Capt. C. H. Manley, of Ann Arbor, only recently appointed commandant of the Soldiers Home, Grand Rapids, has left that institution under a temporary cloud, and Maj. McKee of that city has been appointed his successor. Nepotism on the part of some of the members of the board of managers appears to be the main cause of the trouble.

Sunday afternoon the clouds were gathering south of us, and ardent hopes were being entertained for a refreshing shower. South east from here, in Jamestown and Salem, they had a copious rain. Towards five o'clock lightning struck a barn owned by K. Dijkhuis, in Fillmore, one mile south of the Ebenezer church. It contained between 50 and 60 tons of hay, all of which was destroyed with the building. Loss estimated at about $1,000, with an insurance of only $200 on the barn, in the Kent, Allegan and Ottawa Mutual.

The contract for the laying of the water mains will be completed in about 10 days. There will be a small surplus left from the amount voted last spring and at the request of the water commissioners contractor Mann is now figuring on a method by which the supply of water may be materially increased. As it is, the water supply, especially at this season of the year, is barely sufficient to meet the demands, the daily consumption being nearly 350,000 gallons. And while we may not be threatened with anything like a water famine, still the water commissioners would like to urge upon the consumers the necessity, during the present dry spell, of an economic use of water and the prevention of all waste, in order that there may always be a fair supply for everyone. In these droughty days the wells are pretty well exhausted toward evening, and at the request of the commissioners notice is hereby given that from now on the rules, as to the hours for sprinkling, will be rigidly enforced.

The northern part of this county seems to be infested with a gang of fire bugs. Says the Coopersville Observer of last week: Thursday night four stacks of wheat, the product of 18 acres were burned. On Saturday night a farmer named Martindale lost his farm buildings, along with his hay and wheat, 12 cows, 6 horses and various farm machinery. On Sunday night the barn and outbuildings belonging to Reuben Martin, with all their contents were burned, the wheat estimated at 145 bushels, belonging to Louis Germinquet, who was working the Woodman farm. All these fires were undoubtedly set maliciously.

Saturday afternoon Simon Bos, clerk of the steamer Kalamazoo, received a telegram from the owners of the boat that they had decided not to take her off the Holland route by the end of this month, as was mutually understood when she entered upon this line last spring, but that the boat would continue regularly to make her tri-weekly trips between here and Chicago during the balance of the season. This news was received with much satisfaction by our business men and the public generally, by whom it would have been considered as duplicating the error made by the Mabel Bradshaw last year if the owners had taken the Kalamazoo off the line, inasmuch as the service of that steamer has been mutually satisfactory, thus far during the season.

For the information of the many members of the 25th Mich. This latter place was also selected for a re-union in 1892, the time to be agreed upon by the above named officers. Every survivor of the regiment is earnestly requested to send his address to the secretary in order that the roster may be kept complete.

Historical Reminiscences.

I.

Muskegon County, before its organization in 1869, constituted a part of Ottawa, and the bill setting off that part of Old Ottawa into a separate county was hotly and bitterly contested before the Legislature, by the Grand Havenites of that day. However, the opposition was of no avail and the bill was passed, but for years thereafter it left considerable rankling in the bosom of their neighbors at Grand Haven.

The cleaning up the other day of the debris of the old court house in Muskegon, lately destroyed by fire, brought to light the tin box in the corner stone, with its historical contents. In connection therewith the Muskegon papers have republished an account of the laying of that corner stone, July 5, 1869, which as a historical reminiscence is worthy of notice.

After a detailed account of the festivities connected with the occasion the Muskegon Chronicle in its issue of July 7, 1869, contained the following: "Nothing occurred to mar the festivities of the occasion except the stealing of the cannon by the party of guerillas from Grand Haven, and even this was no serious drawback, for the excitement in regard to the robbery and recovery of the gun kept the people in good order until the gun was brought back by a party of volunteers who went over on the propeller Laketon to capture it."

The circumstances of this raid by the Grand Havenites and the capture of the piece of artillery is thus described in the Grand Haven News of that date: "The gun squad got on board the tug Tempest and early Monday morning commenced to search the city of Muskegon for the 'pop gun.' It was discovered in possession of the Muskegon gun squad, they having just taken it from the warehouse to fire a salute. Quickly taking possession of the gun, our squad, in spite of opposition, conveyed it on board the tug and brought it to this city and fired the morning salute as per programme."

"Immediately after their departure the little burg of Muskegon was thrown into the wildest excitement. Indignation meetings were held in every street, and the entire police force were ordered to duty immediately. Under direction of the sheriff the entire population was placed under the lead of the sheriff and started for this city, completely armed with revolvers, bowie knives, etc., firmly resolved to do or die. They arrived in this city just as our gun squad were cleaning the gun and preparing to return it to the dock for transportation to Muskegon. Our squad good humoredly rolled the gun on board the propeller Laketon, and also a keg of lager beer, and then bid them 'good morning.'"

"When Muskegonites expect to get ahead of the Grand Haven boys, they will have to get up a little earlier in the morning." For the benefit of our Muskegon friends, however, we would say that although the matter was originated as a joke, and on our side carried out as such, yet had our friends of the sawdust village attempted to carry out their threats of 'shooting every man that got in their way,' or to make use of any of the large number of arms they brought with them, the result would have been that the gun would not have been returned to Muskegon, and its would-be possessors would have returned with a large sized flea in their several ears."

That the Muskegonites did not look upon this raid as a mere neighborhood joke, no more than the Hoosiers did upon the raid of John Morgan a few years before, is plain from another clipping of the Chronicle of the same date, giving the proceedings of an indignation meeting of the citizens of Muskegon, held at the court house square Tuesday evening, July 6, 1869, to "give expression, in some degree, to the feeling of the community relative to the cowardly and sneaking manner in which certain citizens of the city of Grand Haven seized and carried away the cannon which had been procured for the celebration on the 5th inst. On motion, Hon. Henry H. Holt was requested to state to the meeting how and from whom the cannon had been procured, etc., which request was complied with in substance as follows:

"That the gun belongs to the state; that upon request of Gov. Baldwin, the Quartermaster General ordered the gun to Muskegon from Kalamazoo; that the gun has been received for by the common council and is to be kept here until ordered away by the proper authorities."

The following resolution was presented and read, and on motion unanimously adopted, viz:

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor of the State of Michigan, placed in the hands of the president and trustees of the village of Muskegon, one brass six pounder field piece of artillery; and

Whereas, on the 5th of July inst., at or about the hour of 3 o'clock a. m., some of the baser sort of the city of Grand Haven did by force wrest the said piece of artillery from Capt. Wells and two of his assistants, who had charge of the same at the time, as they were bringing it out to fire a national salute, therefore,

Resolved, That the president and trustees of said village, be, and are hereby requested to use every honorable and suitable means within their power to apprehend and bring to punishment all persons engaged in the taking and carrying away said piece of artillery; also to prosecute the boat by which it was carried away.

On motion, the secretary was directed to furnish the proceedings of the meeting, to the Muskegon, Grand Rapids and Detroit papers for publication.

On motion, fifty copies of the Muskegon paper, containing the proceedings of the meeting were ordered sent to Grand Haven, and after three hearty cheers for the party who went after and brought back the cannon, three cheers for the steamer Laketon and her crew, for the valuable assistance toward its recovery, and three groans for the contemptible sneaks who seized and carried away the cannon, the meeting adjourned."

The Final Farewell.

We are in receipt of extracts from Sioux County (Iowa) papers, giving a full account of the last farewell meetings held in that locality to the young missionaries that left from here the other week for China and Japan. The exercises were characterized with a feeling of deep interest, and similar to those that were held in this city.

On the evening before their final departure to San Francisco a reception was held at the hospitable home of Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Zwemer, Orange City. Refreshments were served, and an appreciated opportunity was given to a large number of guests to gain or renew acquaintance with the missionaries, and to bid them farewell and Godspeed. It was one of the largest as well as the pleasantest social events in the history of Orange City. Among the names of those present we recognize those of Mr. Isaac Cappon of this city, and Miss Jennie Nyland of Grand Haven, and a score of others, former residents of this immediate locality.

The following poem was written for the occasion by Rev. J. A. De Spelder:

The hour is come! Alas, my heart,
How sad this hour—'ere sadder than we feared;

We part! from precious friends we part,
And soon their less'ning sail has disappeared.

While fade their forms before our sight,
And far and faint their farewell lights are swung.

'T would seem befitting, if to-night
Our silent harps were on the willows hung.

The minstrel at the feast! but here,
Where hands are clasped to clasp no more for years.

What meaneth such 'mid grief sincere,
Or melodies among our falling tears?

How can the harpstring vibrate clear,
When beaded with the frequent coursing tear?

And wherefore swell the sadness drear,
Or lend our aid to plaints full-sounding here?

And yet we think of One, for whom
The cup of grief was filling to the brim.
Who song-attended sought the olive's gloom,
And calmed His soul with singing of a hymn.

We'll tread the footsteps of His feet;
We'll raise our trembling voice in strengthening song.

And—waiting at His radiant seat,
His own courageous mind shall make us strong.

For to the hills of strength we'll look—
The hills, whereon His pierced feet now tread;

We'll drink from mercy's sparkling brook,
And, heaven-refreshed, lift up the drooping head.

The accents of our harp, subdued
And calmly sad, but querulous no more—
Responsive to our better mood,
Shall guide our steps, that part on yonder shore.

Against the shore of last farewells
The ripples pass as peacefully of peace;
The sun-lit sea its rapture tells
To bear the prize our loving arms release.

Thy pride becomes thee, monarch sea!
But cherish well these treasures on thy breast;

There safely let them nestled be,
Until they view the Orient gild thy crest.

And lo! my friends, our glowing hearts,
With loves for mighty wings, fly forth with you.

To hail the bark in Nippon's marts
Or far Cathay's, which now we wave adieu.

Jehovah speed your prow, and bless!
His grace o'er-arch your homes, your work, your lives.

Grant showers of blessings measureless—
Until in evening's twilight each arrives.

