City Council Considering Amendment

Whether City Council will adopt an amendment requiring all committees to report to City Council before any information is released to public or news media is currently under consideration by the city's leading body.

Councilman John Van Eerden proposed to Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night that such an amendment be adopted, recommending that according to Council procedure it be tabled until the next meeting.

Councilman Eugene Vande Vusse felt that such a "gag rule" was aimed at him because of information he had released to The Sentinel some weeks ago on possibilities of instituting a new city-wide garbage and refuse pickup.

Vande Vusse added that since informal meetings were closed to the press, that news media are not fully informed on all developments and he felt The Sentinel story emphasized some of the negative aspects of the proposed service instead of some of the positive points.

"In my opinion, the people of Holland are entitled to know what is going on. News is news when it happens, and people should have a chance to express themselves before action is taken. There has been entirely too much criticism that everything Council does is cut and dried. Our agenda even indicates what action is to be taken on certain issues. On occasion I have proposed something not on the agenda and my motions did not even receive a second.

"Certainly there are times when caution must be exercised in releasing news, but these occasions are rare," he said.

Van Eerden said he was sorry Vande Vusse took his proposal as a personal criticism for such was not the case. He said it was his understanding that when a committee is appointed to do a certain task it should report back to Council first. The garbage study had not been explained to Council, nor had any recommendation been made, he said, and he wanted to prevent anything like that happening again.

Councilman Henry Steffens made two observations — one that he hopes the new amendment does not pass. "I am not opposed to having such stories in the newspapers but I would prefer to be aware of the issues so that I can answer questions," he said.

"The second point," he said, "is in regard to Mr. Vande Vusse's statement that his motions had received no support. I would only say that Councilmen must have felt they had little merit, and the fact you allege your resolutions received no support is no indication that you did not receive honorable treatment."

At that point Mayor Nelson Bosman felt there had been quite enough discussion and called for the vote on Van Eerden's motion to table the proposal until the next meeting. This passed.

Grand Haven Votes Nov. 12 On 2.7 Mills

GRAND HAVEN—A levy of not more than 2.7 mills, based on the new state equalized valuation of the Grand Haven school district, will be sufficient to finance the $3,500,000 building program planned by the Board of Education, Supt. R. M. Van Volkinburg announced after a board meeting Monday night.

A formal resolution was passed by the board Monday and will be presented to the electors of the enlarged district on Nov. 12. The board's attorney, H. L. Scholten, was instructed to proceed with plans for the election.

The building program, presented as a "package" May 1, was voted down. At that time the board estimated that a levy of 3.3 mills would cover the bond issue over a period of 25 years. Since then the valuation has been boosted to $90 million, mostly through a big increase in the valuation of properties in Port Sheldon township, where the new Consumer Power Co. generating plant is now in operation. The power plant is located in the Connel district, recently annexed to Grand Haven.

At the November vote the package program will be broken down into four parts to give the electors opportunity to vote for or against four phases of the overall program.

The No. 1 proposal is to erect a new elementary building on Robbins Rd., on school property, erect an addition and remodel the senior high building, remodel and add to several grade schools and provide buildings for maintenance and service purposes. This part of the plan would cost $1,150,000.

The No. 2 plan will be to erect a new Central grade school to replace the old building, razed in a fire Jan. 28, at a cost of $315,000. No. 3 will be to include a $150,000 swimming pool in a proposed new Junior High unit, and the No. 4 proposal will be to erect the Junior High school on the Art Reenders property on South Griffin at a cost of $2 million.

Russell Lamar Co., Holland, is rushing completion of an eight-room addition to Mary A. White grade school but this will not be ready for use Sept. 4, when schools open for 1963-1964. Temporary classrooms will be provided for several weeks in nearby churches.

The board Monday voted to call in $35,000 in bonds Oct. 1 on the 1952 high school bond issue, leaving a balance of $150,000, which may be retired in 1964 as there is a balance in the fund of $100,000.

Business Manager Jack Musser has been named director of transportation in the district and he reported that two new buses costing $13,505 have been delivered. There are now 21 buses used by the district.

Leon Richardson, principal at the Seventh Day Adventist school in Spring Lake one year, will teach fifth and sixth grades in Robinson school this year. He is a graduate of Andrews University.

Duane Landhuis, a graduate of Northwestern college, Orange City, Ia., will teach sixth grade at Robinson and Dan Searies, formerly of Cement City, Mich., will teach sixth grade in the White school. Sarah O'Donald, fourth grade teacher at Mary A. White, has resigned as she is moving to Chicago, Ill. Four more teachers are still needed in the elementary grades in the district.

The next meeting of the board will be held Sept. 9.

FIRE LEVELS BARN — Graafschap firemen (right) rush to save farm implements from a burning barn on the Gerrit Scholten farm southwest of Graafschap Wednesday afternoon. Most of the equipment was saved, but the fire killed five head of cattle and several pigs. The fire was discovered about 3 p.m. Cause of the blaze was not known. (Larry Nelson photo)

Fire Destroys Barn, Cattle

Fire Wednesday afternoon leveled a large barn on the farm of Gerrit Scholten, located on 144th Ave., a mile south and half-mile west of Graafschap. Five head of cattle and several pigs were destroyed in the blaze.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Graafschap Fire Chief Dave Schripsema said the blaze may have been started by an electrical short or by spontaneous combustion. The barn had recently been filled with baled hay.

No estimate of damages caused by the fire was given. Firemen were able to remove most of the farm machinery from the barn before it was destroyed, Schripsema said.

The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Scholten about 3 p.m. Within minutes, the entire barn was a mass of flame. Scholten told firemen he had been in the barn an hour before the fire was discovered and had seen nothing wrong.

Schripsema said the fire did not threaten any other buildings. The Scholten home is located across the street from the barn, and there were no other buildings in the immediate vicinity of the burning structure.

