Christian School Board Approves Plans for School

United Fund Chairmen Appointed

Donald Rector Named Chairman; McIlwain To Be Vice Chairman

The appointment of Donald G. Rector as campaign chairman and Paul W. McIlwain as vice chairman of Holland's Greater United Fund campaign in October was announced Monday by John D. Plewes, United Fund president.

Rector, who is manager of Sears Roebuck and Co., and McIlwain, vice president of Buss Machine Works, have been active in past years in many civic projects including a number of United Fund campaigns.

This year's goal is $125,050 covering 46 health, welfare and recreational agencies. Campaign dates are Oct. 4 through 22.

Rector, a veteran of World War II, served as a lieutenant in the Navy in north and south Pacific areas from 1942 to 1946. He came to Holland five years ago as Sears manager. In 1962 he headed the retail division of the United Fund drive and last year served as president of the Downtown Merchants association.

McIlwain, serving his second year as vice chairman for United Fund, headed the industrial division of the drive in 1963. Before coming to Holland seven years ago, he was associated with Greenlee Brothers and Co. of Rockford, Ill., of which Buss Machine Works is a subsidiary.

Commenting on this year's increase of 13.65 per cent over last year, Rector pointed out that the $125,050 goal represents only the minimum amount needed to maintain ex-

Approval of a complete schematic sketch for a new Holland Christian High School was given by the Holland Christian School board at a special meeting held Tuesday night.

The sketch shows a classroom area for 33 teaching stations, library, laboratories, administrative offices and teacher preparation rooms. Supt. Mark Vander Ark said that the informal instructional area provides for an auditorium to seat 800, a cafeteria, music and art rooms and a two-teaching station gymnasium. Should the school decide at some date to use the gymnasium as a spectator area. Also it would accommodate up to 3,000 people, Vander Ark said.

The overall floor area is 102,000 square feet and approval of the basic layout is now being sought from the State Fire Marshal's office. A general meeting of the School Society soliciting their approval is being planned for the near future, Vander Ark said.

Last fall the school society approved a site on 40th St. near Ottawa Ave. for the new high school. A building fund campaign for the new high school was held last spring. At present the total is approaching the $900,000 mark, Vander Ark reported.

The School board also reviewed the opening of school provisions as submitted by the superintendent. Kindergarten classes will be held in all elementary schools including the East View unit. Morning sessions only for kindergarten pupils, will be held at East View, Rose Park, Central Ave. and West Side. South Side will have both morning and afternoon sessions and the Maplewood classes will be held in the afternoon, in the Maranatha Christian Reformed church.

Two third grade classes of the Rose Park school will occupy the Ventura building of the West Ottawa district. Arrangements have been made with the West Ottawa School district for bussing these students from Rose Park to Ventura, Vander Ark said. Schools will be open for full day sessions on Thursday, Sept. 9, Vander Ark reported.

The board also accepted the list of new nominees to be voted upon by the Society at the annual meeting on Sept. 27. The nominees are Andrew Van Slot, Edgar Prince, Donald Branderhorst, Paul Baker, Marvin (Mike) Bremer, Gerald Vande Vusse, Gary Joldersma and Henry J. Heckman. Nominees representing the Zeeland area are Wendell Bonnama and Howard Johnson.

Man Stabbed; Hold Suspect

Arthur Ogden, 35, of 5331 136th Ave., is in fairly good condition at Holland hospital today with two stab wounds in his back inflicted by a knife allegedly wielded by Cleatus Darel Ferguson, 44, of route 1, West Olive, Wednesday at about 6 p.m.

Deputies said that stabbing was apparently the result of an argument over the sale of a motor vehicle to one of the four subjects, all of whom went to the Ogden home and discussed "the merits of the sale" during which time Ogden was stabbed.

A roadblock was immediately set up and within an hour the four suspects were apprehended by Holland police.

Sheriff Bernard Gysen and Undersheriff William Wiebenga are continuing their investigation while Ferguson is being held on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Names of the others who went to the Ogden home have not been released but it is reported they were Ferguson's 46-year-old brother-in-law, his 15-year-old son and his 18-year-old stepson.

Child Injured In Bike Mishap

Sherry Cramer, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cramer, of 754 136th Ave., was in fair condition Wednesday in Holland Hospital following an accident at 4:47 p.m. Tuesday in which her bicycle was struck by a car on 136th Ave. near Maerose St. in Holland township.

Sheriff's officers said the girl was headed north on 136th Ave. and attempted a left turn in front of a northbound car driven by Mrs. Beatrice Ellington, 53, also living on 136th Ave.

The impact threw the child to the pavement. She received head injuries, a fractured left leg and multiple lacerations and abrasions of the body. She was taken by ambulance to Holland Hospital.

The driver was not held. The child's father is a reserve officer with the Ottawa county sheriff's department.

100,000th VISITOR — Australian born Mrs. James Stewart of Indianapolis, Ind., who visited Windmill Island Wednesday was the 100,000th visitor to this popular cultural development which has been in operation since Tulip Time last May. To commemorate the event, she was presented with a pair of engraved wooden shoes by

Windmill Island had its 100,000th visitor Wednesday.

An Australian born blonde, Mrs. James Stewart, route 3, Indianapolis, Ind., purchased the visa bearing this number when she visited Holland's popular cultural development at 11 a.m. With her were her husband, an Indianapolis truck driver, and her eight-year-old brother, David Griffin, also of Indianapolis.

