H. F. Jesiek Is Reported Drowned

Three Companions
Report He Fell Off
Boat at Saugatuck

Dragging crews of various Allegan County law enforcement units and State police skindivers have reported no success in their search for the body of Harold F. Jesiek, 46, of 2043 South Shore Dr., who is believed to have drowned shortly after midnight when he fell from a boat into Lake Michigan, at the mouth of the channel at Saugatuck.

Jesiek, part-owner of Jesiek's Ship Yard here, was aboard the 38-foot "Sinbad," a converted Coast Guard boat, with three other men and enroute back to Holland when the accident occurred, according to Holland Coast Guard Station Commander BMLC John Leepa.

Leepa identified the three other men on the boat as Kenneth Cartier of Ludington, owner of the boat, Ralph Kalamach of Ludington and Robert Johnson of South Bend, Ind.

The three told Coast Guardsmen that because Jesiek was considered a good swimmer, they thought he swam to land, but a check failed to turn up the missing man.

Leepa said the Coast Guard received a call from Cartier at 2 a.m. reporting the accident, and another call from the Saugatuck police at 2:10 a.m. verifying the report. South Haven State Police reported they were first notified at 5:45 a.m.

The 30-foot Coast Guard utility boat was dispatched to the scene and began searching operations at 4:45 a.m., Leepa said. Also participating in the search are boats manned by Saugatuck police, the Allegan County Sheriff's Department, the Saugatuck Coast Guard Auxiliary, State police, a boat from Jesiek's and several other craft.

The State Police also have four skindivers working in the area. Cartier told Coast Guardsmen he was at the wheel when the accident happened, at 12:15 a.m. and could not see at. Kalamach, Cartier said, was operating the searchlight at the front of the boat as they left the mouth of the channel.

The Coast Guard reported that Jesiek fell overboard from the stern of the boat. Johnson, who was also at the rear of the boat, told Allegan County deputies he does not know what happened.

Allegan County deputies booked Johnson at the Allegan County Jail on a charge of drunk and disorderly.

Cartier told Coast Guardsmen the four had been fishing and were returning to Holland. Leepa said the cause of the accident is still unknown.

Firemen Receive 'A Lot of Training'

JENISON (Special) — Georgetown Township Firemen discovered Wednesday night what happens when persons play with matches. The firemen scheduled a "practice session" Wednesday night. They were supposed to set fire to an old abandoned house in Jenison and then get in some "training" putting out the fire, according to Georgetown Township Fire Chief Howard Lucas.

But the "practice" went farther than they planned on, Lucas said. The blaze spread and raged out of control for a while, endangering two nearby houses and igniting some trees on the property.

Lucas said about 25 men from both Georgetown departments, Jenison and Hudsonville, were on the scene from 7 p.m. Wednesday until about 1 a.m. today, working to keep the fire from spreading farther. "Anyway," Lucas said, "it was a lot of training."

Election Procedures Challenged

City Going Ahead With
All Plans; Primary
Election Not Affected

Petitions signed by 71 property owners in Maplewood area seeking a temporary injunction restraining Holland city from exercising any control or jurisdiction over this area were filed in Allegan County Circuit Court Friday afternoon.

At the same time, an Allegan deputy served copies of all documents on City Clerk Clarence Grevenge in Holland City Hall. The area in question is a 4½-mile plot which voted June 3 to annex to the city of Holland.

Named as defendants are the city of Holland, a municipal corporation; William Bouman, clerk of Fillmore township; the Maplewood Area Citizens Committee, Arthur F. Schwartz, chairman, and George Bishop, co-chairman; the Annexation Steering Committee, officers, Clarence Jalling, chairman; Raymond Kootstra, vice chairman; Henry Kleinhekel, secretary, and E. C. Brooks, treasurer.

The bill of complaint as prepared by Leo W. Hoffman, Allegan attorney, questions the constitutionality of the statute under which the June 3 election was carried out. It also charges that the Secretary of State's office failed to file copies of the petitions with the Fillmore township clerk.

Allegations also point to improper, illegal and unconstitutional delegation of legislative power in view of the fact that by far the greater share of the area is unplatted agricultural lands.

The Maplewood area actually became part of the city of Holland Sunday, Aug. 3, or 60 days after the June 3 election. In view of the fact that the allegations have yet to be ruled on by the court, City Manager Herb Holt said the city will proceed on the assumption that the election is valid and render services to the Maplewood area effective Aug. 3.

No immediate action on a temporary injunction is expected since Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith of Holland is vacationing in northern Michigan.

The petition also asked for a permanent injunction, enjoining Holland city from exercising any control or jurisdiction over the Maplewood area which lies in Allegan county.

Listed as plaintiffs are John H. Schurman, Margaret Schurman, Bernard Eckwielens, Esther Eckwielens, Jacob Boven, Dana Boven, John Scholten, Frances Scholten, Frank Schurman, Fred Schurman, Margaret Schurman, John Genzink, Dana Genzink, Frederick John Schurman, Fenna Schurman, Gradus Geurink, Hazel Geurink, Milton Lower, Janet Lower, Maggie Becksvort, Harry Becksvort, Gerty Becksvort.

Grysen Upsets Vanderbeek

Ottawa county will have a new sheriff Jan. 1, following an upset in Tuesday's primaries in which Bernard (Bud) Grysen of Holland defeated Sheriff Gerald Vanderbeek for the Republican nomination by 84 votes.

The unofficial vote in Ottawa county's 47 precincts gave 3,154 votes to Grysen and 3,070 to Vanderbeek. Avery D. Baker of Holland, third candidate in the Republican race, polled 1,333 votes.

Grysen, 26, who served several years as a deputy sheriff in the southern part of the county under Vanderbeek, currently is vice president of radio station WJBL which he helped organize about two years ago. He is married and has three children.

Grysen's victory was regarded as the greatest upset in county politics in many years. Vanderbeek, who defeated Sheriff William M. Boeve in the 1948 primaries, had held the position for five consecutive terms or 10 years. Previously, no sheriff had served longer than two terms in succession. Vanderbeek was opposed at subsequent elections in 1950, 1954 and 1956. Only in 1952 was he unopposed.