Firemen from the Graafschap Fire Department were at the scene of the blaze for about two hours.

Coopersville Barn Destroyed by Fire

COOPERSVILLE—A barn owned by Ruel Root on 40th Ave. in Wright township was totally destroyed by fire at 5:15 a.m. Tuesday. Also destroyed were asilo, a quantity of hay, straw and grain. All cattle escaped to safety.

The barn was not at the Root home but on another farm attended by Robert Brooks.

It is believed the fire was caused by defective wiring near a new milking machine. No estimate was given.

The Wright-Tallmadge fire department responded along with sheriff's officers.

Amendment Okayed for City Charter

The city attorney is in the process of drafting a new charter amendment revising salaries for municipal judges, following a message to City Council Wednesday night by Municipal Judge Cornelius vander Meulen recommending such a change.

The present charter rule lists a salary of $3,000 to $6,000 for the municipal judge, and the revision lists a span of $9,000 to perhaps $20,000. Judge vander Meulen wrote that at 83 years old he would not even consider another term when his present term expires in 1965. He said several local lawyers have the character and ability to be excellent judges but doubted whether any of them could be induced to accept the position for the present maximum compensation provided for in the charter.

He explained that the judgeship at present is practically a full time job, a considerable change from the early days when the judge's salary was a minor part of his income. He cited reasons for the increase in the court load as growth of the city (population doubled and area quadrupled), an increase in civil suits, and the fact that civil statutes now provide for a maximum of $1,000 instead of $500.

The judge explained that municipal courts and all other courts of limited jurisdiction must deal to a large extent with people who have no means to employ counsel. He said the constitutional rights of these people must be protected and since more people come into contact with judicial procedure in local courts than anywhere else, it is important that they have a fair chance to present their cases and also be protected against unduly harsh operations.

Council also approved contracts for winter supplies of rock salt, flake calcium and fuel oil.

The rock salt bid went to International Salt Co. in net amount of $11.60 a ton, based on past experience with this firm. It was one of four identical bids. A fifth was higher.

The flake calcium chloride bid went to Haviland Products Co. based on the fact the company has a local agent. It was one of four identical bids of $34 a ton.

Contract for approximately 200,000 gallons of No. 5 fuel oil for Holland Hospital and Civic Center went to the present and local supplier, Ray Smith Oil Co. in net amount of 8.5 cents a gallon. This was not the lowest bid but it was indicated that the small difference in price was less than a quarter cent per gallon would not compensate for the risk in changing oil in view of the critical condition of the hospital heating apparatus.

Louis Wildschut, engineer at the hospital, explained that heating equipment is used to capacity during much of the winter and he hesitated to change to another type of fuel oil. He said the present supply has presented no trouble and he would prefer that the present arrangement be continued.

Conrad Linger of the Linger Construction Co. appeared on behalf of Henry Brinks who had announced plans for building a new Howard Johnson Motor House near the junction of the US-31 bypass and business route near 48th St. in the southern part of the city.

Linger requested Council cooperation in extending sewer services to the site, recommending an extension along the west side of Washington Ave. from 40th St. south as preferable to a route through the De Roo property nearby which is expected to be developed into residential property in the next few years.

Linger said the owner would cover the cost of extending the line under private contract with the understanding that reimbursement would be made in case others on Washington Ave. would hitch onto the line. He said plans call for several units of the new motor house to be ready for the 1964 Tulip Time festival.

Council approved his request and referred the matter to the Board of Public Works for immediate attention.

Council ordered delinquent utility bills remaining unpaid as of July 31, 1963, placed on the fall tax roll of 1963. Notice of these bills had been published in The Sentinel July 20. They totaled all $5,500, the greater share in sewer service charges.

In connection with delinquent bills and other assessments which may appear on tax bills, Councilman Eugene Vande Vusse suggested that the Board of Public Works set up some kind of a program whereby the purchaser of property could readily be informed of delinquent assessments on that property.

Council granted a permit to Herman Berens to move a house from 279 West 29th St. to 504 West 22nd St. The request had been tabled from two weeks ago.

The oath of office of Charles Shidler as member of the Traffic and Safety Commission was ordered filed.

Council approved an agreement submitted by the Holland Board for obtaining an advance of $52,000 from the Housing and Home Finance Agency to finance preliminary plans by an architect and consultant for an addition to Holland Hospital. It was indicated this is the final document to qualify for this loan.

A question by Councilman John Van Eerden whether Council could do anything about the old eyesore "The Alabama" was referred to the city manager to check with the city attorney.

Councilman Bertal Slagh asked about weeds and underbrush on the hospital grounds at 24th St. and Maple Ave. and was informed the Park department had been alerted.

Councilman Eugene Vande Vusse asked whether anything could be done to improve the rough railroad crossing on 22nd St. near Ottawa Ave. This was referred to the city manager.

Councilman Henry Steffens commended the special committee studying garbage and refuse collection for their work, mentioning by name Councilmen Oosterbaan, Slagh and Vande Vusse.

Crash Fatal To Douglas Woman, 42

DOUGLAS — A 42-year-old Douglas woman was fatally injured early Sunday afternoon in a two-car collision at 118th Ave. and 66th St. in Ganges Township.

The victim was Mrs. Josephine Fosdick, wife of Charles Fosdick of 112 Center St., Douglas. Death was due to severe internal chest injuries, according to Holland Hospital officials.

Mrs. Fosdick died in an ambulance enroute from Holland Hospital to Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids. She had been transferred from Douglas Hospital to Holland shortly after the collision.

South Haven State Police said Fosdick's car and another car driven by Patrick McNamara, 71, of Fennville, collided at the intersection.

Troopers said McNamara, headed south on 66th St., pulled out in front of the Fosdick car, proceeding east on 118th Ave., and was hit broadside.

