The camp site including the mess hall will be open for public inspection. The demonstration will be given in Muskegon on Saturday and in Benton Harbor on Tuesday. Army officers will return to Holland Aug. 23 and 27 to make final plans.

Seaman Tuurling, Who Was in Thick Of Sicily Invasion, Is Home on Leave

Seaman Henry F. Tuurling, Jr.

Henry Frederick Tuurling, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tuurling, Sr., 193 West 14th St., who arrived home Monday on a 30-day leave, is believed to be the first Holland youth to arrive here after participating in the invasion of Sicily.

Tuurling has the rank of seaman second class but is expecting a promotion soon. He was stationed on a troop and cargo transport ship and was in Sicily about four or five days while unloading the vessel at the outset of the campaign. Seaman Tuurling reported both crossings "rather uneventful," though several destroyers in his convoy did "get a few subs on the way over."

While unloading the ships they often were subject to air raids. One night bombs dropped steadily for 2 1/2 hours. A few soldiers aboard his ship were wounded during the raids but there were no casualties among the ship's personnel.

One of the most comforting sights he saw were the countless number of German and Italian prisoners, many of whom were helping to unload the ships.

Besides the continual air attacks, which helped make the unloading and landing very difficult, were huge waves, some 20 feet high, which wrecked "several" landing barges.

Robert Earl Ryder, of Grand Rapids, was a shipmate of Seaman Tuurling and was also given a 30-day leave upon entrance into this country.

Seaman Tuurling enlisted in the navy Sept. 9, 1942, and received his basic training at Great Lakes, Ill. He was also stationed at San Diego, Calif., Charleston, S. C., and Norfolk, Va., before being sent overseas. Except for one trip through the Panama canal zone, this was his first voyage outside the United States, and his first one into the war zone.

Specific penalties on the statutes provide a fine of $25 for not having a stamp plus another $25 for not displaying the stamp on the windshield or a total of $50 fine and 60 days in jail.

The $5 fine is an offer on the part of the applicant in compromise of specific penalties.

Damage aside from the ruined tar pot was negligible.

Grand Haven, Aug. 12 (Special)—A pocketbook containing $332 and a $100 diamond ring which a Grand Rapids girl unknowingly took along in bedding when she came here to camp at the state park were recovered Monday by Trooper Peter Shimkus of the local state police post.

The money and ring were in the bedding where Frank Den Boer had hidden it in his Grand Rapids home. When he learned his daughter Ariene, 16, had taken the bedding for a week's camping in a tent with three other girls, he notified state police here.

Trooper Shimkus located the cash and ring and returned them to the owner. Den Boer had drawn the cash from a bank to purchase a car.

Charges Two Kidnaped Wife

Dr. Boss Also Says In Suit That He Faces Threat of Abduction

Dr. Henry Boss, 315 River Ave., started suit in circuit court in Grand Haven Wednesday afternoon charging Mrs. Hazel McLeod of New Jersey and Mrs. Anna Wiggers of Holland with "conspiracy and with kidnaping Mrs. Boss and threatening to kidnap the doctor."

Dr. Boss also asks for an injunction restraining Mrs. McLeod, who is Mrs. Boss' niece, and Mrs. Wiggers, who is the doctor's daughter, from going to the Boss residence or molesting either Dr. or Mrs. Boss in any way. A temporary injunction to this effect has been issued by Judge Fred T. Miles.

The action, O. S. Cross, attorney for Dr. Boss, explained, is an injunction suit, seeking to keep the two women away from Dr. or Mrs. Boss and asking that a $3,000 penalty be levied against the two women if a permanent injunction is granted and they violate its provisions.

The charge is the outcome of an attempt Monday morning on the part of the two defendants to take Mrs. Boss to Pinerest sanitarium in Cutterville.

After a thorough investigation Tuesday, Prosecutor Howard W. Fant announced that he had decided not to place any charges since he was unable to find facts that would justify the issuance of a warrant for kidnaping. His investigation convinced him, he said, that it was a family affair in which the two women and the doctor all believed they were acting in the best interests of Mrs. Boss.

The bill of complaint alleges that Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. Wiggers entered the Boss home Monday at 8 a.m. without authority and, contrary to the desire of doctor or Mrs. Boss, kidnaped the latter and took her from her home, put her into a taxi and drove her out of the city.

