Rev. J. H. Dodson of Grand Rapids preached in Grace Episcopal church last Sunday morning.

In Justice Van Duren's court tomorrow will take place the trial of John Kats, a farmer living near Zeeland, who is charged with assault and battery committed upon Charles Faber.

Here is what Poor Richard Junior says in the Saturday Evening Post: "Inquisitive persons out West are trying to find where all the flies go to. Why not look in the stores that never advertise?"

Holkeboer & Co. have taken the contract for the construction of the Carnegie gymnasium on Hope college campus. The price is $23,318. Fritsch & Thompson were awarded the plumbing contract—the price $3,150. The building must be completed by June 1, 1906.

Out of all the mass of warnings, predictions, scares and panics growing out of the yellow fever scare in this county, the one salient point to be considered is that the yellow fever germ does not thrive north of the Mason & Dixon line. Therefore, when the talk grows rife of fear of a yellow fever contagion say nothing—but keep on going about your business.

The G. R., H. & C. interurban has installed a service which will bring into the Grand Rapids market peaches which in former years have been going by boat to Chicago. A car of fruit will be picked up each afternoon along the line and brought on to the market in charge of Mr. Dick, who will act as agent for the consignees. He will remain with the car on the island until it is sold.

While on his recent trip to Boston after W. H. Tolleson, Sheriff Jesse G. Woodbury found the ancestral home of his family forty-eight miles outside of Boston, Mass. The sheriff made himself known to the people who are now living on the old place and he was fittingly welcomed to the family's hallowed ground. The sheriff was presented with a photograph of the old road in front of the farm and in the foreground stood an old mile stone chipped and weather beaten.

"It is not true, as has been reported, that the Macatawa Park Cottagers' association is disappointed in efforts to buy the property of the Macatawa Park company," said George A. Clapperton, secretary and treasurer of the former company, Tuesday to a Grand Rapids Herald reporter. "In fact," he continued, "the Cottagers' association has never contemplated buying the other concern. No deal has been broken off, because none has been under way, nor is any likely to be taken up. The Cottagers' association is merely an association of the cottage owners for the purposes of mutual benefit, such as the securing of lights and sewerage. The association, as one, has no use for any property and its board of managers is not contemplating any purchase.

Wesley Bradfield of the forestry department of the United States says that the channel through the government is cutting through from the Kalamazoo river to Lake Michigan just below Saugatuck will be a useless waste of money unless means are taken for preventing its filling up with sand. He points out that the new cut is just in line of one of the moving sand dunes which choked up the Kalamazoo river to such an extent as to make the cut necessary. This dune is moving at the rate of several feet per year, he says, and is now but a very short distance from the line of the cut. It is his opinion that the proper place to have cut the channel would have been from a point just below Saugatuck to the last bend in the river before it empties into the lake.

Thomas Price has gone to Lansing to work in the sugar factory.

Jacob Kastler of Olive township was robbed of $23 by pickpockets at the Farmers Picnic.

The firemen of Allegan cleared $250 from their per cent of the proceeds of the carnival last week.

M. Ossignac was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail Friday after pleading guilty in Justice Devries court to a charge of drunkenness.

A match game of base ball Saturday between the Zeeland and Fennville teams at Fennville resulted in a score of 11 to 1 in favor of the "Fennvillians."

Gov. Warner has issued a proclamation setting aside next Monday, Sept. 4, as Labor day, and asking the people to generally observe the holiday.

The five-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Vyven died Saturday evening after a brief illness. The funeral was held Tuesday from the residence, corner Seventh and Columbia avenue, Rev. A. T. Luther officiating.

A meeting of the foreign missionary board of the Christian Reformed church will be held today at the home of Jan W. Garvelink in Fillmore, and in the evening a general meeting will be held in the Graafschap church.

John DeHann of Tallmadge was taken to the asylum for the insane Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Salsbury. Mr. DeHann was taken to Kalamazoo by Under Sheriff McEachron last winter, but was released as cured and has been home part of the summer.

Rev. W. H. DuxMoulin, of Chicago, has been secured as rector of Grace Episcopal church and will conduct services next Sunday at the usual hours. Rev. DuxMoulin is a young married man and is the son of the bishop of the Niagara diocese of New York. He has a brother who is rector of St. Peters church, Canada.

Mrs. Henry Hovenga, 20 East Seventh street, died suddenly Saturday afternoon. She was taken ill Saturday morning and her death occurred at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Death was due to a ruptured artery. The deceased was 22 years old and is survived by a husband. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the Central avenue church, Rev. R. L. Haan officiating.

During July four people came to their death by violence, in this city, according to the state bulletin of vital statistics. For the entire month thirty eight deaths were reported from Ottawa county, seven being infants under one year, five under four years, and ten persons were over 65 years. Cancer caused three deaths, meningitis one, tuberculosis three. For July Allegan county reported 37 deaths and Muskegon 29, one being caused by smallpox.

Mortality from all forms of tuberculosis is on the increase in the state. For the past five years the record shows that the number of deaths from this disease in Ottawa county were: 1900, 32 deaths; 1901, 36; 1902, 40; 1903, 37; 1904, 39. The average death rate per 100,000 population for the four years was 89.9. The record of this disease in Holland alone shows the number of deaths to have been: 1900, 9 deaths; 1901, 11 deaths; 1902 and 1903, 8 deaths each; 1904, 11 deaths, a total of 47 deaths.

Ottawa county has stepped to the forefront in the columns of the state press and it is all on account of a case of yellow fever, Godfrey Limburg, of Crookery township, who went south some time ago to work as telephone lineman, became alarmed at the yellow fever outbreak, and escaping quarantine came home, arriving Aug. 17. He had not been feeling well for two or three days and finally Dr. Hughes of Nunica was called and pronounced it a genuine case of yellow fever. The doctor's word was doubted and Saturday the patient was visited by Health Officer Kiefer, of Detroit, and Health Officer Koon, of Grand Rapids, the Detroit city bacteriologist, and Dr. Hughes, the patient's physician. After a careful examination they stated that Limburg had suffered undoubtedly from the dreaded plague. The peculiar odor found only in yellow fever cases was present. Limburg is now convalescent. He will be able to be up in a few days.

John M. Maloney, manager of the Hopkins Station base ball club, did not waste a minutes time when it came to calling the bluff of Tripp's invincible of Allegan to play a three-game series for $100. He said with promptness that jarred that he would play the Trippites for money, marbles or a chance at a nickle-in-the slot.

All who expect to enter the Seminary in any of the Classes are requested to be present at that time with their letter showing their church relation and their diploma or other evidence of scholarship. On Friday morning, Sept. 22, at 10 a. m. all students, of all the Classes, will meet to arrange for text books and receive assignment of studies in the various departments. It is expected that all the students will be present at that time. On Tuesday evening following, Sept. 26, the usual opening lecture will be delivered in the Semelink Hall Chapel, at 7:30 p. m., by the Rev. Prof. G. H. Dubbink, subject: "The Church of the Seminary." Johnnie Hacklander, an 11-year-old boy living on the north side, while playing with his comrades on the Seventh street viaduct, which crosses the Grand Rapids, Holland & Chicago interurban tracks last Friday evening, met with an accident from the effects of which he died Saturday night. He slipped over the railing and fell headfirst to the tracks below, a distance of about 40 feet. He struck on his head and his skull was fractured. A car from Grand Rapids had just emerged from under the viaduct and the conductor, who happened to look that way, saw him fall. Picking him up for dead, the conductor took the unfortunate little fellow and bore him on the car to Dr. J. A. Mabb's office, where the fractured skull was dressed, with the aid of Dr. H. Kremers and Dr. E. D. Kremers. The boy was the son of Cornelius Hacklander, living two miles north of the city, but was taken to his uncle, John Hacklander's, residence at No. 198 East Thirteenth. The physicians pronounced his condition critical and held out no hopes for his recovery at any time since the accident. The funeral services were held Tuesday from the home of the parents on the north side, Rev. S. Vander Werf officiating.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

Gathered Weekly By Our Many Correspondents

Vriesland

Albert Ensink of Vriesland has been missing for the past five days. Ensink is 44 years old, a bachelor, and lived about a mile from town on a farm with his brother Herman. Sunday he went for a walk and did not return. For two days his relatives did not worry over his absence because a year or two ago he went away for three days and then came back without giving any reason for his strange action. It is thought, however, that the man has committed suicide, while his relatives think he may have been injured and is unable to get home. Inquiry is being made in all other neighboring towns where he would be most liable to go if he intended visiting friends. (Later) Mr. Ensink returned home Monday from Kalamazoo where he had been visiting.

