Council to Hire Assistant for Fire Inspection

C and O Sidetrack for Brewer Co. Approved; Steam Roller Purchased

Common Council Wednesday night approved a recommendation of the public safety commission to hire a man to fill in for vacation time and Kelly days for the fire department and to provide house-to-house fire inspection under the direction of the present building and heating inspector.

The recommendation was introduced by Ald. Robert Notter, chairman of the safety commission who said the present inspector at the current rate of construction and heating installations could devote but one day a week to house inspection.

Considerable discussion followed on previous procedure in house inspections, and Ald. Notter said he understood the previous building inspector did all the house-to-house inspection as well as working for the fire department on Kelly days in which full-time firemen are allowed a day off about each 15 days.

Ald. Lloyd Maatman asked if the previous inspector was paid extra for his Kelly day service, and, informed he was not, Maatman said, "It seems like the previous inspector got a raw deal." Notter seemed inclined to agree. Ald. Robert Vischer cast the only dissenting vote.

A recommendation of the street committee approving an application of Brewer Coal Co. for the C and O railway to construct a sidetrack from River Ave. to its place of business was approved with the stipulation that all expenses incurred by the city be paid by Brewer. Another condition was that contracts on maintenance of the track be approved by the city attorney before they are signed.

The street committee also reported the purchase of a steam roller from Miller Equipment Co. for $4,560. It previously had been authorized to purchase such equipment at a cost not to exceed $4,600. The old roller will be purchased by the company for $250.

Council approved purchase of a new car for the assistant city engineer on low bid and trade-in of $489.44 by R. E. Barber.

The buildings and grounds committee recommended purchase of gas heating equipment for engine house No. 2 from Holland Furnace Co. at a cost of $585. Council okayed the transaction. The committee also reported installation of new lights in the GAR room and above the mayor's desk in council chambers.

Council unanimously okayed action of the Board of Public Works in increasing the salary of its superintendent to $8,000 a year. The action had been taken, subject to council approval.

On suggestion of Ald. John Van Eerden, Mayor Harry Harrington will appoint a three-member council contact committee to work with the new heating panel.

BPW collections for the two-week period totaled $50,805.68, miscellaneous city collections totaled $42,031.33 and city and school tax collections totaled $216,092.85. The city clerk was authorized to turn over $131,504.64 in school taxes.

Mayor Harrington presided. Aids, Bertal Slag and A. W. Hertel were absent.

Youths Launch Mississippi Trip

Three young men in dungarees and yachting caps shoved off Campbell's dock this morning aboard the 42-foot cutter, Coronado, on the first leg of a three to four week cruise down the Mississippi river.

Joe and Clarke Field and Tony Butterfield, all sailors from Macatawa Bay Yacht club, will make Chicago their first port of call to pick up Clarke Field, Sr. and Dave Weirs as crew. Tony Butterfield is pinch-hitting for Rex Young, who was to take the cruise until the fire at the "Big Top" changed his plans. Tony will leave the boat at Chicago.

Both Field brothers have had sailing experience. They have been crew on locally known boats as the Bagheera, the Revenge, the Coronado and the Bel Mer. Joe sailed in the Chicago to Mackinac race early this summer and cruised in the North Channel and Georgian Bay with the Warren S. Merriams.

The trip will be made down the Illinois waterway with stops en route.

Young Heinz President Talks at Rotary Club

Fifty years in the pickle business might well have been the title of an address by H. J. Heinz II, president of the H. J. Heinz Co., before Holland Rotarians Wednesday noon at the Castle.

The descendant of the company founder outlined advances in company operation since 1900 on three planes — agricultural, economic and social.

He credited development of natural and human resources and the American competitive system as instrumental to the advancement of all business — including the Heinz Co. — during the last 50 years.

Heinz said the company was appreciative of relationships with the people of Holland, and promised continued expansion and improvement of the company plant here.

He pointed out that Holland's plant tonnage is second only to the main factory in Pittsburgh, and cited the number of persons employed.

The company president was introduced by Charles B. McCormick, manager of the Holland plant. Following his address, Heinz was presented a pair of wooden shoes on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce by Henry S. Maentz, chamber president.

Special guests included Mayor Harry Harrington, members of Common Council and other city officials.

Secretary Leon Moody introduced guests and led group singing.

While in Holland, Heinz toured the local plant where he worked 25 years ago. This was his first visit since that time. He spoke to employees at the factory and also talked with retired employees.

J. F. Allen accompanied Heinz to Holland.

Tallmadge Youth Admits Shooting Hudsonville Man

A handsome 16-year-old farm youth has confessed he shot and critically wounded a motorist who gave him a ride Monday night near Allendale.

John Roderick Neahr, who will be 17 Friday, was arrested early Tuesday afternoon by state police and sheriff's officers at the home of a friend, a mile from his own home in Tallmadge township. He gave an oral confession there in the presence of Sheriff Jerry Vanderbeek, and Lt. Verne C. Dagen and Sgt. Leroy Hunt of the state police, and then was taken to Holland for further questioning by Prosecutor Wendell A. Miles.

Miles said he would petition probate court to waive jurisdiction over the youth. Charges will be withheld, pending the outcome of the condition of the motorist, Alvin Kraker, 26, route 1, Hudsonville, who remained in critical condition at Butterworth hospital in Grand Rapids. A .38 caliber bullet was removed from his abdomen early Tuesday.

In his confession, Neahr said he shot Kraker "because I wanted his car." He gave no reasonable explanation why he shot the motorist without warning or struck Mrs. Kraker on the head with the barrel end of the pistol.

"I didn't particularly like the idea of killing a man, but I wanted the car," he said.

The shooting occurred about three miles from the youth's home. Officers learned that after he escaped into the woods, he walked through fields and woods, doubling back and forth, and when he came to Grand river he got into a rowboat and paddled with his hands until he got into the current. He went under the M-50 bridge pushing the boat from pier to pier.

The shooting occurred at 6:40 p.m. He arrived home about 10:30 p.m. and went to bed. He rose the next morning at 10 a.m. and a half-hour later mounted his horse and rode to his friend's home a mile away.

He was arrested on information obtained by Sgt. Hunt of the Rockford state police post who conducted an investigation among residents in the Allendale-Pearline area.

Neahr put up no resistance when officers apprehended him. Oddly enough, he said he did not believe he would be captured or he might have acted quite differently.

Only once did his composure slump slightly in the official interrogation. In a low voice he said he probably could look forward to a long prison sentence if Kraker died.

Neahr told officers he had planned to take a four-day hike and had received permission from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Neahr. He packed a knapsack for the trip containing a large sized baby blanket, two pairs of socks, a pocket knife, a tooth brush, two packages of gum, a sack of rock salt, a ghost story book, and a sweatshirt in which he wrapped the pistol. He also had $8 given him by his mother.

He said he didn't know why he packed the pistol, that he certainly had no intentions of holdups at that time. He said he walked 1½ miles to M-50 and continued a couple miles west before hitching his first ride.

Throughout the afternoon, he hitched one ride after another, traveling in both directions and riding only a mile or two at a time. He said he didn't know why he followed this procedure. He admitted that the idea of getting a car grew in his mind. On two occasions he purchased orange drink at a restaurant and store, and once he sat under a tree to read his ghost story book.