The family group was spending a week's vacation in the De Witt cottage on Lake Michigan in the vicinity of 142nd Ave. and had waited until Wednesday for sunshine and their visit to Windmill Island. They had read about Windmill De Zwaan in the Indianapolis newspaper and decided to spend their vacation here.

Mrs. Stewart was presented with a pair of inscribed wooden shoes by Windmill Island Manager Jerry Fairbanks who also arranged for the three to be guests at dinner at Point West.

Stewart said he had visited Holland on one occasion 10 years ago and was anxious to have his wife come here too. Although born in Melbourne, Australia, Mrs. Stewart is thoroughly American since she came to this country when she was three years old. Her mother, an Australian girl, had married an American marine during World War II.

Windmill Island shone in today's sunshine, the first after two dark, gloomy days. The copper cap of the 200-year-old mill gleamed in the sunlight, and the garden spots where Gardener Jaap de Blecourt planted 62,000 annuals after the tulip season were colorful with petunias, cleones, marigolds, flowering white and purple to bacco plants and other varieties.

Windmill Island also showed signs of other development. A 12-acre area northwest of the mill is being plowed in preparation for pasture land for cattle which will be on the island next summer. Winter wheat also will be planted in two acres for a wheatfield near the site of the proposed Friesian farmhouse and barn.

Plans also call for developing a dike along Black River for another 700 feet to prevent extensive flooding.

Fairbanks said the summer schedule of Windmill Island operations will continue through the weekend after Labor Day, although klompen dancing five times a day will terminate on Labor Day.

Thereafter, Windmill Island will operate on weekends (Saturday and Sunday) through the third weekend in October, and possibly longer.

Fairbanks said films on Windmill Island will be shown on the Michigan Outdoors TV program within the next few weeks, possibly on Thursday night.

Some visitors have been concerned over the duckweed in the canals on Windmill Island, often referred to as green algae, but de Blecourt pointed out that this is common on canals in the Netherlands and often piles up in thicker layers than seen here. The duck pond near the drawbridge is relatively free of the green layer since Windmill Island's duck family of eight white ducks and nine Mallards (half tame) thrive on the green stuff. He added that one wild Mallard drake has attached himself to the Windmill Island duck population and shows no signs of leaving.

Also of interest is Hollis Baker's Dutch sailboat which was taken to Windmill Island from Little Netherlands and now rests on the banks of one of the canal dikes. This antique boat was designed without a keel for use in shallow waters and is balanced with the aid of two butterfly wings.

Another attraction in the post house is the old barrel organ which was presented to the city of Holland from the people of Amsterdam in the city's centennial year in 1947. Tunes are ground out on this instrument periodically.

Two Cars Collide

Ottawa sheriff's deputies investigated an accident Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. after cars operated by Mary Kuipers, 18, of 187 East 40th St., and Martin Bareman, 61, of 115 Lakewood Blvd., collided on Douglas Ave. east of River Ave.

Thinking of retiring — Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff who has been with the Holland police department for 38 years is shown in customary pose at his desk at police headquarters. Named chief in 1940, he has seen many changes in police work over a long career. From seven men in 1927, the department has grown to the point where the chief now commands 30 men, a juvenile officer, two maintenance men and four girl clerks. Van Hoff will remain on duty as chief until a successor is named to take over. (Sentinel photo)

In his retirement, the chief and his wife Norma hope to do more traveling than they had been able to do in the past. Besides that, they have a 12-acre blueberry farm six miles north of Holland on Butternut Dr. and harvest time is a busy season. They planted their first bushes back in 1945.

The Van Hoff's have three children and two grandchildren.

Allegan Council Hears Opinions On Horse Racing

ALLEGAN — More than 600 persons including a large and united contingent from northwestern Allegan county's predominantly Dutch communities turned out Monday night to give Allegan City Council their opinions on the issue of pari-mutuel harness racing here.

Griswold Memorial Auditorium was filled for the public hearing called by the council to sample opinion on the controversial issue which was raised less than two weeks ago when two Grand Rapids businessmen revealed that they would like to lease the Allegan fairgrounds for a 42-night harness racing meet during July and August of 1966.

Following Monday night's public meeting, the would-be track operators, Ted Brink, a printing executive, and Rex O. Beckwith, an investment counselor, said they were encouraged by two factors: one that petitions opposed to their project contained fewer than 280 names; and two, that most opposition manifested at the hearing appeared to come from outside the city.

Council is not expected to give a decision on the question until Sept. 13.

More petitions probably will be presented at that time, representing both sides of the issue.

Speakers at Monday night's hearing were fairly well balanced, pro and con.

First to speak was Aurey Strohpaal, executive secretary of the West Michigan Tourist

Association of Grand Rapids, who emphasized the need for a racing meet in this area as a tourist attraction.

Second speaker was the Rev. Andrew Lemke, pastor of Allegan's First Congregational Church, who was the first of seven ministers — from Allegan, Hamilton and Overisel — to speak in opposition.

James Cyrus, an Allegan businessman, was typical of those who spoke in favor of harness racing. Cyrus urged residents "not to be afraid of progress" and pointed to large numbers of Allegan young people who move out of the community each year to seek employment and a more "aggressive atmosphere of growth."