Content at home—at home with God,
Arrives with joy, 'neath golden sheaves bowed down.

Arrives with gems from Asia's sod,
To stud like stars the great Redeemer's crown!

Walsh's Drug Store. 8-4w

TWO OPINIONS.

The opinion of Dr. Browne, Surgeon to the Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, appears in the London Medical Press Jan. 8, 1890: "For cold in the head, catarrh, sore throat, asthma and bronchitis, I prescribe Cushman's Menthol Inhaler to the extent of hundreds per annum."

Dr. Bishop, Surgeon to the Illinois Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, writes, Nov. 3, 1890: "I am constantly using and prescribing Cushman's Menthol Inhaler."

These testimonials are from the very highest medical authority; but five minutes use of the Inhaler itself is more convincing. You will find it neat, convenient and pleasant to use, giving almost instant relief. Costs 50c and lasts a year. Guaranteed. A free trial at H. Walsh's Drug Store. 8-4w

Drs. Starkey & Palen's TREATMENT BY INHALATION.

1529 Arch st., Philadelphia, Pa.

The original and only genuine Compound Oxygen Treatment, that of Drs. Starkey & Palen, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen magnified; and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

It has been in use for more than twenty years; thousands of patients have been treated and one thousand physicians have used it, and recommended it, a very significant fact.

The great success of our treatment has given rise to a host of imitators, unscrupulous persons; some calling their preparations compound oxygen, often appropriating our testimonials and the names of our patients, to recommend worthless concoctions. But any substance made elsewhere or by others and called Compound Oxygen, is spurious.

"Compound Oxygen—Its Mode, Action and Result," is the title of a new book of 300 pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent, and a record of surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Will be mailed free to any address on application.

THE BOOK TRUST KNOCKED OUT A Card To The Public.

Some six months ago we began the publication of our reprint of the famous Encyclopedia Britannica in 25 Volumes, which we issued at $1.50 per volume. The price of the English edition always has been and still is $8.00 per volume, and the Scribner edition $5.00 per volume in the cheapest binding.

That the public appreciate so great a bargain is shown by the fact that over half a million volumes of this reprint have been sold in less than six months.

This elegant new edition we still offer at the same price, $1.50 per volume. This is the greatest bargain ever known in books.

Better still, we will deliver the set complete on small easy payments, to suit the convenience of customers.

Remember this is not an abridgement, but the great Edinburgh ninth edition, reproduced page for page, with important articles on American subjects rewritten to date by eminent American authors, and new maps, later and better than in any other edition.

We further announce that we have in preparation three volumes of "American Additions and Revisions," thoroughly supplementing the original work. With these supplemental volumes you will have at small cost an Encyclopedia unapproachable in completeness; a thorough "digest of the libraries of the world," and a complete record of current progress and events.

SPECIAL OFFER.—We claim that our reprint compares favorably with the high priced editions in every respect, and in respect to maps, and strength and beauty of bindings is superior to them. In order that this claim may be tested by a personal inspection we make the following proposition: We will furnish volume I. at 60 cts.—a fraction of actual cost—if sent by express. Add 40 cts. postage if wanted by mail. Amount paid for Volume I. will be credited on price of set when ordered.

AMERICA'S FAVORITE.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL HAS GONE TO HIS REST.

Woe, Hides and Tallow Go Up in Flames—Frightful Death Rate in New York—Suicides in Chicago—Two Men Killed by a Wreck.

AMERICA'S LOVED POET

Is Summoned from This World to the One Above.

James Russell Lowell is dead. His death was caused by an affection of the liver, together with other ailments incidental to his advanced age. The poet was a son of Charles Lowell and grandson of Judge John Lowell, of Newburyport, Mass. The family of Lowells came originally from Bristol, England, and show an excellent record of eminent lawyers and ministers. His home had been in Cambridge in the old house where he first saw the light, Feb. 22, 1819. Mr. Lowell was a graduate of Harvard in 1838, and at that time recited a class poem which attracted considerable attention outside the classic shades of the university and was published in 1839. He studied law in the Cambridge Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1840, and opening an office in Boston commenced the practice of his profession. But his connection with the law was of short duration, and he soon abandoned it altogether and gave his attention entirely to literary pursuits. In 1877 he was appointed Minister to Spain, and in 1880 he was transferred to England. No other ministerial appointment ever gave such widespread satisfaction.

A SPECTACULAR BLAZE.

Burning of a Big Wool and Hide Warehouse in Chicago.

Fire broke out in the seven-story and basement warehouse on the southwest corner of Michigan and La Salle streets, Chicago, and the structure, occupied by H. M. Hosick & Co. as a pelt and tallow factory, was completely gutted. The building was owned by J. W. Oakley and was covered by insurance. Mr. O'Brien, losses $100,000. Mr. Hosick said he valued his stock at $150,000, and it is a total loss by fire and water, fully covered by insurance.

Saloons Opened in India Territory.

A dispatch from Ardmore, I. T., says that under the recent decision of Judge Bryant, to the effect that it is not a violation of the law to introduce and sell beer in the Territory, several saloons have been opened in Ardmore. This decision means a thousand saloons in that country in less than three months if the Government does not take some action to stop it.

Sweltering in Gotham.

Hundreds of New-Yorkers were prostrated by the intense heat. Twelve fatal cases occurred in twenty-four hours. While the mercury reached 94 degrees there, it was 82 in Chicago. The hospitals were overcrowded, and many cases were fatal only because of lack of care.

Rains Help Kansas Crops.

An Emporia special says: A regular flood of rain fell here, 3-10 inches falling in an hour. Specials from various parts of Kansas show rains to have been pretty widespread. Farmers are jubilant, and say that the rains have made a good corn crop certain.

Yellow Fever in Hayti.

A Port-au-Prince dispatch says it is impossible any longer to conceal the terrifying fact that an epidemic is raging there. The doctors pronounce the disease a complicated pernicious fever—the same thing as yellow fever, or worse.

Wind and Hall Storm in Texas.

Reports from Yokum and Lexington, Tex., state that a terrible wind and rain and hail storm swept over those sections. Houses were unroofed and blown down and stock killed, but no loss of life was reported.

Fatal Smash-Up.

The engineer and fireman of an express train on the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad were killed in a collision at Bryant's Siding, Ind. The passengers escaped uninjured.

The steamer Red River arrived at West Selkirk, Manitoba, and reports that during a heavy gale at Elk Island her valuable barge, with 175,000 feet of lumber, was lost.

Pizarro's Remains.

At Lima, Peru, the vault was recently opened in which the remains of Francisco Pizarro were placed in 1841. The body was found well preserved.

The Horrible Wrecker.

Seventeen persons committed suicide in Chicago during five days of torrid heat. Dependency over illness was the greatest cause.

No Rye Must Leave Russia.

A ukase has been issued prohibiting from Aug. 27 the exportation from Russia of rye and rye meal of all kinds and brands.

Will Pay Its Depositors in Full.

The People's Savings Bank, which failed last winter at Atchison, Kan., will probably pay its depositors dollar for dollar, the good crops this year having increased the value of many real estate mortgages upon which money can be realized.

Suspected of Poisoning Their Son.

Willis Lytle, an 18-year-old boy supposed to have been slowly poisoned, died at Providence, Wash. The parents refused to get medical aid, and suspicion was raised that they were poisoning the boy to get property left him by relatives.

STRUCK BY A CYCLONE.

A Circus Tent Blown Down at Washburn, Wis., Killing Two Persons.

A terrible cyclone struck Ashland, Wis. A heavy rain accompanied it, flooding the streets for hours. At Washburn, across the bay from Ashland, the tornado's force was more furious. Prof. Williams' circus tent was blown down and scores of people were injured, but only two were killed—George Debell and Louis Wilson. The animals escaped from their cages and ran wild in the streets. About 60,000 bushels of grain are damaged in the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha elevator. The roof was stripped from the Fifth Block. The Swedish Baptist church was lifted four feet from its foundations and turned around. The Postoffice building collapsed and caught the inmates, but by a fortunate lodgment of timbers they all escaped without injury except two women, one of whom suffered a broken leg and the other a contusion of the head. The roof of the Omaha elevator was dashed into the bay, exposing the stock of wheat to the rain. Loss at Washburn is probably $50,000.

RAN INTO AN OPEN SWITCH.

The Pennsylvania Limited Wrecked Near Palestine, Ohio—One Man Killed.

The New York and Chicago Limited, No. 2, the fastest train on the Pennsylvania system, ran through an open switch and onto a side track in which were four loaded freight cars, one mile east of East Palestine, Ohio. The limited was running about forty-five an hour. The open switch was not discovered until too late to stop the train. The shock as the engine struck the freight cars was tremendous. The freight cars and engine were totally demolished, and Engineer Isaac Ritchey and Fireman William Carney were pinned under the wreck and seriously injured. Elmer Chipp, a resident of East Palestine, who was walking on the track at the time, was struck by the engine and instantly killed. There were forty-three passengers on the train and nearly all were asleep in their berths. They were hurled from their berths and badly shaken up, but none was seriously hurt.

INSANE CRIMINALS ESCAPE.

Nine of Them Overpower Their Keepers in the Auburn Hospital—Six Recaptured.

At Auburn, N. Y., while two attendants were absent at breakfast, the insane criminals in ward 6 of the State Hospital overpowered the two remaining keepers, stabbing one of them five times, took the keys, went out, locked the keepers in and escaped. There were nine of them. The alarm was not given until the two attendants returned an hour later. Then the citizens turned out for the hunt and up to noon six of the convicts had been recaptured. One was caught while demanding breakfast of a woman. A citizen grappled with him and was getting the worst of it when the woman produced a revolver, enabling the citizen to capture the man.

BUSINESS IS DULL.

The Feeling of Confidence, Nevertheless, Distinctly Increases.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

With business in many lines disappointingly dull, the feeling of confidence nevertheless distinctly increases. The belief increases that the country will be able to sell such vast quantities of grain abroad, and to draw so heavily on foreign supplies of capital, that all home industries will be greatly stimulated. Monetary difficulties are still in the future, for though at some Southern points money is tight, supplies at Western centers are adequate for legitimate business, and mere speculation goes less help than usual. Depression in some great industries continues and is real, but may be traced to causes obviously not permanent.

