John Wickers Dies Of Heart Attack At Celebration

Zeeland (Special)—John Wickers, 73-year-old Zeeland civic leader, died of a heart attack Wednesday night during a celebration of his 50th wedding anniversary.

Wickers and his wife, Kate, were entertaining about 40 guests at an anniversary banquet at American Legion Memorial club house. He had just spoken a few words of appreciation for gifts presented and the group was adjourning to another room when Wickers slumped and died.

Wickers, always active in civic and church affairs, was manager of the Wickers Lumber Co. for many years until his retirement in 1947. He was born in Zeeland, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wickers.

At the time of his marriage to Kate Veenboer in 1901, he was a partner in the lumber business with his father and two brothers. His brothers and father died and by 1916, he had acquired majority interest in the firm. The company was sold upon his retirement.

Wickers and his wife were members of First Reformed church of Zeeland and he was a former consistory member. For many years he was president of the former State Commercial and Savings Bank, which several years ago merged with Zeeland State Bank. Wickers was a director of the latter bank at the time of his death.

He also was a member of Zeeland Rotary club, the Ottawa county Board of Canvassers and the Zeeland Rotary club, the Ottawa county Board of Canvassers and the Zeeland Republican committee which he served as chairman for many years. He was president of the Grand Rapids Reserve Supply Co. At the time the new Zeeland elementary school was built, he was an advisory member of the Board of Education.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickers lived at 361 East Central Ave. for 35 years. Surviving besides the wife are two brothers, Dr. Edward Wickers of Washington, D. C., and Dr. Wynand Wickers, vice president of Western Michigan college, Kalamazoo.

Funeral rites will be Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Yntema funeral home, and 2 p.m. at First Reformed church. The Revs. John Van Peursem and John den Ouden will officiate. Burial will be at Zeeland cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

Tavern Suit May Be Test Case

Allegan (Special)—The question of Allegan township board's right to revoke the White House tavern beer and wine license will be aired in Circuit Court here today in an action that has earmarks of becoming a "test case."

Franklin J. Rauner and Irving B. Beattie, assistant attorneys general, will represent the state Liquor Control commission, named defendant by Fred Swartz, tavern operator seeking to regain his license. Allegan Prosecutor Dwight Cheever will appear for the town board, whose members are co-defendants.

Swartz secured a restraining writ from Judge Raymond L. Smith pending the hearing which prevented the town board from closing his tavern. The township officials had acted, it said, when Swartz failed to observe closing hours.

Swartz declared the town board was in effect imposing prohibition in the township without referendum, is the only tavern in the township.

Fennville Woman Dies After Long Illness

Fennville (Special)—Mrs. Emma Seyforth, 87, died at her home in Fennville Monday evening. She had been an invalid for several years.

She is survived by four sons, Fred of Fennville, Carl of Florida, Frank and Walter of Chicago; one daughter, Mrs. Charles Gorton of Chicago; six grandchildren; four great grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. C. E. Wilke of Wisconsin.

1st Lt. William H. Draper is reunited with his wife, the former Irie Scamehorn, after nine months of fighting in Korea. The local man also spent close to four years with the first Marine division during World War II. The couple is spending the officer's 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Draper, 42 East 13th St. (Sentinel photo)

Nine Months in Korea, But Not Even a Scratch

Lighter by some 50 pounds, 1st Lt. William H. Draper is back home for a 30-day leave after nine months with the First Marine division in Korea.

He arrived in Korea Nov. 10, 1950, for the Wonsan landing about three weeks after MacArthur's men staged the successful Inchon landing turning the trend of the war at that point. From Wonsan, Draper moved north and then the reverses began. At one time his family didn't hear from him for a month. There were plenty of other close ones too, but Draper elected not to talk about them.

"I came through without a scratch and I'm pretty thankful," he said.

He left his 19-year-old brother Dick in Korea. Dick joined the First Marine division in Korea last March. During one of those rough times Dick injured his knees handling supplies and carrying wounded up and down a steep mountain. He was evacuated May 5 to Japan for recuperation, and re-joined the division just two days before Bill left for home. Since Marine regulations call for rotation after nine months overseas, Dick hopes to return home before the end of the year.

While overseas, Lt. Draper also looked up his brother-in-law, Sgt. Lee Scamehorn, who is with the Seventh Army division.

"We couldn't complain too much in Korea. We had plenty of ammunition and food, and our equipment was adequate, but we just didn't have enough men," the local officer said.

He described Korea as a beautiful country with rugged mountain scenery—but an awfully hard place to fight a war. Besides, the weather often was bad, very cold in winter, hot in summer, and now there's a rainy season.