The Kraker car was the sixth car he rode in that day. It was a '38 model with four doors and looked good to the youth. He rode a mile or two and then asked to get out. "I decided just before I asked them to stop that I wanted that car," he said.

He admitted he shot Kraker without warning of any kind and hit Mrs. Kraker with the gun. He described how Kraker tumbled with him and took the gun away, how he (Neahr) pulled a knife on him but didn't use it. The knife was an Italian stiletto, the type in which the blade springs when a button is pushed.

The gun was an old Smith and Wesson revolver which somebody had given his father about 20 years ago to be repaired. The trigger spring was broken but the gun could be shot manually, one shot at a time. This explains why the gun failed to discharge when Kraker shot at the fleeing youth.

Neahr said he took the old gun from a drawer in the barn one to six months ago and kept it in a dresser drawer in his home. He said he had other guns, and shot this old pistol occasionally behind the barn.

Neahr answered all questions calmly and clearly. He said he had wanted to be a lawyer but decided the training would take too long and hoped to be a writer instead. He said his mother, a former school teacher, once gave him an IQ test in which he rated 130, but that his scholastic record in school was not that good.

Owner Escapes From Apartment Through Window

A morning blaze Wednesday leveled the Big Top restaurant on Ottawa Beach Rd., near Holland state park.

Owner Roy Young, who was asleep in an apartment to the rear of the spacious building, escaped by removing a screen from a window in his bedroom after he was awakened by smoke. He fled wearing trousers and shoes.

Young punched in a glass on a side door and another on a front door to re-enter the flaming structure to rescue the family cat. He, along with Fred and Donald Vaas, quickly drove power boats that were tied to a nearby dock out of range of the leaping flames.

Firemen were called at 4:10 a.m. and the building was a smoldering heap of ruins at 6 a.m. when the firefighters began rolling up their hoses.

Firemen made a return trip at 8:30 a.m. when debris blazed again.

William Doust, who got up to check his minnow nets at the nearby Macatawa Bay boat livery, saw the flames and heard a window break. He summoned Earl Vasser from Earl's Soda Bar, who in turn called firemen.

Shortly after firemen arrived, flames were leaping high into the air and gave off intense heat that kept the quickly assembled crowd at a distance.

Many persons from nearby homes and cottages were on the scene in nightclothes, house coats and other apparel to watch the fire. Others witnessed the blaze from the south shore of Lake Macatawa.

Firemen prevented flames from reaching the nearby Jack Divan's boat house. However, the wooden structure was scorched on the front and side facing the Big Top.

Young told The Sentinel that the building and contents were appraised at $40,000. Half the amount was covered by insurance, he said. His cruiser, which was tied near the rear of the building, was scorched. It was not insured.

Coast Guardsmen removed four boats to safety. Only the Young cruiser was scorched.

A tanker and pumper from Park township fire department along with a truck from Holland township station No. 1 answered the call.

Furnace Company Gets Injunction

Grand Haven (Special) — Circuit court today granted a temporary injunction requested by Holland Furnace Co. restraining a hearing in the case before the Michigan Corporation and Securities commission, until the case now pending in circuit court can be heard.

The court has reserved a decision on a motion made by attorneys of the securities commission to strike a part of the bill of complaint which alleges the commission to strike a part of the bill of complaint pending before the commission. No decision will be made until briefs are filed. The attorney general's office has two weeks in which to file a brief and the plaintiff will have 10 days to file a reply.

The furnace company feels the commission is prejudiced against the manner in which the company is doing business and irreparable injury would result if the commission should revoke the firm's license to operate in Wayne and Oakland counties, the only counties in which the commission has jurisdiction in the state.

Park Attendance Down for Week

Cold weather during the last week forced down attendance at Holland State park. Park Superintendent Clare Broad reported today.

Visitors for the week totaled 26,500, with Sunday's crowds numbering 6,500, and Saturday's 4,000.

Although total attendance has been down compared with last year, Broad pointed out, the camping business has been good. He estimated camping areas are filled about 75 per cent of the time.

A total of 1,380 camp permits had been issued until Sunday night, since Tulip Time. Last year, this department totaled 1,960.

"And we still have two months of camping season left," Broad added.

Two Downtown Streets Scheduled For Resurfacing

Program Is Enlarged To Take Advantage Of Conditional Bid

Two streets in the downtown section are slated for "improvements, according to action taken Wednesday night by Common Council.

The street committee recommended that council take advantage of a low bid of $1.30 per square yard by Michigan Colprovia Co. to resurface parts of Ninth St. besides the stretch on Seventh St. from Pine to Columbia previously under consideration.

The committee recommended that Ninth St. be resurfaced from Lincoln to Columbia Aves. and from College to Pine, and that 17th St. be resurfaced from Central to River Aves. The $1.30 bid was offered on condition the job take in more than 11,000 yards. The question of widening Seventh St. was put off until next year.

Ninth St. may yet extend to Fairbanks Ave. if a proposal from Lokker, Den Herder and Boter on behalf of Western Foundry Co. exchanging certain parcels of property in that vicinity is accepted by council. The proposal which offers exchange of the road right-of-way for certain alleys presently dedicated between Eighth and 10th St., was referred to the street committee, city attorney and city engineer.

Mayor Harry Harrington recommended that the sidewalk committee consider the purchase of an air chisel for the street department to cut roots of trees which sift sidewalks and in some cases pavements. Cost of sidewalk repairs is borne by the property owner, the mayor explained, and such new equipment may prove to be quite a saving for property owners. The sidewalk committee was instructed to work out plans with the park board.

The sidewalk committee reported sidewalk repair well under way with expectation that all repairs will be completed this summer.

Council approved a recommendation of the sidewalk committee to construct a sidewalk on the south side of 25th St. from State St. to Columbia Ave.

It was reported that the police department has contacted the state highway commission regarding a traffic light at 32nd and Michigan and has requested the proper traffic study at the corner.

A letter from property owners on West 17th St. between Ottawa and Cleveland objecting to the widening of the street for that block only was referred to the street committee, city engineer and city attorney.

Clerk Clarence Greengood presented a letter from Edwin P. Slabaugh, area supervisor for the bureau of census, outlining procedure for checking people claimed to have been missed in the census enumeration. Greengood said the list has 262 names but this does not mean all have been missed.

The clerk presented warranty deeds from Mr. and Mrs. William Schuitema, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zigmeter and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Van Grondelle for property purchased by the city in the vicinity of Seventh and College for use as parking lots. The clerk was instructed to have deeds recorded.

An audit report from Malhofer, Moore and De Long covering the office of the municipal judge was referred to the ways and means committee.

The clerk reported having received a check for more than $30,500 from the county treasurer for Holland's share in intangible taxes, but said he had protested a retroactive adjustment on the basis of the 1950 official census.

With no objections filed, council approved construction of sanitary sewers in West 30th St. between Maple and River and in 31st St. between Maple and River.

Council approved a 1950-51 maintenance contract with Michigan State Highway department which reads virtually the same as last year.

Election inspectors for the Sept. primaries were named as follows: first ward, John Wolman; second, Bert Huizenga; third, Al Van Baasen; fourth, Ed Lam; fifth, John Van Eerden; sixth, Bert Steinkamp.

