Holland Well Represented In Today's Parade

This City Will Take Up Nearly a Complete Division

The Historic Parade scheduled for this Friday morning at Grand Haven has assumed gigantic proportions; in fact, so large that it will be over two miles in length. It will be the outstanding highlight of the centennial celebration.

The parade is scheduled to start at 11:00 this morning at the corner of Beech Tree and Washington streets, and will proceed down Washington street to Water street. Washington street will be completely blocked off for the line of march and Franklin and Columbus streets will be closed off for the formation and disbandment of the various units. Penney avenue and Fulton street will be left open for traffic.

The parade will be headed by the official car carrying Mayor Heap and visiting officials, escorted by State police, who will, on their arrival at the corner of Third and Washington streets, take their place on the reviewing stand to be erected there, and review the parade.

The parade proper will be led by artists in tableaux, giving a portrayal of the famous painting "The Spirit of '76," followed by the landing party from the Coast Guard cutter Escanaba, the 128th Infantry band, the Third Battalion of the National Guards, including Companies I, K, L, M, and the Headquarters Company, the Grand Rapids Cannon company, the Second Battalion consisting of a Headquarters company, and companies E from Big Rapids, H from Ionia, and G from Muskegon. Holland's own company D will be seen in the military division. There will be one battery from the 119th Field artillery of Lansing. Company F of Grand Haven will show the uniforms as worn in the various wars of the United States. This company is one of the oldest in the state, serving in two wars.

The second division of the parade, the Historical section, will show the Rix Robinson Trading Post, the Pioneer Covered Wagon, Reverend and Mrs. Perry in a carriage, a stage coach, lumbermen, an early sawmill, a sawdust dump cart, old fire fighting equipment and old Coast Guard equipment.

The third section, the Nationality group, will show the many nationalities that have had a part in the building of Grand Haven. The Dutch will be assisted by a group from Holland, a Swedish group, Italian, Polish, Arabian, German, English, Scotch, Irish, French, all in native costume and many with their own bands playing their distinct national music.

The Holland American Legion band will occupy a conspicuous place in the Holland division, followed by at least four or five floats, one the Royal coach of Netherlands modernized, even Princess Juliana being there. A Dutch "fishing smack" from the Netherlands with netting outfits will be represented in another float. A typical Dutch barnyard with spotted cows, milkmaids and all, will be float three. Another float will comprise a load of Dutch girls lustily singing "folk songs," with six accordion players leading. There will be a windmill float, and maybe Dutch Vander Schel has a few more up his sleeve that he is not telling about. To round out the Holland division, the finest part of our "Tulip Time" pageant will be added "dog cart," tulip basket yokes and all. Holland is to give the Grand Havenites a real surprise. We nearly forgot, the mayor, the common council all will be present and in the line of march wearing "toppers" (plush hats).

The Historical unit will be just that, with but little in it more modern than the life and tools of living in the year 1850. Here beholders will see giant logging wheels, prairie schooners drawn by oxen and by horses, sailing wheels mounted on skids adorned in keeping with the spirit of the section, and a host of other relics, large and small.

The historical motif will be carried out also in the military division—colonial troops at the head of the line, followed by soldiers of the War of 1812, those of the war with Mexico, men of Shiloh, Vicksburg, Bull Run, Gettysburg, the Wilderness; perhaps some Indian fighters, and down to the troops of the Spanish-American and World wars.

The Grand Haven civic section will contain many floats, among them Spring Lake Ice Co., Volting's Coal Co., Brank's Bakery, American Legion and Eagle Ottawa Athletic Association, Van Zyl's Lumber Co., Robbins, grocery dealers, automobile dealers and entries from surrounding communities.

Major George Olsen, postmaster of Grand Haven, who is the chairman of the parade committee, will be the Grand Marshal of the parade and will lead the first section. Major C. J. Addison will head the Historical section. Lieutenant G. V. McFadden will lead the National group, and Captain Jay Dykhouse the Civic division.

To provide the spacing and regulating of the various sections and units, regulating stations will be placed at strategic points. The first will be at the Washington and Beech Tree corner, in charge of Captain Ellis; the second at corner Seventh and Washington in charge of Captain V. L. Colson, and the third at Fourth and Washington in charge of Lieutenant B. P. Sherwood, Jr.

Mrs. Chris A. De Jonge, who has been visiting her mother in Holland and other relatives in Zeeland the past two weeks, returned Wednesday to her home in Evanston, Illinois. She will make their home in Normal, Illinois, after September 1, where Mr. De Jonge will be head of the department of education at the Illinois State Normal university.—Zeeland Record.

GRAND HAVEN CENTENNIAL NOTES

The Holland City News contains pictures and descriptive matter of a great deal of the doings and some of the historic reviews of Grand Haven's centennial celebration. These will be found in both sections of this issue.

Miss Grand Haven will be official starter for the pulling race between picked crews from cutter Escanaba Thursday. The race will be started by firing the startboard one pound cannon. Miss Grand Haven, Esther Ann De Witt, will pull the lanyard, setting the gun off for the race from the pierhead to the stern quarter of the ship, about seven-eighths of a mile.

Major George L. Olsen, veteran of the Red Arrow division, has been informed a drum and bugle corps from the division will be in Grand Haven for the big parade Friday at 11 a. m. The corps will be either from Kalamazoo or Detroit. The Veterans of Foreign Wars Red Arrow corps of Kalamazoo is expected in the city Saturday to take part in festivities.

The Willard G. Leenhouts post American Legion band of Holland will come to Grand Haven to participate in the Centennial celebration Friday. H. J. Karsten, president of the band, said yesterday. The decision was made at the band practice in the city hall Monday evening. The band will march in the morning parade and will play a concert in the afternoon, probably at the oval at the state park here.—Grand Haven Tribune.

Kiddies, visitors and home-town youngsters will be remembered Thursday in the Centennial celebration by George M. Eastman of San Francisco, California, a grand son of Rev. and Mrs. William M. Ferry when 100,000 candy kisses are distributed at various points in the city. Mr. Eastman suggested a truck load of popcorn but the committee in charge has decided that candy kisses will be more advisable. By moving the truck from place to place every child in the city will have an opportunity of receiving a token from the former Grand Haven resident as a part of the celebration.

The formation of the Holland representation in the Grand Haven centennial parade Friday was announced today by Henry Vander Schel, chairman of Holland's delegation to the county seat celebration. Unless changed later, the local formation will be: 1. royal car, 2. council and city officials' car, 3. agricultural float, 4. special adult unit, 5. special juvenile unit, 6. fisheries float, 7. adult marching unit (to all citizens in Dutch costume), 8. windmill float, 9. juvenile marching unit (open to all juveniles in Dutch costume), 10. musicians' float.

The centennial committee proposes to set up an Indian village on Grand river and bateaux races, using the big Indian war canoes, will be held. Log rolling contests in Government Pond off Harbor avenue, are also planned.