Fosdick, McNamara, and two Fosdick children were injured in the crash. McNamara was reported in "fairly good" condition today at Douglas Community Hospital. Hospital officials said he suffered a back injury.

Fosdick, 45, and his daughter, Jacalyn, 9, and son, Thomas, 13, were all released from the hospital after treatment for cuts and bruises.

In addition to Mr. Fosdick, Thomas and Jacalyn, Mrs. Fosdick is survived by a second daughter, Nancy, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Monique of Douglas; three brothers, Penvie Monique of Green Bay, Wis.; Kenneth Monique of Douglas and Lawrence Monique of Lake Shore; two sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Joyner of Douglas and Mrs. Florence Hamlin of Lake Shore.

Water Tests In Progress In Zeeland

ZEELAND — Zeeland hopes to have Holland water flowing from its faucets this weekend.

Tests for the new 20-inch pipeline which joins the cities are currently being made and if potable water tests are satisfactory, the line could be ready for service on Saturday.

Meanwhile, Zeeland Utilities Supt. Martin Hietje said the sprinkling ban will remain in effect until further notice.

Following satisfactory tests, water will be pumped into the distribution system, temporarily bypassing storage reservoirs currently under construction. When this work is completed near the end of October, water will be pumped to Zeeland at offpeak hours.

The new water line was flushed Monday to clear it of dirt particles. Pressure and leakage tests were held Tuesday and Wednesday. A second flushing of the pipe was scheduled today after which samples will be taken, requiring at least 24 hours to determine purity or impurity of the water.

Hietje was high in his praise in the cooperation of the Holland Board of Public Works. He said Holland utility employees have been helpful in many ways and on one occasion worked all night with contractors in one phase of the construction.

Until Zeeland has proper storage facilities, Hietje said Holland has offered to pump water at periods other than offpeak hours during the critical water shortage in Zeeland.

Holland's Ambassador Sees Home Life, Poverty of India

By Judy Swieringa
Holland's Community Ambassador

Our experiment group has just completed a three week homestay in Calcutta, India. Each of us was placed with an Indian family, most of the upper-middle class, who preferably had at least one family member approximately our own age.

My family consisted of my Indian parents, my Indian sister who was 17 years old and Indian brother who was 12 years old, all of whom fortunately spoke English. Their native tongue was Bengali.

The purpose of this homestay was to make close friends with the Indian people by separating from our American group which otherwise tends to stick together in a clique. It also offers the advantage of learning about the Indian home life by living it yourself.

Calcutta, the former capital of India and present capital of West Bengal, is the largest city in India with a population of 6.5 million people. It is also important as one of the leading seaports in the East and as the largest center of jute manufacturing (which is used in making gunny sacks and rope).

People from all over India come here to earn a livelihood. While walking down a street one may hear Bengali, Hindi, Tamil and various village dialects. English acts as a bridge over these language differences making communication possible.

Most of the homes in which we stayed were apartments owned by upper class people by Indian standards. In my family Indian wealth was displayed by their ownership of a car, an old refrigerator, two Western-style bathrooms, a piano, a phonograph and one servant.

One of the members in our group stayed with a family who had fifteen servants. In all the Indian homes in which we stayed there were many knick-knack shelves Indian paintings, and a variety of flowers. Every room has at least one fan, and the larger rooms may have up to six fans hanging from the ceilings.

Our host tried to give us as much of an experience in Indian living as possible. Some of our meals were eaten with our fingers off banana leaves as plates while sitting cross-legged on the floor. All the food is eaten and mixed by the right hand, while the left hand is used only for drinking tea and water and for serving.

Most of the places around Calcutta which we visited were reached by riding in buses, trams, taxis or rickshaws. These are always crowded.

During the rush hour all the seats are taken, the aisles are packed, the doorways filled to capacity, and people hanging out often clinging to the outside of the vehicle with just one foot on the edge of the runboard. No matter how many people are on the vehicles, there always seems to be room for one more.

Next to my Indian home was a rickshaw line. The drivers of these rickshaws, all villagers, are interesting and their life in the city is typical of most villagers working in Calcutta whether as servants, dobies, market sellers, factory workers, or rickshaw drivers. The rickshaw drivers usually spend less than two months out of the year with their families in the village. The rest of the time their homes are on the Calcutta streets. They sleep together on the sidewalks at night, wash with public water facilities in the morning and then sit in their rickshaws joking, watching traffic or sleeping while waiting for passengers.

When a passenger comes, they lift up the rickshaw and run barefoot to the destination. The annas paid them will be given back to their families in the village for their support. These men, however, are not bitter toward life, they are very happy with their lot.

I feel that Calcutta is quite a westernized city generally speaking, but a city with many problems which only time will solve. The greatest of these problems is the refugees which have fled from Pakistan after the partition.

Many of these people have lived all their lives in the railroad station existing only on the money which they receive by begging. It is a sad situation but one which I'm sure will be overcome.

We are now heading for South India with several day stopovers in Bhubaneswar, a city of ancient temples, Gopalpur-on-Sea, a resort area and then Madras and I hope Vellore.

Talk on Garbage Ruffles Orderly Calm of Council

The usual orderly calm of City Council was somewhat ruffled Wednesday night when Councilman Eugene Vande Vusse presented a report on a study of city-wide refuse pickup.

Councilman Bert Slagh, a member of the special garbage study committee of which Vande Vusse is chairman, objected, stating this was not a committee report.

Nevertheless, before Slagh's objection, Vande Vusse in an orderly presentation outlined existing problems on rodent control plus possible solutions which, on the whole seemed to be well received.

He said the state sanitarian in association with the city sanitarian had made a complete study of the local situation and had advocated a complete program of city-wide pickup as the only means of controlling rodents, etc.