Zeeland

This is the most prosperous season the H. J. Heinz salting plant has had in this village. John Westenbroek died last Thursday of brain fever and was buried Saturday, funeral services being held at the First Reformed church.

Will Eding, a lad residing on North State street, was severely bitten in the hands by a dog belonging to J. Giebel. The canine is not necessarily vicious, but it is believed that several small boys of the neighborhood plagued the animal until he took revenge on his tormentors.

Prof. and Mrs. J. Earle Marshall have left for their new home in Petoskey.

Surveyors of the Grand Rapids, Holland & Chicago line have surveyed for the proposed freight line through the center of the blocks between Main and Cross streets.

Chris. DeJonge removed last week from his place on North State street where he has resided for over twenty years. His family now occupies their elegant new home on East Main street.

Douglas

Dr. Stroud has returned to Douglas and will practice again. His family will join him soon.

There will be no sale at the McCarthy place on Saturday the 26th, as Mrs. McCarthy has received word from Judge Williams that Mr. McCarthy's condition is very much improved and it is very likely he will be home in about two months.

At the organization of the Douglas School Board H. H. Harrison was elected director, H. Farnsworth, moderator, Roy Reid, treasurer, Wm. McVea, trustee, in place of L. W. McDonald who resigned. A new floor will be laid in one of the rooms and a general overhauling will take place. School will begin Sept. 5th.

Saugatuck

A. B. Taylor has offered $1,000 for the lot where the Village Hall now stands but as Village property cannot be sold except at public auction it will have to be sold that way. The price offered does not include the building.

Frank Flint has bought E. H. Hathaway's harness and shoe repair business in Douglas and moved it to Saugatuck. He has engaged Mr. Hathaway to help him.

Miss Florence Alway, the young elocutionist, assisted by her brother, Master Joe, the wonderful boy soprano, and Baby Ivanell, with a contralto voice, will give an entertainment in the Opera House, Saturday evening, August 26.

Miss Winnifred Percival has gone to Oskosh where she will attend school the coming year.

Frank Seastrum has returned from Lowell where he had an accident while plastering a store. He fell on his back from a scaffold but luckily was not hurt very seriously.

We are in receipt of a communication from C. F. Shuey, of Chicago, who commends our Village authorities very highly for their policy of leaving the Village forests west of the river in their natural state and not spoiling them with an effort to beautify them.—Saugatuck-Commercial Record.

Port Sheldon

Port Sheldon is again on the boards. A special committee from the board of trade of Grand Rapids left that city in automobiles yesterday morning. They intend to cover the entire proposed pipe route between Grand Rapids and Lake Michigan. Before the trip is finished the members of the com-

Grandfather's Awakening

MRS. CYRUS WILLIAMS could not but feel annoyed with her father-in-law that he persisted in hanging on to life upon which a man past 80, according to Scripture, must feel that he has no reasonable sort of claim.

Ever since the death of Grandmother Williams, Mrs. Cyrus had been absolute ruler upon the immense farm, but the fact that the title deeds for all those rolling acres and well-stocked barns still stood in the name of the bent old man was a rankling thorn in that lady's peace of mind.

Not that he interfered in the slightest with her arrangements or failed to sign papers when told when and where to sign, or asked embarrassing questions about household expenses, which were stretched to cover son Edward's college bills, but it seemed such a tiresome thing his hanging on to the frayed threads which connected him with earth and earth's affairs.

Ever since the death of Maggie, his wife, Grandfather Williams had seemed in something of a dream out of which his faded eyes had looked indifferently at the world in which he still played a shadowy part.

Toward Mrs. Cyrus his manner seemed to convey a perpetual apology which she considered nothing more than her rightful due, particularly since he had shown the questionable taste to recover from an attack of lung fever in his eighty-fourth year, despite the fact that, with the doctor's word as her authority, she had gone so far as to make all arrangements for an elaborate funeral.

It was the spring after this unpleasant occurrence that Jimmy came to be chore boy upon the farm.

Jimmy was without visible relations. He was a homely little fellow with an ever-present unappeased appetite and a talent for doing all sorts of unpleasant tasks that other people didn't like to do about the house and barn.

Jimmy did not resent the fact that, under the reign of the sharp-tongued, hard-working Mrs. Williams, he had over much to do, and not quite enough to eat, and scarcely anything to wear. He had never been used to much consideration, and the heart which beat inside his narrow chest was filled with a natural kindness which would not permit of the existence there of any rankling resentment against his unrelenting mistress.

At first he did not see much of Grandfather Williams, but gradually, he began to notice the old man, and tried to show in little ways the timid compassion he felt for one who, in his ignorance of worldly matters, he considered almost as unfortunate as himself.

It was he who discovered the mysterious hiding places of the steel-rimmed glasses, and it was he who often thrust into the kitchen stove an extra stick of wood when grandfather crept out from the frozen splendor of the family sitting-room in search of the heat needed by his enfeebled system.

Not that Jimmy deliberately planned being attentive to the silent old man. In what he did he was merely inspired by the same instinct which made him take time from his hurried journeys about the poultry yards to set a drooping chicken where the bright sun could beat down upon its bedraggled feathers or to throw a specially attractive bit of garbage in the way of a poor-spirited hen hanging upon the outskirts of a barnyard feast.

For a long time he never guessed that Grandfather Williams noticed his timid efforts to throw a little more of comfort into his cheerless life and then came the great day when a secret comradeship sprang up between them.

First it was only a small bag of rather ancient peppermint drops laid during his absence upon the three-legged stool beside his narrow bed, but, in time, such treasures collected in the tiny attic bedroom as to make Jimmy the richest boy in the country round.

An actual pocketknife with only one blade, the same with which Grandfather Williams had once whittled feebly as he sat sunning himself during the warm spring days, a tin box in which he had once kept the tobacco for which he no longer had the taste, a long, stout string which Jimmy meant to use for a fish-line, and numberless other treasures besides an actual piece of money, a carefully polished, and what seemed to Jimmy, an especially large quarter of a dollar.

Oh, Jimmy needed no one's pity now, besides, he and Grandfather Williams often talked together. Such nice, little talks as grandfather leaned against the pasture bars while Jimmy did the milking which fell to his lot upon the great, busy farm. Jimmy would then tell how, some day, he meant to be a hired man and get $15 a month and have a suit of Sunday clothes and a red tie like Henry Bates', and grandfather would tell Jimmy endless stories of how he and Maggie had come to the farm when they both were young, and what a smart housekeeper Maggie was, and what a cute little chap "Cy" had been.