"Everybody's hopeful about the peace talks, but you can't blame the fighting men if they're just a bit skeptical. They're used to hearing all sorts of things...home before Christmas for instance," Lt. Draper said.

Bill was a member of the Grand Rapids Marine reserve when he was recalled to service last August, during World War II. He spent four years lacking two months with the First Marine division, serving in Pearl Harbor, Guam, Okinawa and China. After his 30-day leave, he reports back to San Francisco for reassignment.

The old zest for souvenirs, rampant during World War II, is gone for Bill. He found a few trinkets en route for his wife, but nothing from Korea.

"Bill is all I wanted back anyway," his wife said.

Surviving are the husband, Cornelius; one son, Andrew of Holland; one daughter, Marian at home; two sisters, Mrs. O. De Windt of Georgetown and Mrs. George Leestma of Grand Rapids.

The child received head injuries, and fractures of the left leg, left forearm and pelvis when hit by a car driven by Mrs. Grace Plaggenmeyer, of 13 West 16th St., which in turn hit another car after striking the boy.

Deputy Clayton W. Forry said the child had been at a home across the highway and was crossing the road to return home.

Mrs. Plaggenmeyer was traveling east on Lakewood and swerved to the left in an attempt to avoid the child, but ran into him and then into a westbound car driven by Mrs. Henrietta Langejans, route 6. Mrs. Langejans had seen the child and slowed down.

Robert is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hoffman of 447 Lakewood Blvd.

The Plaggenmeyer car was damaged to the extent of $300 and the Langejans car to $150, Deputy Forry estimated.

The child was taken to Holland hospital in an ambulance and later taken by ambulance to Grand Rapids.

Students who still are deferred are placed in 2-A (S) class, Mrs. Morford said. The 2-A class is occupational deferment, and the (S) stands for student. These men will be deferred until June, 1952, when the board once more will pass upon their suitability for service.

Loren Shook Wins Saugatuck Meet

Saugatuck (Special) — Loren Shook, pro and owner of the Saugatuck golf course, won his own pro-amateur tournament Sunday, scoring a 68 in the pro division on the Saugatuck course to take top honors.

Shook beat Cliff Settersgren from Muskegon, and Ron La Paro, pro at Battle Creek, who tied for second, each with 69.

But when the pros teamed with the amateurs, 63 seemed a magic number, and four teams brought home low ball cards with that figure.

Shoko teamed with M. K. Disbrow, and later with John Barron, and both these team combinations carded 63's. So did pro John Blood and his amateur partner, H. Baker, and pro Ken White and his partner Ed Hass.

At the conclusion of the tournament, Paul Hahn, trick shot artist from California, put on an exhibit at the clubhouse. Most of Hahn's work consisted of neat chipping maneuvers.

Tennis Tourneys Moving Slowly In Chill Weather

Play in the city tennis tourneys for men and women and boys and girls, was slow again Tuesday, probably because of chill weather that kept racket-swingers off local courts.

Tuesday, Pete Paulus beat Dick Crawford in men's singles, 6-1, 6-1. Only three other matches were played in this division, however, with Bill Allen downing Carl Visscher, 6-2, 6-3, Warren Exo stopping John Litvoet, 7-5, 8-6, and Link Sennett topping Dave Schreur, 6-3, 7-5.

Central Upsets Sunocos; City Standings Tighten

First Game Sees Moose Nine Dump Baker Furniture

Pres Bos and his seventh place Central Avenue teammates rudely smeared a defeat across the previously unmarred record of Pelon Sunoco at Third St. diamond Tuesday night, to tighten up the local softball race.

Pelon was riding the crest of a 6-0 record before Tuesday night's fracas, and looked like shoo-ins to capture record half title honors.

But Central caught the Sunocos with their bats down and sat behind Pres Bos to watch him chuck a nifty two-hitter at the leaders. Central won, 2-0.

Central didn't lift themselves in the standings much, but the loss dropped Pelon to a scant half-game lead over the idle Main Auto club.

Only hits accorded Pelon went to Will DeNeff and Vern Vandewater, each of whom clouted singles. Bos struck out only four batters, but hobbled most other Sunoco batters with infield grounders and pop flies. His mates made two errors behind him, but each time the trouble soon was squelched by Bos' mound artistry.

Central batters got only foul hits, but two of these came in the fourth inning, when the Avenue nine was able to butt Burt Kool and Don Ver Beech home. Each singled to get on base.

