Official Asserts H. E. Morse Co. Has Many Orders

An H.E. Morse Co. official Tuesday stilled rumors the company was "folding up" by saying "we have more gage orders on hand now than we have ever had in the history of the company and we have more gage distributors than we have ever had."

It was announced Monday that the company had filed a petition for arrangement under chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy act in federal court in Grand Rapids. Federal Judge W. Wallace Kent has appointed Wadsworth Bissell receiver of the company pending outcome of the bankruptcy petition.

The company official said "it's simply a voluntary reorganization plan and the company is being reorganized with the same officers in charge." All creditors and the bank accounts "are frozen," he said. "It's a self-protection act."

Presently the company has two shifts employed and many are working overtime to keep up with orders.

"As far as deep drawn parts, such as pen caps and ball point pens, the company has enough business for the balance of the year," he said.

"We have more orders for gages from government arsenals than we ever had," he said.

In the petition filed Monday, the company declared its liabilities to total $780,840.66, with assets listed as $1,913,652.07. Secured claims were listed as $512,406.24 and unsecured claims as $183,013.59.

The company proposes to pay all valid claims entitled to priority, to pay its secured creditors in accordance with the terms of the respective mortgages and to pay unsecured creditors after their claims have been allowed by the court by delivery of non-interest bearing promissory notes at 50 percent of the full amount, due one year from date of issue.

The company manufactures and sells gages and comparoscopes, gold-filled and stainless caps for ball point pens and fountain pens and ball point pens.

About 400 persons are employed at the firm which is located on Ottawa Beach Road.

MBYC Grabs 2nd At Lake Geneva

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (Special) —Macatata Bay Yacht Club's junior sailing team was on its way home today after finishing second in the Sears Cup competition here.

Lake Geneva captured first place by winning two out of three races Wednesday afternoon after morning competition was called off because of lack of wind.

Sailing 23-foot class E scows they had never operated before, Macatata took a first and two seconds in the afternoon races over a six-mile course.

It was close, too, as MBYC gained 12 1/2 points compared to Lake Geneva's 13 1/2. Lake Geneva won the only race Tuesday afternoon while Macatata finished third.

Both Lake Geneva and Pewaukee, Wis., which finished third with 11 1/2 points, were representing the Inland Lakes Yachting Association, while Macatata and Muskegon, last with 4 points, sailed for the Lake Michigan Yachting Association.

With the victory, Lake Geneva will compete in the Sears Cup finals at Booth Bay Harbor, Maine, later this month. The Sears Cup is emblematic of the national junior sailing championship.

Sailing for Macatata were Skipper Paul Harms, Bill Harms, Jim Field and Gretchen Boyd. Alternates were Jim Boyd and Kinny Hamm.

Acting as coach for the junior sailors was Clarke Field, Sr. Last week at Macatata, the MBYC team finished second behind Muskegon in the Lake Michigan Yachting Association elimination.

Nursery School Board Plans Opening Session

Board members of Cherry Street Cooperative Nursery Center met with Miss Roberta Hemingway, State Consultant on Nursery Schools, Wednesday to make further plans for the opening of the center this fall.

Those attending were Mrs. Stuart Padnos, vice president; Stephen Scott, treasurer; Mrs. William Collins, schedule chairman; Mrs. W. A. Forberg, membership chairman; Charles Lininger, equipment chairman; Mrs. Otto Schaap, program chairman and Mrs. Edward Heuvelhorst, teacher.

Tentative plans are to have an indoctrination session for parents the week after Labor Day, with three day a week sessions for 20 children, beginning the following week.

It appears that there are more children than can be taken care of in one session, therefore it is hoped that a second session can be arranged to accommodate all parents and children interested in participating in this cooperative nursery program.

DAVID E. HOWLAND, (above), native of Saugatuck, has been appointed manager of the Chicago Trade Promotion office of the Port of New York Authority. The Chicago office also covers Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Balloon Ascension Slated for Picnic

ZEELAND (Special) —Grandparents and mom and pop may have talked about balloon ascensions, but a good many Zeeland area young people will get their first view of one at the Farmer's Day Picnic Wednesday afternoon.

The ascension will be one of the feature attractions at the two-day event, Aug. 16 and 17. Weeks of work have gone into an "entirely different program," according to Dick Timmer, program chairman.

An amateur program with Bill Allen of WHTC as master of ceremonies will highlight Tuesday night's entertainment at the Lawrence Park site. Auditions have been under way for some time.

A special attraction at the Tuesday show will be the Vandenberg Brothers, an instrumental quartet from Byron Center, and a clown act.

Wednesday's activities will begin with the morning tractor rodeo at 9:15 a.m. under the direction of county agent Richard Machiele and Bud Pyle. The rodeo replaced the old horse-pulling contests last year, and drew large crowds.

A novelty program centered around "Dollar a Second" headlines the Wednesday night feature with Ev Thomas of Douglas, a professional entertainer, as MC.

Volunteer couple on the show will be able to earn $3 for every minute they can stay on the stage answering rapid-fire questions. Novel stunts and penalties have been set up.

A progress report on Jefferson school by Construction Supervisor Arthur W. Read revealed that the two classroom wings are expected to be ready for the opening of school in September. Several recommendations of the building and grounds committee for purchases of equipment were okayed. Other work recommended by the building committee included surfacing the playground at Van Raalte and relocating playground equipment, under $1,000; seeding lawn at Van Raalte; purchase of two stainless steel sinks for Jefferson school kitchens at approximately $200 each; alterations to provide new offices in the high school.

The board approved the transfer of $73,052.95 for August bills. This includes a payroll of $54,250.55 for teachers and administration.

Mrs. K. De Pree Resigns Board To Teach School

With sincere regret, the Board of Education Monday night accepted the resignation of Mrs. Kenneth De Pree who has served as a member of the board for 11 years.

At the same time, the board approved hiring her as sixth grade teacher at Lincoln School the coming term. Mrs. De Pree is returning to teaching after several years. Her husband's illness the last few months was a factor in her decision to teach school.

In other action, the board appointed Dr. Lester J. Kuyper as secretary of the board, succeeding Mrs. De Pree whose resignation will be effective Sept. 1. Mrs. De Pree has served as secretary for the last five years. She was graduated from Hope College in 1926 and has had three years of teaching experience. With the appointment of the two teachers Monday night, virtually all teaching positions are filled for the coming year, according to Mrs. Winter, chairman of the teachers' committee.

Motorcycle Rams Car at Junction

William John Gras, 18, South Division, Zeeland, escaped with minor injuries when his motorcycle hit a car broadside at the junction of US-31 and M-21 just east of Holland at 6:50 a.m. today.

The cyclist told sheriff's officers he was traveling about 50 miles an hour west on M-21 and figured he could make the green light. But the light was red by the time he approached the intersection and the motorcycle hit the car at an estimated speed of 40 miles, completely turning the car around.

The car, driven by Henry Elzinga, route 2, Holland, was proceeding south on US-31. Damage to Elzinga's car was estimated at $350 to $400. Damage to the motorcycle was estimated at $100.

Young Gras was taken to his home and was treated later by a physician. Deputy Larry Veldheer said Gras would be charged with running a red light, causing a personal injury accident.

Daubers Will Take Over Saugatuck

SAUGATUCK (Special) —Village residents will be paying tribute to the Summer School of Painting which is marking its 45th birthday this summer during Saugatuck's annual Art Week program. Wednesday, Aug. 17 through Saturday, Aug. 20.

Highlight of the four-day program will be the annual Art's Ball Friday night at 9 p.m. in the Big Pavilion. Theme of this year's ball is "black and white — plus one" and announcements caution that "costume is required or penalty imposed."