That Cy, who was now so wonderful a man that Jimmy scarce dared lift his eyes to his hard, set face.

Perhaps nothing else would ever have come of this intercourse between the two stray sheep in the Williams fold but for the circus, the wonderful circus, advertisements for which had been adorning the landscape for weeks during the eventful summer. The morning of circus day, grandfather, feeling a sense of loneliness upon him, wandered half aimlessly, but with unerring instinct into the back yard where Jimmy sat shelling peas. Jimmy did not hear the shuffling step upon the walk, and the old man, stopping for a moment to rest himself against a chair, saw the boy rub the sleeve of his faded shirt hard across his eyes.

Twice he did this, and then grandfather realized that the boy was crying, just as he sometimes did since Maggie died, sitting and crying silently by himself, making no appeal to others to share the sorrow which seemed all his own.

But what would make a boy cry? His wife had not died and left him all alone in a world which he no longer cared for.

Mebby, now, he was hungry. Cy's wife was sometimes close with the boy in the matter of his victuals.

"Hello, Jimmy," the old man called, trying to throw a note of gaiety into his cracked voice just as he used to long ago when Maggie was tired or things had gone wrong about the house. Jimmy looked up and smiled, and then it was plain even without the aid from the glasses, which were hopelessly lost for the time upon the top of grandfather's head, that the boy had been crying, and crying hard.

With a groan for his rheumatic knees, grandfather settled himself upon the step beside the sorrowful little figure, while as he did so the touch of the warm, childish limbs stirred memories asleep for years, and a sense of power crept into the dim mind accustomed so long to another's sway.

"What's the matter with you, Jimmy?" he said, more firmly than the boy had ever before heard him speak, and a knotted tremulous hand dropped upon the straggling hair which fell across the tear-stained cheeks.

Jimmy gave a convulsive sniff. There was that in the old man's voice which unlocked the flood gates of his grief, and a whole volume of childish

"YOU AN ME AIR GOIN' TO HAVE THE DARNDEST LOT UV FUN TO-DAY AT THAT CIRCUS."

Woe came forth in his cry: "Oh, it ain't nothin' much, sir; it's just the circus." Grandfather sat a moment silent.

A circus? Why, he had almost forgotten that such things existed. Had Jimmy been hungry he had made his plans—

He was going to get him something to eat—a piece of pie, mebby—Cy was fond of pie when he was young like Jimmy—but a circus—

Hark—what was that? Had an actual sound come to him or was it but the touch of memory's wand upon the far-off melody of youth?

Faint at first, then clearer came the thrilling sound. Ah, he had it now. There was the call of the bugles in it and the roll of wheels.

Heaven had been kind to him, and Maggie was once more at his side—her warm, girlish hand was clasped in his—a young man's love was leaping in his veins—the circus was marching by. "Look, Maggie, look," he thought he cried. "See, there goes the band. Look, sweetheart, the elephant is coming and the lion's cage. We must go and get our tickets, come, dear, let's hurry on."

Grandfather Williams half rose to his feet, his thin cheeks flushed a burning red, and then—the past faded and he was left alone once more with only Jimmy clinging to his hand and gazing with frightened eyes into the old man's dazed, excited face.

A long, quivering sigh shook grandfather's bowed figure, and then he rose. Years seemed to have fallen from him. Once more he was a man.

The needs of a little child had given new birth to the fatherhood so long smothered in his lonely heart.

"Jimmy," he said, firmly, "put up them peas and come along to town; you an me air goin' to have the darndest lot uv fun to-day at that circus that you ever herd uv."

"But, but!" gasped Jimmy, for whom the gates of paradise seemed yawning, "Mrs. Williams will scold us."

Grandfather straightened his bent shoulders and looked at Jimmy in stern surprise.

"Scold us!" he cried. "What, Hattie Lumis scold me! Why, Jimmy, you must be crazy, child."

Mrs. Cyrus Williams, nee Hattie Lumis, came within very little of needing for herself the funeral services she planned so carefully for her father-in-law, when that gentleman walked calmly in upon her, demanding clean clothes for Jimmy and an early dinner and carriage for both himself and the panic-stricken child.

And when it was learned that the old gentleman, before returning home, visited a lawyer and made ample provision for the neglected boy, Mrs. Cyrus had occasion for private meditation of a somewhat disconcerting character.

"A little kindness to them both would have cost me so little," the clever mind could not but admit. "My short-sighted neglect of them has been the most expensive luxury of my entire life."—Cleveland Leader.

Got His Answer.

"I notice," said the talkative customer, "that one's beard grows faster in hot weather than it does in cold. What makes it do that?"

"Nature," answered the taciturn barber.—Chicago Tribune.

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Overestimated.

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

What a disappointment, then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good.

If a woman finds her energies are flagging, and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, whites, irregularities, or despondency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every woman who is in poor health and ailing.

Its benefits begin when its use begins. It gives strength and vigor from the start, and surely makes sick women well and robust.

Remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills. This fact is attested to by the thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory. Merit alone can produce such results.

Women should remember that a cure for all female diseases actually exists, and that cure is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Take no substitute.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting.

This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.

Allay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

PEACE IS ASSURED; JAPS YIELD EVERY POINT IN DISPUTE

Mikado Waives Indemnity and Gives Up Half Island of Sakhalin.

TO PREPARE TREATY AT ONCE

Interned Warships to Be Returned to Czar—Naval Strength in Pacific Not Limited.

Rumor of Secret Understanding Behind Pact—News Causes Great Excitement at Portsmouth.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 29.—Peace between Russia and Japan was practically concluded at Tuesday morning's session of the peace conference. In the final struggle the Russians achieved the victory. For the sake of peace, the Japanese, with a magnanimity worthy of their heroic achievements in this war, met the ultimatum of the czar and abandoned their demands, not only for reimbursement for the cost of the war, but for the repurchase of the northern half of Sakhalin, Russia at the same time agreeing to division of the island. The Japanese also withdrew articles 10 and 11 of the peace conditions originally proposed (demand for the surrender of the interned warships and limitation of the Russian naval power in the far east). The actual work of formulating the treaty of peace began at the afternoon session.

The two plenipotentiaries have respectively proposed to their emperors the conclusion of an immediate armistice. The details of the armistice were discussed at the afternoon meeting, and immediately after the question of the release of the Russian prisoners.

A rumor was in circulation in the afternoon that there was some sort of a secret understanding behind the treaty.

Mr. Witte expressed the opinion that some time would be required to complete the details of the treaty. He does not approximate the period, but it is apparent that several weeks will probably elapse before the treaty is ready for final signature.

Japs Present New Proposition.

It is asserted on good authority that Baron Komura at the morning meeting presented a new Japanese proposition, which Mr. Witte, however, refused to take into consideration, it being contrary to the ultimatum he had received from St. Petersburg. It was after this that the Japanese plenipotentiaries accepted the Russian proposition, which Mr. Witte had previously presented in writing.

President's Efforts Bear Fruit.

Peace has come. Envoys of the warring countries have reached an agreement on all questions, and the devastating war in the east is over. The efforts of Theodore Roosevelt have borne their fruit, and the commissioners of Russia and Japan are engaged in the elaboration of the terms of peace into a treaty. In the interest of peace Japan yielded practically everything which the Russians demanded, giving up her claim to indemnity and contenting herself with that which she had won as the immediate fruits of war.

The vision of peace came out of a cloud. Undoubtedly Mr. Witte and Baron Komura knew that it was to appear, but each envoy put on an appearance early Tuesday that was more than unpromising. Those who had felt, and practically known that an amicable agreement was to be the outcome, did not allow forbidding looks to disconcert them. That which has been consistently forecast is an accomplished fact, and from Portsmouth will go out the word which will disband armies and restore concord to the fields where war has waged.