Grysen today thanked the many persons who had worked on his campaign. "After four months of campaigning, the results were most gratifying," he said. "Now it is important that we focus our attention on the November election. We cannot afford to let down. Ottawa county must make its wishes known in the November general election. My pledges of cooperation, efficiency and sincerity will be carried out. Every effort will be made to give Ottawa county a sheriff's department that is second to none."

In the only other race on the county ticket, Henry J. Huismann, 52, Grand Haven's surveyor for 20 years, defeated Sherrill P. Nelson, a former Grand Haven city manager, for the Republican nomination of county surveyor.

The sheriff's vote was heaviest and a total of 8,762 votes were cast in both parties for this office. Other offices polled votes of 7,000 to 7,500.

Election workers, without exception, said it was a long day. Most of them prefer livelier elections. One worker said perhaps the polls should serve coffee in the morning and tea in the afternoon to attract the voters.

As is usual in primaries, the county vote was predominantly Republican. The sheriff's race indicated 7,577 voted the Republican ticket in the 47 precincts and the governor's race listed 1,751 for the Democrats.

U. S. Rep. Gerald R. Ford, unopposed for the Republican nomination, led the county ticket with 6,145 votes. Gov. G. Mennen Williams led the Democratic ticket in the county. Even with opposition, he polled 1,930 votes, a greater number than any unopposed Democratic candidate received.

Despite a long, long day for workers at the polls, the compilation of votes was accomplished quite rapidly. First reports in Holland city came through within 20 minutes after the polls closed. All reports in the county were filed about 11 p.m. Ottawa county is one of the few counties in Michigan to be fully mechanized.

Grand Rapids Man Injured in Accident

Donald G. Hoebeke, 42, of Grand Rapids, was treated at Holland Hospital for a chest injury and a bruised left leg and discharged following an accident Monday at 3:52 p.m. at the corner of 17th St. and College Ave.

Furnace Co. Denies FTC Findings

The Holland Furnace Co. today flatly denied findings of the Federal Trade Commission that the local firm "approves hazardous repair practices in the heating industry, which could expose innumerable people in private homes, public schools and other buildings to the gravest of risks."

A company spokesman said that the firm will appeal to federal courts against an FTC cease and desist order charging misrepresentation by the company largely because of local policies recommending replacement of deteriorated and unsafe furnaces, rather than making temporary and unreliable repairs.

Spokesmen said the FTC order ignores fundamental facts and predicated a series of rules on a minute number of exceptional cases in which evidence is by no means conclusive.

Company spokesmen said these rulings are based on only a few identifiable complaints of dissatisfaction occurring over a period of seven years, a period during which the company made over 40 million contacts with the purchasing public and performed 3½ million individual service orders.

The local firm expressed regret that the FTC has ignored an appeal for a trade practice conference which would establish a code of standards against which heating practices could be fairly judged. The last such conference was held in 1932. Requests for a new conference were first made in May, 1954. The firm contends that the 1932 heating practices rules provide no standards as to when a furnace may be declared unsafe.

As an example, the company cited the Belcher school case in Milton, Mass., one of the instances in which the company was accused of false representation. There the company recommended that two ruptured and seriously defective furnaces 50 years old be replaced rather than make temporary cement repairs. It was proved that resort to unreliable repairs of this type was the direct cause of a fire which took the lives of 14 children in the Cleveland Hill school at Cheektowaga, N.Y. in 1954, less than two months before the complaint in this action was filed.

Further reasons why the company will appeal are:

1. Employment of activities charged is absolutely prohibited by FHA regulations and the regulations of banks which finance Holland's customer loans.
2. Only an infinitesimal percentage of the company's total business was involved in complaints cited by FTC.

Seek Identity Of Prisoner

Holland police today are holding a man who allegedly stole a ratchet wrench from the Sears store and then returned it shortly after for the refund price of $5.98.

Police said he will be arraigned today at 2 p.m. in Municipal Court on a larceny charge. In the meanwhile, they are trying to find out who he really is.

The man stayed at a local hotel Wednesday night as a guest of the Salvation Army when he told them he had no money, and told them he was Charles A. Nivins Jr., 30, of Lima, Ohio.

Today he gave police the same name, but said he was from Chicago. Sears officials reported he gave his name as Whitaker. The police are attempting to check his identity through his fingerprints.

The man was apprehended when Salvation Army Sgt. Major Mannes Nyboer, who had befriended him, saw him in Sears and learned he had given his name as Whitaker. He was then picked up by detectives at the hotel where he had stayed.

Auxiliary Police Conduct Test

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Fourteen auxiliary policemen who form Grand Haven township's civil defense unit will retire Police Chief Lawrence De Witt as their chief conducted an imaginary road blockade Wednesday night in conjunction with the township fire department which had 11 men present.

Hans Suzenaar of Holland, county Civil Defense director, and Deputy Director Dale Bowman, both of Holland, witnessed the test and commended the men for a good job.

The auxiliary police unit has 18 members, but four could not attend because of night shifts. Chief De Witt said it is hard to interest citizens in civil defense because all work is voluntary and cuts into free time. He said CD assistance is necessary in emergencies when other law enforcement authorities are busy with their own work.

The township has four-two-way radios. There also are two fire trucks and a fire chief's car for Clarence Reenders who is chairman of the county committee for Civil Defense.

Resorter Saves One Other Girl

Two Others Make Way
To Shore; Deputies,
Police Recover Body

The body of a Holland girl was recovered from the water at 5:55 p.m. Tuesday, two-and-a-half hours after she drowned in Lake Michigan 400 yards south of the south pier.

The victim was 17-year-old Lynn Anne Winter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Winter, 630 State St.

Coast Guard officials said Miss Winter had been swimming with three other girls, Karen Cumerford, 17, of Allens Dr., Patricia Brower, 17, of 510 Van Raalte Ave., and Karen Eckstrand, 17, of 161 West 24th St.

Winter had been swimming with three other girls, Karen Cumerford, 17, of Allens Dr., Patricia Brower, 17, of 510 Van Raalte Ave., and Karen Eckstrand, 17, of 161 West 24th St.

Ottawa County deputies reported the waves were running more than five feet high and there was a strong undertow.

A Grand Rapids man, William Hardy, who is staying at a cottage nearby and happened to be on the beach, heard the two girls cry for help and went to their aid with a small rubber raft.

While Hardy was paddling out to the girls in the raft, another unidentified man ran to telephone the Coast Guard.