He said the special Council committee consisting of Donald Oosterbaan, Bert Slagh and himself had visited Battle Creek and Jackson which operate land fill dumps. At Battle Creek, he said, the land fill operation bore no sign of rats and hardly an odor of any kind.

Alvire pictures of "before" at Jackson indicated a huge hole on the dump site, but the place the committee visited was in the vicinity of a high school and two ball diamonds now occupied the area.

Vande Vusse said the committee had interviewed three companies interested in bidding on this type of service—a plan to remove garbage and rubbish twice weekly during the four summer months and once weekly the remainder of the year. Besides garbage, glass and tin cans, the pickups would include grass clippings, lawn rakings, tree limbs cut into four-foot lengths under 50 pounds and other refuse. It also would include the city-wide cleanup and leaf pickups twice annually.

Such a contract would include taking complete charge of the city dump—an operation which would involve no rats, no burning, no odors and no flies. This operation would be under the supervision of the city sanitarian who would check periodically. He estimated monthly charge at $1.40, more or less.

He said the operation would involve four large compactor trucks, each operating with a two-man team, one equipment operator at the dump and a large tractor providing the necessary compaction for usable area after the complete fill. The staff would have one manager, eight persons working on trucks who could be hired locally, and a machine operator.

The program could be financed through direct assessments on all who benefit on the basis of approximately $1.40 a month, or the program could be subsidized by the amount the city at present earmarks for operating the dump. It was his opinion that the program should pay its own way. He mentioned paying $18 a year for his present garbage man plus another $7 or $8 in taxes for operating the city dump. He felt the new program would be a better arrangement and one that could be operated at lower cost.

Slagh immediately objected to the report, stating that it was not a committee report and that the committee had not met.

Oosterbaan, the other member of the committee, did not object to Vande Vusse's presentation. "It's high time something is done. We've met enough on it," he said.

Then came questions from Council.

Councilman Richard W. Smith asked about those persons who had invested in home incinerators and was informed only one or two out of 10 would meet present ordinance requirements. Councilman Morris Peerbolt said most incinerators are offensive to neighbors and the ordinance which Council passed several months ago controls this.

Smith also asked about city residents in outlying areas and was informed those living on larger sites would have an option whether they would want the program. Slagh again objected to the discussion and suggested "it stop right now!"

Vande Vusse explained it was only a report, and City Attorney Gordon Cunningham to whom the matter was referred felt that a committee member has a right to report to Council at any time. Vande Vusse reiterated that his report was only a matter of information to Council and no recommendation had been made as yet. As for another committee meeting, he said none would be called until after City Sanitarian Sam Stephenson returns from vacation.

Answering another question on whether this would be a curb pickup or back door pickup, Vande Vusse said he would not consider a curb pickup with its unsightly containers, and the $1.40 estimate was based on a backdoor pickup. He added this service would not cover industries, restaurants or business places. It possibly could include schools and churches.

Vande Vusse said he had received 10 to 12 calls objecting to the proposed program but about 100 in favor of it, basing his ratio at 8 to 1 in favor. He said many were asking how soon the program would start.

Slagh interrupted to say the people who had talked to him were opposed to it, 100 to 1!

Smith asked why such a program would have to be compulsory, and Vande Vusse said unless it is compulsory no one would bid on it.

Slagh insisted this was not a committee report. Peerbolt said the choice of the word "compulsory" was unfortunate and perhaps some other term should be used.

Mayor Bosman felt there had been enough discussion and went to the next item on the agenda.

The Chamber of Commerce, with the cooperation of other local civic groups, is planning a big city-wide celebration for sometime in October to mark the completion of the shopping center canopy now under construction.

businessmen, will meet at the Herman Miller offices to complete plans for the celebration, committee chairman Reinard Surink said.

Tentative dates for the celebration are Oct. 2 through 5. Some of the activities that will be included in the four-day celebration, according to preliminary plans, will be a big parade, an art show, the selection of a "Canopy Queen," a special children's day, a soccer game, and an automobile show.

Other items in the early planning stages are special observances by local churches, stressing the Christian heritage of the community. They may include some historic and religious displays in the churches. There will also be industrial displays of products by Zeeland manufacturers, probably in the High School.

A mileage contest is also considered in the planning. In the contest, the local person or family who has brought or invited a guest from the greatest distance to the celebration, will be given a prize, and there will be a prize for the far-traveling visitor.

The committee is also seeking a prominent public figure to be the main celebration speaker and to officially "open" the remodeled shopping district in Zeeland's Main Ave. downtown area.

Other plans call for a window display contest among the local stores. A panel of expert judges will decide which is the best window display, and there will be a prize for the winning window dresser.

The public will also be allowed to judge the windows, and those persons whose choices of the best window coincide with the selection by the official judges, will also receive prizes.

The new building is going up between the high school and the heating plant and the 30 by 45 foot enclosure will connect the two older buildings when completed. It joins the high school on the north wall of the old gymnasium.

The purpose of the project is primarily to provide more storage space. Supt. J. F. Schipper said, but the room may also be used for food services in the hot lunch program. In that case food would be served from the new room through a window to students in the old gym.

Fazli Mohamedali Datto

Tanganyikan Visits Here

A student from Tanganyika, Africa will spend a month in Holland prior to his enrollment at college.

Fazli Mohamedali Datto, 21, of Dar-Es-Salaam, Tanganyika, arrived in Holland about Aug. 20, to live for the next month with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jaehning Sr. of 333 West 17th St.

Datto, a teacher at the Agakhan Boys Primary School at Dar-Es-Salaam, will study mathematics at Albion College in Albion, Mich. He will begin his studies at Albion on Sept. 15.

Datto's month-long stay in Holland was arranged by The Experiment in International Living, as part of The Experiment's "pre-orientation" program for African students about to attend colleges in the United States.