For those to whom festivities are not festive unless there be plenty of dancing, well known orchestras will play on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of Grand Haven's big show, at Hyland Gardens, The Barn, Ferry hotel and Spring Lake Country club. Dancing will be from 10 until 2 o'clock as a benediction to a week of festivity.

More picnics in Michigan State park are set for Friday noon, and then a band concert, at Ferry Field, with another two-hour water parade, tournament of old-time games and appropriate speeches in the early evening, to round out the second day of Grand Haven's show.

Saturday's program is scheduled to get under way with a band concert in Central park at 10 o'clock. The afternoon holds three big events: Boat races on Spring Lake in charge of the Spring Lake Yacht club.

Centennial Sunday, the last day, will be dedicated to the spirit of religious praise and hymns of thanksgiving. In all churches of Grand Haven, from 8 o'clock until noon, worshippers will join in memorial services, paying all honor to the pioneers. In the afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock, in Central park, a massed chorus of some 70 voices, under the direction of Bastian Van Woerkom, will sing songs of faith and devotion. Throughout the day, too, homecomers will hold reunions.

Miss Esther Ann DeWitt, who has been selected to be "Miss Grand Haven" during the centennial celebration, was commissioned honorary captain of Company F, Michigan National Guard, in an impressive ceremony Saturday on the south lawn of court house square at Grand Haven. The guardsmen paraded down Washington street from their armory and to the site of the ceremony. Captain V. L. Colson, in charge of the company, read the orders to his company of 63 men, which said that the guardsmen must obey every wish and order of Miss Grand Haven during the three days of the celebration.

Mayor Lionel Heap has received a letter from the Banking & Securities company of Chicago saying that they have information of great value for one Arthur Vander Sys, who formerly lived at 504 North Fifth street, in this city. Mr. Heap has been asked to try to locate the young man.—Grand Haven Tribune.

Mrs. Minnie Kearns of Iowa was fined $5 in Justice Gallen's court Wednesday for driving 40 miles an hour on West Seventeenth street.

Mrs. H. Van Tongeren, 209 East Fourteenth street, is holding open house this (Friday) afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock in honor of her father, Marinus Verheist, who is celebrating his eighty-first birthday. Relatives and friends are invited.

Holland Closely Identified With Interlochen

HOLLAND BOYS RECEIVE
HONORS; TAKE PART IN GREAT BROADCASTS

The local press as well as the neighborhood press has expounded the great benefits derived from Interlochen, "Michigan's national music camp." This enterprise is purely an avenue through which better music, more talent and a larger number of real artists, playing real music, can be created.

Interlochen is another reason why Michigan can be called the "playgrounds of America." In a measure it departs from all play because these who visit this beautiful nature spot surrounded by lakes and natural forests, combine their play with useful study and work, especially as this relates to music. The natural beauty of Interlochen cannot help but inspire the art of music. It is far removed from the noise and drudgery that highly civilized and densely populated centers bring as a matter of course.

Interlochen is a conservatory of music in an amphitheater setting. The big bowl pictured on this page is the center of all musical activities. There is no intent on the part of the promoters to make money, but rather to develop the talents of young men and women who are musically inclined and have native ability along these lines. What is more, these young folks are given a chance to be taught by the best masters of this and foreign countries. Such directors as Dr. Carl Bosch; Prof. Francis Finlay, head of the public school of music of the New England Conservatory of Music of Boston; Capt. O'Neill, Canada's foremost band director; Dr. Maddy, musical director of Michigan university; Ralph Rush of the Cleveland University of Music; Dr. Howard Hanson of Eastman School of Music at Rochester, New York, favorably known in Holland since Miss Martha Barkema of this city, one of our younger artists here, received signal honors there, are found at Interlochen.

These and many more artists in voice, piano, orchestral and band music are available to the youth at a figure that is extremely low. Here they are given an opportunity to develop under the tutelage of the music masters, while the price would be prohibitive to all or most of them, if they were compelled to go to these teachers individually to receive instruction. Now we come to the point where Holland comes in. Our own Prof. Curtis Snow has been at Interlochen, at the musical clinic, and received some valuable information and in turn this pipe organ artist imparted many valuable hints and instructions beneficial to instructors and students alike. Our own Eugene Heeter, whose success with bands and orchestras in this city, in schools and Legion, is the talk of the town, last year was supervisor at Interlochen and personally took advance training.

These men, together with others, have been the direct cause of Holland's rapid musical development, and let us say here that the foundation of much of this was laid by our dear departed—faithful, patient and talented John Van Wyven, whose memory will always live in the hearts of music lovers in the city, especially as this relates to band and orchestral music.

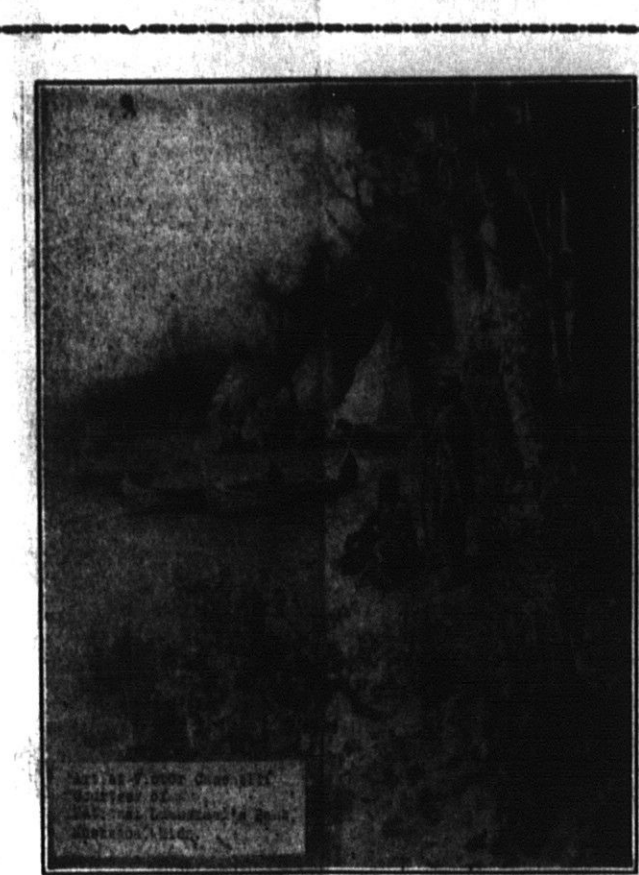

Anyway many a young man and young woman who have received their fundamental training here, have shown marked development because of their Interlochen contacts with the best in music.

Robert Arendshorst, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Arendshorst, has just gained a scholarship for excellent "voice." "Cornet" Steketee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Steketee, has shown exceptional ability in playing brass instruments and won a scholarship last year. The brass quartet of Holland emanating from the Holland High school, has been in great demand for the past few years. Their services have been asked in scores of functions in Holland and in neighboring cities as well. Cornie Steketee, who is a cornetist, has taken on full year's course in conducting. He also plays solo cornet in both the National band and orchestra at Interlochen. Victor Cherven, Jr., also a Holland boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cherven, Sr., has been playing cornet in the Interlochen band and is studying composition and piano under the masters, the latter instrument being in charge of Prof. Guy Miar and Prof. Fletcher.