Hardy told Coast Guardsmen he was able to pick up and save Miss Cumerford, but Miss Winter disappeared when he was only about 15 feet away from her.

Miss Brower and Miss Eckstrand, Coast Guardsmen reported, were not as far out in the water as the other two girls and made their way to shore unassisted.

The Coast Guard received the first call for assistance at 3:24 p.m. and within five minutes they had a boat on the scene and started dragging operations.

Ottawa County deputies were on the scene in their patrol boat immediately after, and they were soon joined by boats and crews from Jeisek's Ship Yard and Casey's Landing, all of whom participated in the dragging.

At 4:45 p.m., two local skindivers, Dave Hop, 19, of 1008 Bluebell Ct., and Bob Merrill, 19, of 1214 South Shore Dr., began working underwater from the Coast Guard boat. They were later joined by skindiver Jack Westrate, 20, of 10½ East 15th St.

The body was recovered by a boat manned by Vaudie Vandenberg of Casey's Landing, Holland, Special Policeman Cotton Rogers, Undersheriff Peter Meuwissen and Deputy Ed Kampen.

Medical Examiner Dr. Warren K. Westrate pronounced the victim dead due to accidental drowning.

Miss Winter attended Holland High School for her freshman and sophomore year, completed her junior year at Beard School in Orange, N. J., and was to return there this fall for her senior year. She had just completed a summer course in typing at Fairland High School.

Miss Winter is survived by her parents; two brothers, William G. Winter Jr. and Paul Arthur; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. William G. Winter Sr.; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Visscher; and her paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. John Kools.

Fourteenth Street Church Pastor Installed at Rites

Dr. Simon John De Vries was installed as pastor of Fourteenth Street Christian Reformed Church Sunday morning. The ceremony for the new pastor, 10th since its organization in 1902, took place in the new sanctuary which has been under construction the past year to replace the original church.

Dedication services for the new church will be held later this fall. The auditorium is located on the ground floor, enabling worshippers to enter without any climbing of steps and also is a convenience for elderly people. It also has ready access for wheelchair worshippers.

The Rev. William P. Brink of Bethany Christian Reformed Church who served as moderator, presided at the service and delivered the sermon. The Rev. John Medendorp, former classmate of Dr. De Vries, gave the charge to the pastor and the Rev. John Beebe, emeritus pastor, gave the charge to the congregation. Dr. De Vries brought his inaugural message at the evening service.

The constitory welcomed the new pastor and his family at a dinner last Thursday evening and the congregational reception will be held tonight.

Dr. De Vries was born in Denver, Colo. and was graduated from Calvin College in 1943 and from Calvin Seminary in 1949. During the years 1943 to 1945 he was an officer in Marine Corps Aviation. From 1949 to 1950 he attended Union Theological Seminary at New York and was ordained as pastor at Prairie City, Iowa in October. In 1953 he accepted a call to the North Side Church of Passaic, N. J., and continued work towards his Th. D. at Union.

A Fulbright Scholarship was used on 1955-57 at Leiden University, the Netherlands, where he did research for his thesis "Old Testament Study in the Netherlands for the Past 100 Years." During the past year he was instructor of Old Testament at Drew University Theological School at Madison, N. J. In May of this year he received his doctorate from Union Theological Seminary.

Mrs. De Vries is the former Elizabeth M. Schouten of Grand Haven. She attended Calvin College. The couple have two children, Judith Kathleen, 11, and Garry Peter, 7.

Nienhuis-Conway Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Nancy Jane Conway of Janesville, Wis., and Herman Dale Nienhuis of Zeeland was solemnized at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2, in the Car-gill Methodist Church of Janesville.

The Rev. William A. Riggs read the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Conway, route 1, Janesville and Dr. Nienhuis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Nienhuis of Zeeland, route 2. The church was decorated with white gladioli flanked by candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Italian silk embellished with chantilly lace and seed pearls fashioned the bride's floor length gown. A sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves accented the molded bodice. Her fingertip veil was fastened to a pearl and iridescent headpiece. She carried a white orchid and stephanotis on a white ribbon.

The maid of honor was Miss Janice Hanley of Pittsburgh, Pa. and the bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Miss Carolyn Conway.

They wore sheaths of white lace over taffeta styled with shallow

Dole Nienhuis scoop neckline and yellow Italian silk cummerbunds. Their headpieces were fashioned of horse hair braid accented with seed pearls. Nose veils completed their ensembles. They carried white gladioli and yellow roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Arnold Nienhuis of Zeeland and groomsmen were Alvin Meyers of Zeeland, Robert Miller of Madison, Wis. and Robert Conway seated the guests.

Soloist Mrs. Sherman Heise, cousin of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." Organist was Mrs. William Riggs.

A reception for 100 guests followed in the church parlors. After a wedding trip to northern Michigan and Canada the couple will reside at 417 Lyon St., N.E., Grand Rapids where the groom is an intern at Butterworth Hospital. Australia Interested In City Plan

Planning Consultants Scott Bagby and Bob Boatman have referred to Willard C. Wichers, chairman of the Holland Planning Commission, a letter from E. Hennessy, research officer for the Murray Valley Development League, with headquarters at Albury, New South Wales in the southeastern part of Australia.

Hennessy wrote: "In a Melbourne (Victoria) library, I saw copies of your excellent publication, 'The Area Master Plan for Holland, Michigan.' The executive of the above-named organization, being concerned with regional development, was very interested to know of the work you were doing in the community development field."

The Murray Valley Development League has jurisdiction over "a band of territory some 40 to 50 miles on each side of the Murray River in the upstream states, narrowing to about 25 miles on each side of the river in South Australia. It comprises more than 60,000 square miles and 71 complete local governing areas, besides several areas so far too thinly populated for local government. There are three cities, 11 boroughs and incorporated towns, 57 shires and districts."

Coast Guard Finds Boat Reported Missing

A search was initiated by the Holland Coast Guard Station Sunday at 1 p.m. when Mrs. T. J. Shelby of Grand Rapids reported her husband and his 40-foot yawl, the "Gray Dawn," were overdue on a trip from Rogers City, on the east coast of the state.

All Coast Guard units around the state were alerted to search for the craft, and shortly after 8 p.m. a Coast Guard plane, based at Traverse City, spotted the boat out in the lake north of Muskegon.

