Two-Day Event at Zeeland Attracts Record Crowds

ZEELAND (Special)—Talk to anybody, the police who handled the traffic, the concession operators, those handing out the free coffee and lemonade, they'll all agree—This year's Farmer's Day Picnic was the largest ever.

Conservative estimates on attendance say that more than 13,000 persons attended the two-day event.

Largest group was on hand at Wednesday night's performance as the Moore Brothers of Grand Rapids put on a trampoline act that really wowed the audience.

And the crowd didn't diminish any when the act ended, because movies, including a comedy, held their attention.

Throughout the event people thronged through the small grove at Lawrence St. Park, to go on the rides.

All the little happenings of a mass of people occurred. There were the two youngsters who turned in a billfold, unmarked and containing cash, who wandered off gratefully with a free pass to the rides.

There were some tiny tots who slept soundly in strollers while their parents pushed their way around the carnival attractions. And there were boys, strong to be men, ringing the gong with a heavy mallet.

In the morning, rains postponthe tractor rodeo but when it finally got underway a throng of about 2,500 persons watched Merrit Zwiers sweep to first place.

Zwiers, of route 3, Hudsonville, finished ahead of Jim Keppel of route 3, Zeeland, and Alvin Overbeek of route 1, Hamilton.

Winner of the registered bull given away by Mead Johnson and Co. to improve the local herd was Jake Krandsen of route 3, Holland.

Trial Scheduled

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—The trial of George Luther Stone, 52, Grand Haven and Grand Rapids, charged with drunk driving, has been scheduled Sept. 3 at 2 p.m. in Municipal Court. Stone was arrested by state police June 28 on M-50 in Robinson township. He pleaded not guilty June 29. The trial was postponed because of the absence of his attorney who is on vacation.

Perimeter of City Parking Lot Will Be Landscaped

Council Approves New Plan Which Provides Raised Walkways Too

A revised plan for the parking area east of Civic Center providing a landscaped strip around the Eighth, Ninth and Pine Ave. sides of the perimeter and raised eight-foot walks between banks of parked cars was approved by City Council Wednesday night.

The landscaped strip on Eighth St. and on Pine Ave. will be about eight feet wide, widening to about 20 feet on the slope on Ninth St., and providing a larger curved beauty spot at the corner of Ninth St. and Pine Ave., according to plans presented by City Manager H. C. McClintock.

The eight-foot walkways between rows of parked cars will be about four inches above the general parking area. There will be three such walkways running east and west for banks of parked cars. There will be spaces for 294 cars. Drainage plans also were outlined.

Estimated cost of completing the parking lot, exclusive of waterlines and landscaping the perimeter is $26,150. Additional work calls for replacing the sidewalk on Eighth St. with an eight-foot walk from the driveway in front of the building to Pine Ave., and replacing approximately 100 lineal feet of sidewalk on Pine Ave. Cost of this additional work is estimated at $2,595.60.

City Manager McClintock also suggested that the area south of the building, tentatively set aside for a swimming pool, could be planted to lawn for a part of the landscaping or could be developed as a parking lot. If used for parking, space from Maple Ave. to the west line of the building should be improved with lawn and a shrubbery screen with similar treatment adjacent to the Ninth St. sidewalk. He also said the area could be used for parking buses.

Council instructed the city manager to prepare estimates for both gravel and blacktop for this area. There was some general opinion that if the city should have a swimming pool in the next few years that it should be incorporated into the school system.

Council also considered bids for a sprinkling system to be installed on the premises, and in view of alternate plans on parking lot development, Mayor Harry Harrington was instructed to appoint a special committee with power to act. Plans include development of its own well and a pump.

In other business, Council approved offering for sale lots in block E in Pilgrim Home Cemetery No. 3. This block has been developed and all that remains to be done is landscaping in certain plots, the cost to be charged to the Cemetery Improvement Reserve Fund.

Councilmen unanimously approved purchase of a Bastian-Blessing Co. soda unit to dispense finished drinks at the Civic Center concession at a cost of $1,350, including installation.

The city manager presented the final report of the Coal Producers Committee for smoke abatement on the smoke survey made in Holland in July, 1953, and February, 1954. Reports with additional data pertaining to each of the 26 plants inspected have been forwarded by the city manager to the respective plants. McClintock said the surveys are specific and based on good fuel consumption practices and if placed in effect will result in savings in operating expense as well as minimizing possible smoke nuisance. He said an excellent service had been performed for the city.

With three councilment absent, Council decided not to take action on the special ordinance for enlarging and extending Holland's water supply system and adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Monday to discuss the ordinance after further study. It was determined that Council may take action on the ordinance which had its first two readings two weeks ago or might call a special meeting for next Wednesday.

Mayor Harrington presided at the meeting which lasted an hour and 40 minutes. Absent were Councilmen Raymond Holwerda, Anthony Nienhuis and Bernice Bishop. Councilman John Beltman gave the invocation.

Holland Traffic Report Ready

A representative group of local citizens interested in traffic safety will gather in City Hall at 2 p.m. Tuesday to hear a state police analysis of traffic safety activities in Holland for 1953. This analysis has been prepared by the National Safety Council based on information furnished by city officials.

City Clerk Clarence Grevengoed has sent notices to several persons involved in Holland's traffic safety program, and Mayor Harry Harrington particularly urges that all persons who received notice attend.

Other persons interested in Holland's traffic program also are invited.

AND THEY CAN SING, TOO — The pretty Teen Trio, who have won fame on Fred Waring's television programs, claim to be just average teenagers, but it's no average performance when the three blend their voices on pop tunes that "send" audiences of any age. Identical twins June and Jean Hendon and blond Sandy Schneider have been guests at Castle Park this week and will return to their homes in Flint and Lake Fenton on Friday, in time to do a police benefit performance. They are pictured with Harold "Butch" Tanis, their host while in Holland. The girls are accompanied by Sandy's father. (Sentinel photo)

Will Is Admitted To Probate Court

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—The will of the late James W. Oakes, well known realtor and insurance man who died last Thursday in Municipal Hospital, was filed for probate in Ottawa Probate Court Monday afternoon. No estimate was available on total holdings.

The will dated March 9, 1951, leaves his insurance and real estate business to his wife, his business associate John W. Van Schelven, two nephews and a niece with the stipulation that Mrs. Oakes is to receive the net profits of the business at least quarter-annually. After her death, trustees are to dispose of the business and assets as follows, 25 percent to Van Schelven, 10 percent to Elizabeth Voss, long-time secretary, and the remaining 65 percent to be appraised with Van Schelven having the privilege of purchasing 20 percent and Gene DeGlopper and James W. Oakes II each 26⅔ percent.

Other bequests after Mrs. Oakes' death will leave $2,500 for an adopted daughter, $5,000 for the Presbyterian church building fund, the home property on Lake Ave. to a niece, other property to Esther Dean Nyland, and $10,000 to Van Schelven, Oakes, De Glopper and Miss Nyland, as trustees to be held in trust under provisions named in the will, plus division of the residue of the estate to other relatives.

Himelstein Seeks Dismissal of Case

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Grand Rapids City Attorney Samuel H. Himelstein has filed a motion in the county clerk's office here to dismiss the temporary injunction signed by Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith last Thursday ordering Grand Rapids city and Kent county to refrain from sending prisoners to Aman park. The case was brought against Grand Rapids city and Kent county by Ottawa county Prosecutor James W. Bussard.

In his motion for dismissal, Himelstein maintains that the injunction should have been served on either the mayor, city clerk or city attorney, and not the city manager whom Sheriff Jerry Vanderbeek served the papers on last week.