Dr. Boss procured the services of the city police and sheriff's department, according to the complaint, and Ernest Bear, city policeman, and Edward Brouwer, deputy sheriff, promptly arrested the two women and returned Mrs. Boss to her home.

The plaintiff further alleges that during the afternoon Mrs. Wiggers said, "We are not through yet, we are going to kidnap Dr. Boss next week," a threat which Dr. Boss believes will be attempted to be carried out.

Mrs. McLeod, the former Hazel Donnelly, was well known in Holland before her marriage to Dr. McLeod about 20 years ago at which time she left for the east. She had resided with her aunt, then a Mrs. Martin, in a large white house on East 16th St. The estate there later was subdivided and called the Eastmoorland subdivision. She is said to have come to Holland a month ago.

Home, Hospital Nursing Course Approved Here

High School Girls Will Take Training Under State Vocational Setup

The board of education at its monthly meeting late Wednesday afternoon voted to adopt a course of home and hospital nursing for high school girls over 16 years of age, sponsored by the state board of control of vocational education.

This course, which is also available for girls of Christian high school, will be three hours a day for the school year and full credit will apply towards graduation. The full course which is aimed at practical nursing will count six credits for the year, or three credits for the semester. The new venture is somewhat similar to the vocational school training for high school boys which also requires three hours a day.

The board also voted to offer the position of nurse-teacher to Miss Ruth A. McIntyre who at present is director of public health in an eastern city and has a background well suited to the position. Miss McIntyre was recommended for the position by Mrs. Lottie Waterman, supervisor of nursing of the state board of control of vocational education, who explained the nursing program here a short time ago at a meeting of interested persons. At that time, representatives of the Holland hospital staff enthusiastically approved the nursing course for the high school.

Mrs. Waterman will be in Holland next Tuesday and Wednesday to conduct three conferences for high school girls interested in the program. The entire program will be explained at sessions Tuesday at 2 p.m. and at 7:30 p.m. and Wednesday at 10 a.m. in room 106 of Holland high school. Principal J. J. Riemersma said the sessions were arranged in such a way that girls working on any shift will have an opportunity to attend one of the sessions.

The school board will be reimbursed approximately 75 per cent by the state board of control. Supt. E. H. Fell explained.

The three-hour daily course includes one period for home economics and two for study in the class room and Holland hospital. It has not been determined whether the sessions will be scheduled at the hospital although it was indicated that all high school training would be over by 6 p.m.

The three-hour course amounts to 540 hours for the year. When the student nurse has completed this course she may work as a practical nurse and after she has done this for 132 days she is eligible for a state certificate for practical nursing.

The course is open to girls over 16 of good character and mental health. Principal Riemersma said there probably would be two classes of from 10 to 25 students. Although this course is specifically directed towards practical nursing, the training will prove invaluable to the girl who plans to adopt nursing as a profession. A large number of 1943 graduates of Holland high school have entered nurses training. Six of the 18 girls graduates of Christian high school are entering training, according to Dr. Walter De Kock.

This program has been working successfully in Grand Haven high school during the past semester. Local faculty heads made a complete investigation before submitting the issue to the board for approval. Principal Riemersma said there are only five or six nursing schools in Michigan operated by the state vocational board. The project also was given approval by the county nurses association.

In other business, the board authorized the transfer of a narrow strip of property 30.7 feet long east of Maple Ave. between 22nd and 23rd Sts., to Carl Visscher.

Trustee Henry Geerlings, clerk of the board, announced the following committee appointments: Teachers—Geerlings, Mrs. G. E. Kollen and C. J. De Koster.

Schools—John Olt, A. E. Lampen and John Van Zoeren.

Claims and accounts—Lampen and Olt.

Proper Storage Of Garden Crops Will Be Needed

Even Temperatures Are Important for Produce in Winter

Everyone who plans to carry in bushels of big smooth carrots and potatoes this fall, everyone who's growing beets, turnips, onions, and sweet golden-fleshed squash and sweet potatoes for winter eating, had better be ready to store them properly. Poor storage can cancel your summer's work.

