Trip to Hollywood Thrill for Eddie

Eddie Betancourt, 12½-year-old sixth grader in the Douglas Elementary School, Douglas, got the thrill of his lifetime Wednesday when he boarded a plane bound for Hollywood, Calif.

With him when he gets his reward is his mother, Mrs. Mary Betancourt, 825 Bridge St., Saugatuck, who was so thankful for the wonderful opportunity her son received, she wrote a thank-you letter to his teacher, Mrs. Donald (Mary) Finn of 5871 Lakeshore Dr., Holland, which she wanted The Sentinel to print.

It all came about through Mrs. Finn's teaching drama at Douglas Elementary School this past year. She arranged for Burr Tillstrom of Kukla, Fran and Ollie fame, to come to the school (he is a Saugatuck resident when not in Chicago) and give a series of puppet workshops.

Tillstrom was so impressed with Eddie's ability that when the executive producer of NBC children's programs, George Heinenmann, came to Saugatuck, he selected Eddie to make a movie of anything "As I See It" to be used in a television special with Bill Cosby on Monday, June 23 at 8 p.m.

Eddie took 600 feet of film of favorite places in the dunes near the Oval Beach at Saugatuck and places to be alone to see the little animals, shells, and other favorite things along the beach. There are 15 children whose films will be used and who will be in California for the filming of the special.

Mrs. Betancourt and Eddie boarded a United plane in Grand Rapids at 8:30 a.m. today on this all expenses paid tour. There are two other Betancourt children, Ralph, 11½ who is in the fourth grade at Douglas Elementary and Rosanne, who is four years old.

Mrs. Finn is taking care of the two younger children while Eddie and his mother are in California. It is no wonder Mrs.

2-Car Crash Injures Four

Four persons were taken to Holland Hospital for treatment of injuries received when cars driven by Richard A. Houting, 19, of 4713 120th Ave., and Nelson Lee Bakker, 23, of 577½ South Shore Dr., collided at 136th Ave. and New Holland St. at 6:21 p.m. Tuesday.

Houting received facial lacerations and his passenger, Alan Bosma, 18, of 124th Ave., sustained multiple puncture wounds. Both were released from the hospital after treatment as were the other injured.

Bakker's wife, Brenda, 26, received left arm and shoulder injuries and their 11-year-old son, Tony, was treated for left leg injuries. Neither Bakker nor the couple's eight-year-old daughter, Tricia, was reported injured.

Ottawa county sheriff's deputies said the Houting car was going east on New Holland St. and had stopped for the stop sign and then allegedly pulled into the path of the Bakker car which was traveling north on 136th Ave.

Houting was cited by deputies for failure to yield the right of way.

Contracts Let for New Grade School

ALLEGAN — Contracts have been awarded and work is under way on a $944,634 elementary school to serve southeast Allegan and school officials said the structure will feature a design concept unique in West Michigan.

Educational facilities of the 675-pupil school are centered in four 10-sided structures built around a hexagonal core in which an instructional materials center — equal distance from all classrooms — is located.

Each of the four classroom "clusters" includes its own multi-use center accommodating groups of various sizes for specialized instruction, according to Richard E. Wiggins, a partner in Davenport Associates, the Grand Rapids firm which designed the building.

In addition, each classroom, through use of movable interior partitions, may be grouped with adjoining areas to provide larger rooms if needed under the "team teaching" concept.

The hexagonal core area will include work rooms, teacher lounge and facilities for individual or small group instruction in addition to the materials center. Administrative offices will be located at the front of the building and a large community room at the rear will provide space for food service and gym activities.

The building's 48,750 square feet will include 18 standard classrooms, two kindergarten rooms, an arts and crafts area and music room. Carpet will be used extensively to minimize distracting noises.

The new concept was developed in cooperation with L. E. White, superintendent of Allegan schools; Kenneth Santer, elementary education director; and Claus Beukema, educational consultant with Davenport Associates.

Prime contractor is the Johnson Construction Co. of Grand Rapids. Knee Heating Co., will be the mechanical contractor and electrical work will be done by Foursite Electric Co., also of Grand Rapids.