Injunction Dissolved

Smith today granted a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction restraining the Jamestown town board from spending money for road improvements other than a two-mile stretch near Gitchell. Complaint was filed by township representatives against the township board.

Cars Collide

Cars driven by Rober M. Simonsen, route 2, and Sam Althuis, 323 River Ave., collided at the corner of Third St. and River Ave. Wednesday. Damage to each car was estimated at $150. No injuries were reported.

VOLLEYS FROM AMBUSH

THERE ARE SOME interesting stories floating around Holland these days about some lush radish crops.

It seems a local resident who shall forever remain nameless went into a seed store some time ago to purchase the fixings for a nice new lawn. The proprietor was out and the clerk on duty was inexperienced about grass seed. But the purchaser said he knew all about it and mixed his own seed.

The crop turned out to be half clover and half radishes.

One version said the seed store operator is slightly chagrined. He presumably lost money on the radishes.

Another said neighbors are calling the land owner for the latest prices on radish bargains.

Still another said there are three such lawns in Holland.

WHEN THE CEMETERY association made a side trip to Holland last Monday for a taste of Dutch hospitality, the welcome included tiny wooden shoes for the members.

"Maybe they should be wooden boxes," Municipal Judge Cornelius Vander Meulen observed.

Incidentally, there's probably a shortage of sugar among persons in the cemetery circles too. Some delegates were seen sneaking a few wrapped lumps in their pockets.

MAYBE THE KOREAN war has had some effect on romance in some spots, but marriage license figures in Ottawa county reveal that the crisis has not increased applications here to any great degree.

A total of 54 couples sought wedding permits during July, as compared with 47 in July of 1949. The increase of seven is insignificant, county clerk's office workers point out.

In comparison with other months of the year, the July figure is about on a keel. Permits issued in June were 91, while 53 were given in May. June, of course, is the traditional time for wedding bells and rice. And besides, school's out then.

Deputy City Clerk Helen Ter Meer said she thought that applicants at the Holland city office had increased, but no figures were available on the question.

Incidentally, selective service officials in Washington have warned that marriage is not absolute "out" for prospective draftees. They have instructed local boards to view hasty marriages of draft age persons with an eye to detect motives other than love and companionship—namely draft dodging.

PEOPLE AROUND HERE really don't know what bugs and reptiles are, according to Dr. William Welmers and his family who are in Holland after spending four years in Africa.

As for snakes, they climb trees in Africa, notwithstanding published reports that snakes never climb trees. In fact, Dr. Welmers says he never saw a snake on the ground while he was away.

At one time, the family had a three-foot baby python for a pet. Pythons are dangerous only in their crushing power, and a three-footer had no such strength. It was kept in a pall of lime water (chalk) in one corner of the kitchen.

But sometimes the playful python would leave its pall and bother the houseboys. And once it really got in the way in climbing some rafters.

A houseboy slapped it hard, and broke its back. That was the end of that pet.

Speaking of bugs, have you heard the cute louse story that City Clerk Clarence Greengood tells with motions? Ask him some day.

Laugh for the day: On location for a motion picture, the entire company was amazed at the unfailing weather predictions made by an old Indian. He was consulted daily and his forecasts proved reliable. Then one day he refused to predict the weather. "Is anything wrong?" inquired an actor.

"Yes," said the Indian, "radio broke."

Ver Hey Celebrates Night With No-Hitter

Zeeland—It was "Bill Ver Hey night" in the Zeeland Friday evening. And the veteran lefthander celebrated by hurling the finest game of his career, a no-hit, no-run 5-0 victory over the Grand Rapids Red Sox.

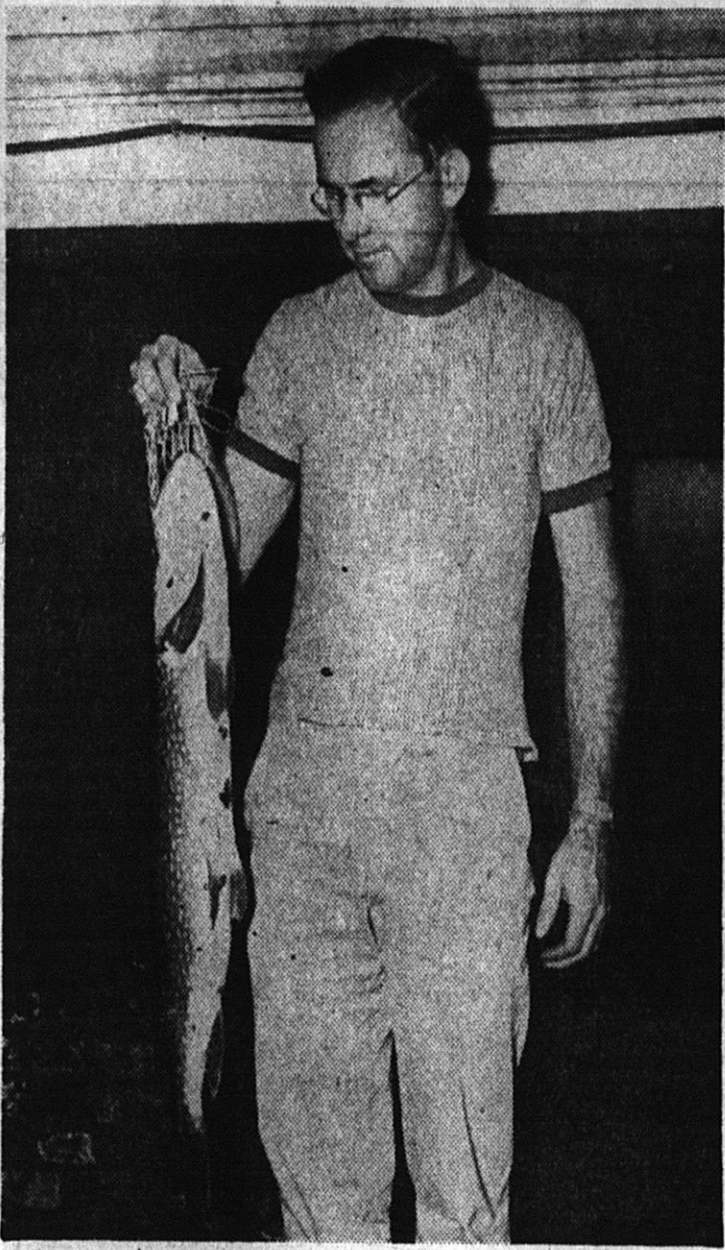

Ver Hey faced only 28 men, four in the first inning and then settled down to pitch a perfect game. He struck out 14, which ups his whiff victims to 89 in six games.

The Chix collected eight hits, two each by Howie De Jonge, Gus Walters and Junior De Jonge. Jack Sheridan had a triple for the Chix.

Steffens Wins

Douglas-Steffens Food Market scored three runs in the 13th inning to defeat Douglas AC in a marathon contest 6-3 Wednesday night. Preston Bos was the winner.

The original Siamese twins came from Bangkok, Siam to Boston in 1829 at the age of 18, and 11 years later settled down as farmers in North Carolina.

Lee Tapley, of 20 West 30th St., caught this whopper a few days ago while fishing alone on the bayou off Kalamazoo river at New Richmond. This great northern pike measured 32½ inches and weighed 7½ pounds.