Here are storage briefs to help you:

1. A cold room with well-insulated walls and ceiling keeps original water in fruits and vegetables. This is better than trying to restore moisture by wetting walls and floor.
2. A moisture-proof layer is needed on the side of the wall next to the cold storage room. Then if you get condensation, it will occur at the coldest point where you can see it, not where rot can start unknown to you.
3. Keep your room temperature at floor as near 34 degrees as possible.
4. A pounded earth floor is best. But concrete can be covered with sand or peatmoss kept damp by sprinkling. Lay a slat walk to avoid tracking peat or sand into basement.
5. Set up a baffle to shut cold air off if roof crops are stored immediately below an open window.
6. Crates, baskets, and barrels facilitate handling and proper storage, and are preferable to built-in bins. Movable support can be adjusted to containers.
7. Now is a good time to start collecting containers. Bushel baskets with lids, boxes with handles or handholds, slatted orange crates, mesh onion bags, barrels, and cotton potato sacks.

Robert Wolbrink, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Wolbrink of Ganges, left last Thursday for Santa Ana, Calif., to take further training in the air corps. He has been attending the university in Springfield, O. and previous to his induction was a student at Hope college.

How to Separate Bulbs Properly

"The home gardener can increase his stock of tulip bulbs in the same simple way the commercial grower does so and at no cost but a little effort," said Park Supt. Dick Smallenburg when asked for his suggestion toward solving the problem of local residents who find themselves with a nation-wide reputation to uphold and an acute shortage of tulip bulbs.

When a tulip blooms the original bulb disintegrates as does the seed potato. From blossoming time until the foliage dies some six weeks later, two new bulbs and often an extra bulb or two form.

These new bulbs should be taken up during the summer and separated for ventilated storage until fall planting time. Not only does this annual raising of bulbs double the stock but it assures better blooms.

Allowing a tulip to remain in the ground means that two or more bulbs must share the nutrition and moisture of the soil causing both flowers and bulbs to grow smaller from year to year.

Three 'Flying Dutchmen' See Queen

Holland's three "Flying Dutchmen," home on a 10-day furlough from Guelph, Canada, have many interesting experiences to tell their friends and can also claim distinction as having seen Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. The trio, James Woldring, Marvin and Joseph Aardema, have completed basic training and will leave Sunday to report at Guelph from where they expect to be sent to England for primary flight training with the RAF which is training men who enlist in the Dutch air force.

Known as "soldaats" at their camp where a majority of the officers and men speak Dutch, they have met interesting "buddies" who hail from South America, the Netherlands, Java and even China. Joseph Aardema, whom Woldring jokingly says the Dutch officers call "Aardema, Yay," for Aardema J., says he has "listened in" on many an interesting conversation of the men from all parts of the world who are carrying on the fight for freedom with the Dutch air force. He told of Jewish refugees of Dutch descent who had perished in escapes from occupied Europe. Some of them had been engaged in cutting and polishing diamonds in pre-war days, he said. One of the trainees told Aardema that only about one in 10 who attempt to escape "make it." The others are shot or recaptured before they reach safety. The men with whom he talked had lost everything in their journey.

A highlight of the training period at Guelph was the day Her Majesty, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who was in Canada for the christening ceremonies of her granddaughter, Princess Margriet Franciska visited their camp and talked to the "soldaats" individually. The queen also visited four seriously wounded men of the Netherlands army personnel at Freeport, Canada.

At Guelph, a guard of honor was placed at "Princess Juliana" barracks and the queen reviewed troops as they paraded in the Ardena. A luncheon and a tea were also features of the queen's visit at the training center.

All three local men have passed their preliminary RAF examinations "100 per cent" and say they like the service they have chosen. They wear the uniform of the Dutch air force with the Netherlands lion insignia on the sleeve.

The men, boyhood chums who volunteered for service in a group, left Holland for Guelph June 25. The Aardema brothers are sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Aardema of 185 East Fifth St. and Woldring is the son of Mrs. George Woldring of 190 East Fifth St.

Ideal Conditions Prevail at Park

The high air and water temperatures at Lake Michigan beaches the past several weeks have made swimming ideal, and large crowds have been taking advantage of the many opportunities offered to swimmers and campers at Holland State Park. Alfred T. Sirrine, superintendent of the park, said today.