THREATENED WITH FLOODS.

Mexican Towns in Danger of Being Swept Away—Crops Destroyed.

Heavy rains have fallen incessantly since the 15th of last month in the grain-producing districts of the State of Vera Cruz. The Rivers Pasaloapan and San Juan have been forced over their banks, and extensive farming tracts are under water. All crops in consequence are reported to be a failure, and the situation in that part of the republic is desperate. Cotton has been heavily damaged, and the city of Tlaxiotalpan is threatened by the rivers, which are increasing in volume, and the people residing there fear a total destruction of the place, as has happened there in previous years.

MOBBED THE JEWS.

Russian Farm Laborers Loot Hebrew Shops and Kill Three Victims.

Advices received give another illustration of the hostility against the Jews in Russia. The last instance occurred at Elizabet-Grad, on the Ingol River. Several thousand farm laborers, small land owners and others engaged in agricultural occupations marched into town and proceeded to the Jewish quarter. The terrified Jews made frantic efforts to hide themselves from their enemies. Amid cries of "Kill the Jews!" thousands descended upon the shops and dwellings, driving the owners from them and plundered them of everything valuable. What was not worth stealing was destroyed. Some resisted and three were killed.

AFRAID OF HIS GUNS.

The Populace of an Ohio Town in Fear of a Desperado.

Cashier Maple, of the Exchange Bank, of Columbus, Ohio, had just opened up for business when a man appeared with a revolver in each hand, and without further introduction commenced shooting. Maple was struck twice, not seriously; the robber secured $1,300 from behind the rail, and meeting a farmer named Van De Mark, shot him fatally and passed outside. Many citizens, attracted by the firing, had assembled, but, at the muzzle of the desperado's guns, they cleared the streets and allowed his escape.

WILLIAM CODY'S REMAINS FOUND.

The Grave of Buffalo Bill's Father Accidentally Discovered.

In an old dismantled burying-ground near Leavenworth, Kan., known as Mount Aurora Cemetery, by chance the remains of William Cody, Sr., father of "Buffalo Bill," were exhumed by workmen quarrying in the place. The remains were incased in an iron casket and were found to be well preserved, notwithstanding they were buried over thirty-five years ago.

SUGAR WILL GO UP.

Treasurer Sears Says the Trust Is Not Negotiating with Sprockels.

Treasurer Sears, of the sugar trust, says that there were no negotiations going on between the sugar trust people and Claus Sprockels. "There is nothing new," he added, "and the price of sugar is going up."

CLOUDBURST IN PENN. YLVANIA.

Houses and Factories Inundated and Business Practically Suspended.

A cloudburst occurred between Harrisburg and Rockville, Pa., and caused Paxton Creek to rise so rapidly that the railroad tracks and many houses in South Harrisburg were flooded. Several factories were inundated and operations were suspended. Trains on the Pennsylvania Railway ran through several inches of water for two or three hours.

WRECKED BY A LANDSLIDE.

Disastrous Accident on the Rio Grande Road at Debeque, Colo.

A passenger train on the Rio Grande Junction Road was wrecked at Debeque, Colo. The train had just entered a deep cut when a huge mass of earth slid down upon it. The engine and baggage cars were demolished, but the other coaches were only thrown upon their sides and not damaged badly. All of the passengers were more or less shaken and bruised, but no one is reported seriously injured.

FURY OF A STORM.

Lightning Kills Two Persons and Sets Fire to an Elevator.

A terrific storm of thunder and lightning broke over Morden, Man., and raged furiously for several hours. The grain is down in bad shape. Lightning struck the dwelling of a farmer named Daniel Martens, about three miles from Morden, setting fire to the house and instantly killing Mrs. Martens and stunning Mr. Martens and six children.

SNEEZING TO DEATH.

Miss May Creston a Victim of a Strange Affliction.

The physicians of South Charleston, a village twelve miles east of Springfield, Ohio, are completely baffled by the case of Miss May Creston, who is literally sneezing to death. She seems to be the victim of a strange nervous affliction and with the lingering effects of a severe case of the grip, with which she was afflicted last winter.

CRASH AT CINCINNATI.

Failure of the Blymyer Ice Machine Company—Liabilities, $300,000.

The Blymyer Ice Machine Company of Cincinnati assigned. Capital stock, $600,000; liabilities estimated at $300,000. The failure resulted from lack of ready money and their funds being tied up in unfulfilled contracts.

DE LEUVILLE A BANKRUPT.

Mrs. Frank Les'le's Would-Be Admirer in Financial Dilemma.

The Marquis de Leuville, who has from time to time acknowledged the soft impeachment of betrothal to Mrs. Frank Leslie, despite that sprightly lady's denial that such tender relations existed between them, has been declared a bankrupt.

A Prisoner's Daring Leap for Liberty.

At Denver, Col., Juan J. Weeks, a United States prisoner, escaped from his guards by jumping from the window of the United States court room over the postoffice. Weeks had been sentenced by Judge Parker to imprisonment in the House of Correction at Detroit, and was in company of Deputy Marshal O. W. Brown. Weeks made a dash for liberty, throwing a handful of pepper in the Deputy's face as he ran. The crime for which he had been sentenced ten minutes before his escape was complicity in piano frauds in Omaha, Kansas City and Denver.

Comrades of the Battleground.

From St. Louis, Mo., George E. Dalton, Commander of the Comrades of the Battleground, has issued his first order. All who served ninety days against the Southern army, who were so wounded on the field of battle as to prevent further service, or who were captured by the enemy and were unable to complete the ninety days' service, are eligible. The life membership fee is $3, which covers the cost of a certificate and badge. Commander Dalton will soon appoint recruiting officers to get in the 200,000 eligibles.

Shot by a Negro.

A desperate duel took place at Norfolk Landing, Miss. The principals were D. B. Shaw, manager of R. H. Shaw's plantation, and a negro named Reed. They had a dispute about the length of time the negro had worked. The negro shot Wall in the right side. Wall emptied his revolver at the negro, then reloaded and fell dead. The negro went to the earth at the same instant, one of the balls from Wall's pistol having passed through his body. His wound is regarded as mortal.

Weathered the Gale.

The steamship S. E. Sheldon passed Port Huron, Mich., with the schooner Saveland in tow, the Saveland having lost her foresail, forebooms, two jibs and fore and main gaff topsails. The schooner S. J. Huff arrived in tow of the F. L. Vance, she also having lost her fore and main sails and staysails in same gale. The steamer Lockwood and schooner Zach Chandler are hard aground at the lower end of St. Clair Canal.

Work on a Ship Railway Suspended.

Work on the Nova Scotia ship railway is suspended by orders cabled from London. There is no failure of contractors or company, as has been reported, but in the present state of the money market the company was not able to float its remaining securities without a sacrifice which it deemed unnecessary. As soon as the present financial crisis passes work will be resumed.

Condition of New England Crops.

The effect of the recent dry and cool weather on New England crops has not been favorable. It is, however, too late in the season to greatly damage the crops as a whole. Potatoes are about made and are turning out very well. Tobacco is promising, and will doubtless be satisfactory unless injured by early frosts. The hay has all been secured and in good order.

Named Their Candidate.

John Selts, of Seneca County, was nominated for Governor of Ohio by the People's Party Convention at Springfield. The party demands the abolition of national banks as banks of issue, government control of railroads, liberal pensions for soldiers, the suppression of gambling in futures and the election of United States Senators by popular vote.

Lively Election Contest in Guatemala.

Recent advices from Guatemala say that the contest over the election of President is raging fiercely. Resort Notes.

A very pleasing program is out of an entertainment for the benefit of Mr. J. H. Alliger, the efficient director of amusements at Ottawa Beach. It will be given this (Friday) evening, in the new amusement auditorium.

A lady from New Haven, Conn., purchased a cottage site at the Park, Monday. She is the first representative of the "Nutmeg State" to appreciate the superior advantages of Macatawa Bay.

Ald. L. G. Dunton, of Grand Rapids has purchased a lot at Ottawa Beach and will build a handsome ten-room cottage at once.

Frank Belknap rescued J. B. Bandry of St. Louis, Mo., from drowning at Ottawa Beach, Tuesday.

Ralph Dutton, carpenter and joiner of Grand Rapids, is planning a cottage for some Chicago parties, which when constructed will outvie anything at the Park.

Pedro parties are beginning to be quite popular.

Ottawa Auditorium is the name given to the summer theater now completed at the Beach.

The other night the ladies at Ottawa Beach enjoyed themselves by holding an old-fashioned quilting party, in the dining room of the hotel.

Preparations are being made for an exhibition of Mrs. Jarley's wax works next Monday evening, at the Beach.

The local attendance at the resorts continues good. Every year their attractiveness is more and more realized by our home people.

Rev. Bartell and Mr. J. Stryker of Grand Rapids each caught a large eel the other day, opposite Central Park.

The old-time cat-fish appears to be more numerous this summer than it has for several years. Some specimens have been caught this week that weighed over 30 pounds.

Great preparations are being made for the celebration at Ottawa Beach on Labor Day. A large crowd is expected.

Judge Severans and family of Grand Rapids are enjoying a few days at Ottawa Beach.

Mr. A. D. Esler, of Grand Rapids has purchased a lot at Ottawa Beach. He will build a cottage at once.

Messrs. Jas. A. and Chas. A. Coye and Mr. Sherwood, of Grand Rapids have erected some very fine cottages on the lake front, Macatawa Park.

A large number of Grand Rapids young people attended the Tuesday evening Hop at Hotel Ottawa.

The Odd Fellows Lodges of the Valley City, will give an excursion to Ottawa Beach in the near future.

The resorts are receiving a great many people every day, and the season may be said to be at its height. The bathing grounds are filled every afternoon.

A special train will leave the Beach after the performance of "Cinderella" this (Friday) evening.