The building is being constructed on Center Street, southeast of Bridge Road, in a pine woods. Architects said the trees will become an integral part of the landscape design. The construction schedule calls for opening of the school in time for the fall term in 1970.

Judge Raymond L. Smith recommended the minimum sentence because of his age, not because of his record, he said.

Jack Allen Japink, 22, Zeeland, arrested by Holland police in connection with breaking into the Vogelzang warehouse at Holland, was placed on probation for two years. He was ordered to pay costs of $120 at $5 per month and must restitution of $132.50. He was also ordered to leave his present selling job and engage in an occupation approved by the probation officer.

Timothy Collins Steele, 21, Jenison, appeared for sentencing but his sentence was postponed, pending further investigation. He was arrested May 18 for having dangerous narcotics, LSD, on his person, sheriff's officers alleged.

Accident Injuries Fatal For Holland Cyclist, 18

An 18-year-old Holland youth who was to have been graduated from West Ottawa High School Wednesday was killed early Tuesday when the motorcycle he was riding sped off the pavement in front of 2314 Ottawa Beach Rd. and sideswiped two parked vehicles at 12:28 a.m.

Wayne M. Zych, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zych of 337 Lane Ave., died in St. Mary's Hospital, Grand Rapids, at 2:20 a.m. today. Death was due to massive chest injuries and shock, according to Dr. Ramon Lang of Grand Rapids who served as medical examiner.

Ottawa county sheriff's deputies said the youth was thrown 28 feet nine inches from the cycle. He reportedly hit a tail fin on one of the cars and his chest was split open.

Zych was taken to Holland Hospital for initial treatment of multiple abrasions and a broken right arm and transferred to the Grand Rapids hospital. Deputies reported Zych had just left Holland State Park and was winding up the gears on the cycle when the accident occurred.

The cycle ran off the road in front of 2314 Ottawa Beach Rd.

and traveled 73 feet four inches off the south side of the travelled portion into the left rear side of a 1960 car owned by Leonard J. Forchione of Battle Creek. The car was parked six feet off the road, deputies noted.

Zych sideswiped the complete left side of the Forchione car and went another 31 feet eight inches to where he hit the left rear side of a 1962 car owned by Julius Kamphuis of route 4, Holland.

Deputies said Zych was apparently thrown from the cycle after hitting the second car. The cycle was found 13 feet from the point of impact.

Zych's death is the 15th traffic fatality in Ottawa county for the year.

Surviving besides the parents are two brothers, Thomas and Richard, and one sister, Mary, all at home; the grandparents, Mrs. Sylvester Zych and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Diepenhorst, all of Holland, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Lena Marcus, also of Holland.

7 Allegan Students Get Scholarships

ALLEGAN — Scholarship awards totaling $4,700 were presented to seven Allegan High School graduates by the Allegan Citizens' Scholarship Foundation at the school's annual awards assembly.

Paul Perigo, active in the "dollars for scholars" fund raising effort, presented the scholarships to Gary Ellis, Nancy Ann Flynn, Susan Gillis, Nancy Ann Layton, Dale Orr, Marion Enders and Jeffrey Soderquist.

Two received one-year awards.

"Dollars for scholars" sponsors pointed out that all loans under the program are repayable after graduation over a 10-year period if the recipient is financially able. Thus the money raised through annual fund campaigns becomes a revolving fund.

This year's house-to-house canvass resulted in contributions totaling $616.49. The balance came in the form of special and memorial gifts of $100 or more.

Area Boaters Safety Rules Told to Rotary

Holland area boaters can save themselves the possibility of trouble with the Coast Guard by having their boats examined by the Coast Guard auxiliary. Rotary Club members were told at their regular meeting Thursday.

Willard Hopkins, a member of the auxiliary, said that while this group has no police or military power, it does have the authority to examine boats for proper equipment, safety conditions, and to issue a sticker for display by approved boats.

Boats that carry this sticker usually are not subject to stop and inspection by Coast Guard regulars, Hopkins said.