Hope Church Scene of Baker Twins' Wedding

Miss Jayne Ellen Baker and Miss Joyce Elaine Baker, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Leonard Baker of 1819 South Shore Dr., were married Friday afternoon in a double ceremony in Hope church.

Jayne became the bride of Henry J. Visser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Visser, 148 East 17th St., and Joyce became the bride of Frederick Jay Brieve, son of Frank Brieve, 141 West 21st St. Dr. Marion de Velder, Hope church pastor, read the double ring services at 4 p.m.

The brides were dressed in twin wedding gowns, designed by Joel. Fashioned of Swiss organdy, the gowns were ankle length and featured deep open necklines forming decolletages and little sleeves. The fitted bodices and bouffant skirts were finely embroidered with a flower motif. They were matching embroidered organdy caps which held in place their veils of nylon illusion. They were matching shortie mitts and carried colonial bouquets of snow white roses and white gladioli. The brides approached the altar together with their father, who gave them in marriage.

Bouquets of white gladioli accented the church setting of palms and ferns. Two pairs of white double candelabra were placed on the altar.

The wedding parties assembled as Mrs. W. Curtis Snow, organist, played the wedding march. Preceding the service, Miss Dorothy Ten Brink sang "Because" and "Ich Liebe Dich." She sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couples knelt at the altar.

The wedding party included Miss Lucille Van Domelen, cousin of the brides, and Miss Alberta Visser, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids; Miss Myra Brieve, sister of the groom, and Miss Barbara Anderson of Marion, Ohio, cousin of the brides, as junior bridesmaids. Little Susan Lamb of Fairlawn, N. J., was flower girl.

Attending Mr. Visser was Robert de Young as best man and Paul Cook, Jack Wickert and Don Baker, brother of the brides, as ushers. Mr. Brieve's attendants were Paul Hendrickson of Grand Rapids, who served as best man, and William L. Baker, Jr., Edwin Vande Wege and William Hinga, ushers.

All the bridal attendants were identically gowned in ankle length dresses of soft lilac frosted organdy over taffeta. Style features were the Queen Ann collars, cap sleeves and shirred waists which fell into full gathered skirts. ## Study By Smithsonian Institution Gives Starling Pat on the Wing

Starlings have another side—a good one—according to the findings of a study by the Smithsonian Institution.

Holland, along with many other cities in the United States has a perennial starling problem. The black birds roost in bunches in Holland trees, eat fruit, and generally make nuisances of themselves.

Two weeks ago Common Council engaged a starling exterminator from Saginaw to trim trees and possibly gas the birds in the Lawndale court area, where residents registered complaints.

All you usually hear about starlings is their damage and nuisance value. But here is a man who reports some good things about them.

Arthur Cleveland Bent of Tawnton, Mass., who made the study for Smithsonian, said, "It is noteworthy that the findings of all thorough and scientific investigators of the starlings have been in favor of the species, in spite of the fact that the birds are too numerous in some localities."

The starling feeds largely on weevils, which are the chief enemies of grass and forage crops, the study shows. It is also a major enemy of destructive beetles, including Japanese and potato beetles, and harmful caterpillars. However, the weevil and beetle problems have never been great around Holland.

Although hated as a cherry eater, Bent says examination of stomachs indicate it is no worse than some other birds in this respect. Bent concludes that, all in all, the starlings food habits are beneficial to man.

And here's some background material: on the starling, which may never call Holland its home again—after the Saginaw exterminator gets through with him.

Starlings were introduced into the United States from England about 60 years ago. They were first released in New York city and have spread over two million square miles of the continent.

The bird is regarded as a pest because of its objectionable habits in roosting and flocking. Most weapons tried against it have proved ineffective. The Saginaw man promises results, however.

The starling is very democratic about its nesting needs; any hole or tree cavity will do for home. And, if needs be, it will take by force the nests of other birds. It likes city life, too, and shuns the quiet of the forest.

FOR GOVERNMENT SAVING

Since the beginning of the Korean incident there has been mounting demand from many sources for curtailment of government activities in line with the curtailments which will be demanded of private business and individuals. Industry is expected to submit to materials allocation and to government instructions as to priority of orders; retail business is expected to co-operate in measures to hold down prices and reduce consumer buying, thus reducing their income. Many individuals will have to leave their civilian pursuits and enter military service; those who stay at home are expected to adjust their lives to the needs of national emergency. Why should not the government, also, make sacrifices?

There is sound logic in this argument, and the pressure has had a slight effect on the Senate. That body has acknowledged it by voting to cut about half a billion dollars from the general appropriation bill. This action, however, hardly satisfies the demand. Huge expenditures for defense and foreign aid are being approved, almost casually, certainly without detailed study. Perhaps that is necessary to meet the situation, but the taxpayer is going to pay through the nose. He is going to have to cut his personal budget sharply to meet his increased tax burden. Let's do some corresponding cutting in the federal budget. The administration ought to lead in this matter. It ought to go through its budget promptly cutting to the bone all activities which are not essential, and there are a great many which fit that description. Every effort should be made to save money, to avoid needless use of materials, and to make workers available to necessary activities. In the absence of leadership from the administration, the Congress should immediately tackle the task of making these curtailments. As in the case of the armed forces, it would be nice to have volunteers, but if they aren't forthcoming someone may have to be drafted.

We should all remember that we are not receiving a dollar's worth of government for our tax dollars. If you have ideas on how we can economize why not write us three hundred words. We would be glad to have as many as our readers would like to write. If you will send a hand we will publish them and mail copies to our congressmen so that they will have your ideas and this may help them. Won't you please put on your thinking cap and send along your ideas for publication.

Sunday School Lesson

August 20, 1950
John, Preacher of Repentance
Luke 3: 7-20
By Henry Geerlings

John the Baptist is one of the most rugged and forthright characters in the New Testament. All we know of him prior to his entrance upon his ministry would not fill more than a page or two. He was the forerunner of Jesus and his figure is completely overshadowed by the One whose coming he announced. The references to his childhood are few.

John was six months older than Jesus, and their mothers were probably cousins. He spent no little time in seclusion, getting ready for the heavy responsibilities upon him. He was about as different from Jesus in his habits as he could be, but he did a splendid piece of work in getting the nation ready for the coming of the Savior.

In a sense John the Baptist was the herald of the Christian dispensation because he was the herald of Jesus. It was part of God's plan, and a most natural one, that there should be a forerunner of the Lord. Some one was needed to turn the thoughts of men toward the greatest event in human history and to prepare their hearts for the advent of the Christ.

We can easily understand how much of the initial effort of the Messiah would have been partially if not wholly wasted, had there not appeared one whose voice was to be like his voice and whose message made his hearers believe that the Messiah was actually in their midst speaking to them.

We do not arrive at a correct estimate of the proportions of John until we see how admirably he turned the thought of the Jewish nation toward Christ. He was the steppingstone on whom multitudes rose to an appreciation and acceptance of the world's Savior. He arrested the attention of the people and got ready the highway over which Jesus would travel in reaching the hearts of the people. Some of the hostility to the plan of God had been broken by the time Christ appeared on the scene to make His appeal to the nation.