The resort community of Saugatuck and Douglas was well represented with one spokesman of the two communities in favor of the track plan.

John Nahan, Allegan attorney who already has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 4th district, said he favored the proposal.

Fred MacDonald, also an Allegan attorney, spoke in opposition.

In all, nearly 30 persons expressed opinions at the two-hour hearing which followed a presentation of the racing proposal by Chester A. Ray, attorney for the non-profit Allegan County Agricultural Society which owns and operates the fairgrounds.

Allegan's mayor, T. E. Malila, presided at the meeting.

Council Meets Here 45 Minutes

Several items of a routine nature were acted upon at a regular meeting of City Council Wednesday night which took only 45 minutes.

A communication from the Liquor Control Commission requesting Council action on a request of the Pioneer Club for a transfer of location on its 1965 club license, moving from 179 1/2 River Ave. to 180 River Ave., was referred to the city manager for study and report.

A petition from merchants and residents in the vicinity of 19 East Eighth St. requesting abatement of nuisances caused by noisy and destructive groups which congregate around a restaurant there in the evening and at night was referred to the city manager for investigation.

Petitions requesting sewer service on West 23rd St. from Ottawa to Homestead Aves. and for Calvary Baptist Church at 517 West 32nd St. were referred to the city manager for reports.

Council granted permission to chapter 14, Disabled American Veterans, to solicit funds by the sale of forget-me-nots Sept. 24 and 25.

Council unanimously approved a recommendation of the Board of Public Works to install a water main under the alternate procedure in 32nd St. from Waverly Rd. to the US-31 by-pass.

Referred to the city attorney to prepare the necessary ordinance was a recommendation of the Planning Commission to rezone an area in Montello Park from A-3 residential to B-1 apartment. This area is bounded by Diekema Ave. on the west, 20th St. on the south, Homestead Ave. on the east and extending north to the C-2 highway commercial zone north of 19th St.

In connection with this subject was a letter from Oxford Realty Co. of Grand Rapids reaffirming its interest in the proposed change and indicating particular interest in lots 142 through 155 in Diekema Homestead addition. The firm said it would be in a position to proceed with construction of multiple units on the site as soon as the rezoning is approved.

The city clerk reported that the $3 million general obligation hospital bond proposition Aug. 4 was approved by a vote of 1,427 to 322 as certified by the city board of canvassers. The report was accepted as information.

Claims against the city from Mrs. Nick M. Ter Voort, 480 Pine Ave., and Rem Die Casting Co., 128 Douglas Ave., were referred to the insurance carrier and city attorney.

Contracts for resurfacing Van Raalte Ave. from Eighth St. to 20th St., and for resealing seven miles of blacktop in Holland were awarded to West Shore Construction Co., low bidder on both projects. The bid was $21,340 for the Van Raalte Ave. project, lowest of four bids, and $23,627.49 for resealing, lowest of three bids.

Council approved a technical revision in bond resolutions for the $1.9 million sewage disposal system bonds. The change affects a redemption premium schedule geared to $5,000 bonds instead of $1,000 bonds.

Council authorized the city clerk to solicit bids for a new jeep for the cemetery department instead of a pickup truck, since it was felt a jeep would meet needs of the department better in the way of snow removal and other tasks.

Mayor Pro Tem Bertal Slagh presided in the absence of Mayor Nelson Bosman. Councilman John Van Erden was elected temporary mayor pro tem to preside at a meeting of the committee-of-the-whole in final hearing of a heating and plumbing ordinance amendment involving fees.

The new amendment which listed specific charges for various plumbing services, most of them $1 charges, was approved. Permits for heating and ventilating will be $5. The requested change was in keeping with the general feeling that all city departments as much as possible should pay their own way. It was estimated such plumbing fees would average $8 on a new dwelling.

All Councilmen were present except Mayor Bosman. The invocation was given by the Rev. Donald Houseman of Park Christian Reformed Church.

Holland police charged McGraw with breaking into the garage and forcing open a cash drawer, taking $170. No date has been set for his sentencing and bond was continued.

Views From The Campus

(Dr. Calvin A. VanderWerf, eighth president of Hope College, received his bachelor's degree from Hope in 1937 and his Ph.D. from the Ohio State University in 1941. He joined the faculty of the University of Kansas and served as professor of chemistry and chairman of the chemistry department until becoming Hope president in November, 1963. Editor's note.)

By Dr. Calvin A. VanderWerf
Would you like to wake up every morning of your life completely uncertain as to what

Dr. Calvin A. VanderWerf would happen every minute of your day?

If so, try being a college president. Each day is full of surprises.

The past Monday brought a new and completely unexpected twist. I had stepped into the office of one of Michigan's leading industrialists to tell him the Hope College story — of course with the unpaid balance on our new Physics-Mathematics building uppermost in my mind.

Instead of a contribution, I received a lecture — the most lucid and valuable 10-minute lecture on grammar I have ever had. You may find the story intriguing.

Immediately upon being admitted into his office, I began to talk to Mr. Tycoon about Hope College. It was at once apparent that he had other things on his mind. He was still fuming over an incident of the previous week.

"I'll never give X College in Ohio a Roosevelt dime," he stormed, "until its faculty begins to teach students the use of the king's English. An X College alumnus tackled me for a contribution last week, and he couldn't put together a single correct sentence.