A boat from the Muskegon Coast Guard station went out to talk to Shelby, who said he had been forced to lay up for a while because of bad weather. Sears said Shelby had left Rogers City for Holland on July 30.

Hundreds of proud parents in Holland are displaying ashtrays, dishes and assorted knick-knacks which their children created in ceramics classes this summer.

For the past seven weeks, eager young artists were busy molding, glazing and firing their creations in the ceramics rooms at Longfellow and Van Raalte schools. In spite of frustrations and initial failures, almost 500 youngsters managed to turn out several thousand useful and ornamental pieces.

The classes, sponsored by the Holland Recreation Department, were started six years ago. They were previously held only at Longfellow, but the program was expanded this year to include a class at Van Raalte also.

Mary Ellen Skeetee, a sophomore at Kalamazoo College, directed the program for the third year. Carol Elferdink was in charge at Longfellow. She is a sophomore at Holland High School. Helen Joldersma, a sophomore at Calvin College, supervised the work at Van Raalte. Both girls have been active in the ceramics program for several years.

The classes give the children an opportunity to exercise their creative imagination, and they take full advantage of the chance. Some of the most unusual objects which came out of the ceramics classes included a "Purple People Eater" and a gum-holder in the form of a tiny mouse. Of course, there were ashtrays in every shape imaginable, since those are the most popular projects for beginners.

The youngsters taking part in the classes ranged in age from seven to 16 years old. They worked with either molds or free form, with some of the children completing as many as 25 objects. Free form means taking a lump of clay and molding it into the desired shape. The other choice is to buy a piece of "greenware" or plaster mold.

After decorating their pieces of art, the children had the objects fired in a kiln at 1800 degrees. A glaze, giving a shiny, water-proof surface, was then applied with a brush, and the object again fired at 1900 degrees. The firing process takes a full day, for the kiln takes five to eight hours to reach the required temperature and then several hours more to cool off enough to remove the objects.

Many of the youngsters return year after year to become more skilled in making original pieces and doing intricate decorating work. The instructors say that some of the children have been participating six years, since the ceramics program was initiated in Holland.

The classes, which began June 16, are winding up this week as the last pieces are being fired. Children may pick up their completed objects from 9 to 11 a.m. every morning this week.

Board Asked to Add Beds In Allegan Health Center

ALLEGAN (Special) — A recommendation to the board of trustees of the Allegan Health Center that the planned $800,000 hospital addition be increased by 30 beds is now under consideration, according to Mrs. Esther Morris, hospital director. If the 30-bed addition is approved, the hospital expansion would total 90 beds.

The recommendation was made by Joseph Hommiga, deputy director of the Hospital Survey and Construction Department, Lansing, to take care of long-term chronically ill patients. Mrs. Morris stated that there are now no Allegan County nursing home facilities acceptable to health department standards.

The 30-bed addition will be obtained without the solicitation of additional funds. $465,000 has previously been obtained through local subscription.

The architect is now revising his original plans to include the expansion, and it is expected that the revision will be approved by the board of trustees within the month.

The additional 30 beds will be put on the new first floor wing which will run north and south. To do this, the wing will be widened. Mrs. Morris also stated that facilities such as the dietary department, which the board had not originally planned to increase, will now have to be enlarged.

Two departments, not included in the original addition plans, physical therapy and occupational therapy will be added to take care of the convalescent patients. Physical therapy is becoming one of the best ways of curing many diseases and the new facilities will be utilized by the Allegan County Association for Retarded Children, according to Mrs. Morris.

She also said that plans are progressing according to schedule. Bids will be opened in October and the board hopes to begin construction in January.

The local minister is a graduate of Western Theological Seminary and Hope College where he serves as a trustee. Before entering the ministry, Rev. Van Pernis served in World War II for 5 1/2 years with the U. S. Air Force, rising through the ranks to become a major.

Former Holland Girl Directs Scout Camp

A former Holland girl, Miss Christine Denny, who this summer is serving as director of a Girl Scout Camp at Great Lynn, Mass., is acquainting her young charges with camp terms which are used in England.

Miss Denny, who came here several years ago from Surrey, England, is director of the overnight tent unit at Camp Lion in Lynn, where 16 girls arrive each week for four day stays.

The girls have become familiar with phrases such as "Girl Guides" which in this country are Scouts. A troop is a company and a Guide is the equivalent of an American Scout leader with a special rank division.

In programming the girls soon learn that if "wooding" is listed on their chart it means wood gatherers and that when Miss Denny talks about a haybox she is using the English term for what American campers call a "bean-hole."

Miss Denny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Engelsman, 12 1/2 East Ninth St., directs the girls in campcraft and outdoor cooking skills with special emphasis on the patrol system whereby camper groups of five or six girls form a patrol with an elected patrol leader and carry on the meal planning, cooking, firebuilding, primitive site development and general upkeep of the camp site with the guidance of the unit directors.

Miss Denny received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Hope College and her Master of Arts degree from Smith College in Massachusetts. In the fall she will become an instructor in speech and theatre arts at Wheaton College, Mass.

Begging was so rampant in Paris in the 1650s that its streets were "worked" daily by some forty thousand professional beggars.

JEFFERSON'S OUTMODED IDEA

In a $123,320,419 legislative appropriation bill approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee there was a tiny item (tiny in a comparative sense) for three new limousines for three top Senate leaders. Each car will cost $10,700. The leaders to whom they will be assigned free of charge are two Democrats and one Republican; Sen. Carl Hayden of Arkansas, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, majority leader, and Sen. William F. Knowland, minority leader.

Another Republican, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, had the courage to express a doubt about the wisdom of buying $10,700 cars; his idea was that the cars those three senators now use at U.S. expense are less than two years old; he thinks there is still a lot of transportation in them even for senatorial potentates.

The majority membership of the committee made light of the Massachusetts man's economic timidity. What did some $33,000 amount to in an appropriation bill of $123,000,000? Even if it were cut out completely, trained mathematician would be required to figure out the tiny fraction that would be saved.

Saltonstall didn't of course urge that the exalted Senators, Democrats and Republicans alike, should be deprived of necessary transportation. But believing that not one in a million of the taxpayers will be forced to foot the bill can possibly afford cars of half that price and many millions more can't buy a car of one fourth that figure, he argued in committee that a more reasonable figure would be good for the reputations of politicians as well as for the pocketbooks of the tax payers.