The Art's Ball is one of the big nights of the year in Saugatuck and brings out hundreds of artists and vacationers alike in fanciful and grotesque costumes. It's the one night of the year when staid summer residents join members of the art colony in shedding inhibitions and having a good time.

The big hall will be decorated by students of the summer school. Proceeds will go to the school's scholarship fund and scholarship students are heading the various committees for the event.

Other Art Week events to be held in the pavilion include a clothesline show from 3 to 10 p.m. on Wednesday, a symposium on art, presided over by Miss Elsa Ulbricht, director of the school, at 8 p.m. Wednesday with a panel of prominent artists. Saturday a clothesline show and craft demonstrations will be held from 3 to 10 p.m.

Throughout the week, students will be in the village, painting the local scene as part of their organized class work.

Dummy on Road Prank Gives Motorists Scare

Several unidentified persons with an obviously distorted sense of humor almost caused the wreck of several cars late Wednesday night.

The persons, presumably youths, were tossing a dummy on the new US-31 near James St. As motorists drove along, it appeared to be the body of a man on the road with his legs cut off.

One driver stopped at the Holland police station and told officers he almost smashed head-on into a truck to avoid running over what he thought was a man. Ottawa county deputies were unable to find a trace of the persons when they went to investigate.

Buried an Hour, Boy Is Rescued

GRAND HAVEN (Special) —Eleven-year-old Dick Eggert of Spring Lake is alive today because his two pals knew what to do in an emergency.

And when the emergency involves being buried alive for an hour, it's a pretty big emergency.

Dick and his two friends, Denny and Rodney Vander Sys, 14 and 11, were hiking along the water front Wednesday afternoon and played around some sanding equipment. Dick climbed on a loaded sand hopper. Inside was a large air pocket and the sand gave way, completely covering the youth.

The other two boys ran to the river's edge and flagged several boats. Some men went to the city dock to alert police and others started digging by hand and using shovels. Five police officers arrived with a rescuer and the fire department sent its rescue boat.

After an hour, the boy was rescued. He was taken to the office of a physician who cleaned his eyes, nose and ears. Otherwise, he appeared none the worse for wear.

One factor on the credit side was that the boy's arms were pinned to his sides when he fell into the sand, making it impossible for him to struggle.

Assisting in the rescue were Jack Robinson and his crew who were working on the city dock for the arrival of the "Norderholm," a four-hatched German ship which is expected to dock late this afternoon with a cargo of cement. It will be the first foreign ship to arrive here in several years.

Men Slugged and Robbed After Meeting 'Friends'

Sheriff's department officials said Monday two men have been slugged and robbed recently after making acquaintances with persons in Centennial Park.

In the most recent case, Pedro Tomas, 45, a transient worker, received a five-inch head laceration Saturday morning after being struck and robbed. Last month Marel Bowman, about 45, of a local hotel address, was thrown out of a car and abandoned near Borculo after being slugged and robbed. Officers are investigating the robberies.

Theft Solved in Routine Probe

A routine accident investigation Sunday resulted in the solution to a local breaking and entering case, and sheriff's department officials say leads to other thefts were uncovered.

Officers were called after cars driven by Estel Yancey, 19, and Thomas Yancey, 17, both transient workers collided on old US-31 a mile north of Port Sheldon Rd. at 2 p.m. Sunday. The brothers were apparently playing "bumper tag."

Both Estel's 1951 model and Thomas' 1948 model were complete losses. Thomas was taken to Holland Hospital with jaw and chest injuries.

In both autos officers found tires, hub caps and fender skirts. Further investigation revealed the brothers had sold tires to a local junk yard which were reported taken Thursday from Veneklaasen's Auto parts. The five tires and car radio were recovered.

Restricted Licenses Restored for 2 Men

GRAND HAVEN (Special) —Two drivers were given partial restoration of their operator's licenses at hearings in Circuit Court Tuesday. The restricted licenses were granted upon compliance with the financial responsibility act for the purposes of going to and from work and while on company business only.

The hearings were for Henry V. Filkins, 58, of 679 Wisteria, Holland, who pleaded guilty July 1 to a drunk driving charge and paid $109.70 in Holland Municipal Court, and Marvin C. Prince, 30, Grand Rapids, who pleaded guilty to a drunk driving charge July 19 in Grand Haven Municipal Court. The latter charge resulted when Prince's car struck another while backing out of a parking stall at Highland park.

Both licenses had been suspended for 90 days. Filkins claims he is in charge of production control for Crampton Co. in Holland and his duties involve going to other company plants in Grand Rapids. Prince is a paint salesman and claims he travels in five counties around Kent county.

Brother Seriously Injured as Car 'Bounces' 45 Feet

One man was killed and his brother critically injured when a car left the highway at 5 a.m. today on M-21 midway between Zeeland and Hudsonville.

Killed instantly was Robert Ugoik, 22, of 1159 Watson St., S.W., Grand Rapids, who was thrown from a car driven by his brother, the Rev. Alexander R. Ugoik, 26-year-old priest living at 5818 DuBois St. in Detroit.

Fr. Ugoik is in critical condition in St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids. He received a skull fracture, concussion, fractured pelvis and severe lacerations.

The brothers were returning from a fishing trip in Fr. Ugoik's 1955 model car. Officers said the car left the road on the divided highway, hit an embankment and "bounced" 45 feet through the air before hitting a second embankment head on. The car was demolished. The driver remained inside but his brother's body was found about 35 feet from the second impact. In all the car traveled 180 feet after leaving the highway.

The accident was investigated by Deputies Len Ver Schure, Bud Gysen and Donald Stratton, Hudsonville chief of police. Officers said the driver may have fallen asleep.

When Fr. Ugoik was admitted to the emergency ward, one of the nurses on duty became hysterical. It was learned she was engaged to Robert Ugoik, the accident victim, and the wedding had been scheduled.

Officers also learned that the father of the two men in the accident was seriously ill of a heart ailment.

The body of the victim was taken to Yntema Funeral Home in Zeeland. It was to be transferred to a Grand Rapids mortuary today.

Dr. Bolthuis of Jamestown served as medical examiner. Cause of death was listed as a broken neck and skull fracture.

Ugoik's death is the 19th traffic fatality so far this year in Ottawa County. It also was the second fatality in two days, but the two fatalities were the first in six weeks, according to the Ottawa County Safety Council.

Earlier victim this week was John Leo Tiles, 32-year-old Grand Haven truck driver, who died in the flaming wreckage of a dump truck Tuesday afternoon near Eastmanville. Dr. Wenger, medical examiner, ruled accidental death due to burning.

Sears Sweeps 110s in Regatta

Peter Sears won three straight International 110 races over the weekend in the Western Michigan Yachting Association regatta at Spring Lake to win the championship in that division.

Sears, skipping M. R. Bissell's boat along with Buzz Boersma, won races Friday, Saturday and Sunday to run away with the field. Macatawa Bay Yacht Club representatives dominated the 110 competition, taking the first four places. Second was Clarke Field, third was Dick Schadelee and fourth was Jimmy Boyd.

Ninety-three small boats in six divisions were entered when the regatta opened Friday.

John Beeman, the unbeatable Nipper king out at Macatawa, had to settle for second at Spring Lake. Although he won the first race, he was conquered by the eventual winner, eight-year-old Mike Pilling of White Lake, both Saturday and Sunday. Jimmy Spencer of MBYC finished third among the Nippers.

Crewing with Beeman on Friday was Jim Field. Saturday and Sunday, his regular mate, Jack Eaton, was aboard.

Warren Hamm finished fourth on Friday's race and Joey Good did the same on Saturday. Cathy Cavanaugh finished third Sunday when Spencer was fourth. All were representing Macatawa.

Finishing behind Sears Friday were Schadelee, Field and Jimmy Boyd. Saturday, Field, Boyd and Schadelee trailed in that order. Sunday, Field was second again, but Schadelee were switched around.