These men enthrall visitors and pupils with their double piano renditions. The pupils also gain a broader experience and more confidence because they are also utilized in radio broadcasts. Every Monday evening these artists, including the Holland boys, can be heard over the NBC network on a national hook-up, reaching every state in the union, and Canada, and the radio mail is said to be tremendous, the young Holland boys receiving their share from Holland, in which expressions of appreciation are profuse.

The sole intention of Interlochen is to develop the best in music through the youth of the nation by nurturing this talent through education inspired by the leading musical educators whose past records stamp them as peers in that profession. It is mostly a labor of love from lovers of music who wish to perpetuate the best that music has to offer, and crooning and jaxing is not in the Interlochen vocabulary. So you see Interlochen has offered much to Holland, and what it has given to Holland, it has given similarly to other centers, large and small. The boys return at the end of the summer season, filled with higher ideals, a broader understanding of music, and what they have learned is soon imparted to their associates and classmates. How far reaching this may be would be difficult to estimate, but

THE INDIANS OF GRAND RIVER

The drawing above gives a vivid idea of the days when Ottawa county was the abode of different tribes of Indians. The artist pictures an Indian camp on Grand river. Everything is portrayed that is foremost in the minds of youth, the cozy, lazy camp fire scene with canoes; a placid river, tepees and the stalwart Indian. All the embellishments that nature can give to a picture of this kind and also a portrayal of the finest type, the best traits and the most picturesque side of the Indian and Indian life. Of course, there are Indians and Indians, and some wouldn't fit very well in a drawing. This is evident in another article in this issue relating to an Indian tragedy purported to have taken place at Grand Haven during "nature in the rough." We can vividly picture Indian camps along Grand river, Pigeon lake at Port Sheldon, Waukazoo, Macatawa, in the Pine woods at the west limits of Holland, now a manufacturing center, at Saugatuck, Fillmore and Hamilton, where Indians grouped together and dwelt on lake and stream.

These settlements are well defined. The Holland City News has much of this Indian lore in its possession, which will prove valuable in a future historic chronology which must be compiled within the near future if we are not to lose a great deal of this data combined with the knowledge of men and women now living, who could give information on such historic background.

Grand Haven is today celebrating its hundredth anniversary, and Indians and fur traders played an important part in this founding, but the trails of this early settling reached out to everywhere. There are but a few of these Indian trails left, one exists from Macatawa to Castle Park. The writer remembers one well-defined trail from Waukazoo to Pigeon creek, now obliterated.

Those who think that Ottawa county is devoid of Indian traditions have another guess coming. The fact is that this county, its woods and its streams have been the mecca for the first Americans—the Redman.

POLITICAL SPEECHES CROWDED OUT

This week is Grand Haven's week and because of the mass of copy a few articles had to be crowded out but will be placed in next week. One in particular is the speeches of two candidates for governor of Michigan, namely Lacy and Smith. We are sorry but these will be printed in our next issue.

HOLLAND FOLKS WHO GO TO GD. HAVEN CENTENNIAL SHOULD WEAR BADGES

William Connelly, secretary of Holland's Chamber of Commerce, wants all Holland folks who attend the Grand Haven Centennial celebration to wear badges. Mr. Connelly states that a large number of these have been printed and are free for the asking at the desk in the lobby of the Warm Friend Tavern, any time during the day or evening. No doubt a large percentage of Holland folks will visit Grand Haven some time from Aug. 9 to 12 and it is hoped that all will wear these badges provided for this occasion.

Official Holland, Mayor Bosch and the council members are all going in Prince Albert coats, high silk hats, canes and "whatnot," if these can be secured. However, Alderman Kalkman, who as a committee of one, is to secure the wardrobe of each, is having quite a time to obtain these, especially the "toppers." Let's see what the day brings forth.

KUIZENGA AT HOPE

Rev. John E. Kuizenga, D.D., professor of Christian Apologetics in Princeton Theological seminary, will occupy Hope church Sunday morning, August 11.

Professor Curtis Snow will be in charge of music.

FARM AGENT'S WIFE HURT AS CAN EXPLODES

While removing a can of string beans from a pressure cooker, Mrs. Leo R. Arnold, wife of the Ottawa county farm agent, sustained serious burns when the can exploded, drenching part of her body with scalding water. She was given medical attention and it was reported the burns would not prove serious.

COIN IS ISSUED AS SOUVENIR OF GD. HAVEN CENTENNIAL

As a lasting token of the Grand Haven centennial observance the centennial committee has issued a coin, the size of a half dollar, its face and back containing art and inscriptions of a memorial nature. The coin is of polished bronze. Upon its face appear the faces of Rev. William Montague Ferry and Amanda White Ferry, in bold relief.

About the head of each the name is given. Below are the words, "Centennial Celebration, Grand Haven, 1834-1934."

The reverse of the coin shows a scene in the early settlement of the city, primitive log cabins in a setting of forest and swamp. Below are the words "The Beginning of Grand Haven, Michigan."

FARM AGENT'S WIFE HURT AS CAN EXPLODES

Arnold, wife of the Ottawa county farm agent, sustained serious burns when the can exploded, drenching part of her body with scalding water. Chamber To Be Clearing House For Schemes

ARTHUR W. WRIEDEN
RE-ELECTED HEAD OF
HOLLAND C. OF C.

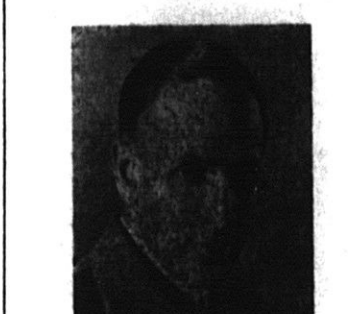

Arthur W. Wrieden was elected president of the local Chamber of Commerce for a second consecutive term by the board of directors and you may be sure it was a unanimous decision since Mr. Wrieden has been untiring in his efforts to promote the welfare of this civic body, which through its good offices had done much to bring about better commercial and industrial conditions in Holland.

Other officers re-elected were H. S. Covell, vice president, and Alfred C. Joldersma, treasurer.

Mr. Wrieden, formerly affiliated with the Holland Furnace company and at present manager of the code authority for the warm air heating industry, was named to his first term last year when the chamber was really "on its uppers."

The board named Andrew Klompars as the chamber representative at the FERA conference on a county educational program. The work of the sanction committee, reviewed by William M. Connelly, manager of the chamber, was highly approved by the directors.

"We have a big problem on our hands to prevent unworthy solicitation, particularly advertising that takes thousands of dollars from our city each year," Mr. Connelly stated in making a plea for more wide-spread co-operation with the committee.