He was of course overruled. The dignity of both Democrats and Republican Washington officials must be maintained — at the expense of the people. And then Washington sometimes wonders why the people back home are so demanding.

Back in the early days of the nineteenth century, Thomas Jefferson had quite another idea. Jefferson was truly an aristocrat, socially and intellectually. He was at the time a man of wealth, and he had been elected President of the United States. But as has been repeated times without number, he rode to the inauguration on horseback and he dispensed with a flunky to service his mount; he himself hitched the nag to the fence that surrounded the inauguration stand.

It represented only a "tiny" saving, but Jefferson knew the value of a symbol. All governmental expenditures were to be pitched in that key.

What has become of that Jefferson idea? Lost, lost — and never will it be rediscovered by either Democrats or Republicans.

All the while it seems our dollars shrink in size. It is at least refreshing to find some of our elected officials that at times think about economy.

Do not forget to vote. We think voting is very important. It only takes a very few minutes. We all have the time.

Progress Reported On New Ottawa Jail

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Roy Loving of Georgetown, chairman of the sheriff's committee, reported to the Board of Supervisors Monday that progress is being made for the construction of a new jail. He said the first step of organization was done about two weeks ago and that it will take a lot of study to do a good constructive job.

The first step was to employ local county architects. Loving said he has received hundreds of letters from all over the United States. He said the committee will probably convene in two weeks to interview architects and get their views and ideas and how to proceed in the best possible way.

Justice in Government
Deuteronomy 16:18-20;
Amos 5:12-15; Romans 13:1-7
By C. P. Dame

(Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and used by permission.)

The more one reads the Bible, the more he comes to realize that it contains truths for all manner of people and situations. This book has rules for leaders in the nation and the citizens, for those who have authority and for those who are under authority.

I. God demands justice. And that involves the appointing of justices. It is not recorded in the Bible how the judges in Israel were appointed but it is stated how they should perform their duties, — namely, "they shall judge the people with just judgment." The judges were forbidden to "wrest judgment" or to be partial. No respect of persons was allowed. Neither the poor nor the rich should be favored. The words, "neither take a gift" are especially timely.

The government official who receives gifts from industrialists blunders. In our time some bribes are called gifts and they who receive these gifts say that there are no strings tied to them. However it is usually true that those who give favors are inclined to want favors. A brewing company sends a case of beer to a coach — why? A rich man sends gifts to government officials — why does he do that? The continuity of a nation depends upon its devotion to justice. All manner of injustice offends God and hurts a nation.

II. Christian citizens should speak out. In the days of Amos the prophet injustice and wrongdoing and bribery were common. The result was that the prudent man kept his mouth shut. There are countries where it is dangerous to protest but in our land it is still possible to speak out against evil even though it may involve those who protest into difficulty. It is the duty of a Christian to speak against evil no matter where it is found — in labor unions, in corporations, in communities and even in churches. As citizens and as Christians we owe it to God and the nation to protest. In some instances it is a sin to keep silent.

Amos did not keep quiet. He told the nation what to do in those evil times. Those who do wrong often think that by their wrongdoing they gain. The prophet told the nation that seeking the good and hating evil brings life. This truth needs to be accepted today.

III. Citizens have responsibilities to their government. Christians in particular have a duty to the government under which they live. Paul tells about these duties in Romans 13. The government of Rome was totalitarian. Paul was a Roman citizen and proud of it. Roman officials on the whole were friendly to Paul. A citizen must obey his government. The powers that are, are ordained of God — governments have divine authority. When a government is in conflict with God then a citizen may disobey the government and many Christians have done so. God comes before the state. It is the duty of the government to keep order. Those who obey the laws have nothing to fear but those who disobey have a reason to do so.

Paul calls public officials ministers of God who seek man's good. Great is the responsibility of those who hold public office — some forget all about responsibility and think only of power. For the sake of their office Christian citizens should hold them in honor. This is not always an easy matter to do. It is good to have a deep sense of obligation for then we will render "to all their duties: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honor to whom honor."

Council Tells Treasurer To Collect Back Taxes

ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan City Council Monday night declared that the City Treasurer would go in person to homes and businesses to collect $3,300 in delinquent property tax, which has been accumulating over the past six years. It was the consensus of the Council that a city truck should accompany the treasurer and, as an ultimatum, take personal property in payment.

In the only other business of importance, the Council approved the widening and graveling of Arnold Street to provide better access to the new west entrance to the fairgrounds. Estimated cost is $1,000. The motion was approved on the condition that the fair board finance dust-proofing and contribute $300 to the initial cost of $1,000.

Warns Against Persons Swimming in the Channel

BM-1 Walter G. Sears of the Holland Coast Guard Station Monday issued a strong warning against persons swimming in the channel, or near the entrance and the mouth of the channel.

Several persons, he said, were very nearly struck by boats while swimming in the channel Sunday, and with the continuing heavy boat traffic it is feared that a fatal accident could result.

Knee Injury Ends Timmer's Football Hopes

Midshipman Blaine Timmer has seen his football dreams and desires washed away.

His dream was to be a member of the Navy football team, particularly since the Middies play Michigan in Ann Arbor Oct. 11. And he put forth every bit of desire to make the squad, but a knee injury received in spring drills, has stopped him.

Timmer, a second classman at the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, is presently spending a rest and recuperation leave at the home of his parents following an operation for the removal of his right kneecap.

He has been taking whirlpool baths daily and has been lifting weights, the whirlpool tank was borrowed from Hope College. Timmer must lift 35 pounds before he is discharged from the Navy Hospital. He is presently lifting about 33 pounds.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Timmer, Sr., 323 West 17th St., and his grandmother, Mrs. Peter Timmer, will take the midshipman back to Annapolis Friday.

When he arrives he will immediately be checked in the academy hospital as to the condition of his knee.

Ottawa County Supervisors Slap Clemenishaw Appraisals

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Reports of the Clemenishaw appraisals in Ottawa County at a special meeting of the Board of Supervisors Monday afternoon brought heated protests from a number of supervisors representing rural areas.

But after the smoke had cleared, the board decided to refer the reports to the special appraisal committee and to the equalization committee for a determination on basic policy and resubmit the reports to the board. Each supervisor was instructed to list objections or discrepancies and present them to the Clemenishaw firm for further examination.

These supervisors are then to meet with the special committees before final recommendations are made to the board.