Repentance was John's central message. Repentance is more than a form. Forms of religion may exist without touching the soul of religion. The Jews of our Lord's day observed forms enough to fill volumes, and yet actual repentance was of rare occurrence. One of the bitter disappointments of the current religious regime to both John and Jesus was the multiplicity of forms and ceremonies and the meagerness of genuine sincerity. The great words of their faith were often on their lips, but once they had spoken them they dismissed them from their thought. John appealed for reality in this field.

When John looked at society in general he felt it was just like a tree that had grown old and fruitless and was ready to be cut down. He told the people that it was just what would happen if they did not improve their way of living by putting forth a serious effort to please God. He gave them to understand that if they would abandon their wrongdoing and seek the favor of God they would be spared and a blessing would be bestowed upon them.

I venture to say that these people never heard anything so harsh, and yet, strange to say, they heard him gladly and were eager to know what they could do to turn from what was wrong to what was right. For instance, there was a person who was living in plenty and enjoying what a neighbor who had little or nothing. This first person was to share what he had with the man who was in poverty.

Then there were the publicans, or we call them tax collectors. They took every advantage they could and made merchants and traders pay a tax far beyond what was right. There were the soldiers also and they wondered what they should do that they had not been doing. They were told to cease their acts of violence. Their cruel practices were to be stopped, as soldiers they could get away with certain things others would not be permitted to do.

Then there were persons also who were discontented with their wages. They thought their work was worth more than they were getting for it. John told them that they should be contented with what they were receiving.

John entered the public stage as a preacher. His text was sin and his sermon a talk about sin, and the application was a call to sinners to repent. He felt called on to expose sin, to show people the necessity of repentance. He had many hearers, a surprising number of them. Many were hearers of his message. When hearers are hearers good results may be expected.

John's piercing outcry against sin and its results paved the way for a call to personal action in harmony with the will of God. Repentance must show itself in manner of living. John must have been gratified at the questions asked him about conduct following repentance. Conduct was regarded as fruit of what people are, a kind of index of character. Some ignorantly, or stubbornly or boastfully shielded themselves by claiming exemption from repentance because they descended from Abraham. That was a fallacious trust. Pharisees could make such a claim, but it would not endure. The ax was ready to strike down the tree that had no fruit.

Youth Burns Legs In Freak Mishap With Motorbike

The condition of Kenneth Schuitema, 16, who was burned seriously when his motor-bike caught fire Saturday noon, was reported "satisfactory" by Holland hospital authorities Monday.

Kenneth received third and fourth degree burns to both legs when he tried to stamp out his burning bike motor on the corner of River Ave. and Eighth St. Saturday at 1 p.m. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schuitema, 633 West 22nd St.

According to Holland police who investigated the accident, Kenneth stopped for a red light when another boy, Fred Sherill, told him his gas line was burning. Kenneth dropped the bike, and tried to stamp out the flames with his feet. Police said the gas tank fell off, spraying gasoline over his trousers which were ignited by the flames.

Kenneth then ran across the street, police said, with his trousers on fire. First attempts to smother the flames with newspapers failed. But a quick-thinking milkman, Martin Bareman of 115 Lakewood Blvd., wrapped packing pads from his delivery truck around the boy's legs and put out the flames. Kenneth was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Both legs were burned from above the knee to the ankle.

Camellia Print Suggests Color Scheme for Room

The color scheme for a recently decorated bedroom was taken from a framed print of a camellia that was to be hung in the room. Three walls were painted the pink of the framed flower, while the bed wall was finished in a deep gray.

A painted garland of camellias and leaves decorated the dark wall. Sapphire blue and gray were used elsewhere in the room and the adjoining dressing room echoed the camellia print in a deeper tone.

Board Approves New Policy for School Parties

With one dissenting vote, the Board of Education Monday night approved in principle a new policy whereby social dancing may be included in parties held in the school.

The action followed a long discussion on a request presented to the board by a committee of five high school students, consisting of K. Don Jacobusse, Tom Maentz, Andy Sall, Marilyn Westrate and Billie Houtman, the latter serving as spokesman. Their appearance before the board followed two years of study on the issue and a vote taken in school last year.

Miss Houtman said the vote was 649 to 110, favoring parties with dancing in the gym. A second vote whether students would attend such parties with dancing was 584 in favor and 174 against. She pointed to heavy costs of renting facilities elsewhere and said it was generally agreed that it was far better to have well chaperoned parties in the school than leaving the students to seek entertainment elsewhere.

Trustee C. J. De Koster opposed the move on moral grounds, and he said many parents would not favor the change.

Trustee Lester J. Kuyper, attending his first board meeting, asked about previous policies, and was informed the last time the matter came before the board was eight or nine years ago. At that time, the board submitted it to a straw vote of the public which lost 3 to 2.

Details of the new policy will be worked out with principals, deans and counselors of secondary schools. The board made it clear that parties must be planned in such a way that there is plenty of recreation and entertainment for those who do not care for social dancing. The board also said that the new policy will be revoked if it does not work out satisfactorily. Eleven o'clock was suggested as closing time.

President A. E. Lampen had suggested withholding action for a month, but Trustee E. V. Hartman's motion approving the new plan superseded his suggestion.

Meyers North Shore Cubs sliced themselves at least a share of the first-round Wooden Shoe league championship Monday night with a rousing 9-6 victory over Virginia Park.

Carl Reimink allowed 12 hits and was the shaky winner for the Cubs. A big six-run sixth was the margin of victory. For the winners, Bernie Waterway, Fred Witteveen and George Kolean got two hits apiece. Ben Wiersma, Hildebrand, Red Fuder and Ron Van Huis had two each for the losers.

Dr. and Mrs. William Welmers and their children, Robert Bruce, 7, and Margaret Jean, 3½, have arrived here from Africa where Dr. Welmers spent four years analyzing spoken languages and putting them into writing. There are an estimated 1,000 different languages in Africa and Dr. Welmers analyzed dozens of the native tongues, mainly as an aid to missionary and government workers. Young Bobby celebrated his seventh birthday anniversary Thursday in Holland. In front of Peggy is her mother's handmade bag purchased in Eritrea. (Sentinel photo)

He Put Spoken African Languages Into Writing

Putting African spoken languages into writing has been the interesting assignment of Dr. William Welmers, former Holland man, for the last four years.

For the average American, it's hard to conceive that there are languages which have no way of communication other than the spoken word. But that's the case in Africa where it is believed there are close to 1,000 languages. There was an estimated 400 alone in Liberia where Dr. Welmer and his family lived the first two years.

The family, consisting of his wife, the former Beatrice Fairbanks of Holland, and two children, Robert Bruce and Margaret Jean (Peggy), arrived in Holland a few days ago. Bobby was seven years old Thursday and Peggy will be four in September.

Peggy, an attractive little blonde, was born in Africa and this is her first visit to America. And she likes America fine, she will tell everybody in a piping voice. Running barefoot in the grass is the children's favorite diversion. This was not allowed in Africa where the danger of picking up foot infections was great. The youngsters have plenty of place to run, since the family is staying with relatives at the Old Wing Mission farm southeast of Holland.