In cases where boats do not pass the auxiliary examination, Hopkins said, no report is carried higher up. The examination report is given to the owner who, it is assumed, will correct the unsatisfactory conditions before they are detected by the Coast Guard or contribute to an accident.

Hopkins explained the auxiliary is a voluntary organization, in existence for more than 25 years. The main objective of members is to educate the boating public in the safe use of their craft.

The auxiliary conducts a series of lessons every year, starting in February, to teach basic principles of sail and power boat handling, rules of the road, aids to navigation, the use of the compass, and seamanship. The courses are free.

Membership in the Coast Guard auxiliary is open to any man or woman at least 17 years old who holds at least a 25 per cent interest in a boat, airplane, or other water facility. The local unit is designated Flotilla 7, Division 18, of the Ninth U.S. Coast Guard District. Their headquarters is Bay Haven Marina.

Hopkins was introduced by Dr. George Buskirk, program chairman for the day.

Travel Writers Meet in Holland

Some 35 travel writers were visiting Windmill Island, the Wooden Shoe Factory, Baker Furniture Museum, Dutch Village and other attractions in Holland Saturday as part of the two-day annual spring meeting of the Midwest Travel Writers' Association.

The spring meeting this year centered on tourist attractions in Holland, Saugatuck and Grand Haven. Local arrangements were in charge of Roscoe Giles, executive vice-president of the Holland Chamber of Commerce assisted by Bill Currie.

Events Friday took the bus group to Saugatuck to visit the grist mill and antique shops and writers had a choice of coho fishing, a boat trip on Kalamazoo River or visiting the marine museum aboard the Keewatin. Because of the choppy water, only a half dozen went coho fishing. They were guests of Clearbrook Country Club Owner Charles Feeley and Mrs. Feeley at lunch and several of the men toured the new nine holes on the golf course.

Following dinner at Point West Friday night, the group went by bus to Grand Haven for the Musical Fountain.

William J. Trepagnier, editor of the Automobile Club Motor News, served as chairman for the two-day conference.

There were 31 deaths on the highways of Michigan on the Memorial weekend. This in itself is a tragedy but Fred Rehm of the Automobile Club of Michigan shows the situation as being even more tragic. Rehm said that he believed that 12 of the first 20 fatal accidents of the weekend may have been caused at least partially by the use of alcohol. The figure is very close to the 50 per cent statistic generally cited by the police department as fatalities caused by drinking.

If the statistical analysis is correct on the national average, and there is little reason to believe that it isn't, then approximately 280 people were killed as a direct cause of the use of alcohol. This is about the same as the number killed in Vietnam, American soldiers who had no other choice as they faced the enemy. In both instances only half the story is told by the deaths because the figure for those injured, many for life, is higher than for those killed.

The nation will have to face up to the reality of its fatalities on the highways. The Automobile Club, through its club general manager, again called for the legislature to beef up its drunk driver law. It is doubtful that the request will be any more successful than those of the past. It has become almost an exercise in futility.

It is easy to blame car manufacturers, to blame highway and highway engineers, and we are quite well aware that much can be done in these areas, but the statistics tell a story that simply can't be overlooked. All statistics, both state and national, and this is true from year to year, tell us that 50 per cent of those killed in fatal accidents are killed as a direct result of drinking.

We could do something about this. The fact that we don't may say something about our sense of morality. A total of 25,000 lives in one year, and that is the figure, runs far ahead of the casualties of any war we have ever fought.

Church
I Timothy 4:11-16;
Ephesians 3:7-10;
Colossians 3:16
By C. P. Dame

The lesson text contains three passages from three of Paul's epistles—I Timothy, Ephesians and Colossians. God wants the Bible to be central in the life of the church for He knows that only then does a church grow and become strong.

I. It is the duty of preachers to proclaim God's Word. Paul, the veteran preacher, wrote to Timothy who was young and shy, to exercise authority in his teaching and to set believers an example "in speech and conduct, in love, in faith, in purity." Paul told Timothy, "give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine."