The manager urged that merchants and business men approached on various schemes call the chamber of commerce at once for investigation.

"The sanction committee has already saved the city thousands of dollars, but it can do more with the co-operation of local business men," he asserted.

We believe that all schemes, money solicitations and worthless advertising stunts should be presented to the chamber of commerce first. Mr. Connelly has the information or can get it quickly. The chamber should be the "clearing house" of such matters.

FLYING DUTCHMEN, GRAND HAVEN TIE, 3-3

The Holland Flying Dutchmen and the Grand Haven Eagle Ottawa Stars fought to a 3 to 3 tie at Riverview park Wednesday. The Grand Haven attack in the second inning which netted two runs, was matched by the Dutchmen in their half of the inning. The Stars added another run in the third inning. The score was tied in the next inning when Hult scored on a two-base hit by Hult. Bowmans of the Stars and Tubergen of the locals twirled for their respective clubs, each allowing 8 hits.

HOLLAND MEN ON FEDERAL GRAND JURY

Jurors chosen from this vicinity to serve on the federal grand jury of September 4 at Grand Rapids, are Arthur Harly, Allegan; Henry Scholten, Jr., R.F.D., Holland; W. F. Moll, Grand Haven; Traverse or trial jury, John H. Raven, Holland.

LIGHTNING HITS POLE, STARTS GRASS FIRE

Lightning struck a light pole on Elliott street about 5:30 a. m. today, setting fire to some grass nearby. The fire department responded to the call and quickly subdued the flames. The linemen were called as the strike cut several live wires which were dangling in a dangerous position.

Letters received from Dr. and Mrs. Wynand Wichers indicate that they are at present sight-seeing in The Netherlands. The president of Hope college will surely be able to give a fine travelogue of his tour through Europe when he returns in September.

SOME CHERRY PICKER

Joseph Richie, a cherry picker at the Maple Grove farm owned by Charles W. Green, near Fennville, has laid claim to the state, if not the national cherry picking record. Richie, working 10 hours a day, removed 3,225 pounds of cherries from the trees in six days. This beats the mark set by Wesley Pembroke of Grand Rapids, who picked 100 crates in six days.

THIS ISSUE DEVOTED TO OUR NEIGHBORS

The Holland City News this week looks very much like a Grand Haven publication. Well, our sister city is entitled to it, for she is celebrating her hundredth birthday, and unless all signs fail at least half of Holland is motoring over US-31 to be the guests of Ottawa county's second city. Grand Haven is the news of the day and we are only too glad to give space to them for their history is closely interwoven with our own. And what is more, it makes most interesting reading and a copy worth preserving. Because of so many historic events of yesteryear, the News holds over its Fifty Years Ago column until next week.

OLDEST WOMAN IN GRAND HAVEN CELEBRATES

The centennial committee of Grand Haven has been rounding up all the old folks to have them participate in the festivities now in progress. They find that Mrs. Laurilia Granger is the oldest woman in Grand Haven. She has reached the age of 96.

Mrs. Mary De Gloppe wins second honors, having lived in Grand Haven the greatest length of time, coming in 1855 at the age of 5. She is now 84 years old.

Gerald Ball, a native-born and a business man, is 81. Gerrit Botje, also a native-born, is one month younger. He and his wife are the oldest living couple, having been married 56 years.

These old folks will all have prominent places on the reviewing stand.

REV. JAMES M. GRAY TO BE AT PINE LODGE

Secretary George Schulling of Pine Lodge announces that Rev. James M. Gray, president of the Moody Bible institute of Chicago will speak at the Pine Lodge Bible conference beginning this (Friday) evening and twice daily on Saturday and Sunday. Rev. Gray is well known throughout the country, being the author of a number of books. He also is on the program of the Winona Bible conference each year, as well as on many other programs, including radio broadcasts.

Forty-one Michigan counties have been designated as being in the second drought relief area. W. Sheets, Federal drought relief administrator. The principal benefits accruing to Michigan farmers from this designation are the granting of special freight rates on livestock shipped from the area to other sections where feed is more plentiful, and on feeds bought for use within the forty-one counties. Freight rates will be one-half of the regular schedules. In the list are Ottawa, Allegan, Kent and Muskegon counties.

Mrs. Harry Risselada of Holland spent Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arie Diepenhorst, Zeeland Record.

NOBLE PIONEER WOMAN PARDONS INDIAN WHO MURDERED HER TRADER HUSBAND

The history of this centennial country is exhaustively told in Leo C. Lillie's highly estimable "Historic Grand Haven and Ottawa County" which was published in 1931 and has become a standard work of its kind.

Among the many stirring stories it tells is that of Joseph La Framboise, a white man, and Madam La Framboise, an Indian maid, of which a part follows:

Joseph La Framboise was one of the first traders on Grand river of whom there is any definite information. He was an Acadian youth. He married in 1796. Madam La Framboise's grandfather was Kewi-na-quot, "Returning Cloud," one of the most powerful chiefs of the Ottawas. It is reported that she always wore a full Indian costume.

After the organization of the American Fur company in 1808, John Jacob Astor granted to Joseph La Framboise sole charge of the company in western Michigan.

In 1809 Joseph La Framboise left Mackinac with his wife for his usual posts on Grand river. They traveled in two Mackinac boats or bateaux, with a crew of six men to each. Their slave, old Angelique, and her son Louison accompanied them. They were blown ashore about half way between Muskegon and Grand Haven and ran into a party of Indians, one of whom demanded whiskey, and was refused. One historian relates that thereupon the Indian stabbed La Framboise to death. Another historian relates that while La Framboise was kneeling in a tent at night saying his prayers, he was shot dead by an Indian. (See Pageant, Episode III, page 7.)

In her article on "A Pocahontas of Michigan," Vivian Lyon Moore relates the incident in the following language:

"Brooding sullenly over the rebuff, Nequatch watched the Frenchman retire to his tent for the night and, delaying only till the latter was at prayer, stole through the opening, plunged his dagger into the chest of the kneeling Joseph, and then dashed out and away. Horror stricken and stunned, Madeline could scarcely summon aid from the village and when the Potawatamies did arrive, it was too late. La Framboise had expired."

"In some way the long, terrible night was passed and dawn brought Madam La Framboise face to face with her future. She met it courageously and, with the characteristic stoicism of her race, assumed her burden of sorrow and journeyed on.

"The next season Nequatch's body was found, with his own dagger protruding from his breast. La Framboise was avenged."

Madam La Framboise became very wealthy. She would return with her furs to Mackinac each year in June. The servants whom she left in care of her home at Mackinac would have it in readiness upon her arrival. There she would keep house about three months and then go back to her work on Grand river. Among these servants was one notably faithful, Genevieve Maranda, who remained with her until her death.

Fly Bite More Serious Than Animal Bite

HOLLAND MAN HAS CLOSE
CALL AT CHICAGO ZOO

Roy Woodruff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodruff, came near losing his life through a fly bite, is the report from a Chicago paper that reached Holland. The story is best told in the Riverside News, a best told in the world's greatest zoo which was founded and financed by the late Mrs. McCormick in behalf of the city of Chicago.