Himelstein requests a hearing Friday, Aug. 20, but since Judge Smith is on vacation the hearing will probably not be held at that time. Himelstein also claims that Ottawa Circuit Court has no jurisdiction over the city of Grand Rapids and that exclusive jurisdiction of suits brought against it is vested in Superior Court of Grand Rapids. He said further that the bill of complaint shows no specific type of nuisance.

Bussard said today that in view of the fact that the Grand Rapids city attorney feels the injunction was not served on the right party, he probably will order similar service on one of the three named in the hope that whoever is duly served will have some respect for judicial process.

Copies of the temporary injunction were served on the Kent county sheriff and county clerk as well as the city manager of Grand Rapids.

Real Cool Crooners Are The Teen Trio of TV Fame

Of all the rising stars on the crowded show business horizon, these three slick chicks are the ones we dig the most.

You need only to meet them to be completely captivated by the three young singing stars, who, as the Teen Trio, have skyrocketed to national fame with the Fred Waring Show.

We met them at Castle Park, where they're relaxing at a cottage for a few days in the waning weeks of their vacation.

The bright-eyed brunets are Jean and June Hendon, 17-year-old identical twins who are as alike as the two proverbial bugs. The winsome blond is Sandy Schneider, who's only 16, but will reach 17 in November. The twins live in Flint and Sandy's home is in Lake Fenton.

It's no surprise that the youngsters sing like veteran stars when you consider they've been harmonizing together since they were mere babes. A school talent show—when they were in sixth grade—started the whole thing. Each child in the class was to sing a song for the show, but the three friends decided to combine their efforts, made a big hit and have been amazing audiences ever since.

When they were 12, they won a Hormel Girls contest and got a free trip to Chicago where they sang on a nationwide hookup. Since then, their home audiences have kept them busy singing at amateur shows, in theaters and at civic functions—plus they had their own radio show.

Arthur Godfrey paved their way to the top when they won first place on his Talent Scout program. That's when Fred Waring "discovered" them. They joined the Pennsylvanians last November, for regular shows and tours.

With all this traveling and preparing for shows, a regular school schedule is out. All three would be high school seniors this year, but they'll graduate out of the classroom. Beginning this fall, a tutor will accompany them and they'll work daily studies into their busy routine. A chaperone also accompanies them.

The teens do most of their rehearsing with their arranger, Harry Simeon. Fridays and Saturdays they meet with the entire Waring cast for staging, timing, etc. Waring himself does the staging and choreography for the youngsters, and he's an exacting master. They "love" Waring and working with his gang is like being in "one big happy family." But his results show that Waring is a perfectionist, and everybody works to that end.

On vacation since the end of June, the Teens will join Waring again when his programs resume in September.

Going back to work has no dread for these gals—they love to sing, and did so for us, readily, but modestly. As teenagers, they're as average as the kids next door, but when they sing—you know they're different. Their three young voices blend beautifully and they've developed a style to equal that of any of the older trios who gained fame when the Teens were only just discovering their vocal chords.

Their specialty, of course, is pop tunes—and the jumpy ones are real crazy. They just made their first record—for Decca—with Joe Marine, a Waring soloist. The title is typical, "It Don't Mean a Thing If It Ain't Got That Swing." On the back side is "Gold Cadillac" from the stage show "The Solid Gold Cadillac." They'll make more records next year.

When they appear on TV, the girls dress identically. Usually, though, they prefer to be different. They do like most of the same things, from food to swimming, fishing, sunning and the like.

All three have new short haircuts. When they arrived, June cut Jean's hair—or was it Jean cut June's—anyway, the other two had planned to cut each other's, but decided on a local beauty salon instead.

The girls are here with Sandy's father, and all are guests of Harold Tanis. Schneider is a representative of the Stroh's company, for which Tanis is a local distributor.

Friday will end the Teen Trio's visit in Holland, as they must return to Flint in time to do a polio benefit show Friday night.

Alsip Found Guilty In Jury Trial

After deliberating a half hour, a six-person jury found Raymond Alsip, 22, route 1, guilty of a charge of driving while his operator's license was revoked in a trial Tuesday afternoon before Municipal Judge Cornelius vander Meulen. The charge resulted from an accident July 10 in which Alsip's car crashed into a tree after rounding a curve at 32nd St. and old US-31.

Judge vander Meulen sentenced Alsip to pay $50 fine, $28 costs and serve 10 days in the county jail, or an alternative of 60 days.

Ottawa Prosecutor James W. Bussard called three witnesses, John Kammeraad a service station attendant who witnessed the accident for the sheriff's department. Appearing for the defense were Marie LaCombe who was riding with Alsip and Elmer (Smiley) Burnette who was riding in another car. Alsip also appeared in his own defense.

Serving on the jury were Mrs. George Lumsden, Dale Fris A.C. Prigge, Gus De Vries, Warner De Leeuw and E. Delbert Vaupell.

In Critical Condition

Miss Margaret Welch of Douglas is in critical condition at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids after contracting bulbar polio earlier this week. She was taken ill Saturday and the polio diagnosis was made Monday. She is unable to talk and has been placed in an iron lung. For more than eight years she was employed at the Roy Van Dragt fruit farm. Her sister, Carol, is employed in the city manager's office in Holland.

Mrs. W.C. Wichers Appointed Member Of Hospital Board

Council Approves Move To Hire Scott Bagby As Planning Consultant

Mrs. Willard C. Wichers of 267 Central Ave was appointed a member of the Hospital Board at a regular meeting of City Council Wednesday night. Her name was submitted by Mayor Harry Harrington and approved by Council.

Mrs. Wichers, a registered nurse and wife of the Midwest director of the Netherlands Information Service, succeeds Mrs. Raymond Fehring who resigned recently when the family moved to California. The term expires in 1958.

Council approved a request from the planning commission to engage Scott Bagby as planning consultant for the present fiscal year at a fee of $1,800. The letter also mentioned submission of the new zoning ordinance to council within the next few months. Appreciation was expressed for the services rendered by Mayor Harrington, Councilman Robert Visscher, City Engineer Jacob Zuidema, City Manager H. C. McClintock, City Clerk Clarence Grevengoed and City Attorney James E. Townsend.

A report from the city treasurer indicated tax collections as of Aug. 17 amounted to 97.76 per cent of the levy, leaving a balance outstanding of $28,294.87.

Council approved the city manager's recommendation for low bid of $1,291.14 from the Lievense Agency for automobile insurance. In all there were seven bids, the highest one exceeding, $1,880.

The city manager was directed to proceed with hiring an architect to draw plans for a new warehouse for the street department. A sum of $25,000 has been set in the current budget for the work.

Clerk Grevengoed presented a communication from the Retail Merchants Division addressed to Mayor Harrington in which it was stated that the retail merchants would be happy to have the city install parking lots at any time deemed necessary.

The clerk presented a record of an application to the Ottawa Road Commission signed by the city manager for permission to construct 2,600 feet of eight-inch sanitary sewer including 15 manholes to service the General Electric Co. plant, with a set of plans to be furnished to the road commission and notice of completion to be given them when the work is completed. The report was filed.

Earl F. Price, Civic Center manager, explained developments at Civic Center and said all work should be completed by Sept. 10 or shortly thereafter. A committee is working on a dedication program.

Fred Arnoldink was granted permission to move a chicken coop through prescribed streets in Holland, provided he meets provisions of the ordinance, plus permission from the park department for possible tree damage.

On suggestion of Councilman Robert Visscher, the city manager was instructed to work out some program with the park department whereby elm trees on private property may be sprayed at a cost to eliminate Dutch elm disease. Visscher said the disease has appeared in parts of the state and the only way to take care of it is by removing dead wood and spraying. Since most elm trees on private property are too tall for ordinary spray rigs, Visscher suggested some program be worked out with the park department.