The early church took over the Jewish form of religious services as they were conducted in the synagogues. The Scripture was read, prayers were offered, and the exposition of the Scriptures followed. The early preachers of the Christian Church explained the Old Testament, pointing out how it spoke of Jesus Christ, and when Christian writings came into existence they used these in the church services which were held in homes.

A preacher has a responsibility to himself as well as to the congregation. Paul told Timothy not to neglect his gifts but to use them. Timothy should meditate, that is to get in the middle of the subject that pertains to creed and conduct. Paul's counsel is still good for all church leaders.

II. The Christian Church has a great message. Paul felt highly honored that he was called to be a minister. It was a great honor which had come to him due to God's grace. Paul felt called to preach "among the Gentiles, the unsearchable riches of Christ." It is the task of the church to make known "the manifold wisdom of God" which is revealed in the Bible. And when this is done, results come. History makes this clear. The charge is often made today that in some churches the Bible is not preached. This explains why church attendance is slipping. If the church does not teach and preach the Bible who will?

III. The preaching of the Bible leads to spiritual living. "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom," so wrote Paul while in prison, to the church at Colosse. The word of Christ includes the Old Testament and the teaching Christ gave to His apostles. The believers in Colosse had received it and they were to share it with others. When believers are wholly controlled by the Word, they will express it in psalms and hymns and in spiritual songs. The meetings of believers ought to be lively, instructive, God-glorifying and generate power that leads to soul-winning, missionary activities and service.

The early church grew. It put the Bible central. The Reformation was a blessing for it put the Bible back in the church. The Wesleyan revival was a boon to England for it put the Bible in the hearts of people.

CHIEFTAN—Lorenzo Trevan, of 15th St., recently retired from 23 years of active duty from the army. Here he stands in his chief's headress in, would you believe, Manheim, Germany. While stationed in Europe, Trevan helped establish clubs that duplicate the customs and dress of the early American Indians.

Indian Completes 23 Years With Army, Retires at 53

Mr. Lorenzo Trevan is an amazing man.

Trevan is retiring after 23 years in the army as a motor sergeant, after having been across the Atlantic twice, and the Pacific seven times.

While in the service, he accomplished things above and beyond what was expected of him. In Mannheim, West Germany, for example, he helped organize the Osage Indian Club of Mannheim. Trevan is a full-blooded Potawatomi Indian. The Germans, he says, are interested in American culture and custom.

In Heidelberg, he war-danced, and sometime while he was stationed in Germany, he was instrumental in the founding of an orphanage for children.

His record in the service also shows his interest in other cultures. He speaks fluent Japanese as well as his native Potawatomi.

He learned Japanese while stationed in Japan, and brought home a permanent reminder of the country, his present wife, Miyoko.

They live at 255 West 15th Street with two of their children, a son, who will be 21, and a daughter, 18. His three other daughters are attending Wheaton College in Illinois.

He tells the story of how he started on his career. He had already gone one tour of duty, fulfilling his obligation, and his brother and he were in Grand Rapids one day in 1946. His brother suggested, on a whim, that they go and enlist. Why not?

His career took him to Vietnam twice, once when it was known as Indochina, and to Korea five times. He rose through the ranks to become a staff sergeant in the motor division, where he was trained to service all army vehicles, from jeeps to tanks.

Now that he's out, at only 53 years old, he misses the rigidity of army life, but looks forward to another job.

At the moment, he is taking a rest. He says his wife gave him a 30-day furlough.

Already he has had 30 job offers from companies around the Holland area. He said that he would take the job that offered the most responsibility. "After all," he said, "I was given a top-secret clearance in the Army."

His name in Potawatomi, "Skogunesse," means "Red Bird." The language is not written, and that is about the nearest spelling of the sound. He was asked if he gave his children an Indian name. "No," he said, "I didn't name them. It's just one of those things. The kids don't bother to learn the language these days."

"Do any other members of your family have a name?" "Yes, my sister. You know the sunset over Lake Michigan. And the color of the water as the sun slowly goes down over the horizon? The name for the color of the water is my sister's name."