"Now grammar isn't that tough," continued Mr. T. "Ninety per cent of all mistakes in grammar fall into one of four simple classes. If you have any sense at all and take a logical look at those four classes, you have the problem licked."

By this time I was curious. "What are those four classes?" I queried.

"Well," replied Mr. T., warming up to his subject, "first is the use of one compound pronoun. What we Americans do to the compound pronoun is pure murder.

"Consider this sentence: 'Dr. Savage flunked Bill and I.'"

"And well he might," stormed Mr. T. "That's first degree murder. And the rule isn't that difficult. You simply use the case for both pronouns which you would use for either pronoun alone.

"Would you ever say 'Dr. Savage flunked I'?"

"No," I answered, "certainly not."

"Well, why in thunder say 'I' when Bill is tossed in free?" fired Mr. T.

"Now the second great class of mistakes," he went on, "is the abominable use of 'myself,' 'yourself,' and all other 'selves.' This type of mistake results from ignorance of the rule on compound pronouns which I just gave you.

"This is a mistake that trips up many a Phi Beta Kappa and Ph. D. A poor, benighted chap doesn't know whether to say 'I' or 'me,' so he blurs out with the real killer, 'myself.'"

"He produces this gem: 'Dr. Savage flunked Bill and myself,' or 'Bill and myself flunked.'"

"Would you say, 'Dr. Savage flunked myself' or 'myself flunked'?"

I came through a second time with a very positive negative.

"Thunderations, no!" agreed Mr. T.

"Reserve 'yourself,' 'myself,' and all other 'selves' for the reflexive and intensive," he cautioned me.

"I struck myself," or "I, myself, flunked" represent the only legitimate uses of the 'selves,' Mr. T. asserted.

By this time I was entering into the spirit of the thing.

"What is the third class of errors?" I asked.

Mr. T. was primed. "Americans generally commit mayhem by failing to use the possessive pronoun before a gerund," he declared. "Radio and tv announcers repeatedly murder this one.

"Here is an example: 'I regretted you failing.'"

"This is dead wrong," Mr. T.

continued. "I regret not you, but rather the failing. Whose failing? Yours!"

"In other words, the pronoun should be in the possessive case, and I should say, 'I regretted your failing.'"

"Just a little horse sense will clear up this type of mistake for anyone who thinks at all about what he says or writes," asserted Mr. T.

"Now the fourth class of grammatical crimes is somewhat more subtle," he continued. "We can lump them all together as dangling infinitives, dangling clauses, and dangling gerunds.

"Here's an example: 'Having flunked English, Bill's parents reduced his allowance.'"

"Now who in the world flunked English? His parents? No! Bill did.

"The participle must modify the subject. So we can say, 'Because Bill flunked English, his parents reduced his allowance.'"

"Well, that's it," concluded Mr. T.

His points struck home. Grammar lessons are amazingly more effective when they carry a dollar and cents value.

Just as I was about to leave, Mr. T. had one parting sally: "Of course, you Dutchmen repeatedly commit one private crime all your own. I suppose it must be a literal translation from the Dutch that compels you to insert 'once' into every sentence you use."

"I'll think about that once," I said to myself as I departed.

Incidentally, I came home without a contribution for the Physics-Mathematics building. I'll have to try for that once later.

Laugh Packed Farce Delights First Nighters

Red Barn Theatre at Saugatuck is ending its summer season this week with the laugh-packed farce, "Never Too Late," which had a large first-night audience exploding with laughter Monday night.

Bruce Hall and Dorothy Lee Tompkins, the featured players, had a rollicking time as a couple facing parenthood after their only daughter reached the age of 24. It was a story of a mother pleased with the whole situation and a father completely bedeviled by the new turn of events.

Producer-Director James H. Dyas employed all the tricks of the trade in timing and sight gags to squeeze out extra laughs in unexpected places.

A good share of these laughs were caused by Alan Causey as the inept son-in-law whose clumsy feet and well-timed "dumb" lines stamped him as a falling-down comic.

Barbara Miner as the 24-year-old daughter had lots of fun switching from beautiful blonde to household drudge taking on household chores because of "mother's condition."

Don Bonevich added his bit to the comedy scene as the blustery mayor living next door. Holly Richards as the doctor's wife was effective as confidante to the leading lady and Ray Dash added a certain dignified touch in his brief appearance as doctor-friend.

Geoffrey D. Fishburn got his share of laughs as building contractor doing over the house for a nursery which led to a new bathroom which in turn led to a fine display of bathroom fixtures on display in the living room. Dale Conklin played a conscientious policeman only trying to do his duty, a difficult assignment in view of a domineering mayor and a happily drunk neighbor.

The play continues all week with a special performance Sunday at 8:30 p.m. for the close of the resort season.

Mrs. O. F. Lowry Succumbs at 85

Mrs. Olive Frost Lowry, 85, of Birchwood Manor, died at Holland Hospital Monday afternoon. She was formerly from Brooklyn, Mich., and lived in Zeeland for four years before she moved to Birchwood Manor. She was a member of the Grace Episcopal Church. Her son George F. Lowry of Zeeland died in June.