Explaining the flag system which has been in use for some time at the park, he said a tall pole is located on the beach near the life guard's bench. A green flag flying on the pole indicates a guard is on duty and the water is safe for swimmers; an orange flag means no guard is on duty, but bathers may go into the water at their own risk; and a red flag means that the undertow is too strong for safe swimming.

Most folks have been quite cooperative in complying with these "flag rules," he stated, as well as with the other camp rules.

The area at the park which is safe for swimming is enclosed by ropes supported by wooden poles on which are printed notices telling swimmers to stay inside the ropes.

Mr. Sirrine stated that there have been no serious accidents of any kind at the park this season. The 10 mile per hour speed limit on the oval is strictly enforced. He especially asked visitors at the beach to drive carefully on "Trailer Ave." the section of the oval where most of the trailers are parked, because of the large number of children in this section.

A feature of "camp life" at the park this year is the showing of colored motion pictures, taken by Mr. Sirrine in this and other state parks, about once a week. A public address system has also been installed and has been used in several emergencies recently.

COMMENTING ON COMMENT

It is entertaining, and somewhat pathetic, to watch the antics of the commentators when some sudden dramatic event happens on which no "line" has been established. Many big events develop so gradually that the "line" develops with them almost imperceptibly. Even such a happening as the invasion of Sicily grew out of other events so naturally that the editorial and radio comment developed in accordance with a fairly well developed pattern.

The resignation of Mussolini was a happening of a different color. It was for the commentators like the proverbial bolt out of the blue. It caught most people in a musical program. Within an hour or two the commentators had to be ready with an exposition. The result was that many of them were caught unawares.

President Roosevelt's displeasure with the comment of one of the speakers for his own OWI is understandable. For it was the kind of speech that darkened counsel with words. Or worse yet, it hurt the very cause America has at heart—to get Italy out of the war as bloodlessly as possible.
Calling the king of Italy a moron and Badoglio a fascist can hardly serve to help along that cause, especially when it comes not from a private citizen but in effect from the government itself.

The comments that followed that same day and the next in the speeches and articles was for the most part more cautious, but it was almost invariably lacking in illumination. This is not to the credit of the commentators.
You can't comment intelligently on something about which you have no authentic information. It has made a sudden jump; martial law, with its rigid censorship, had been clamped down on the country; for two years information as to what was going on in Italy had been unreliable.
In the very nature of things nobody in America, no matter how well informed in general, could know much about affairs inside Italy.

In such circumstances the sensible thing to do is to keep one's mouth tightly shut. But unfortunately that is not possible for thousands of people whose business it is to distribute news and comment. They have to comment whether they wish to or not. So they make the best of a bad job, and the chances are always great that events will put them to shame. For average readers and listeners the job is simpler; all they need to do is ignore the comment on such events until facts appear on which a judgment can be based with intelligence.
Most of what was said and written about the resignation of Mussolini, at least until now, has been a waste of breath and ink.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

Lieutenant Whittaker, who was a co-pilot in Captain Rickenbacker's party, said, "I was an atheist, but from my companions I learned to pray and saw prayer answered. There are no atheists in rubber rafts amid whitecaps and sharks. My entire life has been changed by the events that began October 20, 1942. It is this day I will never forget."

The church is the house of prayer, the designated place for worship and Christian confession such as Lieutenant Whittaker made. He did it in a rubber raft; you can and ought to do it. Why not accept the invitation and go to church, next Sunday?

Sunday School Lesson

August 15, 1943
God Provides for His People Exodus 16:1-18; 17:3-6
By Henry Geertlings

Songs of praise and sullen notes of complaint are a part of the program of life. We are glad and we are sad. Our souls swell up in gratitude and then they are dark with murmurings. One state of being follows close upon another.
These different emotions pass over the soul like light and cloud pass over the face of the sky. The Israelites praised God and they murmured against Him. They seemed to have had a program that was full of complaining. They seemed to have been better at the latter process than at the fine art of saying "thank you." But this is characteristic of human nature.
It is a serious indictment to bring against humanity that it grumbles more than it praises.