HEA Master Contract Is Studied

Board of Education President James O. Lamb said Monday night that negotiations with representatives of the Holland Education Association over a master contract for 1969-70 have taken in excess of 40 hours plus many hours of study separately and no agreement has been reached.

"The HEA and the board are not completely satisfied over the progress but we sincerely hope final and complete agreement will be reached within 30 days," Lamb said.

"We had hoped to finalize negotiations by the end of the school year, but commitments, obligations and necessary study extend the period. We assure the public that there is rapport and understanding between the board and the HEA and that relations are cordial. We are sure both sides will make an effort for an agreement that is acceptable to the staff (teachers)," he said.

Leonard Dick, president of the HEA, said staff members regret that agreement has not been reached before the close of the year, which means that many teachers will be leaving for the summer without written contracts. But he was optimistic that productive effort would resolve differences in the next 10 weeks, and that efforts would be made to maintain quality education in Holland with regard to commitment to staff to offer competitive professional compensation.

These are the first negotiations since two years ago when failure to agree resulted in a teachers' strike, or as the HEA called it "withholding of services" for four days after Labor Day. A two-year master contract was adopted the following spring.

Man Lodged in Jail Following Chase

GRAND HAVEN — A Holland man, Timothy Dozeman, 19, of 143 West 20th St., was arrested by Michigan State Police about 10 p.m. Saturday following a chase which ended just north of the Holland city limits. He was lodged in the county jail here, charged with littering and reckless driving.

Dozeman was driving at a high rate of speed, officers said, and heading east on Ottawa Beach Rd. He ran a stop sign at Pinecrest and Howard Ave. and while giving chase, officers reported, he allegedly threw two beer cans out of the window.

GE Forum Probes New Generation

"Industry's Responsibilities in a Young Society" is the subject of an article by Publisher Robert L. Fegley in the final edition of the General Electric Forum.

He quoted Harvard Law Prof. Archibald Cox, chairman of a fact finding committee to investigate disturbances at Columbia University last year who said the present generation of young people is the best informed, the most intelligent and the most idealistic this country has ever known.

Fegley added this is a puzzling generation, and not a little frightening in its willingness to challenge all values, all systems' with vehemence new to this country. He said the New Left through shock tactics wins attention far beyond its importance in numbers or ideas, but the degree to which large numbers of more thoughtful students can be excited to join in radical demonstrations indicates a depth of dissatisfaction among the young that cannot be ignored.

The spring issue of the Forum tries to assess the mood of youth today and its meaning for the future of society, in articles by a distinguished panel of authors.

One conclusion points out that America has entered a new age when the past is providing few guidelines for the future, and the changes under way are touching the lives of everyone. Whether this will be for better or worse, one writer contends, depends on the talent and will of those already walking our land — especially the young people.

Another says: "We can have no quarrel with the reexamination of values and a reordering of priorities — if this is done within our traditions and we remain true to ourselves. But we must not suffer the degradation of the productive apparatus that is the only means by which billions can survive, the starving can be fed, the poor can be cared for, the sick healed, and the weak defended."

On those terms, the publisher concludes industry welcomes a new generation — "the best informed, the most intelligent, and the most idealistic this country has ever known."

West Ottawa Graduates Hear Dr. G. Mallinson

Dr. George Mallinson, dean of the Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, graduate school delivered the main address Wednesday at the seventh annual West Ottawa High School commencement exercises. The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Dr. Mallinson has headed the graduate school at WMU since January 1955. From 1948 until becoming the graduate school head, he served on the Western faculty as a professor of science education. He was the youngest man ever to hold the post of president of the National Association of Research in Science Teaching when he took office in 1953.

A native of New York, he was president of the Science Teachers Association in 1954 and presently is editor of School Science and Mathematics, a monthly journal. He holds two degrees from New York State College for Teachers in Albany, and a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

During the commencement program West Ottawa public school superintendent Lloyd Van Raalte will present the diplomas to the 230 graduates as high school principal Dwayne Hooker calls them forward. The Rev. Larry Izenhart, pastor of Fellowship Reformed Church, will deliver the invocation.