Surviving are one daughter-in-law, Mrs. George F. (Dorothy) Lowry of Zeeland; one granddaughter, Mrs. Dale (Patricia) Roeve of Holland; two great grandchildren.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Mat Kemme, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kemme, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Klaasen, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jacobusse, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jacobusse, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jacobusse, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jacobusse, Miss Karen Jacobusse and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hop all of Holland.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Sybrandt Schipper and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tietfort of Zeeland, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Asselt and Mr. and Mrs. Don Northuis of Grand Haven.

Also invited were Mr. and Mrs. William Van Asselt of New Paris, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Currie and Lynn from Springfield, Ill.

BUSY PLACE — The work room of Herrick Public Library is particularly busy these days processing new books not only for the local library but for branch libraries which will serve Hudsonville and Jamestown. Mrs. A.A. Dykstra at desk is busy cataloguing new books. Holland has received 10,000 books on loan for two or three years from the Michigan State Library at Lansing to help in the new program of expanded services. (Sentinel photo)

Herrick Public Library Enlarging Its Services

Herrick Public Library is busy these days processing 10,000 books on loan for two or three years from the Michigan State Library at Lansing in implementing a new program of services to areas of Ottawa county not served by other public libraries.

Plans call for setting up library service in Jamestown and Hudsonville. Of the 10,000 state library books, 4,000 to 5,000 will be taken to Hudsonville and 1,500 to Jamestown. Locations have not been determined, but books will be ready when such arrangements are completed.

The Lansing books, all of them new and not put into library circulation before, include children's books, reference books, fiction and nonfiction for young people and adults, classics and recent publications.

They were selected with an eye to meeting the reading needs of people who have not had easy access to public libraries. Some state books will be placed on shelves in the local library, and some local books will be sent out to meet expected needs.

The 10,000 books in 250 cartons containing 35 to 40 books each arrived at Herrick Public Library last week, courtesy of the Seven-Up Bottling Co. of Western Michigan which provided a truck driver and helper to unload the boxes. Arrangements were made by James Brooks and John Hudzik. Ron Israels was the driver and Norm Den Uyl assisted Israels in unloading.

The expanding program has been organized in connection with a library law passed two years ago in which penal fines revert to public libraries. In expanding the program, Herrick Public Library which is the largest public library in the county was in a better position than others to take on the added work.

Currently, there are public libraries in Grand Haven, Zeeland, Spring Lake and Coopersville. Grand Haven serves the townships of Grand Haven and Robinson. Kent county serves a part of Ottawa county of the east border. Herrick Library is making its services available to all areas not served by other Ottawa county libraries. The local board also is negotiating with Allegan county to serve several townships near Holland.

Penal fines last year amounted to approximately $52,000. The first $3,000 goes to the county law library and the remainder is divided among public libraries. Herrick Public Library received about $16,000. Receipts the past year amounted to about $67,000 and the local library will be receiving $20,000 for the coming year.

Under the new program, persons outside Holland will be issued library cards to be used in the branch libraries in Jamestown and Hudsonville or in Holland. Local residents will continue the present method of signing for books.

The new branches will provide their own personnel. Rules will be much the same as in Holland. In Jamestown, Mrs. Myrtle Newhouse has been selected to operate the library.

City's Ambassador to Greece Writes of Varied Islands

By Judyth Thomas

Having just returned from several trips throughout Greece, I find myself able to understand and appreciate just a little bit more of the people and land of Greece than I did before.

Living in cosmopolitan Athens, I failed to come into contact with the Greeks whose life consists of sheep, donkeys, mountains and olives. My concept of Greece had been limited to the upper stratum of society which is quite unlike the Greece I envisioned.

Our first trip was to the islands of Tinos and Mykenos. Tinos is a quaint, typical Greek island with little commercialization to mar its beauty and simplicity. Here we spent several days visiting several villages and the church to which pilgrimages are made.

We left Tinos then to go to one of the most tourist-infested islands of all — Mykenos. In a very different way we enjoyed this aspect of Greece also realizing that it is a sign of the growing popularity of Greece as a tourist attraction. The beaches on this island are beautiful so we spent several days getting our fill of sun and salt water.

After a week of being home with our families, we left again in our own Pullman coach to tour the Peloponnese. For ten days we visited such places as Epidaurus which was once the cultural center of Greece, Tripolis which is a so-called "typical" Greek mountain community, Olympia which is known as the birthplace of the Olympic games and Corinth, both ancient and modern.

Of all the places we went, by far, the favorite was a tiny mountain village of Andritsaina. It took us over five hours to reach it travelling over rough, dusty roads with mountains on one side and cliffs on the other.

Several times we were sure our driver wasn't going to make it around some oncoming truck, but with much effort and discussion, he brought us safe but dirty — to our destination.

There was nothing there but old huts and the usual church, but the peace and beauty of the primitive village was something we could appreciate and enjoy after weeks of living in Athens.

With only five days left in Greece, the usual mixed feelings about leaving are creeping up on me. I have just begun to integrate myself with my Greek family and friends and now I must leave.

These last few days are being spent in a frenzied attempt to take in as much of Athens, still unseen, as possible and of trying to get those last-minute pictures of kiosks, tabernas and crowded buses. I'm certain I will fail at both, but the success of my summer can never be measured in pictures or numbers of ruins that I have seen.

The Greece I have come to know and love exists within her people and her atmosphere which can only be experienced, never explained.

Warehouse Boosts Permits

Holland Minister Named To Hope College Post

Hope College President Calvin Vander Werf Monday announced the appointment of the Rev. William Hillegonds, minister of Hope Reformed Church for five years, as college pastor effective Sept. 5.