Japan Shows Greatness.

Japan has added to the exhibition of heroism of her soldiers in the field a display of moral courage which amounts to greatness. Magnanimity has marked her course throughout the peace proceedings, and to-day she stands as an example to the world.

The mikado sent word to his peace commissioners that rather than have the efforts which had been made to end the war fail, it was the judgment of the government that concessions might be made with honor. The concessions were made, and out of Portsmouth goes the proclamation of peace.

Baron Komura, the imperturbable, was moved at last. He confirmed the news of an agreement, and said that peace had come, and that his nation rejoiced with the other great nations of the world.

The instant news of the agreement was given out a dispatch was sent to Oyster Bay to inform President Roosevelt that the result of his peace labors had not been in vain.

News Causes Great Excitement.

A scene of greatest excitement followed the receipt of the news in the lobby of the Hotel Wentworth. The official bulletin was telephoned from the conference-room at the navy yard by Mr. Sato, and like an electric thrill flooded through the room. There were screams of joy. Men threw their hats aloft, women actually wept. Everywhere there was a delirium of jubilation. Then there was a rush for the telegraph offices, and in an instant the news was speeding to the remotest corners of the earth.

Demonstration for Witte.

Mr. Witte, accompanied by Baron de Rosen, came to the hotel for luncheon. There was a wonderful demonstration upon their arrival. A great crowd had collected under the porte cochere of the Annex, where the Russians are quartered, and when their automobile drew up, the air was torn with frantic cheers. Hats were thrown aloft. Mr. Witte, as he stepped out of the motor car, seemed quite overcome. Too full for utterance, he could only grasp and shake the hands that were extended to him. Baron Rosen also was equally moved, and received the congratulations of the crowd in silence. For about five minutes the two plenipotentiaries were kept upon the porch listening to the incoherent praises of the hotel guests.

Not a Cent Indemnity.

"Do you pay indemnity?" was the universal interrogation.

"Pas un sou" (Not a cent), was Mr. Witte's response.

Forcing his way to the door, Mr. Witte encountered the members of the Russian mission, who rushed forward to shake his hand. Briefly in Russian he gave them the joyful tidings. Then, as he started up the stairs, the newspaper correspondents clamored for information.

"What have you done? How is it settled?" they cried.

"We pay not a kopec of indemnity," he replied, as he turned at the landing half-way up the stairs. "We get half of Sakhalin. That is the agreement in a nutshell."

A correspondent accompanied Mr. Witte to his room. He had been quite overcome by the great ovation he had received and the intense strain he had been under. He threw himself into his armchair, and after a few minutes to "pull himself together," he began to speak, slowly and deliberately, almost as if he were talking to himself:

Was Urged to Yield.

"It seems incredible," he said, "I do not believe any other man in my place would have dared to hope for the possibility of peace on the conditions to which we have just agreed. From all sides, from President Roosevelt down to my own friends in Russia, I received up to the last moment, even this morning, urgent representations that something should be paid to Japan."

At this point Mr. Witte, who was still laboring under excitement, almost lost control of himself. He paused a moment. Then he went on: "The Japanese wanted to take our interned ships, and I have not consented. The Japanese wanted to limit our naval power in the far east, and I have not consented. The Japanese wanted war indemnity or reimbursement of the cost of the war; aye! demanded it, and I have not consented. The Japanese wanted the Chinese Eastern railway south of Harbin, but I gave them only the railroad in the possession of their troops south of Chautau. The Japanese wanted the island of Sakhalin, and I refused it, agreeing, however, at the last moment to cede the southern half, and then only because I was commanded by my sovereign to yield and obeyed. Not only do we not pay so much as a kopec, but we obtain half of Sakhalin, now in their possession. At this morning's meeting, I presented my written proposition, which was the Russian ultimatum. It was accepted by the Japanese. I was amazed. Until I was in the conference-room I did not think what would happen. I could not anticipate such a great and happy issue.

Calls It a Russian Victory.

"It was a psychological crisis. I had made up my mind not to strike out a letter of the ultimatum I submitted. So far as I was concerned, it was ended. But I could not tell how it would work on the Japanese mind. It was a complete victory for us."

President Is Gratified.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt received the news that the peace envoys at Portsmouth had reached an agreement in his library at Sagamore Hill. He was engaged at the very moment on some matters with Secretary Loeb regarding the peace negotiations. The intimation of the agreement came to him in the form of a press bulletin announcing that the envoys had agreed on all points which hitherto had been the subject of difference. While the president had been hopeful that such an agreement would be reached, he was surprised that it had come Tuesday. His belief had been that the arrangement, if made at all, would not be made probably before Wednesday. He expressed to his family his gratification that a peaceful solution of the differences had been reached.

The president received official confirmation of the bulletin concerning the peace agreement at 2:30 in the afternoon. The official information reached him in the form of an official cipher dispatch from Portsmouth. It was sent at the instance of Baron Komura, principal envoy of Japan.

Why Shouldn't Holland Station Have One Of The Seven Automobile Life Boats?

The yacht men and marine men of this vicinity should try and secure for the Holland life saving station one of the seven new automobile life boats which the government is building to put into commission in seven life saving stations throughout the United States for experiment purposes. These boats are being built in the East and will be allotted by the life saving board in a short time to the seven cities which will give them the most severe tests as to their practicability.

Good tests could certainly be made at the Holland station. Think of the large number of yachts, launches, row boats and water craft of every description which day after day during the resort season dot Macatawa Bay and the waters of Lake Michigan within seeing distance of the station. Should an accident happen to any of these small craft time is the great factor that enters into the saving or the unsaving of the lives in jeopardy. An automobile boat could rush to the rescue in one third of the time it now takes the ordinary boats propelled by muscle. Every second counts for the gain or loss of life when human beings are struggling in the water or are lying on the bottom. And at a summer resort where the large number of pleasure craft increase the liability to have capsizees or other wrecks is where a good test can be made rather than at a strictly seaport town where the floating property, though larger, is not so numerous and is not of the class that is liable to frequent accidents.

Why shouldn't the Holland life saving station get one of the new automobile life boats?

No Doubt About Capt. Pardee's Vindication

Capt. Geo. W. Pardee, inspector of hulls for the Grand Haven district, is coming unto his own and the press of the state has changed its attitude of jumping with both feet on a man just because he has been criticised, and is giving him the right kind of a deal. Here is a part of the last Grand Haven dispatch:

"Capt. George W. Pardee, who, prior to his appointment as inspector of hulls had spent several years as a fresh water captain, sailing among other boats the Soo City and Virginia, is noted as a strict disciplinarian. His record in this direction is well known in marine circles and evidently he is maintaining the dignity of his office in Grand Haven.

"Captain Pardee said: "There may be an investigation of the office and we do not care whether there is or not. I did not treat Walsma discourteously when he entered my office. I simply finished the letter I was writing before I attended to his wants. He had come to file a paper concerning the placing of the required life appliances on his boat. He came in with his hat on and smoking a cigar, and I may have made some remark to the effect that such conduct was hardly in keeping with the nature of the office. Later he came to my house and threatened to get even with me. There were several women sitting on the front porches in the block and for that reason there was no trouble.

"I think the whole matter is being stirred up by a clerk who was given to understand recently that his services were no longer required. If there is an investigation the conduct of this person will be fully aired and the cause of his retirement given.

"Since the Slocum disaster the government has been enforcing the life appliance rules rigidly and some of the marine men of this port who had old, worthless life apparatus on their boats have had it in for the inspectors for some time because we have been enforcing the government regulations.