Only other hits, both singles, went to Lou Altena and Ed Altena. Case Veldman was the losing pitcher.

The first game saw the Moose trample Baker Furniture, 9-3, to jump into a three-way tie for third place. Moose had trouble until the fifth inning, however, and at that point the game was knotted at 2-all. But then the explosion came and brought with it seven Moose runners across the plate. Baker scored one in the final inning, but that rally was quickly quelled.

Frank Bagladi and Bill Zych each got two hits for Moose, one of Zych's being a homer in the second frame. Paul Fortney got a double and Stu Baker, Ted Bos, Don Hults, and Herk Cramer each got singles for the Moose.

Cramer pitched for Moose, and gave up five hits. Ken Hirdes got the only extra base, banging a double in the second inning. Don Dryer, Ted Engel, Vern Overway, and George Moes each got singles.

Student Ambassador Finds Fruit, Vegetables Scarce in Yugoslavia

By Don Lubbers

Doboj, Yugoslavia (Special) — The rain is falling on the Bosnian hillsides this afternoon, and the American workers brigade is settled in the barracks at the work camp near Doboj, Yugoslavia. We are nearly finished with our work here and will soon be on our way, touring the country.

This afternoon presents a good opportunity to catch up on long overdue correspondence so all of us are busy writing letters home.

The Yugoslavians who manage the camp have been very cooperative in catering to American wants, but unfortunately no matter how much we gripe we cannot get enough fresh fruit and vegetables. One kind farm wife gave me some apples and plums the other day while I was exploring the country side. She lived in a two-room house with seven other people. How they all fitted into those two rooms, I will never know.

The people I have met thus far have very little, but they are generous with that little. However, they do not hesitate to ask favors from people. In return for an extra tomato one of the cooks asked me for some perfume. It seems that she had smelled me just after I had shaved the other day. I gave her some shaving lotion and she immediately rubbed it into her hair. I now get all the tomatoes I can eat.

Today we finished eating the cheese which a friend from the U. S. embassy in Belgrade brought to us. He also brought some fruit juice, jam and spam so we do have some breakfast provisions left. We eat this food in the morning because we are not used to the meager European breakfast.

The camp is filled with people from every nation in Europe except from those behind the "iron curtain." I am having fun knowing the little college French I know, at the expense of the French and Belgians. Though I know even less Dutch than French, I have been trying to communicate with the Dutch students in their language. I have found a number of Dutchmen here who know about Holland.

The committee supervised games for children and adults. Winners of children's games were Bobby Wheaton and Patricia Rehbein. Adult winners were Mrs. Meredith Renurck, Maurice Novak, William Neff and Ed Pelletier.

A 6:30 picnic supper was followed by dancing in the club house and games.

The next Newcomers party will be a hamburger fry on Sept. 8.

Heinz Drops Plans To Build Housing Units for Workers

Local Plant Praised For Co-Operation With Citizen Group

The problem of a housing camp for emergency H. J. Heinz plant workers in Holland township has been settled. Heinz has decided to discontinue construction plans.

The second meeting of Park and Holland township residents within four days heard the result of repeated negotiations between the Heinz company and a five-man citizens' committee which protested the construction.

"Give the credit to Mr. McCormick (C. B. McCormick, Heinz plant manager). He's done a wonderful job," a statement from the committee said. "Heinz was not forced to do it. Heinz is just as much interested in our community as we are."

About 100 township residents gathered Thursday night at Pine Creek school to hear the outcome of negotiations. A vigorous round of applause was given the Heinz company after announcement of its decision.

Irvin Heyniger, who served as chairman of the meeting, reminded those present that "we didn't force them, they did it out of the goodness of their hearts."

"You didn't do it," he told the audience. "H. J. Heinz company did."

There followed a ringing chorus of handclapping.

Members of the five-man committee appointed at a protest meeting Monday night were Al Stansby, chairman, Gerrit Rauca, John Dahl, Russell Leeuw and Joe Roerick. Heyniger served as an ex-officio capacity. The committee met repeatedly with Heinz officials to iron out the problem.

The company had begun construction of what would have been an "employee city" for emergency workers. The site was on 144th Ave., south of Riley St.

"Heinz extended us a cordial welcome," Heyniger said. "We settled the problem across the table."

The chairman reminded those present that they still had "one thing to be accomplished." Referring to the proposed township zoning ordinance, Heyniger said the people had "a moral obligation" to pass it. The question is due for decision at the polls in about 30 days.