Holland Youth Seeking $25,000 in Damage Suit

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — A suit seeking $25,000 damages has been filed in Ottawa Circuit Court by Orville Tien, Holland, by his next friend, Alyda Tien, against Earl Barkel, also of Holland.

The suit is the result of a triple fatal accident which occurred June 26, 1953, on Butternut Dr. at Pine Creek, when Barkel's car left the road on a curve and crashed into a tree.

Tien claims he was hospitalized for a month and suffered permanent injuries. John Fendt, 17, Duane Lyons, 20, and Douglas Hazebrook, 21, all of whom resided in the Holland vicinity, were fatally injured.

WASHINGTON (Special) — Congressman Gerald R. Ford, Jr. will hardly catch his breath after adjournment before he's off for Europe where he will inspect an Army training center in Germany and confer with NATO officers in Paris headquarters. He's going to squeeze in a quick trip to Holland because "on this first trip to Europe a visit to the Netherlands is a must." The Netherlands embassy is trying to arrange an interview with Queen Juliana, if her summer schedule permits.

The young Grand Rapids Republican wants to see for himself the military essentials of our European operations as a part of his job on the Army appropriations subcommittee.

He'll be welcomed in West Berlin by an old traveling companion Major General George Honnen, the commanding officer, with whom Ford took his Far East trip some years ago. The NATO conference with General Alfred Gruenther and others is tied in with his work on foreign aid appropriations subcommittee.

On his return in about 10 days, he will take the family for a short visit with relatives at White Lake and the rest of the summer they will be "as usual" at Ottawa Beach.

In an interview, the Michigan Republican looked back over what had been in this first session of the 84th Congress and said "my greatest personal satisfaction came in upholding the President's judgment in the size of the Army required during this peace time."

Because of his familiarity with Army costs, the congressman realized the financial savings involved when an Army is reduced by 75,000 men. "It's estimated each man in uniform represents an outlay of $55,000 a year."

For those who worry that its dangerous to reduce our striking power, he gives this analysis of four factors:

1. Today we have the highest ratio of combat forces to total strength ever assembled in peacetime. "We are ready."
2. Today our allies have been made strong with our equipment aid and so the original idea of that reducing the number of American troops is beginning to be effective.

3. Reserve forces bigger and more efficient.

4. Over last 10 years our firepower has increased by 84 percent. Our mobility by 1000 percent and our communications improved so much an individual soldier, with the same amount of equipment, can communicate twice the distance.

Ford summed up "it's been a good session with more cooperation between the two parties than ever expected."

HEAVY WORK—A 6 foot, 1 inch youth worked a long hard day Thursday loading empty pickle crates on trucks at the H. J. Heinz Co. By quitting time at 4:30 p.m. he was glad to call it a day. The youth is learning all about the operations of the Heinz pickle plant the only way it can be done — by actually doing every phase of work. Why? He is John Heinz III, 16-year-old son of H. J. Heinz II, president of the Heinz Co. And like his father John is starting to learn company methods at the Holland plant. (Sentinel photo)

Like His Father, He's Starting at the Bottom

A 16-year-old Pittsburgh, Pa., youth arrived in Holland earlier this week to learn something about his father's business from the ground up.

The 6 foot, 1 inch visitor is working a regular shift—from 7 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. each day.

Thursday he spent the day from early in the morning until quitting time loading empty pickle crates on trucks.

Nothing unusual about that. His name—John Heinz III, son of H.J. Heinz II, president of the far flung Heinz enterprises.

John will spend the month of August in the city. His work at the local plant will cover every phase of operations from the time the fresh pickles arrive until they are packed and shipped.

One of the reasons advanced by plant officials why John is working here is that pickles are one of the main 57 Heinz varieties and the Holland plant is the biggest single unit pickle and vinegar plant in the world.

John is the fourth generation of his family to start in the business as an ordinary laborer.

His father, some 25 years ago, started out in the same way and at the Holland plant. Plant officials said John's father was the fastest "cask roller" and hand capper they had ever seen.

Years back operations were largely manual. The workmen had to roll the heavy barrels of pickles into the plant. The present company president quickly learned how to roll the barrels and could really move them.

Johnny is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wade at 282 West 12th St. Larry said they consider him one of the family in all their activities.

John will return to school at the end of August.

Library Adventures

—Arnold Mulder

The United States government, so Washington informs us, has issued an injunction against the sale of one national farm magazine to another, on the ground that it would "tend to be monopolistic." "The Farm Journal" had made a bid for the purchase of "Better Farming," intending to consolidate the two publications, making it a magazine of truly national scope.

The government says "No," at least to the extent to which a temporary injunction can pronounce that word on such a deal. Washington believes that the sacred principle of competition is jeopardized by such a "monopolized" deal.

Perhaps it is: the courts will have to decide. But journalism, like literature, follows life. American farm life, like American life in general, is vastly different from what it was when the laws governing monopoly were passed in the nineteenth century. And farm journalism, and the literature about rural America, are bound to respond to that change.

When the laws were passed under which this suit is brought to prevent a "tendency to monopoly" America was largely a nation of small farms, each of them more or less an isolated unit. Today the farms of America are knit into a complex pattern, each depending on all, and all depending on the support of each. Just as in those days the industrial worker was an individual who had to do his own bargaining with an employer, so each farmer was a tiny rural businessman who individually faced the economic power of what was symbolized in the term "Wall Street."

This had its effect on both farm literature and farm journalism. In literature, during the closing decade of the nineteenth century, such books were popular as Hamlin Garlin's "Main-traveled Roads." That book, which to this day remains a historic factor in American farm literature, was a passionate protest against the exploitation of the unorganized farmer by the "Wall Street" forces in the American economy.

There was a rash of other books of the same type. That literature in turn was an expression of a farm movement that became known as the "agrarian revolt." In politics it found expression in such movements as Bryanism.

Today a new "Main-traveled Roads" would not even have a chance to get published. The American farm world has changed, and literature changes with life. And the same thing is true of journalism, if it is at all alive.

In those old days "The Farm Journal" was already doing business. But it was quite a different journal from what it is today. I remember distinctly reading it as a boy on a Michigan farm, when I devoured whatever print I could lay eyes on. It was geared to the isolated farm unit — the unit that used kerosene oil for lamps, cordwood for heat, a wooden pump to get water, a slow horse to travel to the village. "The Farm Journal" was the kind of paper that ministered to the needs of such farms.

Today it is more like a highly organized machine. As a paper it speaks the language of families that take for granted all the equipment of electricity — refrigerators, deep-freezers electric pumps, automobiles, tractors.

Its purchase of "Better Farming" is merely a step in the direction of keeping up with American farm life. The chances are that even the United States government is not powerful enough to stop that so-called "tendency to monopoly."

Fishing, Horses, Sailing Popular Despite the Heat

Children Find Parks Wonderful Spots to Be; Resort Trade Booming

"In the Good Old Summertime." Despite the intense heat that has blistered the Holland area for the past few weeks, most people will admit that it has been a pretty great summer so far.

All the advantages of Western Michigan, which is enjoying one of its best tourist seasons in drawing visitors from all over the nation, lie on the doorsteps of Holland residents.

Take the beaches, for instance. Never have they been mobbed so consistently as this summer.

Out at Holland State Park the attendance has already shot over 900,000 for the season and even that figure can't begin to tell the story.

On almost every weekend this summer, many have parked far outside the park because of a lack of parking spaces. And when they walk in, they aren't counted in the attendance.

Besides, Park Manager Clare Broad has often reported that hundreds have been turned away during a weekend.

Never have there been so many campers at the park. Though last weekend, more than 2,500 had been given permits to push the park far ahead of last year in registered campers.