Dr. Welmers was sent to Liberia in June, 1946, to analyze the Kpelle language which was spoken by an interior tribe of some 500,000 persons. His aim was to reduce this language to writing to aid missionaries in their work among the primitive peoples. He was sent there by the Mission of the United Lutheran church and his work in the Kpelle language led to publications which included lesson materials and Bible stories. He also worked with several other Sudanic languages during the two years in Liberia.

In June, 1948, he was granted a fellowship by the American Council of Learned Societies to continue the work on other languages. He purchased a half-ton truck and the family drove from Liberia to the Gold Coast colony, stopping at many places en route to study different languages and help missionaries in the problem of their particular languages. At the Gold Coast, he prepared a series of lessons on the Fante language.

It was during 1948 that his mother, Mrs. Thomas E. Welmers, spent eight months with the family in Africa and celebrated her 75th anniversary there. Since the death of her husband, former registrar of Hope college, Mrs. Welmers has been spending most of her time with another son, Dr. Everett Welmers, in Buffalo, N.Y.

Other African languages which Dr. Welmers worked in were the Baria language, used largely by the Sudan Interior Mission; the Jukun language used by the Christian Reformed mission; Lupwe, the Saho and Tigre languages used by the Mission of Orthodox Presbyterian church in Eritrea as well as many other tongues the family encountered in a 6,000-mile truck trip from Lupwe to Eritrea. Dr. Welmers uses the Roman alphabet in his work, plus whatever modification is necessary for added sounds and distinction in tones.

En route to America via Italy, France and the Netherlands, the family was plunged into modern languages. On one occasion, Dr. Welmers put to use his ancient Greek to decipher one choice signpost.

Dr. Welmers was graduated from Hope college in 1936 and received degrees from Westminster seminary in Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania. He taught languages for a time in ASTP during the war in Chinese and Japanese and spent eight months with the Army compiling a dictionary of spoken Chinese.

The Welmers were married in 1940 in Holland. At that time they said they would celebrate their 10th anniversary in some little spot in Quebec they had visited. But that date rolled around a month or so ago while the family was en route home.

"We celebrated in Milan, Italy. That was the best Bill could do at the moment," Mrs. Welmers laughed.

Humbert Spaces Neat Four-Hitter For Fourth Win

Two Big Innings Spell Victory; Fortney's Two Hits Lead Attack

The Holland Flying Dutchmen combined a neat four-hitter by Lou Humbert and two big innings to score an easy 8-1 victory over Allegan Blood Brothers at Riverview park Monday night.

Humbert was master of the situation, striking out 13 Bloods and being in trouble only in the early innings due to a mild attack of wildness. Meanwhile, the Dutchmen got a maximum mileage from eight hits to tally four runs in the third and three more in the eighth.

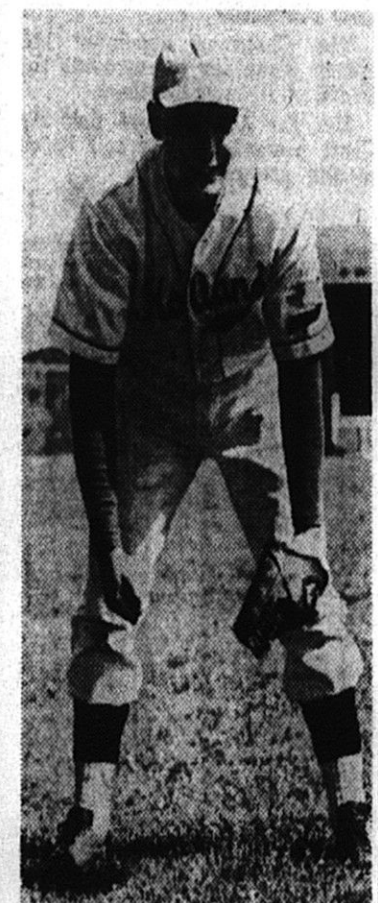

The locals didn't get a hit off the right-handed slants of Jerry Gilpin until the third, although they scored one in the first on Ron Fortney's walk, a wild pitch and two infield grounders.

Allegan tied the score in the first of the third with a couple of walks and an error by Humbert.

Four runs in the last of the third was more than enough for the locals. With two away, Fortney singled to right, Ernie Victor walked and Borgman scored Fortney with a grounder over second. Frank Wlodarczyk legged a hit to short with both Victor and Borgman crossing and Gene Schrotenboer cracked a ground-rule double in the left field stand to score Wlodarczyk.

The game continued with Humbert mowing the Bloods down and Gilpin doing an equally effective job on the Dutchmen until the eighth.

The Dutchmen struck suddenly again in the eighth. George Czerkies' pop fly dropper for a single in short left. Gerry Witteveen struck out, but with two gone, Jack Van Dorpe singled to right advancing Czerkies to third. Van

RON FORTNEY
Dorpe took second on the throw in. Humbert then came through with a single to left scoring two and Fortney followed it with a two-bagger along the right field line to tally Humbert.

Humbert had excellent control after the third inning. The game was the fastest of the season, lasting an even two hours.

Fortney led the Dutchmen with a double and a single in four trips. He scored two runs and batted another across. The hits were well divided with all but Victor and Witteveen getting into the act.

The victory is the third in a row for the locals and their 15th success against nine defeats. Humbert's mark now is 4-1.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a lovely white slipper satin gown with fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves and full skirt with cathedral train. Style features were the net yoke outlined by a satin bertha collar gathered in front by tiny satin buttons which matched the buttons down the back of the bodice. A fitted stomacher at the neckline ended in short streamers in the back. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was caught up in a satin band. She carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis centered with white gardenias.

Accenting the church setting of palms, ferns, candelabra and bouquets of white gladioli were the delicate pink gowns of the bridesmaids. Miss Lois Sharda, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, Miss Kathleen Tuuk, sister of the groom, and Mrs. David Thomas of Grand Rapids were bridesmaids. Their gowns were pinked with marquisette with pink satin trim. The boat shaped necklines and cap sleeves were bound with satin cord and tiny satin buttons extended down the front to the waistlines. The bouffant skirts were trimmed with satin cord and tiny buttons to the waistline. The short sleeves were puffed and the full skirt was trimmed with a ruffle at the hemline. She wore a band of white pompons in her hair and carried a basket of rose petals.

Little Carol Lamberts, the groom's niece, was flower girl. She wore a white taffeta gown with peter pan collar and tiny buttons to the waistline. ## Victor, Humbert Star in Winning Ninth One-Runner

Lefty Wins 2nd Tussle This Week; Lou Crashes Out 4 Solid Safeties

A couple of Dutchmen pitchers—one on the mound, the other with a bat—combined talents Thursday night to power the local express to another familiar one-run victory, this time over the tough Grand Rapids Black Sox 5-4.

Lefty Ernie Victor was the man on the mound for the Dutchmen, holding the heavy-swinging Sox to eight scattered blows and winning his second start in four days, and little Lou Humbert was the man with the bat, as he pounded out a double and three singles and scored twice to become the hitting star of the game.

Victor pitched a smooth ball game and except when the Black Sox loaded the bases with one out in the seventh and when Jake Robinson homered in the eighth, the husky lefthander was in command all the way.

The win gives the Dutchmen 14 victories against nine defeats for the season. This includes the forfeit game with the Benton Harbor Buds. It also makes the ninth time this season the locals have come out on the heavy end of a one-run game and the 14th such tussle they have been involved in.

