, is apparently the only town in America that is endeavoring to keep up with the political procession, by naming a "dictator" instead of a "queen."

A professor says there's "danger in youth movements." Also in adult movements. Also in standing still. So what are you gonna do?

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By CORA ANTHONY
Director of A&P Kitchen

WITH very few exceptions, the housewife can do her week-end shopping for less money this summer than she could last.

Most meats cost approximately the same, poultry, eggs and butter are cheaper. Vegetables and fruits cost more and many things cost less. The drought in the northeastern states will affect vegetable prices unless good rains come soon.

Eatable peaches are now plentiful and reasonable in price. Both garden tomatoes and peaches can be served every day to most families without raising any prices. Corn and sweetcobs also are very popular and both corn and lima beans are seasonal and inexpensive. There has been little change in meat, poultry, egg or butter prices.

Elijah—A Life of Courage
I Kings 18: 1-20

By Henry Geerlings

Human nature humiliates us so often with its weakness and its cowardice, but it likewise stirs us to the most enthusiastic admiration for its courage and daring.

If history is full of weak men it also can show fine exhibits of brave men whom nothing can make afraid. We read with emotional reaction the story of Elijah daring to face the angry Ahab, who was in no mood to meet the prophet, for he blamed him for all the woes and ills of his kingdom. He would have put Elijah to death with the grim satisfaction with which a farmer shoots a crow that steals his newly planted corn.

He looked upon Elijah as the cause of the famine that was bringing suffering and death. There had been no rain for weary and blighting months and Elijah sealed up the clouds, as the king thought. To murder such a man would be a public duty and a personal joy. And yet this man Ahab had a certain kind of fear of this bold prophet. Deep down in his heart he had the feeling that Elijah was a man who had power with God and therefore Ahab had a superstitious respect for him. Wicked men are in a sense afraid of brave and good men. It is a state of mind that is hard to analyze, but it exists nevertheless. Elijah had the situation so in hand that he moved Ahab to obey him and followed the directions of the prophet and the abundant showers came.

It was a brave thing for Elijah to face Ahab, but somehow men who have a strong faith in God and a deep conviction of the right scorn personal danger. Elijah was God's representative, the champion of a spiritual religion. And we moderns little know how debasing heathen religion, of which Jezebel was the sponsor, was. Elijah felt a growing responsibility to vindicate God and to bring the people of Israel to an intelligent appreciation of the superiority of their religion and to save them from the demoralizing influences of paganism. That religion not only debased the individual, but would in time dig the grave of the nation. Elijah knew this. We must give credit to such men as Elijah, living in their far-off day of spiritual insensibility, for having a remarkable conception of God and of the absolute necessity of spiritual forces and fundamental moralities in nation building. In a sense Elijah was the product of his age yet in his view of the righteousness of God and of the place of spiritual values in the social and rational order he was far ahead of his times. If he were living today with the advantage of our Christian point of view he would be a national figure, a leader in all things that make for the righteousness of our land.

So this man of God felt that the time had come for him to strike a great blow for righteousness, to give some demonstration on the intellectual and spiritual level of his people whereby he could vindicate Jehovah and prove the superiority of the tabular contest on Mount Carmel. At once the daring faith of the man becomes apparent and commands our attention. He was sure that he was going to win. He staked all on his winning. He burned all his bridges behind him. It was a great moment. Jehovah's name was at stake. Spiritual religion was at stake. Great ideals were at stake. If this daring prophet had not won the Jehovah religion would have suffered almost irretrievably with that generation at least. The people would have believed that one religion was as good as another. Whatever we may have to say in our day of a fuller revelation of God as to the value of such a test as this on the mount, we must remember that such a proof as this was regarded for the mind of that age. Elijah was dealing with minds that were not highly cultivated in spiritual evidences. They were not moved by moral values as we would be in this day.

It was a great victory that Elijah won on Carmel. It must have deeply impressed those who saw the contest. How long the impression lasted even in the minds of Israel we do not know, but it wrought great good among the people. Surely many would remember the utter helplessness of Baal and the complete routing of the priests. It is too much to expect that all who saw that demonstration of Jehovah's power would be won to him in perpetual fidelity. In spite of the most convincing evidences many will persist in going after strange gods. Some people do not want the better. We all know better than we do. It is not enlightenment that many of us need. It is the will to do what we know to be good.

PRESS COMMENT

WE COMMEND OUR FELLOW

A very long and useful business career practically closed last week when Ben A. Mulder, for fifty-one years a newspaper man, sold his paper, The Holland City News, to the Holland Evening Sentinel which will continue its publication.

After these many years of public service, Mr. Mulder lays down the greater part of his labors because of declining health, a labor for love of service that none at the present time equals in Holland.

Although a newspaper man for fifty-one years, which is practically his entire active community endeavor during his sixty-seven years of life, he has been the owner and publisher of the Holland City News forty-seven years, taking charge of that publication in the 22nd year of its existence, the paper having been established by his forebears.