A native of Chicago and a 1949 Hope graduate, magna cum laude, Rev. Hillegonds graduated from Western Theological Seminary in 1951 and served charges at First Reformed Church of Chatham, N. Y., and Brighton Reformed Church of Rochester, N. Y., before coming to Holland.

He also completed graduate studies at Colgate Rochester Divinity School in Rochester, N. Y., Biblical Seminary of New York City and the Theological Seminary of the University of Dubuque in Iowa.

During World War II, he spent three years in the European Theatre of Operations, won five battle stars and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

While at Hope College, he served as sophomore class president, was elected to the Blue Key honorary fraternity, was awarded three letters for varsity baseball and was awarded faculty honors on graduation.

He married the former Elizabeth Romane, Hope graduate of 1946. They have two sons, Paul, 16 and Tim, 14.

In making the announcement, Dr. Vander Werf said, "No post at Hope College is more important than that of college pastor. The college pastor embodies the conviction of the college that at the heart of true education for the whole person stands the Biblical concept of man—created, redeemed and sanctified by the Triune God.

"Rev. Hillegonds becomes the personal pastor of more than 1,600 of the finest youth of our land during the crucial decision-making period of their lives. I can think of no more significant or challenging pastoral post, nor of any one better fitted in vigor of thought, strength of commitment, or depth of spirituality to fill that post."

Ekdal Buys, chairman of the Hope College board of trustees, said, "Our call to Rev. Hillegonds has been the result of months of inquiry and study concerning the spiritual needs of our students, faculty, staff and administration. We have made this a matter of prayer for guidance to find this leadership for our campus."

A. G. Buys, president of the Hope Church consistory, said, "The congregation of Hope Church has genuinely appreciated the stimulation and vitality Rev. Hillegonds has imparted to us and we extend to him every good wish in his activities at the college."

Jaehnigs Will Leave For Africa

On Sept. 3, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jaehnig will leave the United States to spend two years in Sierra Leone, a small nation of some 2,500,000 native population on the western coast of Africa.

Jaehnig, 24, and his wife Mary Ann, 23, are both volunteer teachers in the Peace Corps.

They were in Holland through Sunday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jaehnig of 333 West 17th St., and friends. On Sunday, they went to Syracuse, N.Y., and Jaehnig took his oral examination for a master's degree from Syracuse University while his wife, the former Mary Ann Hogenboom, visits her parents in Clymer, N.Y.

The Jaehnigs share an interest in teaching and in the problems of interracial relations, as do the 60 Peace Corpsmen already in Sierra Leone and the some 75 others who will travel with the Jaehnigs to the little African country to take up the task of sustaining almost its entire educational system.

They were sworn into the Peace Corps on Wednesday morning, after completing a 10-week training course at Roosevelt University in Chicago, Ill. During the trainee period, they did extensive practice teaching in Chicago's "inner city," the south side Negro area.

The Jaehnigs will teach in a secondary school in Bo, a city of about 50,000 persons. The school is administered and controlled by the Sierra Leone government, but supported by the United Christian Council (an interdenominational mission group), and taught by American Peace Corps volunteers.

The Sierra Leone educational system is still in its early stages of development, said Jaehnig, and largely dependent on Peace Corps teachers.

In Bo, Jaehnig will teach English and history, and his wife will teach French and English. The "official" language of Sierra Leone, a former British colony granted independence in 1961, is English, but other dialects are spoken by the majority of the population outside of the major population center, the capital of Freetown.

English is taught to all students in the schools. Native languages range from Crio, a sort of pidgin English, to African languages. The English in Crio was picked up from the British who ruled Sierra Leone, and from the many freed slaves who sought the country as a haven after returning to Africa from Canada or the West Indies.