The pre-orientation is designed to permit the student to acclimate himself to life in the United States, well before he begins his college studies.

The Joethnigs hosted the young Tanganyikan as an outgrowth of the family's connection with The Experiment last year. Their son, Robert Jr., traveled with The Experiment as Holland's Community Ambassador to Nigeria, West Africa during the summer of 1962.

Challenging Play Opens To Applause at Red Barn

Red Barn Theatre professionals face perhaps the greatest challenge of the season this week in their performances in "Tobacco Road," one of the most controversial plays in American theatre, yet one of six which have attracted the largest crowds in theatrical history.

"Tobacco Road," an Erskine Caldwell social documentary on the poor white trash of the south is strictly adult fare. Based on the earthy philosophies of rough, down-trodden, starving people, the tragedies of living in themselves turn into uproarious comedy, bearing out that comedy and tragedy are akin in nature, and the funniest situations are borne out of the depths of despair.

Bruce Hall, who has proved time and again he can handle any role, and Dorothy Lee Tompkins, the Red Barn's leading lady since James Dyas' company was established here seven seasons ago, proved their full professional potentials at Monday's opening in the roles of Jeeter Lester and his faded wife, Ada, a tragic-comic couple beset with starvation, miseries, etc.

They received strong support from other Red Barn professionals, Bill Cain and Don Bonevich, as the spiteful Dude and the rough blustery Luv.

An artistic set showing the weather-beaten shack and stoop of the Jeeter Lester abode was effective to the point that it probably outshone all other stage sets of the season, not excluding some lush interiors. Quantities of dirt on the stage added a note of realism, and some of the alterations among the rough characters sent up dust that may or may not have affected showgoers in the front row. The set was designed by James Jerkatis. Epic staging (open curtain) plus some folk singing by James Innes-Mitchell helped set the mood for the large opening night audience.

Holly Richards as Grandma Lester spent two acts without a line groveling in the dust. Nicki Gallas as the beautiful Pearl with the golden hair did more screaming than line speaking.

Leta Duffy Anderson, mother of Red Barn favorite Leta Anderson, scored as the lady preacher in a hearty, lusty role. Mrs. Anderson was a trifle too petite and youngish for the free-wheeling preacher lady, but she affected a hearty voice and on the whole did well in a challenging role.

Rounding out the cast were

Carol Castaldi, effectively cast as the hare-lipped Ellie May, Dick Even as the neighbor Henry Peabody, James Innes-Mitchell as the young Captain Tim, son of former land owner, and Tom Joyce as George Payne, the banker.

Allegan Loses Two Deputies

ALLEGAN—Sheriff Robert Whitcomb's complement of deputies will be reduced by two shortly, and Whitcomb is looking for replacements.

Deputy Robert Gooding of Ganges, who been serving as Whitcomb's chief deputy, resigned last Thursday to devote full time to two fruit farms he operates near Ganges, Whitcomb said.

And deputy Charles Probert, the department investigator, will leave shortly to resume his college studies.

Gooding is a former Allegan County undersheriff, who has served under Sheriff's Walter Runkel, Harry Smith and Whitcomb. Probert is former Saugatuck Police Chief.

Gooding was instrumental in the sheriff's department's discarding of the old "per diem" or part-time deputy system, and placing the department on a basis in which only full-time deputies were employed.

Allegan presently has no reserve force, although cooperation with township constables bolsters the force. Ottawa County has 40 reserve deputies.

WATER

All over the country today water is fast becoming one of the valuable natural resources.

Here in Michigan people who live along and on the great lakes are very fortunate. This is a good reason for people to be careful when they are near or on the water that they do not litter the water with garbage and refuse. Littering the beaches and the water is worse than littering our streets, roads and highways.

There are many areas in the state today that are spending tax dollars in large amounts trying to solve their water problems. Many large cities have pipe lines 50, 75 and 100 or more miles in length in order to reach points on the big lakes where they erect large filtering plants and build pipe lines miles out into the lakes in order to take the water from points where it will be free from much litter and refuse as possible.

Almost every paper one picks up today carries stories about water and sewer problems. A case in point is Lansing, Owosso, Flint, Grand Rapids, Pontiac and the whole Detroit area, to list just a few. Right here in the Holland area we have continued to try to keep well abreast of the water problem by extending the lines from time to time. Right now the pipe line is being built to Zeeland so that we can service that community on an off-peak load arrangement. There are many other areas where constructive planning is needed to arrange for the sale of water to the communities that will need such planning and help.

Water is one of the most valuable natural resources we have today. We need to try and keep the natural supply in the best possible condition. Please remember this when you are next tempted to muddy up the waters.

Lesson

Vision at Bethel
Genesis 28:10-22
By C. P. Dame

Some lives are rather routine-like while others are full of changes and adventures. The life of Jacob was marked by variety and new situations. This lesson tells us how God spoke to him at a critical time in his life.

I. God appeared to Jacob in an unexpected manner.

God still does that today. Jacob left home suddenly one day. The relationship between Jacob and Esau, twin brothers was not ideal.
They were different — Jacob was a home lad, Esau a hunter. One day when Esau returned home from a hunting trip, tired and hungry, he sold his birthright to his brother for a mess of pottage.

Somewhat later Rebekah, the mother, and Jacob schemed and succeeded getting the blessing of Isaac, the father, for Jacob. This aroused the anger of Esau who threatened to kill Jacob. When the mother heard of this she urged the father that Jacob leave home lest he marry one of the Hittite women and so Jacob went off to Haran where Rebekah's family lived.

When night came Jacob found a stone and used it for a pillow and slept and dreamed. He saw a ladder, "set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven; and behold the angels of God ascending and descending on it." This was unexpected and timely.

He saw and he heard for God spoke to him and told him that he was the God of Abraham and Isaac and promised to give his descendants the land on which he was lying and to make them a blessing to all the families of the earth.
In addition God promised to be with him. How comforting those promises must have been to a fugitive.