As a lad of sixteen, Ben Mulder entered the employ of his father, the late Leendert Mulder, publisher of the original colonial newspaper De Grondwet, published in the Holland language. He started as bookkeeper and hand typesetter, which work he continued four years, and as a young man of twenty-one years he associated himself with his late younger brother, Charles Mulder, in assuming the responsibility for publishing a newspaper that has been of inestimable influence in the moral and civic uplift of his community. He can never be repaid for the sacrifice he has made that others might profit, but the true newspaper editor expects and desires only the goodwill and appreciation of his fellow citizens for his efforts.

Besides, Mr. Mulder was one of the organizers of the Holland Evening Sentinel when that paper was established in 1900, and for many years he was its managing editor. He relinquished this position when the paper was sold to its present owners, the Sentinel Printing Co.

During his active business life, Ben Mulder has served on numerous civic, religious, and political committees and in offices of public trust, the recitation of which would burden these columns, and his listing of the number of times he has served as delegate to the Republican county, state and national conventions would require more than a column alone. He has always been a staunch Republican, and he cast his first presidential ballot for Harrison and Reid in the fall of 1892 when Grover Cleveland defeated Benj. Harrison, turning the tables of four years previous.

The transfer of ownership of the Holland City News was made on July 1st, and Mr. Mulder now joins the Sentinel staff as associate editor to serve at his leisure, continuing some of the features he enjoyed in his weekly paper. For the present he is taking a long-needed rest, after which he will devote most of his time to developing historical data of Holland and environs, on which subject he is the best present-day living authority.

The writer is sorry to see his retirement at this time, having been immediate neighbors and intimate fellow publishers these forty-four years, but principally because it so emphatically indicates the fleeting of the years, the transience of man, and the insignificance of his accomplishments when compared with the eternal.

We are glad that Holland, and Ottawa county, and Michigan, and the nation, and the world are just a little better because of the life and the efforts of our retiring friend, Benjamin Mulder. May he live for many years, and be a blessing in the future, while he reaps a little of the fine fruits of his labors. If all men were made of the true stuff as he, the world would not be in the mess it is today.

FULL REPORT ON LAKE PROBLEM BEING DRAFTED

Data Will Be Presented at August Meet of Board of C. of C.

Sources of Contamination Along Black River Are Investigated

E. P. Stephan, secretary-manager of the Holland Chamber of Commerce, has revealed that the special committee of the board of directors plans to present a detailed report to the other directors at the regular monthly board meeting Tuesday, Aug. 8, on the results of their investigation into the pollution of Lake Macatawa.

Members of this committee are Chester Van Tongeren, Alfred C. Joldersma, Joe Kramer and Mr. Stephan. They were appointed by President Charles R. Sligh, Jr., after S. P. Nelson, county sanitary engineer, appeared before the directors to give first hand information on what causes the unsanitary conditions in the lake here.

Mr. Stephan has reported that the committee has made a trip along Black River as far as Zeeland, investigating the various sources of pollution which had been reported to them. In their visit to Zeeland, the committee was informed that engineers are drawing up plans and specifications for a modern sewage disposal plant and that the city expects work on the plant to start before Oct. 1.

Mr. Stephan also is in receipt of a letter from John F. Jellema, analyst for the board of public works, who said he has found the waters of Lake Macatawa, east of Telling's point, unsafe for bathing while the lake west from that point is safe.

Mr. Jellema presented Mr. Stephan with a copy of laboratory reports on analyses of water samples taken at some 50 sampling stations in Lake Macatawa and along Lake Michigan beaches adjacent to the channel. These reports cover the work done on some 20 or more sampling trips at various intervals since 1921.

"It should not be inferred that the water east of Telling's point is entirely unsafe for bathing. Establishing the line at Telling's point gives us a good margin of safety in the light of many years' surveys. Incidentally, the water at Kollen park is definitely unfit for bathing and this beach has been closed by order of local health officers," Mr. Jellema stated.

"Furthermore, it is not impossible to contaminate the excellent water in the west two-thirds of Lake Macatawa. Constant supervision and interest is necessary to keep the thoughtless or ignorant from piping a drain to the lake. Such acts, of course, constitute a violation of the law. Should any question arise as to what constitutes proper practice in sanitation at any point on the lake, the proper authority to consult, I believe, is our county sanitary engineer, Mr. Nelson at Grand Haven, who is always willing to cooperate.

"Your local board of public works has kept up its interest in the condition of the lake and together with the county sanitary engineer, the state health department, the stream control commission and the conservation department, it is gratifying to note that your office, too, finds the problem an important one."

Mr. Bolhuis has been working on the idea for the past five years. His firm has been using them for the past two years.

ANNUAL CASTLE PARK NET MEET ENTRIES ASKED

Play to Open in Court Meet Next Monday, Finals Aug. 6

Outstanding Players to Enter 11th Annual Park Tourney

Play in the 11th annual Castle park invitational tennis tournament, the second tourney of importance scheduled in this resort area this summer, will begin next Monday. Finals will be held Aug. 13.