But before we become too free with our criticism of the children of Israel let us remember to try to put ourselves in their places.
They were face to face with hard conditions. It was not an easy journey that they were making.
They needed drinkable water and when it was not at hand naturally they would clamor for it. They must have food and when it was scarce they would demand it.
Thirsty men and hungry men are not always in a good humor. Hunger makes men desperate. The bread problem is one of the most serious that confronts civilization.
Men must have food and they are going to get it. Hunger does not always guarantee that they will get it in the right way.

Unemployment in a country multiplies the difficulties of the bread problem many times. Man does not live by bread alone, but he must have bread whether he has anything else or not. Few men are in a mood to think about anything else when their bodies are crying out for bread. The unseen and the ideal make no appeal if there is no bread in sight. Give a man to eat and then ask him to follow the gleam.
Usually men would rather eat than pray. And they will pray more fervor if they can eat with real satisfaction. Let us remember that anybody can say that God is good and the world is beautiful —if his stomach is full. Let us have bread but let us see God and goodness and idealism above and beyond the food we must have.
It is more than a bread-and-butter world that we are living in. It is more than a world of wheatfields and corn acres and meat shops and grocery stores. God provides all this program just to start with, but we are to continue and end with the bread of Heaven and the water that flows from eternal springs.

We are living in a hard world.
The traveling Israelites found that out. But how are we going to meet the hard world? Certainly fussing about it all the time will not help us any. Complaining against God and His order of things will not make the journey across the continent of time any the more pleasant and successful. Complaining will get little out of the world for us and besides all that is incapacitates us for the real meeting of the hard world's difficulties and for building a program of ultimate success. Don't complain. Start out to conquer. Don't say that the world is all wrong and that everything is against you. See if there are not some places in the world where you can take hold. Look and you may find some friendly corners in this old world of ours.

Trust God that a way will be provided. If the waters are bitter here and now, maybe there is a sweet spring nearby. If the food is scarce today there may be more tomorrow. At any rate the complaining Israelites were not fair to either God or Moses.
Neither one was against them.
They had always got them out of trouble and it was fair to assume that they would today and tomorrow and the next day. But when we are hungry, we forget about the food that was provided and we cannot be sure that there will be any for today or tomorrow.
A hungry stomach has often shut God and our friends clear out of sight.

Well, God had not forgotten.
He was as keen about the food problem as were the hungry Israelites. Only He was grieved at their attitude toward Him. He did not resent the fact that they were hungry and wanted food.
He asked for faith and patience.
We have a right to pray for daily bread and to expect it, but we hardly have a right to be ugly and disagreeable about it if we do not get butter and cherry preserves with it. God gave the hungry children of Israel food and we do not know just what it was, so far as the manna was concerned. But He gave it and that was the big fact. We are not just sure of the how of the giving and that matters little. He may have used the natural with the supernatural. He gave them food day by day and really that is all we can ask for.

from a clear sky came the announcement this noon that Chief of Police Fred Kamferbeek has been in his resignation to the board of police and fire commissioners and that it has been accepted. Mr.

Military Justice, Combat Tactics Told at Rotary

Flying, gunnery and actual combat tactics as well as radio and field mechanics with which army men must be thoroughly acquainted were described by Capt.

men in training there are enlisted men who eventually will become army weather officers and observers. Types of courts in the military organization and procedures of executing military jus-

The citation read:

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity as pilot of an airplane in a fighting squadron during the occupation of France Morocco, Nov. 8-11, 1942. Participating in numerous flight missions, Lieut.
(jg) Hadden pressed home his attacks with bold determination and utter disregard for his own personal safety. During vigorous raids on the airdromes of Rabat-Sale and Port Lyautey, he courageously defied a bursting hail of anti-aircraft fire while destroying fire hostile planes on the ground and attempting to silence a coastal defense battery."

"Although his own craft was struck several times, he nevertheless attacked the airdrome at Mediouna the following day, sustaining 12 machine gun hits in his plane and a severe shrapnel wound in the leg. Later, in the area of Fedala, he took part in a flight which destroyed hostile trucks and vehicles on the road to Rabat. His superb flying skill was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval service."

At the time of the presentation of the Silver Star, the ribbon of the Purple Heart also was pinned on Lieut. Hadden. Later at sea he received the Purple Heart which arrived in Holland two weeks ago.