A communication from the International City Managers Association invitng Holland to be represented by its manager at the 40th annual conference of the International City Managers Association to be held in St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 5 to 8 was tabled for the present.

The clerk presented notice of Great Lakes Harbors association to be held in Muskegon Sept. 12 to 14.

Power Failure Hits Parts of City

Sections of Holland were without power for periods up to an hour and 15 minutes early Wednesday evening because of failure of a coupling on the 11,500 kw. unit which was in operation at the James De Young plant.

George H. Rendleman, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, said today that General Electric personnel were contacted Wednesday night and a new coupling is expected to arrive today or Friday, and installation will be completed in another day.

Meanwhile, power is furnished by two 7,500 kw. units at the James De Young plant, and a 5,000 unit is ready for standby power at the Fifth St. plant. One of the 7,500 units had just been overhauled and was about ready for service. The turbine was ready in four hours, but when it was put into operation, personnel had difficulty with a pump in the changeover and current was out for about five minutes around 9:30 p.m. on one or two circuits.

Rendleman said several sections were not affected by the trouble other than momentary dimming and brightening of lights. Street lights also were out for a time when the late change-over was made.

Ellert Awarded Fulbright Grant For Study, Tour

Dr. Ernest E. Ellert, associate professor of German at Hope College, has been awarded a Fulbright Scholarship for travel, study and lecturing in Germany, Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, president of the college, announced today.

Dr. Ellert, whose new program of teaching foreign languages to grade school pupils in Holland attracted attention of educators throughout the Midwest, will lecture the fall term at the Paedogogisches Institut Der Universitaet in Hamburg.

During the spring term Ellert will travel in addition to teaching at Berlin, Wuppertal and Goettingen.

The announcement coincides with the publishing of a new German teaching manual by Ellert and his wife, Lois. The book, will be used at Hope College this fall.

Ellert started the grade school language program last year teaching in one grade school. So successful was the attempt that the Board of Education has authorized expanding the program to four schools in both German and Spanish.

The program also attracted the attention of Dr. Charles C. Fries of the University of Michigan. Dr. Fries is the author of a world language study program that includes Europe, Korea, Thailand and a number of other nations where English is taught as a foreign language.

Fries, who received a Fulbright grant for work, requested that Ellert accompany him as an assistant. The grants will provide funds for travel and research.

Both men will spend most of their time doing research on methods of teaching foreign languages. Mrs. Ellert and their three children will accompany the group leaving New York Sept. 7.

During Ellert's year's leave of absence from Hope, Ezra Gearhart will aid in the department while Mrs. Alice Klomparens of the public school system will take over the program there.

A graduate of Amherst College in 1937, Ellert studied in Europe in 1937-38 on a scholarship from the Institute of International Education. He also graduated from Columbia University with an M.A. degree and the University of North Carolina where he received a Ph.D. degree in 1947.

The Fulbright award, technically a United States Educational Exchange Grant, is one of 3.3 such awards made this year. All candidates are selected by the Board of Foreign Scholarships, whose members are appointed by the President. Funds for the exchange come from sale of surplus property in foreign countries.

Report of 'Drowning' Brings Swift Action

Report that a salboat had turned over in Lake Michigan and one person was believed missing sent a Coast Guard rescue boat racing to the scene by water as Ottawa County Deputies hurried to the shoreline by car.

The telephone report said a sailboat had turned over near Tunnel Park a short distance out in the big lake and one person was still clinging to the boat.

The Coast Guard boat arrived a few minutes later and found a canoe with an improvised sail being hauled up on shore by a lone person. He said he had been alone.

Meanwhile, deputies walked up and down the shoreline for an hour looking for signs of the boat until the correct report was relayed to them.

Joyce Marie Stremler Wed to Lawrence Peck

Miss Joyce Marie Stremler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stremler, 150 West 16th St., became the bride of Lawrence Glen Peck of Detroit Friday evening in Fourth Reformed Church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Peck of Detroit.

Palms, ferns and bouquets of white gladioli and candelabra decorated the church for the double ring rites, performed by the Rev. Henry Van Dyke. Miss Marie Meinsma, organist, provided traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Shirley Dykema as she sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

A gown of nylon tulle over white taffeta with accents of imported lace was chosen by the bride. The bodice featured a sculptured boat neckline and short lace-edged sleeves. Her illusion veil was secured by a headpiece of white taffeta trimmed with lace. She carried a white rose bouquet with streamers tied with rosebuds. Her single strand of pearls was a gift from the groom.

Bridal attendants were all gowned alike, in blue organdy over blue taffeta with white taffeta sashes and white taffeta headpieces. They carried yellow rose colonial bouquets. Miss Lila Jane Stremler was her sister's maid of honor and Miss Ruth Jurries and Miss Judy Ann Peck, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Darla Kay Stremler, the bride's sister, as flower girl, wore a white organdy over taffeta gown with blue sash and headpiece and carred a basket of rose petals.

The groom chose as his attendants Liston Albaugh, Jr., of Detroit as best man and Roy Anderson of Detroit and Gerald Mitchell of Cleveland, his cousin, as ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stremler were master and mistress of ceremonies.

At the reception for 175 guests in the church, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haverkamp served at the punch bowl and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stremler arranged the gifts. Miss Loretta Jane Stremler had charge of the guest book.

Assisting about the rooms were the Misses Marge Weller, Mary and Jane Hossink, Delores Kampen, Audrey Bauman, Joan Heneveld, Janice Koeman, Ruth Ann Breuker and Mrs. Mary Overway.

A program included a vocal solo by Mrs. Shirley Dykema, piano solo by Eugene Groenhof, reading by Miss Julia Keen and prayer by Rev. Van Dyke.

For their wedding trip to Upper Michigan and the Wisconsin Dells, the new Mrs. Peck wore a pale blue dress with matching bolero trimmed with blue daisies, white accessories and a pink rose corsage. After Aug. 28, the newlyweds will be at home at 18965 Stout St., Detroit.

Mrs. Peck, a graduate of Holland High School, has been employed as a secretary at Baker Furniture, Inc. Her husband was graduated from Redford High School, attended Michigan State College and now attends Lawrence Tech in Detroit.

Merchants Pull Big Zeeland Upset

Obedient Plant Really a Mint

Some may know this plant as dragon's head or as lion's heart and a few would be likely to consider that either a lion or a dragon might be considered as obedient. Some botany texts list it as belonging to the genus Dracocephalum while others list it as belonging to the genus Physostegia. In either case, however, it is a mint.

OBEDIENT-PLANT

The plant grows wild in waste places along banks of streams where there is some dampness from New Brunswick to Maryland and west to Minnesota and Missouri with the range extending south to the highlands of North Carolina and Tennessee. In some places, the plant is cultivated as an ornamental and it is listed commonly in books dealing primarily with attractive flowers.

Obedient plant grows to a height of nearly five feet with a four-sided stem that is smooth branched and usually more slender in the upper areas. The leaves are opposite, coarsely but shallowly notched along the margins and often with short undeveloped branches in the axils.

Grandstanding...

By Bruce Van Voorst

Holland High School fans will see the 1954 football team take the field in a new model headgear Sept. 18. The plastic helmets with a wide, white stripe down the middle will really look sharp.

Who's wearing the helmets is a question even Coach Dale Shearer would like to know.

Still not playing in a conference, the Dutch have a 3-6 record to look back on last year and not much more to look forward to this season.

About the only encouraging factor will be an unusually large group of candidates, as vigorous efforts by the athletic department have signed up 130 potential gridsmen.

Shearer and his staff will meet with the gang Tuesday, Aug. 24, for a skull session before issuing equipment on the 28th. Two-a-day practices will start Aug. 30 and continue until school opens.