Dr. Mallinson will be introduced by student council vice mayor Keith Kleis and the senior class gift will be presented to the school by the senior class president Terry Feddick. The high school band under the direction of Thomas Updegraff, will play the processional and recessional for the graduates.

SIZE—Here worms compete for attention with a Roosevelt Dime, showing their comparative size. Small rock-like objects are worm waste product, which effectively stains anything it touches a rust-color. In about three more weeks, these worms will be moths after they pupate for a time on the ground. Males fly away, but females are wingless, and must climb up the tree to begin the process all over again. (Sentinel photo)

MOVEMENT—The canker worm, more commonly known as the inch worm, moves by gathering its body into a loop, or canker, and extends its front feet forward while hanging on with its rear set. Fascinating to watch, but the worms are capable of destroying an entire tree within several days. If you have been attacked by these pests, and want more information, contact the Ottawa County Extension Service for methods of examination. (Sentinel photo)

Canker Worms Present Problem

Worms are invading a large area on 5th Avenue just east of the Chris-Craft Co. factory.

Yes, worms. Officially known as the larva stage in the life cycle of the canker moth.

Richard Machiele of the Ottawa County Extension Service outlined the life cycle of the worm.

He said the worms are about an inch long, and turn from green to brown as they mature. They are responsible for the drastic disappearance of tree and shrub foliage in the area. The worm is recognized by the two pairs of feet on either end of its body, which he uses to grasp the leaf while he is feeding.

The worms are numerous and hungry. As they eat everything with leaves in sight, they collect on bushes, walls, and roofs. The life cycle is one year, and the damage is done by the hungry larvae. The eggs are laid in the tree branches, and once hatched, start feeding immediately. They eat any type of foliage, and they feed for about four weeks.

Sometimes thousands of worms will be hanging from a tree branch at the same time, giving the effect of a beaded curtain. Finally, they burrow into the ground and pupate, or spin cocoons to emerge in September as adult moths. The females do not have wings; their only job is to climb up the tree trunk again to lay the eggs and start the whole cycle over.

Preventive measures can be taken, once the cycle is understood. Park Superintendent Jacob De Graaf says that one method to control infestation for next spring is to band the trunk of the tree in the fall with a sticky material — an easily made material is composed of resin and castor oil, preventing the moth from climbing the tree.

No housewife dares to hang out washing, because worms drop a small sandlike substance that stains practically everything. Car finishes corrode, roofs look dirty, and sidewalks have a permanent rust color.

Clearly, many residents are up in arms over the situation. They have asked the township, county, and state, and each time have been told that there is not a thing that can be done.

A group of housewives, in the area, decided to take action. They called the County Extension Service, gathered information on safe and effective methods of exterminating the worms, without using hard pesticides. They found that the best method is spraying with a contact spray, mixed with a stomach poison, to kill worms effectively for about seven days.

So far, the women have petitioned the whole neighborhood, and have gotten the cooperation of Chris-Craft, and Glerum school to support a plan to have the neighborhood sprayed, at a cost of $3.50 per acre. Mrs. Anthony Kibby said. They have over 70 signatures on a petition, and all of the residents affected are signed up.

They have had to turn to private action, because it seems that local government can not or will not become involved with the problem.

Holland City won't help, because the area is outside of the city limits. Township supervisor James Brower says that the township hasn't the funds, equipment, or authority to spray on private property. Obviously, they would be charged with favoritism if they arbitrarily sprayed one section of the township and not another, he indicated.

Brower referred to precedence, and said concerning Dutch Elm disease, if some tree on private property were harboring the disease, and it could possibly affect the safety of a tree on county property, then, he said, they sprayed the trees on private property.

The Ottawa County Road Commission has never before handled pesticides or pests, but has sprayed for Dutch Elm on occasion. However, this was in conjunction with individual property spraying.

Brower contacted the County Road Commission about the problem. The county, though, must contact state officials about policy on these matters, and it's possible that the whole summer would pass before any action comes from the county.

The canker worm is not limiting its invasion to this area alone. Other areas along the East shore of Lake Michigan are reportedly under heavy bombardment from the small, one-inch worms.