Richard Bell spoke briefly to the audience, outlining the course of the real estate transaction by which the 10-acre plot in question passed from Bell's ownership, to ownership by a Holland realty company and from there to the Heinz company. Bell sold the land to the real estate firm which later sold it to Heinz.

McCormick said this morning that the Heinz company is trying to solve the problem and will have to move part of the operation out of Holland to take care of this year's crop.

"In view of the early pickle crop, it's too late to plan for any other site this year," McCormick said. "It's the only way to get by this year."

NEW BIRD'S-EYE SCENERY

If we humans could be transformed into migrating birds for a while we would have to become used to brand new air-scenery that the migrants had not seen in all the millions of years that they have been commuting between their northern and southern home.
Since television has become the passionate preoccupation of scores of millions of people, the new steel forests of TV antennae that have sprouted all over the air-scapes must have made the migrating birds wonder.

There has never been anything
like it in the history of bird-kind.
Whole forests of slender steel twigs all over the land, thickly planted in cities and more sparsely spaced in the rural sections—
that's the way birds must be regarding those newest roosting paces. In regions where nature's own trees are plentiful, the wise birds of course prefer the leafy limbs—you seldom see a bird taking his rest on the arms of a TV antenna. But in treeless sections these steel branches that usually stick up over the chimney must be a godsend to the migrants on the wing.

It might be fun to eavesdrop on the air-travelers to find out how they regard this newest phenomenon in the world of men. The birds have of course become used to lightning rods, but those are comparatively rare. To see a veritable forest of steel arms must fill the air travelers with wonder
as they fly through the ozone
with the greatest of ease.

Even from the ground, as seen
by human eyes, the new scenery is sufficiently odd. When you see the inevitable antenna over a basement home with a tar roof covering; or over a house trailer; or even over a temporary tent where people are spending a fortnight's vacation, the effect leaves you speechless.

The antenna of the old-time radio set did not attract much attention, and latterly of course
even those have been disappearing as more and more antennae are built in. But the TV antenna is just now about the most obstru-sive object in the landscape—or rather in the air-scape. No family can hide the fact that it has a TV set, and a new game is to count
them in any given hundred miles of travel.

Presumably birds can't count.
But if they could, how many sets would they identify in their annual migration? They would soon give it up as "too numerous to mention." And all that in the brief space of a couple of years. If the birds could view some of the programs they might even refrain from roosting on the antenna.

The Christian's Use of Money and Goods

Matthew 25:14, 15; 19-30

By Henry Geerlings

The common conception of stewardship is that the Christian must give liberally. The Old Testament tithing system is proposed by some, and the New Testament plan of giving as God has prospered us is proposed by others. Both these plans limit stewardship to material giving. This seems to be a misconception of stewardship. The true steward takes no account of what he gives or how large his gifts are. He puts his relation to God on a loftier, nobler basis than sharing his money with God.

Stewardship means more than balancing accounts with God, or paying on the basis of a pledge.
It is not a payment of debt, or interest on God's investment in us,
but it is an expression of appreciation and gratitude and love.
Stewardship is not a whip hand held over us to drive us to give to this and that and in a certain prescribed, or even suggested amount. Stewardship is the realization of a controlling desire to express our love to God in return for His greater love to us.
That expression will be in giving of what we have, of our talents
whatever they are, to the worship and service to God. What the steward does for God is not predetermined by any bookkeeping. It is not the result of meditating on the fact that God made and owns everything. It is love at work doing what it can to prove itself,
but always using judgment and reason and a sense of obligation
in determining what and how much to do.

Most of our giving and our serving goes through the church, and the church gets the credit, or
the blame, for how much it costs to be a Christian. Some rejoice in a church that costs much; others resent being asked to support the church at all. The call for charity is loud and long. None can escape it, and it can be silenced only by our gifts. Stewardship approves being asked to give for charity, but it is not willing to be dictated to about it. It has some decided opinions as to what is charity.

Stewardship is more than tit-
ing. On the other hand, it is probably not less than titing. We ought to grow more fully into the New Testament conception of our relationship to God and our obligations to Him and to our fellow-men as the true sons of God. The Christian conception of life is that it is a trusteeship from God.
In our thinking about stewardship, we should realize that life
consists of more than the material things we possess. It is probable that our spiritual possessions which can be manifested through good will, friendship and love are of greater significance to ourselves and to those round about us than the things of life.

In recent years there have been strenuous efforts to introduce into Christian thought the Old Testament concept of giving one tenth of one's material income to the work of the Lord. This doctrine has been advanced upon the ground and authority that it is Scriptural. The difficulty in applying at the present time this concept of the old covenant rests upon the fact that we live under a changed social and economic order from that in which titing was advocated and practiced by the children of God. Christians vary in the interpretation of the meaning of titing for modern times.
Some think the tithe should give directly to our own Christian group through congregational gifts to both current expenses and to benevolence.