All supervisors were instructed to submit all cards under question to the county clerk at the court house by Sept. 15.

This action was taken after nearly all supervisors in rural areas aized their grievances. The initial report was presented by Albert De Haan of the Clemenishaw firm.

Before the question was thrown open to discussion, George Swart, chairman of the special appraisals committee, reiterated that reappraisals were not done for the purpose of increasing taxes, but rather to establish a uniform assessment throughout the county so that every taxpayer pays his fair share of the tax burden.

De Haan said it is possible certain adjustments would have to be made if some things are out of line. He said the purpose of the work is to provide each assessing officer in the county with the necessary information on a scientific basis. Consideration is given to analysis of sales, depreciation, soil maps, land use and other factors.

The work has been done at a cost of $121,000 to the county. The county is withholding the last 15 per cent until final work is completed.

Expressing protests were Robert Murray of Polkton township, Henry Vermeer of Jamestown, Louis Vollink of Blendon, Clarence Reenders of Grand Haven township, John Hassold of Chester township. Each expressed opinions on explicit questions. Henry Slaughter of Tallmadge township, who long opposed professional appraisals, said he would forget the appraisals.

Chairman Swart said there were 250 to 300 complaints when the county made its first appraisal six years ago. He felt that all difficulties could be straightened out and perhaps some adjustments made.

John Stap, Grand Haven assessor, felt that township representatives couldn't see the forest for the trees, and believed unit rules and schedules must be followed. William Koop, Holland city assessor, said he had made his 14th assessment. When he first took the job in 1945, some property was assessed at 4 1/2 to 5 dollars a foot for certain types, and today these houses are worth three times that much. He said the county's assessed valuation has roughly increased during this period from $50,000,000 to $124,000,000 and few people realize what has happened to land prices in the city or the township.

The Clemenishaw appraisals list a total of $427,247,791 for the entire county, compared with an assessed valuation of $96,605,085 and an equalized valuation of $192,163,815. Holland city is newly appraised at $80,222,318, compared with an assessed valuation of $23,778,370 and an equalized valuation of $39,386,297. This affects real estate only.

At the present time 18 states have right to work laws. Seven states are now working on proposed legislation in an attempt to correct labor abuses brought about by unscrupulous unions, according to Brommer.

In Michigan petitions are being circulated as an initiative process toward effective right to work legislation.

The speaker was introduced by Dan Vander Werf, program chairman.

The invocation was given by Fred Veltman. Second vice president Robert Hall presided at the meeting.

Guests were Ralph De Boer, Bradenton, Fla.; William Wesselink, Storm Lake, Iowa; Arthur Byer and Gene Irvin of St. Louis, Mo.; John D. Farrell, Morristown, N. J.; John Dent, Detroit; Arthur Hasty, Pontiac; Jay De Boer and Charles C. Saur, Grand Rapids; and Loren Wenzel of Holland.

National Right To Work Official Guest Speaker

George W. Brommer, field representative for the National Right To Work committee, was guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club Monday night at Kamp Kiwanis.

A member of organized labor for more than 33 years, Brommer is now devoting full time to the right to work movement throughout the country.

Brommer related some of the evils of unionism under leadership of undesirable labor bosses. He stated under a right to work law the worker is given the only effective weapon against unscrupulous labor unions and that is the opportunity to drop out of unions without fear of job loss.

Right to work laws, Brommer pointed out, outlaw closed union shops and encourages voluntary membership in labor unions.

Park Officer Earl Fonger received a call from the pavilion that two persons were being sucked out to sea and immediately called two off-duty life guards, Glenn Bishop and Dick Poel, who went to the couple's aid in a life boat.

The boat sank after being inundated by heavy waves and the guards took the couple bodily to shore. The man, tentatively identified as Don Blake, no address learned, thanked the guards for the rescue.

Vows Spoken in Trinity Church

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Dull

Trinity Reformed Church with its altar arrangements of palms, candles and bouquets of white gladioli and pompons, was the scene of a wedding on July 26 when Miss Patricia Mary Van Duren, daughter of Mrs. Norris Van Duren, 176 West 28th St. became the bride of Floyd D. Dull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Downing A. Dull, 932 Whitney, Jackson.

The Rev. Harland Steele read the double ring rites at the 3 o'clock ceremony following traditional organ music played by Mrs. William Zonnebelt. Joe Dalman sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bridal aisle was marked with bows and greens. As the bride approached the altar with her brother, James Van Duren, she was wearing a floor length dress of silk bombazine featuring a Rose-point lace bodice with illusion neckline trimmed in sequins and pearls and short shirred sleeves. The bouffant skirt of bombazine had two lace panels at the back with small fabric bows at intervals. The skirt ended in a full chapel train. Her tiny rosepoint half-hat, trimmed in iridescent sequins and pearls, held her finger veil of imported English illusion. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of white glamilias and pink sweetheart rose buds. Her pearl necklace was a gift from the groom.

Ballerina length gowns of aqua blue crystalettes over taffeta with deeper shaded wide cummerbunds and back panels, scoop necks and short sleeves were worn by the bride's attendants. Matching half-hats with nose veils completed their outfits. Mrs. Wilber Husen was matron of honor and Mrs. Wilson Shaughnessy Jr., sister of the groom, and Mrs. Kenneth Butler were bridesmaids. All carried lace fans with pink sweetheart rose buds.

The groom selected his brother, Larry Dull, as best man and ushers were Harold Dull, another brother, and Claude Cooper, Jr. and William Shaughnessy Jr., brothers-in-law of the groom.

Attendants at a reception held in Ter Keurst Auditorium for 100 guests were Miss Ruth Lumbert who assisted with the gifts and the guest book and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. H. J. Vander Heide, aunt and uncle of the bride, who were master and mistress of ceremonies. Serving the guests were Miss Carol Van Duren, cousin of the bride, Miss Betty Mooney, Miss Barbara Juries and Miss Ulla Wagblast. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Van Duren selected a beige lace over taffeta sheath with beige accessories and the mother of the groom wore a gray lace over pink taffeta dress with pink and white accessories. Both had pink glamilia corsages.

An orange three-piece sheath with beige accessories was worn by the bride as the couple left on a northern honeymoon. They will make their home at 1619 Chapin, Jackson where the groom is employed at Stetter's. He is a graduate of Jackson High School. The bride, a graduate of Holland High School, was employed in the office of the H. E. Morse Co.