Shearer's staff this season will include Carroll Norlin, former reserve coach, as the new varsity end coach. Ned Stuits will take the line while Shearer will work with the backs.

Bill Hinga has been named rereserve coach and will be assisted by Bob Connell. Ninth graders will work under Ed Damson and Ted Boeve while Harold Streeter will take the eighth graders.

But despite the good sized group of candidates, only 15 are lettermen and only one, saw full-time action last year.

Van Dyke, slated to operate from one of the halfbacks posts, is a fine runner and played varsity last season while a sophomore.

Only other lettermen to see much action are co-captains Chuck Goulooze and Carl Ver Beek. Goulooze is a center while Ver Beek operates out of a guard slot. Both lads are seniors.

Although this is about the extent of the veterans, Elwood 'Woody' Bos broke a leg before last season began, but has the size and ruggedness that makes a good tackle.

Remainder of the lettermen saw only limited action in last year's campaign and, although not lacking in size, they need more experience.

Shearer estimates the new squad will be somewhat smaller than last year's, but added speed will more than make up for the difference.

Returning at end are Gerald Boeve and Paul Northuis, both seniors who will get first crack at a regular assignment. Francis Francomb is a good tackle prospect, as are Bill Buis and Ray Arenas.

In the middle of the line Harry Zimmerman and Carl Kemme loom as the men to beat.

But Shearer still needs to find enough of that added "zip" needed for good pulling guards, particularly under the straight T attack he uses with a wingback.

In the backfield Shearer must also find a break-away runner. Van Dyke, although a hard runner, isn't particularly fast.

Gerald Brouwer, Jim Boeve, Dick Den Uyl and Tom Klomparens won letters in the backfield but as of now can't be considered experienced backfield men.

Brake Urges GOPs To Work as Team In Fall Election

Treasurer Keynotes County Convention; Delegates Selected

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — State Treasurer D. Hale Brake pointed to the practical aspects of the November election and urged additional effort on the part of all Republicans when he delivered the keynote address at the Ottawa County Republican convention in a crowded court room here Thursday night.

"This is a Republican state. In the last seven elections dating back to 1940 we've polled more GOP votes than Democratic, even in 1948 when each party elected three state officials. But in the last seven elections, a Democratic governor has been elected four times, not because of the enemy's strength but because of our weakness," he said.

Brake said a leading weakness of Michigan Republicans is party dissension and inability to get together and work as a team. "We really don't quarrel among ourselves any more than the Democrats, but we stay mad longer and we may well profit by the Democrats' better politics. They've shown themselves to be better politicians than we. We constantly help them win by the bigness of our hearts," he said.

The state treasurer, who was defeated by Donald S. Leonard for the GOP gubernatorial nomination in the Aug. 3 primaries, sharply critized Gov. G. Mennen Williams and the "nice young man" sentiments which are popular all over the state and among many Republicans. Healso criticized Republican communities (Tulip Time excepted) for continuing to invite a Democratic governor to share the limelight from dedicating hospitals to crowning queens.

Pointing to realistic political factors, Brake said, "We have some unemployment in Michigan. Employment is really above average but people seem to want wartime employment without the war and there are those who will blame the Republicians. The best answer is, 'Do you want another war?' Farming also is not quite so profitable, and there's some unhappiness there.

"Consequently, the Republicans will have to deal with questions regarding unemployment and lower farm prices. I think our government is finding the right answers, but a lot of people aren't going to be satisfied. This Republican state has tolerated a left-wing Democrat too long. Let's end it. It can be done. Let's keep a Republican legislature and a Republican governor."

County Republican Chairman C. C. Andreasen of Holland presided and State Sen. Clyde Geerlings gave the invocation. Mrs. Jane Lilley of Grand Haven served as temporary chairman and Fred Den Herder as clerk. Ed Meany of Grand Haven introduced the speaker.

Twenty-six delegates and 26 alternates were named to attend the state GOP convention in Grand Rapids Aug. 21. Delegates chosen in precinct caucuses were Al Dyk, Mrs. Hesper Raymond, A. G. Sall, Riemer Van Til and Wallace Dykhuis of Holland city, Howard Miller and William H. Van Loo of Zeeland city, Claude VerDuin, Frank Meyer and David R. R. Pushaw of Grand Haven and James Bussard and Dexter Munroe of Spring Lake.

Named from townships were Elfrieda Pytlinske, Marvin Smith, Robert Vande Bunte, Henry E. Geerlings, George A. Bosjnak, John H. Maat, John L. Van Appledorn, Theodore Baker and Dr. H. H. Swartz.

Alternates are Alyce Yost, Eugene S. Batema, Henry Kuiper, Bruce Van Voorst and Seymour Padnos of Holland, Don R. Vos and Yvonne De Jong of Zeeland, Howard Rose, Henry Wierenga and John Van Beukering of Grand Haven, George Pardee and Arthur Gieseking of Spring Lake. County GOPs Eliminate Millard in Endorsements

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Delegates to the annual County Republican Convention held here Thursday night unanimously adopted a resolution urging most state officers to "make themselves available for renomination" to offices.

Prepared by a Resolution Committee headed by Rep. George Van Peursem of Zeeland, the text indicated endorsement of Owen J. Cleary, Secretary of State; D. Hale Brake, State Treasurer, and John Martin, Auditor General.

No endorsement was given to Attorney General Frank G. Millard. Van Peursem explained the omission as based on the existence of "a certain amount of unhappiness concerning some official actions of Millard."

Millard's ruling on use of state equalized valuation in county tax assessments was pointed out as one instance where "there have been expressions of dissatisfaction in other counties."

Because of the possible dissension, and noting that "party solidarity is absolutely essential" for a victory in November, Van Peursem said the resolution committee decided to leave out any mention of Millard.

"Millard's name was left out, but we were fully prepared to accept any amendment from the floor of the convention supporting Millard," Van Peursem explained.

The name of Dr. Eugene Keyes also was ommitted from names recent primary candidates congratulated for a clean and able campaign.

Complete text of the section on Millard included: "The delegates assembled here, believing that party solidarity is absolutely essential for a complete Republican victory in November, urge Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary. State treasurer D. Hale Brake and Auditor General John Martin to make themselve available to the convention for renomination to the offices which they now so ably fill, so that their proven ability to campaign side by side with Homer Ferguson, Donald S. Leonard and Clarence Reid will assure Michigan of its first Republican governor in six years."

The resolution, as submitted by the committee was unanimously adopted by the convention.

Members of the committee included Vera Duckworth, Tessie Van Til, Joan Danhof, Henry Cook, Howard F. Rose, Louis Vollink, Peter Pyle and Van Peursem.

Volleys

Vogelzang Hardware store had occasion today to thank an old customer for honesty. It came about in this unsigned note:

"Dear Sir: Years ago when I was a little girl when I was walking past one of the counters in the store, I was walking too close by the counter and I brushed a couple of glasses off. I didn't know enough to pay for them then. I don't know how much they were, probably around five cents each. They were little plain ones. I am sending a quarter to pay for them. I am sorry I broke them."

A quarter was enclosed.

The hardware store wasn't the only local store experiencing such honesty.

A few days ago a man with four youngsters stopped at the Wooden Shoe factory enroute their home in Indiana. It was evident there was not much money, although the children were neat and clean. They had looked forward to seeing the wooden shoe maker.

After wide-eyed fascination they asked if they could try on the shoes. The father turned to Del Van Tongeren and said, "I don't want to mislead you. I've had car trouble and have very little money. I can't afford to buy the kids wooden shoes, but could they just try them on?"