The printers of Grand Rapids have accepted a challenge to play the iron maulers of that place a game of baseball at Ottawa Beach on Labor Day.

Saturday evening, as the Life Saving crew were performing their usual duties, a lady rushed into the station and reported that a small boat had been capsized out in Lake Michigan, and that she could distinctly see the unfortunate victims clinging to a red and white object. Some of the crew went out to inspect, and found it to be a floating log with no human being within one half mile. The lady is very much chagrined, and proposes to make war on opera glasses.

When we visited Capt. C. Gardner, U. S. A., at Fort Wayne, Detroit, last week, he was putting the finishing touches on his report to the war department of his inspection of the Michigan militia at their state encampment last month, as to their drill, discipline and instruction, their field life and the arrangements and methods of the encampment. The salient parts of this report can be found in the Detroit Free Press of the 11th inst. It is a document marked for close observation and the directness with which men and matters are reviewed, defects pointed out and remedies suggested. Says the Free Press: "Some of the Michigan boys may not like his straightforward but forcible criticisms, but it is just such inspections and criticisms as this that will best stimulate the material spirit among the Michigan soldiers and go far toward bringing them into line as among the finest companies, regiments and brigades among the national guardsmen of any state in the union." The captain, with his two sons, are at present spending a twenty-days leave of absence on Lake Superior.

Ex-Senator Ingalls will sail for Europe the latter part of this month on the Dutch steamer Veendam. He will land at Amsterdam, and will spend the winter in the Holy Land and on the Nile.

The Michigan crop report for August shows that the average yield of wheat per acre as estimated on the first of this month is, in the southern counties 17.96 bushels; in the central counties 13.19 bushels, and in the northern counties, 11.3 bushels.

The following epitaph is copied from a tombstone in a graveyard down East:

Mary Ann my wife lies here to rest,
With her head on Abraham's breast.
It is very nice for Mary Ann
But rather tough on Abraham.

A FORTUNE

Inherited by few, is pure blood, free from hereditary taint. Catarrh, consumption, rheumatism, Scrofula, and many other maladies born in the blood, can be effectually eradicated only by the use of powerful alteratives. The standard specific for this purpose—the one best known and approved—is Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the compound, concentrated extract of Honduras sarsaparilla, and other powerful alteratives.

"I consider that I have been

several hundred dollars' expense, by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and would strongly urge all who are troubled with lameness or rheumatic pains to give it a trial. I am sure it will do them permanent good, as it has done me."—Mrs. Joseph Wood, West Plattsburgh, N. Y.

Dr. J. W. Shields, of Smithville, Tenn., says: "I regard Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best blood medicine on earth, and know of many wonderful cures effected by its use."

"For many years I was laid up with Scrofula, no treatment being of any benefit. At length I was recommended to give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a trial. I did so, and about a dozen bottles, was restored to perfect health—weighing 230 pounds—and am now a believer in the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—James Patsy, Mine Boss, Breckenridge Coal Co. (Limited), Victoria, Ky.

"My niece, Sarah A. Losee, was for years afflicted with scrofulous humor in the blood. About 18 months ago she began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking three bottles was completely cured."—E. Caffall, P. M., Losee, Utah.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Go to Ottawa Beach with the children and see "Cinderella" Saturday afternoon.

The marshes and low grounds along the line of the C. & W. M., between here and Grand Haven are being run over by forest fires and much timber is destroyed.

At a meeting this week of the board of directors of the First State Bank it was decided to adopt the plan drawn by architect W. T. Johnson, of Muskegon, for the new bank building. It provides for three stories, with tower, and a frontage on Eighth street of fifty feet, and is to be of stone and brick. When completed it will be the finest building in the city.

As yet no developments have been reported of the investigations made by Mr. Garnsey, the accountant, engaged by ex-county treasurer Gibbs to overhaul the books of that office during the four years he was the incumbent thereof. The finance committee of the board of supervisors held a meeting at the county seat Tuesday, to consider an opinion submitted to them by Pros. Att'y Danhoff on the legal aspects of the shortage, and to take such steps as will enable them to make a satisfactory report at the October session of the board.

Supervisors E. J. Pruim, G. W. Shears, J. V. B. Goodrich and J. W. Norrington have about completed the task assigned them by the board of supervisors of our county at its late session, to collect such statistical information and other facts as will serve to show that in the equalization of the property of the several counties of the state by the state board of equalization, five years ago, the property of Ottawa county has been rated proportionately much higher than that of other counties, and unjustly so. The facts collected bearing upon the case will be presented by them to the state board of equalization at its meeting in Lansing next week.

A Pure Baking Powder

A BAKING powder that can be depended upon to be free from lime and alum is a desideratum in these days of adulterated food. So far as can be judged from the official reports, the "Royal" seems to be the only one yet found by chemical analyses to be entirely without one or the other of these substances, and absolutely pure. This, it is shown, results from the exclusive use by its manufacturers of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes which totally removes the tartrate of lime and other impurities.

DR. PRICE'S

ities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no taking powder except the "Royal," the manufacturers of which control the patents under which it is refined.

Dr. Edward G. Love, formerly analytical chemist for the U. S. Government, who made the analyses for the New York State Board of Health in their investigation of baking powders, and whose intimate knowledge of the ingredients of those sold in this market enables him to speak authoritatively, says of the purity, wholesomeness, and superior quality of the "Royal": "I find the Royal Powder composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder, and does not contain either alum or phosphates or other injurious substances."

Prof. Love's tests, and the official tests by both the United States and Canadian Governments, show the Royal Baking Powder to be superior to all others in strength and leavening power. It is not only the most economical in use, but makes the purest, finest-flavored and most wholesome food.

Dr. F. J. Schouten: Dear Sir—About three months ago I bought a box of your anti-rheumatic pills and after using one half of them I find myself in perfect health. Last year I went to Mt. I deem them the best I have used and I have tried nearly everything.

COURAGE.

Wounded! I know it, my brother,
The sword hath pierced thy heart;
Courage! in silent endurance
Play thou the hero's part.

Make no sad plaint or moaning,
Smile as in days before;
Wrap thy mantle around thee,
Cover the bleeding sore.

Fight! yea, fight with God-weapons,
Give blow no blow—but smile;
Head not! step out! march steady!
Tramping the long life mile.

Brother, the road thou'rt treading
Thy Captain Himself trod;
Shrink not, if His order come ringing,
"Forward! the city for God!"

Flinch not, though comrades be falling,
Though loudly death-drums beat;
The buglers of God are sounding
"Forward! and no retreat!"

Pledged to follow thy Captain,
Through good report or ill;
With a cheer take the post set thee,
Rejoice to do His will.

Rejoice, if He think thee worthy
To front the fiercest foe;
And wrap thy cloak around thee,
Thy wound let no man know.

A Heroine of the Lakes.

BY EDMUND COLLINS.

The north shore of Lake Superior, not very far from Prince Arthur's Landing, was a large granite rock, about twenty square yards in area, which stood directly in the line of steamers and coasters passing up and down the lake. It stood only a few feet above the water level, and as eight or ten ships had struck against it on dark nights and in thick weather, going almost immediately to the bottom, the Dominion Government decided to build a lighthouse upon it. The building was made of stout oak timber and the whole structure was secured to heavy stringers, which were bolted and fastened to the rock as firmly as architectural skill could devise. The top of the lantern was made of heavy sheets of copper riveted firmly together; the bars were of hammered steel and the panes, which were diamond-shaped, were of glass nearly half an inch thick. The light was a revolving red-and-white, flashing once a minute, and the machinery was built of steel, brass and Swedish iron, the whole weighing eight or ten tons, stood on the top floor of the tower.

That part of the coast where the island lay was so dangerous and the sea ran so high over the rocks in a gale that the Government sought long for a keeper and could not find one with courage enough to undertake so perilous a duty. But at last Joshua Alcott accepted the Government's offer, taking with him his daughter Gypsy, who was just 16 years old, and all his worldly goods out to the desolate rock. The lighthouse lay about three-quarters of a mile from the shore, but there were not many days in winter that a small boat could land at the rock. Gypsy Alcott and her father moved there in August, when the weather was calm; nevertheless, when the wind rose at night during the first month's residence there, and the sea whooped and boomed about the base of the tower, the father and daughter trembled with dread.

One day late in September the light-keeper and his daughter got into their little boat and rowed to the nearest settlement. The father had some business to do a couple of miles distant in the settlement, and as they hauled the boat up at the dock he said to his daughter:

"Now, Gypsy, I shall be back in a couple of hours, so do not be far from here when I get back. We cannot trust the weather, and it isn't looking very well now." Then he hurried away, and Gypsy ran off to visit some of her friends. She visited three or four houses during the next hour, and then the skies grew dark. Great armies of clouds gathered to windward and trooped across the heavens, and up the lake the storm had struck the water, turning the blue, drowsy surface into racing white-caps. When Gypsy noticed this she started up and exclaimed:

"Oh, the storm is rising, and papa cannot get back before it is too rough to cross the lighthouse. I will row over alone. Someone come and help me to launch the boat." Her friends advised her to remain until her father came, but she said that it was going to be a wild night and the lamps must be lighted.

Three or four of the villagers followed her down to the dock, but when they reached there the wind was whistling and shrieking and the lake between the shore and the island had been already aroused by the wind. One of the villagers said:

"My girl, your boat can't live to reach the island now; look at those white caps. Better wait until our father comes back."

"But it will be worse soon; I want to get off at once; by not one of you," looking appealingly at the group, "row across with me, four oars are so much quicker than two!" But no one responded to her request, and two of them were moving away homeward, when Gypsy cried out passionately:

"I suppose you will help me to launch my boat?" Still they made no sign to assist her, and running impetuously at the boat, she gave it a strong push, which sent it down the spruce ways and into the boiling surf.

"Look here, girl," shouted the oldest man in the party, "no skiff can live out in that sea now; wait for your father."