In fact, the season will undoubtedly set a new record for registered campers with the park's "second oval" operating at full capacity.

The abundance of swimmers has kept life guards working overtime, especially during the weekends when they get little rest.

Then there is boating, which is at an all-time peak throughout the entire U. S. this summer.

It's no different in the Holland area and more people than ever are finding extra money to purchase small boats and outboard motors to go with them.

Following naturally the purchase of a boat is fishing. And those who have made a habit of spending a lot of time out at the piers say there hasn't been a better perch season in a long, long time.

Day after day for many weeks fishers have been catching their limits.

As always, sailing has been popular on Lake Macatawa with its headquarters at Macatawa Bay Yacht Club. Just completed Thursday were the Sears Cup eliminations for junior sailors which drew entries from 11 yacht clubs in three states.

Each weekend, the junior yachtsmen compete in Lightning, Nipper and International 110 races. At the end of the season, a champion in each of the three categories is crowned.

In an increasingly mechanized society, horse shows have stood their ground.

Run off July 30 was the well-known Castle Park Junior Horse Show which drew more than 300 interested spectators.

Aug. 6, the Zeeland Horse Show, is run. It is being revived after a lapse of one year.

There are a lot of other recreational facilities available in the area, too, including water skiing.

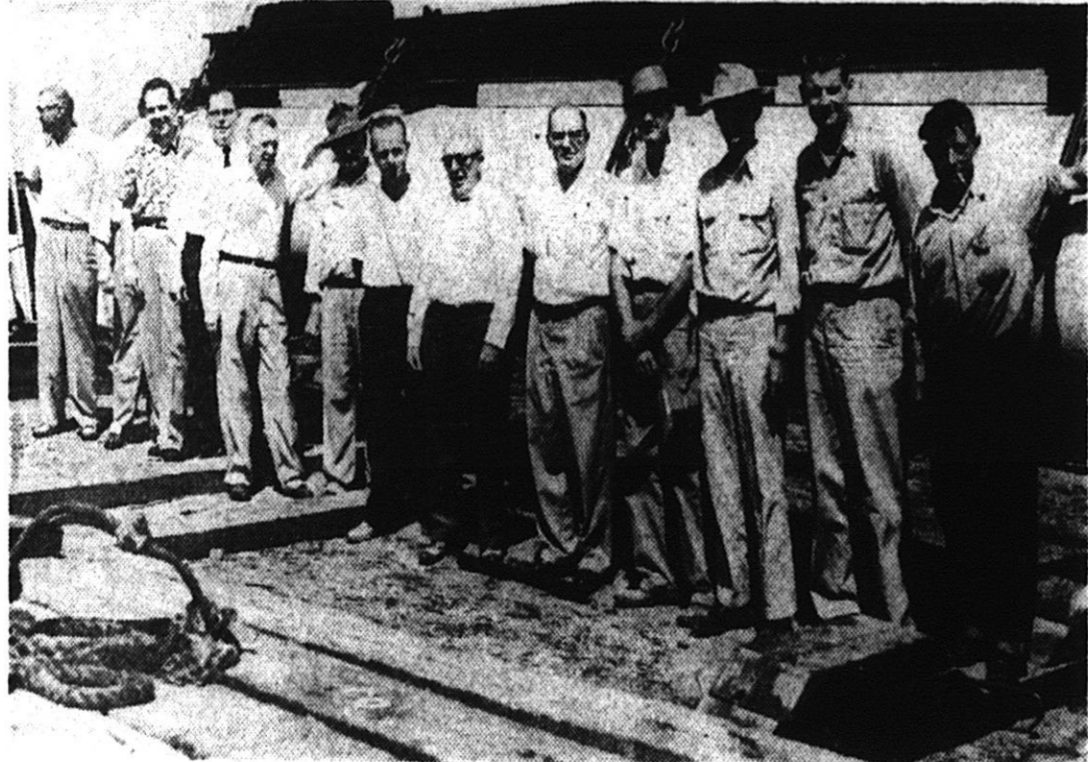

A pair of fine golf courses, the American Legion and Saugatuck, have found that the sport is gaining tremendous popularity, especially among the women.

The city's fine tennis courts have been as busy as always.

To children, summer is the most wonderful of all. There is no school to stand in the way of what they regard as vitally important plans.

Most of them find it so much more enjoyable to have their fun in the sun. It's something they never get tired of until they're forced into bed to rest for the next day.

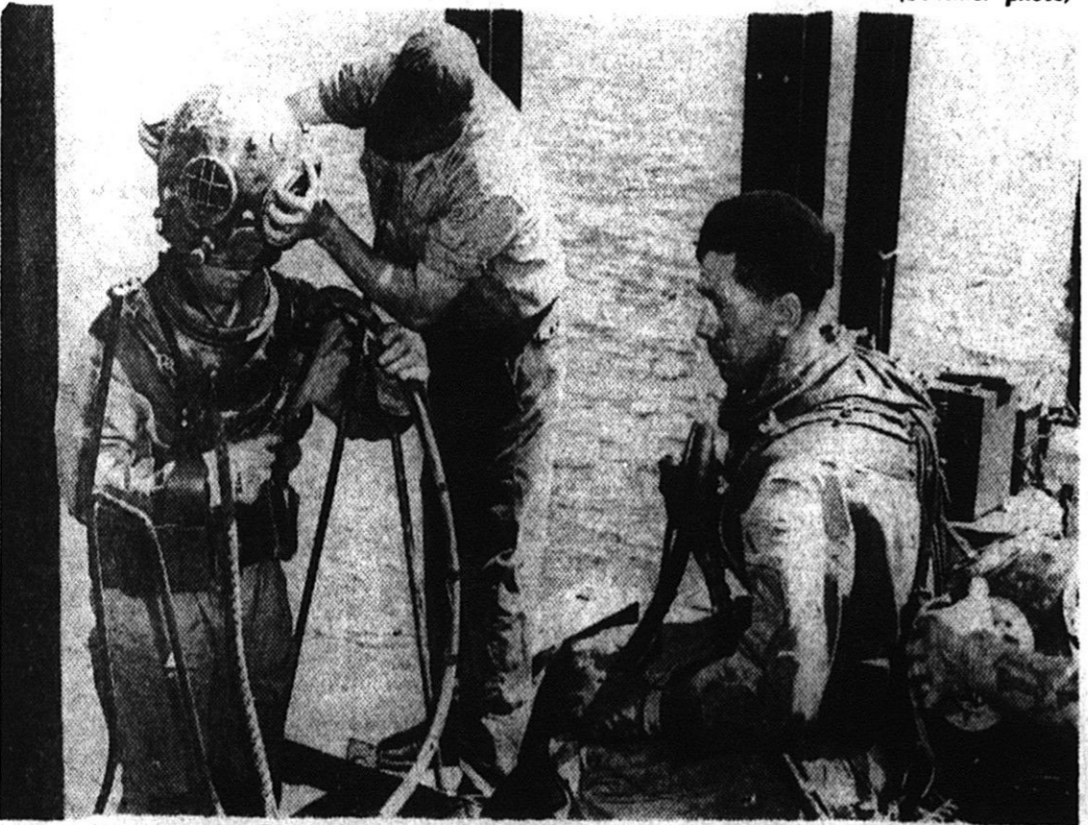

Admittedly, the weather's been "too close for comfort." But that hasn't hindered the summer enjoyment.

BPW Group Gets Look at Intake Line

Holland residents may be complaining about the weather, but the men responsible for laying the intake and drainage lines on the city's new $3 million water project are all smiles from ear to ear.

"Most of the time it's been smooth as glass out here," observed Karl Luedtke, son of the owner of Luedtke Engineering firm of Frankfort, Mich., whose firm has the $283,440 contract to install the intake pipe.