Both teams scored in the first inning in rather simple fashion. Bob Smart cracked a single to center to leadoff for the Sox. He advanced all the way to third as Sammy Robinson bounced out and scored on the same play when Victor threw wild to third in a vain effort to flag him.

The locals tallied in a rather shoddy fashion when Humbert was safe on an error, advanced to third when Frank Wlodarczyk was safe on Smart's bobble and scored on a balk by Jelly Taylor, Sox pitcher.

Then the roly-poly Taylor—who allowed only seven hits all night—and Victor settled down to some real pitching.

In the fourth, the Dutchmen batted another run without the benefit of a hit. Lefty Van Wierendrew a pass, advanced to second on Whitey Witteveen's sacrifice, to third on an infield bouncer, and scored when Taylor uncovered a wild pitch.

The Dutchmen upped the count to 3-1 in the fifth. Humbert slapped his second hit to left, stole second, and came across as Wlodarczyk smashed a single to center.

In the seventh, the Sox broke through to tie the score. Paul Brown opened with a single to left. Stalin Hamilton advanced him to second with a hit to right.

Brown tallied on an infield out. Hamilton advanced to second on Taylor's walk and he went to third on a force play and scored when Borgman threw wild to third trying to get him.

A single by Humbert, a walk, and Wlodarczyk's singles produced a 5-4 count in the seventh which was short-lived when Robinson parked a liner into the stands in left in the eighth frame.

But the Dutchmen broke through in the eighth when Con Boeve was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on a passed ball by Scott, and came home on Victor's game-winning single to center.

The Sox outlived the Dutchmen, eight to seven. Only three men were able to solve Taylor's left-handed craftiness. Wlodarczyk added two to Humbert's four and Victor had his vital hit.

It is the second victory for the Dutchmen over the Grand Rapids crew this season.

A good crowd watched the proceedings despite overhanging clouds which threatened rain all evening.

The Dutchmen were heartened by the quick return of Witteveen to the lineup. Although Whitey didn't break into the hit column he performed in his usual faultless fashion around the initial sack.

The time of the game was two hours and 20 minutes.

Small Sailing Boats Providing Week-End Thrills on Macatawa

With more than half the season over, the small sailing craft are still in the midst of hot battles for honors in the four divisions after week-end races on Lake Macatawa.

The fleet, which numbers 32 boats and more than 60 sailors, has been racing each Saturday and Sunday throughout the summer.

The racing season will reach its climax with a special Labor Day regatta for all classes.

In races so far, Charles Dalvini has a slight edge in the Crescent class. But Paul Harms, Gertie Boyd and Jim Field are a constant threat to the leader and the battle may carry into the last race of the season.

Jack van der Velde and Bill Jesiek are fighting it out for the Lawley trophy. After 14 races, van der Velde still leads by the narrow margin of five points. Mary Stewart and Charles Walker are in contention for third place.

Caryl Curtis has been a constant winner in the Lightning races. Improved sailing by Herb and Jim Pollock, Jane Boyd and Sally Copeland has cut Caryl's early season margin.

Jack Hobeck in the "C" class is the only leader whose position seems safe. Ann Lowry, Peter Butterfield and Frank Knoop are vying for second and third place honors.

Results of Saturday races in order of finish:

Crescents—Field, Dalvini and Boyd.

Lawleys—Jesiek, Stewart and van der Velde.

Lightnings—Curtis, Jim Pollock and Boyd.

"C"—Hobeck, Lowry, and Butterfield.

Sunday's results in order of finish:

Crescents (first race)—Harms, Dalvini and Field. Second race—Dalvini, Harms and Boyd.

Lawleys (first race)—Jesiek, Walker and van der Velde. Second race—van der Velde, Jesiek and Bob Den Herder.

Lightnings (first race)—Copeland, Curtis and Boyd. Second race—Boyd, Curtis and Herb Pollock.

"C" (first race)—Hobeck, Lowry and Butterfield. Second race—Hobeck, Lowry and Bill Canute.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

That writers can't as a rule rise above their own level was once more demonstrated in the case of Robert Hichens, a British novelist who won worldwide fame early in the century with his best seller, "The Garden of Allah."

Hichens died the other day at the age of 85. When he passed off the scene physically he had been "dead" so long as a literary reputation that most readers probably were surprised that he had not been dead for a generation.

Hichens belonged to the era just before the first World War. It may perhaps be aptly described as the age of "sheik literature" in world fiction. A surprisingly large number of writers, both British and American, discovered the Mohammedan world as material for fiction. They were, so far as I know, without a single exception, second rate writers, and many of them were fifth and even tenth rate.

Hichens ranks fairly high among those secondary novelists that held the attention of novel readers in those days when a global war was still unimaginable. He was only 17 years old when he rang the bell with his book, "The Garden of Allah." The novel was taken very seriously in those naive days when most American and British readers regarded the Mohammedan world as "mysterious" or "romantic" or "mystic," or anything else that they wanted it to be. We of today know a great deal more about that world, forced to acquire our information from the exploits of such persons as Lawrence of Arabia. We know that there is nothing really "mysterious" or "romantic" about "The Garden of Allah" would fall on deaf ears.

But in those days the subject was a natural for writers who knew how to exploit public curiosity about a type of life that was completely new to them. To exploit that interest it was not necessary for a writer to know anything about Mohammedan life. As a matter of fact, most of the novelists who made reputations with ing about the Arabs. Robert Hichens was about as ignorant as all the others, but he at least had a certain grace of style that recommended him somewhat to the discerning.

A woman writer of that time out-Heroded all the others by calling her book "The Sheik." She sold millions of copies, and her novel had a big run on the stage and later in the movies. Yet it was more than 99 per cent phony, both as fiction and as a portrayal of reality. She almost certainly would not have recognized a real sheik if she had stumbled over one. But the reading public in both Britain and America much preferred her phony figures to the real thing.

Robert Hichens was somewhat more authentic in his background pictures and in his portrayal of characters than that. He had at least made a visit to the Sahara desert, which formed his fictional background. But the witchery of moonlight on African sand that the stage version created for "The Garden of Allah" was a premonition of Hollywood imagination before Hollywood had become an American institution. And his characters, a renegade Catholic priest and his sweetie, were about as unreal as his locale.

But the reading public bought it up in carload lots, and the boy Hichens' reputation was made overnight on two continents. All the rest of the days of his many years he could trade on that early reputation, but he never rose above his normal level. When he died at 85 he was still only the author of "The Garden of Allah," all his other books forgotten. And even that book had achieved the oblivion it deserved. The present generation knows not Hichens.

Holland In 1916

(Following is the 471st in the series of weekly articles taken from news of the Holland Daily Sentinel published almost 35 years ago.)

Holland stood strongly for G. J. Diekema for the Republican nomination for governor at the primary election Tuesday, according to a story appearing in the Wednesday, Aug. 3, issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel published in 1916. There were 1,889 votes cast for the governorship in the various wards. Of these, Diekema received 1,655.

Although Cornelius Dornbos ran far ahead of all other candidates for the nomination of sheriff in Holland and in this vicinity, Del Fortney received such a large vote in Grand Haven and the north end of the county that when the Sentinel went to press there was only a few votes difference between the two men and the race is undecided.