"It will get worse, and by the time papa comes it will be impossible to go over; I must be there to light the lights," and saying this she pushed the boat off with her pole, then sat upon the thwart, seized her sculls and rowed out into the angry water. She made a very brave picture with the drift of spray driving over her, like a rain-storm, her hair loosened in the wind like a dark flag. The waves rolled so as to strike the boat on the side, so whenever she saw a billow larger than the rest she pulled her little skiff around to meet it head on, and the tiny cockle mounted on its crest like a water fowl. She had had much experience in rowing on the lake in smooth as well as pretty rough weather, so now in the teeth of this fierce gale she handled the oars with a sure, sturdy grip and the boat responded to every pressure of her wrist. The fishermen stood together abashed as they saw the brave girl move further and further out through the roaring storm and drift. They felt ashamed of themselves for their cowardice for refusing to go in the boat with this young lion-hearted girl; but they shuddered as they saw the great white topped billows rolling toward the little boat and every minute threatening to swamp it.

As for Gypsy she had no fear, though the foam swept over her boat in a constant stream, and was half full of water. Any faltering of her nerves would now be fatal, and she kept constantly watching the seas, which every minute were growing more furious, and swinging her skiff around to meet them head-to. The sun had set, and in the gloom which began to gather over the noisy water she could see the rock and the lighthouse not far away looming darkly through the spray. Two or three more shipments of water over the low quarter and then the girl was in the shelter of the rock.

Springing lightly from the bow and carrying the painter with her she ran up to the windlass and drew her boat high out of the water and secured it as firmly as she could. The sea had already commenced to boom against the rock, and at each shock columns of spray were flung up to half the height of the tower on the windward side. The evening was made so dark by the storm that Gypsy knew the light should be lighted at once; moreover, she could just see about a half mile to windward a ship whose course lay along by the island. She tripped lightly up the tower, the wind shrieking by the building, and in a few moments the ruddy light gleamed out upon the sea. Then as the darkness deepened, the ship, showing her lights, passed safely by the ledge under close-reefed sails and Gypsy felt herself all alone in the midst of this wilderness of raging sea. When the great iron weight was wound up and the lantern panes wiped, she set the fans of the balance-wheel to regulate the revolution of the flashes and went down to the basement of the tower. There she laid upon the table some cold lake fowl, bread and butter, and then brewed herself a cup of fragrant coffee.

Before supper was ended she knew the maddened waters had burst over the rock and were striking the tower, for she could feel it quiver. She sat there for nearly two hours reading a book, but the fury of the gale increased constantly and the tower shook so violently under the pounding of the thundering sea that she grew alarmed, and closing her book took her brass lamp and went up to the lantern to look out to sea. She stood upon the trimming path or grated iron footway that ran around inside the lantern. The piercing light shining upon the sea revealed such a state of tumult that her heart almost stopped beating. The waves rolled and foamed and smoked, one after another, moving in ranks toward the little rock like some terrible army. As each one struck it flung up its long arms of cold, white spray, as if grabbing at the tower, then it recoiled backward, like a runner who retreats before making a spring, and reared up again, each time going higher and drawing nearer to the top of the tower. Hour after hour she sat there, spell-bound with terror, and the raving ocean seemed constantly to rise higher and to draw nearer to her. Birds, driven from their rock by the gale, rose upon the murky tempest, flying headlong toward the streaming light, striking the lantern with sharp blows and falling backward stunned or dead. Other birds flew more cautiously toward the lantern and came peering through the pane with wild, affrighted eyes, gently fluttering their wings.

She had not now the courage to go down to the basement, but remained there on the trimming path actually fascinated by the rampant sea. Higher and higher rose the waves till now they began to surge against the waist of the tower, and hogheads of water were flung against the lantern. Under some of the onsets the building quivered from top to bottom, and sometimes fairly reeled. The machinery of steel and brass clattered under a heavy shock, and under the smaller ones rang like a number of little bells. She stood there with her face as white as one of the foamy waves, her hands against the heavy steel bars, looking seaward, and not moving except when she turned to trim a lamp or empty the burnt oil from a brimming save-all. She remained in the lantern till probably an hour before dawn; then the gale swelled into greater fury, and the storm went howling and bellowing past, as if 10,000 condensed spirits had burst loose and went floating by on the hurricane.

The swells grew longer and seemed to roll from the very bottom, and they ran nimbly and noiselessly up the rock, up the tower, and flung their cold, white arms with a swish yet thunderous sound completely around the lantern, almost throwing the heavy machinery from its place at every sail. Then as she still gazed to windward out into the gray drift she uttered a great cry, "Oh, God, deliver me," for she saw a mighty wave towering nearly twice as high as any of the rest, rolling, foaming and storming at its crest, moving toward the rock. As it drew nearer it grew larger and larger, and when it had reached within twenty feet of the light-house it seemed as if the whole lake had gathered itself up for one onslaught upon the rock. She had very little time to wait, for the awful invader combed and curled several feet above her head, and then fell with a crash of terrible thunder upon the tower.

Then the light seemed to go out of her eyes, and she felt as one does in some turbulent dream; she could not tell how anything happened; but the cold lake water gurgling at her lips brought her to consciousness. The tower was in the sea.

It had broken away close to the base, the posts breaking off short and leaving part of the floor still fastened to the rock. The upper part of the tower being heavy—owing to the machinery and the heavy metal work of the lantern—when it fell over into the sea the top sank perpendicularly into the water, the base remaining uppermost, and two of the floor beams still lay across it with some of the flooring.

As for the brave girl, she never knew how it came to pass, but in some providential way she floated upward from the lantern to the base, and when consciousness returned found herself in the midst of the wild sea with a large beam at her elbow. This she at once seized with both arms, holding firmly, and stooping her head when a great wave came breaking over the top of the wreck. At the base of the tower there happened to be a coil of weight rope, such as is usually kept in these light houses, and when the tower tumbled over this remained upon its hook upon the wall. The girl espied it, and putting a coil of it around her waist she fastened it with two half-hitches, and then secured the bight to a stout broken timber above her. Then she lay across the beam smitten by the cruel billows, praying for the dawn. The constant pounding of the waters upon her body began to stupefy her and make her insensible to pain. Then she lay scarcely caring what fate befell her; but through her numb senses she knew the storm was abating.

The tower drifted far out into the lake, and when the sun rose, touching the subsiding waves with yellow gold, her father and her anxious folk on the shore saw the base of the tower bobbing up and down in the waves. Just as soon as it was smooth enough they launched a couple of boats and went out to tow the wreck to shore, the father broken-hearted at what he naturally believed to be the destruction of his daughter, the fishermen sorrowing over the fate of the brave young girl; but think of their joy as they neared the wreck to see her lying fastened to the timber at the base of the tower, her hair floating in the water and feebly raising her arm as she espied them. They unlasher her, took her into the boat and rowed swiftly to shore again. She could not speak on the way and was partly unconscious, but after they had swathed her in blankets and forced a draught of brandy down her throat she revived and told them the terrible story of her experience. The Government did not build another light house upon the rock, and it remains to this day a menace to ships, while Gypsy has developed into a beautiful woman, admired and beloved by everyone for her heroism.

The Dominion Government, in recognition of the brave conduct of the young girl, settled upon her a pension of $1,000 per year for life.—[St. Louis Republic.

THE SAXON HOUSE.

How the Englishmen Lived in Ancient Times.

The house, either in Saxon or Norman time, presented no kind of resemblance to the Roman villa. It had no cloisters, no hypocaust, no suite or sequence of rooms. This unlikeliness is another proof, if any were wanting, that continuity of tenure was wholly broken. If the Saxons went into London, as has been suggested, peaceably, and left the people to carry on their old life and their trade in their own way, the Roman and British architecture, no new thing, but a style grown up in course of years and found fitted to the climate, would certainly have remained. That, however, was not the case. The Englishman developed his house from the patriarchal idea. First there was the common hall: in this the household lived, fed, transacted business, and made their cheer in the evenings. It was built of timber, and to keep out the cold draughts it was lined with tapestry; at first simple cloths, which in great houses were embroidered and painted: perches of various kinds were affixed to the walls, whereon the weapons, the musical instruments, the cloaks, etc., were hung. The Lord and Lady sat in a high seat: not, I am inclined to think, on a dais at the end of the hall, which would have been cold for them, but on a great chair near the fire, which was burning in the middle of the hall. I have myself seen a college hall warmed by a fire in a brazier burning under the lantern of the hall. The furniture consisted of benches: the table was laid on trestles, spread with a white cloth, and removed after dinner. The hall was open to all who came, on condition that the guest left his weapons at the door. The floor was covered with reeds, which made a clean, soft, and warm carpet, on which the company could, if they pleased, lie round the fire. They had carpets or rugs also, but reeds were commonly used. The traveler who chanced to find himself at the ancient town of Kingston-on-Hull, which very few English people, and still fewer Americans, have the curiosity to explore, should visit the Trinity House. There, among many interesting things, he will find a hall where reeds are still spread, but no longer so thickly as to form a complete carpet. The times of meals were the breakfast at about nine; the "noon meat," or dinner, at twelve; and the "even meat," or supper, probably at a movable time depending on the length of the day. When lighting was costly and candles were scarce, the hours of sleep would be naturally longer in winter than in the summer. In their manner of living the Saxons were fond of vegetables, especially of the leek, onion, and garlic. Beans they also had (these were introduced probably at the time when they commenced intercourse with the outer world), pease, radishes, turnips, parsley, mint, sage, cress, rue, and other herbs. They had nearly all our modern fruits, though many show by their names, which are Latin or Norman, a later introduction. They made use of butter, honey, and cheese. They drank ale and mead. The latter is still made, but in small quantities, in Somersetshire. The Norman brought over the custom of drinking wine.—[Harper's Magazine.

Equally Logical.

One of the earlier yeomen of Bridge-ton, Me., was a pumpmaker, a good citizen, but with "no religious preferences." One day he was waited upon by one of the church assessors, who handed him a bill for the support of preaching. "I hain't heard no preaching," said the old man, somewhat surprised. "Well, brother, it's your own fault, then," replied the churchman. "It's been accessible to all every Sabbath for a year." He paid. Not long after the parish received from him a bill for a pump. "We have bought no pump of you," was the answer. "Well, then," replied the old gentleman, with a twinkle in his eye, "it's your own fault, for I have been making them for years."—[Boston Post.