Young Luedtke and workmen on the big derrick in Lake Michigan gave a guided tour last week to members of the Board of Public Works, some city officials and other persons active in promoting the project.

After being taken out to the derrick in a small boat, the delegation saw the crew go into operation, setting the big eight-ton sections of pipe between big steel girders driven 25 feet under the lake bottom.

They saw the 2-man diving team go into action, bolting the pipe sections together underwater with two-foot tie rods. None of them wanted to change places with the diver who was carrying about 130 pounds of equipment—and lead weights.

About 3,200 feet of the 4,240 foot intake pipe have been completed, while work currently is concentrated on the smaller drainage pipe which will extend 400 feet into the lake.

Luedtke normally has a crew of about eight to 10 men on the derrick. A couple men put two of the 16-foot sections of pipe together on deck while the divers work underwater putting the bigger sections together here.

The 36-inch drainage line rests on crossbars attached to the girders. Another crossbar is put over the line, and the girders cut off at that level. The 42-inch intake pipe is laid completely under the surface without the aid of any special steel structures.

With the shot in the arm gained by the good weather the past two weeks, engineers say the intake and drainage lines easily will be finished on schedule.

RECOGNIZING RED CHINA

The treatment of the eleven American fliers should close the door definitely and without reservations to extending diplomatic recognition to Red China. What ever Great Britain does or says or thinks, America just can't "recognize" a nation of savages. Perhaps you think that there is not the ghost of a chance that the United States will give official recognition to this savage outlaw. Don't fool yourself.

There is a considerable pressure for recognition on the part particularly of professors of history and international law. The argument runs like this: Recognition of a regime does not mean moral approval. It merely means that the Reds are actually in physical control of the China mainland. Hence, by recognition, we would merely be saying that we recognize that physical fact.

That was America's traditional attitude until the days of Woodrow Wilson. That president, in connection with the revolution in Mexico, associated the idea of ethical approval with recognition. We should go back to the older American tradition, say the professors.

England also has extended recognition to Red China on that basis. It does not extend approval. It merely "recognizes" a physical situation.

But it is obvious that England does so for purposes of trade. And England is anxious that we shall do the same thing for the same reason.

But again, an honest man does not "recognize" a criminal. If he is truly honest he does not want anything to do with the crook, no matter how profitable association might be. If he can't control or punish the criminal he wants to keep clear of him. Recognition would at least imply association, and America should not want to associate with a nation that brainwashes and tortures its prisoners of war.

As for giving the Chinese Reds a seat in the United Nations — which is an entirely separate matter — if that should happen, all true Americans should withdraw their support from their own government if it voted in favor.

It is time for Americans to say with a loud voice that they will not deal with savages. That voice may not reach Red China but it should at least reach Great Britain.

The Courage of Daniel
Daniel 5:17-28

By Henry Geerlings

Daniel was only a lad, probably in his early teens, when he and his friends were carried to Babylon. The position he took on eating the King's meat and drinking the king's wine shows that he must have come from a good family. There were fine training and character building influences in his childhood home. Already his habits were fixed, his convictions were strong, his self control was impressive. He gives evidence of being well equipped for life through fine home training.

According to the historic record, few Jews have ever risen to such a splendid position of power. Under four powerful kings and conquerors he held a position of high authority. At an early age he was made prime minister of all the satraps in Babylonia and Persia. Not even Joseph as the chief ruler of the house of Pharaoh had anything like the extensive sway of Daniel. He was placed by Nebuchadnezzar over the whole province of Babylon; under Darius he was President of the Board of three to whom all the satraps sent their accounts; and he was continued in office and prosperity under Cyrus the Persian.

Many today feel that we are in the grip of great world movements, gigantic social and political forces which make individual effort of no avail. Man, so self confident a few years ago, now feels powerless and frustrated. We are all but paralyzed by our great problems into inaction. Such an outlook is evidence of a lack of faith. It was not so with Daniel. His words plainly declare that God directs history. Already the siege of Babylon was on. The party of Belshazzar was illtimed. The nation had given itself to the corrupt life. Humility, coupled with toil and sacrifice might have saved it. But pride and revelry had taken their place. So the lord raised up another to carry out His will.

If we think of history as nothing but the strivings of men, as a long record of human mistakes and tensions piling up until a break comes and then a new start is taken we will never understand it. Its record is much clearer if we strive to see the purposes of an overruling providence in it all. Cyrus, the new ruler of Babylon, was destined to be the one to restore the people of God to their own land.

Cyrus had no particular interest in these Jews. He wanted them as a link of buffer state over there in Palestine between himself and Egypt. And that appears to be the greatest thing he ever did.

The narrative of Belshazzar's feast is one of the most dramatic in the Bible. It has the elements of high tragedy, the revelry of a royal banquet, the desecration of sacred things, jittery king, the dignified queen, the calm prophet of God, the fall of a city and empire — these are here in moving drama.

The banquet was a gala affair. The king entertained a thousand nobles of his realm together with the royal harem. A special feature of the occasion was the use of the sacred vessels brought years before from the temple at Jerusalem. The writer emphasizes by repetition that these holy things were twice desecrated, by their use at a heathen banquet for drinking wine and by their use in making toasts, as it were to pagan idols. The drinking of wine and its blurring effects on the revelers characterized the unholy occasion. The whole scene expressed the irresponsible and utterly unspiritual character of the king.

The appearance of the hand and the writing on the wall opposite the table were registered in fear on the face of the king. Trembling he cried out for his men of wisdom to interpret the mysterious message. Their magic and soothing yielded no results. The king was greatly troubled and his lords shared his consternation and dread. The queen suggested Daniel be called. The king acted on this good advice. Daniel was brought in. The king repeated his request and renewed his promise of a reward if Daniel would tell him the meaning of the writing.

With quiet self possession, knowing exactly what he wanted to say he spoke as a true prophet of God. He felt deeply the tragic significance of the occasion. He stood in striking contrast to the king. He was calm, dignified, sure of himself, having a profound sense of a divine mission. He declined the king's gifts and promised to interpret the message without reward. Thus a disciplined man of a simple life based on faith in God, spoke the message of God of rejection and doom to a self indulgent, irresponsible, ungodly monarch on the eve of the death of both king and kingdom.

She attended the wedding, however, wearing her gown of sheer dotted white nylon over ice green taffeta.

De Jonge's Single In 9th Conquers Grand Haven, 8-7

ZEELAND (Special) — The Grand Haven Athletics couldn't get the ball far enough away from Howie De Jonge Friday night.

And because they couldn't De Jonge slammed a single in the bottom of the ninth to send Ron Klant in with the run that gave the Zeeland Chix a share of the second-half title in the Southwestern Michigan Baseball League, 8-7.

Ken Wiersma and Mary Goochhouse had singled and Manager Marinus Scheele sent Klant in to run for Wiersma.

Because De Jonge had rammed a home run and single earlier the Athletics decided to give him an intentional pass. But he reached out and rapped off the third pitch to win the game.

Even then, Klant would have been out at the plate if catcher Bill MacPhee hadn't dropped the ball.

The game finished the regular league season for both teams. Zeeland may get the title all alone if South Haven loses to Fennville in the final regularly-scheduled league contest tonight.

South Haven and Holland have already tied for the first-half championship and will stage a one-game playoff at South Haven next Saturday.

The victory gave Zeeland a 5-3 second-half record and showed Grand Haven deeper into the cellar at 3-5.

Zeeland's victory shattered the possibility of all five league teams finishing the second half in a 4-4 tie.

The Chix had to fight all the way and pushed their way to a 7-4 margin with a four-run burst in the bottom of the eighth.