The Riverside News gives the following article which is self-explanatory:

"More than one aviation ace after hundreds of daring flying adventures has come to his death in the bath tub of his home or while doing some other supposedly safe thing. Accidents that record the irony of fate are numerous, and sometimes laughable in spite of their tragic nature."

"Roy Woodruff, one of the attendants at the Chicago Zoological Gardens, can add his experiences to those who have escaped injury while engaged in hazardous employment only to suffer an accident from a harmless cause."

Roy came to the zoo garden with the collection of lions and other animals from the George A. Getz zoo. For the past eight years he has been a keeper of animals and has had many experiences with these wild creatures but he has escaped without suffering anything more than a scratch or a slight bite.

"After all his years of hazardous employment Roy is now in the hospital suffering the results of a severe case of blood poisoning due to nothing greater than a fly bite. At the result of the bite his hand and arm became badly infected and last week his condition was serious. He is reported much improved, however, and soon will be able to return to his duties at the zoo. In the light of his experiences he probably will be more wary of fly bites than bites of the many wild creatures he is called upon to take care of."

Mrs. William Hoek was honored at a party given on Aug. 2 (her birthday) at the home of Mrs. William Wagoner, Mrs. Frank Eby and Mrs. Jack Kneel, assisted by Mrs. Wagoner as hostess. More than 25 ladies were present to honor Mrs. Hoek and spend a social hour together.

Miss Tena Holkeboer, China missionary home on furlough, was the guest of honor at a party on Friday evening when the "Daughters of the King," a class of girls formerly taught by Miss Holkeboer, gathered at the Hyo Bos cottage near Lakewood, Miss Martha Bos, a member of the class, being hostess. A potluck dinner was served on the beach, followed by a marshmallow roast. Miss Holkeboer answered numerous questions in regard to her work, relating many interesting incidents. A program of games was also carried out.

ed on to her winter home, bearing the remains of her slain husband with her. At Grand Haven she buried him, alone and stricken, proceeded to the post where she spent the season, sadly trading with her own people, trying to forget."

Madam La Framboise, knowing she was nearer Grand river than her own home, journeyed on taking the remains of her slain husband with her, and had them buried in the only village in that vicinity, which was near the mouth of Grand river, undoubtedly the present site of Grand Haven, Mich. After Madam La Framboise had laid her husband away, she proceeded to her place of business. Here she remained until spring, trading with the Indians. Then she returned to Mackinac and procured a license as a trader. In the course of that winter the Indians captured the murderer of her husband and, bringing him to her post on Crockett creek in Ottawa county, tributary of the Grand River, desired that she should decide his fate, whether he should be shot or burned. Madam La Framboise addressed them eloquently, referring in words profoundly touching, to her dead husband, his piety and his good deeds.

Vivian Lyon Moore gives this speech in the following words:

"My brothers, you have shown the love you had for my husband and the respect which you now feel for me. But through the long winter the malice I bore the slayer of my husband has passed away. Seeking solace for the shadow that has darkened my life forever, I have read the Good Book which bids us forgive seventy times seven. I know that would be the wish of my husband were he now living. I will, therefore, forgive this captive and leave him to the Great Spirit. My desire is that you do likewise and give him his life."

The next season Nequatch's body was found, with his own dagger protruding from his breast. La Framboise was avenged."

Madam La Framboise became very wealthy. She would return with her furs to Mackinac each year in June. The servants whom she left in care of her home at Mackinac would have it in readiness upon her arrival. There she would keep house about three months and then go back to her work on Grand river. Among these servants was one notably faithful, Genevieve Maranda, who remained with her until her death.

Interlochen is located 187 miles from Holland, 10 miles on this side of Traverse City, two miles from U. S. 31 east, between Duck and Green Lakes, two beautiful bodies of water.

as time goes on it cannot help but bring a spirit of music-mindedness such as Holland has had a great deal of, inspired through our local colleges and schools.

Holland has become intensely flower-minded, undoubtedly through Tulip Time. Music and flowers go well together, and trotting in double harness stamps the city as one of culture, colored with an aesthetic tone.

BELOVED HOLLAND LADY DIES
Death took Mrs. Bessie Vander Veere Boot, 89 East Thirteenth street at the age of 77 years. Mrs. Boot had been ill for a long time and late Saturday afternoon she passed away. Mrs. Boot came of a pioneer family and saw the development of Holland from the small village stage to a beautiful city which Holland has grown into. Her late husband, Peter Boot, belonged to the merchants of the old type, and his grocery store was the headquarters for visiting farmers and the meeting place of friends. That was in the days when store hours were from 6 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night.
Mrs. Boot was born in this city shortly after the civil war on Jan. 15, 1857, and was a devout member of Hope church. She was always kind and considerate of others—a kindly neighbor and friend.
Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Rev. E. J. Blekkink officiating. Interment took place in Fairlawn cemetery, formerly known as Holland Township cemetery.
The pallbearers were Attorney Thomas N. Robinson, John Kramer, Otto P. Kramer, Attorney Arthur Van Duren, Alfred Van Duren and William Boot, all near relatives of the deceased.
The floral tributes were many and beautiful, indicative of the esteem in which this fine lady was held.
Surviving are two daughters, Miss Anna Boot, teacher in Holland; Mrs. Thomas N. Robinson of Benton Harbor, formerly of Holland; one son, William of Delwyn, Illinois; a sister, Mrs. George J. Van Duren, who is connected with the local Red Cross, and three brothers, William and Albert Vander Veere of Holland and Cornelius Vander Veere of Adrian, Missouri. Eleven grandchildren also survive.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING TAKES PLACE AT HOME OF MR. VANDER HEUVEL
A pretty wedding took place on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hine Vander Heuvel, 456 Maple Avenue, when their daughter, Miss Adella Mae Vander Heuvel, and Anthony Bouwman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Bouwman, were united in marriage.
Rev. C. W. Meredith, pastor of Wesleyan Methodist church performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.
The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stevenson of Detroit, with little Miss Arlene Rose Vander Heuvel and eight-year-old Iola Jean Vander Heuvel, both sisters of the bride, being flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.
The marriage was performed before an arch artistically decorated with seasonal flowers, palms and ferns, the bride party taking their places as Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Theodor Dirks, pianist, and Kenneth Vander Heuvel, clarinet soloist. The young men also accompanied Mrs. Meredith as she sang "I Love You Truly," preceding the ceremony.
The bride wore a gown of ivory silk crepe, ankle length, and carried roses. Her attendant was dressed in beige silk and carried sweet peas. The two little misses wore dresses of green and pink silk, respectively.
Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served the 75 guests present, including many out-of-town folk.
After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bouwman will make their home at 45 West Tenth street.