Attorney F. T. Miles was nominated prosecuting attorney of Ottawa county on the Republican ticket at primary election Tuesday. He defeated his opponent, Thomas N. Robinson, also of this city.

Although reports were not received on the county clerkship race, Orrie J. Sluiter of Grand Haven is conceded to be the winner, even by his opponent, Jacob Gierum's forces.

Mrs. M. Tromp, 26 West Sixth St., gave a surprise party for her daughter, Gladys, the occasion being her 18th birthday.

Mrs. Ella Whitman and daughter, Ada, have returned from Bear Lake where they spent the summer.

Miss Lucy Cook leaves Saturday for Shelby where she has been engaged as teacher in the fourth grade of the Shelby public schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Geerlings and children are on a week's trip to Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Frank Meyer and children, Marion and David, of Wooster, Ohio, former residents of Holland, are visiting here for a few days.

Mrs. Ben Wiersema and daughters, Marjorie and Nelvina, are spending the week in Grand Rapids, with Mrs. E. Rodenhouse.

John Whelan, now a second classman at Annapolis, is in the city on a 30-day furlough following a summer cruise on the Atlantic from Cuba to Portsmouth, Me., and finishing with target practice and a sham battle at Sandy Hook.

Miss Anna Aakken entertained her Sunday school class with a picnic at Macatawa Tuesday afternoon. Miss Carol Leenhouts, their former teacher and Mrs. E. W. Lindberg assisted in giving the little folks a good time.

The total vote in Holland Tuesday was close to 2,000. This is one of the heaviest votes ever cast in the city and it is almost three times as many votes as was cast last primary election day.

Benjamin Brower of 56 West 16th St. was surprised Tuesday by several of his relatives, the occasion being his 21st wedding anniversary. It has always been hard to put a surprise over on the ex-alderman but this time it worked. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brower, Mr. and Mrs. Hein Brower of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Brower and daughter, Julia, of Overisel, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brower of Fillmore, J. Kronmeyer and daughter, Minnie, John Kookier and daughter, Mary, of Hamilton.

Today is the 36th birthday of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, according to a story appearing in the Thursday, August 31, issue. All of her loyal and loving people in the Dutch territory of the earth and in this country are celebrating this fact. They have a just cause of celebration. The Netherlands, through the integrity and far seeing wisdom of their Queen, have kept out of the European struggle and have maintained neutrality without offending either side. The Queen is devotedly attached to her daughter, Juliana Marie Emma Wilhelmina, now seven years old.

Football will start with a rush at Holland high on the very first day of school. A call for candidates is already out and will be announced Tuesday morning in school and in the afternoon the old practice grounds at 15th and River Ave. will be the scene of kicking, plunging and tackling and the careful moulding into form by Coach C. E. Drew started.

Returns from several of the townships in Ottawa county are not yet in, but enough information has been received by telephone from these missing townships to get an estimate of the two county offices, sheriff and register of deeds, in which there was a doubt as to who was nominated County Clerk Gierum informs this paper that deputy game warden Cornelius Dornbos, is elected by less than 100 votes Herman Vanden Brink, city treasurer, and candidate for register of deeds of this city, was not so fortunate. Although Herman is not out of the race altogether, it appears there will be either a recount of a straw pulling contest between Mr. Ryenga of Grand Haven and Mr. Vanden Brink of Holland. Mr. Ryenga concedes this morning that the vote between him and Mr. Vanden Brink is a tie.

Miss Jeanette Schoon of this city is spending a week with friends in Portland.

Atty. Thomas N. Robinson left last night for Pentwater, to join his wife and two children in a visit at the home of his parents there.

Grass Conscious Ottawa Farmers Plant Cover Crops

College Specialists Conduct Research On Pasture Grass

For the past five years the extension service and the West Ottawa Soil Conservation District in Ottawa county have emphasized the value of good grass for pasture and h. y. Many farmers are now "grass conscious." Many acres of Reed Canary grass, Ladino, Sudan grass are now to be found in the county. Rye for cover crop purposes, also for pasture is growing in importance. Fescue for orchards is now a common grass.

Just what is the value of grass for pasture? Last year Michigan State college research specialists made a survey in Ionia county. On 39 farms which were studied, the return was $31.90 per acre of pasture grazed.

Low land, mainly Reed Canary, was valued at $35.00 per acre; rotation pastures, meadow and Sudan at $28.00; native upland pasture mainly June grass at $13.00 per acre. This seems to indicate that establishment of good grass pastures does pay.

L. R. Arnold, County Agricultural agent, believes that Ottawa farmers are well aware of the value of pastures. A few have even established irrigation to increase the amount of grass.

Michigan State college specialists are pushing hard for more acres of low land to Reed Canary grass. Most farmers plant in August and September due to the fact that good sites are generally too wet to work before August.

Reed Canary will furnish more pasture per acre than any other grass. It must be fertilized well in order to get good results. Arnold states that there are hundreds of acres of good Reed Canary land lying idle. This land could produce much milk or beef if properly handled.

Farmers Use Plastic Underground Cables

The newest wrinkle in farm wiring is to have cables buried underground. A farm magazine reports many farmers are making use of a new tough long-lasting plastic-covered cable that requires no special tubing. It is covered by labor-saving small trench diggers which hold down the cost of installation.

Farmers who are putting their wiring systems underground are looking for safety, permanence, convenience and sightliness, says a story in the nationally-circulated farm magazine.

Remove Moisture To Prevent Mildew In Hot Weather

Muggy, warm, summer weather is the ideal time for the molds to grow that cause mildew. They thrive on cloth, paper, wood and leather, warns a Michigan State college, extension specialist. Mildew discolors, leaves a musty odor and causes decay.

First step in preventing mildew is to remove moisture. Windows and doors should be opened for airing only when the air outside is cooler and drier than the air inside. A cool night is a good time to freshen the air in the entire house and a little heat in a stove will speed up the drying process.

Electric fans are helpful in circulating the warm damp air out. A small electric light burning in a closet is sufficient to dry the air and a fan may be used for circulation.

One of the chemicals available to absorb moisture is calcium chloride. If a musty odor persists it may be removed by sprinkling chloride of lime in the areas, as on a basement floor.

A few simple rules will help you to prevent mildew from growing on clothing and other household articles. Never allow damp or wet articles to lie around. Stretch out to dry all moist or wet soiled clothing and unironed dampened garments. Sprinkle only enough pieces for one day's ironing. Give leather articles a coat of wax before storing. Remember to wax the soles of shoes, too.

Milk Productions Give Extra Income

We usually think of the dairy cow primarily as a source of income for farmers and fresh milk for our tables. G. G. Quackenbush, dairy economist at Michigan State college, says we shouldn't overlook her important role as provider for specialized manufacturing operations which have become big business in Michigan.

More than two billion pounds of milk, over half of Michigan's total commercial supply, is processed into manufactured dairy products in state dairy plants each year.

Butter accounts for 40 per cent of all milk used for manufactured dairy products, according to Quackenbush. The next most important use of milk for manufacturing was for evaporated and condensed milk products.

Ice cream was third. About 362 million pounds of milk were used to produce more than 26 million gallons of ice cream. Cheese ranked fourth, using 245 million pounds of milk.