On the other hand, others hold that it would be quite consistent with the Old Testament idea of titing to include in the bookkeeping of the Christian all the gifts to the Red Cross, the community fund and other charities as a part of one's tithe. We ought to exalt Christian stewardship to a higher plane than mere financial accounting.

The fundamental idea is that we should be the servants of God and place at His disposal that of which we possess in the way of money, talents, and spiritual traits. The first opportunity to show evidence of our gratitude toward God is through His organization designed to promote the kingdom of God. It is quite logical then that our first thought should be of that institution through which we receive so many blessings from God.

Our appreciation of the blessings of God should make us thoughtful of the needs of others.

Milk Ordinance
Brings Debate

Grand Haven (Special)—After
nearly two hours of discussion on a new milk ordinance, the city council Monday night delayed action until Aug. 27.

Only issue involved was licensing fee. Attorneys representing the Tri-Cities dairies, Grand Rapid, Co-operative Dairy and the Dairymen's Co-operative Creamery Co. of Carson City, as well as
B. Jolly of the Sanitary Dairy Co.
in Grand Haven presented arguments.

With the exception of the latter, there was no objection to outsiders entering the city although Jolly said he did not understand why the outsiders were anxious to come to Grand Haven. Others all felt the proposed license fee was out of line. Harvey L. Scholten, Grand Haven attorney who represented several dairymen, said the fee should be reasonable and fair, based on inspection and not as a trade barrier.

Proposed license fees are $15
for each milk plant located in the city or within five miles, $25 within 10 miles, $50 within 25 miles, $75 within 50 miles, and $100 over 50 miles. There are other fees for vehicles, and dairy farm fees, also based on mileage.

Brunsting Takes
California Call

Grand Haven (Special)—The Rev. Bernard R. Brunsting, pastor of the First Reformed church
since June 1, 1949, announced Sunday that he has accepted a call from the Bethel Reformed church at Bellflower, Calif. He will leave here the last week in August.

The California church has 200
families while the local church has 400 and is the largest church in the Muskegon Classis of the Reformed church.

Rev. Brunsting is the 29-year-old son of a pastor. His father, Rev. L. A. Brunsting, who died in 1947, was minister of a large church at Sioux Center, Ia., for 18 years.

Following combat service in the Air Force during World War II,
Rev. Brunsting entered Western Theological seminary in Holland
in 1946.

The local church had been without a pastor 29 months when he took over the local pulpit in 1949.
Rev. Brunsting, still a student at the seminary, became summer student pastor in June, 1948, during the vacancy, and served six weeks.
The congregation voted to delay
calling a pastor until the young student was available. He was called in February, 1949, and soon accepted.

Merchants Topple Before Vet Bats; Main Auto Wins

The VFW softball team hiked itself up a notch in the city standings Monday night by drubbing the Tulip Merchants, 14-1.

The victory moved the Vet runners into sixth place, highest they've been all season. Vet runners crossed the plate in every inning but the sixth, and threatened during that frame, although the rally was quelled by a double play.

In second fray of the evening, the lowly Green Hornets, now languishing in eighth place, held second place Main Auto in check for seven full innings, before finally going down, 2-0, in extra innings.

Mary Padden pitched three-hit ball for the Hornets until the eighth, when he gave up the fatal two hits, that combined with three errors by his mates and brought down the roof.

In the first game, the Vets scored one in the first inning, two in the second, two more in the third when pitcher Larry Tibbet tagged a homer, and two more in the fourth. They didn't stop there, however, got two more home in the fifth, and topped this off with a five-run spurge in the seventh. Dick Millman led the Vets, with three singles and a double in five trips to the plate. He was trailed by Tibbet with his homer and two singles. Leroy Tucker and Doug Hammen whacked two singles, while Guite Daining got a double and John Van Hooven, Don Van Duren and Chick Zych each banged singles.

Tibbet allowed Merchant batters only three hits, all singles. They were parceled out, one each, to Ben Bouwman, Norm Japenga and Herk Allen.

The second game saw Padden give Main Auto batters five singles, with one each going to Mel Koenes, Al Van Dyke and Guite Van Langevelde. Hank Bonzeleer got two swats to pace his team.

To the losing Hornets, Jason Ebels gave four singles, two of them going to Morris Wierda. Al Sauder and Rich Waters split the other two.