"An investigation would certainly stir up things and would not harm the inspectors, who have done nothing but their plain duty."

"Greeting" Of The Directors Of The Holland Fair

Here is how the board of directors greet the public in the premium list of the 21st annual fair, which will be held in Holland Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6:

"Nothing succeeds like success." "The Holland Fair was a decided success last year. All the departments were filled to overflowing and in some instances extra space had to be used to care for the exhibits. Everyone was pleased, the patronage was very good, and the association came out ahead. This has encouraged the directors to put forth extra efforts for the fair to be held this fall, October 3, 4, 5 and 6, and in issuing this, the Twenty-first Annual Premium List, the S. O. & W. A. Agricultural Society can confidently assert that the prospects were never brighter than they are for the coming fair.

"Look over this premium list carefully. See if it will not suggest that you have something mentioned therein that you might with pleasure or with profit bring to the fair and thus aid in making it the best ever."

"The board of directors offer you liberal premiums, a fine exhibition of all that is best from the farm, the workshop, or the home, a No. 1 racing program, a good line of free attractions, exciting athletic contests, and a good time. In return they ask your co operation so that this may be made Holland's bannar fair.

"$1,200 in purses will be offered for the races and some of the best trotters, pacers, and runners on the circuit will be there.

"Question.—Are you coming to the Holland Fair?

"Answer.— Certainly. Why shouldn't I?

"You are invited to come"

For premium lists call on A. B. Bosman, the president, N. J. Whelan the secretary, or on Directors Jacob Lokker, Al Hidding, Con DePree, John A. Kooyers, of Holland.

An Allegan Sensation

Rev. George R. Arnold, the M. E. pastor at Allegan, was arrested last Thursday evening on the charge of slander, on a warrant sworn out in Justice Nash's court by Attorney Perle L. Fouch, who alleges the minister has told persons that Fouch had a wife and child in Chicago and that he had deserted them. The examination was set for tomorrow. Rev. Arnold claims he was told the story by another person, and he repeated it. Mr. Fouch was raised in Allegan county and has many friends. Rev. Arnold came to Allegan nearly five years ago from Portland, Oregon. He has a lovely wife and three beautiful children and has many friends and a number of bitter enemies, the latter gained, it is said, among members of his church through disputes over building the beautiful new M. E. church to be dedicated Saturday.

Preceding the arrest of Rev. Arnold was another incident. Following publicity of a story purported to have been told by Charles Kintner, the latter was arrested on complaint of Mr. Arnold and taken before the prosecuting attorney, sheriff, Justice Hicks, who issued the warrant, and the complainant, where he signed a libel, or retraction, of the statements claimed to have been made. The story was that one evening last spring or fall, when delivering papers on Seminary hill, Mr. Kintner was riding his bicycle across lots to hasten delivery and ran over a man's feet, throwing him off the wheel. He investigated the cause of his fall and told afterward that the man was Mr. Arnold, and that a woman was with him. When confronted with the matter, before arrest, he made affidavit that he did not know who the woman was, and after his arrest, Monday night after midnight, this statement was included in a new affidavit in which he said on oath that he did not know who either of the parties were. Having secured this retraction, Mr. Arnold requested that the case be discontinued, which was done.

Kintner says he was terrorized into making the retraction and the developments of tomorrow are looked for eagerly.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S EXPERIENCE ON BOARD A SUBMARINE.

Makes Descent of Forty Feet to Bottom of Long Island Sound—Craft Is Then Put Through Many Maneuvers—Delighted with His Trip.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Aug. 26.—President Roosevelt, late Friday afternoon, made a descent in Long Island sound, on board the submarine torpedo boat Plunger. He was aboard the vessel about three hours. At one time the little boat was submerged for 50 minutes, and in that time was put through all of the submarine feats of which she is capable. The president expressed his delight at the novel experience, and said that he was immensely impressed with the boat and with the manner in which she was handled.

Assured of Safety.

The president's intention not only to make a personal inspection of the tiny vessel, likely to prove so deadly in naval warfare, but to make a submarine descent in it, was reached after a conference with Lieut. Nelson. The Plunger's commander explained to President Roosevelt the operations of the boat and assured him that a trip on her and a descent into the depth of Long Island sound would be as devoid of danger as would be a trip on a New York subway express train.

The special trial of the boat with the president on board took place between three and six o'clock Friday afternoon in Long Island sound, just off the entrance to Oyster Bay. As soon as the president had descended into the boat, the man-holes were closed and, conveyed by the naval tender Apache, the Plunger started for the sound. No maneuvers were attempted until the vessel was well beyond the entrance to the bay. A stiff northeast breeze, which had been blowing since Thursday night, kicked up a heavy sea in the sound, but the Plunger behaved beautifully. The water where the trial took place is about 40 feet deep, too shallow, in the opinion of Lieut. Nelson and his experts, to enable the vessel to do her best work.

Goes to the Bottom.

Soon after the vessel reached the necessary depth of water she was directed downward until she rested on the bottom of the sound. Then the mechanism of the craft was explained minutely to the president by Lieut. Nelson, so that he afterward experienced no difficulty in understanding the maneuvers which were performed. While the president thus was resting on the bottom of the sound in a submarine boat, a storm 40 feet above him was raging unnoted. The rain descended in torrents and the northeast-whipped surface of the water into big rollers, but it was quiet and peaceful where the president sat as an easy parlor would be.

The Maneuvers.

Explanations of the working of the vessel having been completed, Lieut. Nelson began to put her through her paces. From the bottom, porpoise diving was tried; that is, the boat would ascend to the surface of the sound for several seconds, long enough to enable her commander to sight any warship that might be within view, and then dive again immediately. After this maneuver had been repeated a few times, the Plunger was sent down a distance of 20 feet below the surface and her engines stopped. Then the engines were reversed and the boat ascended to the surface backwards. Lieut. Nelson made his boat perform the remarkable feat of diving to a depth of 20 feet and while going at full speed at that depth, reversing her course. The complete turn occupied only one minute. Subsequently, the engines were stopped and the vessel was submerged to a depth of 20 feet. There she was kept motionless, a demonstration of her ability to remain in that position for hours while awaiting an opportunity to launch one of her torpedoes at a vessel of a blockading squadron which might be passing or repassing a given point. After many maneuvers had been performed Lieut. Nelson ordered all lights on board to be extinguished to demonstrate how thoroughly the members of his crew knew their business. They worked perfectly in the inky darkness, evidently with as much skill and ease as they performed their duties in the glare of the electric light.

During the operations of the Plunger, the tender Apache remained within a short distance, prepared to render any assistance that might be necessary. She was not needed, however, and the Plunger returned to her moorings, near the J. West Roosevelt pier, without an untoward incident. The president shook hands with all the crew as he left the vessel to return to Sagamore hill.

President Delighted.

In describing his experience President Roosevelt expressed great satisfaction with the manner in which the tiny vessel was managed. He remarked particularly on the possibilities of the submarine torpedo boats in actual warfare. He related the details of his experience with evident pleasure. Nobody, not even the members of his family, was aware of the president's intention to make the descent in the Plunger, except, of course, Lieut. Nelson.

IN FEVER'S GRIP.

Scourge Attacks Village in Louisiana—Nearly 200 Persons Sick—Situation in New Orleans.

New Orleans, Aug. 24.—Yellow fever conditions within New Orleans are now completely overshadowed by those without the city. While the fever in the city is submitting to control, the situation in the country districts is less promising and both the state board of health and the marine hospital service now have their hands full in trying to send adequate assistance to those settlements which are struggling with the disease. Scarcely a day passes without the report of some newly infected point and unless doctors and nurses are sent from here there is no assurance that the fever will not spread.