But Grand Haven came back with five hits for three runs in the ninth while only one batter went out. Goochhouse, however, took the pressure off by getting the next batter to ground out and striking out the last man.

Goochhouse had entered in the fifth for starter George Pierson who had allowed two straight singles to start the inning.

Pat Kamhout went all the way for Grand Haven and was pounded for 11 hits by the Chix.

Zeeland scored in the second on Tony Diekema's double and Junior De Jonge's single, and Grand Haven tied it up in the third.

Howie De Jonge pounded his homer in the bottom of the frame with Marv Goochhouse on first to shove the Chix to a 3-1 bulge.

Grand Haven scored another run in the fourth and used three hits for two runs and a 4-3 lead in the fifth.

That was all the scoring until the eighth when a walk and four straight singles by Howie De Jonge, Gene Talsma, Diekema and Ted Boeve gave Zeeland a 7-4 lead.

The standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Zeeland	5	3	.625
South Haven	4	3	.571
Holland	4	4	.500
Fennville	3	4	.429
Grand Haven	3	5	.375

Braces, Suspenders, Servillete, Napkin Make It Rather Confusing

By Nell Salm
NORFOLK, England, July 29 — Dear Friends in Holland: "How nice that you're going to England!" people told me before I left home. "At least you won't have any language difficulties."

After a fortnight (two weeks) in Norfolk I can smile at that innocent assumption. English as spoken in Great Britain and United States English are not the same language. Let me give you a few examples.

"What a lovely backyard!" was an expression that invariably came to my lips on viewing the beautiful stretches of lawn, garden and grass tennis courts which adorn the grounds of many Norfolk country homes. My hostess usually greeted this intended compliment with a polite smile, but I soon discerned that it did not seem to be the thing to say. I asked my English "mother" about it and was told that a backyard to an Englishman implies a rather dirty stretch of alley, featuring clotheslines and dust-bins (garbage cans). No wonder my hostesses had looked pained!

Then there was the day I heard my "brother" Bruce, say "Mother, where are my suspenders? I can't keep my socks up without suspenders." Obviously, suspenders had a different meaning in England than it has in America. Timidly I inquired, "If suspenders hold up your socks, what do you use to hold up your trousers?"

"Why, braces, of course," was the reply.

I was still puzzled. "Then what do you call the things young children sometimes wear over their teeth to make them grow straight?"

"Those are frames," explained Bruce patiently, as if to a very young child.

I had hardly recovered from that bout when we walked into the dining room for dinner. Somewhere I had heard that the British had another word for "table napkin." Just to play safe I pointed at my linen napkin and inquired of Bruce, "What do you call that?"

"We call it a table napkin," he said. "You call it a servillete, don't you?"

"No," I giggled. "We call it a napkin. I thought YOU called it a servillette."

At that point we should have known better than to pursue the matter further. But Bruce went on. "Actually," he said, "I prefer the term servillette. Napkin sounds too much like 'nappy'."

I looked blank. "What's a nappy?" There was general merriment around the table. Bruce seemed embarrassed. "Oh, you know," he tried to explain. "What a baby wears!"

"Don't you call that a diaper?" I asked in surprise.

"Diaper" seemed to be the funniest word any of my family had ever heard. Our lesson in linguistics ended in a chorus of laughter. "Diaper!" said Bruce, wiping the tears from his eyes. "Fancy calling a nappy a diaper!"

Motor vehicles also travel under different names here. A truck is a lorry, a bus is a coach. A car is still a car but British cars sport wings, boots and bonnets instead of fenders, trunks and hoods. And incidentally, they run on petrol instead of gasoline.

The list goes on and on. A baby carriage is a pram, a department store is a shop, a barber is a hair-dresser, a drugstore is a chemist's and a hardware store is an ironmonger.

I could extend the lesson but I jolly well think you've had enough for one day.

Cheerio, then, until next week. Your community ambassador, Nell Salm.

Several firemen narrowly escaped injury as they opened the rear door. A steam radiator crashed through the second floor missing the men by only a few feet.

As the fire trucks arrived policemen blocked River Ave. at Seventh and Eighth Sts. to prevent motorists from driving over hoses laid on the street.

Along with the loss in the paint store due largely to smoke and water a refrigerator, stove, and other kitchen facilities upstairs were pretty much a total loss.

Additional safety measures include lighting the steel girders in the water to warn swimmers. Engineers pooh-poohed rumors that strong currents have been dragging people into the area. They pointed out that the 7-8 foot trench is hardly enough to change current directions.

Within a week all excavations in the water near shore will have been refilled, although the swimming ban will remain in force.

Another near fatality on the Tunnel Park beach area has brought a warning from engineers that "No Swimming" signs must be obeyed.

A young girl was rescued by her mother Thursday, after apparently wandering into one of the trenches being dug for installation of the drainage pipe for Holland's water supply system.

According to project supervisors, snow fences with signs were erected just north of the tunnel on the beach. The ban on swimming is effective in the water between the fences.

Chicago Columbia was given a special seamanship prize.

Both teams, however, will represent the Lake Michigan Yachting Association at Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 9 to 11.

Winner at Lake Geneva will go to the Sears Cup finals late in August at Booth Bay Harbor, Maine.

FIRE LOSS SET AT $5,000—The fire department's ladder truck was put to good use at 3:30 a.m. Friday for the first time in many months when fire broke out in rooms above the Selles Paint Store at 178 River Ave. Assistant Fire Chief Dick Brandt (top) and an unidentified fireman scale the ladder to the building top where they were forced to chop through the roof to get at the fire. The fire burned through the metal bottomed second floor in the rear of the rooms and badly scorched most of the upstairs rooms. The prompt arrival of Fire Chief Andrew Klomporens and firemen prevented further loss. The building is owned by Martin Oudemool. (Sentinel photo)

Fire Causes Extensive Stock, Building Damage

A smoldering cigarette was believed to have caused a fire early Friday in rooms above the Selles Paint Store at 178 River Ave., resulting in an estimated $1,000 damage to stock and $5,000 to the building.

The blaze was discovered by an elderly couple who live in an upstairs apartment adjoining the paint store.

Bill Blum and his sister, Lucy Bertsch, were awakened shortly before 3 a.m. by the smell of smoke. Plum called the police station. Officers verified the blaze and quickly turned in an alarm.

The couple was forced to flee their apartment dressed only in their night clothes when the dense smoke made it appear several buildings might be on fire.

The seat of the fire was quickly pinpointed and confined to the rear of the second floor above the paint store which is used by Alcoholics Anonymous for meetings.

The fire burned a hole several feet wide and running the entire width of the store. The intense heat turned the second floor into a steam bath.

Firemen soon shed their heavy coats for relief from the suffocating air.

Tables at the opposite end of the room were blistered by the heat. The newly decorated plastered walls and ceiling were cracked.

Several firemen narrowly escaped injury as they opened the rear door. A steam radiator crashed through the second floor missing the men by only a few feet.

Board Gives Okay On Building Plan

ZEELAND (Special) — Suggestions made by citizens at the annual school board meeting last month were put into a revised building program accepted by the Zeeland board of education Tuesday.

The new program, which will include a new junior high school, ups earlier estimates of the total project to more than $550,000. At the annual meeting some persons recommended programs costing considerably more.

Current plans call for a high school-junior high building on present school property recently acquired from the former Wichers Lumber Co.

The new structure would have a band, room, wood and metal shops, and a home economics center. A new gymnasium was also included in plans.

Effecting suggestions from citizens at the annual meeting, the board suggested adding about seven rooms to the structure for a junior high school.

The board also increased tuition prices from $95 to $100 for elementary students, and from $155 to $167.50 for high school students.

Train Hits Car at Gordon St. Crossing

A truck parked near the road was blamed Aug. 8 for the second accident in recent weeks at the Gordon St. intersection of the C and O railroad track.