CHEATED BY THE WORLD

TALMAGE PREACHES A POWERFUL SERMON AT TOPEKA.

"Ye Have Sold Yourselves for Naught; and Ye Shall Be Redeemed Without Money"—A Bad Bargain Which Christ's Blood Alone Will Right.

Dr. Talmage preached at Topeka, Kan. The subject of the sermon for this week is, "A Poor Investment," and the text, Isaiah lii, 3, "Ye have sold yourselves for naught; and ye shall be redeemed without money."

The Lord's people had gone headlong into sin, and as a punishment they had been carried captive to Babylon. They found that iniquity did not pay. Cyrus seized Babylon, and felt so sorry for these poor captives that, without a dollar of compensation, he let them go home. So that, literally, my text was fulfilled. "Ye have sold yourselves for naught; and ye shall be redeemed without money."

There is enough Gospel in this text for fifty sermons. There are persons here who have, like the people of the text, sold out. You do not seem to belong either to yourselves or to God. The title deeds have been passed over to "the world, the flesh, and the devil," but the purchaser never paid up. "Ye have sold yourself for naught."

When a man passes himself over to the world he expects to get some adequate compensation. He has heard the great things that the world does for a man, and he believes it. He wants $250,000. That will be horses and houses, and a summer resort, and jolly companionship. To get it he parts with his physical health by overwork. He parts with his conscience. He parts with much domestic enjoyment. He parts with opportunities for literary culture. He parts with his soul. And so he makes over his entire nature to the world.

He does it in four installments. He pays down the first installment, and one-fourth of his nature is gone. He pays down the second installment, and one-half of his nature is gone. He pays down the third installment, and three-quarters of his nature are gone; and after many years have gone by he pays down the fourth installment, and lo! his entire nature is gone. Then he comes up to the world and says: "Good morning. I have delivered to you the goods. I have passed over to you my body, my mind, and my soul, and I have come now to collect the $250,000." "Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars?" says the world. "What do you mean?" "Well," you say, "I come to collect the money you owe me, and I expect you to fulfill your part of the contract." "But," says the world, "I have failed. I am bankrupt. I cannot possibly pay that debt. I have not for a long while expected to pay it."

"Well," you then say, "give me back the goods." "Oh, no," says the world, "they are all gone. I cannot give them back to you." And there you stand on the confines of eternity, your spiritual character gone, staggering under the consideration that "you have sold yourself for naught."

I tell you the world is a liar; it does not keep its promises. It is a cheat, and it fleeces everything it can put its hands on. It is a bogus world. It is a six-thousand-year-old swindle. Even if it pays the $250,000 for which you contracted, it pays them in bonds that will not be worth anything in a little while. Just as a man may put down $10,000 in hard cash and get for it worthless scrip—so the world passes over to you the $250,000 in that shape which will not be worth a farthing to you a thousandth part of a second after you are dead. "Oh," you say, "it will help to bury me anyhow." Oh, my brother! you need not worry about that. The world will bury you soon enough from sanitary considerations.

Post mortem emoluments are of no use to you. The treasures of this world will not pass current in the future world; and if all the wealth of the Bank of England were put in the pocket of your shroud, and you in the midst of the Jordan of death were asked to pay 3 cents for your ferrigno, you could not do it. There comes a moment in your existence beyond which all earthly values fail; and many a man has wakened up in such a time to find that he has sold out for eternity and has nothing to show for it. I should as soon think of going to Chatham street to buy silk pocket handkerchiefs with no cotton in them as to go to this world expecting to find any permanent happiness. It has deceived and deluded every man who has ever put his trust in it.

History tells us of one who resolved that he would have all his senses gratified at one and the same time, and he expended thousands of dollars on each sense. He entered a room, and there were the first musicians of the land pleasing his ear, and there were fine pictures fascinating his eye, and there were costly aromatics regaling his nostrils, and there were the richest meats and wines and fruits and confections pleasing the appetite, and there was a soft couch of sinful indulgence on which he reclined, and the man declared afterward that he would give ten times what he had given if he could have one week of such enjoyment, even though he lost his soul by it. Ah! that was the rub! He did lose his soul by it! Cyrus the Conqueror thought for a little while that he was making a fine thing out of this world, and yet before he came to his grave he wrote out this pitiful epitaph for his monument: "I am Cyrus. I occupied the Persian empire. I was king over Asia. Begudge me not this monument." But the world in after years plowed up his sepulcher.

The world clapped its hands and stamped its feet in honor of Charles Lamb, but what does he say? "I walk up and down, thinking I am happy, but feeling I am not." Call the roll, and be quick about it, Samuel Johnson, the learned! Happy? No. I am afraid I shall some day get crazy." William Hazlitt, the great essayist! Happy? "No. I have been for two hours and a half going up and down Paternoster row with a volcano in my breast." Smollett, the witty author! Happy? "No. I am sick of praise and blame, and I wish to God that I had such circumstances around me that I could throw my pen into oblivion." Buchanan, the world renowned writer, exiled from his own country, appealing to Henry VIII for protection! Happy? "No. Over mountains covered with snow and through valleys flooded with rain I come a fugitive." Moliere, the popular dramatic author! Happy? "No. That wretch of an actor just now recited four of my lines without the proper accent and gesture. To have the children of my brain so hung, drawn and quartered tortures me like a 'condemned spirit.'"

I went to see a worldling die. As I went into the hall I saw its floor was tessellated, and its wall was a picture gallery. I found his death chamber adorned with tapestry until it seemed as if the clouds of the setting sun had settled in the room. The man had lived forty years to the world—his wit, his time, his genius, his talent, his soul. Did the world come in to stand by his deathbed, and clearing off the vials of bitter medicine, put down any compensation? Oh, no! The world does not like sick and dying people, and leaves them in the lurch. It ruined this man, and then left him. He had a magnificent funeral. All the ministers wore scarfs, and there were forty-three carriages in a row; but the departed man appreciated not the obsequies.

I want to persuade my audience that this world is a poor investment; that it does not pay 90 per cent. of satisfaction, nor 80 per cent., nor 30 per cent., nor 2 per cent., nor 1; that it gives no solace when a dead babe lies on your lap; that it gives no peace when conscience rings its alarm; that it gives no explanation in the day of dire trouble, and at the time of your decease it takes hold of the pillow case and shakes out the feathers, and then jolts down in the place thereof sighs and groans and execrations, and then makes you put your head on it.

Oh, ye who have tried this world, is it a satisfactory portion? Would you advise your friends to make the investment? No. "Ye have sold yourselves for naught!" Your conscience went. Your hope went. Your Bible went. Your Heaven went. Your God went. When a sheriff under a writ from the court sells a man out, the officer generally leaves a few chairs and a bed, and a few cups and knives; but in this awful vendue in which you have been engaged the auctioneer's mallet has come down upon body, mind and soul. Going! Gone! "Ye have sold yourselves for naught."

How could you do so? Did you think that your soul was a mere trinket which for a few pennies you could buy in a toy shop? Did you think that your soul, if once lost, might be found again if you went out with torches and lanterns? Did you think that your soul was short lived, and that panting, it would soon lie down for extinction? Or had you no idea what your soul was worth? Did you ever put your fore-fingers on eternal pulses? Have you ever felt the quiver of its peerless wing? Have you not known that, after leaving the body, the first step of your soul reaches to the stars, and the next step to the farthest outposts of God's universe, and that it will not die until the day when the everlasting Jehovah expires? Oh, my brother, what possessed you that you should part with your soul so cheap? "Ye have sold yourselves for naught."

But I have some good news to tell you. I want to engage in a litigation for the recovery of that soul of yours. I want to show that you have been cheated out of it. I want to prove, as I will, that you were crazy on that subject and that the world, under such circumstances, had no right to take the title deed from you, and if you will join me I shall get a decree from the High Chancery Court of Heaven reinstating you into the possession of your soul. "Oh," you say, "I am afraid of lawsuits; they are so expensive, and I cannot pay the cost." Then have you forgotten the last half of my text? "Ye have sold yourselves for naught; and ye shall be redeemed without money."

Money is good for a great many things, but it cannot do anything in this matter of the soul. You cannot buy your way through. Dollars and pounds sterling mean nothing at the gate of mercy. If you could buy your salvation, Heaven would be a great speculation, an extension of Wall street. Bad men would go up and buy out the place, and leave us to shift for ourselves. But as money is not a lawful tender, what is? I will answer, Blood! Whose? Are we to go through the slaughter? Oh, no; it wants richer blood than ours. It wants a king's blood. It must be poured from royal arteries. It must be a sinless torrent.

But where is the king? I see a great many thrones and a great many occupants, yet none seem to be coming down to the rescue. But after awhile the clock of night in Bethlehem strikes twelve, and the silver pendulum of a star swings across the sky, and I see the King of Heaven rising up, and He descends, and steps down from star to star, and from cloud to cloud, lower and lower, until He touches the sheep-covered hills, and then on to another hill, this last skull-shaped, and there, at the sharp stroke of persecution, a rill incarnadine trickles down, and we who could not be redeemed by money are redeemed by precious and imperial blood.

We have in this day professed Christians who are so rarefied and etherealized that they do not want a religion of blood. What do you want? You seem to want a religion of brains. The Bible says, "In the blood is the life." No atonement without blood. Ought not the apostle to know? What did he say? "Ye are redeemed not with corruptible things, such as silver and gold, but by the precious blood of Christ." You put your lance into the arm of our holy religion and withdraw the blood, and you leave it a mere corpse, fit only for the grave. Why did God command the priests of old to strike the knife into the kid, and the goat, and the pigeon, and the bullock, and the lamb? It was so that when the blood rushed out from these animals on the floor of the ancient tabernacle the people should be compelled to think of the coming carnage of the Son of God. No blood, no atonement.