Del assented and the kids tried on the shoes. Not having the heart to separate shoes from kids, Del did something he never practiced before with the passing public. He said, "Take the shoes along and send me the money after you get home."

Three days later he received the money in the mail.

It's been cool for the last few days, but that hasn't made much difference on the wearing apparel of some people shopping in super markets in Holland and elsewhere.

From the Milwaukee Journal comes an article, "Supermarket Skin Shows," which appeared in the letter to the editor of the Kansas City Star. The writer, Virgil Paulson, describes the fix he found himself in when he learned that during midsummer the public mind, strangely unable to grapple with the weighty problems of the world, can be aroused to fever pitch by a discussion of some deep topic as female attire. His letter follows in part:

"All I asked the women folks was a simple question. Instead of an answer, I got abuse. Fuddy-duddy, I was called. A supermarket peeping Tom. I was reminded I'd better worry about world problems than dinky shorts.

"But none of the ladies answered my simple question. Do they think modesty is dead, the way some of them dress — or undress — nowadays? With wonderful and typically feminine obliqueness, they talked instead of high grocery prices, of men's unshapely legs, of husbands who slouch around the house in their undershirts, and how awful it was when great-grandmother's petticoats swirled in the dust.

"It's just that I honestly wanted to know what the girls thought. Are they ever self-conscious? Do they sometimes have that sudden, awful feeling that they've forgotten something important they planned to wear?

"But I'm cured. On a recent sweltering day I stopped by the store on the way home from the office. As I turned from the meat counter — hamburger again — I caught sight of a woman disappearing down the aisle in a most abbreviated getup. On the way to get a loaf of bread, I met the shopper face to face.

"It was my wife. And the look she gave me, as my eyebrows lifted, let me know that this was a time when silence was a matrimonial virtue. So I'll shut up. If I can't convince her it's immodest, what's the use? So dear, hand me down my walking shorts. Let's go to the store together. Maybe we'll see someone else we know—in shorts."

Hulst Edges Past North End, 1-0 In 13 Innings

The near record breaking marathon contest between the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox didn't have anything on City Softball League play Friday night as North End battered away with Hulst Bros. for 13 innings only to lose 1-0.

The Tigers went 16 innings before losing to the Sox, and there too it was superb pitching performance that held a tight grip on the scoring.

In City action it was also pitching performances—by Hulst's Al Bosch and North End's Case Velderman—that kept either team from scoring.

Velderman allowed just four hits, singles to Lavern Zoerhoff in the fifth, 11th and 13th. But in the 13th Bob Vork also tagged Velderman for a single—and that was it as he scored on Zoerhoff's bang to center.

Meanwhile Al Bosch was holding North End batters to three safeties, after a bad scare when leadoff man Bill Zych doubled. Other hits were a single to Ted Bos in the seventh and to John Messbergan in the 13th frame.

For a squad that's hovering near the league cellar, North End played an outstanding game. For Hulst, it was a matter of pride as they are way out in the league lead and are certain to be awarded the crown.

Velderman struck out eight batters in going the route, while 18 North End batters went down swinging before Al Bosch.

Preacher Chases Culprit Over Hard Course, Wins

It all happened on Friday the 13th, but the Rev. Herman Kamphouse who is attending a Bible conference at Cedar Lake, Ind., really doesn't think the date had anything to do with it.

The Reverend took chase and a chase it was. . .three-quarters of a mile over the terrain including a cinder path. . .and bare feet, of course. He emerged bruised and scratched, but he outran the culprit whom he turned over to police.

IN A GOLDFISH BOWL

The death of Emilie Dionne, following closely on the heels of her sister Marie's failure to carry out her plans for a devotional career, accents the tragedy of the famous Canadian quintet. The world has been so fascinated with the situation of the much publicized five, the multiple birth was the only one of its kind in the history of the modern civilized world, that the essential tragedy of the five young girls has been overlooked.

For from the very start it was virtually certain that a normal life was impossible for the five sisters. They were deprived at birth of the blessings of anonymity. They were in a goldfish bowl the moment they saw the light of day, and there was no hope that they would ever get out of it except through the gate of death.

The members of this group could never from the very start hope to become individuals in the true sense. Theirs was a case of split personality in terms of five physical units; not one of them could ever, or can ever, expect to be herself alone without reference to the others.

The world would never let them, even if psychologically they could develop into true individuals — which is highly doubtful. Each of them has a name, but that is about as far as individuality goes with them. They are not persons, they are parts of a little group.

Anonymity appears to be necessary in the growth of personality. Normally the world does not become conscious of men or women who have developed personality enough to deserve fame until they have had years to grow up in obscurity. If everybody was forced to grow up in a goldfish bowl, the chances would be enormously decreased for the development of personalities who deserve the admiration and applause of the world.

This would seem to be likewise true of the mere commonplace life that most of us are blessedly endowed with. To have a chance to grow normally and wholesomely, all human beings need a period for development when the public is not looking at them.

This the Dionne sisters never had, nor can they ever have it. That constitutes their tragedy. For, rightly looked at, they are the most tragic sisters of our time.

BASEBALL'S CHANGE OF BASES
(Guest Editorial)

The role played by a major league baseball team in the life of its parent city varies from team to team, from town to town, and, indeed, for example, the 1953 Braves were honored with parades and banquets; every victory on the playing field was applauded with fervor, while each setback became an issue of grave civic concern. The frenzied responses of many New Yorkers to the ups and downs of this year's Giants follow a similar pattern. The typical baseball fan of certain other cities, however, tends to take his team a little more for granted. He views it much as a householder looks upon an old and sturdy piece of furniture: it's nice to have around, easy to maintain, and anyway, it just seems to belong.

Unfortunately, because of soaring costs and, in certain cases, diminishing attendance, a baseball team can no longer be so easily sustained. The 1953 shifts of the Boston Braves to Milwaukee and of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore, the first such changes to take place in fifty years, underscored the precarious financial situation faced by many clubs. And now the sports pages are carrying reports that the once-invincible Philadelphia Athletics of Connie Mack are in economic distress and that a local group is desperately negotiating to prevent the transfer of the franchise to Kansas City. Old-time baseball followers once again may have to piece together their jarred memories and make way for the changes that, for better or for worse, seemed destined to occur as the national sport continues to advance and expand.

NEGLECTED PATRIOT

A founder of the United States whose name is widely overlooked, was Gouverneur Morris of New York. Columbia University has 1,500 letters by and to him, from just acquired from a descendant such correspondents as Washington, Jefferson and John Jay. They are likely to throw some new light on the history of the time.

Morris' membership in a wealthy and aristocratic family brought the independence movement support it much needed. He was a framer of the Articles of Confederation, a member of the Continental Congress, author of the final draft of the Constitution, and Minister to France during the French Revolution.

He might have gone even further, had he not had a contempt for all less rich than he. He wished the president elected for life, the Senate to be appointed by the president, and voting to be limited to property owners. During the War of 1812 he even favored the Hartford Convention, some of whose leading spirits wished to have New England break away from the Union. He died in 1816, despairing of America.

This unhappy culmination of a useful career should not obscure our great debt to him in his heyday.

Who works the best, his simplest duties heeds.—Richardson.

How sweet the name of Jesus sounds in a believer's ear.—John Newton.

Only the actions of the just smell sweet and blossom in their dust.—James Shirley.

Dutch Editor Visits Holland

A Dutch jounralist in this country for the second assembly of the World Council of Churches which opened in Evanston, Ill., Sunday included Holland, Mich., in his itinerary last week.

Dr. G.P. Klijn, head of the department of evangelism of the Reformed Church in the Netherland, will spend full time at the 16-day religious event as a journalist. He will send a daily newsletter to the Netherlands for use in daily newspapers and religious periodicals.