The caboose of a slow moving switch engine, backing up, hit a 1953 model car driven by Cornelius J. Lemson, 64, of 277 South Maple St., Zeeland, about 10:30 a.m.

Lemson, traveling east on Gordon St., said he couldn't see the train because of the parked truck, and didn't hear a signal. Damage to the car was estimated at $700.

Witnesses said the train was traveling about six miles an hour, and that engineer Ernest Boyle gave proper signals.

Two weeks ago a semi-truck was struck at the same site.

Hilbink Hurls 3-Hitter, Wins for Holland Hitch

Dave Hilbink pitched a three-hit shutout Friday night as Holland Hitch blanked Elzinga-Volkers, 6-0, in Legion baseball at Riverview Park.

Norm Witteveen led the eight-hit attack with a triple and a single.

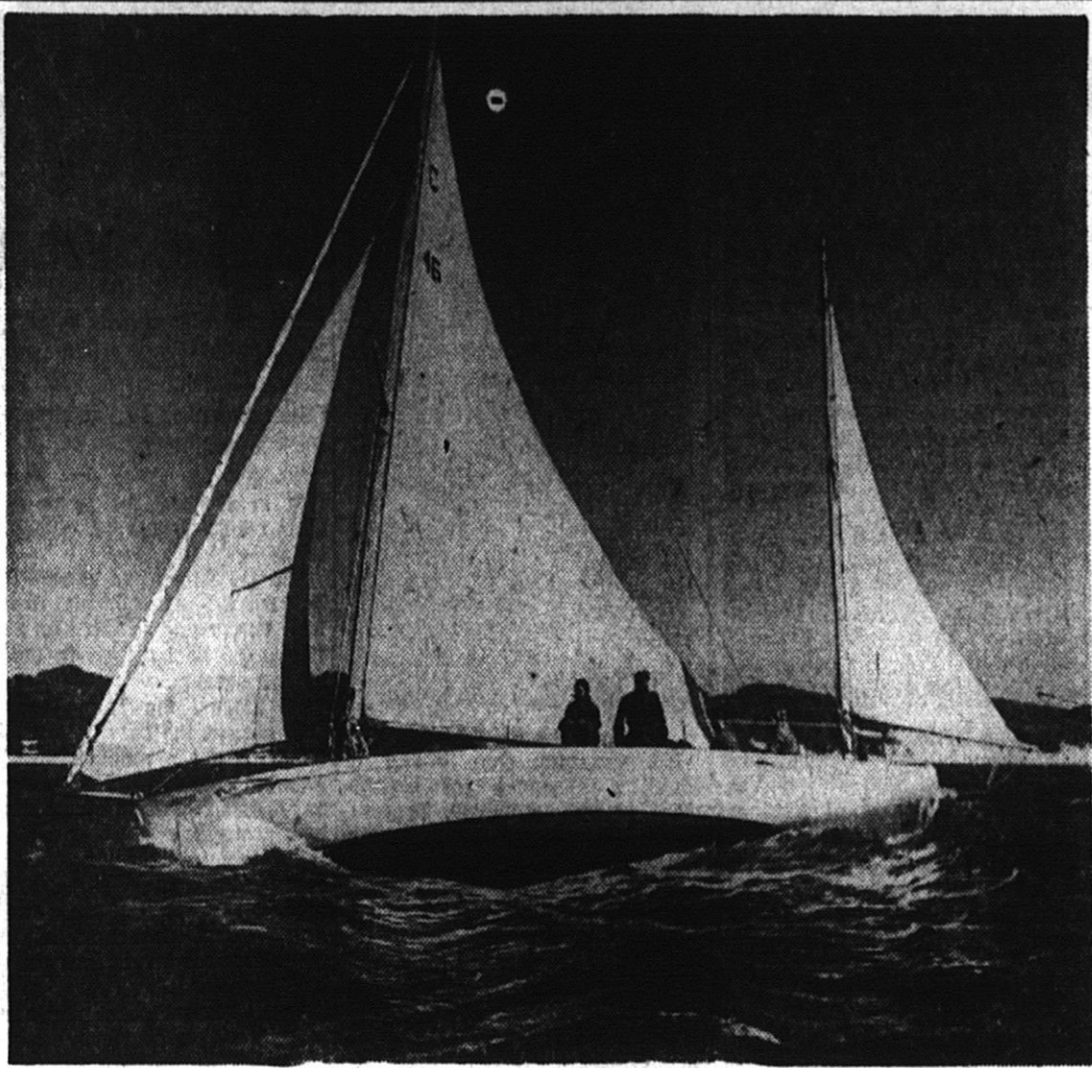

In the other scheduled contest, H.E. Morse forfeited to Padnos.

HOLLAND MAN INJURED—Martin Hughes, 30, of 22 East 16th St., was one of two motorists injured in a three-car accident at 10 p.m. Friday on M-21 five miles east of Zeeland.

Hughes received a fractured left leg and head lacerations. He was pinned in his overturned 1951 model car (above) before Ottawa County deputies pulled him free. The second driver, Lester Schutte, 28, route 1, Hamilton, was treated for lacerations and bruises and released. Deputies said the accident occurred when Hughes started to pass a third car just as Schutte swung back onto the highway after changing his mind about making a left hand turn. Schutte's car was knocked off the road into a ditch. Hughes' car started rolling over and over and clipped the front end of a car driven by Lester Rogers, 41, Bangor. Schutte's 1953 model car was a total loss while damage to Roger's car was minor. (Sentinel photo)

Cool Weather Doesn't Stop the Vacationer

Cooler temperatures and cloudless skies brought vacationers out from under their beach umbrellas and shade trees Sunday, after Saturday's heavy rain. But the cool breezes didn't hamper resort activities, even though Lake Michigan's temperature did take a 20 degree skid from last week's high of 72.

Resorters planned more active fun for the week and lost their fear of heat prostration. The beaches were just as crowded as ever, with a lot of people catching up on the tans they lost last week when Old Sol was too hot for sun bathing.

Hotels and motels in the Holland area are mostly filled, and there is a lot of traffic as August crowds come in to replace the July set at cottages and resorts.

Hotel Macatawa

An art display by the Ox Bow art colony of Saugatuck, opening Tuesday evening in the ballroom, was one of the big attractions at Macatawa Hotel this week. The display will be kept open all during the week.

Another week-long event, interesting many resorters and local residents as well, is the tennis tournament. Final playoffs are expected to be completed this week and awards made during the weekend.

Competing for the men's doubles title are Peter Paulus and Dave Moran vs. Roger Boerema and Paul Schreier. In men's singles, Dave Moran and Peter Paulus are battling it out for the crown.

Barbara Eecker and Joyce Alverson are at the top of the heap in the women's singles playoff, and Miss Eecker is teamed with Amos Stagg against a brother and sister combination, Dave and Nancy Moran, in final mixed doubles competition.

Cap Kramer, owner of the sailboat "Ghost," will entertain visitors with a lecture on the history of the Macatawa area Friday evening just before the variety show, and the Saturday ballroom dance, cabaret style, will finish up the weekend activities at the hotel.

Tunnel Park

Almost 700 Clampton Manufacturing Co. employees will invade Tunnel Park for their annual company picnic Saturday. The park will be busy during the rest of the week, too.

The schedule included the week's first gathering, a party held Monday evening by the members of the Hudsonville Lions Club. On Friday about 140 alumni of Beaverdam Christian School will picnic at the park and the De Feyter family will hold their reunion there on Sunday.

Tunnel Park was busy on Sunday with a lot of swimmers braving the cooler water of Lake Michigan, and picnickers using all available tables and outdoor fireplaces in the grove.