I think that God intended to impress us with a vividness of that color. The green of the grass, the blue of the sky, would not have started and aroused us like this deep crimson. It is as if God had said: "Now, sinner, wake up, and see what the Saviour endured for you. This is not water. This is not wine. It is blood. It is the blood of my own Son. It is the blood of the Immaculate. It is the blood of God." Without the shedding of blood is no remission. There has been many a man who in courts of law has pleaded "not guilty," who nevertheless has been condemned because there was blood found on his hands, or blood found in his room. And what shall we do in the last day if it be found that we have recruited the Lord of Glory and have never repented of it? You must believe in the blood or die. No escape. Unless you let the sacrifice of Jesus go in your stead you yourself must suffer. It is either Christ's blood or your blood.

"Oh," says some one, "thought of blood sickens me." Good. God intended it to sicken you with your sin. Do not act as though you had nothing to do with that Calvinian massacre. You had. Your sins were the implements of torture. Those implements were not made of steel and iron and wood, so much as out of your sins. Guilty of this homicide, and this regicide, and this delicide, confess your guilt to-day. Ten thousand voices of Heaven bring in the verdict against you of guilty, guilty. Prepare to die, or believe in that blood. Stretch yourself out for the sacrifice, or accept the Saviour's sacrifice. Do not fling away your one chance.

It seems to me that all Heaven were trying to bid in your soul. The first bid it makes is the tears of Christ at the tomb of Lazarus; but that is not a high enough price. The next bid Heaven makes is the sweat of Gethsemane; but it is too cheap a price. The next bid Heaven makes seems to be whipped back of Pilate's hall; but it is not a high enough price. Can it be possible that Heaven cannot buy you in? Heaven tries once more. It says: "I bid this time for that man's soul the tortures of Christ's martyrdom, the blood on His temple, the blood on His cheek, the blood on His chin, the blood on His hand, the blood on His side, the blood on His knee, the blood on His foot—the blood in drops, the blood in rills, the blood in pools coagulated beneath the cross; the blood that wet the tips of the soldiers' spears, the blood that plashed warm in the faces of His enemies."

Glory to God, that bid wins it! The highest price that was ever paid for anything was paid for your soul. Nothing could buy it but blood. The estranged property is brought back. Take it. "Ye have sold yourselves for naught; and ye shall be redeemed without money." O, atoning blood, cleansing blood, life giving blood, sanctifying blood, glorifying blood of Jesus! Why not burst into tears at the thought that for thee He shed it—for thee the hard hearted, for thee the lost?

"No," says some one; "I will have nothing to do with it except that, like the enemies of Christ, I put both my hands into that carnage and scoop up both palms full, and throw it on my head and cry, 'His blood be on us and on our children!'" Can you do such a shocking thing as that? Just rub your handkerchief across your brow and look at it. It is the blood of the Son of God Whom you have despised and driven back all these years. Oh, do not do that any longer! Come out boldly and frankly and honestly, and tell Christ you are sorry. You cannot afford to so roughly treat Him upon Whom everything depends.

I do not know how you will get away from this subject. You see that you are sold out, and that Christ wants to buy you back. There are three persons who come after you to-day—God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost. They unite their three omnipotencies in one movement for your salvation. You will not take up arms against the trine God, will you? Is there enough muscle in your arm for such a combat? By the highest throne in Heaven, and by the deepest chasm in hell, I beg you look out. Unless you allow Christ to carry away your sins, they will carry you away. Unless you allow Christ to lift you up, they will drag you down. There is only one hope for you, and that is the blood. Christ, the sin offering, bearing your transgressions. Christ, the surety, paying your debts. Christ, the divine Cyrus, loosening your Babylonish captivity.

Would you not like to be free? Here is the price of your liberation—not money, but blood. I tremble from head to foot, not because I fear your presence, but because I fear that you will miss your chance for immortal rescue. This is the alternative divinely put. "He that believeth on the Son shall have everlasting life; and he that believeth not on the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him." In the last day, if you now reject Christ, every drop of that sacrificial blood, instead of pleading for your release as it would have pleaded if you had repented, will plead against you.

O Lord God of the judgment day! avert that calamity! Let us see the quick flash of the scimeter that slays the sin but saves the sinner. Strike, omnipotent God, for the soul's deliverance! Beat, O eternal sea, with all thy waves against the barren beach of that rocky soul and make it tremble. Oh, the oppressiveness of the hour, the minute, the second, on which the soul's destiny quivers; and this is that hour, that minute, that second!

Some years ago there came down a fierce storm on the seacoast, and a vessel got in the brakers and was going to pieces. They threw up some signal of distress, and the people on shore saw them. They put out in a lifeboat. They came on, and they saw the poor sailors, almost exhausted, clinging to a raft; and so afraid were the boatmen that the men would give up before they got to them they gave them three rounds of cheers, and cried: "Hold on, there! hold on! We'll save you!"

After awhile the boat came up. One man was saved by having the boathook put in the collar of his coat, and some in one way and some in another, but they all got into the boat. "Now," said the captain, "for the shore. Pull away, now, pull!" The people on the land were afraid the lifeboat had gone down. They said: "How long the boat stays. Why, it must have been swamped, and they have all perished together." And there were men and women on the pier heads and on the beach wringing their hands, and while they waited and watched they saw something looming up through the mist, and it turned out to be the lifeboat.

As soon as it came within speaking distance the people on the shore cried out: "Did you save any of them? Did you save any of them?" And as the boat swept through the boiling surf and came to the pier head the Captain waved his hand over the exhausted sailors that lay flat on the bottom of the boat and cried: "All saved! Thank God! All saved!" So may it be to-day. The waves of your sin run high, the storm is on you, but I cheer you with this Gospel hope.

God grant that within the next ten minutes we may row with you into the harbor of God's mercy. And when these Christian men gather around to see the result of this service, and the glorified gathering on the pier heads of Heaven to watch and to listen, may we be able to report all saved! Young and old, good and bad! All saved! Saved for good. Saved for eternity. "And so it came to pass that they all escaped safe to land."

He Was Conquered.
Yesterday some people coming in on one of the ferries saw a large family towed along by a dapper, pink-faced little man. The family consisted of one very large wife, two very neat nurses, five babies, assorted sizes, and seventeen bags and bundles. The little man led the way out of the ferry house, called a carriage, and packed everything, even to the last bag, neatly in. Then he said to the driver: "To the Windsor." And then, with hand on the door, he said affably to his wife: "Now, my dear, you're all comfortable, and I'll go uptown on the elevated and meet you at the Windsor," and gave the carriage door a bang as he backed off. But the large wife was more than a match for him. She pulled the window down like a flash and called out to the driver, "Don't you move!" and then to her recreant spouse, who was sheering off with smiles, she thus addressed herself: "Here, sir, you don't do that! This circus belongs to you, and you travel with it. You come back in this carriage!"

How's Your Liver?
A very unnecessary question to ask a man whose skin and eyeballs are red-tinged. Of course his tongue, too, is turned, bowels constipated, head bothered with aches, right rib region plagued with constant uneasy sensations. These you may take for granted, although he may not particularize them, because they are among the invariable accompaniments of liver trouble. Are they chronic? If so, you may be sure he does not, as he ought to do, take Dr. Harter's Stomach Bitters, the leading regulator of liver that is out of order. Comment is to him as highly as you please, you can't say a word too much in its behalf. Stomach troubles, constipation, nausea, dyspepsia, and the yellow hue of the skin speedily depart when this reliable corrective is resorted to. Malaria, rheumatism and its gripe are also among maladies which it remedies and prevents. A wonderful three times a day confers appetite and digestion.

Life of a Speculator.
One speculator said of another who has had to sell his $160,000 residence in St. Louis: "This man has, within the last fifteen years, ranged all the way from the possession of $2,000,000 to being $200,000 worse off than nothing."

The Only One Ever Printed—Can You Find the Word?
Each week a different three-inch display is published in this paper. There are no two words alike in either ad, except One word. This word will be found in the ad. for Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, Little Liver Pills and Wild Cherry Bitters. Look for "Crescent" trade-mark. Read the ad. carefully, and when you find the word send it to them and they will return you a book, beautiful lithographs and sample free.

MARCH OF G. A. R. MEN.

FULLY FORTY THOUSAND VETERANS IN LINE.

Grand Army Men from All Sections of the Union Paraded at Detroit—Festive Decorative Displays—Scenes and Incidents of a Great Day.

Campus Martius. It was followed by a mighty procession, miles and miles of it. On came the old posts and the old familiar banners of Blair of St. Louis, Thomas of Chicago, Lytle of Cincinnati, McCoy of Columbus—yes, all the posts from ocean to ocean, from Minnesota to Louisiana; there were the old tattered, ragged battle flags with their bullet-torn staves; there were national flags with forty-four stars, and bands and bugle corps; there were life and drum corps of young boys, and there were life and drum corps of old, grizzled fellows who served as musicians during the war of the rebellion; there were the same old stirring strains—everything patriotic. The procession wound its way through streets, it seemed, with countless thousands. Yet, ADJUTANT GENERAL GOULDING.

Every division was replete with interesting features. At the head of the Indiana delegation, Wallace Foster, Secretary of the Silent

Ideal day, an ideal parade, an ideal concourse.

GOD BLESS THE VETERANS WHO FOUGHT TO KEEP OUR COUNTRY UNITED.

Such was the inscription in letters two feet high that greeted the eyes of Commander-in-chief Veazey as he gave the word for the head of the column to move from the rendezvous. The Commander-in-chief was surrounded by his staff and a special detail of 100 Massachusetts veterans mounted on magnificently caparisoned steeds. Two hundred Michigan veterans in black frock suits, black slouch hats and white bow ties, acted as rear escort to the staff.