Dr. Klijn, whose position corresponds to that of Dr. Jacob Prins in the Reformed Church in America, edits a twice-a-month religious magazine, "The Open Door" which is aimed to interest the unchurched, rather than an organ for a denomination.

The periodical specializes in fine pictures, particularly when they have some symbolism of the faith. Besides his journalistic work, Dr. Klijn also takes charge of a half-hour Sunday morning broadcast each month and keeps many speaking engagements.

"But even more important that magazine and radio is our personal work, for it is through that final direct contact that true accomplishment is made," the visiting clergyman said.

Dr. Klijn came to America with a group of Dutch immigrants to Canada landing at Quebec July 9. He visited various churches in Canada for Dutch immgrants and arrived in Holland early this week. The Rev. Joshua Hoogeboom has been his host in Holland and had him meet many persons in this area.

Dr. Klijn was ordained to the ministry in 1937 and served three congregations before taking the evangelistic assignment from General Synod in 1947. His publication, "The Open Dor," has a circulation of 10,000.

On Sept. 4 he will sail from New York for his home in Driebergen near Utrecht to join his wife and four children.

Christian Giving
1 Corinthians 16:1, 2; 2 2 Corinthians 8:1-9
By Henry Geerlings

Regardless of his station in life, every Jewish boy was taught some useful trade. The apostle Paul in keeping with this Jewish custom, had been taught to make tents. During his missionary journeys he sometimes supported himself and his company by working as a tentmaker. When He came to Cornith, he made the acquaintance of Aquila and Priscilla, who had recently come to Corinth from Rome because the Jews were compelled to leave that city by official edict, and he abode with them, for by their occupation they were tentmakers. Paul remained in that city for a year and a half, working night and day, making tents and Christians.

When he met the elders from Ephesus at Miletus he reminded them that they had worked at both these jobs while among them. In his letters to the Thessalonians he likewise emphasized his working. He labored thus, not because he had no right to expect the churches to support him, but because he was willing to forego this right lest some should say that he was making gain of them and of the gospel. He accepted contributions from others for his support in the spirit that they were given to him.

In his first letter to the Corinthians he urges for his right to expect such support, using both secular and Scriptural illustrations. The man who goes to war is supported by the government that sends him; the one who plants a vineyard may eat thereof; the shepherd who feeds a flock may drink of the milk which the goats supply; the ox which treads those who serve about holy things in the temple are supported by the temple gifts.

And so Paul stood upon his rights to receive support from the churches, and at the same time his right to receive himself if he chose to do so. It is a great privilege to give. Our giving should be regular. God is a God of order and He wants us to be orderly in all that we do. There are many spasdmodic givers who give only when impluse moves them. They allow a tragedy to move them to be generous toward those who have suffered by it, but they have no system.

In the Old Testament, God did not allow the Israelites to choose the time when they should bring their offerings to the Lord but He specified a definite time when this must be done.

Giving should be proportionate. The rule is as God has prospered us. There is a sense in which all men are equal, but there are also some respects in which we are very unequal. We are all expected to serve the Lord with the whole heart, but not all of us have the same physical advantages or the same educational training, or the same economic standing. Some people can give a hundred dollars more easily than others can give one. The one with the one dollar power is not expected to give a hundred, but neither is the one with the hundred dollar power expected to give only one. It is a good thing if we all give in the same proportion as the Israelites did when they brought their tithes to the Lord.

Giving should be willing and sacrificial. Perhaps the Corinthians were a bit slow to realize their responsibility in the matter of giving and so the apostle wrote o encourage and insruct them. The Macedonian Christian served as an illustration in the case. They had no abundance out of which they could give without noticing it, yet they gave with a willing mind. In spite of their poverty they were rich in liberality. They gave all they could. Too many give only grudgingly and as little as they can. These people gave sacrificially. They gave not only until it hurt, but until it stopped hurting again. They gave themselves first unto God and then to the apostles and after that contributed of their means.

We should give gratefully. Love and gratitude should be the motives in all our giving. The giving of the tithe in Israel was compulsory. This is not the rule in the New Testament, but quite naturally we should not give less than that. Israel had only the shadow, and we have the substance. Israel lived under the law and we are under Grace. Israel was permitted to bring special offerings to the Lord, but certain things were required. In our day all giving is voluntary. God does not force anything upon us. Giving is a test of our gratitude and sincerity. The rich young ruler claimed that he loved his neighbor as himself but when he was asked to back it up with deeds he backed out.

Small Fry Set Up Grim Fish Obstacle Course

It was nigh unto impossible for fish to swim the length of Kollen Park in Lake Macatawa from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

The unlucky fish, if they tried, had to dodge some 300 fish lines that dangled in the water during the second annual Fishing Rodeo, sponsored jointly by the Holland Fish and Game Club and the Recreation Department.

And when it was all over contest officials had recorded 41 fish caught, including nine different species — sunfish, bluegill, warmouth bass, bullheads, stoneroller, rock bass, perch, sheephead and black bass.

Biggest haul of the day was a one and three-quarter pound sheephead landed by small Benny Phillips, 7, of 300 West 14th St. And cute little Patty Bouwman, 8, of 160 East 31st St., caught the biggest fish in the girl's section — a seven and one-half ounce bullhead.

Second biggest fish in the boy's section was a 14 ounce bullhead caught by Randy Gwaltney of 47 East Sixth St. Next came Don Sanborn's eight and one-half ounce bullhead. He lives at 274 West 22nd St.

Second and third in the girl's section were Claudia Vander Heuvel of 456 Maple Ave. with a seven and one-quarter ounce bullhead and Carol Ter Haar of 99 West 32nd St., with a seven ounce bluegill.

Youngest girls competing were Carol Ter Haar and Darlene Kay Bowerman. Each is five years old. And Jack Piers and Benny Phillips were the youngest boys. They are seven.

First of species winners were: one and a half ounce sunfish, Thomas Miller, 160 West Ninth St.; four and one-half ounce bluegill, Robert Piers, route 6; six ounce bullhead, Jack Faber, 536 Washington Ave.; one-half ounce stoneroller, Robert Piers, route 6; two and one-half ounce rock bass, Drome Rogers, 195 West 12th St.; four ounce perch, Jack De Graff, 26 East 20th St.; eight and one-quarter ounce sheephead, Ron Boersema; four ounce black bass, Leona Brown, 16 Aniline Ave.

Miller's catch came just one minute after the rodeo opened.

Everyone who caught a fish also received an award.

The winners in the biggest fish competition each received a rod, reel, line and plug, donated by Better Fishing, Inc. Other awards, including fishing poles, reels, tackle box, creels, landing nets, etc., were donated by local merchants.

After the rodeo refreshments — including 25 cases of 7-Up donated by the 7-Up Company and hundreds of doughnuts donated by Dutch Boy Bakery — were served contestants.

Holland Guard Company Named Top Unit in State

CAMP GRAYLING (Special) — The eyes of an estimated 10,000 fellow guardsmen and 15,000 visitors were trained on Capt. Russell Kempker, commanding officer of Co. D, as he stepped forward to receive the coveted Eisenhower Trophy Saturday afternoon.

Capt. Kempker was handed the trophy by Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Major General Gordon A. MacDonald, commanding the 46th Division, during Saturday's colorful review.

Just prior to the presentation, the entire company of six officers and 127 enlisted men marched forward into a spot of honor alongside the reviewing stand.

The entire division then passed in review past the reviewing stand and Co. D. Early morning overcast skies cleared up by parade time at 3 p.m. and a bright sun shown on the assembled gathering.

Gov. Williams and Gen. MacDonald made a spectacular entrance dropping down onto the parade field between the crowds and troops in two army helicopters.