II. A new truth is a blessing.
When Jacob woke up he said,
"Surely the Lord is in this place;
and I knew it not." Up to that time Jacob had associated God with his home. Now he learned that God is everywhere present to help and guide.

It is no wonder that Jacob said,
"How dreadful is this place! This is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven." We may assume that rest of the journey was more assuring because God had spoken to him. An experience with God makes a difference.

III. God deserves a response.
The Jacob who rose up early in the morning differed from the Jacob who went to sleep on a stone in the evening. Jacob set up a stone "for a pillar and poured oil upon the top of it. And he called, the name of that place Bethel," meaning "the house of God." Bethel is mentioned more often in the Bible than any other place save Jerusalem.

"And Jacob vowed a vow" — stating that if God would be with him and bring him back again to his father's house, then the Lord will be my God and the stone shall be God's house "and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee."

Zeeland

A new storage room which will also possibly be used as a food service area, is under construction at Zeeland High school.

The storage room is being constructed of concrete blocks with an outer wall of brick.

Using the new room for food service will permit some other changes to relieve congested areas in the high school building. The faculty lounge will probably be moved to the area south of the gym. The lounge is now in a small room on the main floor.
That room would then house the student council's paperback book store which is now in the library.
A move of the book store will relieve excessive traffic in the library.

Another improvement in the high school building is the installation of two academic award show cases in the east-west corridor on the main floor.

The cases are a gift of the class of 1963, and they will be used to display honors won by the school and individual students in the fields of debate, forensics, etc.

A $350,000 expansion program
under construction at the Miles Chemical Co. plant in Zeeland should be ready for production by the middle of December, plant officials said. The expansion will double the company's production of Sumstar, a Miles trademark for a corn starch product which has many industrial uses.

Sumstar, an industrial organic chemical, is used in the manufacture of many paper products, leather and a number of other industrial processes. The biggest visible part of the expansion is a new 50 by 60 feet, two story building going up on the north side of the Miles property on North Centennial St.

The building is being erected by the Elzinga and Volkers Construction Co. of Holland. The total cost of $350,000 includes the building and the equipment for making and handling the product.

The new building will bring the total of 21 buildings on the Miles Chemical plant complex.

The firm hires some 75 full-time employees.

A new system for issuing drivers licenses was started by the Zeeland Police Department to provide more hours per week in which new license applications can be made.

Group Meets To Discuss Fire Control

A second meeting of all agencies involved in fire prevention on the west side of Ottawa County was held last week in the Grand Haven Township Hall.

The purpose of the meeting was to further coordinate the efforts of these various agencies fire prevention and fire control. There was a question raised at the first meeting about fire prevention and control on Federal land.

Earl Hansen, fire staff officer of the Forest Service in Cadillac made a report to the group on fire control on Federal land.

There is a memorandum of understanding between the Forest Service and the Michigan Department of Conservation on fire fighting. The Forest Service agreed to be responsible for controlling fires on State land within the boundaries of the Manistee National Forest in return for the Conservation Department being responsible for controlling fires outside of the National Forest.

Ed Clock, District Supervisor, Field Administration of the Conservation Department from Plainwell, talked on the responsibility of the Conservation Department of fire control. He said due to lack of funds more help and equipment would not be available from the Conservation Department.

Bud Livingston, fire officer from the State Conservation Department office in Lansing, talked about the fire control program in Michigan. Crown fires and back firing were discussed. Using a borate drop was mentioned and discussed. It would in most cases be too costly and not very practical because of the small area it could cover.

Crown fires were discussed in detail. Fires break out a long ways ahead of a crown fire. Some have jumped across 160 acres. In one fire it jumped 40 miles. A new film on fire fighting will be released soon. It will be shown to this group.

An educational program was discussed by the group. Methods suggested were working with PTA's, Conservation Department contacting schools in one-fourth of the county each year; Tours; Smoky Bear picture campaign.