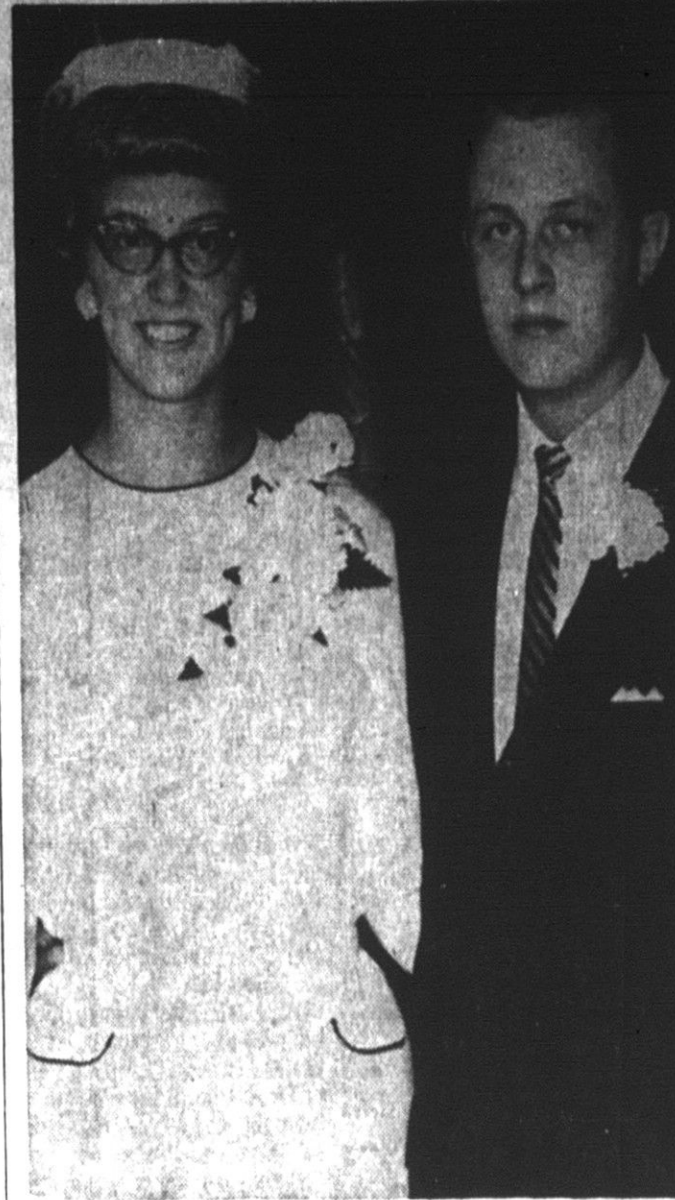

Descendants of these freed slaves still form a substantial portion of the population, as they do in neighboring Liberia. "English won't take you everywhere in Sierra Leone," noted Jaehnig, "so we also got courses in Crio, Temne and Mende, which are spoken in the region where we will be teaching."

Sierra Leone schools are taught on the British system, with students passing through a series of "forms" (or levels), and a battery of examinations which are meant to weed out the less able students, until only a small minority is able to attend school at the university level.

Jaehnig's interest in Africa began in 1962, when he served as Holland's community ambassador to Nigeria under the Experiment in International Living program.

"Nobody from Holland had

Growing in Faith
Colossians 1:9-14, 19-23;
Hebrews 11:1

By C. P. Dame

The summer season is over and the fall activities will begin again. This means that we will resume our service again and thus grow in faith. Usually the more people serve, the more they grow in faith.

I. Christians can pray anywhere. Paul wrote his letter to the Colossians while in prison in Rome. He did not establish the church in Colossae but he was much interested in it. Epaphras, who may have been one of Paul's converts, founded the church. Colossae was about one hundred miles from Ephesus where Paul preached for some time and it is very possible that Epaphras heard Paul there, was converted, and won others to Christ.

Epaphras visited Paul in prison, told him about the heresy that plagued the church—angel worship. This made Paul write about the sufficiency of Christ for salvation.

Paul told the Colossians that he prayed for them. Observe the three requests in his prayer. First, he asked God to give them knowledge of God's will. It takes wisdom and understanding to apply this knowledge in daily life. His next request is that they may live right—"walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing." Knowledge should be followed by conduct. The third request was for power: "Strengthened with all might, according to His glorious power." All Christians need spiritual power. Paul knew what Christians need.

II. Christians ought to be thankful. Why? Because God through Christ has fitted us "to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light." Christians are delivered from the power of darkness and they have been translated into the kingdom of Christ. God qualifies us through Christ and then blesses us by transferring us from darkness to light, from slavery to freedom, from condemnation to forgiveness, and from the power of Satan to God's power. These blessings come through Christ's redemption wrought on the cross.

III. Christ changes people. The converts in Colossae were people with a past. Once they were enemies of God, in rebellion to Him. Their minds were in opposition to God—they showed it by their wicked deeds. Today there is a big battle going on for the minds of men. Paul worked hard to capture the minds of men for Christ.

Thinking is important. Change thoughts and a change of conduct follows. Minds dedicated to evil express themselves in evil conduct. When people turn to Christ and they get His mind their ways change. Reconciliation to God manifests itself in a life that is "holy and unblemished and unprovable" in God's sight.

IV. Faith gives certainty. The last verse of the lesson text is from the Epistle to the Hebrews which was written to Hebrew Christians who were tempted to return to their former religion. The unknown writer of the epistle urged them to persevere. The lone verse is from the famous chapter 11, on faith.

In the New English Bible this verse is translated: "Faith gives substance to our hopes, and makes us certain of realities we do not see." In these days of doubt, confusion and questioning take a good look at the word "certain" and recall that the apostles were men who said, "We know."

German Girl Will Attend Holland High

Gerlind explained that although she will be a senior in her American high school, next year will only be her eleventh in the 13-year German "gymnasium" or "grammar school."

A typical teenager at age 16, Gerlind enjoys art, travel and popular rock 'n' roll music, and is also a member of a traveling amateur handball team.

And of course, she likes boys — with a "sort of" steady boyfriend at home.

Harrowing Experience Now Memory

ZEELAND — Mr. and Mrs. Alto Sneller, of 548 Huizenga Ave., are recovering from a harrowing experience involving near drowning a week ago in an isolated place in northern Ontario several hundred miles north of Sudbury.

Sneller, a social studies teacher at West Ottawa High School, and his wife had gone far up into Canada on a vacation trip, traveling about 250 miles by car up from Sudbury and another 186 miles by train to the area of Moosonee and Moose Factory Island.

They took a boat excursion to the island in a river that empties into James Bay, and on the return trip the launch-type boat broke its steering cable and the pilot radioed ashore. The breakdown was about mid-point between island and shore and it was 9:30 p.m. when boats arrived to evacuate the vacationers.