The other important net meet for tennis players of this resort area, closed in final matches at Macatawa park courts last week-end.

Entries in the three divisions of the Castle meet are open, and enthusiasts in Holland and vicinity may make their entries at the Castle or telephone entries to the Castle hotel desk.

Entries close at noon Saturday. The draw will be held under the direction of Rudd Craven, tournament manager Saturday night. Play begins Monday, and finals will be held the following Sunday afternoon.

Craven, a Sewanee college boy, and instructor in tennis at Castle park, will direct play in men's singles, men's doubles and women's singles divisions.

Trophies will be presented to victors and runners up in all divisions, and balls will be furnished to players in the semi-final and final rounds.

The Castle tournament annually attracts the best in tennis material in this area of the state, and this season's meet, following the successful Macatawa tournament, is expected to surpass all previous events.

Invitations have been extended to cup winners of the Macatawa tournament, including Roland Fend, Kalamazoo boy who won the junior and men's singles divisions at Macatawa last week, and paired with Bob Herschel of Waukazo to win the men's doubles.

Fend left here Sunday to compete in the national junior lawn tennis meet at Culver, Ind. this week, but is expected to return here before next Monday to enter the Castle meet.

Paul Stagg, Springfield, Mass., and former player at the University of Chicago, was runner up in the men's singles at Macatawa; and Joe Mullen, St. Louis, Mo., was runner up in the junior meet. Both will enter the Castle tournament.

Bill DeGroot and Bill Arendshorst together won runner up cups in the Macatawa meet, losing their final doubles match to Herschel and Fend.

These will be foremost among the entries in the Castle men's singles and doubles divisions, although numerous other players are expected from Waukazo, Macatawa, Castle park, Saugatuck and Holland. Entries in previous years have come from Grand Rapids and Grand Haven, and it is expected that some good material may come from these centers.

Emile Schneider and Mrs. Paul Stagg, finalists in the women's division of the Macatawa meet, may both be entered in the Castle tourney. Miss Schneider defeated Mrs. Stagg last week-end, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3. Mrs. Stagg previously eliminated Jean Wismeier, Holland district women's champion.

CASTLE BOYS GO ON LONG CANOE JAUNT ON AU SABLE RIVER

Castle park's canoe trip was sized as an ambitious undertaking this week as eight boys and four men left the Castle campus Monday morning for a long trip on the Au Sable river.

The group had not fully formulated its plans, but a possible route of more than 100 miles was charted on the river course, and the group will paddle as much of it as possible before returning home Friday.

The boys' paddling in four canoes, will get onto the river at Grayling, and paddle towards Au Sable point on Lake Huron. What will determine the distance the group makes is the kind of fishing luck that holds with them. If it is good, boys planning the trip confided that progress on the river would be slow.

The trip will take the boys through trout and pike waters. Otsego Lake, a second possible point for starting the trip, is a good fishing lake. The river passes through the Au Sable state forest and the Huron national forest.

Accompanied by Carter P. Brown, Jerry Breen, Jay Van Hoven and Carter Wilkie Brown, boys on the trip will be Pierce Erb, Dick Steketee, Peter Goodspeed, Minor Keeler, Jim McLean, Paul Stuhler, Gilbert Carter and Dick Needham. All boys are members of the Castle play classes.

The entire family, including Jack De Valois, will stay at the manse of the church of which Rev. Van't Hof was pastor for nine years—the Mariner's Harbor Reformed church. Jack's father is Mrs. Van't Hof's brother, and Jack is staying with his uncle and aunt until his parents return from India where they are missionaries.

THEORY SAYS HIGH WATER CYCLE HERE

Observant resorters have noticed recently that the waters of both Lake Macatawa and Lake Michigan are above the usual level of the past few years.

The reason is that it's just time for it to rise. According to a theory recited this week by local coast guardsmen, water levels rise approximately every seven years. In 1929, water reached a high level, and fell off in the years following until this season new levels have been reached.

HAVE SPEED THEORY Varnish for speed is a theory applied by sailboat owners. FIREMEN PURSUES BURNING AUTO TO EXTINGUISH BLAZE

An autoist who did not know his car was on fire was pursued for about two blocks Monday afternoon by a local fire truck before the burning car could be overtaken and the fire extinguished.

The incident occurred shortly after 2 p.m. Fireman Joseph Ten Brink had responded to an alarm from the Lakeside Dairy at Montello park. Arriving on the scene, he found that the services of his truck were not required and he started the return trip to the No. 2 engine house.

While driving down 17th St. near Washington Ave., he noticed an automobile crossing the Maple Ave. intersection with smoke pouring from the rear of the car. He gave chase and caught up with the car at River Ave. and brought the fire under control with the use of chemicals before the fire caused serious damage.

The car was driven by an unidentified youth. He said the car belonged to a young man by the name of Ogden and that he was returning from having taken Ogden's sister to one of the local parks.

Ten Brink said the fire apparently had started from the exhaust as he found part of it wrapped in asbestos. It was believed the heated, unprotected portion had come in contact with oil.