The worst nest thus far discovered is at Leeville, near the mouth of Bayou La Fourche, where nearly two-thirds of the settlement of 300 people has been infected and where a number of deaths have occurred. Only one doctor is on the scene and his difficulties are increased by the fact that the settlement lies on two banks of a rather wide stream.

New Orleans, Aug. 26.—If all houses are properly disinfected and screened there are reasonable hopes of a complete cessation of yellow fever on or before October 1, was the message of hope given by Surgeon White to a meeting that filled St. Paul's Episcopal church and over which Bishop Sessums presided. If the citizens will but do this, the doctor said, they will deserve the commendation of the civilized world.

New Orleans, Aug. 29.—The fifth week of the fight against yellow fever began Monday with a continuance of favorable conditions and with reason for hope that the crisis has passed. Though New Orleans is now in the midst of a period usually critical in yellow fever epidemics, there is no present indication that the federal authorities are to lose their grip on the situation.

The official record of the progress of yellow fever up to six p. m. Monday is as follows: New cases, 45; total cases to date, 1,788; deaths on Monday, 5; total deaths, 260; cases under treatment, 181.

HOCH SAVED AGAIN.

Judge Grants Stay of Execution and Illinois Supreme Court Will Review His Case.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Johann Hoch has been saved from the gallows once more. With the hour of his execution only 24 hours away, and the jail carpenters hammering together the timbers of the scaffold from which he was to be dropped to death at ten o'clock Friday morning, word was received from Springfield by Sheriff Barrett that Justice D. B. Magruder, of the Illinois supreme court, had issued an order for a writ of supersedeas, and that the writ had been issued Thursday to Hoch's attorneys.

Hoch's case will be reviewed at the October term of the supreme court, but a final decision probably cannot be had much before next April. He will then either be executed or given a new trial. In the meantime he will not apply for release on bonds, but will remain in the county jail. Hoch was sentenced to death June 3, the date of the execution being fixed for June 23. Gov. Deneen reprieved him until July 28, when a second reprieve was granted until August 25 after Attorney A. H. Thompson had given $500 cash to the fund necessary to pay for the writing of the records. The funds necessary to complete the record in his case and secure a full review of the evidence by the supreme court were furnished by Hoch's new counsel.

DISASTER AT SEA.

Big Wave Strikes and Sinks Vessel Off Florida Coast—Twenty Sailors Drowned.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 29.—The American steamship Peconic encountered a fierce gale early Monday off the coast of Florida. Twenty of the crew of 22 were drowned. The ship was struck by an enormous wave, the cargo shifted and the ship sank. Two of the crew, an Italian and a Spaniard, secured the life-boat and landed on Amelia beach about noon and told the story of the disaster. The vessel was laden with coal from Philadelphia to New Orleans.

Spanish War "Vets" Meet.

Findlay, O., Aug. 29.—The second annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans was inaugurated here Sunday, and will continue three days. Ohio is the largest department in the United States, and arrangements have been completed to accommodate 10,000 visitors. Gov. Herick addressed the assemblage in the afternoon.

Fell from a Balloon.

Cahokia, Ill., Aug. 29.—Releasing his grasp on a trapeze attached to a parachute as the latter opened to the wind 1,200 feet above the ground, John Williams, 38 years old, has been dashed to his death at Red House park, near here. Every bone in his body was broken as Williams struck the ground with fearful force.

Under the Hammer.

Hodgenville, Ky., Aug. 29.—Abraham Lincoln's birthplace, a 110-acre farm, was on Monday sold at auction to R. J. Collier, of New York, who probably bought as an investment. The price paid for it, $3,600, is not more than it would bring for farming purposes.

Circuit court has adjourned until August 28 when Judge Padgham will resume the calendar. The case of DeVries vs. Crofoot et. al. was to have been finished up at the present sitting but on account of the death of Nicholas Vyn's daughter, the matter was put over to the adjourned session. Mr. Vyn is one of the witnesses in the matter. Henry Gildner was sentenced for violation of the liquor law and Judge Padgham fined him $104 which included a fine of $50 and costs of $54. The case has been tried twice, the jury in the matter disagreeing at the last term of court.

Conviction Follows Trial

When buying loose coffee or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.

Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?

This popular success of LION COFFEE can be due only to inherent merit. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity.

If the verdict of MILLIONS OF HOUSEKEEPERS does not convince you of the merits of LION COFFEE, it costs you but a trifle to buy a package. It is the easiest way to convince yourself, and to make you a PERMANENT PURCHASER.

"THE LADY OR THE TIGER?"

JAIL IS STORMED BY AN ANGRY MOB

NEGRO ACCUSED OF ATTACK ON WHITE WOMAN TAKEN FROM THE PRISON.

His Captors Hang Him from a Bridge in Newbern, N. C., and Then Fill His Body with Bullets—Perpetrators Unknown.

Newbern, N. C., Aug. 23.—John Moore, a negro, 20 years old, was taken from Craven county jail, in this city, early Sunday morning and lynched by a mob of 100 masked men armed with rifles and revolvers. With his hands tied behind him, the negro was led out about a third of a mile from the jail to the draw of Neuse river bridge, hanged to one of its braces and his body riddled with bullets. The mob attacked the jail between one and two o'clock Sunday morning. Entrance to the jail was affected by forcing the jailor to surrender the keys. As soon as the attack was discovered the naval reserves were called out to attempt to prevent the lynching. Crowds rushed to the bridge. Sheriff J. W. Biddle was quickly on the scene, pleading that Moore be left to the law, but his efforts were unavailing, and the mob carried out its plans.

Moore entered the country store of George Eubanks, at Clark's, seven miles from Newbern, last Friday, when the proprietor's wife was the only one in. The negro attempted robbery, and struck Mrs. Eubanks on the head with a meat ax, fracturing bones and inflicting injuries which, if they do not prove fatal, will at least cause not only disfigurement, but lifelong suffering. Mrs. Eubanks screamed, and people came to her rescue. The negro fled, but was captured in a swamp after a chase of a few miles, and was placed in jail.

CHICAGO MUST PAY.

Jury Says City Shall Reimburse Railway Company for Cars Burned in "Debs Strike."

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Chicago has reaped the harvest of the whirlwind of the Debs A. R. U. strike of 1894. A jury in Judge Frost's court in Wheaton brought in a verdict of $100,000 against the city in favor of the Panhandle railroad. The amount represents, in the opinion of the jurymen, the damage done the road by the burning of its freight cars in the strike riots. The railroad sued for $140,000. The jurors decided that $40,000 was represented by merchandise in transit and the city should not be held responsible for this. But they held that the city should not escape financial liability for the failure of the authorities to curb the mobs and prevent the burning of the cars.

Private Bank Closed.

Paris, Ill., Aug. 28.—The bank at Metcalfe, Ill., a private concern owned by John L. Gobin, of Clinton county, closed its doors Saturday. Cashier C. M. Smith made a statement that Gobin bought the bank recently and shortly afterward drew a note for $10,000 payable to himself, taking the money out of the deposits. Mr. Smith says this note disappeared Friday from the bank assets, leaving in the bank $10,000 in assets to pay $20,000 due depositors, and under such circumstances he declined to open the doors. Mr. Gobin left town Friday.

Bathers Drowned.

Kilbourne, Wis., Aug. 24.—Ben Dennis, of Chicago, and Sophia Nordbloom, an attendant at Pine Glenn resort, a summer boarding house on the river below Kilbourne, were drowned Tuesday. They were in bathing and stepped off a ledge into deep water and, being unable to swim, failed to get out.