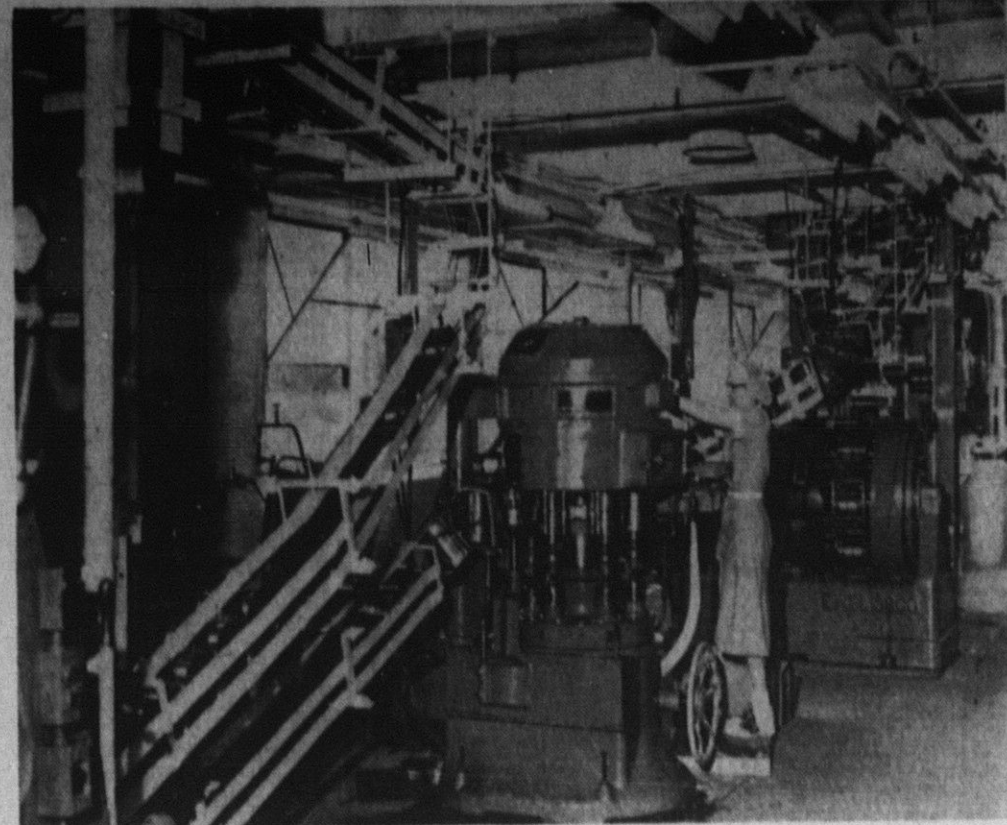

Each fire chief turned in a catalogue of equipment available to fight fires outside of his township. This will be mimeographed and posted in each fire station.

Those attending the meeting were Ed Meason, H. E. Stafseth, Lester Veldheer, Robert Whitlow, Bill Osner, Henry Geerts, Ted De Graaf, John Deters, Jr., Andrew Westbroek, Lester Fuite, Bohumil Svoboda, Edwin D'Oyley, Harold Radikoff, Leo Brown, Earl H. HEDCOR, West Ottawa Board Meet

Mutual advantages for north side development and HEDCOR (Holland Economic Development Corp.) were discussed at a meeting of HEDCOR leaders and the West Ottawa Board of Education Monday night. Also attending were two officials of Holland and Park townships.

Ross Giles of HEDCOR explained program objectives which include solicitation in the entire Holland area. He said although the money would be used largely for a south side industrial park, the general development is a means of getting economic interests together. One official expressed regrets that the area were not one political entity but suggested differences might smooth over.

A HEDCOR official said the program did not need the support of the north side to raise the $250,000 for aiding expansion but added the community needs the cooperation of the north side so far as the complete economic picture is concerned. He said every person associated with HEDCOR has one thing in mind—harmony for the entire Holland area.

Park and Holland township officials felt that in the past the city did not show good faith so far as school, airport and water problems were concerned and perhaps the atmosphere is now ripe for greater harmony in a united community effort.

HEDCOR officials said options on industrial sites have been taken so that the city is in a position to grant acreage to any industry so desiring it. The opinion was expressed that if an industry wants a site on the north side and wants city water, the Board of Public Works in Holland should provide it. HEDCOR officials emphasized that Holland and the north side are dependent on each other, and what helps one helps the other.

When asked if HEDCOR would promote industry on the north side, the reply was that HEDCOR would help the entire area with benefits for all, whereupon a school board member asked if HEDCOR would tell the citizens of Holland about the advantages of selling water to the north side and the importance of doing this soon.

The meeting ended with HEDCOR officials and the school board emphasizing that if the city or adjacent areas do not prosper, both areas will suffer. Greater harmony is needed on both sides, they concluded.

Finish Paint Job at Holland Post Office

The H. L. Ghrono Co. of Decatur, Ill., Friday completed the job of repainting the Holland Post Office.

C. L. Norris clambered up the 50-foot flagpole in front of the building and painted his way down again, as the final task in the repainting job which took six weeks.

Norris, of Paducah, Ky., used a special rope-harness arrangement to inch his way down the pole as he painted.

Post office officials today said the entire job took six weeks. It included a general repaint job, work on the roof, sanding upstairs floors, and the installation of ventilator fans in the workroom area of the post office.

They said local help was used to do a major part of the job.

HELLO DOWN THERE — C. L. Norris of Paducah, Ky., inches his way spider-like down the 50-foot flagpole in front of the Holland Post Office, painting the pole as he works down. His rope harness requires that he hang onto the end of the rope at all times, and point with his other hand. Painting of the Post Office was completed Friday. (Sentinel photo)

Vandal Sought

GRAND HAVEN — State police are investigating a malicious destruction complaint made by Lionel Drooger of Grand Rapids that a young girl deliberately slammed her car door against the side of his house trailer in Park township Friday morning and then informed his wife, Reanne, that she didn't care what she had done. She then got back in her car and drove away. Drooger estimated it would cost $100 to replace the damaged panel in the side of the trailer.

Pilgrim Holiness Church Scene of Afternoon Rites

The Pilgrim Holiness Church in Burnips was decorated with palms, spiral candelabra and bouquets of white gladioli and pompon mums for the afternoon ceremony on Saturday which united in marriage Miss Vivian Buege and Clyde W. Loew.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Buege of route 1, Dorr, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Loew, route 1, Byron Center.

The Rev. Carl Messer officiated at the double ring ceremony assisted by the Rev. Carroll Morris. Organist Elmore Hightower accompanied Mrs. Marcia Conner when she sang "God Give Me You" and "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Them."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an embroidered taffeta brocade gown styled with short sleeves, Sabrina neckline in a floorlength bell-shaped skirt. Her elbow-length veil was held by a crown trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

A pink street-length gown of embroidered taffeta brocade with short sleeves, Sabrina neckline and ed by the mother of the bride. The groom's mother wore a me-a bell-shaped skirt was chosen for the honor attendant, Miss Rose Easterday. She wore a matching taffeta headpiece which held her seed pearl enhanced veil. She carried pink sweetheart roses and white carnations on a lace fan.

The groom's attendants were Gale Loew, best man and ushers, Wilfred and Kenneth Buege.

A rose lace dress with bone and white accessories was selected for the bride. She wore a blue two-piece jersey dress with blue and white accessories. Both women had corsages of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

The newlyweds greeted 100 guests at the reception in the Burnips Community Hall. Miss Darlene Blauwkamp passed the guest book and the Misses Sherry Loew and Joy Deters poured punch.