The next place of honor had been assigned to the veterans from Illinois, and as Post No. 1, of Rockford, with its big banner, came into view a salvo of cheers went from block to block. Department Commander Horace S. Clark, with Adjutant General P. L. McKinnie and James J. Healy, as chief of staff, led the way on horseback. Picturesque was the appearance presented by George H. Thomas Post, of Chicago, each man of which carried a tri-colored umbrella. They walked twelve abreast, from curb to curb, the umbrellas completely obscuring the identity of those that carried them from the people that looked down from above. Ex Sheriff Matson marched solitary and alone in front of Ulysses S. Grant Post, and those that knew him pointed him out to open-mouthed spectators as the man who swung the anarchists into eternity. Still another feature of the Illinois Division was Phil Sheridan Post, while America Post, 706, in black relief uniform, presented an appearance that was rewarded by liberal applause.

That veteran of international fame, Lucius Fairchild, wearing lightly his sixty years and with his empty sleeve, marched in the front rank of the Wisconsin division. Vice Commander Weissert walked alongside the General. The spectators did not need to be told that the boys were from the Badger State, for Wolcott Post, which led the line, carried baldheaded old Abe, its mascot in the sixties, high in triumph, while alongside of the stuffed remains of the famous eagle was a big badger that once held high carnival in the woods around Green Bay. A young girl, typifying the Indian, with a costume of stars and stripes and carrying a liberty cap on a pole, led Robert Chivas Post. The Wisconsin contingent was large and made a creditable showing, as did the third section, composed of comrades from the Keystone State. Preceding this department were two miniature gun carriages drawn by white ponies and driven by two little boys. The Phadelphis and Pittsburg posts turned out in large numbers and the sight of the tattered battle-flags that they carried frequently drove the spectators into a frenzy of enthusiasm. The Allegheny School Band, composed largely of little fellows who had but recently got into knickerbockers, was another feature of the division that came in for general recognition.

In the fourth division the boys from Ohio turned out over ten thousand strong. In many of the posts every man carried a flag. About every post from Hamilton County was represented, and the famous Old Guard of Dayton, the Memorial Post of Cleveland, and Logan Post of the same city marched in force. In the second rank of the Memorial old Comrade Ferrier, whose right leg was shot off from the hip at Gettysburg, hobbled along on crutches, and a colored brother who lost his nose in the Wilderness and the center of whose face was swathed in a linen bandage, kept him company. Lawrence Post, of Columbus, accompanied itself with a score of good-looking and well-formed young girls in military relief caps, white bodices, and blue skirts, who marched along like schooled veterans, looking neither to the right nor to the left in appreciation of the greeting that kept their cheeks tinted with the hot blood. West Post, of Columbus, sang a medley of popular songs from one end of the route to the other. Another ministerial-looking post was Toledo, No. 106, while as a set-off the volunteers of the same city came out in white helmets and waving miniature flags. In the Akron Post a huge frame of buckeyes, garlanded with flowers, was borne on the shoulders of four gray-bearded and many other of the posts displayed the buckeye in numerous devices. There were forty-seven divisions in the parade, and it took just two and a half hours for the first four to pass a given spot. Estimates of men who galloped along the line and through the formation streets after the column had moved placed the men in line all the way from thirty-five to fifty thousand.

Every division was replete with interesting features. At the head of the Indiana delegation, Wallace Foster, Secretary of the Silent

Army of Deaf Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines, carried an immense banner with the inscription, "Teach patriotism in the public schools." The only colored member of the National Council of Administration of the Grand Army, Jas. L. Fuller, marched ahead of Dahlgren Post, of Norfolk, Va. In the Michigan division the Sault Ste. Marie Post carried umbrellas emblematic of Lake Superior and the city of the Soo.

When the head of the column had passed the grand stand Commander Veazey relinquished command to Vice Commander Weissert and took his place upon the reviewing stand. The procession taken "by and large," as the sailors say, was a great success. It compared favorably with those of other years. True, the old comrades don't march as well as they did twenty years ago. Their joints are more rheumatic, and their limp more pronounced. Their boys occasionally march with them in the line now, "just to keep pap from stumbling." But they march just the same, and they march bravely, too, with their comrades and their old battle flags. They pass in review and salute their Commander-in-chief. No man with a spark of patriotism in his breast can see one of these parades without enthusing and howling himself hoarse.

ARCH OF JEFFERSON AVENUE.

The sight of the flag and its defenders is enough to arouse the American breast. Detroit never saw such a sight before, and never will again. Before the city is selected as the location of another encampment thousands of the Grand Army will have passed away. The average age of the members of the order is said to be 58 years; but a short time and they will have left the stage of life. The Sons of Veterans will to some extent take the places of their fathers, but not fully. The old fellows did the fighting.

WHEN a man runs away it is usually from one of two motives: he is either running away with a woman or running away from one.

A WOMAN can say more with a few tears than a man can express in a book.

PALMER TO COMMAND.

A NEW-YORKER ELECTED BY THE GRAND ARMY.

Washington Gets the Next National Encampment—Election of Minor Officers—W. R. C. Meeting—End of the Detroit Encampment.

Washington was selected by the veterans at Detroit as the place for the holding of the next encampment of the G. A. R. The race between Washington and Lincoln, Neb., was a close one, so close that each side was confident of success until the result of the ballot was announced: Washington, 369; Lincoln, 333.

For Commander-in-chief there were four candidates: John Palmer, of Albany, N. Y.; A. G. Weissert, of Milwaukee, Wis.; W. P. Smedbury, of California; S. H. Hurst, of Ohio.

Benjamin E. Bryant, of Wisconsin, placed Weissert in nomination in an eloquent speech, and the nomination was quickly seconded by the States of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, and Kentucky.

Corporal Tanner, of New York, placed Palmer in nomination, and Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania seconded the nomination.

W. J. Hollingsworth, of Ohio, nominated Hurst, and W. L. Barnes, of California, nominated Smedbury. The latter's nomination was seconded by Nebraska, Kansas, Oregon, Washington, and Alaska, New Mexico, and Iowa.

Before the first formal ballot, General Hurst, of Ohio, peremptorily withdrew his name from the consideration of the encampment. The ballot resulted:

J. Palmer, of Albany, N. Y. 223
Weissert, of Milwaukee, Wis. 177
Smedbury, of California 177

The roll was again called, and on the second ballot there were numerous defections from the Wisconsin man, Palmer coming within ten of the number necessary to a choice. Before the third ballot was ordered the California delegation withdrew Smedbury and cast its vote for Palmer. The latter's election was then made unanimous.

Captain John Palmer was born on Staten Is., N. Y., March 22, 1842. His first army service was in the Ninety-first New York Volunteers. He enlisted Sept. 1, 1861, and remained with that regiment until it was mustered out on July 4, 1865. He was a participant in all its engagements, and was seriously wounded at the battle of Five Forks. For the last twenty-five years he has been engaged in the painting business at Albany, N. Y. He was several times Commander of New Benedict Post, No. 5, and was elected Commander of the New York Department, and in 1879 was elected Senior Vice Commander-in-chief. He is an earnest speaker, and has presided at department and national conventions with credit to himself and satisfaction to all.

OTHER NEW OFFICERS.
For Senior Vice Commander-in-chief there was but one candidate, Henry M. Duffield, of Michigan, being chosen by acclamation.

T. S. Clarkson of Nebraska, Peter B. Ayers of Delaware, and Albert E. Sholes of Georgia were nominated for Junior Vice Commander-in-chief. Clarkson won on the first ballot.

For Chaplain there were three candidates: S. H. Payne of Florida, D. C. Miller of Kansas, and A. B. Kendrick of Iowa. Mr. Payne was elected.

Surgeon General Benjamin T. Stevenson of Connecticut was re-elected by acclamation.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS MEETING.

The Ninth National Convention of the Woman's Relief Corps took place with many distinguished visitors present. The house was called to order by National President Mary Sears McHenry, and the exercises were opened by singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and prayer by the National Chaplain.

The National President read her annual report, showing a large increase in membership during the year. Forty-three States in the Union and all but three of the Territories have Woman's Relief Corps organizations. During last year 7,200 joined the order. There are twenty-seven colored relief corps, which are accomplishing much good in their own way.

The money is refunded in every case where it fails to bene- fit or cure. It's because it is differ- ent that it can be sold so. All diseases originating from a torpid liver or impure blood yield to it. It cleanses and purifies the system, freeing it from all manner of blood- poisons, no matter from what cause they have arisen. For Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofula, Salt-rheum, Tetters, Erysipelas, or any blood- taint or disorder, it is an unequalled remedy. Nothing else can take its place.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol to inebriate, and no syrup or sugar to derange digestion.

It's a concentrated vegetable ex- tract; put up in large bottles; pleasant to the taste, and equally good for adults or children; works equally well all the year round.

From the Douglas Record: The steamer Nellie, Capt. Alfred Taylor, arrived Tuesday morning, and during the balance of the season will make regular tri-weekly trips between this port, Holland and Milwaukee, leaving Douglas at 6 p. m., Saugatuck at 7 p. m., and Holland at 9 p. m., on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Fare $3 for the round trip. This boat will run in the interest of the Fruitgrower's Line.

The propeller A. C. Van Raalte will go on the Milwaukee route next Monday night, and carry fruit for 3c. per basket. This makes three different lines of boats to Milwaukee.

From the Democrat: Mr. J. B. Hise, a tanner currier, formerly of Holland City, who has just returned from a trip to Mountaubere, Germany, was a visitor at E. B. Born's, last week. Mr. Hise thinks some of settling here and going to work in the Kugler tannery and buying hides and pelts.

From the Journal: "Loud and emphatic are the complaints made by our citizens regarding the present condition of our water power, and it is evident that something must be done without delay to remedy the existing evil, or Allegan will be irretrievably damaged. For several hours again last Monday there was not water enough in the river to run any of the water wheels and, had a fire broken out, we should have to depend on the limited supply of water to be obtained from pumps and cisterns, to quench the flames. Not only is there great danger of pecuniary loss by fire, but, worse than this, the effluvia from the decaying vegetable matter, laid bare in the pond by the lowness of the water, is already causing considerable sickness and cannot but result in the loss of the lives of some of our citizens; the danger being especially imminent in the case of children. The remedying of this evil is more important to Allegan than the building of railroads or wagon roads or the striking of oil, but while it is easy enough to complain of the evil it is not so easy to find a remedy."