MORE EXACT EYE TEST — Patrolman Gene Geib (left), is taking a "Telebinocular Vision" test administered by Lt. Ernest Bear of the Holland Police Department. The new instrument, to be used for persons seeking a drivers' license, was put into use Monday. It replaces the numbered and lettered eye chart which was used at the station for 20 years. The "Vision-Tester" is a type of stereoscope and the tests are on stereographic cards which duplicate close-up and faraway visual situations. (Sentinel photo)

New Machine Tests Vision

The Holland Police Department Monday put into use their new "Telebinocular Vision-Tester" as an aid to giving persons seeking a drivers' license a more exact test.

Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff said it is the same machine used by the state to test persons who have failed the normal eye test routine used at most police stations.

The new machine supplants the lettered and numbered eye chart which has hung for some 20 years on the wall at the police station, 12 feet away from the prospective licensees.

The machine is a type of stereoscope, and the tests are on stereographic cards which duplicate close-up and faraway situations. The battery of tests also include tests for vertical balance, lateral balance, depth perception, color discrimination, fusion, usable vision and ability to read and interpret road signs.

Chief Van Hoff said he is also planning to give the test to persons involved in accidents as a double-check on their vision.

Responsive Crowd Grets 'Debutante'

An unusually responsive audience greeted the cast of "The Reluctant Debutante" at its opening Monday night at the Red Barn Theater on US-31 seven miles south of Holland.

James Dyas' professional players did a fine job with the light comedy all about the coming-out of a 17-year-old English girl and the mother's frantic search for eligible men. The work of a professional cast on the English humor brought far more laughs than could normally be expected at an opening.

Of the four scenes, all cast in the attractive living room of a London flat, the cast really got rolling in the last two scenes and the audience rolled with it — in laughter. Let a Anderson, a Macatawa summer resident who appeared earlier in "Visit to a Small Planet" and "The Boy Friend," appeared as the young debutante whose ideas on escorts didn't coincide with those of her ambitious mother, played by Harriet Leigh who exchanged her French accent of last week's "The Happy Time" to a plausible English accent. Jack Donner, who has played everything from hero to grandfather this season, made a convincing father.

Dorothy Lee Tompkins, the leading lady of the Red Barn Theater, relished her secondary role this week as the gossiping friend, aided and hindered by her left-footed daughter whose naive comments spiked some of her mother's juiciest stories. Peggy Pearson played the daughter.

William Cain and Charles Harris appeared as the two Davids, one seemingly highly eligible and the other unacceptable... until events proved otherwise. Cain carried on the hero's role with customary aplomb. Harris got a big round of applause following a particularly funny scene in the last act.

The play will continue through Saturday. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Meanwhile, Producer Dyas is casting next week's production, "The Drunkard," an oldtime melodrama complete with musical acts and other attractions. From 30 to 40 will appear in the cast, including many who appeared in the Junior League Follies here last spring. The audience is invited to hiss and boo.

Indiana Police Halt Car Stolen Here

A car stolen Friday night from the Hart and Cooley parking lot has been recovered by police in Logansport, Ind., because the driver was behaving in a "suspicious" manner.

The man had switched plates on the car, Logansport police said, but under questioning admitted stealing the car in Holland. The 1951 model belongs to James J. Koops of Hamilton, police said, and is now being returned.

Maplewood Playground Not Moved, Just Mowed

Improvements to the Maplewood playground at 35th St. and Central Ave. are contemplated by Holland city, now that the area has been annexed to the city.

A typographical error Monday startled several residents in the area to the effect that Holland city was "moving" the park when it meant to say "mowing" the area.

In addition to mowing the grass and general cleanup, the recreational advisory committee is making a study on what additional playground equipment is needed there. This equipment would come from the $20,000 fund set up by the city and the Board of Education for playground improvements.

Larry Wade is chairman of the advisory committee. Already approved by this committee are $600 for equipment at Lincoln school, $810 at Washington, $1,180 at Van Raalte, $950 at Longfellow, and $700 at Jefferson.

The Maplewood playground is an 11-acre tract set up as a special assessment district within the Maplewood area.

Chandler Says Italians Have Adopted American Customs

By Ronald Chandler
Holland's Community Ambassador to Italy

In this, my third report on my summer's activities, I would like to relate to you a few of my impressions of life in Italy as I have observed it thus far.

Of course, I can by no means claim to be an expert on Italian life and social customs, nor can I say that living here in northern Italy provides me with a perfectly representative picture of the "typical" Italian "mode de vivre."

If what I have seen so far has done nothing else, it has shown me the danger which lies in making broad generalizations about all Italians based on what I see here in Biella. For this reason, I must limit these observations to those things which I have seen and experienced.

In my last article, I mentioned the fact that Biella was an exceptionally rich city for its size. One of the manifestations of this wealth is an attempt on the part of many of the more well-to-do citizens to copy American methods and customs.

After I had been here for several days, I began to notice how "Americanized" Biella is in comparison with the other communities which I have seen in this vicinity. A good example of what I mean can be found in the way many people here have furnished their homes. I have seen a number of apartments in which the decor has been very obviously modern American. Last night, I was a guest at a party in the home of a local banker, and his luxurious apartment could easily have been mistaken for a similar accommodation in a Manhattan penthouse.

There are other rather obvious overtones of an increasing influx of Americanisms. For instance, one of the first things I heard when I arrived in Italy was an American rock-and-roll tune, and I've heard little else since. This, to me, is a most disappointing phenomenon. I was told by an Italian girl that American popular music is the favorite of most Italians of the younger generation.

Another sign of American influence can be found in the way many university students try to ape the American collegiate look.

These are just a few examples of the type of similarities which I have found between the Americans and the Italians. But these are very trite and superficial similarities, and reveal little of the real Italian way of life. Suffice it to say that people are basically the same the world over, but it is the difference between one culture and another which creates the most interest, and I have found a number of such differences.

Coming to Italy, as I did, with many typically American misconceptions about life in Italy, I was quite taken back at first by the large amount of formality which exists here. This formality is mostly limited to the middle and upper classes, but here in Biella, where a large percentage of the populace is either wealthy or belongs to the professional groups, this formality is virtually impossible to escape.