The best defense is preventive maintenance, spreading the Van Eyck at the U.S. Military Cemetery at Margraten, The Netherlands, on Memorial Day. The Memorial Day service was the highlight of the trip for the Van Eycks.

WARM GREETING—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Eyck are here shown after having just met their hostess for the week, Mrs. Paashuis (left). The Paashuis family was concerned about communication, but after having been answered in Dutch, all problems disappeared. The friendly attitude with which the Van Eycks were greeted throughout the week is manifest in the face of Mrs. Paashuis.

Van Eyck Family Makes Trip To Netherlands

The Netherlands War Graves Committee of Amsterdam, The Netherlands, gives people from various areas of the world a chance to visit the graves of relatives who fell in battle in Holland.

This is the way chosen by The Netherlands to show its gratitude for the sacrifices made for its liberation.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Eyck, 533 West 21st St., whose son Willard lost his life in action in March, 1945, were given the opportunity this spring to make the trip. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Eyck, 10860 East 16th St., and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Voorhorst, Bloomington, Minn. They joined a group of more than one hundred, also bound for The Netherlands, which had been gathered from all areas of the continental United States. The group left New York May 27 and arrived at Schiphol Airport, Amsterdam, May 28.

After lunch the group left for Maastricht where they met the families with whom they were to stay during their visit.

Thursday, May 29, was set aside for grave visits. The Van Eycks made their pilgrimage to Margraten Cemetery. The land for this cemetery was ceded by The Netherlands to the United States. It has perpetual care and contains only the graves of World War II dead—there have been no new excavations since the cemetery was formed. The Van Eycks described this area as one complete serenity, peace, and total silence. While at the cemetery each family received a military guide for the day.

Friday, Memorial Day, held special meaning for the Van Eycks. A remembrance ceremony was held at the U.S. Military Cemetery at Margraten.

Many Dutch and American officials were present. Peter Van Eyck, 85, and his wife Kathrine, 83, were honored as the oldest parents present. The Dutch hold respect for age, and the Van Eycks were treated with courtesy and respect for the remainder of their stay, they said. School children participated in the memorial ceremony, emphasizing the nations respect for age and history.

Saturday was spent in visiting Amsterdam and Volendam and enjoying the various shops, sights and amusements in the areas.

Having learned that two families from the area care for an individual grave, the Van Eycks desired to make the acquaintance of those people who cared for their son's grave. This they did on Sunday, after having attended the only Reformed church in the Lindburg area.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were spent in touring various cities and attending exhibitions and other forms of planned entertainment. Thursday the pilgrims, as they were for the return trip. They arrived back in New York last Friday.

The Van Eycks enjoyed their trip and emphasized the warmth with which they were constantly met. They expressed gratitude for the respect shown their age and enjoyed the friendship extended to them and the ceremony with which history was handled.

As a gift for their host and hostess, the Van Eycks took with them a copy of the Tulip Time edition of the Sentinel. The Paashuis, expressed surprise that the people of Holland, Mich., were proud of their Dutch ancestry that they specified a week each year to publicly celebrate that ancestry.

300 Attend Cotillion Saturday at Civic Center

Horizon girls and their guests enjoyed the annual Cotton Cotillion Saturday evening. About 300 attended. The Civic Center was beautifully decorated in keeping with the theme Sayonara. The ceiling was filled with Japanese lanterns and a canopy made of crepe paper towered the ceiling. The crystal ball centered the dance floor.

A rock garden and fountain was the focal point in the entry and guests entered the auditorium through Pagodas. Each table was decorated with bright orange poppies made by Mrs. Robert Hall and Mrs. H. Baar's Horizon group.

This West Ottawa group made the plans and carried out the decorations assisted by Mrs. Leo Gasper's and Mrs. H. Scholten's Horizon groups. Miss Joanne Hill, Horizon Chairman, also assisted with the plans and decorations.

Horizon girls and guests enjoyed the punch and cookies planned by Mrs. William DeWilde and Mrs. Lee Anderson's groups. A special treat was fortune cookies and favors of miniature Japanese umbrellas were given to the Horizon girls.