The Snellers, who could not swim, were put into a boat holding 10 passengers and the pilot which proceeded back to port on a dark night without lights. The boat ran into another boat headed for the stranded launch. The one boat sank and the large boat overturned, throwing all 11 persons into the cold, cold water. All managed to cling to the overturned boat, but they were unable to get messages through to shore although they could hear sounds from Indians and Eskimos on shore. The boat overturned for a second time, and it was about an hour before help came.

The first rescue boat, a small one, took an injured girl to shore immediately and to the hospital. Another boat took the Snellers and a Battle Creek couple ashore and to a hospital for treatment of bruises. Meanwhile a Richmond, Va., father and son had attempted to swim ashore and the father drowned. His body was recovered the next day. Indications were death was caused by a heart attack.

Mrs. Sneller said tides had come in at the time of the boating mishap and the water was about 20 feet deep. Both she and her husband were badly bruised and spent the night in the hospital. She is still nursing a cold. Both have a good share of bruises.

Camp Geneva, located on Lake Shore Dr. near Quincy St., is in its last session this week. About 2,500 youths have come to the camp during the sessions.

Some facilities in the camp, which make it so attractive, are the cabins, each of which sleep about 35 persons, the recreation hall which houses ping pong tables, shuffleboard as well as various other handicrafts.

A chapel is located on the grounds which seats 600. It is used during the summer to hold services for cottagers staying on the lake.

The breakdown of conferences is five conferences for juniors, three for the girls and two for the boys. These are children going into the sixth and seventh grades. The sessions last for three or four days. Over 200 applicants were turned down in this age group.

There are five conferences for Junior High students which are mixed groups and two conferences for Senior High students, also mixed groups. The camp has one Post-High Conference for those who have already graduated from high school.

During the Labor Day weekend, the camp is sponsoring a family conference in which the whole family is urged to attend and participated in the various activities planned. The theme is centered around "Abundant Living." The camp has an employment of about 25 regulars with additional of five to 10 hired when necessary.

An added attraction to the camp next year will be a heated swimming pool to be completed by the time camp opens in the spring, according to the Rev. Leonard Weessies, program director.

Camp Keewano, located on Lake Ridge Rd., is owned by the Keewano Council of Grand Rapids. The executive director is Lelia Libby.

The camp opened about the first of May for weekend campers and for full time camping in June. Full time camping continues through August and weekend camping resumes in September.

About 1,500 will have attended the camp when it closes in September.

The girls come as a group to the camp. It is up to them to provide their own chaperone and their food, and do their own cooking and cleaning.

The facilities in the camp include one main lodge with two kitchens and recreational opportunities. There are also three cabins used for sleeping facilities.

Each group is responsible for what they want to do. Most of the girls during the summer are members of the Horizon Club and in the spring and fall, the younger girls attend.

County Merges Welfare Work

GRAND HAVEN — Merger of Ottawa county's Department of Social Welfare and the Bureau of Social Aid was approved by the Board of Supervisors at a special meeting Friday afternoon. The vote was almost unanimous.

This action, similar to Muskegon county's action last spring, was recommended by the State Welfare Department which seeks the merger of all welfare departments in the state. Half of the counties in Michigan already have approved the merger.

Employees in the social welfare department will be permitted to take a modified civil service test to retain their positions. Had the merger not been approved, all present employees would be required to take open competitive examinations. Deadline for the vote is Oct. 1, hence the special meeting Friday.

Functions of the two departments located in the branch building near Holland will be consolidated, affecting salaries, travel expenses, distribution of surplus food, bookkeeping, clerical functions and administration duties. There will be no changes in cost of administering medical care facilities, the infirmary and farm, hospitalization and direct relief to non-ecological cases.

Merits of the proposed merger were explained by Gerrit Veenboer of Zeeland who heads the county's social welfare commission; Claude Ver Duin of Grand Haven, a commission member, and Elwin White, deputy director of the Muskegon department.

A reception for 125 guests was held in the basement of the church. Attendees were Mrs. Kenneth Hulst and Mrs. Jack Hulst at the punch bowl; Mr. and Mrs. William Nyhof in the gift room; and Audrey Hulst at the guest book.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls the bride changed to a yellow suit with matching accessories.

The bride is employed at Michigan Bell Telephone and the groom is attending Hope College.

The couple will make their home at 436½ Pine Ave.

September, Murray will be assisted by City Attorneys Gordon Cunningham of Holland and Howard W. Fant of Grand Haven, and Supervisors Henry Slaughter of Lamont and Gerald De Windt of Georgetown. The bill prescribes the manner of electing members to the county board.

Henrik E. Stafseth, engineer-manager of the County Road Commission who has accepted a new position with the Michigan State Highway Commission, thanked the board for its cooperation while he served the county over the last 10 years. The board adopted a resolution praising him for his work.

The board voted 17 to 15 to participate in the proposed formation of a Grand River watershed council, now before the state legislature in Act 253. County Sanitarian John H. Wyman said the proposed watershed would cover an area from Grand Haven east to Hillsdale involving 11 counties, 30 cities and 176 townships with a population of 1 million people. He said three cities, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Jackson, have voted to participate. Only those counties which sign resolutions by Sept. 20 and submit them to the Water Resources Commission will be permitted representation in the council, Wyman said.