For example, I would not think of sitting down to dinner without a necktie and either a sport jacket or a suit. There are a number of other such formalities which are to be observed very carefully.

One of the things which I have found to be quite different and also very interesting is the Italian manner of dating and courting. In Italy, when a young man wants to ask a girl out, it is not possible for the girl to accept until the boy has been introduced to her parents. If the hopeful young fellow meets with the parents' approval, he may take the girl to a movie, a dance, or perhaps to the beach for a picnic. But in no case will the couple go anywhere alone. Regardless of their destination, couples in Italy always travel in groups of about eight or 10 people.

If a boy and a girl are seen holding hands on the streets or in any public place, it can mean only one thing — they are engaged. And it is only when a couple is engaged that they dare to venture forth without the accompaniment of six or eight other persons.

From what I've been able to find out, students don't do much dating, at least not the serious students. Student life for people of college age in Italy is generally too confining, and about the only social activity that the ordinary student here has is an occasional dance.

My Italian brother, for example, spends nine months of very concentrated study each year in Milan, and he says that while he would like to have more time for social functions as the American students have, he cannot get away from his very demanding schedule. However, I feel that Italian students are generally more intelligent, better informed, and more versatile than their American counterparts as a result of their extra efforts.

Since most, if not all, students in fields of higher learning have state scholarships, Italian students, as a rule, do not hold outside jobs to make extra money as so many American students do. This lack of outside employment means that a student usually has nothing to do during the summer except play and relax.

Consequently, most of my friends here in Biella are very athletic, and are very fond of such sports as football (European variety), swimming, field and track competition, mountain climbing, skiing and camping. I have also noticed that the young people of Italy seem much more physically fit and ambitious than many of our young people.

One thing which my "brother" and I and our friends like very much to do is to discuss politics. I hope to devote an entire future article to this subject, but for now, it is enough to say that the Italians take their politics very seriously, and some of the most impassioned arguments that I have ever witnessed have been discussions among Italians concerning political developments.

Perhaps the most shocking and unnerving experience I've had here so far was my first ride in an automobile with an Italian driver. I do not wish to leave you with the impression that Italian drivers are reckless, for this is not the case at all. They can be much more appropriately described as fearless.

To drive a car in Italy, all one needs is a good loud horn and a stout heart. There are a few rules and regulations here and there, but they are rarely observed. Last week, I was riding with a friend in the mountains, hurtling around hairpin curves at top speed, and narrowly missing two bicycles, a bus and a priest.

At this time I casually asked the young chap why Italians drive in such an atrocious manner, and he replied that the Italians are a highly individualistic people. They assume that every person will watch out for himself and in this way, everybody will be safe. This may be a convincing argument for an Italian, but I still find myself cringing slightly every time we approach a blind intersection at 50 miles per hour with the accelerator held tightly to the floorboard and the horn blowing full blast.

Before closing, I would like to briefly mention something about drinking habits in Italy. While wine is the "national beverage" here, the Italians use moderation when it comes to consuming this beverage. Every Italian knows his wines, and he also knows what they are intended to be used for. Wine is consumed at the meals in much the same way we would consume coffee or water, but never have I seen a person here who has had too much to drink. An intoxicated person is virtually a social outcast here, and such a person is looked down upon much more so than he would be in many places in the United States.

Sixth Annual Fishing Rodeo Slated Aug. 9

Final arrangements are being completed for the sixth annual Fishing Rodeo sponsored by the Recreation Department and the Holland Fish and Game Club which will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, August 9 at Kollen Park.

Recreation Director Joe Moran said today he expects a good turnout for the annual event. Nearly 500 Holland area youngsters took part in the rodeo last summer.

Moran said each boy or girl entering the rodeo must be under 17 years of age on the day of the event and those under 10 must be accompanied by an older person at least 18.

Each participant must furnish his own fishing equipment and bait, he said. The tackle is restricted to a single hook and a pole not over 16 feet long. No artificial bait or plug may be used.

Members of the fish and game Club will serve as judges, Moran said, and every fish must be weighed and certified by judges immediately after being caught. He emphasized that all winners must hook and land their own fish, and that all fishing must be done from the shore; the docks will not be used.

Holland merchants will present duplicate awards to the boy or girl who caught the largest fish, the second and third largest fish, the first of each species of fish caught and to the youngest boy and girl catching a fish.

Moran said that more than 15 species of fish have been landed by the young anglers in the rodeo.

TAKING A BREAK—Kenny Cartier, 38, of Ludington, professional diver doing an underwater job last week at Jesiek's Ship Yard, comes up for his hourly break to enjoy a cigarette and a cup of coffee. Discussing the underwater job with him is one of his assistants, Jesiek employe Bill Penna, 24, of 6372 140th Ave. Kenny is pretty helpless in the clumsy, 150-pound divers outfit when out of water, so Bill "takes care" of him. The heavy lead belt lying between them weighs 65 pounds and the shoes Kenny is wearing weigh 35 pounds. (Sentinel photos)

GETTING READY TO GO DOWN—Kenny's other assistant, Jesiek employe Jim Clough, 21, of Saugatuck, is back now with the needed equipment, and our diver gets ready to go back to work. Clough (right) puts the heavy helmet back on Kenny's head and the boys batten it down tightly. The suit is completely waterproof when Kenny goes down. Behind Clough can be seen the radio set with which the boys on the raft maintain constant contact with the diver while he is underwater. Kenny has a small sending-and-receiving set in his helmet.

OVER THE SIDE HE GOES—With the boys helping him keep his balance in the awkward suit, Kenny goes down the ladder at the side of the raft. At the far end of the raft can be seen the motor which keeps a fresh supply of air going down to the diver, who stays underwater each time for up to an hour and a half. Kenny is working on the underwater metal rails used by Jesiek's to pull large boats in and out of the water. Hooked on a large chain and pulled on a dolly riding on the rails, the boats are moved in and out to be worked on or stored for the winter.

BACK TO WORK—Looking like a great bear, Kenny disappears underwater. He is working in about 20 feet of water, putting shims under the supporting pilings and bolting new plates on the track to hold the sections together. The rails have not been worked on since they were installed in 1935. Kenny reports that it is cool and dark down there — "Now I know why they called it Black Lake." Kenny learned his trade from British Navy divers while he was laid up in Capetown, South Africa, during World War II and is the man who tried to set a new underwater record at Ludington.