LORDAHL-BEKKEN MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE
A beautiful home wedding took place Saturday when Miss Marion Lordahl became the bride of Everett V. Bekken, the marriage taking place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. H. Lordahl, 356 West Fifteenth street. Mr. Bekken is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bekken of this city.
The ceremony, performed by Rev. Carl A. Lordahl of Lake Crystal, Minnesota, assisted by Rev. Thomas G. R. Brownlow of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city, took place before an altar of palms, ferns and varicolored gladioli, the bride being given in marriage by Austin W. Lordahl of Kansas City, Mo., her eldest brother.
The bride, gowned in turquoise blue crepe, wearing a white hat with matching accessories, carried white roses, lilies of the valley and swainsons. The couple was unattended.
Preceding the ceremony Miss Margaret Leonard, music and art instructor in the Crosswell, Mich. schools, sang "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Mrs. Carl Lordahl of Lake Crystal, Minn.
Mrs. Bekken is a graduate of the local schools and of Hope college, and taught in the Crosswell High school for some time. Mr. Bekken is also a graduate of Hope college and is principal of the Byron Center High school. Mr. and Mrs. Bekken will make their home in Byron Center after September 1.

The record is also one of the high marks established in the state.

FLIES CARRY GERMS. More than Two Miles
Some folks think that when the home and its surroundings are kept clean, the health-menace of disease-bearing flies is lessened. But experiments have shown that flies travel as far as two miles in sustained flight. In most cases they come direct from manure piles, sewage, garbage, sputum deposits, the carcasses of dead animals, etc., to invade your rooms. In every instance they are covered with millions of tiny disease germs which are spread wherever they go, on whatever they touch. Don't let dirty, dangerous flies contaminate your home. Exterminate them with Tanglefoot Fly Paper—it's safe, sure, and inexpensive. Available at your nearest store in the standard size, or in the Junior size in convenient holders, also in ribbon form.

MEETING TO MEET
FEED PROBLEMS

A series of meetings will be held throughout Ottawa county dealing with feed shortage problems. Such meetings have been called by L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent, to cover those sections which have people who will be short of feed.

Generally speaking, Ottawa county is much better off than some sections of the state, according to Mr. Arnold. However, some farmers are concerned now over the situation as a reduction of cattle states them in the face.

Leaflets will be distributed at the meetings showing amount of feed necessary to carry various types of live stock and tables for computing amount of feed on hand. Meetings in the southern section of the county will be held as follows:

Blendon township hall, August 15, at 7:30 p. m.
Olive township hall, August 16, at 7:30 p. m.
Holland township hall, August 20, at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Knoll-huizen and family are spending their vacation touring to Detroit and Canada, taking in several places of interest along the way.

Several friends gathered at the home of Miss Emily Bielefeldt, 199 West Sixteenth street, Monday in honor of her birthday. The afternoon was spent playing games with refreshments also being a feature.

OLD AGE PENSIONS TO BE STARTED HERE

Mrs. Anna Poppen, chairman of the county board, states that work has been received here to the effect that sufficient funds are now available through the collection of the old age pension tax to start allowances to the most needy cases in Ottawa county.

"Amos Preaches for Justice"
(Amos 5:1, 10-15; 21-24)
HENRY GEERLINGS

Amos is an interesting character. He was an outdoor man. His work was shepherding flocks and caring for trees. He was unaccustomed to city life. He had lived the simple life. Naturally, when he came into contact with the sins of Judah and Israel he was much shocked. He did not know that people could be so bad. He was not a prophet by inheritance or training. God had called him from his work to be His spokesman.

Amos was addressing a bad people, on whom had come many punishments and afflictions. In what had they been bad. They had been afflicting the people who tried to be just and righteous. They had sold themselves out for bribes. They would not hesitate to do almost any kind of evil if they were paid for it. They would permit sins to go on if the sinners paid them to keep still about it. They had turned a deaf ear to the pleadings of the needy and refused to see the destitution of those suffering in want. Their greed for gain made them heartless toward the afflicted. The poor received no help. Instead they were regarded as slaves to be trampled on. They were compelled to pay unjust taxes. When God had sent messengers to them they would not listen but hated them. If anybody talked about righteousness and justice he was spurned with scorn. Because of all this wickedness Amos found his heart burdened and he had cause for lamenting. He saw how the people had fallen into impurity and were unable to rise to purity again.

Amos was speaking for God and it is not surprising that there is a note of hope in his words. God's love is always benevolent. He is always willing to pardon iniquity if there is repentance and a real return to Him. Turning away from evil and going after the good is like a key that fits the lock on a rich treasure house. The separation from God will not continue when people are genuinely in earnest about being with God. It seems that it is a natural longing to be in God's presence and have His favor. Amos set forth the course to be pursued if we would regain and retain God's blessings. God is willing to pardon us, but we must hate the evil and love the good, if we would be pardoned. God's promise offers us forgiveness. It is something we need, but cannot purchase. We cannot even earn it by our works. God graciously bestows upon us the pardon we must have.

There is something about the fourteenth verse that is beautiful. We like their saying. They have a pleasing sound. But we need to be careful lest we miss their stern command to us to get rid of our bad ways. This must be our part. God will not fail in His part. He will forgive us if we give Him a chance.

The denunciation of God upon all the pretenses of worship is bitter. Unless justice in all these dealings was a constant thing, as continuing an ever-flowing stream, God could not see any good in their outward religious ceremonies. God hates hypocrites. They may have elaborate religious feasts and get together in great numbers and carry on a solemn worship. They may go through all the ceremonialism of many kinds of sacrifices. God would not be pleased because their lives were not right. Jesus put it this way. He said a corrupt tree cannot bring forth good fruit. Elsewhere in the Bible we find the question about the same fountain sending forth bitter water and sweet water. In short, people must first be sincere, honest and pure in their living and in their associations with others before they can render pleasing worship and service to God. Even the songs they used in worship sounded to God like a disagreeable noise, because He knew how wicked they were in their lives. This is God's proclamation. It is a bitter one against the people who think they can curse and be corrupt and then cover it all by engaging in worship. Wicked men may assume the forms of religion, but fail to please God.

Our next Post meeting will be held on September 12. And during September we will have two meetings, the second one will be on September 26.

At our meeting on the 26th it was planned to have a joint installation of officers with the other three posts of the county. The time and place will be announced later.

In spite of the warm weather last night we had over fifty members out to elect our officers. The result of the election was as follows: Commander, Henry Cook; first vice commander, Gabriel Bos; second vice commander, Marjorie Koe; adjutant, E. P. Slioter; finance officer, Andrew Rutgers; chaplain, Harry Kramer; historian, Sam Bosch sergeant-at-arms, Fay Fortney.

Several brave men of the most should receive citations—by actual count there were three of them that wore coats to the meeting.

And the rest not having suitable places to wear their button paid fines for the neglect. The fines collected were turned over to Doc Westrate to help in financing the boy scout camp.