Standings, including Monday's games:

Near Gale Stops Afternoon Races For All Classes

The 22nd annual West Michigan Yachting association regatta opened operations on Lake Macatawa Friday morning at 10:45, and shortly thereafter closed down again for the day. Reason? The weather was too rough.

But the races weren't called off for lack of any spirit. Almost without exception the sailors wanted to race, but broken spars and split sails were the rewards handed those who tempted the afternoon gales for practice runs.

The other seven classes, lumped under the title "small boats," were able to race; however, and got away at 10:45 in two clusters. An estimated 40-50 boats were in the two groups.

Eight classes had been scheduled, but the National One-Design class failed to show.

Three of the seven classes that sailed were dominated by the Macatawa Bay club, and the other four were from other clubs in the WMYA. Eight clubs are in the association.

Corrected scoring in the Crescent class places Paul Harms first, Gretchen Boyd second, and Sharon Crawford third. Dave Linn ripped a sail in the gusty wind and could not finish.

In the Lightning class, Jane Boyd skipped her Janie-Bee to a victory, and beat out Don Van Lare and Rick Linn, who finished in that order. Fourth was Jim Pollock. Will Vandenberg was fifth, Sally Copeland sixth, Stan Curtis seventh, and Virginia Hansen eighth.

Bill Jesiek beat out Jack van der Velde in the Lawley 110 class, with Dave Kelley placing third. Pete Sears was fourth, Clarke Field fifth, Mary Stewart sixth, and Ken Scripps seventh.

Those three classes—Crescents, Lightnings, and Lawleys—all were from the local club.

The Y-Flyers, which showed excellent speed, were paced by Kent Reed. Jack Holloway took second, Buster Deyman third, Nan Sellers, fourth, and Dick Donovan fifth.

Snipes were led by Mal Hughes, with Dick Grant taking second and Dean Kesterson third. In the Scooter class, Gernor took first, Joe Woodford second, and Frank Story third, all from Spring Lake.

Bud Brown won the Wood Pussy race, with Babe Beachy taking second and Fritz Bald third.

Eastmanville Span Closed to Traffic

Grand Haven, (Special)—The 34-year-old Eastmanville bridge across Grand river was barricaded and closed to further traffic by the Ottawa County Road commission on Friday.

Action was taken on the matter after it was discovered concrete was showing above the water and a diver was sent down to investigate the footings, according to Carl T. Bowen, county engineer.

The road commissioners met Thursday afternoon to hear reports and decided to close the span.

The bridge, located north of Alendale, between US-16 and M-50, has been posted for 10-ton load limits for some time, Bowen said.

The bridge was opened to traffic in June, 1917, and is 512-feet long, has a 16-foot roadway and is 20 feet above the water.

Other paved roads lead out of Eastmanville, Bowen said.

Jury Can't Agree In Appeal on Will

Grand Haven, (Special)—A circuit court jury, after deliberating five hours Thursday night and on Friday, announced it was unable to come to an agreement in the Alice Oetman estate appeal case which was heard before Judge Raymond L. Smith three days last week.

Judge Smith dismissed the jury from further deliberation in the appeal case. Counsel for the defendant said he would ask for a retrial. It was the last jury case for this term.

The case centered around a question on paragraph 14 of Mrs. Oetman's will involving two mortgages a son, George, owed to his father and his father's estate. One was a farm mortgage for $4,000 and the other for $2,000, on which neither interest or principal had been paid for more than 15 years.

Mrs. Oetman's will provided that her son, George, would share equally in the estate if he permitted the $6,000 to be deducted from his share, otherwise the estate would be divided so that he would receive $3,050 less than the other children, the difference arranged in certificates of deposit.

Master of all it surveys, Van Vleck hall still is the heart of Hope college campus to the grads of by-gone days. To the grads of the 19th century Van Vleck was THE campus. An imposing structure of the latest style of that period, people came from miles around to view the building. Lighted by oil lamps with a wood stove in each room, Van Vleck hall would seem anything but impressive according to modern standards.

Begun 97 years ago, the hall was named for the Rev. John Van Vleck, who, with the aid of Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, agreed on the necessity for a separate building for the Holland academy. Rev. Van Vleck was an instructor in the academy, forerunner to Hope college, and he donated $300 toward the building.

Through personal influence and hard work the two men obtained subscriptions of $250. In 1854 the General Synod of the Reformed church recommended erection of the building and $1,200 was raised for that purpose.