Waukazoo Inn

Guests at Waukazoo Inn will be busy every evening this week with a well-filled entertainment schedule. The days will be taken up with swimming and fishing from the long Waukazoo dock. And water skiing, boating, tennis and horseback riding are always popular daytime sports with Inn guests.

Big news of the week at the Castle will be the Frontier party, Friday evening. The party will be held after the beach supper, on the Dune Top. There will be square dancing and a general Western atmosphere, with a real square dance caller presiding.

A group of Castle Parkers took an all-day canoe trip last Thursday. The 14-mile paddle was made down the Kalamazoo River, with a stop at a half way point for lunch. Besides the youngsters, Mr. and Mrs. Burke, Mrs. Ratcliff and Amby Holford were among paddlers. No casualties were reported during the trip, made in four canoes and a fold boat, although there were several broken paddles and a few of the trippers were soaked to the skin.

Saturday's dance will be held as usual on the Dune Top, and Sunday Vespers will be conducted by Dr. Marion de Velder of Hope Reformed Church in Holland.

Participating in last week's "Fall Preview" fashion show held on the lawn at the Castle were Helen Livezey, Dede Burke, Sheila McLean, Marian Ratcliff, Sally Brown, Colette Curtenius, Alice Agesen, Curt Ratcliff, Kitty Roberts, Marjanne Wierks, Barb Klomprens, Jo Haynes, Marty Saralene Johnson, Judy Rita, Rieki Kim, Laurie McLean, Roger Brown, Prim Wood, Jack Cook and Renfro Sproul.

Other Cincinnati guests are the Kunkels, who are in the Maentz cottage, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Pease who arrive on the 15th of August for a three week stay in the Curtenius cottage.

Kwekel-Phillips Vows Are Spoken

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kwekel

Gary Kwekel and his bride, the former Miss Geraldine Phillips, are at home at 35 Dennis Ave., Grand Rapids, following a Northern honeymoon. The couple was married Friday evening, July 29, in Fountain Street Chapel in Grand Rapids by the Rev. W. C. Lamain. The double ring ceremony was used.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Phillips of 119 East 20th St., and Mrs. Mrs. Arie Kwekel of 1028 Fulton St., Grand Rapids. The chapel was decorated with bouquets of gladioli and delphiniums which adorned the ledge in the back and candles along the sides. White bows and ferns marked the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown fashioned of satin and chantilly lace. The molded basque bodice ascended into a Peter Pan collar with pearls and sequins. Long lace sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The skirt spread into a circling chapel train and a taria of seed pearls combined with iridescent sequins secured her finger-tips of English illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, white streamers and small carnation buds. She also carried a handkerchief, which her great grandmother carried at her wedding.

Carrying a pink hand-painted fan with deep pink carnation corsage and streamers, the maid of honor wore an iridescent blue lace gown with a picture hat with an open crown.

Dressed alike in gowns designed similar to the maid of honor's were the bridesmaids who carried yellow-painted fans with deep yellow carnation corsages and streamers. The flower girl's floor length gown of white dotted nylon featured lace on the bottom of the skirt and gathers in the skirt offset with tiny bows. She carried a basket of white daisies and ferns.

Organ music was played by James Phillips who also accompanied Mrs. Phillips when she sang "O Promise Me."

School Board Ups Tuition Rates From $175-$252

Top Rate Recommended By Special School Finance Study Group

Tuition for non-resident high school students in Holland this year will be $252.04, compared with $175 last year, the Board of Education decided Monday night. This is the legal limit, according to state law.

Decision to charge the maximum was in keeping with a recommendation last June by the Taxation and School Finance Study committee which spent six months in a thorough study of school financial needs. When the report was made public June 8, the committee recommended that the increased figure be carried into effect at the earliest possible time.

But while the new tuition rate is $77.04 more than last year, sending districts will find that a fair share of the increase may be absorbed by state aid. Roughly, the state reimburses the first $75; the sending district pays the next $50 and the state then will reimburse that portion of the minimum tuition rate in excess of $125, provided the district levies at least 8 mills on the state equalized valuation for operating purposes. Should the district levy only 7 mills on the state equalized valuation, the district will collect only seven-eighths of the balance.

Tuition charges for non-resident pupils is mandatory, according to state law, Section 582 reads: "The board of any district may admit to the district school non-resident pupils and shall determine the rates of tuition of such pupils and shall collect the same. Tuition for grades kindergarten to 6, inclusive, shall not exceed 25 percent more than the operation cost per capita for the number of pupils in membership in grades kindergarten to 12, inclusive. Tuition for grades 7-12 inclusive shall not exceed 12 1/2 percent more than 125 percent of the operation cost per capita for the number of pupils in membership in grades kindergarten to 12 inclusive. . . . The operation costs and the membership so used shall be those of the preceding fiscal year. The per capita cost herein referred to shall not be interpreted to include monies expended for school sites, school building construction, equipment, payment of bonds, or such other purposes as shall be determined by the superintendent of public instruction not properly included in operation costs."

Supt. Walter W. Scott listed figures on total operating costs totaling $951,331.72. This figure is divided by 3,118 (total school membership last year) produces a per capita cost of $305.10. This figure increased by 25 percent amounts to $381.37 which thus becomes the per capita cost for high school pupils.

Minimum tuition for high school pupils equals the per capita cost less the state aid allotment of $177 per high school pupil, or $204.37 which then becomes the minimum high school tuition for non-resident pupils. Legal restrictions prohibit charges less than this amount.

Maximum tuition equals the high school per capita cost increased by 12 1/2 percent, less the state aid allotment, and amounts to $252.04. The formula: $381.37 multiplied by 12 1/2 percent equals $47.67; $381.37 plus $47.67 equals $429.04; $429.04 minus $177 equals $252.04.

If a district qualifies on the 8 mills levy for operating purposes, the state will reimburse $154.37 and the district will pay $97.67. If the levy is less than 8 mills, the district will pay correspondingly more per pupil.

Holland city levies 10.10 mills for operation on a state equalized valuation of $43,986.015. In property tax for operation, Holland pays at the rate of $136.98 per resident pupil.

Of the total membership in Holland public schools of 3,118 there are 730 non-resident pupils, leaving a resident membership of 2,388.

Visitors Score 4 Runs in Final Inning of Short Tilt

Holding off a last-inning rally just shy of tying the game, the Flying Dutchmen nipped Battle Creek Behmke, 5-4, at Riverview Park Monday night.

Since Battle Creek was an hour late in arriving the game didn't start until 8:30 and was abbreviated to seven innings.

The Dutchmen had handed Dave Schreur a 5-0 lead by the time he took the mound to pitch to Battle Creek for his last time in the top of the seventh.

He started the inning well by striking out the first batter. After an error put a man on base the pitcher walked. But a force out on the next batter made things look pretty fair with two out.

But four straight hits, including one by Holland's Gene Schrotenboer, who plays first place for the Battle Creek crew, sent four runs across the plate and left men on first and third.

Then Schreur bore down and served one to shortstop Bill Becoske hat he popped up to end the game.

That four-hit burst for Battle Creek made a total of seven safeties compared to Holland's five off two hurlers.

J. Selteneich started but quit the mound in the fifth when he exchanged places with his battery mate, catcher Len Newton. The Dutchmen were unable to touch Newton for a base hit.

But they had unloaded their heavy artillery earlier. In the third they used long triples by Ken Van Tatenhove and Bob Van Dyke along with two walks and a pair of errors to jump into a 4-0 bluff.

Schreur knocked in the last run in the fourth after a walk to Max Doolittle and a single by Ted Schreur.

Meanwhile, Dave Schreur was scattering three hits in the first five innings to hold the lead.

Next game for the Dutchmen is Saturday night when they travel to South Haven for a one-game playoff to decide the first-half champion in the Southwestern Michigan Baseball League.