Did you notice the editorial in the Press last week about the odors of Michigan? They referred to the apple blossoms, cherry blossoms and the cool, refreshing breezes of Lake Michigan. We will have to tell them that even though our tulips lack a perfume, they must not forget the savory aroma of North River avenue on a quiet evening.

The subject of a drill team popped up again. The originator of the idea was momentarily at a loss to explain the delay in the organization of such a group.

Have you worked the stiffness out of your legs from the picnic?

Among those present last night were the annual attendants, John Kammeraad and Vance Brailley. After they were introduced all around everyone again felt at home.

John Althuis gave us a variation from the usual coffee and—last night we had orangeade and cup cakes, which was not at all hard to take.

The case of L. Phillip Van Hartsveldt will be given a rehearing in circuit court Aug. 14, by Judge Fred T. Miles. It was reported yesterday. Mr. Van Hartsveldt, who has served two months in the county jail for contempt of court in failing to pay alimony, would, unless freed by the court, have to serve out a full year, it is stated he cannot pay.

ZEELAND

The American Legion band will give a concert Friday starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Services at Second Reformed church at Zeeland Sunday morning will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Vanden Berg, who will have for his subject "Intercessory Prayer." In the evening Dr. J. E. Kuizenga of Princeton seminary, will speak on "The Mind of the Christ."

The next meeting of the Zeeland Grange will be held on Tuesday evening, August 28, at Grange hall, Zeeland.

Mrs. Jean Vande Luyster entertained the following at her home on North Fairview road on last Thursday: Mrs. Edward Van Zee, Mrs. Lewis Marcus, Mrs. Cyrus Vande Luyster and daughter, and Mrs. Benjamin Sheerhorn of Holland, and Mrs. Abe Van Hoven and Mrs. Maggie Van Koevering and daughters of Zeeland.

THE BIG THING IN BUYING FIRE INSURANCE!

How Much Will You Receive In Case of Fire?

It is natural to assume that in case of fire you will be reimbursed for everything that is burned. But will you? In case you have what is called a "classified" policy on personal property, split up in several parts, there may be many things that it does not cover. To be safe you should have a blanket policy on personal. Our policy contains many broad and liberal features and is so written that it covers property insured under any reasonable condition.

Insure in Michigan's Largest Farm Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Our policies accepted by the Federal Land Bank, of St. Paul, The Home Owners' Loan Corporation and other Loan Agencies.

THINK FIRST OF YOUR OWN COMMUNITY

This is your community. You live here. Probably you own a home or have business interests here. In some manner, what you have or what you earn comes from this community.

Therefore, you have a personal interest in the prosperity of your community. Also, you have a plain duty as a citizen to do what you can to promote local welfare.

You help when you buy from your neighborhood merchants. You help when you deposit money in the local bank, because the bank is the chief agency by which home money is kept circulating for home good.

One of the best ways to work for your own interests is to boost community interests.

Mr. Leo C. Lillie, attorney, historical writer, former soldier and newspaperman, is general director of the four-day fete. Mr. Lillie deserves much praise for his wonderful compilation of "Historic Grand Haven and Ottawa County" and the editor of the News wishes to say at this time that the historian was not clannish or selfish by localizing his writing too much but gave Holland a very generous share in picture and in descriptive matter in his real worthwhile review of Ottawa county.

Mayor Heap is the official host to visitors, among them many dignitaries from all parts of the state and nation, and this morning gave one of the addresses of welcome to homecomers and guests from far and near.

Mr. Loutit, Grand Haven resident and chairman of the state conservation commission, is president of the centennial association and the celebration thus far shows that his city has chosen the right man for that real "big job."

Rev. William M. Ferry, founder of Grand Haven; his wife, and Rix Robinson, fur trading pioneer, will live again in the pageant, an impressive tribute to the courage of the master builders of western Michigan.

Directing the pageant is Russell L. Rowland of the John B. Rogers Producing company of Fostoria, O.

HISTORIAN, TELLS OF
GRAND HAVEN FOUNDERS

Editor's Note: The following sketches of Grand Haven's founders were prepared by LEO C. LILLIE, prominent Grand Haven historian.

RIX ROBINSON

Rix Robinson was the best-known fur trader on Grand river of whom we have an authentic record. He later remained and became one of the first pioneers in the settlement of Ottawa county.

He was born in Richmond, Massachusetts, August 28, 1789. His father was a blacksmith and Rix was the third of thirteen children. In 1780 the family moved to Cayuga, New York. At the age of 19 he began to study law and was within three months of the close of a course of study which would admit him to practice at the bar, when the war of 1812 broke out. He was drafted, but his father was opposed to war and Rix Robinson failed to appear. When the authorities searched for him he could not be found. He abandoned brilliant prospects as a lawyer to launch out upon the uncertainties of whatever might be developed in the west of such energy, health and brain as he possessed.

John Jacob Astor, founder of the great Astor fortune of New York City, recognizing his extraordinary ability with the Indians, employed him to take over the American Fur Trading Company posts in Western Michigan, about 20 in all. Two of these were at Lowell and Grand Haven. He took over the La-Framboise posts in 1821.

Married Indian Girl

In 1821 Rix Robinson married by Indian rites, "Flying Cloud Woman," daughter of the principal chief of the Pere Marquette Indians. After she died he married by Christian ritual another Indian princess, "River Woman." His two wives were sisters and both very intelligent, educated and good looking women.

Rix Robinson, because of his edge of the Indian language, character, traditions and laws, and because he married Indian wives, was very influential among the Indians. To his control of the savages who occupied this portion of Michigan is mainly attributable the welcome they gave the early settlers whose encroachments and occupancy so surely augured their own removal and ultimate extinction. The same wealth of mind and purity of private life that distinguished him above the mass of what were then termed "traders" gave him prominence as civilization passed along westward. His name stands out as one of the foremost of those who have occupied positions of trust and honor in Michigan.

In 1832 Grand Haven was still the headquarters for the twenty trading posts of the American Fur company with Rix Robinson as sole manager. The Robinsons and Campbell were the first white men who came to the head of Grand River to trade with the Indians.

Many incidents of Rix Robinson's experiences could be repeated as related by him, of his adventurous life, not only among the Indians of the northwest but also those of Michigan and Ottawa county.

He was a man of unswerving sterling integrity, with a wonderful magnetic control of those with whom he moved. He was an honor that enterprising class of men who more than a century ago dared to open the way for civilization in the northwest.

WILLIAM M. FERRY

William Montague Ferry, the eighth of nine sons born to Noah Henry Ferry and Hannah Montague Ferry, his wife, was born at Granby, Massachusetts, September 8, 1796.