Rev. Van Vleck personally directed construction of the hall and Brandine of Battle Creek was supervisor. The red brick building of the then very latest architectural style consisted of three stories and a full basement. The upper two floors contained 22 rooms, 10 x 16. Officers, an apartment for the principal and family, and recitation rooms were on the first floor. The basement included a room for chapel services, recitation rooms, and other offices. The building was 53 feet long and 32 feet wide. The cornerstone was laid at a simple ceremony on May 14, 1857.

The building was partially occupied late in 1857 but wasn't completed until 1858. The completed cost was reported as $6,000. The Rev. Phelps and family lived on the first floor. Dr. Nykerk and Prof. Doesburg had offices on this floor also. A few years later Prof. Yntema, father of the present Prof. Yntema, turned most of the basement into a chemical laboratory.

In 1886 the library was located on part of the first floor of the building. Students had to buy their own kerosene for the lamps and buy and chop their own wood for the stoves. A woodshed was located on the spot where Carnegie gym now stands.

Freshmen who were too fresh were dunked under the pump just outside. Pranks in those days consisted of putting live turtles under the professor's hats and filling the oil lamps with water.

A big event was the removal of the old oil lamps and the installation of electricity in 1899. Van Vleck hall continued to be the center of campus life until the erection of Van Raalte hall in 1903. Men's dormitory rooms occupied the top three floors of the older building then.

Rotarians Hear Hospital Chief

Speaking before the Holland Rotary club Thursday noon at the Castle, Dr. Abel J. Baker, chief of staff at Butterworth hospital in Grand Rapids, told a romantic story of the development of modern medicine today.

Emphasizing the importance of the discovery of blood circulation by William Harvey in the 16th century, the use of the first vaccine by Edward Jenner in 1796, and the use of ether as an anesthetic in 1846, Dr. Baker pointed out that more had been discovered in medicine in the last 75 years than in the previous 5,000 years.

Anthony Van Leeuwenhoek, a Dutch lens maker who invented the microscope, aided medicine as did other scientists in the field of chemistry, physics and biology.

As pronounced as has been the progress during the last three-quarters of a century, "man has not yet learned to live in peace with his fellow men," Dr. Baker concluded.

Dr. Baker is a graduate of the University of Michigan, is a past president of the Kent County Medical society and a fellow of the American College of Physicians.

Local Nine Puts Two Big Innings Together to Win

Holland's Dutchmen threw two big innings at the CWC Foundrymen of Muskegon Thursday night, and then hung on grimly in the late innings to win, 6-5.

Four runs in the fourth and two more in the fifth knocked Jack DuBois from the Muskegon mound, and put the Dutch out in front to stay.

The locals turned the trick in the fourth with consecutive singles by Gene Schrotenboer and Whitey Witteveen, a double by Morry Witteveen, and a single by Lou Humbert. The rally ended there, but by then four Dutch runs had scampered home. DuBois' pitching still was groggy in the fifth, as he gave up a walk, and two more singles to allow two more runs.

Southpaw Jerry Pelon took over for Muskegon, and promptly got into and right out of a peck of trouble. He allowed two hits in the sixth, and then quelled the rally with two strikeouts and an infield grounder. In the seventh he allowed one hit and chucked a wild pitch, putting Schrotenboer in scoring position with none out. Then he retired the side a second time.

In the eighth, Morry Witteveen started with a double for Holland and Lou Humbert walked. Pelon then got two out, but both runners advanced on one of the outs, a long fly. He walked Tony Wentzel, but killed the rally by getting Schrotenboer on a pop fly.

For the Dutch, the pitching was nearly identical with that of the Foundrymen. Lou Humbert chucked a clean three-hitter for five innings, and not a Foundryman got past second, but then in the sixth, he weakened to allow two runs and three hits.

Co-Managers Loren Wenzel and Ben Batema left him in, but in the seventh, two more Muskegon runners crossed the plate. They decided to yank him in the eighth after he hit a batter, and allowed a single.

Rog Eggers was chosen for the relief role. The first batter he faced promptly banged into a double play, and the heat of that rally was off.

But in the final inning, with the Dutch nursing their slender two-run margin, Eggers got into difficulty and almost didn't get out. The first man walked, and the second singled cleanly to left. The third Foundryman batter slapped a grounder at Jack Van Dorpe, who threw past Witteveen at first, allowing one run to score.

Fortunately, the second out came on a short fly to center and the third man, Nelson, struck out to end the game.

Hitting for the Dutch was led by Gene Schrotenboer, who rapped three singles. He was trailed by Morry Witteveen who socked two doubles. Whitey Witteveen and Lou Humbert each got two singles, and Bob Mowry, Lloyd Driscoll, Merrill Human, and Tony Wentzel each got singles.