The Silver Star was received in April.

training at Pensacola, Fla., where he was commissioned an ensign.
Later he was transferred to

Much Non-Farm Land in Ottawa

Grand Haven, Aug. 12 (Special)—In connection with a report of the west Ottawa soil conservation district, L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent, said there are 50,000 acres of non-agricultural land in Ottawa county, located mostly in Spring Lake, Grand Haven, Park, Port Sheldon and Olive townships.

The best land use for this type of land is reforestation—putting it back to its original crop—trees. Reforestation of these lands will pay good dividends in timber, wildlife and recreation. It will stabilize the shifting sands, thus protecting the better agricultural lands to the east of this area.

Hunter Hering, chairman of the board of directors, said that the spring tree planting season has closed with exceptionally good results. He said the planting was accomplished in the face of extreme labor shortage and is a tribute to the will and desire of the district cooperators who realize that the success of the district depends upon cooperation of individual farmers with their district. R. E. Briola, district conservationist, summarized the spring tree planting program by stating that 770,500 trees were planted. Of these, 593,000 were planted by cooperators on their farms and 177,500 were planted on public lands which are controlled by the district. Plantings since the district was organized in 1939 total 7,428,000 trees. Briola points out that tree planting conditions were ideal this spring and a good survival is expected.

Approximately 10,000 shrubs were also planted. These are usually planted as a border around woodlands and provide food and cover for wildlife. Shrub plantings now total 260,000.

Many cooperators, who have large acreages suitable only for reforestation, are approaching or have passed the 50,000 mark. Among these are Thomas Cook, 127,000; Ben DeWitt, 48,000; Frank Fend, 53,500; Frank Garbrecht, 150,000; Matthew Krumpke, 60,500; Dr. Frank Ryan, 106,000; Gus Schriber, 40,000; Theron Stone, 154,000; Frank Van Slooten, 89,000; John W. Bethke, 39,000; and Eugene Ten Brink, 35,000. Women as well as men take an active part. Mrs. Robert Ott has planted most of the 47,000 trees on the Ott farm; Mrs. George Pravda, 58,000; Mrs. Peter Keleva, 45,000; and Jean Modderman, 25,000.

New Rent Regulation Pamphlets Available

Copies of maximum rent regulations which are now in force in Kent and Ottawa counties are available from Laurence D. Smith, OPA rent attorney for the two counties who visits the local rationing office every Tuesday from 2 to 4 p.m.

The rent office has sent to real estate board members posters furnished by the OWI. These posters emphasize the tenant's duty to take care of and protect units they are renting. Rent control by the OPA is not intended to give tenants license to mistreat rented property and the local rent office is not in sympathy with tenants who are willfully destructive. Tenants who are receiving the protection of the rent regulations should be sufficiently patriotic to conserve their landlord's property during the war period when repair materials are scarce, Mr. Smith said.

COMMON COUNCIL

What kind of a house would you put here?

AFTER THE WAR, somebody's going to put up a new house on that pretty rise of ground that overlooks the river bend just outside of the town line. Nothing elaborate. Just a pretty little house snuggled into the trees as though it belonged there.

Somebody else may buy the old Ward farm. There should be many a good day's hunting in those rolling fields and back through the woods over to the State road. Fixed up a little bit—and it shouldn't take much money—it would be a livable place for a man and his family.

Yes, somebody's going to buy it. Somebody's always coming along, with a dream and a little money, and doing the things we'd promised ourselves we'd do someday.

But this time, why can't that "somebody" be you?

Look . . . Suppose you put 10% of your pay into War Bonds. At least 10%—more if you possibly can. And KEEP putting it away—putting it away—putting it away. Week after week—payday after payday. Here's what happens:

Before you know it, you get so you hardly miss that money. And if you do miss it, you've got something better to replace it—the knowledge that you, personally, are helping to insure a steady flow of planes and tanks and guns to the men who fight. The knowledge that you, personally, have toed the mark and are helping to win the war.

Then, one of these days, when peace has come again, the money you've put away starts coming back to you. And bringing more money with it—you get four dollars for every three that you put in!

When that day comes, you can get out your pencil and start figuring just what kind of a house you'll put on the river bend.

But to be sure that day does come, you'd better do this: You'd better get out your pencil right now and start figuring how you can save at least 10% of every single pay check with U. S. War Bonds!