His ancestry may be traced back to the first Ferry, Duke of Lorraine, in about 1000 A. D. He entered the sophomore year at Union college when he was 21. Through the kindness of Dr. Yates, one of the professors, he was furnished employment sufficient to pay his expenses. He graduated in his twenty-fourth year. He pursued a theological course at Brunswick, New Jersey, for two years and was licensed and ordained by the New York Presbyterian in 1822. At Ashfield, Mass., he made the acquaintance of the lady who subsequently became his wife. At about this time Dr. Yates visited the island of Mackinac, then an important military post and western headquarters of the American Fur company. It was a lawless settlement. The post was naturally a rough, wild and vicious place. Mrs. Stuart begged Dr. Yates to send them a man who would preach on Sunday and teach during the balance of the week. Upon his return he saw William M. Ferry, who immediately left for the northwest. This journey resulted in his establishment of Mackinac mission where he remained one year laying the foundation of his work.

Returned with Wife.

The following year he returned east and on July 8, 1823, married Miss Amanda White of Ashfield, Mass. He returned in the fall of 1823 with his wife.

Amanda White Ferry was a beautiful woman with a wealth of dark brown hair on a large shapely head and with low forehead above eyes and features so attractive in their beauty as to charm and delight all who knew her. She had a wonderful gift of humor that never failed to throw sunshine over the darkest experience.

On September 15, 1823, they left the Ashfield home for their future missionary work among the Indians.

FIRST MAILMAN WALKED
ROUTE OF 35 MILES

Jean Baptiste Perrisien, the first mail carrier between Grand Haven and Grand Rapids, landed in Grand Haven in 1835, three years before Dr. Van Raalte first settled Holland. He was appointed the following year. It was he who blazed the trail to Grandville, along the south bank of Grand river, now called the River road. Perrisien always traveled afoot, carrying his own pack and supplies, and his return with the mail was, of course, an event of major importance in the little settlement. Letters in those days were read many times, cherished objects to be carefully preserved.

Rev. William M. Ferry devoted 12 years of incessant toil among the Indians and whites.

In the early part of 1834 he entered into business arrangements with Robert Stuart which resulted in his settlement in Grand Haven in the fall of that year. After the settlement of Grand Haven he became better known as a leading business man than as in his earlier character as a missionary. However, he continued his interest in the church and for 18 years he preached in the Presbyterian church to the people of Grand Haven without compensation.

It was the happiness and good fortune of the Rev. Mr. Ferry to be associated with a woman of uncommon intellectual and moral worth, Amanda White Ferry. She was respected by all with whom she came in contact and much about this lovely character whose life was so closely associated with and it may truthfully be said sacrificed to the early development of Grand Haven.

The Rev. Mr. William M. Ferry was a man of medium height. He was a quiet, rather taciturn, gentleman, more inclined to listen than to talk. He had simple habits and tastes and made no display of his wealth. He was strong in purpose and persevering in his course. He lived to see his aims accomplished, died in Grand Haven December 30, 1867, and lies buried in the Ferry lot in Lake Forest cemetery. This simple inscription is on his monument:

"First tell, then rest."

FOUNDERS ARE BURIED
AMID GREAT BEAUTY

In the Ferry lot in Lake Forest cemetery, Grand Haven, on a beautiful wooded knoll, in a natural circle of trees, often called the most beautiful spot in Lake Forest, lie buried Rev. William M. Ferry and his wife, Amanda White Ferry, and their sons, Thomas White Ferry, who was at one time senator from Michigan and one of the two "mythical presidents for a day," Maj. Noah H. Ferry, who was killed at the battle of Gettysburg, and Col. William Montague Ferry, who established the present ration system in the United States army.

The White family also is buried next the Ferrys—Mary A. White, the first school teacher; Capt. Nathan H. White, one of the first settlers with the Rev. Mr. Ferry, and Luke A. White.

The Eastman family is included with the founders and first settlers buried near the Ferrys. The Hancocks, related to the Ferrys, also lie buried in the Ferry lot.

OLD FIRE PUMPER TO BE IN PARADE TODAY

An old pumper of the vintage of the '90s, a hand hose-cart and a horse drawn cart have been secured by the Grand Haven fire department from the Muskegon department to be entered in the giant parade to be held today, Friday, as one of the big features of the centennial celebration. Old "Rix Robinson," first pumper purchased by Grand Haven, was dismantled and junked many years ago. Regrets are expressed that the old timer was not preserved for just such occasions.

The Muskegon pumper is a horse drawn affair with a big boiler mounted on the chassis which in times past has served in fighting many a bad fire. The contrast of the old and new fire apparatus will make a colorful spot in the parade. This Muskegon steam pumper played an important part in the big Muskegon fire 48 years ago when Pine street was burned from end to end, including the court house and several churches.

INDIANS WILL CAMP IN CITY FOR JUBILEE

To lend atmosphere to Grand Haven's centennial celebration Indian camps will be set near the business section. Braves, squaws and children will go on with their enigmatic way of life just as if thousands of white folk were not thereabout. Jubilee visitors, consequently will have a good opportunity to see Indian customs and handicraft.

Notable among the redmen of this state was Koo-wau-coosh-kum, Ottawa chief of the Grand Haven region, who led the Indians in Gov. Lewis Cass' exploration tour of Michigan in 1821. At the big Chicago pow-wow that year Chief Koo-wau-coosh-kum persuaded the various tribes to cede this region to the American government.

Jacob Baar, of Grand Haven, owns a copy of the chief's address.

The First Reformed church (junior department) Sunday school teachers held their monthly meeting at Pine Lodge Monday, beginning with a supper followed by the business meeting and a social hour.

The Duty of Every Banker

It is clearly the duty of every banker in the country to perform certain services. The most important of these are:

Q 1. To afford perfect safety for deposits.

Q 2. To grant credit to those who deserve it.

Q In the matter of granting credits the public must in fairness remember that banks are not lending their own money, but money of their depositors, represented very largely by the earnings and savings of the people.

Q It is possible that some legitimate borrowers are hesitating to approach the bank for credit but we know of no time when good borrowers are so warmly welcome.

Q Deposits in this bank are insured to the greatest extent provided for any bank, $5,000 for each account.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

PEACHES are the outstanding fruit in this week's market, and they must be enjoyed now if at all for there will be practically no late peaches. The price is low and the quality excellent. Home-canned peaches, peach preserves or pickled peaches will all be appreciated next winter.

Other especially seasonable and low-priced foods in market are tomatoes, sweet corn, cucumbers, carrots, beets and Boston type lettuce. Iceberg lettuce is exceptionally high. Bartlett pears, seedless grapes, fresh prunes, plums, oranges, cantaloupes, watermelons and new apples are all moderate in price and plentiful.

Dairy products are feeling the effects of the heat and drought in decreased production and increased cost. Butter, cheese and eggs are all affected.

Here are three Sunday dinner menus:

Low Cost Dinner

Pot Roast of Beef New Potatoes Carrots and Onions Bread and Butter Peach Cobbler

Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Cold Cuts Potato Salad Sliced Tomatoes Bread and Butter Coffee (hot or iced) Milk

Very Special Dinner

Melon Cup Roast Lamb Browned Potatoes Tomato and Lettuce Salad Rolls and Butter Peach Spanish Cream Coffee (hot or iced) Milk