Lou Humbert was counted the victor, and DuBois the loser.

WMYA Regatta Ends on Macatawa

New Hand Sweeps To Series Win In Scow Racing

A youngster who still is in sailing school at Spring Lake and is now in his first year of sailing showed all the old hands how sail-boating should be done and copped two big trophies in the 22nd annual West Michigan Yachting association regatta. The regatta was held on Lake Macatawa Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Paul Eggert, 15-year-old, pint-sized and freckled-faced, took only seventh place in the first race of the regatta, but overcame this Sunday afternoon to take two first places and a West Michigan title.

Eggert was racing in the slender, hard to handle, E-boat, about 30 feet of light hull carrying a tremendous amount of sail. His victory in this class is more noteworthy because of the stiff competition offered by men who have raced these boats for years.

The regatta was stopped Friday by high winds, but Saturday and Sunday proved two good days for the sailors. Steady winds kept the boats from getting in much difficulty, and only one boat tipped over during the three-day event.

The racing committee registered 95 boats, and most of these participated. Several hundred persons were on hand to watch the racing, and more lined both shores of Lake Macatawa.

Local classes in competition were the Lawley 110's, the Lightnings, C's and Crescents.

Bill Jesiek, won the competitions in Lawley's, though he was chased for honors by Jack van der Velde who finished second, and Dave Kelley, who took third.

In the Lightnings, Jane Boyd turned a tough feat by sweeping the three-race series. Caryl Curtis chased her to the finish during the last two races, and in the final race, Miss Boyd won by a matter of inches. Miss Curtis took second in the series, having to overcome a bad first day to do it.

Rick Linn was third in this class and Jim Pollock fourth. Linn, Pollock, and Miss Curtis all were tied in points, but Miss Curtis won by an alternate method of scoring.

In the little Crescents, Paul Harms also swept the series, taking 3rd firsts. Gert Boyd took 2nd and Sharon Crawford third.

In the C-boats, about 30 were in competition, and were dominated by Ken Kornelje of Spring Lake. Craig Welch, Spring Lake, took second, Ham Berry of Grand Rapids third, and John Seabury of Crystal Lake fourth.

Results of other classes, with names of skippers appearing in order of finish:

Scooters—Frank Story and Ginger Dornbos, both of Spring Lake. Wood Pussies—Bud Brown and Fritz Bald, both of Crystal Lake. Snipes—Mal Hughes, Muskegon; Dean Kesterson, Grand Rapids; and Mat Young, Muskegon.

Y-Flyers—Kent Reed, Buster Demon, Dan Hartman, all of White Lake.

E-Boats—Paul Eggert, Chuck Jacobson, Frank Haven, and Doris Johnson.

Milkmen Give Chase; Kill Fox in Holland

"Grab yur shootin' arn, there's varmints outside!"

Two men delivering milk at 6:30 in the morning on 30th St near College Ave., chased and killed a gray fox who was roaming the streets. George A. Speet, 22 West 32nd St., and his helper, Allen Vanden Berg, spotted the animal and gave chase.

Wearing gloves and using pliers, empty milk bottles, a hammer and anything else they could pick up, they chased the fox to a sand pile in back of a new house where they caught and killed it. The fox was of medium size and was believed to weigh about 10 pounds.

Some 50 per cent of polio patients recover completely.

Charles Jacobson's E class scow, Omega, from Spring Lake heels over in a practice run on Lake Macatawa Friday afternoon. This class of sailboat is reported to be the fastest afloat, and various skippers say they've been clocked at upward of 25 miles per hour. The platter-shaped boat shown here isn't about to tip over; the boat just operates in this manner, scooting along on one slender edge. Crew member completely outside the boat is standing on one of two lee boards which stabilize the boat.

It's the busiest time of the year on farms throughout the Holland area. Threshing machines, tractors, binders are common sights in rural areas these days. Wheat was threshed last week at the Henry E. Lubbers farm, route 5. The threshing rig is owned jointly by Lubbers and his two neighbors, Andrew and Wallace Beeve and Martin Sale. Through their co-operative efforts, crops are harvested on the three farms which average 100 acres apiece. This week the men are cutting and setting up oats. Lubbers' three sons, Kenneth, Burton and Eugene, work the farm while their father, who works in Holland, manages affairs. Each of the three farms had about 20 acres of wheat to harvest. It was pointed out that weather at planting time last fall wasn't favorable and wet weather this spring again affected the wheat. However, the Lubbers' crop was considered "better than expected."