Lovers' Quarrel Causes Tragedy.

Huntington, W. V., Aug. 29.—William Barbour shot and instantly killed Etta Denney after a quarrel over a love affair here Monday night. He then shot and killed himself. Both are well-known and prominent. Miss Denney had just returned from the funeral of her father.

Chicago Printers Strike.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—A big printing strike which is expected to involve the whole of the United States and Canada followed the posting of open shop notices Saturday. Printers struck in five large plants.

MANY FLOOD VICTIMS.

Twenty-Five or Thirty Lives Lost as Result of Cloudburst in Colorado.

Trinidad, Col., Aug. 26.—A cloudburst in the vicinity of Rhode canyon, through which ordinarily a small stream of water runs, converted the canyon into a raging torrent through towns of Berwin and Tabasco, wrecking everything in its path and drowning numbers of persons. The property loss is estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars, suffered mostly by the Colorado Fuel & Iron company and the Southern Railway company.

The Colorado & Southern branch line to Berwin was washed away and a heavy volume of water rushed down the canyon all night, making it impossible to penetrate to the point where the loss of life is said to have occurred. Rumors are in circulation that 12 to 20 houses were swept down the canyon and 25 to 35 lives were lost.

According to information received from Hastings Friday possibly 14 persons were drowned in the floods at Tabasco, 16 miles north of Trinidad.

A telephone message from Hastings Friday afternoon stated that 18 persons are known to be dead or missing. Six bodies have now been recovered, among them being a woman with the body of a six-months-old child clasped in her arms.

FOOTPAD KILLS WOMAN.

Rich Widow Shot Dead on Fashionable Residence Street in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Effie Mize, 53 years old, a wealthy widow who came to Chicago recently from New York and was stopping at the Del Prado hotel, Fifty-ninth street and Washington avenue, was shot and killed shortly after 9:30 o'clock last night by a highwayman who accosted her in front of the residence of Alderman Frank I. Bennett, No. 5807 Washington avenue, and, after thrusting a revolver in her face, demanded her money. In company with Mrs. Mize at the time was Mrs. F. A. Wilson of Lee Cruz, N. M., who is also a guest at the hotel. Mrs. Wilson ran the moment she realized the man was a highwayman, but instead of following her example Mrs. Mize grappled with the robber. She fought desperately for a moment, and realizing that he was in danger of being captured the highwayman tore himself loose and stepping back a few paces fired two shots. One bullet struck Mrs. Mize in the heart and the other shattered her right wrist. She fell to the sidewalk and was dead when residents attracted by the shooting arrived. The murderer escaped.

Gives Much to Charity.

Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 26.—The will of the late Mrs. Julia E. Hackley, widow of the millionaire philanthropist, Charles H. Hackley, was filed for probate Friday. It leaves $300,000 to the city of Muskegon as an endowment fund, to be known as the Julia H. Hackley memorial fund, for the poor of the city. Other bequests are: Hackley hospital, Muskegon, $300,000; Muskegon Humane union, $100,000; First Baptist church, Centerville, N. Y., $5,000.

Fatal Hotel Fire.

Maranacook, Me., Aug. 28.—Three lives were lost and four persons were injured by the burning of Hotel Maranacook here Saturday. The dead: James K. Martin, Auburndale, Mass., 35 years of age; Mrs. Martin, wife of Mr. Martin, 32 years of age; son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin, ten years of age. Over four score guests and employees escaped in night attire, many of them leaping from the windows.

Tenth Victim Dies.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 29.—James Cairnes, the tenth victim of the street car accident which occurred here last Sunday night, is dead. He was an electrician, aged 30 years, and is survived by a wife and three children. The inquest over the bodies of the victims was concluded Monday.

THE COWS ON PASTURE.

Shade and Abundant Water Are Indispensable.

A few large shade trees and some underbrush in some corner of the pasture add much to the comfort of the cows and the pocketbook of the owner, says L. W. Lighty in National Stockman. Where no natural shelter from the hot sunshine is available it will pay to put an artificial shelter. The simplest arrangement is made by digging forked posts eight feet high into the ground, laying poles over the top and covering the whole with stover, swale hay or other material at hand. This very satisfactory shelter costs very little besides a few hours' work. Stabling in daytime and pasturing at night sound nice to talk about and work out in a few instances, but with the average stable the cows are in a dungeon of torment because of the heat and foul air, as there is no means of ventilation.

One of the indispensable features of a pasture is an abundance of good water easy of access. A spring or a brook is of course the ideal, but where this is lacking artificial provision must be made. Ofttimes a spring on higher ground can be conducted to the pasture; in others the hydraulic ram will elevate the water, and where these are not practicable the windmill will do the work.

Many people after turning the cattle to pasture feed salt only occasionally, and sometimes the periods are far apart. It seems to be a fact that cows become more salt hungry on pasture than on dry feed, and they should have salt daily. Either make provision so the cows have access to a supply and can take all they want daily or feed every animal a big tablespoonful daily. The latter method is preferable where practicable.

Dairy Cow Points.

A dairy cow should not have a tendency to fatten. A dish faced head is not a good indication. She should be wide between the eyes. Notice the vertebrae, through which the spinal cord runs and from which the nerves are sent out to all parts of the system. It should slope to the tail, be strong and prominent, showing a well developed nervous system and a good strong back. We want a strong back in a dairy cow. A cow that is level on the back does not indicate a good milker, but it indicates that she has a heavy load on her backbone, and that has a tendency to make her swayback. Aim to have the back strong enough to support the digestive organs. A tall well down shows a well developed nervous system; also the distance between the feet—Cor. American Cultivator.

Leave Out the Milk.

Remember it takes cream and not skim milk to make good butter. Therefore do not put as much milk as cream into the cream jar when you are skimming.

Milk and Butter Notes

An excellent means of keeping butter cool is practiced by an Iowa lady who makes butter for the home trade. She has a milk tank eight feet long, three feet wide and ten inches deep. This tank is usually kept about half full of water. She keeps the butter in a jar that is about eighteen inches high and which she sets in the water tank. Out of duck or canvas she makes a cap or cover that slips over the top of the jar and down two or three inches below the water like a telescope. Capillary attraction keeps the canvas over the top of the jar always wet, and evaporation keeps the interior of the jar cool.

This plan should only be followed where the water in the tank is changed twice a day and when the interior of the tank itself is kept perfectly clean. There will then be no danger of the water taken up by the cloth cover being dirty.

Keep the Cream Clean.

Proper working of butter helps it very much. You must get the milk and water out or you cannot have good butter. But working is not everything. The way of treating the cream beforehand and also of churning is just as important. Much milk and cream are ruined by being set where they absorb odors. Nothing is more important to the buttermaker than to have a clean, sweet, dry place in which the cream and milk are kept.

An Oat Straw Fallacy.

Some buttermakers have an idea that eating oat straw by the cows causes the butter to be long coming. There seems to be no good reason for thinking so. One man reports that he had fed only oat straw to his Jersey cow for four months, and in that time the butter was long coming but once. The cow had been giving milk, too, for fourteen months. He says the butter is usually worked and churned washed in forty-five minutes from beginning to churn.

Essentials to Good Butter.

Use plenty of boiling water in scalding out the pans and jars. Then let them have a good airing before using. Plenty of hot water and pure air are essentials in the production of pure butter. Another essential is a good, clean, cool place to keep the milk and cream. Good butter can never be made from cream kept in a warm room that smells of filth and is filled with flies.