As Capt Kempker stood in front of the massed flags of the division an announcer read the following citation:

"By authority contained in Section VI, National Guard Regulations, announcement is hereby made of the award of the Eisenhower Trophy.

The Trophy is named for General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, and is awarded after the end of each calender year to the most outstanding company-size Army unit of the National Guard in each state and territory.

It is presented to the winning unit during the annual field training period and remains in the possession of the unit for the ensuing year, providing these qualifications are met.

1. Having 70 percent of the officers and warrant officers, and 50 percent of the authorized of its enlisted strength.

2. Maintain 80 percent of its enlisted strength.

3. Maintain an average attendance of 90 percent of the actual officer and enlisted strength.

From among the units qualifying by meeting these regulations, a board of three officers selects the winning unit on the basis of training proficiency in armory and field training and qualifications with individual and crew-served weapons.

Company D, Ist Battalion, 126th Infantry Regiment of Holland, Michigan, commanded by Capt. Russell Kempker is herby announced as the winner of the Eisenhower Trophy."

This is only the third time since 1948, when the trophy was first authorized, that any company has met the exacting requirements needed to win. The company will continue training in camp before heading into the field Tuesday for a training problem that will last until Thursday afternoon.

Circuit Judge Signs Injunction

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Sheriff Jerry Vanderbeek of Ottawa County Friday served a temporary injunction on City Manager George Welsh of Grand Rapids Kent County Sheriff Arnold O. Pigorsh and the county clerk of Kent county, ordering same to refrain from sending prisoners to Aman park which lies inside Ottawa county.

The temporary injunction, drawn up by Prosecutor James W. Bussard, was signed by Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith.

Action was taken after prisoners from Grand Rapids and Kent county had been sent to the so-called work camp in Aman Park, allegedly with little or no supervision and with no protection or provision for protection for the people living in that vicinity in Tallmadge township.

Bussard charged that prisoners so detained at Aman Park have been informed by officials that they are free to leave "if they don't return to Kent county" thereby establishing a procedure of cleaning out the Kent county jail at the expense of Ottawa county.

In Grand Rapids Friday afternoon, City Manager George W. Welsh said he would take no action on the temporary injunction until he conferred with City Attorney Samuel Himelstein. However, at the moment, he said he had no intention of removing the 16 men from the park. Men sent to the park are filling short jail terms.

ROOFING-SIDING-EAVE TROUGH—WAREHOUSE. 29 EAST SIXTH ST.

Ruberoid Shingles Sold by Mooi Co.

Windstorms and driving rains can play havoc with roofs—especially if the roof is old and in need of repair. Blown up shingles or those blown off will lead to leaks in the roof which in time will cause considerable damage to the interior of the home.

Rather than hauling all the pans in the house to catch the drips, why not call the Mooi Roofing Co. In their quick and efficient manner, Mooi's experienced workmen will solve your problems.

If your roof is old and you are considering a new one, be sure to consider the facts about the Ruberoid Tite-on-lock shingle which is designed especially to withstand winds of hurricane velocity. Another type is the Ruberoid Shingle Grip, a new adhesive which when placed under the tabs of your present shingles makes the roof impenetrable to winds.

Your roofing problems may be new to you, but the Mooi Roofing Co. with its more than 50 years of experience has tackled many similar problems.

The company invites you to visit their business located at 29 East Sixth St., where roofing problems may be discussed with men of many years of experience. They also will assist in siding and each trough problems. For appointment call 3826.

MACHINE GUN PRACTICE — Included on the schedule for members of Holland's National Guard machine gunners are frequent visits to the "transition" range. At the range the gunners get a chance to fire live ammunition from both the heavy and light .30 caliber guns at stationary and moving targets. Cpl. Ronald Appledorn (center) squeezes off a burst as Cpl. Donald Van Dyke (at side) feeds the ammunition and Cpl. Harold Regnerus checks the target area.

Grandstanding...

By Bruce Van Voorst

One factor that could make a big difference in Coach Dale Shearer's Holland High School football team this year is the performance of a couple freshmen.

Last year's ninth grade squad was exceptional, and some of the boys might be ready for varsity duty.

From the reserve team Shearer must find a passer to take over the quarterback slot. Tom Sanger, who was being groomed for the job, moved to California for the year.

In his place will probably be Sheridan Shafer, a big lad with a fine athletic background. Henry Visscher will also be gunning for the quarterback role.

Also up from the reserves will be Bruce Brink, Willard Dykens and Tom Van Putten. Shearer will count on these newcomers to come through with some reserve depth.

The Dutch mentor has his eye on Jack De Long, a reserve center who broke his wrist last year.

Facing this roster is a schedule that would give grey hairs to a coach with much more of a squad.

The Dutch travel to Creston for the opener on Sept. 18. Creston is in the middle of a rebuilding program and Coach Ted Black is starting right from the bottom. Last year the Polar Bears won, and the locals will be fighting to end this.

On Sept. 24 the Grand Rapids Union outfit comes to Riverview Park to open the local season. The Dutch lost to Union last year 19-14 in a battle against hail and the clock as they were stopped four yards from pay dirt in a last moment victory drive.

Last year the Muskegon Heights outfit crushed Holland after the Dutch had won for two years. Oakie Johnson would like nothing better than to beat Holland Oct. 1.

Oct. 8 will be quite a day for local fans as Grand Rapids Catholic Central comes to town with about 2,000 rooters and a crack grid aggregation. Only trouble is the Cougars are even better than the 1953 City League champs that trampled Holland. Enough said.

Things will be looking up for Holland on Oct. 15 and 22 as they tangle successively with Dowagiac and St. Joseph. The locals had a hot night against Dowagiac here in 1953 and should repeat. St. Joe has Dick Higgs from Allegan as a new head mentor, and might be pretty tough.

Holland fans will get their first look at the Battle Creek Bearcats on Oct. 29. The Bearcats beat the Dutchmen in a wild battle last season, and are considered strong again this year.

Benton Harbor's Tigers zoomed away in the second half last year to whip the Dutch, but when they tangle again on Nov. 5 things could be different.

No matter how riddled or how many games they've won and lost by Nov. 12, Holland will be out to whip cross county rival Grand Haven in the BIG ONE at Riverview Park.

The Bucs now sport a three-year winning streak, and the Dutchmen will really be up for this one.

So that's the 1954 version of the Dutch. Clearly they haven's got an awful lot, but some good solid support from the stands might make a lot of difference.

Will you be there?

CORP. HARVEY VAN DER BIE who is serving as Military Police with the motor pool company in Japan, is expected home in the early fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Van Der Bie, 55 East 40th St. Corp. Van Der Bie entered service Dec. 2, 1952, took his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and went to carpenter school for six weeks. He later was transferred to the Attached Air Force and was assigned overseas duty. He left June 26, 1953 for the Far East. He also attended truck driving school in Korea where he spent some time before being transferred to Japan. His address is Corp. Harvey Van Der Bie, US 55318040, Co. A 802nd E.A.B., APO 929 c/o P.M., San Francisco, Calif.

THE LONG AND THE SHORT — Size makes no difference in the National Guards as shown by M/Sgt. Douglas Mack (center) who stands easily beneath the outstretched arms of Cpl. James Kok (left), and Sgt. Duane Rosendahl. Although Kok and Rosendahl each stand 6' 6" and Mack only 5' 5", he carries more stripes than the two taller ones combined. Mack has a further advantage when it comes to digging foxholes. He can be a full 12 inches shorter. Being a master sergeant he can generally "suggest" that someone dig the foxhole for him anyway.