For a northern wedding trip the bride changed to a pink and white striped two-piece dress with pink and white accessories and a white carnation and pink sweetheart rose corsage.

The bride, who is a graduate of Taylor University, will teach in the Hudsonville Public School system. The groom, a Hope College graduate, will be attending Western Theological Seminary.

The couple will reside at 3283 Oak St., Hudsonville.

Wiechman Wins Michigan Open

FLINT — Holland's Phil Wiechman, a product of the same Wake Forest golf team that produced Arnold Palmer, can polish the Michigan Open trophy for a whole year.

The 30-year-old Wiechman Sunday staged one of the furious rallies that has made his ex-college teammate famous — a five-under par 67 in the last round at Atlas Valley—to finish at 279.

His final round, combined with a 71 in the morning, nosed out Wally Burkemo, a three-time winner of the event, by one stroke and four-time champion John Barnum by two.

Burkemo, former national PGA champion from Franklin Hills, led going into Sunday's double round and held a six-shot edge over Wiechman. But he ballooned to a 75 in the morning before finishing with a strong 70.

Barnum, from Grand Rapids' Blytheheld, took Sunday's scoring honors with 69-66 but he started the day 11 strokes back, too much to make up.

Wiechman fired his 67 by putting together streaks of three birdies on each nine and felt, even after bogeying the 18th on his only three-putt green of the tournament, that "I was going to win."

Burkemo, meanwhile, was running into what he called "a siege of nothing." He blew the tourney with a 39 on the front side in the morning. On the fourth hole, he hit a tree and then went in the creek for a double-bogey seven, and three-putted twice more in the round.

Wiechman, pro at the American Legion course, had a 70 Friday and 71 Saturday.

Wiechman picked up $750 for the championship.

In shooting his final round of 67, Wiechman parred the first two holes and then birdied the next three holes. He missed birdies on six and seven and settled for pars.

He also sank a par on No. 8 and fired a six-foot putt for a par on No. 9 after missing a birdie. He shot over No. 10 but came back and sank another six-foot putt for a par.

On No. 11 he put an eight-iron shot within two feet and then putted for a par while he also parred No. 12 with an eight-foot putt. "I was three under at the end of 12, Wiechman said, "when somebody yelled (John) Barnum eagled 15 and is six under." "This excited me a little bit, Wiechman quipped, "and I birdied the next three holes."

He parred No. 16 and No. 17 and shot the bogey on No. 18. He three-putted after approaching on the green about 60 feet from the pin.

Wiechman and club champion Tom Sasamoto of Holland will compete in the state pro-amateur no handicap best ball tournament at the Midland Country Club Thursday and Friday. The tourney calls for 18 holes on Thursday and 36 Friday.

Holland police were called out to set up a road block about 5 a.m. today after receiving news of an armed robbery in Kalamazoo. The roadblock was lifted about an hour later.

HEDCOR LEADERS — Objectives of the drive for $250,000 for the Holland Economic Development Corp. were outlined by HEDCOR leaders at a kickoff dinner for about 100 workers Thursday night in Civic Center. Left to right are Mayor Nelson Bosman, general chairman; Clarence Jalving, president of HEDCOR board; C. Neal Steketee, co-chairman under Bosman; Dr. James B. Ray, campaign director, and Roscoe Giles, executive vice president of Holland Chamber of Commerce and industrial coordinator for HEDCOR.

Good Progress In Fund Drive

Pledges of close to $150,000 for HEDCOR (Holland Economic Development Corp.) were announced at a kickoff meeting for about 100 campaign workers at a dinner in Civic Center.

It was explained that some of the pledges await final action by boards of directors of certain businesses, but HEDCOR leaders expected all such pledges would be cleared in due time.

HEDCOR, a comprehensive program to develop a new industrial park to attract industry to Holland, is attempting to raise $250,000 locally for this purpose. The drive will continue through Sept. 21.

At Thursday's dinner, Clarence Jalving, chairman of the board of HEDCOR, explained the general program: Dr. James B. Ray, campaign director, explained campaign procedures, and Roscoe Giles, new executive vice president of the Holland Chamber of Commerce and industrial coordinator for HEDCOR, explained how to attract industry to this locality.

HEDCOR, which calls for developing an industrial park south of 32nd St. bordering 120th Ave. in the vicinity of the US-31 bypass, hopes to accomplish the following by 1970:

1. 2,500 more plant workers.
2. 1,850 additional service jobs.
3. 7,400 new citizens.
4. 2,800 new households.
5. 2,675 more passenger cars.
6. $9,000,000 additional retail sales annually.
7. $6,750,000 bank and savings and loan deposits.
8. $15,000,000 in personal income.

The program calls for expanding local industry, relocating industries in the area, new industrial ventures, development of sites, bringing in new roads and utilities, erecting shell constructed buildings for completion by occupant, land options and purchases.

HEDCOR officers are Clarence Jalving, president; J. H. Petter, vice chairman and campaign treasurer, and George Heeringa, second vice president.

Other directors are Nelson Bosman, Russell Klaasen, Roger MacLeod, Henry S. Maentz, Ab Martin, Stuart Padnos. Roscoe Giles serves as secretary and Henry Steffens as treasurer.

Mayor Bosman is general chairman; C. Neal Steketee, co-chairman; Paul Van Kolken, arrangements chairman; Petter, finance chairman; MacLeod, publicity chairman. William P. De Long and Ronald Dalman are co-chairmen for the advance gifts division. Eugene Vande Vusse heads special gifts and Jack Leenhouts general gifts.

Box of Tools Taken

A box of tools was reported missing to Ottawa County sheriff deputies Saturday by Tom Selby of 465 Lakeshore Dr. The tool box was taken sometime during the last week, Selby said.