A Dairy Pointer.

To make good butter you must have good cream. Flgs are never gathered from thistles; neither is sweet, clean butter made from sour, tainted cream.

A Wise Precaution.

Keep a cloth stretched over the wire strainer. It will save you the embarrassment of seeing the visitor pick a hair or speck out of the butter.

In the recent very effective bulletin issued by Professor H. L. Russell of the Wisconsin university the question of tuberculosis in cattle is strongly discussed, says Hoard's Dairyman. The question is a very important one to every dairy farmer, whether he knows it or not. In this bulletin Professor Russell recounts the experience of the department in dealing with the Strong herd at Beloit, where fifty-seven cows out of seventy were found affected with this dreadful disease. The barns and stables were constructed on the most modern plan, with but one fatal exception. No provision for ventilation, in a true sense, was made, and hence one or two infected animals soon infected nearly all the rest.

A farmer attended the farmers' course at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture last winter. He had never taken much stock in the talk about tuberculosis or in the tuberculin test, but while there he witnessed a demonstration of the test and its very thorough accuracy in proving whether an animal is affected or not. He went home determined to test his cattle. In his herd of twenty-five he found one that had the disease. Thus he was enabled to get right at the trouble in its inception and save his herd.

Of the seventy herds examined by the state live stock sanitary board in 1903-04 forty-nine were found tainted with tuberculosis. From 1902 to May, 1905, 833 animals were tested and 618 were found to be tuberculous. Professor Russell well says that no man engaged in stock raising or dairymaking can afford not to test his cattle at once and find what their exact condition is. At a Kansas meeting of stockmen one of the speakers said:

"I will tell you why so many of your stockmen are opposed to the use of the tuberculin test. It is because you are afraid you will find tuberculosis in your cattle."

There are lots of dairy farmers who are of the same mind, but it is not wise or safe to live in that frame of mind.

Economical Cow Stall.

Writing in Jersey bulletin, W. Gettys of Tennessee says: I send here with a sketch of platform and stalls for use of a practical dairyman. You often see costlier ones, but none more sanitary or more easy on the cow—i. e., the platform.

A is of pure clay, tamped hard and sound. The cow's front feet stand on this part, and when she lies down the bulk of her body rests on this part of the platform. B is a hardwood board, sixteen inches wide and one and a half inches thick, on which rest the cow's hind feet. The clay and the board make a platform four feet six inches at one end and four feet two inches at the other. The outer edge of the board is nailed to the inner edge of the gutter.

The manure gutter (C) is sixteen inches wide and five inches deep, with hardwood sides and concrete bottom.

The manger shown in the sketch is wood, but should be of cement and so arranged as to be flushed with water to clean it thoroughly.

For ordinary dairy cattle no fastening is so economical of room and feed as the stanchion. D is a patent water-lining device.

Silage Does Not Flavor Milk.

Silage does not affect the flavor of milk is the conclusion of the Illinois experiment station after making a thorough test. A herd was divided into two lots. One lot was fed forty pounds of silage daily. The other lot received no silage. Milking and caring for the milk from both lots were done in the same way, and when cooled the milk was tested by 111 ladies and gentlemen, none of whom knew which milk was from silage fed cows. Fifty-seven preferred milk from silage feeding, thirty-eight from nonsilage fed cows, and sixteen had no choice. Samples of the same milk were sent to five milk experts of Chicago. Three preferred the silage milk, one the nonsilage, and one had no choice.

The Profitable Cow.

A bulletin of the Connecticut experiment station says: During the five years covered by these records the variety and amounts of food and the care of the herd have been much the same. The increase in the net profits from $123 loss in 1899 to $21.64 profit in 1903 must be attributed to the selection of animals better suited to dairy purposes.

Cows Respond to Good Treatment.

Cows inherit the propensity to give large or small quantities of milk, but still the quantity will be varied greatly by the treatment to which they are subjected.

The engine from St. Joseph will do the shifting of the cars at this station early in the morning and will leave early in the afternoon with such cars as may be loaded and ready to start for markets south then. This is an improved arrangement, which will greatly help local service during the fruit rush, which will soon be upon us.—Fennville Herald.

There are many different names for automobiles, but in the end they all mean the same—they all go like fury and they all are desirable acquisitions. The great trouble is we are not all financially able to own one. Following are the people who own them in Holland: G. W. Brown, R. N. DeMerrel, Wm. Kremers, John J. Cappon, S. W. Miller, George Poole, sr., George Poole, jr., Fred Poole, Rev. E. J. Blekkink, VanEck Bros., Ralph Ten Have, John Meeboer, Huizenga & Stein. This prosperity may strike Holland hard enough to double this number within a twelve month is the fervent wish of all who are interested in Holland's progress, and that all who own them now may take out a state license is the fervent wish of Marshal Eghuis.

A new and welcome species of insect is reported to have made its appearance in the fields of Alcona county. The worm which the farmers receive with open arms, so to speak, very much resembles the army worm that has been devastating fields in various sections of the state. It feeds on the leaf of the Canada thistle, and when a batch of them have finished with a patch of thistles nothing remains but the bare stalk. The worms travel through fields of grain and other crops attacking nothing but the thistles. If it is found that they really do no harm to crops it is likely that they will be transported to other sections of the country where Canada thistles are prevalent. Ottawa county would like to get a few.

Charged with being criminally intimate with Grace Hendershott, George Van Hynning, a motorman for the G. R. & C. interurban, has been arrested as the result of clever detective work by his wife. Satisfied with her discovery, she caused his arrest. The Hendershott woman formerly lived in Flint. Van Hynning formerly conducted a cigar store in Ionia.

The sail boat, the Bird, failed to return before dark, although it was expected at noon. Many yachts and tugs searched Friday night assisted by the searchlight of the steamer Puritan as she left Holland. The life saving crews at Holland and South Haven were notified. Saturday afternoon the yacht Joseph H. picked up some fish boxes and well boards 12 miles out from South Haven which belonged to the fishing boat, but no traces of the men were found. The schooner was heavily ballasted and it is believed that it shipped water and went to the bottom with the men on board. Lindsay was the Chicago building inspector who passed on the fated Iroquois theater and pronounced it safe. Among the searchers for the missing men was Henry Winter of this city who patroled Lake Michigan within a distance of twenty miles.

John A. Kooyers, superintendent of parks, has started a vigorous campaign against that species of bug or insect known when stripped of its Latin name as the big-headed-maple-borer. The borer gets in its deadly work by inserting a long needle-like drill into the tree and depositing eggs. These eggs repose in the wood until they reach the grub period, when they begin to move a little, the moves being made to the detriment of the life of the tree. From the grub it changes into a bug of the beetle type and works its way outward, when it turns upon the bark of the tree and begins to bore for the purpose of depositing the eggs. Superintendent Kooyers has a specimen of one of the borers which he caught at a time its drill was imbedded in a maple tree about an inch. The best time to make efforts to exterminate this pest is when it is in the grub. Its presence can be determined by a grayish, dust-like substance on the bark of the trees. By locating the grubs and dousing them with bichloride of sulphur they can be exterminated.

At a meeting of the San Jose Scale commissioners it was decided that outside of inspecting in order to find out the localities infected, and of making the necessary preparations for a vigorous fight against the pest, nothing more will be done until the weather gets colder. All that could be done now would be to destroy the lice, and the expediency of doing that at this time is questioned because while the lice are being destroyed the foliage and the fruit are also being destroyed. What the commission would like at this time is to have the council make an appropriation for a spraying outfit so that when the leaves are gone and the cold weather sets in a vigorous warfare may be started on the full-fledged pests.