MARVIN L. DE VRIES

Well Known Short Story Writer Dies In Holland at 56

Marvin Leroy De Vries, 56, prominent local writer who specialized in radio scripts and short stories for national magazines, died Monday in Holland Hospital after a lingering illness.

He was born Oct. 27, 1897, in Overisel, son of Dr. Iegar R. De Vries and the late Mrs. Margaret De Vries. He attended Hope College, the Detroit Conservatory of Music and was graduated from the University of Michigan Law School in 1923. His schooling was interrupted by World War 1 when he served with the Marine Corps.

Upon graduation from law school, Mr. De Vries became associated with the law office of Homer Ferguson and worked with him until 1925 when he began his writing career. Since then he had been writing for radio programs and national magazines.

Mr. De Vries was active in the Holland Writers Club since its beginning and was a guest lecturer at Hope College creative writing classes on several occasions.

Early in his writing career, De Vries wrote stories for boys' magazines. Then one day in 1937 he submitted a test script to a Chicago advertising agency and he was commissioned to write a serial, "David Adams," which dealt with sea adventure and was designed for late afternoon listening. His success with this serial enabled him later to write scripts for the "Lone Ranger" which gradually settled into a pattern of writing western stories.

De Vries' western stories dealt more with brave, hardy pioneers than with gun-totin' sheriffs and evil outlaws. After two stories were accepted by the Saturday Evening Post he once pointed out that he had no illusions about being a great writer. "Writing is a business just like any other, and like all other work it's the paycheck that counts. I'm not trying to write great literature."

Like many another, De Vries said writing is 90 percent perspiration and 10 percent inspiration. "People are always surprised that I follow a rigid schedule at my typewriter. That's the only way to get anything done. The matter of getting words on paper, no matter how much you change them later, is still the first thing to be done."

Surviving are the wife, the former Christene Cappon; a son, James, an English teacher in Benton Harbor; the father, Dr. Iegar De Vries of Overisel; two brothers, Carrow De Vries of Legionier, Ind., and Dr. Ford De Vries of Lansing, and a sister, Mrs. Joe Jonker of Central Park.

Allegan Council Postpones Paving Projects a Year

City Fathers Decide To Await Ruling, May Get More Tax Money

ALLEGAN (Special) — Two city paving projects were postponed and plans changed for a third by action of the city council Monday.

Proposals to install curb and gutter and pave Knapp and Bond Sts. were tabled until next year, pending a ruling from the state highway department on the status of the two streets. Both streets serve elementary schools and the council hopes they can be designated as major streets and thus receive a greater share of gas tax money for their maintenance and improvement.

Council members approved a suggestion that the city underwrite 25 percent of the cost of resurfacing River St. from Ida to Grand with the remainder of the $8,854 project being paid for by property owners. This was in line with a previously established policy of sharing in the cost of paving residential streets which carry large amounts of extra traffic.

Huitt and Son, Allegan, were declared low bidders on two pieces of equipment for the street department. They offered a road sander for $156 and an underbody scraper for $1,360.

Transfer of a garbage and rubbish hauling license from Howard Huitt to Clare R. Smith was approved by council. Smith has purchased City Sanitary Service from Huitt.

Council set policy in the matter of extending sewer and water lines beyond the city limits when it turned down a request from James Pettapiece for extension of Ely St. lines to a lot owned by him beyond the city limits.

Farmer's Picnic Draws Thousands to Zeeland

ZEELAND (Special)— Scattered showers Wednesday postponed but didn't halt activities at the Farmer's Day picnic as good-natured contestants and judges waited until noon to start the Tractor Rodeo.

The picnic, which has grown into a real community picnic rather than a restricted farmers get-together, got off to a rousing start Tuesday night when Sharon Yntema, 13-year-old daughter of Kelly Yntema won first place in the Amateur Show.

Second in the race for awards were the Rythmaires, a Holland group of musicians who play dixieland music. Included in the group are Dave Vander Leek, Paul Nykamp, John Kleinheksel, Terry Zylman, Calvin Langejans, Dale Topp and Bill Kievitt.

A trumpet trio with an excellent piano accompanist, the Modernaires, won third place. At the piano is Paul Lucas while Jim Vande Vusse, Andries Steketee and Harold Wise play trumpet.

Hitch Wins Legion Baseball Crown With 6-1 Record

A triple with two men on by Will Dykens was the key hit in a rally that fell short Tuesday night in American Legion Junior League baseball as Holland Hitch cinched the crown with an 8-6 win over Padnos Iron and Metal.

Hitch had jumped to an early lead on three walks and Wayne Westenbroek's single that combined for four runs. Jim Vande Vusse singled and scored for Padnos in the first inning, but Hitch put a walk and Ron Van Dyke's triple together for two more runs in the second.

The league champs picked up another in the fourth, and one in the fifth on singles by Dean Sullivan and Wayne Simonsen.

But in the sixth Padnos came to life. Two walks paved the way for Church Vande Vusse's two run single. Then came the seventh. Carl Weiss walked, Denny Wiersma singled and both scored on Will Dykens triple. Dykens then scored on Tom Van Putten's single.

Hilltop griped second place with a 10-6 win over Bowman in the nightcap.

Hilltop scored the first man up, and went right on scoring once in the first frame, five times in the second and four times in the fourth.

Errors and singles were the main factors in the Hilltop drive. Klampt and Faber had two singles in four trips for the winers, while Teusink banged out three singles for the losers.

Max De Jonge and Doug Wierda shared mound duties for the winners. Wayne Alofs. Paul Mack and Dave Hilbink attempted to stop the scoring parade.

Playoffs Tuesday will be held to determine the knotted race for 3-4-5 places in the league. When results are known, a "round-robin" tourney for the top four teams will be scheduled.

Cops the Regular Season Title, Will Face Tourney Play

Hulst Bros., Hulst Bros. Hulst Bros. . . . . .

That name has just about been the key to the 1954 City Softball League season at Van Tongeren Field. And for good reason.

Hulst Bros. chalked up another win its 23rd against 2 losses, Tuesday night over runnerup Main Auto in a 2-0 shutout. It's been that way all season. Always just good enough to win.

The scorebook shows a few runaways, for the regular season, but for the most part Hulst has been consistent with two and three run margins to win games.

Hulst will face the No. 4 league team when playoffs start, probably next week.

Good sound hitting was the key to Tuesday's game, just as it has been in earlier contests. The winners tallied their two runs on seven hits, including a pair of doubles.

But Al Bosch hurled a fine game as he held Main Auto hitters to two safeties.

Bob Vork singled to lead off in the second, setting up the first Hulst run. Vork advanced and then scored on a single by Glen Nykamp.

Al Bosch doubled to start things in the third stanza and was all set for Al Velthuis' single to left field that scored the other run.

On the mount it was Bosch, hurling a 2 hitter while striking out 10 Main Auto batsmen and walking none. The Auto's' Jason Ebels didn't do badly on a seven hitter and four strike outs.

A crucial error in the third inning set Vandenberg Buick up for a narrow 4-3 win over North Holland in the opener at Van Tongeren Field.

The Hollanders had an early three run lead on singles by Bob and Jun Hop and an error by the Vandenberg center fielder.

The North Holland center fielder returned the gesture in the third as it was an error that paved the way for Vandenberg's run spurt.

Ken De Waard singled with one out and , after another out, Justin Vander Zwaag and Norm Japinga drew walks. With bases loaded Al Dozeman slapped out a single that coupled with an error to score four runs.

From then on things were quiet, except for doubles in the fourth by North Holland's Gerald Riemersma and in the sixth by Vandenberg's Dozeman.

Bob Fortney had a nine hitter in winning, while Berkompas was tagged for only four in losing.

Some 80 per cent of United States homes are made of wood.
